The Midland health board met Monday evening. After the secretary of the board, J. W. McCall, gave a brief review of the last meeting of the board, Miss E. Wilson, county health nurse, read her report for the past month, reporting many office calls, home visits, children inspected, individual conferences and many other services connected with her work. The four main objectives of the committee at this conference are: the prevention and control of diseases, prenatal care, educational training, and the care of dairy products.

"The pre-school age is the most important age" says Miss Euresh "because habits and fears of this age are carried on through life."

At the conference much was said concerning the dental nursing and nutrition service for children from one to six years of age.

Eighteen members and one visitor attended the meeting.

MINTER SPEAKS TO THE ROTARY CLUB

The part of Christianity in international relations was discussed today in an address by the Rev. Kenneth C. Minter on the Rotary club program. The talk was a part of a month's program presented by the international relations committee of the club, of which W. I. Pratt is chairman.

The speaker pointed out logically how the work of the church and public opinion to the extent that better understanding among peoples of the nations results. He pointed out that all efforts in that direction are not successful but that Christianity constantly is felt in international affairs.

President Percy Mims appointed a nominating committee, composed of Dr. W. E. Ryan, J. E. Hill and W. I. Pratt, to propose officers for the club's fiscal year beginning July 1, with the idea of sending new officers to the district convention at San Angelo May 1 and 2. MERCHANTS ARE BEHIND COOKING SCHOOL OF CITY

Merchants of Midland were preparing today to award attendance prizes at The Reporter-Telegram's All-Electric cooking school which opens Tuesday. Fewer and better prizes will be awarded than on previous occasions as it is arranged making each prize ticket more valuable.

The Yucca theatre has been secured for the school, through courtesy of the Yucca. The opening will be held between 9 and 11 o'clock each morning of the four days, April 11 to 14, inclusive.

Mrs. Stella Floyd, home economist and graduate of the General Electric kitchen institute, will conduct the school. She recently conducted successful schools for the Fort Worth Star-Telegram and the Abilene Reporter-News, as well as others in various states.

Local business houses will participate in the school, as on the previous years, and were preparing to have leading products exhibited.

Midland Is Model In Work, Man Says

Decreased loans at Midland reflect the comparatively healthy condition of farmers as in other parts of the region loans are showing an increase, Brown said. The work is being handled well at Midland. Brown praised the farm board at Midland and said the Midland chamber of commerce had been held up as a model in a state meeting in Dallas, for its work in assisting in the farm loan applications.

Six-Hour Day Deemed Likely to Pass

WASHINGTON, April 6. (UP).—Every day now indicates that Senator Black's bill for a six-hour day and five-day week will be passed within the next ten days. If so it will be one of the major accomplishments of this session.

This bill was explained in detail some two months ago in one of these articles. At that time it appeared for the bill before the judiciary committee of the senate. For those who may not have read the former article it may be well to say that this is a very short bill which provides that the products of any mine, quarry, mill, workshop, factory or manufacturing establishment cannot be shipped, transported or delivered in interstate or foreign commerce if any person has been employed in the production of such commodity more than six hours per day and five days per week.

The reason why it is sought to establish the thirty-hour week in this manner instead of through a general law is that congress has unrestricted authority under the constitution to regulate interstate and foreign commerce.

Labor statisticians estimate that if a general six-hour day could be established it would give employment to six and a half million men and women or one half of all those at present unemployed.

Values Lost to Deflation Might Be Recovered
NEW YORK, Apr. 6. (UP).—A committee for the nation, representing astute business leaders, today recommended five steps for return of $175,000,000,000 in values lost by deflation, to expedite reopening of banks, to release frozen deposits and to expand currency if necessary.

Government guarantee of sound bank deposits, continued embargo on gold export, to expedite efforts to keep the dollar at its former gold parity, raising in the price of gold from $20.67 an ounce to $36.17 and creation of a federal non-partisan board to stabilize a national price level for wholesale commodity price at one hundred were among the recommendations.

DOMINATION IS NEXT STEP
WASHINGTON, Apr. 6. (UP).—Complete domination of the country's banking and currency system, with a view to possible widespread reforms and protection against shocks, was believed to be the administration's motive in the latest move to "corner" gold.

COMMODITIES UP IN BIG UPSURGE

NEW YORK, April 6. (UP).—Commodity prices soared today carrying stocks of companies which profit by advanced foods and metal prices. Sugar reached a new high for the year. Corn products were up three points. Gold mining stock was up a half to over two, reaching new highs. Railroads climbed one to three.

