

FORD PRODUCTION MARCHING TOWARD 9,000,000 TODAY

The Ford Motor Company is now on its way toward the 9,000,000 motor it became known when it was announced that Motor No. 8,000,000 went off the assembly line at Highland Park Plant Wednesday night, July 11, establishing a new million production record.

Motor No. 7,000,000 was turned out January 17, of this year, so the company produced the last million motors in six days less than six months.

Production at the start of that period was around 4,800 motors a day and on the increasing schedule in effect since has been brought up to more than 7,000. The average for the period was slightly over 6,711 a day for the 149 working days or an average of more than 166,679 a month.

Under its greatly increased manufacturing capacity the company was able to manufacture the last million motors in two months less time than the previous million. Motor No. 7,000,000 was produced eight months after the 6,000,000th motor passed off the assembly line which was on May 18th, 1922, and nearly a year before that date, May 28, 1921, the 5,000,000th motor was turned out.

It was in 1915 when Ford Motor No. 1,000,000 was produced and under the steadily growing demand for Ford cars and trucks production has been mounting yearly and maintaining an annual output approximating that of all other automobile manufacturers combined.

WANTED—Four school girls to board; place adjoins school yard south east corner. Mrs. Charley Moore. 50c

We closed a meeting at Seagraves August 9th with Pastor Stewart and his splendid church. In spite of the drouth and other difficulties that were in the way we had some 15 additions to the church, and we feel that we left the church much strengthened. Pastor Stewart is one of God's noble men and is bringing things to pass at Seagraves. We predict a great future for this good church and pastor.

DANGER IN CHEWING GRASS

Habit is a Bad One, and May Result in Contraction of Unpleasant Disease.

Many people have been startled recently by the announcement that it is dangerous to chew grass. A well-known athlete has been undergoing medical treatment for several months, and has had two operations on a mysterious swelling in a gland.

The disease is called actinomycosis, and is usually found in cattle, pigs, horses, and even elephants and dogs. In the case mentioned it was contracted through the habit of chewing grass while playing games, a common practice among sportsmen. In chewing grass one may consume a parasite, and there lies the danger.

Formerly this unpleasant disease was known as "wooden tongue" or "big jaw," owing to the large swellings which develop on the tongue, jaw or skin.

Actinomycosis is a chronic inflammatory disease producing pus, and is caused by a fungus, which in the case of a man attacks the jaw and neck, entering through diseased teeth or tonsils. A severe local infection is set up, which burrows its way into the tissues, distorting what it traverses and stopping at nothing unless treated in time. Bones are penetrated as easily as muscles.

HISTORIC CAPE TOWN RELIC

Stump of Old "Slave Tree" is All That Remains as Reminder of Days of Slavery.

There is an old tree in Cape Town in Church square, over 250 years old, and all that remains of it today is the stump, to which is affixed a brass plate and an inscription, giving an outline of its history. It is a most historic landmark, as it was there before the days of Jan van Riebeck. To this tree slaves were brought and placed on tables for exhibition and sale.

The slaves were kept in the old Supreme court building, just opposite the old tree, and it is not difficult still to picture the once familiar scene.

Slavery was abolished in 1838, but the old slave tree stood and braved the storms till November 9, 1916, when it was cut down, as it was considered unsafe. The brass plate was affixed by the owner of a store which, until the tree was cut down, had always been advertised as "under the old fir tree."

Shocking the New Member. Father is a minister and one Sunday morning while he was greeting the members of the church I asked him for the house key. He told me that it was in his coat pocket, and his coat, as I supposed, was in the basement of the church.

There I found quite a few overcoats. I examined each one, by size and color, until I came to one which looked familiar. I laid it out on a table and began searching each pocket, but, being unable to find the key, I deposited the contents of each pocket in a pile nearby. I was examining everything closely, when, alas! the door opened, disclosing new member of the church. He gruffly asked the reason for the interference. I hurriedly explained and then fled. I have not seen him since, but I certainly do hope he does not think the minister's daughter a pickpocket.—Chicago Tribune.

