TRAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR

Dreams are beggars who ride in the vestibule of time's thundering train, garnering a few crumbs from the messy lap of destiny.

Beyond the rim of hills, red-faced canyons cut deep fissures in the hot and tortured landscape. Paths ended abruptly at bluffs where mesquite roots dangled into space, high above the rubble of gypsum rocks and small ribbon of bitter water. A saddle horse with dried blood in his nostrils had clamored out of the night-mare land two days before and limped to the remuda. The range wagon had waited at the campground, and cowboys had searched the wilderness of clay and rock in the desperation of men with their backs against a wall. On the third day four riders left their horses and scaled a tortuous wall to the narrow mesa that broke abruptly into another canyon. Silently they looked at the burning sky and knew the end of their search was near. Circling vultures were dropping between the walls of a canyon like kites of death.

Men who make numerous mistakes have a method of sinking them into the foundations of achievement. Those who never try will remain forever immune to the pain of failure.

Some detergent manufacturer could get into a higher income bracket by advertising a product that would save men the embarrassment of dishpan hands.

COUNTY TO RECEIVE HI-WAY IMPROVEMENT

CHILDRESS - Highway improvement projects in the Childress District are included in the 1976 State Highway Safety and Betterment & Farm to Market Road Improvement Program, recently approved by the State Highway and Public Transportation Commission.

District Engineer Lewis White of the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation said work in this area includes: $215,300 to seal coat 19.4 miles of portions of State Highway 86 and State 70 in Briscoe, Dickens and Motley Counties, and a section of Loop 21 in the City of Spur; and $547,000 to seal coat segments of selected Farm to Market Roads in Cottle and Dickens Counties. Also included is some seal coat work on F.M. roads in Hall, King and Motley Counties - for an overall total of 79.7 miles.

Similar programs had been conducted annually until last year. At that time there was no such program because of the financial crunch facing the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation.

Funds remain short for highway work in Texas, and most other states in the nation, because of soaring inflation and diminishing growth rates of available revenues. Department officials, however, note that such programs cannot be deferred for long without serious effects.

Types of work included statewide in the Safety and Betterment and F.M. Road Improvement Program will provide extra measures of safety, increase traffic capacity and convenience, and rehabilitate old and obsolete sections. Programs such as this are necessary to prevent deterioration of the highway system and a resulting decline in mobility.

"All funds available to the Childress District were utilized this year to prevent pavement deterioration," said White, "and, those segments of highways included for seal coating were selected on the basis of protecting our facilities, where the need is the most urgent in relation to funds available at this time."

The statewide program provides for improvement of a total of 3,164.8 miles of highways and F.M. roads - with 58 per cent assigned to U.S. and State-numbered routes, 39 per cent for F.M. routes, and 3 per cent reserved for later assignment.

In all, the program includes 559 projects in 190 counties of the state.

RAILROAD HEARING SET

A legal hearing concerning the proposed abandonment of the Frisco railroad line from Acme to Floydada has been set for November 8, 1976 at Paducah.

The Interstate Commerce Commission ruled recently that a legal hearing must be held before the St. Louis and San Francisco Railway Co. (Frisco) can abandon the 104.8 miles of track.

The track in question belongs to the Quanah, Acme and Pacific Railway Co., a Frisco subsidiary. Counties served by the nearly 106-mile stretch include Hardeman, Cottle, Motley and Floyd. Frisco - which filed a petition seeking immediate abandonment of the stretch April 11, 1975 - was required Friday to inform the ICC of the approximate number of witnesses it will call, and the time it will need to present evidence.

The ICC will also require the rail company to furnish it copies of all cost studies and traffic samples.

After Frisco filed its petition last year, shippers and other citizens along the line from Quanah to Floydada held meetings in Paducah, electing Lee Currey, manager of the Floydada cotton con. press, as spokesman. The group filed a letter of protest to the ICC, asking for a hearing.

At the hearing, they hope to detail their needs and present evidence they feel will shed light on reasons the railroad has reportedly lost the amount of business it needs in order to stay in operation.

Shippers allege the company itself is at fault for the business dropoff in recent years.

The Texas Wheat Growers Association and various agri-businesses, which ship cotton, grain and agricultural chemicals to and from the area, also join the protest.

