BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold ac-tion; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth. Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for per-sistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing ele-ments which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the crossote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respira-tory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Rough Cross Marks Grave of 331 Men

GOLIAD, Texas. (UP)—A rough GOLIAD. Texas: (UP)—A rough reddir cross two miles southeast of here marks the probable burial spot of 331 men brutally massacred by January trade amounted to $14,000,—Wexican troops on the morning of Mexican troops on the morning of 000. March 27, 1836.

For several years all tracks of the Goliad massacre were lost. William B. Bennett, Jr., of Goliad, a sophomore and pre-med student at the University of Texas, stumbled upon the spot. In the loose earth thrown up by gophers he found a charred bone. His father, a dentist, identified it as a portion of a human jaw bone. They marked the spot with a cross. Marks of fire on the fragment of bone tally with the story of the Goliad execution. Colonel Fannin and 330 men surrendered their arms after the battle of Coleto. After being held prisoners for nine days in the Bahai Mission, they were or-dered to march, and told they were being sent home on parole as prom-

Under heavy guard, they were marched half a mile. The Mexicans suddenly turned and fired. Those not killed by bullets were bayoneted. The bodies were gathered in three groups, wood from a brush fence piled upon

Three months later General Thomas F. Ruske returned and buried the remains he found. The spot near Goliad on which bone fragments have been found corresponds roughly with a map and diary of Dr. Joseph H. Barnard, assistant surgeon of Fannin's army, one of the few who escaped the massacre, and to other documentary evidence recently secured by County Judge J. A. White.

The city of Goliad has bought and presented to Texas for a state about 207 acres of land two miles southeast of Goliad along the San Antonio river.

This land includes the grave, the Mission of La Bahia, property of the Catholic church and ruins of the College of Aranama. A road through the park, linking State Highways 19 12, has been proposed.

state commission from Austin will inspect the park this year and examine the evidence and documentary proofs of the grave of the Texas heroes. Goliad citizens plan to ask for a State monument to be erected on the site.

The heavy, two-motored craft flew afternoon, dipped as they went over Sloan field, and continued into the west. They were supposed to have! to men of the army radio and meteorological station there.

Passing Guadalupe emergency landing field, on which an American airways plane had set down because of rain, poor visibility and a low ceiling, the planes did not hesitate, boring on into the west with a strong tail wind assisting them.

"Better get word out," Homer Ra der, airline pilot said; "they cannot get through. One of the planes returned soon, but the other, piloted by Roland, could not clear the mountains. The crew leaped with their 'chutes, but both received injuries. El Paso gave the names of the flyers as Lieut. James H. Ronin, 28 and Segt. Waid, both of Rockwell field, Calif. It set the place of the crash as 90 miles east of El Paso. An ambulance from Fort Bliss was sent to the scene of accident at 5:30 p. m. to bring the injured to What caused the flyers to take the huge craft, just turned out of the factory, on through the weather was not understood. It was though certain by army attaches here that the flyers saw the port as they flew over it. They were following the railroad closely and could scarcely have missed the big field.

It would have been necessary to fly blind at around 10,000 feet to be safe on such a flight, and bombers cannot be flown blindly at such altitude with safety. The ship cost approximately $50,

Two cadet flyers were expected to land bombing planes at the port this afternoon.
