Inch Rain Reestablishes General Business Hopes Here

THOMAS, LAWRENCE, NOLAND REELECTED SCHOOL TRUSTEES

BROKE SPELL OF DRYNESS STARTED LAST SEPTEMBER

Moisture General in West Texas Say The Reports

Rainfall measuring an inch Saturday fell slowly on Midland and in this general area.

It was the first rain of consequence in months and was instrumental in value—possibly, for reestablishment of optimism as for its tangible benefits.

Added to the shower of Thursday, the total for the week gauged 1.10 inches by 7 o'clock Saturday evening.

The moisture came at a time when the country was fearful of drought. The last rainfall of value had been last September, when 3.36 inches fell for that month or half the total for 1933. Only two other months showed more than an inch rainfall, August with 1.56 and July with 1.12.

Saturday's rainfall was general in West Texas, and some other areas of the state reported slight damage from flood waters of rivers out of their banks. Bus lines, the railroad company, pipe line companies and utilities reported showers and rains throughout this immediate area.

Slow rains fell at Rankin all night Friday and most of Saturday. A heavy rain fell at Odessa during the night, and intermittent showers wet the countryside Saturday. Crane City, McCamey and Wink were getting heavy rains at intervals Saturday, and Big Spring received a torrential downpour. "Generally heavy," Stanton reported; a light sprinkle at Andrews, and a light, but steady, drizzle at Pecos.

Fort Stockton reported no rain at noon, but overcast skies and favorable conditions; a heavy mist hung over that area.

STEVENS GANG IS GIVEN SENTENCES

FT. WORTH, April 7. (UP)—Federal Judge James C. Wilson today sentenced O. D. Stevens, W. D. May and M. T. Pettijohn, alias M. F. Howard, to serve 25 years in prison for conviction in connection with the $71,000 postal robbery here February 21, 1933.

The judge added a two year sentence and a $10,000 fine to the term of each for conspiracy to rob. Joe Martin, sentenced only on the conspiracy count, was found guilty Tuesday.

Addis Case Verdict Favors Plaintiffs

ODESSA.—A decision in favor of the plaintiffs was handed down in district court here last week, in a case in which two sons and one daughter of the Addis family sought to have set aside a deed of 60 acres out of the Addis holdings in this country made to another daughter.

The case was based on a claim that the 60 acres had been deeded to the daughter, Mrs. Grange, after a division of the property in this county, and that the mother, who deeded the property, had no right to do so.

The Addis property includes sections 34 and 35 block 43, township 2 south, in the heart of the Harrison oil pool, a few miles west of Odessa.

Avalanche Razes Norway Village; 40 Die in Sleep

AALESUND, Norway, April 7. (UP)—A mass of mountain rock crashed into the deep Nordfjord, causing three waves which overwhelmed the fishing villages of Fjoera and killed perhaps forty or fifty persons.

The catastrophe occurred while families were asleep.

Fans Ga-Ga Over Gigi

The "Ohs" and "Ahs" that greeted winsome Gigi Parrish when she tripped down the streets of staid Cambridge, Mass., are being echoed in Hollywood, where Gigi went in search of fame and fortune and is well started with a Wampas award for 1934. Beauty, charm, and ability—the film experts say she has them all. And this picture goes far toward bearing up their lavish praise.

Ferguson Is Given 2 Years on Auto Theft

ODESSA.—Jack Ferguson, erstwhile citizen of Monahans, drew a two-year sentence in district court here last week on charges of theft by bailer of an automobile from the Love Motor company of this city.

Ferguson was charged with having borrowed a car from the local car dealer and having failed to return it. He was captured in a nearby town, and returned here for trial.

Ferguson is reported to also be under a two year sentence for forgery, and to have a prison record behind him.

School Yearbook Nears Completion

Eighty of 300 high school yearbooks soon to go to press have been contracted, according to information from the high school. These sold for $2.50 each, but the price was set up to $3 effective April 1.

It is expected the greatest sale of school history will result this year.

HEAVY VOTING RESULTS; RAIN NO DETERRENT

Tickets Even in the Count of Straight Ballots

Dr. Jno. B. Thomas, R. V. Lawrence and James S. Noland were reelected as trustees of Midland Independent School District No. 1 Saturday.

Defeated candidates were J. O. Nobles, L. A. Arrington and J. R. Martin.

In spite of intermittent showers and occasional heavy downpours, a total of 1,082 persons went to the polls, many of them in taxis and private automobiles assembled by partisans to insure transportation of all who might be induced to exercise their vote.

The 8:10 o'clock report, showing the standing of candidates as reflected in the count of the "straight" ballots, established the rival tickets as being deadlocked with 285 votes each, with the "split" tickets yet to be counted.

The tabulation as announced by John P. Butler, manager of the election, follows:

Dr. Jno. B. Thomas	586
R. V. Lawrence	524
James S. Noland	576
J. O. Nobles	510
L. A. Arrington	489
J. R. Martin	519

Martin had served one year but was not a candidate for reelection last election. Dr. Thomas is president of the board. Members of the board whose terms did not expire are Roy Parks, Frank Cowden, W. A. Yeager and C. M. Goldsmith.

