NEEDED RAIN BREAKS HEAT WAVE

Golfing Tee Causes Wreck

A friendly dispute over a golf tee put a girl in the hospital, cracked a powerline pole and wrecked a car in an accident at 9:30 p.m. July 4.

Judy Huffhines of Amarillo and a visitor in Spearman, was hospitalized with a broken shoulder and a scalp laceration after the car in which she was riding with Rennie Berry of Spearman hit a powerline pole at the corner of Highway 15 and the Gruver Highway.

Berry told investigating officers that he had a golf tee in his mouth and Miss Huffhines was trying to get it away from him. He turned his head and the car went into the pole.

Police Chief Wayne Pierce, estimated the speed of the car at 15 miles per hour. He said the high school boy did not see the pole in time to apply his brakes.

Miss Huffhines was treated here, then transferred to Amarillo.

Chief Pierce said this was the only accident in Spearman during the holidays.

3 Republicans To Convention

Three Hansford County residents are planning to attend the Republican National Convention in San Francisco next week as observers.

Those planning to attend are Dr. Damon Gregg and Wright Hale of Spearman and Wright's nephew, Tom Hale of Gruver.

BEATING THE HEAT-With the mercury climbing above the 100 degree mark most every afternoon Spearman children found the old swimming pool a mighty comfortable place to spend the afternoon. Manager Sam Watson said Tuesday was one of his biggest days of the year. Children found the gutters a good wet area Wednesday afternoon when 1.31 inches of rainfall in an hour.

PLAINSMAN PHOTO

Spearman got under one of Dan True's bikini size thunder showers Wednesday afternoon and broke a week of 100 degree plus weather and a dry spell.

Weather observer Mrs. Pat Cates measured 1.31 inches of rain in the hour long downpour that did not reach too far in any direction.

The north edge of the afternoon rain could be seen from Main street in Spearman. A check to the south showed that the Holt community had just received a sprinkle. Sheriff's offices said the first rain did not reach too far west.

However, at 3 p.m. rain clouds were predominant over the area from Spearman west, east and south and the prospects were good for more rain.

Spearman has had five consecutive days of 100 degrees or more temperatures. The mercury has not slipped below a high of 98 degrees since July 1, according to the official records.

Mrs. Cates records show the following high and low temperatures: July 1, 98-72; July 2, 98-66; July 3, 101-66; July 4, 103-70; July 5, 104-71; July 6, 102-69; July 7, 102-68.

This is the first break in the dry weather since the rains of early June. It is the third economically important moisture this year. Because of its small area, this will not have a great effect.

Spearman's total moisture for the year is now unofficially 6.7 inches, far below normal.

There was a report of rain in Waka Wednesday morning.

Teen Meet Set

Enough interest was shown in organizing a Teen Town here that another meeting will be held July 17 for the election of officers and more plans on getting the program started.

Summer Learning Situation Good

Spearman's first experiment with summer school for high school students ends Friday with the final classes. Teachers and students are well pleased with the six weeks of work.

Thirty-nine students have been enrolled in English, History, and Civics courses. Not a student has dropped out during the six weeks of work.

Dean Weese, the summer school principal and American and World History instructor says the kids have learned more in his classes this summer than in the regular session.

"We have covered the same amount of material as in the regular session, I am going to give the same semester tests and I will bet the grades are higher."

Weese credits this to a near ideal learning situation, a desire on the students part and the cost of attending summer school. After students pay $40 to attend classes, they are not going to quit.

There are only a few students in each class and they get more individual attention when they have problems.

"Many of the students are the best in school," Weese pointed out. "The slower students can learn from listening to the better students and taking just one class they spend all their time concentrating on the one subject."

Gladdy Hopper, a Texas History and Civics student said summer school was better than regular classes. She credited it to longer classes which allow more time for discussion and more time for learning. You do not have to stop right in the middle of a discussion, she commented.

Senior Sandra Kitchens and Junior Bethany Donnell like summer school, even though they are taking history and it is not their favorite subject.

Both said they would go again next summer, if the if is that Sandra is graduating and Donnell wants science, math or other subjects. No more history for her. She has had her requirements and that is all she wants.

Instructor Allen Alford thinks summer school is a good program. The students are getting the material and the teaching situation is good.

Weese and his instructors all like the summer session. The students are interested, they work hard and there are no discipline problems.

We had one or two students at the first of the session who thought it was going to be a lark; but we set them straight quick and there has been no trouble since, Weese said.

Mrs. Eula Goodall, junior and senior English teacher says she likes summer school, but it is harder on the teacher. She teaches both classes in two groups. That means she is teaching for five hours without a break.

