Pants, Shirts, Shoes Get Kids in Show

At least a thousand articles of clothing ought to be available to the Midland Welfare board for distribution to needy people by next Thursday at 6 o'clock, judging by the way Midland kids are already collecting shirts, skirts, shoes, pants, blouses, underclothes, stockings, socks and anything else a human being can wear—all as their admission fee to the Yucca theatre next Thursday.

Manager Hal Grady of the Yucca is conducting the old clothes matinee from 4 to 6 p. m. to collect clothing for needy people of Midland. Children are asked to bring as many garments as possible. Any clean clothes brought to the theatre will admit any child from 4 to 6, "but make the bundle of clothes as big as possible, so the needy people of Midland will have clothes for fall and winter," Grady urged.

Women of Midland who operate the clothing room of the Welfare association are urging mothers of Midland to send their children. No money is needed.

RICHMOND (UP)—Intense rivalry which has existed for years between Richmond and Rosenberg, Fort Bend county's largest towns, has been forgotten in planning the annual county fair.

Citizens of both towns have joined in a movement to take the fair to the greatest in the county's history. The fair will be held October 6, 7 and 8.

A feature of the fair will be a race meet of at least three days duration. If it succeeds it will be extended to ten days.

Man Puts His Check In the Wrong Car

SWEETWATER—Vernon M. Hunter is having plenty of hard luck. He planted cotton this summer and worked it. Then the government asked that part of it be plowed up and he did that. He got his check from Uncle Sam for $162 as his part in the cotton acreage reduction program.

Saturday afternoon, with the check in the envelope he put it in the pocket of the car he believed his own. Returning later, he found he had mistaken cars and had put it in some other person's car.

Mr. Hunter asks persons owning a yellow-wheel four-door Chevrolet sedan to search the car pockets and see if he put the check in their car. The number on the check is 693712. If found, he asks that it be returned to County Agent C. H. Clark for him.

SENSIBLE RELIEF

President Roosevelt's action in ordering the prompt expenditure of $75,000,000 to buy surplus farm products for the use of the needy seems to be one of the most sensible things he has done since he entered the White House.

It provides a way out of an exceedingly contradictory situation—a situation in which vast quantities of the raw materials for food and clothing were in the process of destruction at a time when millions of people had neither enough to eat nor enough to wear.

It is an expensive action, of course; but in the long run the money should prove money well spent. So long as people are hungry and cold, the greatest conceivable waste is to throw away the materials that might feed and warm them. Even if it costs a good deal more than the announced $75,000,000, this step is very much worth taking.

In addition to their prescribed texts, three farm youths who have recently enrolled at Kansas State College are studying cookbooks. With money and employment less plentiful than in previous years, they decided to create jobs by waiting on tables, washing dishes and cooking—for themselves. Their small apartment is the scene of some practical "laboratory work" that will bring them closer to bachelor's degrees.

Saving the $400,000,000 lost annually in the United States through needless fires would also go a long way toward taking the country "out of the red."

The Town Quack

(Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.)

A letter. There being a set rule against publishing anonymous letters in the paper, he filed it in the waste basket. I fished it out and, as there is no set rule where I get my copy, I am using it to finish my day's work. I thought at first H. W. J. was giving his reaction to three, but I find he is telling what he reads in the library. Here it is:

Tell me Editor, of those folk we see in the library, reading the papers and taking books and magazines home to read, do they realize the value of a good library? do they appreciate it fully? and do they realize the extent of its educational possibilities? And that multitude that never enters the library, are they not aware of its existence? or are they simply indifferent to its possibilities?

I am awed every time I enter the library and find myself surrounded with that array of books and magazines, teeming with everything one's imagination can conjure. To me it has been a regular wish cap. In a few short weeks I have sailed across Europe, from the mouth of the Rhine to the Black sea, visiting more than a half dozen countries, dancing with the Bulgarians and the Hungarians and passing "time of day" with the Serbs. I toured Spain afoot, tramping from one village to another eating, sleeping and talking with the peasants, the priests, and the Matadors. I fought in the trenches in the world war. I cast my lot with the sourdoughs in the excitement of the Klondyke gold rush. And I rode with McNeill's rangers patrolling the Texas border.

For next week I have planned a trip to the south Pole with Commander Byrd. If my mood is light I find, in the library, a gay companion. If I feel "down and out" there is a wise counselor, and I leave with a "lift" to my shoulders inspired to try again.

The other day I strolled in and had a chat with Will Rogers, a few minutes later I was discussing the terms of the Versailles treaty with Woodrow Wilson.

SOCIETY

Trinity Chapel to Have Services On Every Sunday

The Episcopal district of North Texas, eight large counties covering an area of more than 77,000 square miles is now served by eleven missionaries under the direction of the Right Reverend E. Cecil Seaman, Bishop.

The portion of that area that has been assigned to Rev. W. H. Martin of Saint Mary's church, Big Spring, is made up of Howard, Bor-den, Dawson, Martin, Midland, Glasscock, Gaines, Andrews, Ector, Winkler, Ward and Loving counties, nearly 12,000 square miles.

