Tornado Strikes Three States Leaving Death Toll 31

500 INJURED AND HUNDREDS DO NOT HAVE DOMICILES

Tennessee Worst Hit With Million Set As the Loss

NASHVILLE, March 15. (UP)—A Tennessee, Arkansas and Missouri tornado left 31 dead, 500 injured and hundreds homeless, and great property damage today.

Central Tennessee was worst hit, with damage estimated at a million dollars. Nine were killed and 65 were injured here.

National guards and civic organizations patrolled and gave aid. The storm traveled 543 miles.

BLAST CENTERS ON NASHVILLE

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 15.—About a score of persons were killed by a wild March tornado that swept up the Tennessee-Kentucky line last night from the Mississippi river to the Cumberland coal country.

Missouri and Arkansas

The wind struck first in southeast Missouri and northeast Arkansas and headed due east, striking such important cities as this capital of Tennessee, Kingsport and Harrogate, and several smaller towns.

The casualty list:

Kingsport, Tenn.—Dead: Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Calhoun, Emmett Meador, Tate Crockett, four-year-old Crockett child, Dewey Lawson. Injured, 22 persons, two critically.

Nashville, Tenn.—Dead: L. L. Bondgerman, B. B. Lanier, Margaret Johnson. Injured, more than 100.

Pruden, Tenn.—Dead: Homer Keith, Mrs. Homer Keith, their 3 children, a Mr. Mason. Injured, more than 20.

Oswego, Tenn.—Dead: Infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Holders.

Harrogate, Tenn.—Dead: Two children of Mr. Daniel Cadie. Injured, two persons.

Lepanto, Ark.—Injured: Five-year-old daughter of Joe Truelove, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McCallin, Ruic McCallin.

Kennett, Mo.—Injured: Mrs. Rance James.

Nashville in Darkness

This city—the largest it struck—was plunged into darkness as the wind tore over the surrounding fringe of hills and swept through the eastern section of the city. First reports said at least 100 persons were taken to hospitals here.

Many homes in east Nashville were blown down. Parts of two down town buildings caved in and other structures in the business section of the city were damaged.

Considerable damage was done to the tenth floor of the Cotton State building, where the veterans' bureau has headquarters.

Windows on the west side of the historic capital—perched on a hill that overlooks the city and the Cumberland valley—were blown out.

A legislative committee was in session but disbanded hurriedly.

A check for the number of injured here was impossible because of the confusion.

Big Cities Struck

The tornado, unlike most twisters that harass the south, struck important cities. Generally tornadoes strike little towns or rural communities, but this one hit Nashville—a city of more than 150,000—and Kingsport, an important manufacturing city in northeast Tennessee.

At Pruden, a mining town on the Tennessee-Kentucky line, it demolished between 50 and 60 homes.

More than a score were injured. They were taken to Middleboro, Ky.

Telephone communication to several towns was paralyzed. Such reports as could be obtained from the nearby middle Tennessee towns, however, showed they did not feel the full blast of the wind, but were struck by a heavy rain storm and hail.

In the storm area in Nashville, fires sprang up in several places, keeping fire fighting equipment on the move almost continuously from the time of the first outbreak.

Streets here were littered with debris and at least two were impassable.

Hospital Lights Out

To add to the confusion at Nashville, lights were out in hospitals as well as elsewhere. It was three hours before hospital treatment could be given with any illumination better than that swiftly provided through makeshift arrangements.

As soon as electric lights were restored, hospitals and infirmaries were operating on those most seriously injured.

Meanwhile Adj. Gen. J. H. Ballew ordered out more than 100 national guardsmen to patrol the most severely stricken sections and help in "any possible way."

One of the fires causing the most damage, officials said, was at the plant of the Heritage-Portland Cement company. Fire and police officials estimated the damage at $500,000.

HARVESTS VEGETABLES

E. M. M. Bulsterbaum, farmer northeast of Midland, is harvesting a crop of vegetables at the season which is expected to be better than that ready to begin planting. He has fall carrots and beets ready for the market. He left them in the ground all winter.

Withdrawals were non-existent, one one-cashier checks for amounts more than needed for pocket change or to meet current bills.

One bank reported no one had even asked his balance. Both banks said no one had even suggested withdrawing his account.

The "era of fear" has been definitely ended throughout the country, reports from banks and press services indicate.

Several hundreds of dollars in gold and gold securities have been deposited here since the ban was lifted. One man deposited at one time $400 in gold and $300 in gold securities. Many bank notes of the obsolete size found their way to the banks.