A Spanish entryway piece from the Esperanto collection highlighted the entry of the home where Mrs. James Spurlock secured the names of the guests. An arrangement of cream-colored rosebuds in a crystal container completed the hall decor.

In the living room where Miss Mary Ellen Barkley played selections on the organ, an arrangement of red roses was noted in a smoke crystal bowl on a brass base. An arrangement of daisies and red roses filled a low white container.

The refreshment table, placed at the end of the room, was laid with a cream-colored handmade lace cloth. An antique cut glass punch bowl surrounded by lacy white hydrangeas formed the centerpiece which was flanked by white tpaers in crystal candelabras.

Day By Day

Talk at the office Monday afternoon ranged from the inadequacy of today's air-conditioners to trying to decide how much hotter it was than it had ever been before in the history of time. And, the more we thought and talked about the heat, the hotter it seemed to get.

It was about 4 o'clock, or an hour before time to close, when we were discussing just how large a unit it would take to keep the building cool, when one of the "bosses" casually remembered he'd cut the air-conditioner's supply of water off over the weekend and hadn't turned it back on. (His name is still mud, by the way.)

I see now though why the non-air-conditioned Latin American countries stop everything in the heat of the day and close for a siesta. It's not a bad idea.

Seeing this month's show calendar for the Lyric and Holiday theatres, I'm reminded again of how fortunate we are to get the best movies here very soon after they are released. If you enjoy really good movies especially in this the television re-run season, you'll no doubt like to see many of these on the July calendar.

I'm more and more amazed every day at a certain man in our family who retired July 1 after 29 years in the same job in the same office.

I was more than a little concerned about him on the afternoon of June 30, afraid he'd really be down in the dumps and lost. When I went down Saturday to help him take his mind off his retirement, I found he's bought himself a snappy new car to celebrate his "emancipation" and had gone out and beaten everyone on the golf course after leaving his office the last time with a chipper "Miss Ruby, here are the keys, I won't be here in the morning."

I sure did feel silly remembering the corny little phrases I'd been practicing up on, like "life really begins when you retire", etc., etc.

I should have listened to Mr. Bramlett back in the winter when he said "You don't have to worry about Stormy, retirement will just be a word to him."

Bicycles built for two are certainly in vogue in many of our neighboring towns. We saw them for rent in two different places and also saw a number of them being ridden. That might be a nice business venture for someone but I wonder if their popularity will diminish as quickly as those trampoline things did a few seasons ago. Talk about "here today and gone tomorrow", I must have had my back turned when that craze died because all I can remember is looking around one day to find them a thing of the past, laid to rest with hula hoops and the like.

Time To Speak

It is time for the farmer, rancher and his organizations to change their point of attack in trying to improve farm income. Washington, D. C., is no longer the place to seek help, any major help the farmer gets in the future is going to come from himself and public pressure.

Since the New Deal changed the farmers source of income to Washington instead of the market place, agriculture has wisely maintained a large lobby group in the capitol to look after the farmers' welfare. Today the farm bloc in Congress is a thing of the past in Congress and the agriculture vote is no longer courted. With agriculture prices going down, farmers and ranchers cannot stand many more public relation disasters like the current wheat and bread price story in the news. Because of the government program that requires millers to pay more for wheat, bread is supposedly going up about one cent a loaf. The reason given for the increase in price is because the miller must buy wheat certificates that cost about 70 cents a bushel, and these are used to pay the wheat farmer a higher support price.

The miller is buying the certificates and it is going on a support price for part of the wheat grown. However, according to figures gathered in the ASC office and talking to elevator operators, the farmer is getting less for his total wheat crop.

This true side of the story is not getting to the non-farm areas. Even the daily papers here in the wheat belt carried the story that presented the bad side. It did have one short paragraph presenting the farmers side from the president of the Farm Bureau, but that is not enough.

Farm Bureau, the state and national wheat growers and milling and baking organizations, need to build a public relations program that will tell Joe Smoe of Flatbush Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., the real story. Old Joe does not know a horse from a stalk of wheat, he cares nothing about a wheat farmer having probably $100,000 invested in land and machinery, and that 40 per cent of the nation's population is directly affected by the prosperity of agriculture. What effects old Joe is that bread has gone up a cent or more a loaf. He has been told it is because the government is "giving" more money to the rich farmers for not growing wheat.

It is time agriculture organizations hired themselves some good public relations men and spent some money for advertising. The buying public in the population centers of the nation need to know the true situation about the cost of food and fiber.

Agriculture is a big business today. It is going to have to operate like big business and tell its own story, sell its own products and protect its own future.

