ZERO HOUR ON WAR FRONT NEAR

Short Course Session Ends with Program This Evening

Speakers Here

Above are the four speakers of the International Harvester company short course being held through this evening at the Yucca theatre. From top to bottom are H. S. Mobley, Grace Marian Smith, L. A. Hawkins and John M. Hanson, landscape artist. Hawkins made the opening address of the session and will close this evening's program when he talks on "Beautifying the Home Grounds." Mobley spoke twice Monday, and this morning talked on "Cooperative Marketing." Miss Smith spoke this afternoon on "Feeding the Family." Great crowds have heard all speakers and applause shows the lectures are being enjoyed.

Spies Is Charged With Cattle Theft

"Shorty" Spies, held in the county jail at Odessa on a charge of theft, was charged this week by Joe Hogan, cattle inspector, with theft of cattle.

His trial has been set for the next term of district court, which convenes in March.

CROWD IS EXPECTED TO BE BIG

Beautification Will Be Explained in Lecture

What is hoped to be the biggest crowd of the two-day farmers short course is expected at the closing session this evening at 7:30 when a lecture on "Beautifying the Home Grounds" is given and colored slides are projected on the Yucca theatre screen.

Crowds this morning were smaller than those of Monday, but a good crowd was in the theatre during the afternoon program.

This morning, Elliott H. Barron presided. The Rev. Howard Peters pronounced the invocation; the Men's chorus sang under the direction of W. W. Lackey; Mrs. Roy Parks, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Holt Jowell, sang, and L. A. Hawkins, representative of the International Harvester company, spoke on "Home Gardens." Pictures illustrated his speech.

At the afternoon session, over which Joseph A. Seymour presided, Mrs. Rawlins Clark played a piano number; the glee club of the high school sang, under the direction of W. W. Lackey; the Rev. Winston F. Borum conducted a community singing, and Miss Grace Marian Smith, harvester company representative, spoke on "Feeding the Family."

Coffee and sandwiches were served everyone at the noon hour, through the courtesy of the M-system stores.

Due to the lecture this evening holding more than the usual interest for Midland, inasmuch as the time is almost here for beautifying home grounds and the new park donated by Mr. and Mrs. John Haley, a great crowd is expected.

Mayor Leon Goodman will preside at this closing session.

Beautification Lecture Is Given Tonight

Midland people interested in parks and beautifying their yards and home grounds, will learn some valuable data from the program tonight at the Yucca, according to program leaders. The program is on "Beautifying the Home Grounds." Colored pictures will be shown of beautiful home grounds, park scenes and yards.

Dance Numbers Add to Program

Pupils of the Vickers studio appeared in dance numbers during the evening program.

Jessa Lynn Tuttle opened the dance feature, with acrobatic stunts. Tap dances were given by the Midland class five-year olds, who include Norma Jean Stice, Camilla Jane Taylor, and Frances Irene Palmer.

The three-year old midlets dancing taps were Dorothy Lynn Butler, Joan Stanley, Nina Marie Mitchell and June Journeycake. Minnie Lee Walton gave a solo dance.

The Farmerette girls costumed in pajamas and wearing garden hats closed the presentation. They included Read Thomas, Francis Eaton, Ernestine Holder, Allie May Adams, Lela Lord, Jessa Lynn Tuttle, Virginia Gay, Pady Sue Whitcomb, Francis Burris and Mary Elizabeth Newman.

The United Dry Goods company furnished the hats for the final number.

Monday Evening Session Well Liked

An interesting program was given at the short course Monday evening.

John Bonner presided; the Rev. W. J. Coleman offered an invocation; an orchestra, directed by O. L. Walton, was highly appreciated by the good crowd; Mrs. W. C. Glazner of Stanton sang; Mary Margaret Galhoun read; community singing was led by the Rev. Winston F. Borum and H. S. Mobley spoke for several minutes on "Communities Are Made of Folks." Motion pictures were shown.

Ray Hyatt Speaks Tonight at Lodge

Ray Hyatt, past commander of the Knights Templar, will address the Midland commandery this evening.

A past commander's jewel will be presented to Dr. L. B. Pemberton. District Judge Charles L. Klepproth has been asked to make the presentation address, according to Roy McKee, commander.

All Sir Knights are urged to be present.

Blankety--Blank!

"X!@!#!" and similar profanity may earn you a cell in the Allentown jail.

For Mayor F. E. Lewis and the city council have decreed that vile language must go, and a new city ordinance penalizes offenders with a variety of fines and jail sentences—depending upon the nastiness of the words used.

"X!@!#!", for instance, probably would draw a fine no greater than $5.

"X!@!#!", however—especially if uttered within earshot of a policeman—undoubtedly would deserve a maximum fine of $300.

And you wouldn't dare to say "X!@!#!" even to your best friend without receiving the maximum jail term, which is 90 days.

The new anti-profanity ordinance is a part of a city-wide clean-up campaign, aimed at speakeasies and other illicit hangouts. The mayor has announced that though beer parlors must cease operating, organizations which serve beer with dinner will not be disturbed.