Oil Activity Continues In County

As an era of cheap energy and energy independence faded for America, Motley County's 1975 crude oil and natural gas production became more significant to Texas and the United States than at any time since production began in 1957.

With its production for a record $2.9 million and an industry payroll totalling $172,528, petroleum continued as a factor in the economic health of the county, according to a study by the Dallas-based Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association.

Jack S. Blanton, Houston independent oil company executive and president of the Association, said increased prices, caused by the growing shortage of domestic oil and gas, has given a multi-billion dollar boost to the economy of Texas and the state's treasury.

"Increased prices help offset the economic effects of the downward trend in volume of Texas production," Blanton said, pointing out that increased revenues for producers are being soaked up by zooming drilling costs.

"The average cost of drilling a well in Texas has jumped from $55,000 in 1962 to $137,000 last year, a 150-per cent increase and one of the reasons why 29-cent gasoline and low utility bills are relics of the past," Blanton said. The total value of production statewide increased from more than $11-billion in 1974 to over $13-billion last year, a jump of nearly 19 per cent.

Motley was one of the 200 Texas counties which produced oil and gas with a market value in excess of $100,000 last year, an increase of three over the 1974 total and seven more than in 1973. The county ranked 161st in the state in the total value of petroleum produced, realizing $2.9 million from the sale of 372,816 barrels of crude oil; $11,799 from the sale of 24,030 MCF of natural gas. The county's royalty owners last year received $366,834.

In addition to paying local school and county property taxes, county producers also contributed to the support of state government with production tax payments totalling $126,337 - $134,452 paid on oil output; $885 on gas production.

According to the Texas Employment Commission, 16 oil and gas industry employees worked in the county in 1975. But because oil and gas production and processing operations require such extensive support from service and supply firms, these direct employment figures are only a part of the story of the industry's impact on the local economy.

The industry's search for oil and gas continued in Motley County, with oil and gas developers last year spending an estimated $422,932 drilling four wells in the county, all of which proved to be dry holes. The exploratory effort in the county last year saw the drilling of three wildcat wells.

TOUR OF GREECE DESCRIBED

Impressed By Contrasts Of Modern And Antiquity

Mr. and Mrs. Furman Vinson arrived home recently from an eight day tour of Greece and the island of Rhodes. From J.F.K. International airport in New York to Rome they flew in an Alitalia 747 and considered it quite an experience.

"Landing in Athens is quite a beautiful sight, as it is surrounded by many islands," Mrs. Vinson said. "The weather was warm, as Greece is in the same latitude as much of the southern United States. White buildings, red tile roofs, small cars, Pepsi, Coke and Kodak signs, and erratic drivers made our entrance to Athens memorable."

A tour of the three and a half million population city was most interesting and informative, the couple declared.

Sights seen during the tour included the Olympic Stadium seating 80,000; various embassies, including the American with its great Seal of the U.S. and the American flag clearly visible; Mt. Lycabettus, a focal point of Athens as it is in the city; a statue of Harry Truman, who is very respected by the Greeks, having seen them through perilous times; past parks, government buildings, Syntagma Square, where the Greeks stop to watch the world go by; many schools of Archeology; Hadraim Arch and the Temple of the Olympian Zeus; Palace of Constantine of Greece; the University of Athens, and the ever famous Acropolis of Athens.

"THE ACROPOLIS — the one recognized from school-day history, is an outstanding monument, more breathtaking than can be imagined," Mrs. Vinson said. "On a rocky barren hill, you climb to the Propylaea, or gateway to the Acropolis. The columns are of Pentelic marble, as are all of the buildings and columns of the Acropolis. To the right is the small Temple dedicated to Athena Nike (Victory) and is called the temple of the Wingless Victory.

"The Parthenon, also of Pentelic marble, was intended to stand through the ages as a towerline to the victory of Greeks over the Persians. A 'must' stop was Mars Hill, a rocky bare promontory, where Paul spoke to the Athenians in 54 A.D. and seen at its base is a bronze tablet with the words which he spoke. "A stop at the Canal of Corinth was most interesting. It provides a ship channel from the Saranic Gulf to the Gulf of Corinth, keeping the ships from rough waters near the Peloponesus. "Corinth, on a well watered, fertile plain, dates back to Mycenaean time. It emerged as an independent political and economic entity toward the end of the 8th century B.C.