BEER AND SPEAKASIES

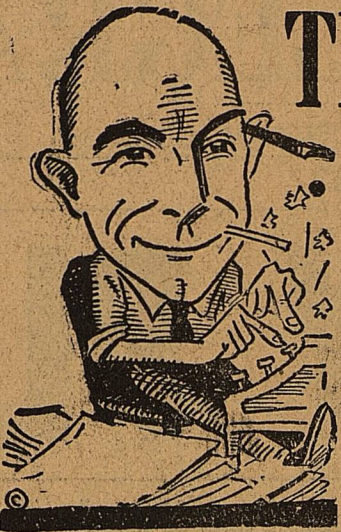

One of the most freakish bits of current news is that emanating from a large middle western city, in which the municipal government has passed out the word that just as soon as the new beer law goes into operation the police department will make a determined effort to put the speakasies out of existence.

It would be hard to find a better commentary on the kind of law enforcement that some big cities have been getting from their police.

Leaving aside all questions of graft and ordinary inefficiency, we have here a tacit admission that the existence of the illegal liquor traffic has, in the main, simply been winked at. To be sure, practically everybody knew that already; but it never got admitted quite so baldly before.

Among those getting ahead in 1933, are, as usual, the shop window dressers, beginning to exhibit spring fashions.

"Parachute Jumper" Coming Ritz Friday

Douglas Fairbanks Jr.'s latest picture for Warner Bros., "Parachute Jumper," a comedy romance punctuated with thrilling air scenes, will open at the Ritz theatre on Friday for two days.

The picture is said to sparkle with the lively humor of the noted New York columnist, Brian James, the author of those riotous comedy hits, "Crooner" and "Love Is a Racket."

In addition to a capable cast of players seven air pilots of national reputation, under the command of Capt. Robert "Robbie" Robertson, U. S. N. G., do some plain and fancy air stunting. There are sensational pursuits in fast flying craft, machine gun battles above the clouds and parachute leaps.

Fairbanks is supported by an unusually strong cast, three of the players themselves being stars. These include the blonde screen beauty, Bette Davis; Leo Carrillo and Frank McHugh, both of whom have been starred on the stage before turning to the screen. Others in the cast include Claire Dodd, Sheila Terry, Harold Huber, Thomas E. Jackson, George Pat Collins, Harold Healy and Frederick Munnier.

The direction of the piece was in the capable hands of Alfred E. Green, who handled Fairbanks in "It's Tough to Be Famous" and in "Union Depot," and who directed George Arliss in "Disraeli" and "Old English." He also directed "Smart Money," "Silver Dollar" and many other successes.

Bob Hamilton, county attorney of Stanton, was here today on business. Mrs. J. E. Hammond of Big Spring is visiting friends here today. Pat Dolan made a business trip to Abilene today.

J. C. Cunningham is here from San Angelo to attend the scouts' check meeting.

Mrs. Don Carlos Davis Hostess to Play Readers

"Biography," a comedy written by S. N. Behrman, was read by Mrs. Hugh Burchfield, when the Play Readers club was entertained Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Don Carlos Davis, 714 W. Stoney.

"Biography" is, essentially, the story of a woman—a wise, gracious woman, attractive, who has lived fully. It is the eventual chapter in her life which she herself might have set down in the biography from which the play takes its title, had not the news of her impending memories brought new drama to overshadow the old.

Beneath its brightly polished surface is to be found satirical study of American morals, and all the drama that lies in a clash between the dogmatic point of view and the liberal one. The three leading plays represent the contemporary embodiment of three possible attitudes toward the world.

Richard Kent persuades Marion Fronde to write her biography, starting from her birth up to the present. Giving in detail the story of her many romances with people of importance, the biography comes pretty close to wrecking a few hearts, to say nothing of the first lover who is running for senator.

Luckies Please!

In every corner of the world, both here and overseas, wherever you find joy in life, 'tis always 'Luckies Please!'

'Cream of the Crop' gives character... 'Toasting' makes them mild

What puts character in a cigarette? The quality of the tobaccos. Lucky Strike's tobaccos are carefully selected for quality, for tenderness, for distinctive flavor... the finest, most carefully selected tobaccos grown.

And Luckies are truly mild—because these fine tobaccos are "Toasted"—mellowed and purified by the exclusive Lucky Strike process. For these two reasons—Character and Mildness—"Luckies Please!" because "It's toasted"

The Reporter-Telegram presents serialization of "Rasputin and the Empress," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture version of the dramatic fall of the Romanoff family...

CHAPTER THIRTEEN

Seventy thousand men and horses, the very flower of the Imperial Army, were massed at the end of the long parade ground before the rambling summer palace at Tsarskoe Selo...

Natasha had begged the Tsarina to excuse her from watching the review. When permission was granted, with a quick courtesy, Natasha almost fled from the scene...