"It is a miracle how the people have responded to the new president's policy of restoration of confidence in the financial institutions," one banker said. "The country will return to prosperity months faster as a result."

The Real Bank Test Is Yet to Come

By T. S. HOGAN

WASHINGTON, March 15.—Before this article is published, the success of the novel and the banking situation will have begun to assume definite shape and the reaction of the people to the new conditions will be partly known.

The president's radio address tonight (Sunday) will establish a precedent in American government as it will be the first time a president has made a direct appeal to the people to vest in him the authority which is ordinarily exercised by the representatives chosen as provided in the constitution.

The success of the bank plan will hinge on whether the people will deposit in the banks the money that was withdrawn before they were closed.

In the ten days before March 4, $1,550,000,000 was withdrawn from the banks of the United States.

That amount represents roughly one-fourth of all the actual money of the country exclusive of gold.

Many millions had been withdrawn in advance of this ten-day period.

TWO RATIFICATION PLANS REPORTED

AUSTIN, March 15. (UP)—Wets and dregs grided today for the next test following the house enactment yesterday of the prohibition reauthorization.

DEBATE UPROARS FOR THREE HOURS

WASHINGTON, March 15.—President Roosevelt's third major proposal of the special session—the Culler 3.2 per cent beer bill—was ruled through an enthusiastic house Tuesday to the senate where democratic leaders confidently predicted speedy approval.

Uproarious during three hours of debate in which the minority prohibitionists hammered vainly against the administration's revenue legislation, the house overwhelmingly passed the bill 318 to 169.

Party lines were shattered. Fifty-eight democrats and 39 republicans, including Representatives Green, Culler, and Snell of New York, republican leader, voted in opposition.

Supporting the measure that is expected to bring from $125,000,000 to $150,000,000 annually in revenue, 238 democrats, 73 republicans and five farmer-laborites shovled the measure through with applause.

But the last house, December 21, passed the bill 225 to 169. Action came within less than 30 hours after President Roosevelt sent an unexpected message to congress asking for immediate passage for revenue purposes and to fill the party's pledge to modify the Volstead act to permit the manufacture and sale of beer.

Shortly after the measure was received in the senate, Chairman Harrison had it referred to the finance committee, and called that group into executive session with a view to reporting it for action as soon as the president's now-pending economy proposals have been approved.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the democratic leader, said "we have the votes to pass it." The plan is to accept the house bill that levies a tax of $5 on a barrel of 31 gallons.

Before final passage in the house, Speaker Rainey again broke custom and had his name called so he could vote for the bill. Until he became speaker it had been the practice of (See BEER, Page 6)

DEFLATION HITS THE COLLEGE

Few American institutions have been hit harder by the depression than the educational system. And their woes are not only those which arise from a shortage of ready cash; they come from a dawning realization that the American college or university has, in too many cases, been off on the wrong track during the past decade. The depression has simply made this fact plain.

The editor of "The Chakett," the official organ of the Chi Phi fraternity, remarks that evidence of this is to be found in the sadly deflated condition of thousands of college graduates today. Looking back at the past few years, he indicts a whole college generation, in words that are worth considering.

Recalling the thousands of young men who went to college with no particular desire to get an education and won their degrees without ever really opening their eyes to the real problems of the day, he says:

"I doubt if a more superficially minded generation ever came of age. It is indeed not at all unlikely that future historians will say that while the foundations of western society were breaking up, the young men of American universities were watching football games, going to tea dances and aping the manners of a corrupt plutocracy.

"From out of these universities, in my time at least, came thousands of bachelors of arts and sciences who neither knew nor cared what arts and sciences are, whose solitary aim was to link up with a business enterprise in which a lot of money could be quickly made. They brought nothing with them save manners, 'personality' and acquisitive ambition."

These men, today, are in a sorry fix; and part of the responsibility, at least, must be laid on the universities. The universities, as this fraternity editor remarks, "displayed a greater zeal for plant and equipment than for learning, they paid coaches more than professors, they built stadia instead of libraries, they sought endowments rather than scholars. . . and made it very easy for young men to pass through college, degree in hand, but with minds that had never even been required to think."

Out of the depression, let us hope, there will come a tightening up of the educational system, a return to first principles and a discarding of false ideals so that such a criticism as this can never be made again.

GETTING BOTH SIDES

When the Senate banking committee called as a witness a "shorn lamb" who had lost a fortune due to unscrupulous high-pressure work on the part of a big New York bank, it set a precedent which might well be followed in future investigations.