Letter To The Editor

I'm writing concerning the water meters around town and the person who checks them.

The past week I fell into one that the lid was not securely set or locked. I only very badly skinned and bruised my leg. Perhaps it could have been an older person and they would have broken their leg or a child on the way to school or play walking on the path instead of in the street and really hurting themselves. Next time a person might not be as lucky as I was. I hope that measures can be taken to secure the lids more on such.

Band Concert Is Successful

Good weather and a good band were the main factors in the success of the first summer band concert held recently at the Waka City Park. The band, made up of about 50 children, was directed by Glenn Truax, Waka School band director. Numbers ranged from marches to concert pieces.

In connection, the Waka PTA held a watermelon feed after the concert. Forty ice-cold melons were consumed by about 250 people who attended.

Civil Wrongs?

WE WERE PLEASANTLY surprised when Congressman Graham Purcell announced his opposition to the so-called Civil Rights Bill.

As are a great host of other Americans, he is opposed to the public accommodations section which we suspect is on the borderline of being unconstitutional.

In fact the entire law, we fear, will permit more "civil wrongs" than civil rights. Already this "civil disobedience" on the part of hotheaded intergrationists from both races is an indication of what can be expected if this law is enforced in an injudicious manner.

Fortunately there are still enough people of both races who are willing to take the long look. We should all be primarily concerned about education, job opportunities and voting rights of all Americans. Discrimination, after all, is a two-sided coin. If we're not careful individual freedom will be the loser in the matter.

Ed Eakin-Quanah Tribune-Chief

No Way To Die

It is beginning to dawn on the American people that they have once again been sucked into Korean-type war that we are not supposed to win. This time, of course, it is in South Viet Nam, and there are other differences. US military men are supposed to be advising and training South Viet Nam forces in their unequal struggle against the Communist Viet Cong guerrillas, not fighting. They are not, as yet at least, under UN direction as in Korea, their orders coming from Washington. But they are fighting---and dying---in another war in which the enemy cannot be pursued or harassed beyond the borders of South Viet Nam into the Red sanctuaries of Cambodia or Laos or North Viet Nam.

Most shocking of all the reports coming out of this heart-breaking struggle tells of the obsolete planes and helicopters our pilots have had to fly, presumably because of the terms of a Geneva treaty of 1954 requiring that wornout items in Viet Nam could only be replaced (piece by piece) by similarly delapidated items. And the story that rocked Washington was that of Jim Lucas, of Scripps Howard, who told of two US airmen who died in their T-28 trainers when the wings came off in bombing runs--and of the other pilots who could expect the same fate any day! For good measure; it is now revealed that the US was not a signatory to that 1954 treaty.

As a result of the growing uproar, better planes, more ammunition and more troops are to be sent to South Viet Nam. President Johnson has asked $125 million more in military and economic aid. But, at this writing, there has been no word of a change in policy that would permit US forces to carry the war to the enemy and into his supply bases and staging areas, that would indicate our determination to win or assure those who are facing death in the faraway jungles that such a sacrifice will be in vain.

"It will be a long war," Secretary McNamara reported on his latest return from Saigon. If it is not a war to be won, it should not last a minute longer than it will take to get our fighting men out.

-Graham Leader

More Changes

One of our more conservative Panhandle editors has just realized that the latest Supreme Court ruling requiring redistricting of state legislatures on the basis of population may logically be extended to other political levels.

"One of these days," opines Cecil Waggoner in The Claude News, "counties in Texas will be forced to elect their commissioners on a county-wide basis unless they re-draw the precinct lines and divide the precinct population into equal units." Now wouldn't that be just too darned bad!

An editors' note: Before giving someone a piece of your mind, be sure you've got enough to spare. And don't bother to read that back to me . . . somebody already has.

U. S. Exceeds Communist China In World Soybean Production

World soybean production is expected to set a new record in 1964 if United States planting intentions materialize and weather is favorable.

Since the U.S. produces 94 percent of all soybeans in world trade, the intentions of the U.S. producer set the pace for the world market.

Communist China produced more than the U.S. in the 1952-54 period. However, U.S. soybean production in the 1955-59 period was not only greater than that of China but was 73 percent of the world market. It progressed steadily to a high of 94 percent in 1963.

Soybean stocks in the U.S. on April 1, 1964, set a record high of 376 million bushels, 10 percent above last year.

Soybean production in Texas for 1963 was estimated at 2,604,000 bushels which is a sharp increase from the 1,680,000 bushels produced in 1962. The harvested acreage last year was 40 percent greater than the 60 thousand acres harvested a year earlier. A large part of the 1963 increase can be attributed to acreage planted on the High Plains following the loss of cotton from late June hail and washing rains. About 90 percent of the soybean acreage in Texas is on the High Plains.