Mountain Flying. Consideration has been given to the possibility of aerial observation in the Himalayas. The range, it appears, has only six peaks above 27,000 feet high, and an aviator flying at about 23,000 or 24,000 feet should have no difficulty in crossing if the highest peaks were avoided, while if he chose certain of the gorges an altitude of some 19,000 feet would suffice. The greatest of the many obstacles to be encountered is the mountain sickness, which occurs in the highest altitudes through deficiency of oxygen. The gradual climber, going afoot, is less handicapped in this respect than the aviator rising suddenly from sea level in his machine. On the other hand, the pedestrian has more fatigue to undergo, and this practically equalizes matters.—New York Herald.

RIVETS SHOT THROUGH HOSE

Compressed Air Device is Now Largely Taking the Place of Passing by Hand.

For years it has been the common practice to use a bucket and tongs in passing rivets by hand. This method not only has been expensive but has been accompanied by many dangers. Now we have perfected a system of distributing red-hot rivets by compressed air through a flexible metallic hose.

This new apparatus consists of a compressed air gun and storage tank, in addition to the metal hose which leads from the forge to the elevator. With this plan the forgerman draws the heated rivet from the fire, drops it into a receptacle at the end of the hose, and here the weight of the rivet opens a valve that again closes automatically. Immediately the forgerman's foot on a pedal applies the force of the compressed air, and the rivet is shot through the hose to the place where it is to be used, arriving free from scale and without any possibility of accident.

In actual practice red-hot rivets have been thus carried 125 feet in seven seconds, with an air pressure of less than four pounds. In addition to the advantage of greater safety, this method has shown a 20 per cent saving in the cost of operation.—Floyd W. Parsons in the Saturday Evening Post.

SAVED IN JUNGLE BY PLANES

Scientist's Wife, Badly Injured, Brought to the Hospital in the Nick of Time.

After an S. O. S. was flashed over hundreds of miles of Panama jungles by the dispatch of a native runner more than seventy-five miles to the nearest telegraph station, three United States army airplanes penetrated the wilderness 320 miles and rescued Mrs. Helen T. Galge, wife of Prof. Frederick M. Galge of the University of Michigan, it was learned upon the arrival of the couple at New York.

Professor and Mrs. Galge left this country last February with the intention of remaining in the jungle 18 months to study reptiles. They had gone hundreds of miles and were near the border of Costa Rica when Mrs. Galge was wounded by an accidental discharge of her shotgun. Her husband administered first aid and dispatched a runner to a little settlement named David, about seventy-five miles away, to telegraph a request for assistance to Dr. S. J. South, American minister to Panama, in Panama City.

Professor Galge and his party then started out to follow the runner, reaching David in three days. Meanwhile, Minister South forwarded the S. O. S. to France field, the army aviation base, and a Martin bomber and two other planes were sent out to find the party.

Latvia is Not Litvia.
Latvia should not be confused with Lithuania, warns the Commerce Bureau. Since the establishment of the exchange of money orders between the United States and Latvia numerous applications for the issue of orders on Lithuania have been made, and in many cases accepted by postmasters who are misled by the fact that people sometimes designate Lithuania as Litvia, Litava, Lietava or Lieutva. While United States money orders are now paid in Latvia (also known as Lettonia and Latvija), there is no money order convention with Lithuania.

Light-Giving Mineral.
The people of Cornwall, in England, aver that at night there may be seen there a faintly shining mineral among the rocks rejected from the mines. That this is not pure imagination on their part has been proved by scientific investigation. A specimen of the mineral autunite, which is also found in Wales, was sent to a scientific body in London for examination of its apparently luminous properties. It was found that it closely resembled artificially prepared salts of uranium, and that its luminescence was due to its spontaneous radioactivity.

