Dr. R. J. Reeves Lauded By Society

DR. ROBERT J. REEVES

A native son of Matador, Dr. Robert J. Reeves has received signal recognition at Duke University, Durham, N.C. where he has been on the hospital staff since 1930.

Named for Dr. Reeves is the R. J. Reeves Radiological Society, and a new library under construction.

The sixth meeting of the R. J. Reeves Radiological Society, held at Duke in November, was in honor of Dr. Reeves, professor of radiology and chairman emeritus of the department. He joined the Duke staff in 1930 as chairman of the newly created Department of Radiology.

Highlighting the meeting was a banquet honoring Dr. Reeves. A scroll was presented to the radiologist, bearing the signatures of his former residents and staff with resolutions of appreciation for his years of dedicated teaching at Duke.

Also presented were two sets of radiology text books for the R. J. Reeves Library, to be located in the department's new quarters, scheduled for completion in March.

Portrait Commissioned

A personal gift was presented to Dr. Reeves by Dr. and Mrs. James Semans.

It was announced that members of the society have commissioned an oil portrait of Dr. Reeves, also for the new library.

The society was founded in 1955 by former residents and staff of the Department of Radiology. At present there are 42 members, and, when the residents who began their training under Dr. Reeves complete their program, membership will total 100. Of these, ten are now in academic departments, and two are departmental chairmen.

Invited speaker at the meeting was Dr. Ross Golden, professor of radiology at U.C.L.A. who was chairman of the Radiology Department at Columbia-Presbyterian when Dr. Reeves joined the staff there after finishing his residency at Harvard.

The son of Motley County pioneers, the late Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Reeves, Dr. Reeves was born at Matador and attended public school here. He graduated from Matador High School and attended Wayland College, Plainview, after finishing there he attended Baylor University Medical School, receiving his B. M. degree.

He is a brother of local residents, Elbert Reeves and Miss Verlin Reeves. Another brother and sister, Roy Reeves and Mrs. R. C. Shilling reside in Dallas.

Relatives Attend Plainview Rites

Mrs. Marvin Brotherton, her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Brotherton, and a niece, Mrs. Vincent Kunkel of Graham attended funeral services in Plainview, Tuesday for her sister-in-law, Mrs. Martha Jane Griffith, 72.

Services were held at 2:30 p.m. in the Trinity Methodist Church of Plainview and burial was in Lockney Cemetery.

Mrs. Griffith was a school teacher in Lockney from 1918 until 1922 and for another four-year period during World War II. She and her husband, W. J. (Jake) Griffith moved to Lockney in 1917 from Greenville.

Survivors, in addition to her husband, include a daughter, Mrs. Martha M. Davis of Lubbock, and a granddaughter, Carol Davis. Mrs. Kunkel returned here with Mrs. Brotherton and remained overnight before returning to her home in Graham.

Mrs. P. A. Simpson of Northfield visited Thursday in the home of her aunt and husband Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Fisher. Mrs. Simpson also visited in the home of her sister Mrs. Luther Green. Other visitors this week in the Fisher home were Mr. and Mrs. Jay Franklin of Flomat and Mrs. Ralph Stapleton and Mrs. Tom Edwards of Whiteflat.

Driver Escapes As Transport Wrecked

A TRUCK DRIVER, Bob R. Trout, about 34, of Clarendon escaped with his life about 12:15 yesterday afternoon, when his big butane truck jackknifed about one mile south of Whiteflat.

The truck, loaded with 5,500 gallons of butane, left State Highway 70 and went out of control on a slight curve then hit an embankment.

The dual tanks crushed the cab of the truck tractor, which was estimated 100% loss, but Trout escaped serious injury. By a miracle, no fire resulted which could have burned him to death in a matter of moments.

The accident was reported to the Sheriff's office here with Sheriff J.D. Spray and Deputy Bobby Williams responding. A Seigler ambulance took Trout to Richard's Memorial Hospital in Paducah. Latest report is that he was not seriously injured, but he was kept in the hospital overnight for further examination after it was thought he might have a dislocated hip.

State Highway Patrolman Buck Johnson also investigated the accident after receiving the report. The truck was operated by Gene Bumpus Butane firm of Plainview and was enroute here with a load of fuel for Giesecke Butane Supply. A replacement tractor was sent here and the load of gas delivered to its assigned storage.

Force of the impact caused one of the truck's fuel supply tanks to leave its mooring and land in a field across the highway.

Trout is married and the father of three daughters. His wife is employed by the First Baptist Church in Clarendon.

Value Of Work Is Stressed By Coach

THE VALUE of work was stressed as the prime requirement of success by a young Texas Tech football coach, Tom Wilson, who made the principal address at the annual football banquet held in the American Legion Hall Saturday night.