Without turning, she began to run. As she reached a door, Rasputin, in pursuit, caught up to her and seized her by the wrist.

"Look at the Tsarevitch," he told her. "A little soldier, eh? A heady little fellow, eh?"

"Yes, look at him," Rasputin sneered, "the heir to the whole Russian Empire."

As he spoke, Natasha did not notice how intently his eyes were fastened upon the Tsarevitch. She only saw that the boy turned his head and looked up to the window.

"When he had caught the boy's eye, Rasputin made a quick sign to him. The boy's eyes grew blank and his head nodded. He turned back to watch the parade. The colors of the Grenadier Regiment were passing. Slowly, uncertainly he lifted his hand to salute, swayed slightly and then fell."

"Two of the officers standing near him sprang forward and lifted him to his feet. Again his eyes turned toward the window. Rasputin made another sign to him. The boy's body stiffened. Natasha could see that he spoke reassuringly to the two officers who supported him and they, nodding agreement, stepped back to their places, leaving him standing steady again, beside his father."

"Rasputin pulled at her wrist. 'Did you see?' he asked. Trembling, she answered: 'Yes.' 'He sneered, 'I hold his life—like this—in the hollow of my hand. Your duty to the Empress is to say nothing for fear that I let the Tsarevitch die. Do you understand?'"

Natasha made no answer. He yanked savagely at her wrist. "Do you understand?" "Yes," she said weakly.

The Tsar's attention was diverted suddenly from the maneuvers as a courier in the uniform of the Signal Corps galloped directly up to him, drew his horse to a vicious short stop, flung himself out of the saddle and with a hurried salute presented the Tsar with an envelope.

His face paled as his eyes skimmed over the few typewritten words on the sheet of yellow paper. Turning the page over to Major-General Pavlikov, Commander of the Imperial Guard, he ordered the General Staff to meet him in his study.

RYAN ASKED TO ADDRESS ROTARY

Dr. W. E. Ryan has been invited by H. C. Anderson, district governor of Rotary, to give an address dealing with professional ethics at the forty-first district convention at San Angelo May 1 and 2.

Ryan is a past president of the Midland Rotary club and an active Rotarian in district affairs.

Governor Ritchie Draws Cattle Brand

When Governor Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland received a request to draw a Midland county cattle brand recently, he referred the matter to the director of agriculture and home economics of the University of Maryland. Maryland is one state of the union where branding of cattle is not used by ranchers. The fact that cattle brands are not understood by the Maryland governor is apparent from the drawing just received by Marion R. Peters. The governor misinterpreted the drawing of the "Seven-Cross" a Midland county brand registered in 1909 by J. V. and Dewey Stokes as a capitol "R". The drawing becomes an addition to the Midland collection because it is written in distinctive English style, characteristic of the eminent Maryland executive. His letter read "I received your favor of March 30th, it gives me pleasure to make the small pencil sketch at the bottom of this letter as requested."

REPRESENTATIVES TO McCAMEY TO CONSIDER LEAGUE

Another invitation to Midland to have representatives at McCamey Sunday afternoon for discussion of a proposed baseball league to include Midland, McCamey, Pecos, Wink, Fort Stockton, Ozona, Iraan and Crane City has been mailed here by Bill Collins, sports writer on The McCamey News. Regret was expressed that Midland had no representation at the meeting held last Sunday, and the invitation extended that Midland baseball leaders be at the 2:30 meeting called at the Bender hotel for next Sunday. "We believe we will get the required number of teams in the loop, but should like to see Midland one of them," Collins said. Dr. David M. Ellis, skipper of the Indian mine here said he would go to McCamey and possibly take other representatives. Collins was advised by letter immediately.

T. H. Baxley of Tyler goes a Kansas City man better.

In a letter to The Reporter-Telegram he says: "I notice in your paper of March 30 the crisis caused Charles W. Porter of Kansas City, Mo., to draw out a half dollar that was coined as a souvenir of the World fair in 1893. I can go Porter one better. I have two of these half dollars I have not drawn out. I also have 25 cents in green back used right after and during the war between the states. I have a dime and a five-cent piece of silver coined, as best I can make out the almost effaced characters, in 1890. "I have no wish to draw any of these from the bank, but if matters should get worse there is a sale for them. Guy Sandage offered me $1.50 for my greenback quarter about 30 years ago, at which time he was cashier of the Jester National bank of Tyler."

