A., received severe abrasions. He was in a hospital today and in a critical condition. Assault charges awaited capture of Moore, officers expecting to make an arrest momentarily.

Real Vacation, Bennie Relates

Bennie Bizzell is back from a vacation spent in a most extraordinary place, "where signs are up advertising for laborers and where the girls play a better brand of baseball than the men do here."

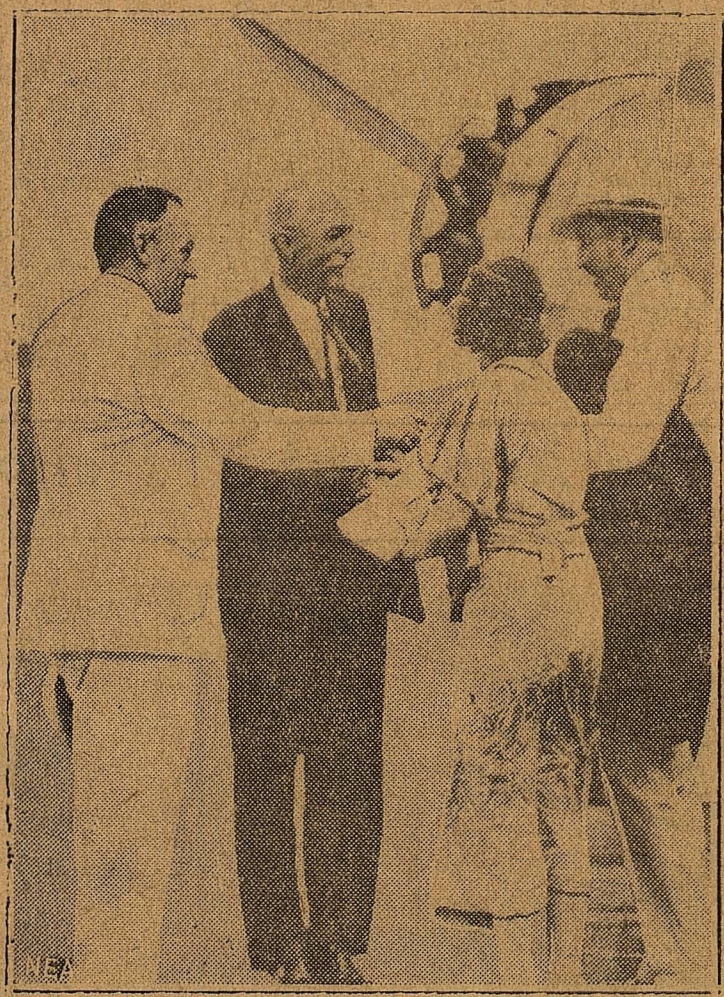

In other words, Bizzell went to the valley of the Rio Grande, to Pharr, where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Bizzell, live. With his wife and baby, he drove to Corpus Christi, Galveston, San Antonio and over a circuit that measured 3,200 miles.

The Midland people stopped at Poochita bay, 35 miles northeast of Brownsville, and caught several pounds of fish. Bizzell played 11 games with the Pharr Peeders, winning each time. No game resulted in as many as five scores. Among teams played were those of Brownsville, Weslaco, McAllen, Edinburg, San Juan and Raymondville.

"The girls' team there can beat several teams in this section," he said. Farmers offer 65 cents a 100 for picking cotton, and, while a third of the crop has been plowed under to meet government requests, there is plenty, he said.

Roy Jones, Otis Kennedy, Eldred Hobbs and Roy Baker went with Bizzell to the valley and got jobs at $2 per day, starting to work within 12 hours from the time they arrived.

Johnson Takes Hand in Coal Strike

Flown down from Washington, D. C. in an army plane, General Hugh S. Johnson, National Recovery Administrator, is shown as he arrived in Harrisburg, Pa., to address industrial and labor leaders there in an effort to end the coal mine dispute. Principal rodeo events were the calf roping and the steer breakaway. Maynard Gaylor won the calf roping with time of 16.6 seconds; Allen Holder was second with 17.3 and Howard Westfall third with 22.2. In the steer breakaway contest, Myrl Jowell won first money with 5.6 seconds, Allen Holder second with six seconds flat and Howard Westfall third with 6.7 seconds. Bronc riding and other events filled in between roping programs. The crowd Sunday was estimated at 2,000.

BREWERY STOCK FORMS BASIS OF MURDER PROBE

New York Railroad Agent's Death Is Mysterious

NEW YORK, Aug. 7. (UP)—Blondes and a brewery centered the public investigation today of the murder of Henry F. Sanborn, railroad official whose bullet-pierced body was found in a shallow grave on Long Island.

Attorney Herbert McKennis predicted that a solution was near. The body was found Saturday night, buried near a highway, after he had been missing since July 15. French and Italian police were asked to find Bancroft Mitchell, through whom Sanborn bought four shares of brewery stock. A detective was stationed at the Brooklyn home of Miss Maghild Almskaar, fiancée of Sanborn. She was expected to return from a week end trip. Mystery surrounded the investigation.

The Midland chamber of commerce will look after registration details, while Sheriff Francis is welcoming the visitors. Cam L. Fannin, Scharbauer attorney, will look after details of the dance and also the luncheon at Wednesday.

Slugging Court of Inquiry Postponed

MCCAMEY.—The court of inquiry into the fatal slugging of G. E. Berry, 50 year old blacksmith, here last week has been postponed until the middle of this week pending arrival of District Attorney Weaver H. Baker of Junction. Roy Priest, 32nd district attorney, is busy with the Brewster county district court at Marfa now, but he came up to Rankin over the week end to look into the case.