CLAUDE PEOPLE CONGRATULATE LUBBOCK ON GETTING "TECH"

The Avalanche and the people of Lubbock appreciate the following letter from Dr. W. A. and Phebe K. Warner, of Claude, congratulating Lubbock on receiving the Texas Technological College. We believe the letter expresses the general sentiments of the people of West Texas.

Claude, Texas, Aug. 9, 1923. Mr. James L. Dow, Lubbock, Texas.

My dear Mr. Dow and all Lubbock and Lubbock county:—

We are so happy that the great Tech. College goes to Lubbock. Of course we all wanted it. And next to our own town we wanted it in the next town. But we are grateful that the locating board placed it on the Plains where it belongs. We rejoice with you and your county in the great treasure that has been assigned to your county and city believing what ever is needed Lubbock will equal to ever emergency and if there is anything lacking that Lubbock cannot accomplish alone YOU have the whole Panhandle and all the Plains solidly back of you for every one feels the personal interest and pride in OUR NEW COLLEGE.

And further more we believe that all West Texas will be more easily reconciled to the location at Lubbock than any where else on the Plains. Won't the Panhandle and Plains NOW show the WORLD what they can do with a State like Texas behind them. We just feel like singing the Doxology at our house to think the Panhandle and the Plains finally have a great common cause to live for and work for and leave to others to perpetuate when it is time for us to "Go West." And now our people will no longer feel like the "Man Without a Country."

Nothing has ever been done that will cement the Panhandle and Plains to Texas in the holy bonds of joyous citizenship like the location of the fourth great State school in our territory.

Again we rejoice with and congratulate Lubbock in the great victory. Our love and sympathy to the other 36 towns that wanted it, including our home town.

Yours for a Greater West Texas, Dr. W. A. and Phebe K. Warner.

one among the real newspaper men in west Texas. The people of Brownfield and Terry County are indeed fortunate in having a man of his caliber in their midst and they should rally to his support and make the Herald as snappy looking in the future as the issue we received this week. Other South Plains papers will have to hurry if they stay alongside the Terry County Herald as long as its ownership remains in the hands of our friend,—one Jack Stricklin.

Farmers along the edge of the cap rock east of Tahoka are needing rain in the worst way. The feed and cotton crops are drying up for want of moisture. This immediate section, which lies in the Post trade territory, was hailed out, making their crops all late. Lynn County as a whole is not suffering for moisture as bad as some other portions of the South Plains.

THEORY OR EXAMPLE

By Phebe K. Warner

Edison has said that one example is worth more than a thousand precepts. Wonder why? One reason is that it's all book learning that we get through our ears. Did you know that only 15 per cent of what we learn comes through our ears? We can better understand why when we see a high school graduate and a university graduate know any more than they do. Their education up to the day they receive their diploma is theoretical.

When we DO a thing we learn. The other fellow may not know until he does it. The man who raised 100 bushels of corn on one acre where once he could raise 40 bushels believes it. The man who actually raised a crop in a county KNOWS it can be done. It does not make any difference whether anybody else believes it or not. Just goes on doing things and does not believe.

Knapp, in whose great vision mirrored the vision of the demonstration, is quoted as saying that real agricultural results never come until the farmer begins to grow, and become a grower and that his growth is based on what he himself has experienced. Dr. Benjamin of the University of Wisconsin says that demonstration is the way to reach the men on the farm. Walter Paige of England has shown education through demonstration the greatest move of any age.

Education agents who can not get through to her until she gets the work thoroughly organized and under good headway before you let her go, for you may never be able to get one again.

"Mr. Martin defines Extension work as 'the readjustment of agriculture and the reconstruction of the country home.' Under the head of the HOME it includes everything that helps to make home life in the country more profitable, more attractive and more healthful and happy. The better kitchen contests was one of the real thrills of the Farmers Short Course. The girls clothing contest, the food canning contests, the better homes work, the better garden and prettier yard work, the planning of more conveniences and labor and time savers is one of the greatest features of home demonstration work. Why, men believe in every device that will save their time and labor and strength. Why should not women come in for their share? And it is not only saving the bodies of our women and girls but it is saving their souls and spirit and developing a new enthusiasm in rural life that for years has been threatened with desertion. It's great. So great that no one can understand it by hearing about it or even seeing it. You just have to be a part of it and DO the thing yourself to understand its value, for, after all, the only things we truly KNOW are the things we DO.