John P. Butler was manager of the election and Joe Youngblood and J. Homer Epley were judges.

TWO NEW MEMBERS NAMED AT SPRING

In a campaign attended with more than usual interest, three school trustees were elected at Big Spring Saturday, only one of whom was running for reelection.

Mrs. Clara Cox McAdams led the tabulation, with 500 votes. S. F. Jones polled 496. Dr. E. O. Ellington, president of the board, received 442 votes, and Les White, another school board member, received 438 votes.

One-Act Play Cast To Alpine April 20

Presentation of the Midland one-act play in competition with casts throughout the area is scheduled for April 20 at Alpine.

Preliminary to the meet at Alpine, the cast will present their play at Odessa, either Monday or Tuesday of this week, and has also been invited to appear at Texas Tech, Erie and Full school calendar. The cast will not be able to go to Lubbock.

The names of the cast of "The Devil Comes to Alcatraz" are to be engraved on the trophy which is on display at the high school.

Filling station operators, garage men, cafe and hotel men and tourist camp operators have been asked to meet with the chamber directors.

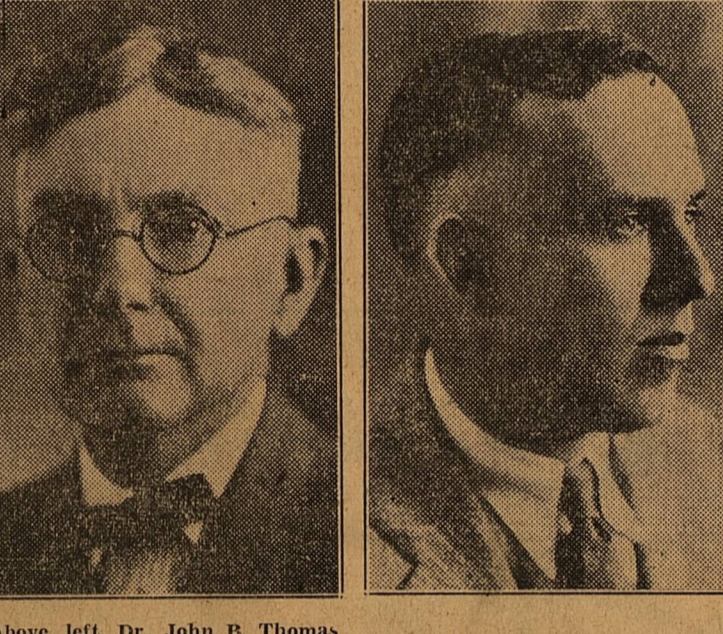

TWO NEW COMPLETIONS IN HOWARD-GLASSCOCK FIELD FOR LAST WEEK

Two new completions have been registered in the Howard-Glasscock field for the week. The Empire Oil & Refining company has completed and tested the Hall No. 2, section 21, block 33, township 2, south, T. & P. Railway survey, Glasscock county. Total depth is 2123 feet, and the second hour of the test showed that the well was pumping at the rate of 46.5 barrels per hour, or at the rate of 1,116 barrels daily. This is one of the largest completions in the area in some time.

H. O. Wooten has completed the Turner, No. A-1, section 19, block 33, township-2-south, T. & P. Railway company survey, Glasscock county. The well pumped 72.8 barrels the second hour of the production test, or at the rate of 1,747 barrels daily. Total depth is 2,182 feet. This completion is even larger than that of the Empire Oil & Refining company, and the addition of 2,863 barrels daily to the potential of the field shows that the recent increase in the allowable production was justified. Since the increase in the outlet, potential production has materially increased because of completions and acid treatments.

Another location has been staked in the field by Noble & Company on the W. P. Edwards, No. 1, section 17, block 33, T. & P. Railway company survey, Glasscock county. The test is to be carried to 2,500 feet, and is 330 feet out of the southeast corner of the south half of the southwest quarter of the section.

They Won in School Election

Church Grounds Are Beautified

Beautification work on the lawn of the Church of Christ resulted here to look after his own farming interests, as he owns six farms in the Midland area. Bizzell liked the valley and said he enjoyed living there, though he "likes Midland better than any place he has ever been."

Bizzell is one of Midland's most prominent farmers and most successful growers. He is said to be the type that "never quits work." He became known throughout West Texas when the fact that he produced more than enough on his farm three miles south of town to pay for it the first year he owned it. He is one of Midland's biggest and most loyal boosters, business men as well as his farm friends say.

TEXAS OUTLAWS PUZZLE OFFICERS; LEAVE FEW CLUES

KANSAS CITY, Kan., April 7. (UP)—The elusive Barrow gang kept hundreds of peace officers, federal men and special deputies of this area puzzled throughout Saturday afternoon and evening.

In spite of the carefully laid plans to trap the Texas killers, no clues as to their exact whereabouts had been uncovered.

Orders to "shoot to kill" had been given by grim police officials.

Moves Back Here From the Valley

T. Elmer Bizzell and family have moved back to Midland.

Bizzell has been manager of the Dr. John B. Thomas citrus farm in the Rio Grande valley for about two years.

