Hallowe'en Ghosts Entertain

AT MRS. TONEY CHISUM'S.

The Greatest Entertainment Given
The Past Year.

The young people of Tahoka celebrated Hallowe'en at the home of Mrs. Toney Chisum in the south part of town. The young ladies met at the home of Mrs. S. W. Joplin, where they transferred themselves into as gay a company of ghosts as we ever met in legend or story. The gentlemen gathered at the hotel where they made themselves into a fine lot of spooks. A four horse rig was provided by the boys, consisting of two wagons trailed together. When darkness shut down so their ghostships felt at home, the ghost train started after the lady ghosts. When all were on board the silent march began which ended at the front door of the Chisum residence. The door swung noiselessly open, and a very tall, slim spook welcomed the company, and in sepulchral tones and a shake of his bony hand made them welcome to the realms over which he presided, they wandered aimlessly about for awhile. Then the fun began by the guessing, as to which ghost was which. A good many laughable guesses were made, when one was correct the mask was removed and friend recognized friend. Mr. Chisum was the first to try his luck at bobbing for apples. A tub was provided full of water, with plenty of apples, and those wishing good luck for the ensuing year were allowed to court fortune in this diverting game. The bowl of fate was presented and the guests speared for husbands or wives as the case might be. The mystic candles were lighted and furnished entertainment the whole evening, each trying to shorten the span of years to be spent in single blessedness. In olden time the festival of All Hallow Eve was celebrated by the young men and maidens under the boughs of the old apple orchards, lighted by the friendly Jack'o'lantern. Troths were plighted and vows were spoken which bound many loving hearts for life and propitious ending of the ceremonies were thought to insure bountiful crop for the coming year. It was a happy inspiration of the hostess to provide for this festival of the orchard a dainty repast of fruit punch and wafers which was beautifully served in the dining room. The punch bowl was placed in the center of the dining table beneath a huge Jack'o'lantern who grinned his approval on the merrymaking. The lucky cake was cut by the seekers for fortune and the charming hostess, Mrs. Toney Chisum received the dime insuring prosperity for the coming year. Mr. Joe Honea received the ring, marking him as an early victim of cupid's darts. The unlucky person who received the poor old button did not dare to reveal their identity, thereby denying their friends the privilege of condolence.

WORTH $1,000.00 IN CASH.

THE WAY WE FIGURE, THIS ISSUE OF THE LYNN COUNTY NEWS IS WORTH $1,000.00 TO THE HOME SUBSCRIBERS: THIS PAPER GOES INTO TWO HUNDRED HOMES WHERE, WHEN THEY HAVE READ ABOUT G. W. COUGHRAN & CO'S "GREAT SACRIFICE SALE," WILL GO THERE AND BUY FROM FIVE TO FIFTY DOLLARS WORTH OF GOODS AND SAVE FROM ONE TO TEN DOLLARS FOR EACH HOME WHERE THIS PAPER IS READ. HOW DO YOU FIGURE IT?

Hatchet-Marchbanks.

Mr. Jesse Hatchett and Miss Be sie Marchbanks, both of Lynn, were united in marriage, Sunday Oct. 27th at three o'clock. Rev. Virgil Coughran spoke the sweet and solemn words that made them man and wife. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's parents in the presence of relatives and friends.

The groom is the son of H. S. Hatchett and is one of the finest young men we have ever met; he is one of the most progressive and successful farmers in his community. The bride is as lovely a girl as any man could wish, and Mr. Hatchett is to be congratulated upon winning such a winsome wife.

The bride was arrayed in a beautiful white Eolienne dress and wore a white picture hat trimmed with white plumes.

A sumptuous supper was served in honor of the occasion by the bride's mother.

Unfortunately the mother of the groom was absent at the bedside of a sick daughter and so missed the ceremony which did not rob her of a son while it gave her a daughter.

The News extends congratulations and best wishes to the happy pair.

The lucky stone was a feature of the evening and many kisses were imprinted upon its willing face. When midnight drew near the door to the witch's cave was opened and the guests entered, one at a time, to receive the message the Gipsy had to deliver. Judging from the different expressions when the ordeal was over, the assortment of fortunes were as varied as they were original. The Gipsy was impersonated by Mrs. Joplin who was arrayed in a gorgeous costume of red and green which blended with the decorations of the cave. Souvenir cards distributed by the Gipsy will tend to remind the participants of one of the most pleasant times of the year. The rooms were beautifully decorated with horseshoes and apples. The good natured faces of Jack'o lanterns grinned their gruesome pleasure in the festivities and furnished the weird light which was so appropriate to the quaint of Worthy Citizen Dead.

Mr. W. T. Fenn died Monday, Oct. 28th, 1907, at Lubbock, Texas, after an illness of several weeks which he bore with Christian grace and fortitude, though his suffering at times was very severe.

Bro Fenn was born Feb 7, 1848 and at the age of 16 joined the Baptist church, of which he lived a consistent member until the day of his death. He was one of the first settlers in Lynn county and lived here during the pioneer days. His door was always open to the traveler and a warm welcome awaited all who claimed his hospitality. A kind word and a cheerful greeting was extended to friend and stranger alike, and a brotherly kindness was the key-note to his daily life. In all business dealings his word was as good as the bank.