Chief of Police Fred Senter said that a special term of Judge Joe Montague's 112th district court likely would be called next week for grand jury action in the case. Three men held for investigation remain in the jail at Rankin.

Angelo Cat Has Only Eight Lives Left After Jump

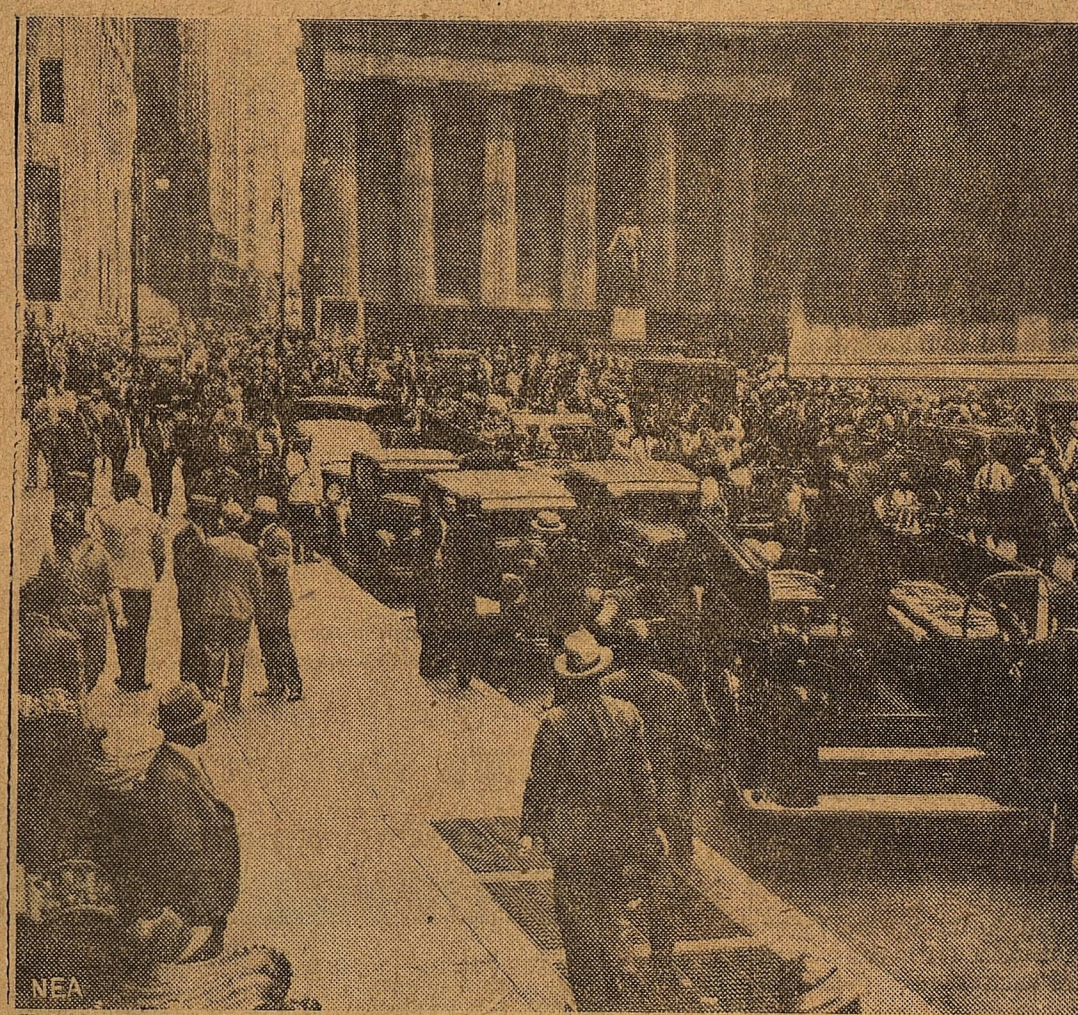

SAN ANGELO.—You can't tell C. C. Simpson and Alfred Honeycutt, negro janitors at the San Angelo National bank building, that a cat doesn't have nine lives—or at least more than one.

For they saw a cat jump out of a fifth story window in the building last week, hit the sidewalk in front of white men, arise, shake itself and then tear out in the direction of the Hilton hotel, apparently with its eight remaining lives functioning perfectly. The cat turned over once or twice after it left the window, but landed on its feet. The janitors had been attempting to chase the cat down the stairway but it broke into the first available door.

"When I came to the door the cat was in the window," Honeycutt said. "I said 'Kitty, Kitty,' and started towards it and it jumped out. Boy, it didn't have no discretion at all."

SCITUATE, Mass. (UP)—A "Siamese twin" is an oddity in the Edwin Dolan garden of black-eyed Susans. The flower has stems and heads joined to form a single large bloom.

Tear Gas Closes Stock Exchange

High excitement prevailed in New York's financial district when brokers gasping for breath were driven from the Stock Exchange by fumes which police said came from tear gas bombs thrown into an open pipe of the ventilating system. Though no one was reported overcome, trading was suspended for the day. Here's the scene as emergency police squads arrived on the scene.

Need for Relief Bonds Explained From Pulpits, Theatres by Speakers Sunday

More than a thousand people Sunday heard speakers tell why they believed Midlanders should vote for the constitutional amendment permitting the legislature to issue relief bonds not to exceed $20,000,000. Those selected to speak were: Dr. W. E. Ryan, W. B. Simpson, Mrs. J. Howard Hodge, Frank Stubbemeyer, Henry L. Haight, Mrs. J. M. White, and the Rev. O. W. Roberts. They spoke at the various churches and at the Ritz and Yucca theatres.

