PRICE TEN CENTS

TRAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR

Standing at the threshold of a new day when the winter mists cling to the arms of shadows, I am at once awed by the beauty God has made eternal, and chagrined by man's audacity.

With the customary selection of Florida winter beach scenes finding a place on the printed page, some doubt is created as to the importance of the climate in attracting men to the area.

It seems impossible that nature could be discouraged but observers of West Texas weather have noticed a diminishing of the high winds since women have adopted slacks as part of the wardrobe.

Drifts of dirty snow lay across the dim wagon road and the horses' feet went through the shell of ice with a crunching sound. The freight wagon driver had tied the reins to the left side of his wagon and walked, protecting himself from the frigid wind as much as possible. Darkness had arrived so suddenly he had been unable to estimate his location and more snow had started to fall. The horses felt out the road and the wagon trailed the ruts, but the sameness of the prairie and the storm had left him at the mercy of the lead animals' instinct. He pressed the bottle of medicine in the pocket of his ragged old coat and kept it warm with his hand. Somewhere beyond the wall of darkness a sick child tossed in its bed. The driver was no longer cold, or weary or hungry. He stopped the teams and let them ease their breathing, then spoke gently and the wagon started to move again. The snow was deeper and fear raced through his heart at times that the road was lost. He lost track of time and held to a wagon standard as the snow became deeper. The wagon stopped and he walked ahead to find the barrier. His hand struck the barbs of a fence and he found the gate. Knowing where to look, he could see the light from a small window, like a candle in the stormy sea.

Sound must abide by its pretenders, as the loud voice is apt to proclaim its insignificance; a falling twig echoes beneath the mighty, silent tree, and a rolling pebble detracts momentarily from the mountain. A dime dropped in the church collection plate makes more noise than a thousand dollar bill. (Tribune files Feb. 2, 1956)

News Media Is Given Preview Of Premiere

A PREVIEW of activities in preparation for the world premiere of the Roy Rogers film, "Mackintosh and T. J." was held Tuesday in Lubbock, when members of the news media were guests of the Ranching Heritage Center of the Museum of Texas Tech University, and Penland Productions of Fort Worth.

Ill with bronchial pneumonia at his home in Apple Valley, California, Rogers was unable to attend the opening day of activities, but expressed hope that he would be able to travel and be in Lubbock by today, for the world premiere scheduled Thursday night in the Winchester Theatre.

The world premiere will be a benefit for the Ranching Heritage Center.

A screening of the film Tuesday morning in the Winchester Theatre was followed by an orientation luncheon at the Texas Tech Museum for representatives of the press, television and radio.

Health Resources Explained To Lions

Members of Matador Lions Club, in regular Tuesday luncheon meeting, heard the new Multiphasic Screening program of the Texas Department of Health Resources explained.

Mrs. Verdoorn explained that in the event a health problem is detected from these tests, no treatment is given by this office. Rather, the patients are referred to the family doctor for treatment.

There is no charge for any service performed by the office here, since the office is operated as a branch of the Texas Department of Health Resources, which was formerly known as the State Health Department. It is a tax supported agency and all services are paid for by the state.

While most of the health care programs administered by the state or federal government are directed at the poverty class of the population, this program is directed at all segments of the populace," Mrs. Verdoorn emphasized. "No questions are asked concerning the patient's financial condition."

Mrs. Verdoorn urged Lions members and their families to use the services offered by this program. "We feel that our program will enhance the services offered by area physicians, by offering a means of early detection of many types of health problems."

Lions members were also reminded of the Father-Son Banquet, the date for which is set for February 24. Boss Lion J. M. (Sonny) Russell made the announcement and said the banquet would be held at the High School Cafeteria and gym. Committee assignments for the banquet were handed out.

Among local personalities seen in the picture are C. R. Davis, R. E. Campbell Jr., Lola (Mrs. Frank) Pohl, Nell Brotherton, Freddie and Irene Welling, Joyce and Kirby Campbell, Ronnie Christian, Pat Seigler, Grace and Harold Campbell, Jinks Wilson, Hazel Donovan, Lucretia and Bundy Campbell, Floyd Hardin, Dorothy Webb, Audie Poteet, James Stanley and Charley Johnson.