SEN. SHEPPARD SUPPORTS GARNER FOR PRESIDENCY

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 16. (UP)—Senator Morris Sheppard endorsed John N. Garner for president today in a letter received by Mayor Chambers which is to be read at a Garner rally Monday.

Supporters considered it an effective answer to reports that the speaker would not have the dry support.

Four Teachers Ill With Flu

The epidemic of influenza has struck the ranks of teachers in the public schools.

Four teachers, Miss Lena Solomon, Miss Alene McKenzie, Mrs. David Wright and J. H. Williams, were out of school this morning.

Lion and Rotary Lunches Together

Tells Weird Tale Of His Abduction

CLEVELAND, Feb. 16. (UP)—His body covered with bruises, Harry A. Blagden, Lake Placid camp operator, lay in bed at the home of a friend here today.

He told police a weird tale of his escape from kidnappers who, he said, seized him at Lake Placid last Friday.

Almost unconscious he stumbled into Claude Peak's home last night. He was brought here in a closed delivery truck.

Blagden escaped by beating his guard on the head with his own gun.

$75,000 FIRE AT B'SPRING

Alleged Burglar Is Arrested During Excitement

BIG SPRING, Feb. 16. (UP)—A $75,000 damage in the business district was caused by fire last night.

The blaze damaged a grocery store, hotel, taxicab office, barber shop and a dry goods store.

No one suffered injuries.

A man, accused of breaking into a jewelry store window during the excitement of the fire, was arrested.

Taylor Long, Midland man who was in Big Spring during the fire, said the blaze started in the Ward hotel, and that the Austin-Jones Dry Goods company, the Fox Drug company and a sign shop were damaged by water.

MOBLEY HITS POPULAR NOTE IN HIS TALK

H. S. Mobley, in beginning his Monday night short course talk on "Communities are Made of Folks," pointed out that this town of ours "is not your town, or my town, but our town." It is something in common to all of us living in it—a community proposition, and to have a real town we must have a community spirit, not a one-man spirit.

"To many of us," he said, "the word 'town' means a group of buildings separated by streets and alleys, containing some stores, some factories, some banks, some residences, a few churches and school houses; but that is not the proper idea of a town. It is in accordance with the dictionary definition of the word, but it is not in accordance with a community idea of a town."

"There are two elements in anything that involves human life under civilized conditions," he explained. "They are production and distribution. Some people must labor to produce; others must labor to buy and sell. One is an essential; either alone, is a weakness, in fact, impossible.

"The place we usually call a town is merely a business district or trade center. Around it are the farms, or the mines, or the fisheries, where men labor to produce and from where they come to this business district to sell and buy and transact the business end of their labor. I have heard it said that the town and country are separate; that their interests are not mutual. This is a great mistake. Each depends upon the other. Each is as necessary as the other. The country cannot live without the town; neither can the town live without the country, but the town and country, by uniting what they have of production and distribution, can create such a condition of comfort and happiness as will constitute a real community of human beings.

"Communities are made of folks," he said, "and not of houses, and farms and factories. The houses, farms, mines, factories, banks and stores are all necessary but the human back of them determine what they are to be. The higher type of the people, the better the physical plant of the community."

"The difference between this community today, its houses, its factories—all its physical conditions—and the same community when the Indians lived here is to be traced to the difference between the people who are here now and the people who were here then."

Mobley suggested that we study our town. In some communities, he said, the people look on their town as though they are not responsible for it and as a result they are dead and their town is dead.

HOUSTON MILK WAR CONTINUES, WITH ARBITERS VAINLY SEEKING TO END IT

HOUSTON, Feb. 16. (UP)—The chamber of commerce today attempted to arrange a second meeting of milk producers and distributors to settle a "war" which followed a one-cent a quart reduction by distributors.

Photos Win

Every time her husband gave her a black eye, Mrs. Helen F. Egan hurried to a photographer and had her picture taken.

When she decided she had enough, she presented the photographs as evidence in court and Judge Craig Hood gave her a divorce from Redmond J. Egan Jr., city hall clerk.

Then the judge gave Egan six months in jail.

250 ON TOUR SEE INDUSTRY AT WORK HERE

About 250 rural school boys and girls, their parents and a sprinkling of town people went on the industrial tour conducted Monday afternoon by the Midland chamber of commerce.

Following the afternoon program at the Yucca theatre, the party went to the Southland Dairy Products company plant to see Dairyland ice cream made.

The next place visited was the Midland Bottling works. C. B. Dunagan served Sunshine soda water to all of the visitors. Acting Manager Drew Dunn and Buster Howard showed the visitors how to make ice at the Southern Ice & Utilities company plant, and the school pupils tried going on cold storage.

After a visit to boot shops to see cobbling and boot-making in progress, the party was conducted to My bakery. Curtis Bond showed them how to make bread and showed the various rich ingredients which go into his bread. He served everyone with cookies and cakes.