The Midland farmer returned here to look after his own farming interests, as he owns six farms in the Midland area. Bizzell liked the valley and said he enjoyed living there, though he "likes Midland better than any place he has ever been."

A PROMISE TO THWART CRIMINAL POLITICS

A nation-wide drive to rid the country of racketeers and gangsters will be launched by the national administration, according to dispatches from Washington, just as soon as Congress finishes action on certain pending anti-crime bills.

These laws will give the federal government new power to step into local situations and deal with crooks who have not, so far, been within reach of federal laws.

Significantly enough, it is stated at the capital that federal agents will be enabled to strike directly at gangsters "now shielded by crooked politicians or city officials."

It will be a fine thing if the federal authorities actually do this; and it will be even finer if by doing so they force us to realize what the real trouble with our police system has been.

Nothing could be much odder than the way in which we berate the inefficiency of our police in dealing with organized crime, while we simultaneously put up with the kind of municipal politics which makes such inefficiency inevitable.

How is the ordinary city police force administered, anyhow? Well, the voters in their wisdom elect as mayor John Doe, who is known to be hand in glove with the most insavory political gang in town.

Mayor Doe appoints Lieutenant Hoozies chief of police; Chief Hoozies immediately promotes all the officers who favored John Doe's election and demotes those who did not.

Hoozies knows he will stay chief of police only as long as he keeps on the good side of Mayor Doe, and one of Mayor Doe's chief allies is the high-powered lawyer whose clients include the biggest racketeers in town.

Furthermore, Mayor Doe is busy selling special favors to some of the town's best citizens, so the general atmosphere is hardly conducive to strict honesty.

As a result, Hoozies keeps his trap shut, does as he's told, and makes hay while the sun shines.

A couple of years later some other politician beats Mayor Doe, a new chief is appointed, and the same routine is followed, with a new set of names.

Now this is the sort of thing that is put up with in the great majority of our cities. The wonder is that the racketeers and gangsters haven't walked off bodily with most of our city halls.

If this federal campaign makes us realize that the war on crime ultimately stands or falls by local political conditions, it will be worth all its costs.

HONOR—AT TWENTY PACES!

The ancient and honorable custom of duelling is still observed in France; and one reason that a civilized people like the French put up with it might be that the people who take part in duels are such atrocious marksmen.

Roger de Tour, Royalist leader, fought a duel the other day with Deputy Jean Mistle, former cabinet member. They met on a rifle range near Carcassone, fired two shots apiece at a distance of 20 paces—and missed each other completely.

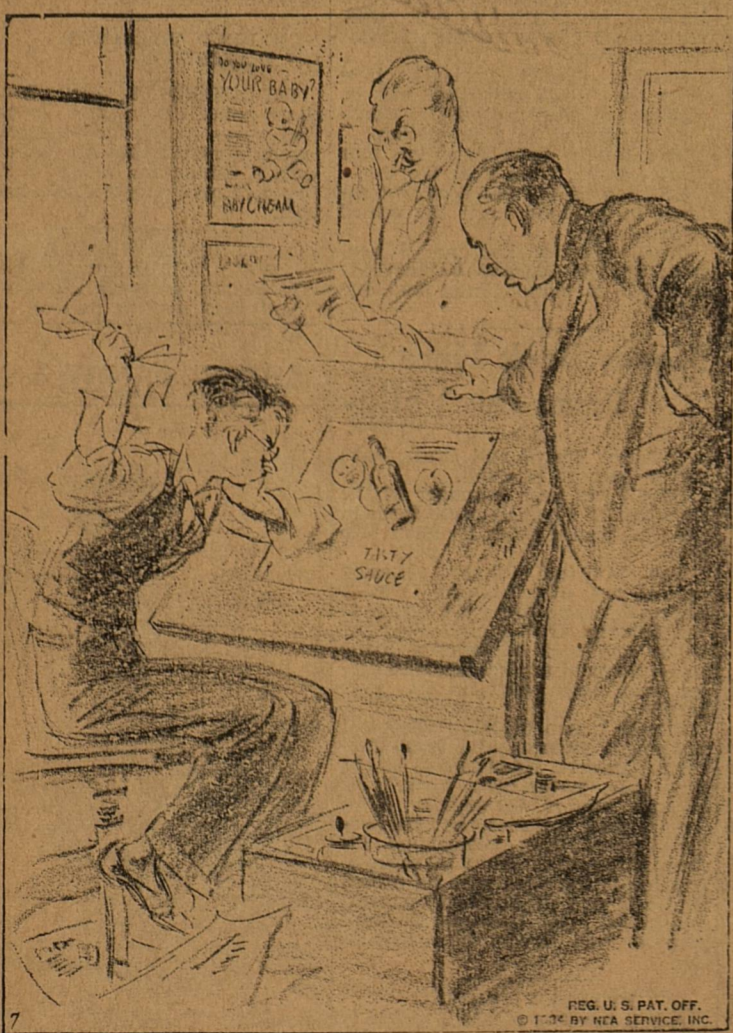

Honor, one gathers, was satisfied, and the men left the field unscathed.

How even the rottenest shot could miss a target the size of a human body—and miss it twice—at 20 paces is almost beyond comprehension. That two such miserable marksmen could be found at one time and place is even more incomprehensible.