"It was here Paul worked with Aquila and Priscilla, Jewish tentmakers, and in Old Corinth, ruins of Paul's church are visible. The Acropolis of Corinth is on a hill, four hours walk from the old city."

"A trip to Mycenae Acropolis was a particular thrill, having just read Irving Stone's "Greek Treasure," the life of Henry and Sophia Schlieman. In the late 1800s this couple excavated these ruins with great treasures having been found. They are now in the National Historical Museum of Athens. The Mycenaean period has been traced from 1600 to 1100 B.C."

THE TOUR continued with a visit to Epidaurus, a magnificent Greek theatre built in the 4th century B.C. and still in use. It has 55 rows of seats and can seat 14,000 as it did when Maria Callas sang there recently. The acoustics are perfect.

A cruise to three islands, Hydra, where there are no motorized vehicles, a white city, beautiful harbor and peaceful surroundings; Poros, where the Greek Navy trains; and Aegina, a pine-tree covered commercialized island.

A Sound and Light presentation overlooking the Athenian Acropolis at night with a narration and music, and lights playing on the various spots of the Acropolis gave a short, informative history of its perils and triumphs. Also enjoyed were Athenian folk dances.

Delphi, the site of the Oracle of Delphi, was 148 miles from Athens along the National Highway No. 1. It passes large residences of Athens and in the distance, the mountain where the Pentelic marble came from when the buildings were being erected on the Acropolis; the Marathon Dam built with U.S. aid and supplying water to Athens; a beautiful valley of farmland where cotton, wheat, garlic, onions and alfalfa were growing with some under irrigation.

Greece, the Vinsons were told, has become a large supplier of bauxite, the chief ore of aluminum, and mines of this were seen on the ride to Delphi, which is on a mountainside overlooking a small part of the Gulf of Corinth. Some of the ruins there were seen, but other parts were too far away to visit in the length of time allotted.

A FLIGHT to Rhodes for a part of three days was interesting and could have been more relaxing but tours were taken to see as much of the island as possible. These included a tour of the city; the Acropolis of Rhodes and restoration of the stadium; a walk through the walled city to the Grand Masters palace where beautiful mosaic floors, alabaster, paneled windows and art objects abound, and the museum that was once the hospital of Knights Hospitallers of the Order of St. John were enjoyed one morning.

A bus ride down the west coast of Rhodes took the group to Filermou and into an old Byzantine church; to Kamiros, one of the three main towns on the island and a tour of the ruins of that Acropolis; thence to the Valley of the Butterflies, a canyon with a stream and beautiful trees where these black, white, yellow and orange butterflies come during the summer months.

"A whistle or handclap causes clouds of them to fly into the air, and it is quite a sight," said Mrs. Vinson.

"A tour down the east side of the island toward Lindos, another of the three cities of Rhodes to visit another ruin and view the typical Grecian waters and private yachts in

Boys Ranch Plans Labor Day Rodeo

It will soon be rodeo time at Cal Farley's Boys Ranch where 370 boys have been getting ready for their 32nd nationally-known contest between pint-size cowboys and bucking stock.

It is a Labor Day weekend celebration and approximately 10,000 people are expected to drive to the Ranch over the two-day period, September 5 and 6. Nearly 150 boys will be riding the calves, steers, Brahma bulls and brons in the Boys Ranch Rodeo Arena, competing for trophies and belt buckles. Even the 3-to-6-year-olds will be awarded prizes for riding their stick horses around the barrels. Older boys will be riding professional rodeo stock under R.C.A. rules.

The rodeo is also a homecoming for the approximately 3,000 boys who have lived at the Ranch since it was started by Cal Farley in 1939. They are members of the Boys Ranch Alumni Association and some travel long distances to watch a kind of rodeo in which they too, were once contestants. An added attraction will be Texas-size bar-be-que beef plates that will be prepared and sold by the boys for only $1.50. Reserve box seat tickets at $2.50 are on sale at the Boys Ranch Office, 600 West 11th Street in Amarillo. General admission will be $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children 12-years-old. Performances are scheduled for 2:30 p.m. each afternoon.