There are 16 towns in this area in which one or more Episcopalians live, and the plan is to assure pastoral care for those persons, and for all who may feel the need of the joy, the peace, and the consolation of the religion of Jesus Christ.

Rev. Mr. Martin has already developed two strong missions and is planning the systematic use of his band of layreaders at other points in his field.

Beginning with Sunday, October first, there will be regular services every Sunday morning in Trinity Chapel, Midland. Dr. Amos R. Wood, and H. S. Faw will conduct this historic service; and at the close a picture will be taken of the entire congregation to be sent to Bishop Seaman, who may use it as an exhibit at the approaching meeting of the House of Bishops at Des Moines, Iowa, in securing funds from the National church for carrying on the work in the widespread mission fields of North Texas.

A group of townfolk, some of whom tasted their first "fresh roasted" in knee pants and pigtail long ago at Joe's, staged a public benefit, calling it "Peanut Vendor's Ball," and used funds to replace beloved "Annie."

Brook Rivals Raft for Love In Action Film

Clive Brook, suave gentleman of the screen's upper-world—George Raft, sinister "black snake," so named by members of the underworld itself—

These two combine their talents to make a swift-moving tale of E. Phillips Oppenheim's famous story, "Midnight Club" which opens with a preview Saturday night, running Sunday and Monday. Allison Skipworth and Helen Vinson are also featured in the cast.

It is a highly dramatic story of a band of London's society jewel-thieves. For once, Raft is on the side of the law, and Brook is this time the leader of the thieves, imperturbable as ever, a cool, fascinating character.

For excitement and thrills, "Midnight Club" is a best bet. With a perfect cast, all the way down the line. It includes such splendid tropes as Sir Guy Standing, Alan Mowbray and Ferdinand Gottschalk. The cast is admirable, the story one of Oppenheim's best, and the film's pace all that could be wished for.

ALL-BRAN RELIEVED HIS CONSTIPATION

Delicious Cereal Brought New Health to Mr. Bartholomew

We quote from his voluntary letter: "I had considerable trouble with my stomach. Digestion was out of the question. I got medicine which gave me only temporary relief.

"Then I thought of taking ALL-BRAN. I started eating a cereal dishful two or three times a day.

"It has been over a year now since I ate that first dish of bran, but from that day to this I have had the pleasure of enjoying the proper functioning of the digestive organs.

"Thanks to ALL-BRAN, I still eat it regularly and like it better all the time."—Lester Bartholomew, Cadillac, Mich.

Constipation is usually due to lack of "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitals, and to the elimination. ALL-BRAN supplies both, as well as iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of leafy vegetables. Certainly this food is more natural than taking harmful patent medicines. Two tablespoonfuls daily will overcome most types of constipation. With each meal in chronic cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

3. To emphasize the use of the dog as home protector and faithful companion.
4. To secure fair and just laws for dogs and their owners.

"Dog World," a publication devoted to the interests of dogs and their owners, says in its October issue, the National Dog week number:

"Nothing is paid in salaries or overhead in this movement. Hundreds of people are giving their time, effort and money simply out of love for man's best friend. The basic object of the movement is to secure better treatment for the 12,000,000 dogs in the United States, to teach kindness, and to create on the part of all dog owners an appreciation of the value and care of their dogs."

It is hoped that all Midland dog lovers will cooperate with The Reporter-Telegram in observing National Dog week here.

Send in your entries! Let's make Midland's first dog show a howling success!

There will also be a dog mart and those having puppies to sell or give away are asked to bring them to the dog show, where it will perhaps be possible to find a home for them.

Senior Ned Watson, who has a yen towards the violin and an aversion to being known as "Uncle Ned," established some sort of precedent today when filling out an entry blank for the dog show. After giving the registration number 816239 in the remarks tabulation a number 816240, which, he said, represented the number of fleas adopted by his pet, Watson, used to counting for his music students, must have a superior system all his own.

The dog was sired by Kippax Jock, a well known Texarkana dog. The dam was Bogard's Show "Em." The pup was given Watson by his brother, Dr. W. C. Watson, noted evangelist of Arkansas, who got him from John Thomas Bogard Jr., who sells many dogs each year.

Charlie McLintic, who says he has a little of everything everybody else has—and a few things no one else has acquired, entered his German shepherd Laddy VI, AKC registry, sired by Jerry of Grogan Wells, the dam being Lady Gray Wolf. The breeder was J. S. Randall of Colorado. McLintic's dog will be one of the best entered for judging at the Oct. 7 show, those who have seen the dog say.

Mrs. Vera Lewis, phone 305-M, is being deluged with questions about the show. To answer some of the most pertinent queries there will be no admission fee; dogs must be on the leash; prizes will be offered (full details of which will be carried in the Sunday edition of The Reporter-Telegram), and dogs of all breeds and classes may be entered. Children, especially, are asked to enter their pets, whether the dogs are of the long-eared, spotted, splay-footed variety, or whether they belong to the exclusive F. F. (finest family variety). The fact that a dog may have some difficulty in establishing his lineage need not deter his owner from entering him.