Mr. Fenn died a triumphant Christian and his only regret seemed to be that he had to leave his loved ones behind. His greatest desire was that his children be impressed with the importance of living right; he spent a great deal of time during his last illness exhorting his boys and girls to look up to the Power which gives strength for all things.

Lynn County has lost a citizen that will be hard to replace, but while we deplore the loss of our friend, we cannot help but rejoice that his suffering is over and he has entered into his rest. "Well done thou good and faithful servant," was fitly spoken of such as he.

Two of his children were unable to reach here in time to see their father before the end came. The son because he could not be found, and the daughter because of delicate health.

We join the friends of the sorrowing in sympathy and condolence.

fashioned customs and games. Mrs. Chisum is to be congratulated upon the success of the evening. Misses Mabel Shook and Ethel Porter assisted the hostess in a most bewitching manner. Those who were entertained on this occasion say it was the most enjoyable affair they ever attended. Seventeen couples were present.

Philippine Correspondence--5

By S. E. DERACKEN.

Zomboanga, Moro Province, P. I.,
October 1, 1907.

The Mohammedan Moros, as a rule take their religion very seriously, particularly that part of it which deals with morality. A strange story, illustrating this point, comes from the Island of Basilan, some twenty miles from this city.

Among the offenses which, according to Moro law, are punishable by death, is the crime of adultery when committed by persons related to each other within the third degree of consanguinity. The Moros also believe that the presence of such people in a village will bring misfortune upon the entire community.

Early in the present year an offense of this nature was brought to light in one of their villages, and the people were clamorous for the death of the offenders. The village headman, while feeling that such a course would be an eminently proper one, feared the action of the American authorities, and consulted with an European planter living in the vicinity, explaining the necessity of prompt action in the case, as bad luck would be sure to come to the village in any event, but in a more severe form if they temporized with the offenders.

The planter laughed their superstitions to scorn and warned them against the deed they contemplated explaining that the authorities would certainly hold all persons connected with the act responsible, and furthermore, tried to convince them of the absurdity of their superstitions. After much argument and many explanations the Moros left in an apparently satisfied mood.

Shortly afterwards a period of drought set in. When the crops began to fail the people laid the blame upon the guilty couple. Deputations waited upon the planter calling attention to their plight and requesting his permission to "remove the cause." The latter remained obdurate, however, arguing with them and exhorting them to cast aside superstition, declaring that "the rain would come" whether the guilty couple were executed or not.

The rain finally came and, to discover its effect, the planter betook himself to the village on the following day, receiving the felicitations of happy farmers on all sides. Upon arriving at the headman's residence he called out to him that "the rain had come." The chief replied with a dubious sort of a smile, but did not make any remark. Desirous of impressing the villagers with the fact that they had been misled by their superstitions, the planter asked that the guilty couple be brought forth and exhibited to the village, but the chief replied that that was impossible, as the offenders had been executed by

YOAKUM HIT HARD.

The new county of Yoakum is having hard luck. It did not get any county school land, as usual and will get only $2694.00 from the state, the usual amount for new counties is $5000.00. They will possibly have to issue bonds to build the court house, as the amount procured from the State will but little more than pay for stationery, furniture and getting down to business. A hard beginning may be good ending.

Yoakum has some fine resources, and gritty officers, and no fear be had-but that she will come out all right.—Terry County Herald.

Every night at about 9 o'clock the Dogville choir of Midland gives the inhabitants thereof a grand concert of a decidedly woeinspiring effect. This "music" consists chiefly of solos, obligatos, howlegattose, jimmie-jammie-ot-toes, duets, twoettes, fleattes, mangesets, without one single awkward pause between acts.

The deep spasmodic bass of the bulldog, together with the sweet sympathetic, well pointed alto of the staghound and the lyric soprano of the water spaniel and the soulful foghornlike baritone of the shepherd and the harmonious obligato of the benchlegged cur shrilly singing the snyphocated after-time, soft and snappy, keeps the ever gentle, nervous system of our people in a high state of entertainment until the wee small hours. Something should be done about this: Midland is full of some of the measliest, no account canines that it has ever been our misfortune to see. Do away with'em.

LOST—One mouse colored mare mule, branded T on jaw, about 4 years old, lost August 18. I will pay $10 for her to be delivered to Bob Huckabee, at Tahoka, Texas.—S. A. Ater.

Rev. Virgil Coughran and Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Coughran left the first of the week to attend the Holiness Council in Dallas. They will go from there to Arlington, where they will attend the Holiness Association. They went from here to Colorado by private conveyance and expect to be absent about a month.

R. E. Morris, has just returned from a surveying trip through Terry, Yoakum and Cochran counties. His work took him within 12 miles of the New Mexico border. Mr. Morris, says he has been through the sand hills enough to satisfy anybody and saw sand holes large enough to put our court house in. We are glad to say that when a man buys land in Lynn county, he just gets enough sand to raise water melons, goubers and apples for his own folks and some for the neighbors.

Mr. Douthit and family and Mr. Olly Wilkinson and family passed through Tahoka Monday morning enroute to their new homes in Lubbock county near Lubbock. Mr. Wilkinson is brother to Mrs. Millman of this place and Mr. Douthit is his father-in-law. Mr. Douthit was accompanied by his mother, who is 107 years old and in good health and remarkably strong for one of her age. They are well pleased with the Plains in general and their part of them in particular.