But it's probably all for the best. Given such marksmen, the custom of duelling has everything to recommend it, and not a single observable drawback.

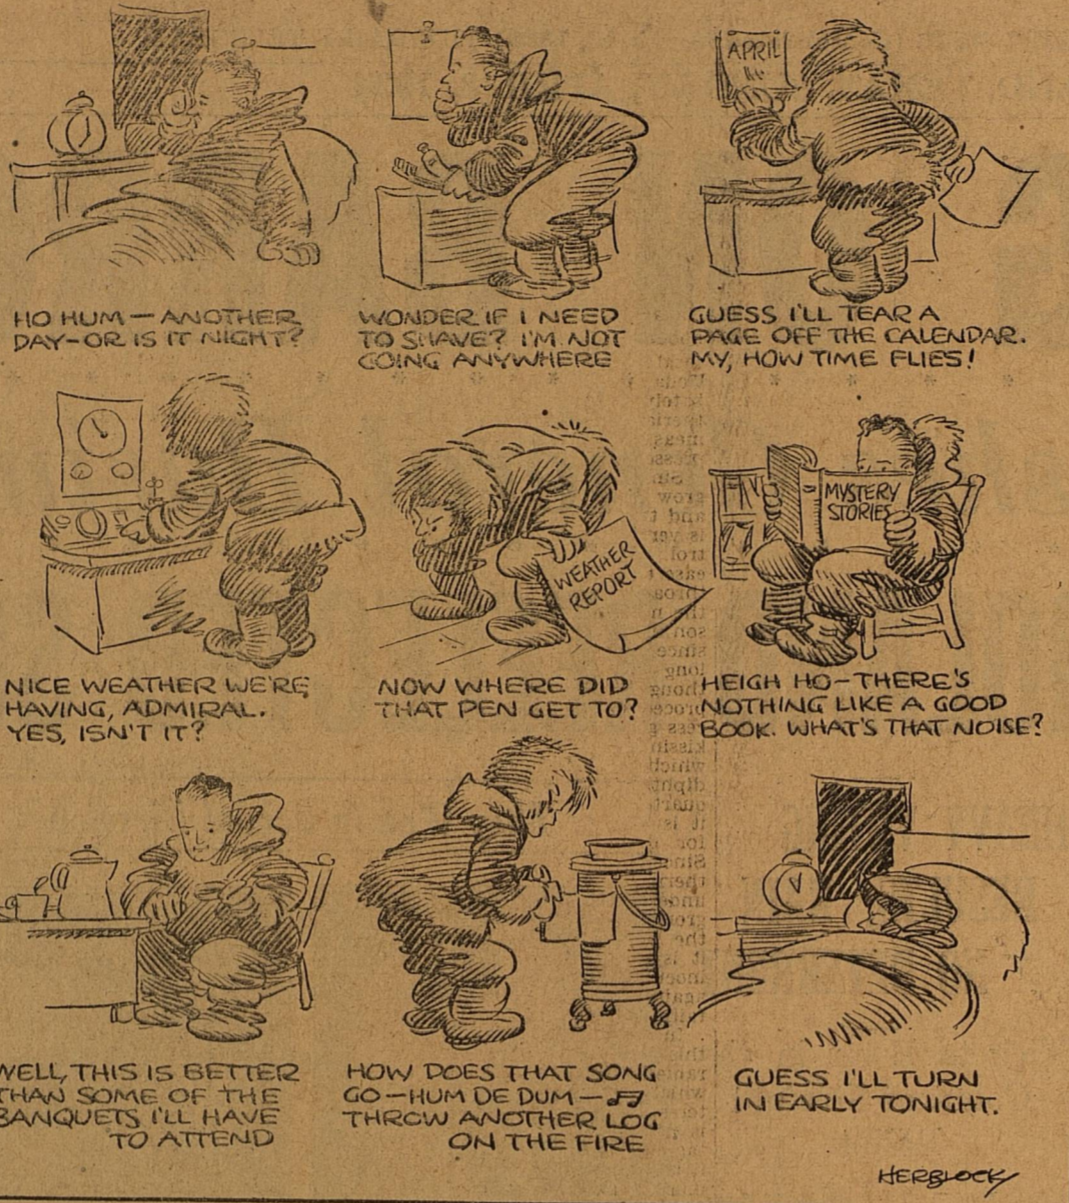

The value of a seat on the New York Stock Exchange dropped $29,000 over night. That's nothing to the drop of the value of the stock exchange.

Four outstanding leaders of the Baptist work address the association during the Thursday and Friday sessions. Chief speakers were Dr. Chalmers of New York who has ministered for Jews there; Hal P. Buckner of Buckner's orphan home at Dallas, who talked of the orphanage and its work; Jacob Carlenhous of Atlanta, Ga., who is head of the Jewish department of the Southern Baptist convention; and Miss Blanche Rose Walker of Abilene, returned missionary from China.

The church, during all the services, was attractively decorated with potted plants and spring blossoms in both the auditorium and the basement where the tables were set for the Friday session. Two Parties Given For Guest of Mrs. Alf Reese

Two parties were given this week end for Miss Corinne Moller of Wichita Falls, who is the guest of Mrs. Alf Reese, Miss Moller and her mother will be in class at Hookaday's school at Dallas.