Fifty Beautiful Girls, "Moonlight & Pretzels," Yucca

Picked by a distinguished group of American artists and illustrators as Broadway's "fifty most perfect show girls," a chorus seldom equalled for beauty and precision either on stage or screen, appears in "Moonlight and Pretzels," the Universal screen musical comedy playing at the Yucca theatre at 7—Saturday night preview and on Sunday and Monday.

The fifty lucky chorines were selected from the combined ensembles of the New York musical comedy triumphs, "Strike Me Pink," "Take A Chance," and "The Gay Divorcee" by a jury of feminine beauty experts composed of James Montgomery Flagg, John La Guardia, Russell Patterson, Jefferson MacHamer, Arthur William Brown and Hal Phyle. The girls were trained and put through their paces before the cameras by none other than Bobby Connolly, America's premier dance director whose clever and intricate routines have contributed to the success of scores of New York musical comedy and revue hits.

of some of the cadets. You will notice that one of the most arresting photos includes Miss Janet McMullan, Midland girl. Who is the boy friend? That would be telling.

Speaking of girls, (it's being done you know) the little Betty Co-Ede of the high school are being accredited with doing as much to make the grid candidates train as the coaching coaches. When 9 o'clock comes, "we tell 'em we must go home, and we know they won't ride around by themselves," as one little beauty naively told another. Coaches suggest the Sherlock methods: one drove by a place where an informal birthday dinner was given last night, and by a bit of neck craning and shuttling of his lids, stamped a mental image on his retina of a picture which might well be called "Among Those Present."

Endorsement of such tactics should be unanimously given by sports followers. Midland grid teams have never subscribed to the tradition of training methods. That sort of thing was for other clubs; apparently was held to be a theoretical hangover from the days of raw beef, nose guards, and the flying wedge era of the game. Coaches have ground the enamel of their teeth to the quick by setting their jaws against such indifference, and have entered the opinion that grid training by day and indulgence in drugstore cowboy roles in the evenings and nights is another way of tracing the shortest line between points—possibility of making the squad, and certainty of being ignominiously told to turn in the proverbial suit.

The freshmen of the high school were given a lesson in the art of toying with the prolate spheroid yesterday, when the "Mighty Ox Truex" and his cleared cohorts of Junior high fastened a 6-0 reversal on the sensitive hide of the Bull Pups. According to Jess Rodgers, (the Jess really having an "e" tossed in, but who goes under the rather easily remembered handle of "Iron-head"), Truex was the battery of the consistent yardage parade that led to the payoff marker. His mates gave him all sorts of support, ranging from excellent to indifferent. If the back gets to high school before his whiskers grow too long he should go places behind the purple and gold frontal line.

starting border city backs. Wilson, well marked in every game he played against Midland in the heyday of the city's membership in Class B, wore a streaming plume on his helmet, and when the speedy full-back bobbed and weaved over the broken-field distances he never failed to create a thrill in the stands. Midland wishes him luck, but he seems to have no use for good wishes; he was a star in the Mines backfield all last season.

Sammy Baugh, the all-state man who tossed passes when Red Sheridan couldn't advance the ball for the Sweetwater Mustangs last season, has entered TCU, as has the great Scott McCall of Masonic Home. The latter is hailed as among, if not THE best backs ever turned out by a Texas high school. Bill Walls of Little Rock, star in football, basketball, baseball and track, and a boxer of well defined ability, is another who has matriculated.

Do you recall a few seasons back when Midland played Eastland's crack squad here, and had the stands (the old bleachers in those days) standing on their heads by holding Gibson's boys (who were much different from the Gibson girls) scoreless for three quarters? Perhaps, then, you recall the stands got to yelling for Gibson to send in his crippled ace, a handsome, well-molded young man called Rex Clark. Mister Clark obliged the punters by begging to get in for a few plays. A few plays was all he needed. Limping to his place in the backfield, he grabbed the ball and, in three brief rushes, carried the ball nearly 40 yards for a touchdown. The shock that came over the Midland constituents was not unmixt with admiration for the powerful youngster who grinning with pleasure at the sudden change of complexion of the razzing section, limped back to his hood on the bench. He will be in the TCU lineup against the powerful Denton Eagles tonight, and much is expected of him. Denton beat SMU last week, and the Horned Toads may need plenty of Clarks before the night is over.

The biggest game in this end of the state will be at Lubbock tonight. SMU's Mustangs, perhaps more difficult to opposition than before their breaking by the bronco peelers of Denton, play under the arcs the salty Matadors of Texas Tech. Pete Cawthon, Tech coach, has a great outlay of terrors and picadors, as well as a few flooredors to distribute funeral wreaths to SMU after the game. Baylor, the salty Matadors of Texas Tech, are the salty Matadors of Texas Tech.