All of the speakers pointed out that the charity problem is growing worse in Midland, that Midland cannot finance its own charity problem; that the state of Texas is the only state in the union which has not yet added in the relief of its unemployed persons; that the federal government says unless Texas votes these bonds, all federal funds will be withdrawn; that Texas last month received over $2,000,000 of U. S. funds and will get no more after August unless Texas people vote for the constitutional amendment; that voting for this amendment does not mean all of the bonds will be issued, but that the legislature may issue not to exceed $20,000,000. The speakers declared "we no longer have any choice. It is necessary to vote these bonds or Midland people will go hungry."

SPEAKERS URGE FARMERS GIVE RELIEF DATA

Every school house in Midland county was advised Sunday of the great relief check-up to be made on Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock. Frank Dale, Judge E. H. Barron, B. T. Graham, and Carl Smith were among those who carried word to the school houses. These men will also assist in having the blanks signed and returned to the county commissioners for final compilation.

Farmers living nearer Midland than any rural school are asked to go to the commissioners court room at the courthouse Wednesday at 1 o'clock to fill in the information blank.

It is emphasized that every farmer in the country, whether or not he needs aid or will ever receive aid, is expected to fill in these blanks. The better the record, the better the chance to get more road money or more relief of other kinds. Leaders in the movement say that it is meeting fine reception. Farmers who don't need help are anxious to sign the blanks because it will help their neighbors who may be in need. No obligation whatever is attached to signing the blanks.

DALLAS, Aug. 7. (UP)—Four armed bandits today took $1,000 in drugs and merchandise from the J. P. Word Transfer company here. E. C. Haggard was kidnaped and released on the edge of the city.

JOHNSON HITS INTERFERENCE WITH NRA CODE

Allred Is Silent on Oil Code Effect in Lawsuits

AUSTIN, Aug. 7. (UP)—Administrator Hugh S. Johnson of NRA today asked Governor Ferguson to secure blanket suspension of state laws interfering with national industrial codes at the September legislative session.

Attorney General Allred, who had returned from the Washington oil conferences, declined to comment on the proposed code and its probable effect on the $17,500,000 anti-trust penalty suits against oil companies pending in Texas.

He was back from Washington for the week end. He did not expect the oil code at first to include price fixing.

CONSUMERS ASKED FOR BUYING PROGRAM

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7. (UP)—The government today appealed to consumers to "spend for re-employment" but only from the man displaying the NRA eagle.

"Employers cannot continue to raise payrolls without increased business," Administrator Hugh S. Johnson said. "The part of the buyers is now to buy or this plan will be a failure."

Johnson was confident that strikes would be cleared up under President Roosevelt's truce. He threatened to withdraw blue eagles from Indiana grocery stores which were planning to limit store hours under 63 hours per week.

President Roosevelt announced that wherever it is possible the government will adjust existing contracts with private firms to allow for increased costs under the NRA and he asked cities and states to follow suit.

The women's suit and cloak industry code eliminates sweat shops, established a 35-hour week and minimum wages of $14 to $47 weekly.

URGES DOMESTIC PRICE RAISING

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7. (UP)—Secretary of State Hull today urged domestic price raising programs and replacement of the existing code with an international move to end world depression. America is willing to promote close commercial relations with Latin America, he said.

NEW INTERPRETATIONS NRA CODE RECEIVED

New NRA interpretations have been received by the Midland chamber of commerce and are available to any persons interested.

The new interpretations state, among other things, that a small institution not making sufficient money may operate as at present, but must not display blue eagles unless a petition of exception has been filed. The status of the place too small or business too small to employ more is to be worked out.

Another interpretation given is that men on commissions exclusively do not come under provisions of the act.

The interpretations emphasize that the president's purpose is to put men to work and warns against subterfuges. The drive is against unemployment. Business houses are asked to make sacrifices to give men jobs.

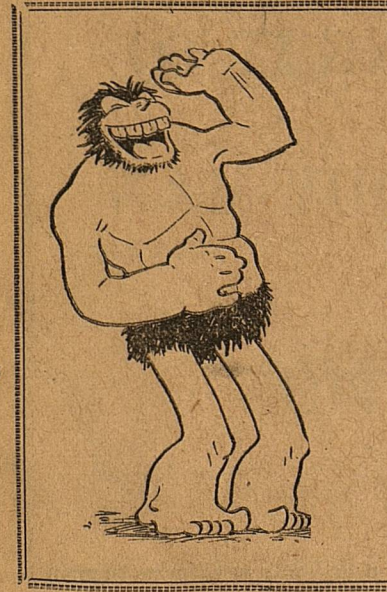

An unofficial survey shows that (See TEXAS ASKED, page 4)

U. S. DECLARES WAR ON CRIME

Kidnapers, racketeers and gangsters have been declared in on the New Deal by President Roosevelt. And they will be the only ones who will not like it.

The president has instructed the Department of Justice to use all its resources in helping local authorities stamp out lawlessness. This action will be welcomed not only by a public which has at last become alarmed over the succession of sensational kidnapings and the growing depredations of gangsters, but it will be welcomed also by local authorities for organized crime has been conducted on a scale with which city and county police have been unable successfully to cope.