Miss Pauline Hill was hostess with four tables of bridge in honor of Miss Moller Friday afternoon.

A color scheme of various shades of green was used in appointments of the bridge games, in which Mrs. Johnnie Ratliff won high score and Miss Bennie Sue Ratliff cut high. The honoree was also presented a lovely gift.

Playing were Misses Lucille Thomas, Eulalia Whitefield, Ruby Hodges, Martha Louise Nobles, Mary Belle Pratt, Ratliff, Annie Laurie Hix and Marie Hill. Mmes. J. F. Blount, Charles A. Lingo, Alf Reese, Wade Stevens, Ratliff, Hugh West, Ed Watts and the honor guest.

A bridge-breakfast given Saturday morning by Miss Mary Belle Pratt was the other compliment for Miss Moller.

Orchid and yellow were combined to form an attractive motif for appointments of the breakfast and belt buckle were carved from a wooden coat hanger. A short nail was driven through the button and a wire attached, so it could be sewed on the dress. Many farm women in this area are doing such work, through the help of home demonstration agents.

Miss Lydia Watson served on the nominations committee at the convention, adding to the list of offices held by Midland women.

"Extras" tell the spring sport news. Belts, buttons, and blouses, cowboy kerchiefs, and big gloves make the latest in sportswear. The sports mode an interesting one. Cowboy scarfs are something to watch. They come in soft, dark fawns stamped with light dots or figures and are worn with both suits and frocks. They are a smaller edition than the western cowboy's and are worn in a different fashion, for they are knotted in front. Gloves which go with the sports mode are big and loose as are a horseman's. They are made of heavy material on a big guntlet design and are always worn with the cuffs out over the sleeves. Buttons which fashion sport frocks are also interesting. Squares-cut out of sole leather and stitched with heavy thread, silver bullets and leather clips appear on coats and jackets, while frocks and blouses are fastened with silver shells and spoons.

The San Angelo library staff will give an especially hearty welcome to educators, to city and county officials, to legislators and candidates for office, all of whom have a valuable contribution to make to the plans for institutions of such social and economic desirability as libraries.

A library picture of Texas will be presented at this meeting—the State library's plan in the national movement, the relative standing of the State library, the progress made under the county library law and the vigorous efforts being put forth now to supply books, particularly to rural school children.

Graf's Sister Ship To Be Ready in Fall

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN. (U.P.)—LZ 129, the bigger and better sister of the Graf Zeppelin, rapidly is progressing in construction. At present the extremely important question of motors is in the last stage of discussion. If the constructors can make up their minds soon the newest dirigible may be ready this fall for its maiden trip.

By July, 1933, the mid-section of the dirigible, with eight principle and 24 auxiliary ribs and a total length of 121 meters, was finished. By September, 160 meters of framework were ready and since that time work has been pushed until at present only the stern skeleton, with its complicated steering apparatus, remains to be set in position.

Without the stern section, the ship measures 189 meters. The completed length will be 248 meters, 13 meters longer than the Graf. Despite the only slightly greater length, however, the LZ 129 will have almost double the gas capacity of the Graf. Its circumference will be 4120 meters compared with 3052 for the Graf Zeppelin, making for a respective carrying capacity of 200,000 as against 105,000 cubic meters.

Meantime the interior construction is rapidly progressing. The passenger cabins are well along, piping is at present being laid for hot and cold water. As an innovation, the used water will not be discharged, but will be conducted to a special tank as ballast. Other innovations to be installed in the LZ 129 include an electric lift to facilitate loading and unloading the cargo and huge wheels affixed to the pilot's gondola and the lower fin to aid in landing. These wheels can be turned in any direction.

The LZ 129 will be the first German airship on which smoking is permissible. This has been made possible by the introduction of a lifting agent of helium gas, hitherto confined to United States airships. The smoking room will be situated on the lower, or "B" deck, equipped with double doors and a veritable "sluice" through which smokers must pass entering or departing. Thus the fire hazard will be reduced to the absolute minimum.

After the stern portion has been finished, the "suit" of the LZ 129 will be tailored. The "pants" already have been completed, a total of 35,000 square meters of cotton-linen material, compared with the 20,000 of the Graf. The Zeppelin works has specifically bared silk or wool covering after becoming convinced after long experience that silk or artificial silk is not sufficiently waterproof, and wool lacking in elasticity.

The important choice of motors will probably be made by the end of March. The selection of this vital equipment has been delayed to give the constructors an opportunity to await tests of the latest Diesel types.

The LZ 129 will be the first airship equipped for crude oil locomotion. New types of Diesel motors recently have been perfected by each of the three factories mentioned above.

Whichever type is selected, the new airship will be equipped with four motors against the five of the Graf. They will be much more powerful, however, than any used in previous Zeppelin dirigibles; it is calculated that each will develop at least 1,200 horsepower at top speed.