Ordinarily, when we call an investigation to find out what is the matter with business, with the railroads, with banks, with railroad transportation or what-not, we summon the big shots and let them have their say. On this occasion, however, the senators chose to listen to one of the victims; and the idea, really, wasn't half bad.

We know, for instance, what the captains of industry think about the depression. Why not find out what thoughts are nourished by the down-and-outers? They have a stake in the country, just like the rest of us. Getting their ideas and the story of their experiences might prove highly enlightening.

Everyone accepts the fact that Bayer Aspirin is the swiftest form of relief for headaches, neuralgia, neuritis, periodic pain, and other suffering. If you've tried it, you know. But no one need hesitate to take these tablets because of their speed. They are perfectly safe. They will not depress the heart. They have no ill effect of any kind. The rapid relief they bring is due to the rapidity with which they dissolve."

OUR APPRECIATION

We wish to express our sincere appreciation to the people of Midland and to those of its trade territory for the splendid spirit shown during the bank holiday observed under proclamation by President Roosevelt.

We realize that the conditions have been extremely trying, and that fact increases our appreciation of the forbearance and good spirit shown during that period.

Regular banking functions were resumed this morning on a 100 per cent normal basis. No restrictions except those embodied in the President's Proclamation against hoarding will apply. Our customers have at their demand every service they have always enjoyed. The optimism expressed by our depositors today is indeed gratifying and encouraging.

Again, we wish to thank all of you for your patience, your loyalty, and your hearty co-operation.

CONGRATULATIONS!

We, the undersigned merchants and business men of Midland, wish to congratulate the two local banks for having received authority to reopen their institutions today on a basis of full operation.

To us, the outlook is bright! We firmly believe in the resources of this area and of Midland in particular. We believe that we can forge ahead by the sound application of our energy and talent and not be stifled by the crumbling of our financial structure.

Fear must be—and has been—forgotten! We have confidence in our leadership! In our banks! In our people!

Out of the unsettled conditions of the last few years has come a stronger determination to work with our eyes open and our minds keenly alert. Business principles must be fundamentally the same, but must be rigidly sound.

AND TO OUR CUSTOMERS: We pledge ourselves to serve you to the best of our ability, with a great big thanks for your loyal patronage and friendship.

"Billion Dollar Scandal" Exposes Graft Sensation

A new film called "The Billion Dollar Scandal" made its initial appearance on the screen of the Ritz theatre today, and proceeded in the course of its unreeling, to blow the lid off senate investigations, stock manipulations, corruption in the seats of the mighty, and the whole topsy-turvy structure of a big-money ring which crumbles when one unimportant man dares to tell the truth. It is exciting melodrama and top-notch entertainment.

Japan of all the nations of the world has caused to be jubilant over the events of the past three months.

While the hands of Europe and America are tied by difficulties at home Japan adds the vast province of Jehol to her empire and consolidates her gains in Manchuria.

The case with which this was done surprised her own military leaders.

The area of Manchuria and Jehol is an empire in itself but it now looks as if she may take all of northern China as well.

Three outstanding factors contributed to her success, the rise of power in itself but it now looks as if she may take all of northern China as well.

The measure leaves all regulatory and controlling powers to the states.

allows advertising, requires brewers to pay an annual license fee of $1,000 on each brewery; provides for protection to the dry states through the use of New York's "dry" law permitting interstate transportation of the beverage into prohibition bound commonwealths.

Home brewers for home consumption are now exempt from the purview of the act.

Puerto Rico, Hawaii and Alaska are included, but the District of Columbia was excluded. No provision was made for wines and fruit juices. Penalties are imposed for violations.

The anti-prohibitionists threw their support behind Representative Blanton of New York, naming chief assistants, assistant party leader, and sponsor of the measure. The bill was brought up for consideration under threat of drastic procedure.

Blanton Concedes Defeat

Representative Blanton of Tennessee, who had obtained house consent to limit debate to three hours and preclude all amendments. The democratic dry leader, Representative Blanton of Tennessee, when he said he would kill it if he could but that he realized "it can't be stopped."

Leading the opposition, Blanton directed remarks at Cullen and said, "The author of this bill did not have the effrontery to say that this beer is not intoxicating."

Did you read the title of this bill? Representative O'Connor (D. N. Y.) inquired. The bill is titled "A bill to maintain the credit of the United States."

The title is a blatant amount to a damn, Blanton shouted. "I want to say to the 164 new members of this house that beer didn't send you here."

"If so, why was that great wet senator, Bingham of Connecticut left at home? Why was Blaine of Wisconsin left at home? Why was Schafer of Wisconsin left at home?" "Because," Blanton replied, "they are a voice shouted from the floor."