Some expansion in soybean production in the world markets seems likely; however, no spectacular rise is foreseen in the immediate future. The average price of U.S. soybeans, American No. 2 yellow, bulk, c.i.f., in European ports, was $3.17 in January, 1964. Prices have since declined steadily, reflecting the larger supplies. The average for April of this year was $2.93.

Significant expansion in soybean production has occurred in Mexico, Colombia and Argentina in recent years.

Mexico's production has risen from a negligible quantity in 1958 to almost two million bushels in 1963. This increase was almost four times the 1962 amount and reportedly resulted from further use of new varieties.

Colombia has had a similar increase from a scant volume in the early 1950's to over a million bushels last year. In about the same period, Argentina's production has grown to almost 700 thousand bushels. However, none of these countries export a significant amount in world trade.

Brazil is the only other country in the western hemisphere besides the U.S. that exports a notable amount of soybeans. Last year it shipped 1,229,000 bushels into the world trade which was a decrease from a high of 3,556,000 bushels in 1962.

Mexico Helps Control Flies

Livestock producers in Northern Mexico are so pleased with the reduction in screw-worm infestations, because of the screwworm eradication program, they are making personal contributions to keep the project going.

A local cattleman's association in Nuevo Laredo in the Mexican State of Tamaulipas is contributing $60 a month and the state association of Nuevo Leon is collecting $10 from each of its members to help finance ground survey and inspection activities and control of screwworm infestations.

Sterile screwworm flies are being released in an area of Northern Mexico encompassing nearly 250,000 square miles to prevent a buildup of fertile flies that could migrate into the areas of the U.S. where the insect has been eradicated. The action has reduced screw-worm problems for Mexican ranchers as well. Mexico-employed livestock inspectors cooperate with U.S. inspectors in conducting educational and survey work in this buffer zone.

Maintenance of the live-fly barrier between the two countries is credited with keeping the incidence of screwworm infestations in the eradication area at an alltime low for the season.

Less than 90 screwworm cases have been reported in Texas during the first six months of 1964. In the same period last year, 1,464 infestations were detected, while 17,693 were recorded in 1962. New Mexico has reported two cases in 1964.

Not one person survived the Custer Massacre of June 25, 1876.

CONTROLLING PRICKLYPEAR
Want to get rid of that pricklypear on your grass land? Now would be a good time to start chemical control when the weather is hot. Best results can be obtained when the pricklypear is growing vigorously and weather conditions hot.

Low volatile esters of 2, 4, 5-T are recommended for general use. Ester 2, 4, 5-T is a selective hormone type herbicide, non-poisonous to man and livestock.

Spray solutions recommended for control of pricklypear should contain 8 pounds acid equivalent of 2, 4, 5-T low volatile ester in 100 gallon of spray mixture. Most commercial stocks of 2, 4, 5-T low volatile esters contain 4 pounds of 2, 4, 5-T acid equivalent per gallon. To make 100 gallons of the recommended solution, add 2 gallons of 2, 4, 5-T stock solution containing a total of 8 pounds of 2, 4, 5-T to 98 gallons of diesel oil or kerosene.

You can use emulsion sprays in the proportion of 1 part oil and chemical to 4 parts water. Thus, 100 gallons of spray mixture may be prepared with 2 gallons of 2, 4, 5-T ester stock solution, 18 gallons of oil and 80 gallons of water. Agitate the mixture continuously during application.

Use nozzle pressures of 25 to 35 pounds for hand sprayers and 40 pounds for powersprayers. Large sized droplets are more desirable for covering prickly-pear plants than small sized or foglike droplets. Wet thoroughly both sides of the pads, all joints and fibrous trunks to the point of slight runoff to obtain effective kill and control.

For complete information on pricklypear control drop by the office and get the bulletin "Pricklypear-Good or Bad".

CADDO WHEAT
I just received a leaflet on Caddo wheat. The variety was developed from a cross of an experimental strain of Marquillo and Oro with the variety Wichita, made at Denton in 1942 by I.M. Atkins. Caddo matures at approximately the same time as the parent Wichita, averaging 2 days earlier than Tascosa and 2 days later than Triumph in Texas trials.

Caddo resembles the parent Wichita but has much stronger straw and better resistance to shattering. Plants grow slightly taller than Tascosa but not as tall as Wichita or Crockett.

Seed should be available in quantities from producers of certified seeds.

California produces more fruit than any other state in the nation.
