Hungry.

By J. M. Lewis.

There are poets always raving to the maid with turquoise eyes,
And with fluffy golden ringlets on her neck;
But I would indite a poem to the maiden who builds pies
And doughnuts—I could eat them by the peck!
Eat the doughnuts, not the maidens, they would be too good to eat;
Would the maidens, not the doughnuts, Lord I seem to see them now!
See the doughnuts, not the maidens, round and brown and crisp and sweet,
How I'd love to stoop and kiss them, not the doughnuts, on the brow!
Lord, how I would like to bite them, not the maidens, but the pies;
Like to bite into a whole one, yes I would!
They are plump and round and tempting with their sweet and earnest eyes,
The maidens, not the pies, are, and they're good!
Oh, to hang around the kitchen like I used to when they're warm
And to eat them, eat the doughnuts, from the crock she puts them in!
And to catch her happy glances, and to watch her lissome form
And to feed on pies and biscuits hot and smoking from the tin!
Oh, the light and fluffy biscuit: oh, the doughnuts golden brown!
Oh the yellow golden glory of the pies!
Oh, the maid of dimpled elbows; oh, the maid of gingham gown,
How the doughnuts woo and coax a fellow's eyes!
Oh, go sit beside the river where the waters foam and rush
With the maiden of your choosing if she knows not how to bake!
But give me the cosy kitchen where the golden doughnuts blush,
And the pies, and bread, and biscuits, and the maiden, and the cake!

The Weekly Newspaper.

There is probably no auxillary to an advanced civilization so little appreciated by the communities served by it as the weekly newspaper. Go to any small town and ask to be directed to the newspaper office, and in many cases along the information sought will be the volunteered remark tha the paper "don't amoun to much" or "it never had any thing it.

Ahd yet the same paper is watched for by every resident in the place to learn what has happened in the community since its last issue, and what is going to happen in the future—for the editor is expected to know what the stranger in town last week was there for, and what strnnger will be in town next week and what he is going to do.

The Dixie Manufacturer has had much reason during its career to be thankful to the week ly editors of Alabama condensed information regarding the resources of the various counties and the many new enterprise that are constantly being started. We would not get this information as correctly and as full if it was not for the week newspapers of Alabamr.

The people too often but little appreciate the fact that while their local paper may not "have much in it" it is the only medium by which the outside world can know anything of the local happenings of the small community, and that it is not only a letter from home to many who have gone out into the world, but it is also the one source to which the stranger desiring information regarding locality and its resources can apply without being referred to some one else.

Of all the newspapers of the state no class is doing more in proportion to its resources and opportunities in promoting the develop of seperate localites and of the state as a whole than the weekly newspapers. Every citizen of Alabama who has a spark of pride for his town, county or state, should subscribe for his local paper and lend it every posible aid in its great mission.

The Dixie Manufacturer is devoted to the upbuilding of the state in all industrial line, but it is frank to advise every citizen to give preference to his local jappr, for it can do more towards advancing the immediate section in which it is published than all the industrial journal and daily papers combined. Trke your local paper first, then out side journals, magazines and dailies afterwards.—Dixie Manufacturer.

The shirtwaist man and the net-waist girl go hand in hand today, and other people, year after year, keep throwing their clothes away. The coat and vest are laid to rest, and where is the fleecy shawl? If the clothes get fewer and thinner in spots what will be the end of it all? Oh, what will the shirtwaist man take next from the things he has to wear? And what will the net-waist girl throw off from the shoulders now almost bare? The shirtwaist man and net-waist girl go rollicking down the way. Have we started a trend that is going to end in the old fig-leaf fashion some day?—Vinita (I. T.) Chieften.

New Grafting Method.

The grafting of fruit trees has today become such a common operation that there is no need to present the ordinary methods, but what is less well known is that one may take young fruits of certain species and graft them on the branches of other trees. La Nature, Paris, publishes a photograph showing how a pear of one variety was grafted on a branch not its parent.

B. H. Cade and Preston Majors arrived Thursday with feed for W. E. Porterfield from Big Springs.

Mr. Morris bought a new buggy last week and he has been putting in the most of this week in the manufacture of a buggy shed.