The last visit of the day was to the plant of the Southwestern Bell Telephone company. The group was met by W. G. Riddle, district manager; Fred Chapman, plant manager; A. B. Coleman, local manager and J. F. Blount, traffic manager.

The ice cream plant served pop-sicles to everyone.

Riddle had the tour so arranged that the visitors saw the intricate instruments in operation and were invited to ask all the questions they wished. Employees returned to their posts in order to entertain and instruct the visitors. Pretty girl employees served as many helpings of punch to the visitors as they could drink.

The tour was highly enjoyed by the visitors, they declared. They had fun and instruction. It was declared valuable to those who furnished the entertainment and refreshments, as the guide at each place urged all persons who like their community to buy products made in Midland.

They got tired of eating fish and traded one large cat at Fort Stockton for their dinners in a restaurant.

The Midland fishermen left here Wednesday and returned Sunday evening.

A Wet Dry

Mrs. Ida M. Darden, above, Democrat, of Fort Worth, Tex., says she doesn't know the difference between a highball and a gin fizz, and wouldn't drink either if she did, but she's a candidate for Congress on a platform with only one plank—repeal of the 18th amendment. "Citizens are tired of listening to prohibition hypocrites who defend the dry laws in one breath and use the next to brag about their home brew," she said.

MA WILL TRY FOR GOVERNOR

Cowden Shoots 33 To Tie Hagen Mark

There have been games and games of golf, but save for the brilliancy of the Hagen-Kirkwood-Cowden-Jackson match more than a year ago, country club has never witnessed better golf than an informal match Sunday.

J. Ellis Cowden, paired with Sandy Auchterlonie, pro at the club, stroked to the turn in 33, which ties the course record set by Walter Hagen. The Midlanders were playing Howe and Watson of Pecos, and were 25 up out of a possible 36 on 18 holes of "low ball, low total" golf.

Cowden missed a three-foot putt on No. 8, or would have smashed the course record for nine holes. His in round was a 38, however, to give him a total of 71.

Auchterlonie, playing his usual steady game, shot the round in a 70, making the outer nine in 34, two under par, and the in round with an even par.

Farmer Jim Lathered Over Papers and Their Attitude

AUSTIN, Feb. 16. (UP)—Mrs. Miriam Ferguson will seek to regain the governorship on a platform of economy.

The formal announcement statement of the candidacy was sent to the newspapers for release Thursday, arousing the wrath of the candidate's husband, Farmer Jim.

Editors and press associations were carrying the story fully today.

Mrs. Ferguson wrote The Reporter-Telegram Sunday as follows: "Responding to the written request of more than 400 friends in 200 counties in Texas that I again enter the service of the state and pledging their active support, I hereby announce as a candidate for governor. These friends assure me that there is an urgent demand for my candidacy not only from all former supporters, but from thousands who have heretofore opposed me. They further say that there is a widespread dissatisfaction with the present administration of state affairs and that the public is demanding relief from governmental inefficiency and extravagance.

"While I am not anxious to, nor will I enter into any scramble for office, yet I do not feel that any citizen is at liberty to decline to render public service in time of public need. My family having been in the past signally honored I recognize a special obligation to heed the call of the people of Texas if I am needed or wanted in the public service. I sincerely hope that the contest in which we are about to engage will be conducted on the basis of merit rather than personal antagonism. "Who can best serve Texas" should be the uppermost thought in the minds of the voter when the time comes to cast the ballot in our democratic primary.

"In addition, to my connection with and my experience in the governor's office, I shall avail myself of the advice and cooperation of competent friends, of the legislature and my husband in determining a policy which will relieve our present perilous condition of our state affairs.

"In submitting my name as a candidate I deem it proper to take the people into my confidence and tell them that I am not financially able to make any extensive or expensive campaign and will have to leave myself in the hands of my friends in the various counties of the state. I will go into office again, as in the past, under no promise or obligation. (See MA FERGUSON page 6)

OUR CLUMSY CIVILIZATION

Perhaps the gravest charge that can be made against American civilization today is that it is clumsy. By that, of course, is meant simply that it no longer seems able to adapt itself quickly or easily to changed conditions.

An extremely homely and commonplace illustration will show how that is. A menu card from the dining room of a large hotel in Kansas City came to hand recently.

One combination, offered cooked cereal with cream, toast and coffee, was listed at 50 cents. The second, offering fruit, a rasher of bacon, toast and coffee, listed at 75 cents.

Now at this moment the prices of foodstuffs is about as low as it has ever been. The farmer has to sell his eggs at approximately 15 cents a dozen.

And yet, in a hotel in the very heart of the richest farming land in North America, you must pay a dollar and a quarter for an orange, a plate of bacon and eggs and some toast and coffee!

Now all of this, of course, is not exactly anyone's fault. Any hotel man will assure you, plaintively, that hotel owners are not getting rich these days; indeed, the hotel is breaking even considers itself lucky.