She was on her way home from Lamesa where she had been to take her father that he might take the line car from there to Big Spring. She was accompanied by her children and Mrs. Smith also of Brownfield. While Mrs. Strickland's father was visiting with her they motored to Amarillo. She said she had driven over 700 miles in the past four days. Poor Jack remained at home to publish the Herald and furnish the gasoline. Such is the life of a printer.

Facts Vs. Figures

THERE ARE IN TEXAS OVER NINE HUNDRED STATE BANKS THAT OPERATE UNDER THE GUARANTY FUND SYSTEM, HAVING A COMBINED CAPITAL OF OVER $65,000,000.00 AND RESOURCES OF OVER $225,000,000.00. TO MAKE THIS SYSTEM A SUCCESS THE STATE BANKS OF TEXAS HAVE SPENT OVER TEN MILLION DOLLARS IN LESS THAN FIFTEEN YEARS. THEY ALWAYS MAINTAIN WITH THE STATE BANKING DEPARTMENT, ABOUT THREE MILLION DOLLARS, PUTTING BACK BY ASSESSMENT ANY PART OF THE FUND TAKEN OUT TO MAKE GOOD A GROUP OF DEPOSITS.

WE ARE GLAD OF THE FACT THAT WE ARE A MEMBER OF THE GUARANTY FUND SYSTEM IN TEXAS BECAUSE DURING THE TWELVE YEARS THAT THE SYSTEM HAS BEEN IN OPERATION NOT A SINGLE DOLLAR OF NON-INTEREST BEARING AND UNSECURED DEPOSITS HAS BEEN LOST IN A GUARANTY FUND BANK.

AGAIN WE SAY WE ARE PROUD OF THE FACT THAT NOT AS LARGE AS THE LARGEST, BUT AS STRONG AS THE STRONGEST.

Old Information Is Misinformation

The World changes. Old governments are passing; new governments, territories and parties are in the forming. The discoveries and inventions of to-day are superseded by the achievements of to-morrow. The old-fashioned, bound, stitched and glued encyclopaedia served its purpose in a past generation. A new age demands a new Encyclopaedia—a reference work that can keep pace, step by step, with the New World.

Nelson's Loose-Leaf Encyclopaedia, with its patented loose-leaf binding device, is the only Encyclopaedia that can discard the old and out-of-date and substitute the new and living in its place. IT IS THE ONLY PRACTICAL PLAN FOR RELIABLE INFORMATION.

SECOND NEWS LETTER ON EUROPEAN TRIP

By Frank E. Burkhalter

The following letter, the second of which has been published in the News, is written by Frank E. Burkhalter, brother of H. P. Burkhalter, of Grassland. He is attending the World's Baptist Alliance being held at Stockholm. We are sure his letters will be greatly enjoyed by News readers. It is probably that another letter will be written his brother here and published in this paper before his return to the States.

Stockholm, Sweden, July 17, 1923. It has been quite a while since the first letter was posted, but there have been so many things to claim my attention since I landed at Southampton, England, on the morning of Tuesday, July 16. I have not had an opportunity to write.

The first point we visited in England was Oxford, seat of the famous Oxford University, regarded by many as the greatest university in the world today. Dr. Armstrong, the manager of our party, had arranged for two big parlor cars to be attached to the regular train for our accommodation and this insured us good seats for the trip, which was one of the most enjoyable I have made so far. I have never seen more beautiful farming country anywhere. The fields were well cultivated, the farmers were busy gathering their hay, the crops and grass and trees and flowers were all very attractive, and the people looked contented and happy. Very few English farmers own their own homes, however, due to the system of land ownership being vested largely in the nobility and the very rich.