The United States government cannot, under the constitution, set up a central detective agency like Britain's famous Scotland Yard. But the federal government can perform many similar functions. It can bring to the aid of local police the services of a corps of highly trained and efficient agents who are not hampered by questions of jurisdiction and who can co-ordinate local efforts to bring criminals to book.

There is no desire on the part of the federal government to usurp local police functions in the preservation of the peace, but intervention has been made inevitable and is now desirable because criminal operations have become national in character, and a national problem. Joseph B. Keenan, in charge of the government's anti-racketeering campaign, called the situation "a veritable revolt against orderly government."

The federal government in recent years has demonstrated its power by putting in prison a number of gangsters who had been able to operate in large cities virtually without molestation. Lately the government has done effective work in arresting several persons in millionaire kidnaping cases soon after the victims were released. These men will be prosecuted in federal courts under the so-called Lindbergh law. Federal agents assisted in obtaining the death penalty for the kidnaper of Mary McElroy in Kansas City.

"The Department of Justice will build up its force and increase its activities in co-operation with the states to crush the bands of kidnapers and racketeers," promises Attorney General Cummings.

It seems safe to predict that gangsters are witnessing the beginning of the end.

HERE'S REAL COURAGE

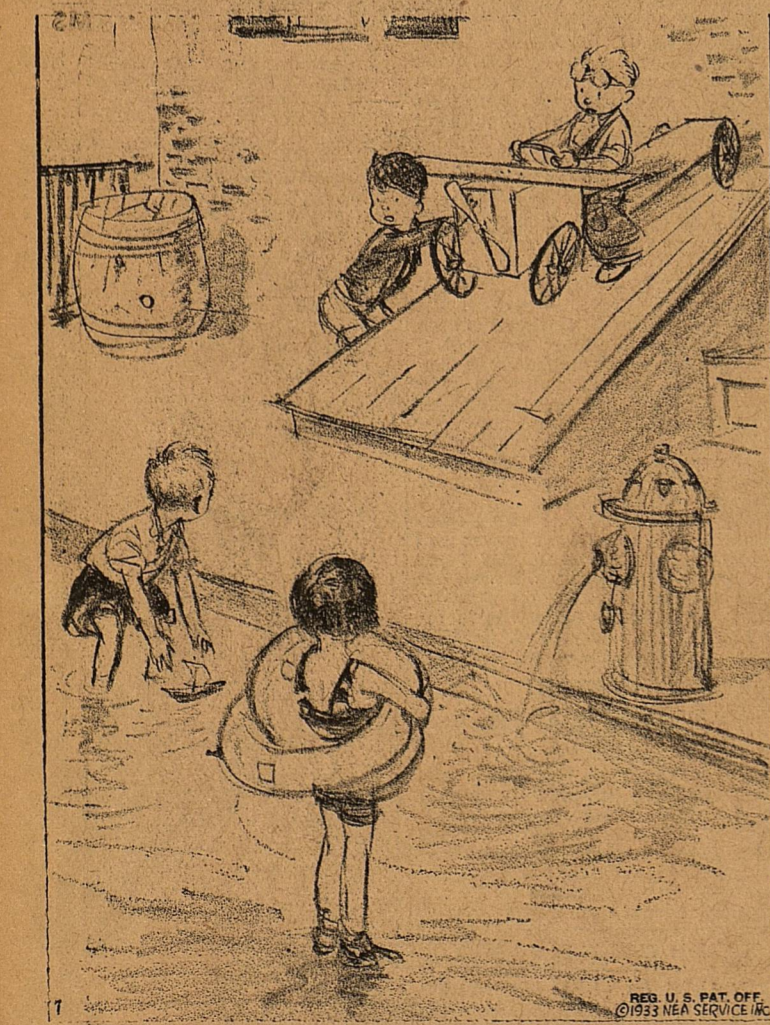

To be a successful dictator, you need the wisdom of a Solomon, the thoroughness of a Napoleon, and the rash daring of a Caesar. But mostly the rash daring of a Caesar.

Frankly, some people may have had some doubts that Adolph Hitler had all these qualities, especially the latter. But now who can doubt it? Through Frau Magda Goebbels, wife of his minister of propaganda, Hitler now proposes to set up a government fashion bureau and become arbiter of dress to the German woman.

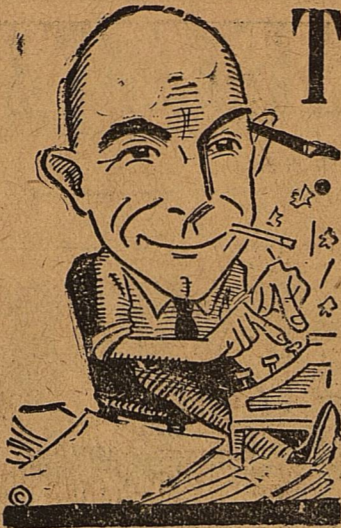

From this time on, nobody can question the rash daring of Herr Hitler, who proposes to tell 30,000,000 women what to wear, even through a feminine minister-without-portfolio. It is colossal!

But there is a pretty good chance that it won't work. You can tell a man how to run his business, and make it stick. You can make him salute every dictator's underling that comes along, and make it stick. You can tell him to wear a black shirt, or a brown shirt, or even a nightshirt, and make it stick, too. But when it comes to telling a lady that she must wear a straw hat, or a felt hat, or a large hat, or a small hat, or a German hat, or no hat at all—well, sticking your head into a lion's mouth is just innocent fun beside that!

The Town Quack

(Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.)