But somewhere there is a lag, a clumsiness, that lands three cents worth of eggs in a place of honor on a $1.25 breakfast.

Our national life won't be healthy until we have found some way of cutting down price discrepancies of that kind.

BUNKUM ON THE RADIO

Weary radio listeners will be interested to know that two bills have been introduced in Congress to cut down on the high-pressure advertising talks which clutter up most broadcasts.

One bill would merely eliminate commercial talks from Sunday programs. The other, much more drastic, would prohibit any announcer from indulging in any sort of advertising talk except the bare statement that "this program is sponsored by the Zilch Company."

The goal at which this measure aims is all to the good. The ordinary radio fan undoubtedly would have a terrific sigh of relief if the bunkum and blah could be cut out of supposed "entertainment" broadcasts.

WHISKY A TRADEMARK?

One of those interesting but unimportant lawsuits that pop up every so often seems to have come to light in Berlin, where six British distilleries have filed suit to prohibit a German distillery from calling its product whisky.

Whisky, the plaintiffs say, is strictly a British name—so much so that distilled liquor which is made anywhere else is not really whisky at all.

As a footnote testifying to the persistence of England's famous insular provincialism, this is an entertaining little item. And it is probable that few Americans will be disposed to argue with the English contention.

After all, a lot of distilled liquor is made in the United States—but is it called whisky, these days? It is not. The ordinary citizen refers to it by one of two names, moon, or corn.

School Notes

ECONOMICS CLUB MEET

The home economics club met in regular session Tuesday. The subject of the program was "Wise Choices for a High School Girl." The following program was given: Club Song, Choosing Her Books, Virginia Hawkins, Reading, Beulah Mae Brunson, Choosing School Subjects, Phyllis Haag, Piano solo, Annie Johnson.

CAN YOU IMAGINE—

Some students without dates for the banquet? Viola not smiling? Bill Hogsett a careless driver? Every student taking a "special declaration?"

BELIEVE IT OR NOT

Pauline thought it very cute because the juniors used her name in the play. Conrad got sick this week—too much night air. George has his eye open. "What!" A girl.

Virginia has a big fellow. Ernestine got a pleasant surprise at the end of the play. J. E. Hill got his English lesson last Tuesday. Vann Mitchell almost had another date this month.

Tom Collins certainly has a dainty feminine form. The band has prospects for sweaters. G. E. nominated someone beside Harriet. Carl Reeves disappeared in a cloud of dust.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Beautiful Ellen Rossiter, a salesgirl in Barclay's department store, lives with her mother, Molly Rossiter, and her elder sister, Myra, and her young brother, Mike. The two girls support the family. Molly foolishly spends money saved to pay the rent. Steven Barclay, a man of 57 and Ellen's employer, lends her an evening dress so she can secure a job dancing night at Dreamland.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XII "How do you know it's Mr. Barclay?" Myra demanded as Ellen leaped from bed, reached for a flannel dressing gown and belted it over her pajamas.

"He asked yesterday if he might call here some time." "Did you give him Mrs. Clancy's number?" "No, but I guess it's on file. He must have looked up my card at the store."

The bedroom door opened and Molly entered. She was visibly excited. Her black curly hair stood out in little drake-tails. Her blue eyes blazed. For once she had not even taken time to powder her pretty face.

"Hurry, child," she said to Ellen. "You mustn't keep Mr. Barclay waiting. It's bad enough having no telephone."

Again Ellen felt a rising irritation. "What makes you so sure it's Mr. Barclay?" she snapped. "I've got a hunch," Molly admitted, dimpling and smiling mysteriously. "Don't be so slow, honey."

"I can't run through the halls with no stockings on, can I?" Ellen took a quick brush at her hair, slipped into pumps and ran out of the apartment and down the four flights of stairs. The only telephone in the house was in Mrs. Clancy's apartment on the first floor.

The Wrong Foundation!

Doukhobor Ruler Ends Cult Style War, Makes a Fortune

Because he solved the flapper nudity problem in the quaint religious colony of Doukhobors, Peter Verigin (shown in the inset at the lower left) has enjoyed the supreme loyalty of the strange Western Canada religious sect. He has acquired $720,000, mostly in gifts from sect members, in the past four years.

Verigin straightened out all the trouble with perjury charges against a member of his sect. Blast Kills Father Peter Verigin the Younger came back from Russia to take over the Doukhobor high priesthood four years ago when his father, Peter the Elder, patriarch of the cult, perished in a mysterious bomb explosion aboard a Canadian National railway train.

It was thought Peter the Elder may have been slain by dissatisfied Doukhobor extremists. Young Peter found the Doukhobor colony of some 15,000 members torn by strife. Doukhobor flappers couldn't agree on the proposition that clothes are a sin and that nudity is a sign of the simple, Christian life.

Placid Doukhobor matrons, used to nudity, were peevish at their daughters. Other Doukhobors were in rebellion against the Canadian government. They wouldn't pay taxes. They wouldn't send their children to school.