At Oxford we visited the University venerable with age and traditions and while I was glad of an opportunity to see the historic old school somehow I hardly think I would like to study there. The buildings are very old but in a very good state of preservation, but the grounds are exceedingly beautiful and well kept. It was in the historic libraries that I saw the most interesting things about the school. The library has some very interesting documents relating to Bible history as well as literature in general.

After having spent the larger part of the afternoon at the university I caught a late train to London and reached there around 7:30 that night, thus catching my first view of the great city which now boasts of a population of 8,000,000. On Wednesday, July 4, we did a lot of sight seeing in London, including London Tower, where a number of noted political prisoners of olden days were executed, samples of the armor of olden days are kept, and the crown jewels of England, such as coronation swords, helmets, crowns, dishes and other things of rare beauty and value are kept for the inspection of the visitors.

We had lunch that day at Trocadero's, one of the best restaurants in London, and the orchestra complimented America and the Americans by playing Dixie, The Star-Spangled Banner, and a number of other American melodies which we enjoyed. In the afternoon we went to one of the leading art galleries and to Westminster Abbey, a great church made more famous from the fact that it is the burial place of kings and queens and other highly distinguished citizens. The next day we drove out in the country past the old church where the poet Gray wrote his Elegy on a Country Church Yard and then connected with a steamer going down the Thames river, where we had one of the most beautiful rides imaginable, as people of wealth and social prestige have beautiful estates along the river banks. Shortly after noon we arrived at Windsor Castle, the beautiful winter palace of the King of England and after having lunch at a hotel in the shadow of the Castle we inspected the big plant and found it fairly interesting. On the drive back to town we stopped at Hampton Court, the home of titled people who are drawing pensions from the government, for tea. This court has one of the most beautiful flower gardens in England and I enjoyed that phase of it particularly. The vast majority of the people in the country and small towns have beautiful flowers in their yards, adding much to the attractiveness of their homes.

Friday morning I spent visiting St. Paul's Cathedral, famous as one of the finest bits of architecture in the world. It is also the burial place of a number of famous people. It has a whispering gallery at one side of which you can place your ear to the wall and hear the guide whispering at the other side. The hall is about 150 feet wide, I should say, and this remarkable feat is made possible by its perfect acoustics.

The British Museum was visited Friday afternoon, and while it has rare manuscripts of various kinds and many other things of interest, the things interested me most were some old monuments discovered in the East which serve to verify absolutely many statements in the Bible, thus confirming the truth of the Bible from profane history as well as by inspiration.

Saturday morning we visited the British House of Parliament, corresponding to our national capitol at Washington. It is without question the most beautiful building from an architectural standpoint I have ever seen, and no visit I made in London was more enjoyable. From there we went over to Buckingham Palace, the city residence of the king and queen, and saw the King's Guard of officers change for the day. There are 200 or 300 men in the guard, contributed from various British possessions and dressed in all the color and finery of olden days. The guard band played during the ceremony and we kept our eyes open for a glimpse of the king and queen, as we were told they sometimes come to the balcony and bow while the guard is changing. We did not see them, though one member of the nobility passed out of the palace while we were waiting. I tried my kodak on the guards but am not sure whether the pictures are good or not, as I am just now having them developed.

I had to leave London Saturday afternoon to come on to Stockholm to help set up the exhibits for the World Alliance. I got to Harwich, an English port, just in time to connect with a boat for Esberg, in Denmark, at 6 that afternoon. I was fortunate in catching the North Sea when it was calm, as it is usually very rough, I am told. It was as smooth as a pond this time and the trip was very pleasant with the exception that I was compelled to spend Sunday on the boat, and there were no services. The boat was Danish but the crew spoke some English and I managed to get along very well. We landed at Esberg late Sunday afternoon and I fell in love with the neatness and good humor of the Danish people. They were about the cleanest and happiest lot of people I have ever encountered, an opinion that was confirmed by others that I saw at Copenhagen. I rode in my first European sleeper from Esberg to Copenhagen that night and found it fairly comfortable, though not quite as convenient in many respects as our American Pullmans. The engines, cars and other equipment are much smaller than ours for the most part, but they make very good time. People travel first, second and third class, the price ranging very low to very high. The majority go third class, it seems. My ticket was third class in England, first-class on the boat and second class in Denmark and Sweden.