Louie Joseph's wife, in a bridge game the other night, held thirteen hearts. Statisticians say that happens once in 13,500,000 times. It's no wonder Louie sells hamburgers at two for fifteen.

Hankins has finally started another one of those well deserved vacations of his. They happen about once in two years. He has been on a five day week since the first of January and is supposed to be off every Monday. However, every time some unusual work comes up he passes up his day off. On checking up the other day we found that he hadn't taken his Monday off for six consecutive weeks and had about ten or twelve Mondays stacked up in his favor. Anyone having dog-shearing to be done can get him at 253-W. He can't chop cotton this year because there is no cotton to chop.

On checking out Saturday night the city editor left a note wherein he called upon Providence to "rest ye, merrie gentlemen." I wonder how he figures any of us to rest until his vacation is over.

You may think I am giving the city editor a lot of publicity, but you see it's this way. When a staff member is on the job it's unethical for him to have his name in the paper except in circumstances where it is necessary to a story. Now that he is off I want to see that he gets his name in print. He ought to enjoy his vacation better.

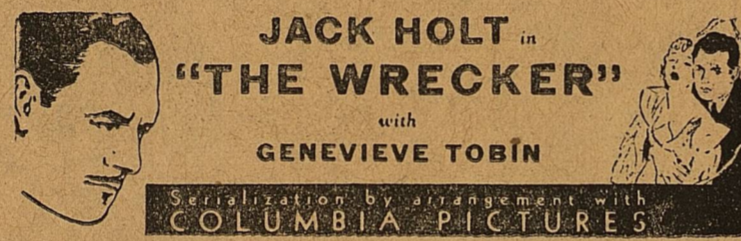

The editor and the business man.

ager get down an hour earlier than the printers, so they light the melting pots on the linotypes in order to have everything warmed up when the operators come on the job. The B. Have you ever seen a time when a chamber of commerce was in such demand as at present? When the bond days were over in this section, a lot of people said we might as well disband the chamber of commerce. However, with the government crop loans, relief work, NRA work and the like the chambers of commerce over the country are busier than ever before. Ask anyone who has direct contact with these lines of work and he will tell you that it couldn't be done without the C. of C.

Speakers were in the pulpits yesterday talking about the bond issue to be voted on August 26. This is an important matter which should be considered seriously by every voter. If Texas doesn't line up to get her share of federal aid there will be no possible way of feeding the needy families at Midland and hundreds of other towns this winter. The citizens are not going to be able to go into their pockets and dig up from two to five thousand dollars this year, and it's a cinch that much will be needed. There are about 350 families depending on welfare aid right now for a living.

Support the NRA, vote for the relief bonds, Elect Stubbeman! And, what about repeal, 3.2 and that sort of thing? You'll have to vote that your own way.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED Little Sam Shapiro, dealer in junk, business friendly with Chuck Regan, superintendent of the Pacific Coast Wrecking Company, through an accident to Shapiro, in which Regan saves his life. Regan is in love with Mary Wilson, a beautiful girl, who conducts a little portable lunch wagon, though she seems to be fond of Tom Cummings, who is the "black sheep" of a wealthy and aristocratic family and now the timekeeper for Regan's outfit. Only Shapiro is aware that Mary cares for Cummings, for he accidentally witnesses a love scene between the two. Regan does everything possible for Cummings to promote him, and they are close friends, and succeeds in getting him a position with a building company. Cummings wishes to be a contractor. Regan asks Mary to marry him, and she says that she will when Regan owns his own company. She wants money and success and believes that Regan can give it to her quicker than the less aggressive Cummings.

CHAPTER THREE Some four years later—four years from the day when Chuck Regan had saved the life of diminutive Sam Shapiro—two companies in sumptuous, spacious offices atop the modern skyscraper bore the names: "Regan Wrecking Company—We Wreck Anything and 'Sinapio Salvage Company—We Save Everything." Shapiro was no longer the tattered little junk man, for now a sporty, well-dressed, well-to-do man in upper lip. Stylish and well made clothes were draped perfectly about his trim body—in whole, he was the very embodiment of the successful business man.

Down the hall in the same building was another large suite of rooms—this lettered: "Cummings Construction Company—Builders." It was toward these offices that Shapiro walked. He hummed gaily.

The door to the Cummings suite swung open, and Tom Cummings, older, more mature, came out. Success had done something subtle to him—something indescribable, yet, certainly there. The expression on his face at seeing Shapiro made it obvious that he was not anxious to see the little fellow. Shapiro, however, greeted him boisterously. "Hello, Cummings—just the man I wanted to see!"

"Do you mind dropping in later? I've got to see a man at the City Hall." He started to move away. Shapiro grabbed his arm. "Wait—this is more important." His tone became impressive. "You know what day it is today?"

"Monday." "Yes, but what Monday? Monday, September 18th!"

"Well—Cummings' face was blank. "Did you forget?" Shapiro asked. "Shapiro never forgets, David's boy is two years old today."

"Well, well, I suppose we'll have to do something about it." Shapiro grabbed him impetuously. "You said it. Come on." He led the protesting Cummings down the hall, the little fellow busy—Cummings was annoyed.

"Shapiro's busy too. But how can he be busy ven David's son's got a birthday. Remember—this has got to be a surprise—not for the boy, understand, but for the old man." Shapiro dragged him into the outer office of the Regan Wrecking Company where a girl announced them to Chuck over the inter-office phone. "Mr. Regan will see you in just a minute," the girl informed them.