When the Canadian "mounties" swooped down on them, the rebellious Doukhobors would take off their clothes on the public highway, thereby shocking not only all good citizens but His Majesty's government as well.

Verigin straightened out all the trouble. He converted the flappers and consoling the dowagers. He convinced the authorities that the rebellious members of the sect who were burning schools and getting into all sorts of trouble were outcasts with Communist leanings. So the mounties then left Verigin's Doukhobors alone.

Questioned concerning his income while on the stand here, Verigin said that most of the $720,000 "was given to me by members of Doukhobor communities because they like me."

The Town Quack

(Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.)

A radio broadcasting station has added two ring-tailed monkeys to its studio. The crooners ought to pick up a few new ideas.

And then there was the fellow who thought a bicentennial was a viamint.

I understand there is some effort being made to observe the George Washington Bicentennial here in a substantial way and I am hoping such plans materialize. It is good news that we are going to have a park and I hope everyone will turn out Monday to the new site donated by Mr. and Mrs. Haley and enjoy the program.

It does all of us good to get wise to the other fellow's business and the terms he uses. And, as was announced, the meeting last night was just what everybody needed. It dealt with the community and the folks that make it. Come out tonight and hear some interesting things about landscaping. Some beautiful lantern slides will be used for illustration and there will be plenty of music and extra numbers on the program.

Our circulation man thought a girl with a dark past was one who used the colony has been colorful from the start. The Doukhobors were led from Russia to Canada in 1889 by Verigin's father, who reigned supreme.

He established his colony on rich Canadian farm land, and they all prospered. At the height of the elder Verigin's career, he rode from village to village on a cart, surrounded by beautiful damsels who chanted songs to him.

Young Peter and his mother, shocked by the father's indifference to conventions, went back to Russia nearly 25 years ago.

In Russian Prison There young Peter joined an organization opposed to the czarist government. When Peter the Elder died at Brilliant, chief town of the colony in British Columbia, young Peter was in a Russian prison under sentence of death.

Anxious to have the rulership descend to an heir of their famous leader, the Doukhobors, who had waxed wealthy, sent $18,000 and a committee of elders to Russia, and the committee secured Peter's release.

Verigin then solved all the problems and reunited the sect. They own thousands of acres of communal property, farms and factories, stretching through western Canada.

Practicing a religion which has been considered by students as the highest type of simple Christianity, the colony left Russia as a protest against enforced military service under the czar and were granted lands, religious liberty and military exemptions by Canada.

They knit their own clothes, plough the field with women harness to the ploughs, and abhor excess in food and drink.

II Duce Now Has a Motorcycle License

ROME (UP)—Benito Mussolini has added motorcycling to his list of accomplishments and recently was awarded a motorcyclist's license here. The Duce thus holds licenses for piloting an airplane, a motor car—usually a racer—and a motorcycle.

What induced the Duce to go in for motorcycling is not known, except that he is a demon for speed. The Duce in his racing car usually reaches about 80 miles an hour and keeps that speed on the long straight stretches of the Ostia speedway.

Circles Make Plans For Future Work at Monday Meetings

Extensive plans for future work were made by Circles A and B of the Presbyterian auxiliary in individual meetings Monday afternoon.

Circle B members will earn one dollar during the month and report in rhyme form how the money was made at a luncheon at the home of Mrs. J. M. Caldwell.

This plan and arrangements for a food sale and chili dinner to be held Feb. 27 were made at a meeting at the Caldwell home. Miss Edna Hanna was co-hostess.

Mrs. Andrew Fasken was leader of the program and Mrs. A. Harry Anderson presented the devotional.

Fifteen members were present. At the Circle A meeting at the home of Mrs. L. H. McBride, a program on Japan was led by Mrs. W. P. Knight. Mrs. Hayden Miles and Mrs. J. M. DeArmond assisted in discussions.

Mrs. R. C. Crabb, vice chairman, presided. Mrs. McBride and Mrs. Duke Kimbrough, co-hostess, served refreshments at tea time.

floor. The six families who occupied the building were, in the generous phrase of Mrs. Clancy, "perfectly welcome to use the phone so long as they pay for outgoing calls." And so long as they let Mrs. Clancy listen in on their business Ellen had thought privately.

Sure enough, the fat, good-natured Irish woman was waiting in the hall at the foot of the stairs. For all the world like a master of ceremonies, she said, "Right this way."

Then after she had shown Ellen where the telephone was (as if Ellen had not known before) she placidly settled herself in the vicinity of the conversation was extremely short. Ellen replaced the receiver, presented her thanks and prepared to leave. Mrs. Clancy saw a golden opportunity.

She said quickly and ingratiatingly, "Was that the rich fellow your mother was telling me all about?"

"I don't know who you mean," Ellen replied coldly.

"Sure you do," said Mrs. Clancy, chuckling. "I mean Mr. Steven Barclay, your boss. Your maw said he was fairly daft over you."

Ellen had to smile.