Superb acting, together with an intriguing story plot and fantastic shots of scenery combine to make the film good entertainment. The scenes made at the 6666 Ranch at Guthrie and several highway scenes showing the foothills of the Caprock country add to the overall enjoyment of the picture.

Local People In Film

"Mackintosh and T. J." starring Roy Rogers and 14-year-old Clay O'Brien has been looked forward to with much anticipation locally.

Twenty or more local and area residents were used as "extras," and appear quite clearly, on the screen.

MR. AND MRS. RONNY D. GRAHAM

Former Resident Is Wed In Lovington Ceremony

In a formal ceremony read December 27 in Lovington, N. M., Miss Gina Killingsworth became the bride of Ronny Dale Graham. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Odie Killingsworth, former residents of Matador. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. W. H. "Hop" Graham of Lovington. Brad Dayton, ministerial student of Abilene, Tex., and high school and college friend of the couple, read the double ring vows in the Jackson Avenue Baptist Church.

Honor attendants of the bride were her sisters, Mrs. Phil Reagan of Tyler, Mrs. Roger Rodman of Irving and Miss Gay Killingsworth of Lovington, N.M.

Donnie Wilson of Guyman, Okla., was best man for his college roommate, and groomsmen were John Harris of Abilene and Joe Maddy of New Mexico State University in Las Cruces.

Ushers were John Graham and Andy Graham, brothers of the bridegroom. Candlelighter was Brian Irwin of Tyler, nephew of the bride.

Candelabra entwined with fresh ivy and holly and holding red tapers, formed a background for the ceremony. The setting was completed with tall baskets of red carnations and gladioli.

Hal Graham of Dallas, brother of the bridegroom, accompanied himself on the guitar for vocal numbers, "Follow Me," "For Baby," and "Wedding Song." Miss Beth Osborn, college roommate of the bride, sang, "The Voice That O'er Eden." Background music was furnished by Mrs. James Shields, pianist, and Mrs. Don Brashear, organist.

GIVEN in marriage by her father, the bride selected a wedding gown of chiffon over bridal satin which was designed and made by her mother. The empire waistline was enhanced by re-embroidered lace with matching lace on the mandarin collar. Full sheer sleeves were tightly banded at the wrist and closed with miniature covered buttons. The sheer yoke was softly rounded and the full skirt was edged in matching lace.

Her fingertip veil of illusion was attached to a bandeau of re-embroidered lace, and she carried a nosegay of red and white carnations and holly atop a white Bible. Traditionally, she wore "something old, new, borrowed and blue."

The bride's attendants wore gowns of red brushed velour with empire waistlines accented by miniature white lace and mandarin collars and long sleeves edged in matching lace. They carried nosegays of red carnations and holly.

Mrs. Speedy Faith registered guests at a table which featured a picture silhouette of the couple which was also printed on the wedding invitations. A hurricane lamp held a red taper.

THE BRIDE'S table at the reception was covered with a white floor length cloth and enhanced by fresh greenery and holly and red candles in crystal holders. The tiered cake was separated by columns and decorated in red roses and white satin wedding bells. Red fruit punch and handmade red and white mints were served.

The bridegroom's table was centered with the large white wedding candle which was used in the wedding of the parents of the groom. Holly and greenery completed the setting. Coffee was served from a silver service with a varied cake assortment including pumpkin, fruit, butter and carrot-pineapple. Napkins for both tables were red and white and inscribed with names of the young couple.

In the house party were Mrs. Jim Campbell of Eastern New Mexico University in Portales, Mrs. Faith, Mrs. Brad Layton of Abilene and Miss Osborn; also Mrs. Douglas Pitts, formerly of Matador and now of Lovington, Mrs. Kenneth Osborn, Mrs. David Maddy, Mrs. Earl Mauldin, Mrs. George Bagley and Mrs. Dale Hammons.

Denise Irwin, niece of the bride, handed out reception scrolls and Steve Graham, younger brother of the bridegroom, and Matt Rodman, nephew of the bride handed out rice bags.

For traveling, the bride selected a green and white checked pants suit. The couple honeymooned in New Orleans and Florida.