"Thanks. Thanks." Shapiro grumbled. Regan, in his private office, was on the phone. "Now wait a minute, Commissioner—what's a few birds between friends? Cummings does the best work in town—" Regan looked me to lose it? . . . Sure you can. Well, put on a triple shift, then. We've got to . . . What? . . . What have we got dynamite for? . . . I don't care if it's against the law or not. Suppose they do fine us. We'll pay it. . . It won't be a tenth of the bonus, you sap. . . I can't . . . I can't, I tell you. I've got company here . . . hold the wire." He turned to Mary. "They're having trouble up in Frisco. Honey—they need me up there to straighten them out."

Mary was scornful. "That's too bad. What do you pay those people for any more? They're all here to trouble you till you pay—all hours of the day or night—and expect you to do their work for them."

Regan's tone was mild. "Trouble is—there's a time limit on this job. When you work on a limit—"

"I don't care," said Mary furiously. "I've got a limit, myself. First you insist on having company for dinner—then you come home an hour late. Now you want to leave. I'm sick and tired—" She stopped, for there had been a slight cough from Cummings. She looked at him, and, though his face was impassive, she gathered some meaning look from his expression. It was a subtle glance, hardly noticeable, but Shapiro's sharp eyes detected it. His face, however, remained expressionless.

Mary turned and walked over to Chuck. "I'm sorry," she said. "I know I shouldn't have acted like that. I don't want to be the sort of wife who interferes in her husband's business." She pouted. "I'm terribly disappointed, but if you've got to go—"

"My hat and coat!" yelled Regan to the waiting butler. He pulled Mary to him, kissed her, then grabbed the phone, barking: "Cramer, I'm leaving by plane right away. Get me a room at the hotel." He banged the receiver down and swung around to Shapiro and Cummings, who had come into the hall.

"I don't have to apologize to you birds. You know me. I'll give you a contract you run into grief." He turned again to Mary. "You're right about those crumples up there, kid. I'll give you a sweet bawling out when I see 'em. Well—have a nice party." He ran out, slamming the door behind him.

Depression Causes 'Art Consciousness'

NEW ORLEANS, (UP)—People have become "art conscious" during the business depression because they have more time to think about art, according to Miss Angela Gregory, sculptress. Before the depression, they were too busy thinking about other things, she said.

Miss Gregory believes the American people have a strong urge for beautiful architecture, while architects, she said, are realizing more and more the need of sculpture in buildings.

The New Deal in Pictures --- No. 9

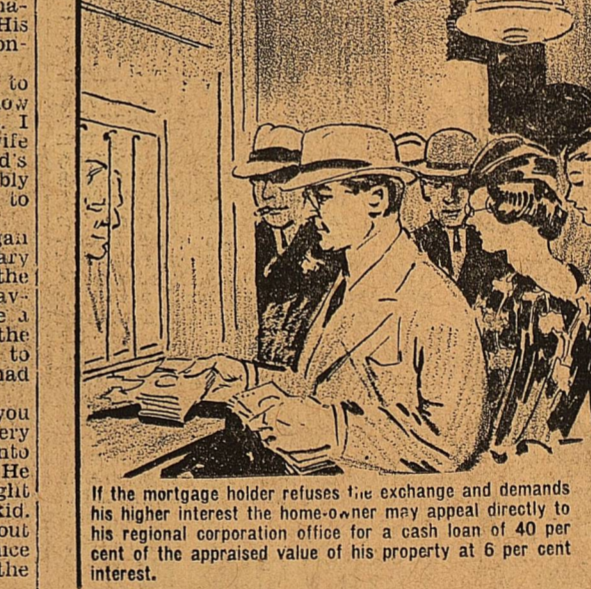

Text by John M. Gleissner Sketches by Don Lavin

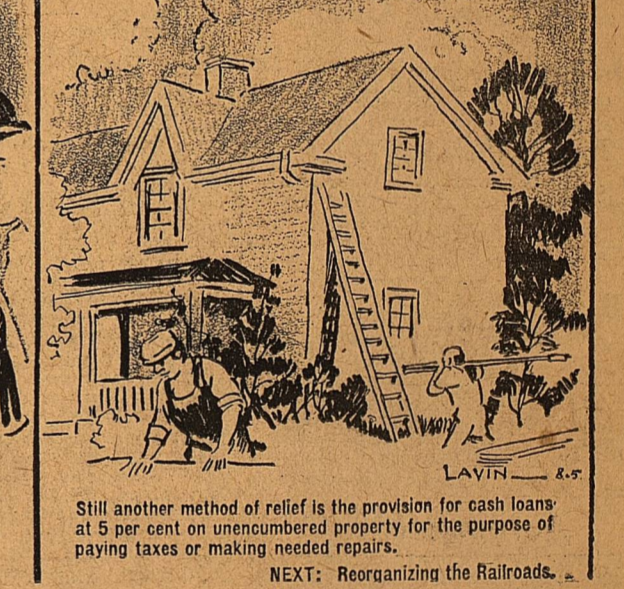

The home mortgage act was passed to help the individual of small means who is in danger of losing his home through foreclosure proceedings. It provides issuance of $2,000-4,000 in federal bonds, bearing 4 per cent interest, to be exchanged for mortgages. The government guarantees interest but not principal.

An owner of a home costing $20,000 or less may apply to the Home Owners' Loan Corporation for relief. If the mortgage holder agrees, his mortgage will be exchanged for 4 per cent tax-free bonds. The owner will pay not more than 5 per cent interest to the corporation and have 15 years to pay off the principal.