"Yes, it was Mr. Barclay," she admitted to the other's evident pleasure. She even added, "Mr. Barclay wanted me to go driving with him this afternoon."

"I heard you saying that you couldn't go," Mrs. Clancy confessed. "That's too bad. It's such a nice day for an automobile ride."

"Yes, it is, isn't it," Ellen agreed and made her escape.

Ellen returned to the bedroom. Myra was dressing, but Molly had collapsed on the bed and was nibbling at a bit of toast. Both fell abruptly silent at Ellen's entrance and she realized that they had been discussing her. Let them, thought Ellen grimly.

"Won't you tell us about your call?" asked Molly, after a delicate interval of silence. "Or is it a secret?"

"There's nothing much to tell," said Ellen airily. "It was Steven Barclay. He wanted me for a drive this afternoon."

"Ah!" said Molly.

There was another interval of silence. Myra looked sharply at her sister, but Ellen's gaze was bland and innocent. Presently she said to her mother, "I'd like to invite a friend to supper."

"Who is it?" asked Molly. She thought she knew the answer. A look of complete astonishment crossed her face when Ellen corrected the impression.

"But Ellen," she cried in dismay.

"What about Mr. Barclay?" "What about him?" repeated Ellen.

"You said he'd asked you for a drive."

"So he did. I told him I couldn't go. I can't either. I have a date this afternoon with Larry. I thought it would be nice to bring him here afterwards for supper."

Molly shifted tactics. "I would like to have your friend for supper," she said, her eyes clear and limpid, "but it's out of the question, honey. There's not a clean tablecloth in the house for one thing; they're all in the laundry. Besides Mrs. Clancy is coming up. I've already asked her."

Ellen suspected that her mother was being perverse. She was sure of it when Molly with an aggrieved air remarked that she supposed a daughter of hers would have too much pride to want to see a man already engaged to another woman. She struck home there. But she was not content to let the matter rest.

"Personally I think it rather odd of the Harrowgate boy to ask you for an engagement under the circumstances," said Molly. "In my day it would have been considered dishonorable."

"You don't know whether it's dishonorable or not," Ellen said angrily, ignoring her own secret doubts. "Larry has no way of knowing that I might consider the fact that he is engaged important. I don't consider it important. I like him—that's enough! This isn't the Victorian age after all."

"There's no use discussing it," observed Molly lightly. "We wouldn't agree, I'm sure."

Molly Rossiter could, when she chose, adopt the most exasperating mood in the world. She chose just then to adopt that mood. When Ellen asked her to meet Larry, Molly remembered a previous engagement with Mrs. Clancy. Mrs. Clancy was a great aid to Molly in managing her daughters. Whenever they made a request she did not wish to grant Mrs. Clancy in one way or another, became a ward in her charge. Ellen understood that as did Myra. But the family rules forbade any mention of the fiction.

"I'm sorry you can't meet him," Ellen said at last with cold finality. "I'm sorry, too," conceded Molly. Turning to Myra she said plaintively "Would you mind, honey, getting me some coffee? Lots of cream and I like it weak. Would you be a lamb and make a fresh pot."

Of course Myra would. But as she walked to the kitchen she was hoping Molly would be cautious. Never in her life had Molly been cautious.

"Did Mr. Barclay say anything special over the phone?" she demanded the instant the door had closed behind Myra. "Anything that you might not want anybody except me to know?"

"No," replied Ellen, half smiling, half sighing at Molly's trier-like persistence. "He didn't say anything more than I've told you."

"Was he surprised yesterday when you returned the dress?" "I don't think so."

Molly clasped her hands about her knees and stared dreamily out into the hot afternoon. A little smile flickered across her lips.

"I've been thinking," she remarked meditatively, "and I believe you were right in declining his invitation this afternoon. He will appreciate you all the more for checking him at first. Men are like that."

"I didn't refuse for that reason, and I'm sure you know I didn't,"

said Ellen in intense exasperation. "We've gone over and over this and you know exactly how I feel. I can't think of anything so dishonest as encouraging a man I don't love."

"Well," countered Molly in well simulated surprise, "I for one can't understand your ethics. Do you think it less dishonest to go running around with a man who is not free, a man engaged to another girl?"

Ellen was halted. "I'm not proud of that part of it," she said in a shamed voice.

"The trouble is that you always believe you're right and I'm wrong," Molly continued in a sad little tone. "I'm older and more experienced. I'm your mother and you should respect my opinions. I can't see why any girl would want to risk her reputation—that's what you are doing—running around with a man who cared so little for her as Larry Harrowgate seems to care for you when another woman. You've forgotten us all."

At just that moment Myra came in with fresh coffee. She had hurried but she saw at once that she had not been quick enough. Molly lay at the foot of the bed, a sobbing, hysterical heap, and Ellen was trying frantically to comfort her.

"What is it?" Myra asked. "It looks as if I'm even less lucky than you," Ellen answered without looking up.