Radio Voice Speaks For Brigham Young

Just what ambitions, opinions or bits of history would Brigham Young reveal to us moderns were he allowed by some miracle to step into life again? This is a question which Continental Oil Company attempts to solve in its regular Wednesday night broadcast, planned for April 12 over 29 N. E. C. stations. Co-starring with the globetrotter, Carveth Wells, in this program is a voice representing the spirit of the great Mormon leader—a man who in his day was "Builder of the West," governor of Utah, Indian agent, President of the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints and General of the Militia. The general subject of this unusual broadcast is "Utah—the Land of the Honey Bee," the garden spot planted in the desert by Young and his followers. The Conoco program may be heard by local listeners who tune in on station WFAA, Dallas, Wednesday night at 9:30 o'clock.

Arctic exploration is an unprofitable career.

The most famous leaders of Arctic expeditions seldom average more than a few hundred dollars a year in income after meeting their expenses.

Haley Unearths Important Papers

AUSTIN.—Papers of the late Frank Hastings, noted range authority and writer, including many thousands of letters, have recently been received by the University of Texas library. "These papers, which are of extreme historical importance, come as a gift from the Swenson Land and Cattle company of Stamford," J. Everett Haley, collector in the university bureau of research in the social sciences said. "The donation was made through the agency of W. G. Swenson, ex-student of the university, and his father, A. J. Swenson, manager of the CND ranch at Stamford. In addition to the Hastings letters, a number of volumes of range diaries pertaining to the Swenson range interests are included. Frank S. Hastings, a national figure in the cattle industry for many years, was the active manager of the Swenson ranches in Texas from 1902 to 1923, the year of his death. "For their portrayal of the history of the later transition period of the range industry, the introduction of farming settlers, and the fast improvement of cattle breeding and feeding in the state. Hastings, those papers are a great historical contribution. "The Hastings family was started in America by S. M. Swenson, whose initials the ranch still bears, and has been intimately connected with the development of Texas since Texas declared her independence nearly one hundred years ago. The family at one time held extensive plantation properties, milling and cotton interests, and, later land and cattle. "At present, the Swenson Land and Cattle company is one of the largest ranching firms in the state, grazing some 350,000 acres in West Texas. During the period of operation of the firm it has sold to settlers about 300,000 acres of land, built railroads, erected mills, and even founded towns. The present office of the concern are scattered in ten counties north and west of Stamford. These lands, originally bought for colonization purposes, are sold to settlers as the respective counties become filled with people."

STANTON LOSES IN FIRST BELT MATCH

Stanton received its Sand Belt Golf association baptism Sunday by giving the strong Lamesa team a close match up to the last few holes. The score was 26-14.

KAT KLOW MEET IS LIKELY HERE

Interest in the revival of the Kat Klow league is intense among Midland golfers of the "P" class, according to Russell E. Lloyd and others working with him. Letters have gone out to Seminole, Stanton, Odessa, Lamesa and Hobbs golfers in an attempt to perfect an organization and draw up a schedule. C. C. Cothens, Seminole druggist, has been active in the attempt to revive the league, and has suggested a meeting be held in Midland to arrange for details. Complete announcements will be made as soon as all letters have been answered.

Four government departments were speeding preparations to carry out the president's program for conservation work. An initial group of 25,000 workers is planned and $100,000 of dependent construction funds were set aside today to pay the bills.

Who did not realize that the majors have a proper and important place in the industry. The resolutions adopted were the result of compromise with the majors, the independents and the governors. Some of us did not favor the fifteen day shut down, for instance, but we accepted it in good faith in exchange for concessions on all important and other matters. If the administration approves our program it will bring the producers an extra million dollars per day and those who now so stridently denounce the plan will be glad to get their share.

Sweepings from Magic Carpet

Gag of the Week:
Charlie: When you asked your Cousin Hugo how he liked bathing beauties what did he say?
Baron Munchausen: (laughing) He said "I don't know, I never bathed any!"

Howard Clancy, Magic Carpet announcer, is the most scholarly looking member of the NBC announcing staff. In casting the characters for each of the Tuesday evening Magic Carpet dramatizations as many as 150 people are considered and auditioned before the fifteen usually required are selected.

When Paul had left the room the Tsar turned to Rasputin and embraced him.
"Why did you not tell me, Father Gregory, that your life was threatened, that the prince had made an attempt to murder you?"
"With sparkling humility, Rasputin answered him:
"What is a little thing like that when you have so much to worry about? It is nothing. Don't you think that if God wanted the Tsar to live and can save him from death, that he can save me, too, the instrument of his salvation to your son?"

Sweepings from Magic Carpet

In glorifying the character of the original European Baron Munchausen on the air, Jack Pearl, is directly responsible for introducing into schools in all parts of the country as a standard part of their curricula a novel literary classic, "The Tales of Baron Munchausen." This has been substituted, it was learned, for several of the more established literary pieces because teachers have found that, children, because of the interest aroused by the Baron's comic antics on the air, read the school room version with gusto, and thus prove to be better scholars.