Arriving at Copenhagen, the capital and principal city of Denmark, about 11 o'clock Monday morning, I spent a day and a half there visiting the principal points of interest. It is a very beautiful and attractive city and I hated to come away so soon, but I had to come on to Stockholm and get to work. The city is wonderfully well kept, and has a great system of parks and boulevards, art galleries, museums, monuments, and the like, and every body seemed to be happy and prosperous. I did not see a beggar anywhere. The people are industrious but when they get through with their work they know how to take things easy.

One regrettable feature about the people is that nearly all of them drink liquor, the women and children as well as the men. There are no saloons but the hotels and restaurants will serve drinks and the people do a good deal of drinking. They do not go to the excess that people used to in America, however, and I did not see any drunk people anywhere. The same situation prevails here in Sweden, though the temperance movement is growing some here, I understand.

Denmark was the first country I was ever in for any length of time where I encountered a strange language altogether and I had a little difficulty for the first hour or so in finding my way around as but very few of the people could understand any English. I soon found a good many of their words had some kinship to English and German and Latin words which I knew and I soon managed to get along very nicely, even though I could not speak much Danish. My principal difficulty in Denmark, as it is here, lay in getting just what I wanted to eat. I could not always read the menus, the waiters could not speak English as a rule, but I am now managing to get along pretty well, though I am not much in love with Scandinavian food as I am with the thrift and beauty of the people and country in this section of Europe.

Arriving here Wednesday morning I went immediately out to the Technical High school building the finest technical high school in Europe, I understand, where our exhibit is being put up and went to work on that. We completed this part of the work yesterday and today I have been manifesting some addresses that will be delivered at the Alliance. The work has been hard, especially in view of the fact that my typewriter has a Swedish keyboard to it, that is different from the American keyboard in several respects.

So far, I have had no opportunity to see much of Stockholm, though it is one of the prettiest cities in the world. It is located on the coast and a series of islands, the water in every direction is beautiful, the harbor is a very busy one, the buildings are attractive, there are hills in every direction almost, attractive park spots are found in every direction and the wide shaded streets, kept immaculately clean, are a pleasure to the eye. I hope to take in some of the city before the conference opens Saturday.

The papers have been very kind to us. Friday the leading paper carried the photographs of the four of us who are at work on the exhibits on the front page, along with a two-column writeup of us. Sunday one of the Baptist editors had us all out to his house for dinner (and a fine meal it was, too) and that afternoon at 6 o'clock we addressed the congregation of the Second Baptist Church through an interpreter. That morning at the First Baptist Church I saw a Swedish baptism and the observance of the Lord's Supper, while Saturday afternoon I attended a beautiful Swedish marriage ceremony at the Third Baptist Church where one of the young professors in the Baptist Seminary here took unto himself a bride. It was one of the prettiest ceremonies I ever saw and it almost made me want to get married myself.

I have changed my plans again about my sight seeing and shall go into Germany for a few days after finishing up my work here, thence into Switzerland and France for a few days each before sailing for home August 15. I am getting hungry for some news from home and some home cooking, but I think I will enjoy the food in Germany, Switzerland and France better than this in Scandinavia.

I will try and write again from somewhere along the line, probably before leaving Stockholm, or possibly from Switzerland. With all best wishes, FRANK E. BURKHALTER.

DEMOCRATS TO ELECT THE NEXT PRESIDENT

Ex-Senator Thinks McAdoo or Marshall Will Be Democratic Choice—West May Swing Election.