"Stop crying, mother," she said gently. "Stop crying. Can you hear what I am saying? I won't refuse any more of Steven Barclay's invitations. I'll do my very best to fall in love with him."

PLAYOFF OF CLINIC AND SOUTHERN ICE IN CAGE LOOP LOOMS

BOTH HAVE LIGHT GAMES REST OF THE SEASON

With the leading clubs of the commercial cage loop, Clinic and Southern Ice, playing only two more games this half—and these with weaker teams—automatic playoff of these clubs for the championship seems automatically assured.

Clinic was slipped up on the other night by Southern Ice, and lost its first game of the season. Now that the Icemen are almost assured of winning their game this evening with United Dry Goods company, and Friday night with Prairie, they stand an excellent chance of forcing the Clinic to a playoff.

Mathematical chances exist, of course, for Clinic to win in clear cut style—but there are long chances. Clinic plays Prairie this evening and the Haberdashers Friday.

SOUTHWEST CAGE LOOP DECISION LIKELY TONIGHT

FORT WORTH, Feb. 16.—There are games scheduled as late as March 5, but the Southwest conference basketball season promises to end here tonight, when T. C. U. and Baylor clash in the Frog fieldhouse with the title hopes of both at stake.

The Bruins can practically cinch the conference flag by taking the measure of the Frogs, while the latter can go into a deadlock for the honors if they come off victorious.

There seems to be no way to choose between the two in predicting the outcome of the game. Both teams divided the series with Arkansas. Baylor defeated T. C. U. in Waco in the first game of the season, and so seems to hold a slight edge. However, the fact that the Christians MUST win to stay in the race, and the fact that they will be playing on their home court, are factors that will have to be taken

Hooks and Slides

What! No Police Gazette?

Something will have to be done. The other day the Police Gazette, the Leading Illustrated Sporting Journal of the World, suspended publication. The rumor was bruited about that a tidal wave of debts had engulfed the old pink sheet with such a checkered life story. Perhaps the old journal's creditors can be introduced into account.

The battle royal will be between Strickland and Dietzel at center. The Christian pivot man in only slightly taller than Strickland, and the latter may be good enough to get his share of the tip-offs. The deciding factor of the game may be right here.

On the other hand, Doc Sumner is apparently at the top of his season's form. His bad hand has healed sufficiently that he can play with more of his natural form, though he has been holding his own very well with one hand.

Green and Brannon will be instructed with the guard positions, at least in the starting line-up. Vaughn may see action before the game is over. Just who will start at the second forward position, with Sumner, is uncertain, but it will probably be Walker. Kinzy, however, has been coming along since early season, and might get the call.

According to word received here, several hundred Baylor fans will journey up from Waco to help swell the crowd in the Frog fieldhouse. The largest crowd since the Frog-Mustang title game of last season is expected when the whistle blows at 8 o'clock tonight.

Conference statistics, week of Feb. 15, 1932:

Firestone Has New Safety Built in

With the constant development during recent years of faster higher-powered cars, Firestone dealers point out that tremendously increased responsibility has been placed on tires. Safety in car operation, they say, depends more on the rebuilt quality of tires than on any other factor, and it is vital that car owners select tires that are built to withstand the grueling service of present day conditions.

"Firestone have been the leader in developing tire construction to meet the high speeds of today," declares the local Firestone dealer. "This construction has been proved in the great Indianapolis races where year after year Firestones have carried all the winners to victory."

"Race drivers were the first to recognize the real responsibility of a tire. Their major problems are steering and tire performance. In reality, it is only one problem, that of steering, because there are actually three steering wheels on every automobile—one in the driver's hand and

"In answer to those who may think that a woman should not hold high station, permit me to call attention to my administration of only one term in comparison with the last four administrations of men.

"I repeat that: 'Who Can Best Serve' should be the standard of the patriotic and the intelligent voter. At a later date I shall publish my platform for the information of the people, but I will say now that the chief plank will be the material reduction of taxes.

"In the meantime I will appreciate the activity of all good citizens in my behalf."

"Too often we have to go away from home to learn the news," he said. "Do you know the things in your town that should be boosted, and the things that should be corrected? We work ourselves into the frame of mind that the things at home are not worthwhile. There is a life time study in this community, that is of utmost value to you. Every bit of it is full of practical knowledge. Every bit of it refers to your community."

Along Comes the Sheriff

The sheriff swooped down on the Gazette in 1887, and Editor Wilkes was out of employment. The journal continued, however, though without Wilkes its lost character and circulation. It passed into the hands of two engravers in 1872. The old journal was in the last stages of decay when Richard K. Fox, a young Irishman, with energy and imagination, took it over—and restored it to robust health.

Under Fox the Gazette aimed to please. Within its pages you could find naughtiness enough, but presented guilelessly, as if to say, "My goodness, can such things be!" On the cover there might be a pen-and-ink drawing of the interior of some notorious New York dive. Or perhaps there were some bountiful belles in tight, or pickpockets at work at the race track. Lifting bibulous gentlemen's watches, watches with chains on them large enough to use in the modern towing of automobiles.

