Tahoka is only a small town, but our merchants got in over 1,000 pounds of candy in one week.

Chenery Brown, our hustling merchant, is making a desperate effort to placate the public by placing the candy on the counter. He knows that the people of every town in the state want something for their money, and he is ready to give it to them. He started out, this is quite a small town, and he is working hard to make it a place that people will come to.

Patriotic Tea Drinking.

The China and Japan Products are cooked by the British in Cyprus.

"Careful and intelligent efforts of the British government to have its people consume the tea grown on one of its possessions have had a remarkable effect," said William Sidney Wellbel, who represents a large tea firm with headquarters at London, says the Milwaukee Sentinel. The people have taken to the idea of using British products, and the tea growing industry as a result in Cyprus is beginning to pick up. Cyprus was the last of the three eastern countries to engage in the industry. China started, then Japan followed, and for a few years these two countries had a monopoly of the business, even in the united kingdom.

"At the last moment the inhabitants of Cyprus began to grow tea on a small scale, but the business flourished so that acreage devoted to the raising of this crop increased enormously. And the beauty of the whole matter was the fact that the Cypriots managed their export trade so well that 20 per cent. of their product was sold in the British possessions, outing the tea of China and Japan."

"During the last ten years the amount of Indian tea consumed by the people of England alone has increased more than 70 per cent. Considering the fact that Japan and China had a firm hold on the tea market when the Cyprus started out, this is quite remarkable. It shows that the public is willing to support domestic production, although they may be of different hue and may be thousand times less effective than the same article imported."

The merchant attended a sharp examination and shook back in his chair. A telegram fell from his shaking hand. His eyes were dimmed, his face white, and the person of a credit that stood on his brow. The man in the outer office who had been employed among themselves, relates an exchange. "Touch of heart disease?" asked one. "Yes," said another. "I've heard rumors of the kind. We fellows will have to be looking for another place." "Get to work—be coming to Spain," said one of the others in west Tahoka, 14.572 two rooms and a parlor.

We are always receiving and selling fresh, good drugs at Taylor's, west end square.

Mr. B. H. Cade, who drives about two miles north of Tahoka, in what is called the sand strip, brought in a giant sweet potato, weighing 15 pounds, at the new office. The potato is about shaped 5 inches long, 13 inches in circumference and 8 pounds. Just think of if you don't eat one, one sweet potato worth 12 cents at wholesale.

Well of course, why do you pay such high prices, when you can go to Conway's and get things much cheaper.

Mr. Cilmore left last Friday for Colorado City to have his eye examined again. R. and Derwood accompanied him.

Mr. W. L. Davis's father from Ulysses came to visit him last Friday night. Mr. McCoy is a charming hostess and the young people are always glad when she opens her doors to them for an evening entertainment.

CURE FOR BLINDNESS

VIOLET RAYS SAID TO RESTORE SIGHT.

Interesting Experiments with Electric Current in New Form—How the Treatment Is Applied.

New York.—A series of interesting experiments with the violet ray as a cure for blindness has disclosed the fact that electricity in this wave and strangely beautiful form has possibilities before undreamed of. Herein lies a reason why it has been chiefly to destroy bacilli and malignant disease but that this new experiment applied it to the optical nerves of an eye had pronounced incurably blinded by the specialist in one of the eye and ear hospitals in the city.

The fact that the nerves responded to the treatment proves that they were not entirely atrophied, as supposed by the physcians that administered treatment in the hospital.

Whether the sight can be entirely restored will depend, according to the experiment, to the patient's general condition and the cause of the trouble. If there be deep-seated organic disease affecting the entire system, the cure may not be perfected and the improvement is likely to be only temporary.

The electricity may be generated by a static machine or by a cell, the static machine being used by Dr. Yallan. Mrs. Walker sits beside it on an insulated platform. The electrode is a glass vacuum tube with an expanded bulb at the end as an insulated handle, or one having two bulbs, this being used on both eyes simultaneously.

The physician applies the bulb to the temple, to the eyeball, to the back of each ear and over the spine and back in order to reach the cervical nerves that control the eyes.

While the treatment is in progress the glass bulb is more beautiful than any flower, the ray changing from pale violet to deep purple. At the time the patient experiences a feeling sensation more or less, according to the strength of the current.

"The patient was brought to me for the experiment with the violet ray by a physician in the hospital in which she had been pronounced incurable," said Dr. Yallan. "She was about 50 years old, had been blind two years and could not or would not give any history of her case that could be of any aid in treating her. There was evidence that the nerves of the eye were entirely atrophied. The woman also has rheumatic pains which complicated her case and showed that the general system was not in a healthy condition.

"After taking the violet ray treatment for a month she announced to me joyfully: "Oh, I am going to get my sight back again! I am seeing food! I can see people on the street. I can take care of the lamp." Soon she was doing considerable housework, being able to see her way about the house."

Mrs. Doak is improving today.

Mrs. Conway gave a conversation party to her voting friends Thursday evening. This is the 4th time Mrs. Conway has enter aided in her pretty new home.

MEAD CYCLE CO., Dept. "J.L." CHICAGO, ILL.
Three or four drummers, says Pompia, had engaged in a warm discussion over the tone of the drummer's existence on the road, since drummers don't care as much as they used to be, however, when small towns all over the country found traveling man who visited them.

"By Jove," said a man from a New York printing house, "you ought to try it out on the other side, What they do here isn't to be spoofed in by any other. Here is merely a small local matter over there it is national. At least it is for any of us who come from foreign countries. In Denmark, for instance, there is an annual prize of $2,000 if a man represents one home and half that for another home represented. In Norway you have to have a newspaper of good for 50 years, costing 25c. Truce is easier and you don't have to make a business lawsuit, passport, which costs you half what you want to pay. In Holstein they go further, they have an industrial tax receipt which costs 4 dollars. In Sweden the price is the same, the amount of a newspaper 25c. and if you try to get out of it, you will catch a fine of 1% of the price of the trade pass up to $1,400 and they are strict about it, too.

Hi C. Cline & Co., the next, article those printers turned some letter heads for the Tuhuka Lake Ranch and Mr. Jack Allen, the general promoter, expressed himself as well pleased with the work. This is their second Lynn County Ranch job, as they printed a large order of envelopes and letter heads for E. P. Smith, Singleton & Co., the time before.

There are several other ranchmen in Lynn county who are printed stationery, and they are others who would also use it, if they only realized the distinction that a neat letter head gives one, and the good feeling it gives to your county. It should be the aim of every good citizen to give their county the publicity that is due it. Publicity of this kind, encouraged an influx of good citizens, and with an increased population comes schools, churches, towns, railroads, and markets.