If the mortgage holder refuses the exchange and demands his higher interest the home-owner may appeal directly to his regional corporation office for a cash loan of 40 per cent of the appraised value of his property at 6 per cent interest.

Still another method of relief is the provision for cash loans at 5 per cent on unencumbered property, for the purpose of paying taxes or making needed repairs.

ONLY DISTILLERS SURE OF GAIN IN FUEL BLEND PLAN

NEW YORK.—Studies made here of the economic aspects of the plan to enact legislation designed to provide for compulsory use of alcohol blend motor fuels as a "farm relief" measure, indicate that the farmers actually would lose rather than profit.

Estimates based upon a five per cent blend of domestic agricultural alcohol with gasoline, show a possible increase of $200,760,000 in the value of the corn crop, and of $17,430,000 in the value of crops of barley similarly used as a source of alcohol. The total possible gain to the farmer thus is placed at $218,190,000.

This would be offset by a $70,656,000 increase in the cost of the 23 per cent of motor fuel consumed by farmers, an increase of $160,322,000 in the cost of corn purchased by farmers themselves or fed to their own livestock, and an increase of $7,681,000 in the most of barley used for feed. The total increase in expenses would be $238,659,000, or $20,469,000 more than the possible gain in income.

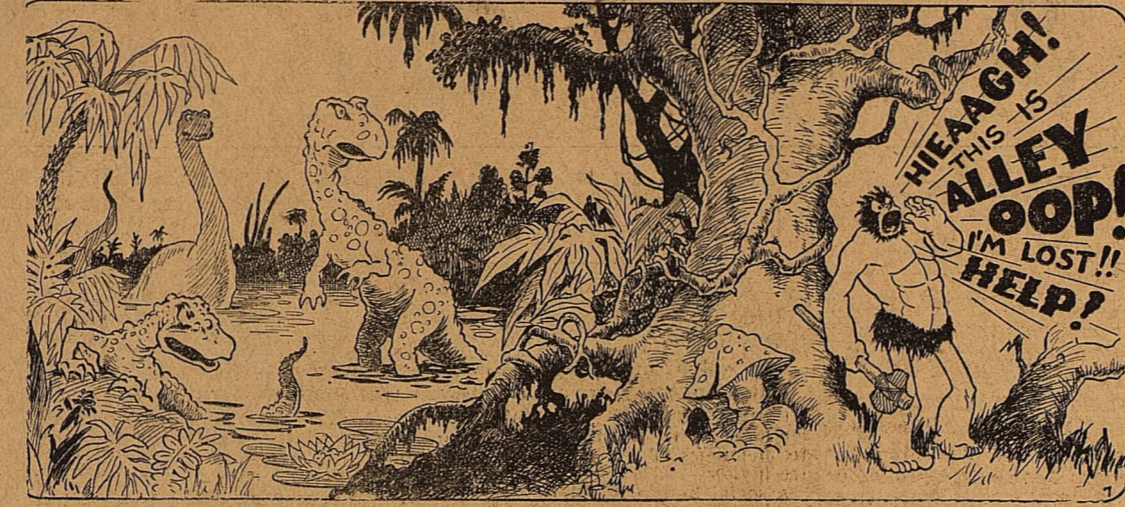

The same estimates reveal that the motoring public would pay at least $307,200,000 through the higher price of blended motor fuel, and an estimated $4,525,000 in government expenses necessary to the cost of additional inspection and supervision of alcohol plants. It is estimated that the petroleum industry would lose $40,000,000 in revenue through gasoline displaced by alcohol and $80,000,000 through expenses incurred in blending, changing equipment, and additional equipment and services. There would be additional costs in refining, tax evasion, illegal competition, and other factors impossible to estimate.

The chief gainers by the scheme appear to be alcohol distillers, who stand to make an estimated additional profit of $267,200,000.

INDIANS COME ALIVE TO WIN FROM WINK AT ODESSA SUNDAY

GIRDLEY WILD BUT GOOD IN PINCHES; PITCHES FIRST GAME IN TWO SEASONS

The Midland Indians finally stopped their losing streak at ten straight Sunday when they defeated the Wink Oilers 5-2 on the Odessa diamond.

It was a far different line-up yesterday for the locals than the one that has been losing for the Indians all season. There were three new men in the infield, one in the outfield and a new pitcher. In fact Midland was obliged to borrow "Red" Hill from the Wink club and use E. B. Estes of the Odessa club to have a complete team. Both men played with the Indians earlier in the season.

Both these men took a large part in the victory as Hill roamed far and wide in center field to accept five put-outs and got one hit while Estes was playing errorless ball on first and hitting a home run in the eighth inning.

Girdley, pitcher for the Indians, was wild as a hare all through the game, walking seven men and hitting one, but bore down in the pinch to keep the Oilers away from the home plate.

Midland scored first in the third when Byron walked and came home on White's triple to left field. Wink tied up the score at one and one in the fourth when they combined two walks with two hits to push Lybrand around.

The Indians made another in the fourth when Whitmire singled and scored on a three base hit by Girdley. Girdley was thrown out in home trying to stretch the hit to a homer.

The Oilers once more tied up the score in the sixth when Clingan led off with a triple and came home on a wild pitch by Girdley after two men had been retired.

That was all the scoring for either team until the eighth when the locals put the game on ice. Byron led off with a single and after Hill struck out White came through with a long home run to score Byron ahead of him. Estes followed White's example and hit one for four bases, the ball rolling under the fence far out in right field. Whitmire then got his fourth hit of the day, a double to left, but was unable to get farther than third as Woody flew out to right and Cook struck out.