Los Angeles, Calif., July 31.—J. Hamilton Lewis, of Chicago, is in Los Angeles. Colonel Lewis, as United States Senator from Illinois, was whip of the Democratic Senate under Wilson, and candidate of the Democratic Party of Illinois at the last election for Governor. He is here in relation to the law suit in the United States courts over oil lands, and is to appear as associate attorney with William G. McAdoo.

"The next President will be a Democrat, elected by Republican votes of the West," said Mr. Lewis. "The Pacific Coast States in 1916 elected the President of the United States. These States, combined with the Middle West, will both nominate and elect the next President."

"William G. McAdoo or former Vice President Thomas R. Marshall would be the ticket of the Democrats of today."

"If sentiment increases opposing any entry by the United States into the political relations of Europe, William Randolph Hearst will be demanded, as representing in himself complete opposition to the Wilson League of Nations or the Harding World Court."

No Fear of Revolt. "The fear of ex-President Wilson of a civil revolt in America as has taken place in Russia is without foundation in any condition in the United States. The ex-President has been too ill to travel and learn of the true state of his country. Those who are for revolution or communism in this land are very few, and of the class that never influence national action. The discontent of the farmers and toilers is not with our country, but with our legislation. This can be cured in one session of Congress if Democracy will elect a constitutional administration based on national reform, opposed to revolution in government or anarchy in measures."

"The business of the Nation wants repose and the people cry for security. All are tired of conflict and disorder. The financial East can not now dominate in either political party. No candidate of saloons, international finance or further taxation of the people can be named by any party. If there is a third party a farmer candidate will be named."

Balance in Illinois. "No manufacturer or labor leader can be nominated by farmers. The third-party ticket will embarrass both old parties, for it is in the agricultural states from which has come every victory in presidential elections at each election since 1900, excepting only the election of Roosevelt in 1904."

"The convention of both parties will be held in Chicago. Illinois is now a doubtful State for any political party. Each party will try to capture it, as its votes will turn the balance of success or defeat."

"The former Republican States of Illinois, Indiana and Iowa are now balancing between old Republicanism and new Democracy. All are doubtful. The next election will see four presidential candidates, with the Pacific Coast States casting the balance of success for the winner."

ART HAS VARIOUS ASPECTS

It is Anything That Looks Like It to Any Person, According to This Writer.

The thing that looks art to a person who thinks that it is art, is art. There are many ways of looking at it from different angles—those of the rich and the poor, the educated and the uneducated, the child and the grownup. Art belongs to everybody who looks for it. There is not a human being who does not admire art. Art and you will be more friendly when you are at peace; when you have no trouble on your mind, no sickness in your family, nothing to worry over, then you can enjoy art. Then art will love you and you in turn will love art. Art is very wide. Art is not only what you see with your eyes, but it is within your mind also. There are many things beside art objects in art galleries. You may find art almost anywhere, any time, if you have the eye to see it. In your home good housekeeping is art; so are harmonious decorations and the arrangement of flowers; so are cooking, eating, sleeping and dressing; so is talking; so are movements and manners—yes, so is love—there is art in all. You may find a great sculptor in the barber shop or in a tailor shop. A master hand—that is art. No matter where we find it—Matachi Miya in the North American Review.

GOES BACK ON OWN ORDER

British Nobility Startled by Proposal of One of Themselves, to Abolish Hereditary Titles.

The introduction into the house of commons by the Hon. Arthur Bonsor of a bill to abolish hereditary titles created more of a sensation because of the social connections of its author than because of its somewhat revolutionary nature. The Hon. Arthur was at one time a page of honor to Queen Victoria, is related to many of the noble families of England and at one time took an active part in English society.

In his earlier political career he was a liberal, but has since become an important member of the labor party. His bill, although it is not the first of its kind with which the British commons has had to deal, was greeted with wild enthusiasm by labor members and great indignation by the Tory members. The Hon. Arthur declares that although his bill may fall of passage this time, it will become a law before many years.