Inside there was a column of "Noose Notes," reviewing the current hangings. There were pieces about a gas-lit night life of the wicked city, highbrow scandals, flaming youth, grisly dens, female desperadoes, the girl who could eat 50 raw eggs in as many minutes. Nothing that might have inspired Barnum as a journalist was left unexplored.

Special Group Sees Lovely Marian Marsh

If Warner Bros. judgment in elevating seventeen-year-old Marian Marsh to stardom needed approval, it was enthusiastically accorded last night at the special Valentine preview at the Ritz theatre, by the applause that followed the petite blond through the absorbing sequences of "Under Eighteen," he first starring picture. Only those under 18, and a special group of older people, who acted as chaperones, saw the picture. The film will be shown today.

Miss Marsh, whose career covers less than a twelve-month, has been watched with keen interest by the public since her appearance with John Barrymore as leading lady in "Svengali"—followed by performances in a like capacity with Edward G. Robinson in "Five Star Final"—with William Powell in "The Road to Singapore" and with Mr. Barrymore in "The Mad Genius."

Marian's portrayal of the wistful, willful and tantalizing lovely climber in "Under Eighteen" more than fulfills the promise of her earlier

The simplest way to solve this puzzle is to leave the four corner numbers and the four inner numbers where they are. Change the two other numbers in the first row, in their reverse order, with the same two in the last row. Do the same with the corresponding pairs in the side rows. Each row of four numbers will then add to 42. The numbers outside the big square show their original positions.

Helps Women Avoid Pains

MORE than half a century of successful use has shown that Cardui helps women to avoid much that they formerly suffered—misery from minor functional disturbances, monthly suffering due to a weakened condition. Cardui acts as a tonic for the system, and tends to improve the general health. It is of especial value to weak, nervous, run-down women, needing just such a strengthening medicine. Those who suffer every month should build up their strength to assist in the natural correction of the painful condition. When you need Cardui, buy a bottle and take it regularly and persistently. Perhaps several bottles will be needed. Finally, may you share the enthusiasm of the thousands of women who have said: "Cardui helped me!"

TRIED TO HAVE SULLIVAN LICKED
 Played a role in the ballyhoo that made John L. Sullivan a figure of almost mythical power. Once seated at a table in one of those "sporting theatres" of the bygone days, Fox noticed Sullivan at another table, drinking stout. He sent a message, asking Sullivan to join him. Sullivan's reply was: "It's no danger from him to me than from me to him—and if he wants to see me, he can do the walking."

"Did Fox's face get red? As red as his hair! And he set out at once to find someone who could beat John L. to earth. He backed Paddy Ryan for the job. Paddy fell before these thunderous fists.

He tried to make Frank Slavin believe he could trim John L. After a long build-up Slavin was all but slain by the Boston Irishman.

Finally he sent Jake Kilrain against him, and put up a $4,000 belt as prize. When Sullivan beat Kilrain, Fox became his friend.

Bleak Is the Path Ahead
 But now Fox is dead, and his Gazette has fallen upon evil days. Somehow we hope this rumor of its demise is exaggerated, and that again the magic breath of life will be blown into those once-pink pages. For, if the Gazette passes how shall man pass his time while await-

THE TIRE THAT TAUGHT THRIFT TO MILLIONS

Now, at the lowest prices ever known, you can enjoy Firestone Extra Values.

This is possible only because Firestone concentrate their entire world-wide resources in building complete lines of quality tires, tubes, batteries, brake lining, spark plugs and accessories. These are for sale through Firestone Service Stores and Service Dealers.

Firestone do not manufacture tires under special-brand names for mail-order houses and others to distribute. Special-brand tires are made without the manufacturer's name. They are sold without his guarantee or responsibility for service.

Firestone manufacture complete lines of tires for their Service Stores and Service Dealers. Each line is designated by tread design and name. The quality and construction of each Firestone line excel that of special-brand mail-order tires sold at the same prices.

Call on the Firestone Service Dealer in your community. He will show you sections cut from Firestone Tires, special-brand mail-order tires and others. See the Extra Values you get in Firestone Tires at prices no higher than special-brand lines.

GUM-DIPPED CORDS
 The Firestone patented Gum-Dipping process transforms the cotton cords into a strong, tough, sinewy unit. Liquid rubber penetrates every cord and coats every fiber, guarding against internal friction and heat, greatly increasing the strength of the cord body, and giving longer tire life.

TWO EXTRA CORD PLYS UNDER THE TREAD
 This is a patented construction, and the two extra cord plies are so placed that you get 50% stronger bond between tread and cord body, and 26% greater protection against punctures and blow-outs. It sets a new standard for tire performance on high speed cars.

Quiet, Safe, Long-Wearing Non-Skid Tread
 Tough, thick rubber specially compounded for long, slow wear. Effective non-skid gives greater traction and safe, quiet performance.