TAX PAID SIGNS USED

ROCKLAND, Me. (U.P.)—Rockland is a tax-conscious city. The resident whose taxes have been paid displays in the window of store or home, a green honor seal bearing the seal of the city. The words: "Our City Taxes Are Paid to Jan. 1, 1934."

time off for good behavior and his extra time allowance for overtime work. The court of criminal appeals put a stop to that. Now his sentence is reduced by good behavior deductions. Then whatever extra time off he may have earned by service, is deducted from what remains. An attempt to fix allowances by statute was made at the last special sessions of the legislature. It passed the house, then it died on the senate calendar.

Regardless of the indeterminate sentence law, the governor can pardon or parole a convict at any time after sentence. In numerous instances, he is freed before he enters the penitentiary. The governor also may act independent of the state board of pardons and paroles. It is merely advisory so far as governor's clemency is concerned.

Monday Morning Breakfast Called for Getting Baseball Supporters in Line

Come up to the house for a duck supper—you bring the ducks. That's about the way a coffee and doughnut breakfast set for 6 o'clock Monday morning will be handled. The place is the private dining room of Hotel Schaubauer. Every baseball fan of the city is invited—to attend and to pay for his own.

The affair is strictly designed to get together supporters of the Midland ball club. The biggest town in the Permian basin is the only one that has been unable to get sufficient public backing. True enough, 14 individuals and establishments have donated new suits to the club—Hotel Schaubauer, First National bank, Midland Hardware company, Jax Motor company, Jack Wright's Service station, Lowe's Coodyear-Texaco station, Eveready Auto Service station, Southern Bell Telephone company, Texan club, Ritz theatre, Hotel Liano, The Rexall stores, Texas Electric Service company, Farmers' Co-Operative Gin company. But a baseball club does not play out a season—or even start one—on the support of only 14 people or firms.

It is particularly hoped that substantial business men will attend the meeting. Election of a president and secretary-treasurer of the club is intended. Ideas for injecting a cordial of some kind into the field baseball pulse here will be discussed. Midland was one a baseball town, and was known for such throughout the country. Now the scattering that watches the clubs play on the prairie (not in a park any longer) is only a wraith of the crowds that once whooped and yelled in appreciation for good baseball. Some tell you they'd go to games if they had a stand to sit in or a good club to watch. There's a reason in that, all right; but it must be remembered no one builds a stand and hires a great ball club on the assumption the public might become educated and start attending games. On the contrary, the public starts playing better ball, adding players and, when baseball has become a fixture, building bigger and better parks.

It is evident from reports made by Byron this is the last attempt he will make to get the public to play on the prairie. He has tried unsuccessfully to get the interest of the public to a white heat and then anneal it by good baseball. With the heavy rains and the foment of optimism suggestively felt, it is not unreasonable to suppose business men will get their dimes and start for the meeting prepared to help.

Fred Girdley, who likely has played on every baseball club Midland has produced since 1925, has been made agent of the Gulf Production company here, succeeding Red Knight. Fred has several unusual records tagging his reputation. Playing football for the school in 1926 and 1927, he was used in every position on the club. The first year saw him start at center and work to the right, then to the left. When the season was over he had well filled every position in the line. The next season saw him in the back-field, starting with quarter and ending at full. An unusual matter. In baseball he and Kenneth Johnson did the hurling, and Midland played in a four-corner loop with Odesa, Stanton and Big Spring as opponents. High school baseball teams in those days were smart and went in for winning like town teams of today. For instance, Midland lost but one game in 1927, to Stanton. That was the last regular season the school played. New suits bought then are as good as new now, will be used this afternoon by town team in case the diamond dries enough.

Girdley and Wade Heath are the only members of the old school team who play much today. And Heath is seen on the diamond less and less. Girdley is scheduled to try a comeback at pitching, announces Byron. His left flipper was injured in 1931 in a game against the Fort D. A. Russell Cavalrymen from Marfa. He had pitched the day before and, on Sunday, the day afterward, was in the outfield. A ball was hit that fell in Girdley's hands near the Elizee park fence and the fielder-pitcher cut loose and threw for home, his cold arm almost going with the ball. He ceased pitching soon afterward.

In case Midland and Big Spring are able to play this afternoon it is hoped a good crowd will be out to see the practice affair. Lowering clouds Saturday afternoon, and continual showers, did not indicate the chances for the game were worth much on the futurities market.

The "Pioneer Woman" statue at Ponca City, Okla., has been visited by 300,000 persons since its erection in 1930.

Resources and Citizenship

The great area surrounding Midland is rich in resources—cattle, agriculture, oil and their accompanying allied industries. Since the first settlement of the country it has been said that this area can "come back" more quickly than any section in the world. Coupled with these resources is a strong citizenship—workers, builders, people with faith and confidence. This bank is proud of the part it has had in aiding development of its territory and maintains confidence in the "come back" which seems now to be definitely at hand.

Reporter-Telegram All Electric Cooking School to Be Held from April 17-20; Mrs. Ethyl Warren Will Conduct the Sessions

Continuing a custom established four years ago, The Reporter-Telegram will stage its spring cooking school April 17, 18, 19 and 20. As on last year, the school will be known as The Reporter-Telegram All Electric cooking school.