The bride was graduated from Clarendon High School as valedictorian of her class and is a senior elementary education major at Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene. She is employed as secretary for the chemistry and physics at HSU.

The bridegroom was graduated from Lovington High School and attended Clarendon Junior College. He is a senior at Hardin-Simmons and is now employed at University Publications.

County Agent Pallmeyer Says

Late winter and early spring is the season to apply dormant oils for controlling some of the hard-to-kill insect pests on trees and shrubs.

Dormant oils are specially refined petroleum oils that contain emulsifying agents which allow mixing with water. They are effective for controlling pests such as scale insects, mites, pecan phylloxera, insect eggs and hibernating caterpillars.

These oils kill the egg as well as immature and adult stages of insects and mites by enveloping them in a continuous film of oil, thereby smothering and ultimately killing them.

Dormant oils have several advantages over most other insecticides, such as being less expensive, giving good covering action, leaving residues on fruit and nut trees that are exempt from tolerance, and being safe to handle. However, oils are toxic to leaves, have low toxicity to some insects, and are relatively unstable in water solutions.

A dormant oil can be used on any trees and shrubs that are in the dormant stage, however, better insect control will be obtained if used late winter or early spring just before new plant growth begins. Apply oil when temperatures are between 40 and 65 degrees, not making applications if freezing weather is expected within 48 hours of treatment.

When mixing and applying dormant oils, use only the amounts recommended by the manufacturer. Some trees tolerant to normal applications of oil may be damaged if excessive amounts are used. Even normal applications of oil have been noted to damage beech, maple, walnut, butter-nut and spruce. Cover tree trunks and limbs thoroughly with the spray, but avoid excessive application of the oils.

Veterans Should Submit Unusual Medical Expenses

A person 72 and over receiving a Veterans pension does not receive an annual income questionnaire, so if medical expenses for the year are high, the only way your pension entitlement for the year can be increased is to submit this information as UNUSUAL MEDICAL EXPENSES, says Bill Pallmeyer, Motley County Veterans Service Officer.

All medical expenses that exceed 5 per cent of the pensioner's reported income is counted as "unusual medical expenses," and will reduce the reportable income on which the pension for the year is based. Medical expenses can include such items as health insurance premiums (including Medicare premiums), doctors fees, medicine, nursing care and hospital charges not paid by insurance. Also included is transportation expenses for medical purposes (7c per mile), bus fare or taxis. Orthopedic appliances, dental services, eye glasses and hearing aids and batteries are also legal expenses.

When these expenses are reported, the VA will take into consideration the total expenses reported and the total income received at the end of the calendar year, and if the claimant is due additional pension, a lump sum adjustment check will follow.

This must be done each year, as medical expenses can not be projected for future years.

Mr. and Mrs. Algie Groves visited in Quanah, Saturday with her brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Nichols, and in Paducah with Mrs. Maggie Hamilton.

Don Wason and son, Kelly Don of Plainview visited Sunday with his mother, Mrs. Bill Wason.

TEXAS TALK

Farmers may be leaving 850 million dollars out in the field.

That's the amazing figure some scientists have come up with during a special study on energy alternatives. First some basics . . . all oil products come from cellulose materials . . . plants, especially plant stalks are largely cellulose . . . a lot of stalks are left in the field. Testing the fuel efficiency of this farm residue was General Motors engineer, F. L. Green. In a test already completed, General Motors used a mixture of 10 percent cornstalks for boiler fuel. They say the result was positive enough that mixtures of as high as 60 percent cornstalks are feasible for fueling the boilers. Economic determinations made on the basis of the current value of coal indicate that high cellulose farm residue could be worth 20 dollars a ton. Estimates of the amount available each year range as high as 450 million tons.

KITCHEN SAFETY

There's no safer place than the comfort of your own home—or so you think. Actually, danger lurks right in your kitchen! To help you avoid big accidents as well as little mishaps, follow these helpful tips.

Load your dishwasher with sharp utensils pointed down, and store kitchen knives in racks which don't expose the edges. When chopping food, use a cutting block and always cut away from you. Remember to put the canned food lids inside the cans before throwing them away. This way, you won't get a surprise cut as you grab the trash bag.