Mr. R. T. Edwards of the T-neighborhood brought us a water-mellon the 22nd raised on his place it was certainly a treat to all. If the Lynn County News has a soft spot it is for water-mellons.

There was a coon in town last week who taught the Tahoka kids to make banjos out of cigar boxes and broom wire. We don't know whether the music they produce is most fitted to soothe a savage breast or split a cabbage head.

Mr. W. A. Robinson bought a two seated rig during the rain last week. The rain seemed to sprout a good crop of buyers for the bnggy company. We don't know whether it was better crop prospects ar whether it was so wet the folks decided to quit walking.

Last week was a rushing time for both of our Doctors as there was lots of sickness in town and every body in the county and adjoining counties tried to get hurt or sick, and both Doctors and their teams were considerably worn out before the week was out and every one made comfortable. Tahoka is ahead of the Plains on doctors as well as other things. We have two of the best doctors in west Texas.

Messrs. T. M. Mitchell and J. H. Cowen returned Saturday from a trip to the Yellow House after a load of sand for the court house vault which has been in need of repairs for some time. Mr. Cowen has fixed up the roof now so it will not leak any more. Messrs. Cowen and Mitchell brought back plums as well as sand, but report most of the plums about gone.

We do not take any pleasure in saying that the gin proposition so far as this season is concerned is a dead issue. We wish to say for the buisness men that they did not hesitate in doing what they could to ward putting in a plant at Gail, by by sub sbscribing to a bonus, or taking stock in a Company organised for that purpose. Investigation by the financiers of our town developed the fact that the undertaking was to large without there had been more cotton planted. We dont think this should discourage anyone interested in the welfare of Borden county, but should encourage the farmers in knowing that when cotton is planted to justify it, a gin will be erected.—Borden Citizen.

Mrs. McDaniel has favored the News with several nice messes of string beans this week.

Mrs. L. B. Caldwell of eight miles east of town was in Tahoka Saturday.

New subscribers continue to come in, the Lynn county people are showing their appreciation of a paper in the most practical way. W. L. Davis, R. T. Edwards, W. E. Crawford, J. M. Pailey, Mrs. Mertie McLaurine and Robert Orson, are the additions of this week.

Mr. T. M. Wright of Mexline passed through Tahoka last Saturday on his way to the railroad to try and buy 50 head of hogs to eat the mas, which he says is tvery plentiful out in his country this year.

Standefer-Young.

The Cosmopolitan Hotel was the scene of a pretty wedding the 26th. Mr. John F. Standefer and Miss Jessie Young both of Lynn county arrived at the Hotel just before binner. Judge Bartley was called upon to officiate which he did in a most impressive manner. The bride, one of Lynn countys fairest daughters was dressed in a charming costume of white swiss and ribbon, the dress was trimmed lavishly with ruffles which made it one of those fluffy affairs so snitable for summer brides. Mr. Standefer is one of Lynn countys best young men. The young folks took dinner at the Cosmopolitan and returned to Mr. Standefers in the evening. They will make their future home a few miles south of Lynn school house. We wish the bride much joy and extend congratulations to the groom.

There is nothing speaks so well for a country as for its farmers and ranchmen to use printed stationary it shows that they are prosperous and up to date. We printed some stationary for S. F. Singleton & Son this week, and we expect several more orders from Lynn ranchmen shortly.

Developed by Nature.
 When the petals of the great laurel magnolia are touched, however lightly, the result is a brown spot, which develops in a few hours. The fact is taken advantage of by the South American lover, who pulls a magnolia flower, and on one of its pure white petals writes a motto or message with a sharp-pointed pencil. Then he sends the flower, the young lady puts it in a vase of water, and in three or four hours the message written on the leaf becomes perfectly visible, and remains so.

H. C. CRIE & CO., PRINTERS, TAHOKA, TEXAS.

Our enterprising land agents, Messers Doak & Brown, understand the value and intent of advertising. They had the above ad printed in the shape of circulars, in the hope of inducing some prospectors to come to Lynn county. There are thousands of east Texas people who are taking or going to take a trip west this summer, and many of them have never heard of Lynn county not to mention Tahoka, and it is to reach this class that this matter is for. If this ad, or these circulars help to turn some of the stream this way, they will have fulfilled their mission. It will be up to Doak & Brown to locate them.