Sessions of each of the four days will be held in the mornings, beginning at 9:30 o'clock, at the Yucca theatre. The event will be held in cooperation with the Texas Electric Service company, with Mrs. Ethyl J. Warren as conductor.

Mrs. Warren is home economist for the General Electric company. R. L. Miller, district manager of the utilities company, said she was recommended to him as an outstanding lecturer and demonstrator, one who will interest the housewives keenly in both practical and novelty ideas of food preparation.

The morning school, tried for the first time last spring, was found to have unanimous appeal to women, in that it did not conflict with social engagements and club activities.

Local business institutions, as well as national manufacturers of goods, will cooperate in the school, as on previous occasions. It is planned this time to make the representatives more personalized, giving those attending the school opportunity to learn more of the business houses and the service they render.

Prizes will be given each day, to add to the interest of the school and to make it more profitable to both the audiences and the sponsors.

Warfield Girl's Club Plants Vegetables

A meeting of the Warfield Girl's club was held Friday morning at the school building and was conducted by Miss Myrtle Miller, home demonstration agent.

After the meeting, members went to the home of Leota Crain and planted vegetables in a hot bed. Beets, tomatoes, lettuce, and radishes were planted.

Club members are going to plant their own gardens and plant the seed.

Care, Treatment Of Diseases Is Paper's Subject

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following paper was prepared and read before the County Public Health board, by Mrs. Don Carlos Davis, and is published at the request of members.

Up to the present time, the most significant advances in public health achievement have been made in the field of communicable diseases, particularly among young children. This is a clear indication of the seriousness with which these diseases are considered by the leading health authorities of our country.

Due to an old fashioned idea that has long been prevalent, many parents are still of the opinion that it is wise to let small children contract the common contagious diseases in order to get them over with before the child starts to school.

But there is a very good reason why this should never be done. Particularly all contagious diseases are harder on the very young child than on an older one, and this is especially true of whooping cough and measles. One-half of all the deaths that occur from whooping cough (and there are a great many more than one would suspect) occur in children who are less than one year of age, and ninety-five percent of all deaths from whooping cough occur in children who are less than five years of age.

Susceptibility to this disease is very great, there being but few people who escape it after coming in contact with the germs. Hence it is very important that children having whooping cough never be allowed to come in contact with well children who have not had the disease, as these germs live only a very short while outside the body, and contact is seldom later than except through close contact.

And child with whooping cough should receive close attention from a doctor, as there are several complications to the disease which are highly dangerous. Among these perhaps the worse are bronchitis and broncho-pneumonia. A condition known as meningitis may result. This is dilation of the spaces of the lungs. Convulsions are not uncommon with whooping cough, especially in infants, and these are very serious and may be fatal. Pulmonary and glandular tuberculosis is frequently developed following whooping cough, and there is also danger of a weakened condition of the system as a result of the repeated strain.

Another disease which has shown no response to preventative medicines is measles. Since there is no means of vaccinating against this disease, which is extremely contagious, most children have it some time in their life. But the longer you can put this off for your children the better, for complications are much more likely to appear in very young children than in older ones, with the greatest number of fatalities occurring in children of from 2 to 5 years.

A bulletin published in El Paso in March of this year stated that already 56 children have died of measles in that city since January. This should certainly help to dispel the idea that measles is simply an unimportant childhood disease, and should make us all give it the gravest concern. Any child who has measles, or is known to have been exposed to them, should be carefully kept from all well children, and should have skillful attention from the family doctor. In very malignant cases the complications include convulsions, and bronchial pneumonia, both of which are frequently fatal. Other conditions which often follow measles are diseases of the ears, the heart or the skin.

These two diseases, measles and whooping cough, are the two most common ailments for which doctors have not yet found preventative measures, and in consideration of their danger and the great responsibility of infection from them, one cannot too greatly emphasize the need for caution, not only in protecting your own child against them, but in seeing that your child does not spread the infection, should it have the disease.

Chief among the contagious diseases that have come under the control of preventative measures we find small-pox, typhoid fever, diphtheria, and quite recently scarlet fever. The doctors Dick of Chicago, husband and wife, have within recent years, developed a toxin which may be used in very small doses to determine whether or not a person is susceptible to scarlet fever, and which, given in much larger doses, will immunize against the disease. This test is called the Dick test and is similar to the Schick test, which has been in practice for a decade or more in determining immunity to diphtheria.

While this is a relatively new development it has been given a thorough trial in the schools of Gary, Indiana, and it has been pronounced a safe procedure and a valuable asset in fighting this dread disease. The experiment is too new for doctors to tell yet how long this immunization will last, but even though it was of comparatively short duration, it would certainly be advisable to keep your family immunized because scarlet fever is considered by the well informed as one of the most vicious of childhood diseases.

This is partly because an attack may be so serious as to cause death within a short time, and partly because of the many and grave complications with which it may be attended. In very bad cases the symptoms are so severe that the patient will die within 24 to 36 hours, with extremely high fever, and convulsions. Cases which seem mild at the outset may develop into conditions of great variety and severity.

Common among these are inflammation of the sinuses, middle ear disease, inflammation of the lining membranes of the heart, inflammation of the lymph glands, and joint infections. All cases of this disease should be carefully quarantined, and be given the best of medical attention.