Wink tried hard to tie the score in the ninth when with one out Seybold reached first on an error and Ellinger and Johnson singled to load the bases but Girdley struck out T. Scroggins and made Lybrand roll to Whitmire who touched third to force out Ellinger and end the game.

White and Whitmire were the leading hitters of the day. White drove in three of the local runs with a triple and a homer while Whitmire was good for three singles and a double. Clingan with a triple and Johnson with two singles were the losers' best hitters.

Whitmire and Hill looked best for the locals on the defense as the locals were making four errors, none of which figured in the scoring. Hill's catch of Richter's line drive in the sixth bordered on the sensational.

Girdley, pitching his first game in more than two seasons, walked seven, hit one, and struck out eight. Lybrand struck out 13 and walked one. Wink had 13 men left on base. Midland 6.

Child's Pet Fryer Sleeps With Her

ODESSA.—We'll bet a hard-earned nickel to a hole in a worn-out inner-tube that the sandman let his jaw drop down on his chest and spilled a fresh sackful of sand on the floor the other afternoon when he came around to the residence of Mrs. and Mrs. John Peery to toss a few grains in the eyes of their little daughter, Sally Jane. The old boy was confronted with a most unusual sight, a sight that even gave Sally's mother a start the first time she noticed it.

Stretched out on the big bed, already sound asleep, he found pretty little Sally, and stretched out full length beside her, with her head on Sally's shoulder, he saw a long-legged White Leghorn fryer, also sound asleep. Sally's bed-fellow for the afternoon nap, and her constant companion during most of the day's play is none other than Biddy, a half-grown White Leghorn which Sally has kept for a pet since infancy.

Last Easter an enterprising drug store man in another town filled a display window with fluffy little baby chicks, died pink and green. It attracted much attention, and Sally's father bought her a pair of the chicks, a pink one and a green one. The green one died, and Biddy was the pink chick, now with the die faded, out and her native coat of white.

Not only does Biddy slip in and hop up on the bed with her mistress to stretch out human-fashion and sleep, instead of roosting upright as most chicks do, but she also hops up on Sally's knee and remains perched there as her young mistress rides her tricycle. If you will call to mind the pumping motion of a child's legs while riding a bicycle, you will readily see this is in itself no mean accomplishment.

Stuart Erwin is excellent in the first serious role we have seen him play. Dorothy Burgess also comes in for her share of plaudits and the cast is rounded out by such splendid players as Muriel Kirkland, Garry Owen, Barbara Brandoness, Paul Hurst, Elizabeth Patterson, Theresa Harris, Blanche Frederici and George Reed.

There also is a sing hit, "Hold Your Man," by Nacio Herb Brown and Arthur Freed.

Texas Asked

practically all, if not indeed all business houses that continue to operate by employing additional men in Midland have done so. About 35 new men have been employed, it is believed. The drug stores, dry goods stores, cafes, groceries and other institutions have all shortened hours and in most cases have employed from one to five new persons per establishment.

One article sent here calls on the consumers not to unjustly criticize firms doing their best to comply. The questions have been asked: "Why don't these severe critics on salaries, employ a man to help them, if they are so anxious to help and be patriotic?"

WARN AGAINST LOSS OF "EAGLE"

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—A warning to employers that agreements with President Roosevelt to increase the number of workers must be kept to the letter or the Blue Eagle of the NRA would soar away to return nevermore was given by Hugh S. Johnson.

Twice in separate messages—once to the grocers of Indiana and again to a Cleveland mass meeting—the administrator of national recovery gave his assurances of quick disciplinary action.

"Do not trifle with that bird," he said in his message to the Ohio city. "In the confusion of early days a man may get away with it. But the day of reckoning against an aroused public opinion is sure."

Concurrently President Roosevelt in a statement made public by the Recovery Administration promised business men that the Federal Government intended to adjust its contracts with them so that no hardships would be suffered by those caught between legal agreements and rising prices.

Roosevelt called attention to his appeal for co-operation in a general re-employment agreement, urging private business men to submit contracts for future delivery to equitable adjustments, and said the Government "as a buyer of goods should be willing itself to take action similar to that recommended to private buyers."

Plenty of Comedy In Ritz Picture

Peggy Hopkins Joyce, W. C. Fields, Rudy Valle, Stuart Erwin, George Burns and Graeme Allen, Sari Maritza, Col. Stoopnagle and Budd Calloway and his orchestra and Baby Rose Marie—the largest all-star cast of stage, screen and radio favorites ever assembled—play the leading roles in "International House," Paramount's hysterical musical comedy showing at the Ritz today.

Lavish in every production detail, "International House" has the additional quality of having a screamingly funny plot. It is set in a hotel in a Chinese city, where representatives of big business from all over the world are assembled to see and bid on a marvelous new invention by a Chinese scientist.

The fun starts when Bela Lugosi, a comic team, has the hotel quarantined to keep the American representatives from bidding, but finds instead that he has locked himself out. From across the street he watches Peggy Joyce, one of whose husbands he has been, go "on the make" for W. C. Fields, an aviator who had mistaken the Chinese town for Kansas City and had landed his autogyro on the roof of the hotel.

Events go from crazy to crazier during the quarantine. Burns and Allen, and Stoopnagle and Budd wisecrack the others to distraction; Rudy Valle, Baby Rose Marie and Cab Calloway do the same thing with music; the Girls in Cellophane dance; and Stuart Erwin makes tumo love to Sari Maritza. It all ends up in a riotous farce.

Triof Ector Tests Spudded