Small-pox, because it has been recognized for many, many years as a disease of great seriousness, does not present so great a problem to public health authorities as do the more lightly considered measles, whooping cough and chicken pox. People are usually willing to submit to quarantine for small pox, who might resent this same measure being used for these other diseases. At the present time there seems little excuse for any intelligent person to have small pox in their family, since it is possible to obtain complete immunity to have or use small pox, or to have their children vaccinated before they are one year old, as the reaction seems to be even more slight at that period than at any later time. In two or three northern states this measure is considered so important that the states do not impose quarantine for small pox, it being assumed that persons wishing not to have small pox may avoid it by vaccination, and that it is unfair to impose the expense of quarantine upon local communities simply because a few persons neglect taking this protection. This attitude is in full keeping with the federal government, which protects the citizen in his inalienable right to have or not to have small pox, or to be or not to be vaccinated.

Typhoid fever is another disease which has come under control to a very gratifying degree. Being a water-borne disease it is more open to attack from organized sources of health protection than are those diseases which are transmitted through the air. Practically all local governments have laws regarding the water and milk supplies which are very helpful in keeping down typhoid. It is also an established fact that a person can be rendered comparatively safe from typhoid by inoculation.

The duration of this immunity is not exactly known, but it is certainly safe to be vaccinated for typhoid every three years. It is especially necessary for people to take this precaution before the vaccination period begins, since so many people spend their vacations on automobile trips to out-of-the-way places, or in rural communities where due precaution to infection are neglected. The spread of this disease is carried on by germs which come from the kidney and bowel discharges of patients suffering from typhoid, and unless the most sanitary methods are used for disposal of this human waste, a serious epidemic may result from a very small beginning.

For example, there occurred in Montreal, Canada, in 1927, an outbreak of typhoid fever in which more than 5000 cases were reported and 524 deaths were recorded. This tragic instance serves to impress upon us the necessity for adequate public health protection.

Diphtheria is one of the most tragic diseases, mainly because a child can be practically dead with it before the parents realize that he is more than slightly ill. Up until a decade ago little was known about it except the fact that it was fatal in more than half the cases. Today practically every child can be safely immunized against diphtheria and the importance of this measure cannot be too deeply impressed upon parents.

Since the germs of diphtheria grow and multiply within the nose and throat of the victim, its spread is very rapid and very hard to control. In the transfer of this disease the secretion from the nose or throat of the patient must pass to the nose or throat of another person in a more or less fresh state, since these germs do not live very long outside the body. And although this is a very unpleasant procedure to contemplate, the process goes on just the same, through kissing, through handling of objects which have been handled by the diphtheria patient, and in close quarters, by merely breathing. Hence it is evident that prompt isolation for diphtheria is most necessary. Since the greatest number of diphtheria cases occur in the age group under five years, and since this group has practically no sense of the principles of personal hygiene, it is evident that immunization by inoculation is the only protection against diphtheria in which any faith can be placed.

In the study made in preparing this paper some facts concerning rabies or hydrophobia, were learned which it seemed should be of interest to the board members. This is not considered an ordinary contagious disease by most people, yet it is highly contagious, and is much more common than is generally suspected. It is of unusual interest because of the violent and terrifying symptoms which characterize it, and because once the disease has developed it practically always ends fatally.

One treacherous aspect of the disease is the great length of time which elapses after the bite of the rabid animal before any disturbances are noted in the victim. This is usually one to two months. It is not necessary for a person to be bitten by a mad dog to contract rabies, as the germ is conveyed in the saliva, and may be inoculated by the tongue of the animal, as in the licking of a hand upon which there is a wound. And this may happen even though the wound is a mere pin stick.

It is a common belief that rabies is prevalent only in summer, but there may be quite as much of it in December as in August. Another erroneous belief is that mad dogs always run wild, froth at the mouth and carry their tails between their legs. These symptoms are not always displayed, although they may be. Besides this furious type of rabies just described there is a mute or dumb type, and also a paralytic type. This latter type is especially dangerous as it is so often mistaken for something else.

The paralysis is present in the muscles of the throat and jaw and the animal often appears to be choking. This is when the sympathetic owner tries to remove the imaginary bone and is bitten. Always suspect any sick dog of hydrophobia, especially if he shows a marked change in disposition, or if his jaw hangs as though some foreign object were in his throat. Chain him up securely and handle him with the greatest of caution. If the dog has rabies the disease will manifest itself within a few days. Animals killed in the early stages of the disease cannot be properly diagnosed, even by the most careful laboratory test. Therefore it is important to confine the beast until it has shown unmistakable signs of the disease. It should then be killed, its head packed securely in ice and sent to the nearest laboratory. If the case proves to be rabies the victim of the animal's bite should at once begin to take the Pasteur treatment.

It has the stuff that makes a winner in any grueling test . . . speed to go into the lead and the endurance to hold that lead to the finish. For it takes more than speed to win under the severest racing conditions. It takes efficiency of a rare order and the ability to keep going when the others drop out.

That's why record-breaking automobiles, speed boats and seaplanes use the V-type engine. And like these V-type engines, the Ford V-8 can take it.