The dynamic young coach was introduced by Supt. Charles Johnson. His brief address was direct and to the point. He told the students, faculty and school board members that hard work was still the only shortcut to success.

"Because I am a coach" he declared, "I am interested in the value of athletics, and especially football. The value of work is the most important knowledge a boy gains from football. He also learns the value of preparation, the value of discipline and how to control his emotions.

"Perhaps the greatest value a player gains from football is that of competition," he said. "The world is based on competition and there is no other place where it is more important than on a football field. I want to say here to every boy present, that you can do what you want to do, if you want it badly enough, but you must be willing to work hard and display pride, desire and determination."

The banquet started promptly at 7:30 with mothers of the football squad and pep squad serving. In-convocation was by Dick Moss and Patsy Green served as Mistress of ceremonies.

Awards Presented

The Dayton Graham award was received by Dick Moss as outstanding Matador football player. The award is a plaque which was presented by the Curtis Graham family as a memorial to their late son. The plaque remains at the school and each year, the name of the outstanding player is engraved and added to those previously selected. Coach Willborn Myers made the presentation.

Miss Olivia Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Campbell received the coveted Football Queen's crown and bouquet of red roses from cocaptains Larry Bynum, Luis Moore and John Thomas. The captains also presented Coaches Myers and Earl Byerley with an "appreciation" cake.

The program included Welcome by Judy Pitts, and a skit written and directed by Rosanne Terry, with Terry Keltz in the role of an aging Coach Myers, and Pep Club members as other characters featuring "This Is Your Life." Benediction was by Max Barton.

Large Crowd at Sunday Singing

One of the largest crowds ever to attend a singing meet in Matador was present at the 11-counties Singing Meeting held at the American Legion Building Sunday.

Because of the restricted restaurant facilities here following the January 19 fire at El Matador Restaurant, delegates were advised to bring their own lunches. The American Legion made available the kitchen for use of singers who wished to heat food or make coffee.

Several groups went to Smith's Steak House in relays during the afternoon, to obtain food, according to J.R. Whitworth.

The building was crowded to capacity most of the day. Whitworth declared and many excellent singers were on the program.

After discussing the district meeting to be held in April, the chapter agreed to hold a parliamentary procedure practice once each month.
Reminding the boys who are planning to exhibit animals at the county show that there were only 65 days left. Also brought up was the fact that FFA week would be next month and that the public relations committee should start work.

The program after the business meeting consisted of slides taken at the State FFA conventions which members of the Matador Chapter had attended.

THE WATT and THE KILOWATT

Producing power is a gigantic battle with nature. The windmill produces enough power to pump water from the ground—something a few watts of electricity can do. But the huge generating plants which produce the power transmitted over the vast network of WTU transmission lines which reach from the Red River to the Rio Grande are measured in kilowatts—hundreds of thousands of them. Power enough to serve 166 cities and towns in 50 West Texas counties. You can live better electrically—West Texas Utilities provides the kilowatts.

FHA Credit Services Received By Record Number Of Rural People

A record number of rural people, more than 3 million, benefited from Farmers Home Administration supervised credit services during 1966, according to Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman.

Funds advanced through the agency totaled an estimated $1.2 billion or 60 percent more than the average loaned during the previous 5 years, the Secretary reported. Nearly three-fifths of the amount loaned was provided by private lenders on an insured basis, the remainder came mainly from collections on loans made in previous years.

Principal and interest collections totaled an estimated $648 million compared to $572 million in 1965.

During the year the agency was assigned the field responsibility for the "outreach" function of the Department which helps rural people receive full benefits of Federal programs, the rural housing program was expanded in scope, the first grants were made for rural community water systems and the first loans and grants for rural waste disposal systems.

Rural communities throughout the Nation are being strengthened by the financial support of the Farmers Home Administration," Secretary Freeman said. "This is a key measure in our efforts to give people a chance to obtain modern day conveniences and jobs in the countryside and ease the burden on urban centers brought about by the migration of untrained workers."

Rural people benefited during 1966 included the members of 129,000 farm and other rural families who received loans during the year or used credit advanced in prior years. Also included are the members of 380,000 families who have completed group community development projects with Farmers Home Administration assistance.

Rural Housing Big Item

Rural housing loans totaled $346 million and included $17.3 million for housing to meet the special needs of senior citizens. In addition more than $2 million in grants was advanced for farm labor housing projects. The housing program served about 41,500 families. Approximately 960 rural communities received an estimated $149.5 million in loans and $32 million in grants for the construction or improvement of rural water and waste disposal systems that will serve 163,000 families. Another $3 million in grants assisted some 300 rural planning boards to develop area plans for water and sewer systems.

Some 140 community-sponsored rural recreation centers borrowed $17 million for the development of swimming pools, golf courses and other outdoor recreation facilities. Also $16 million was loaned to 75 grazing associations.

Approximately $285 million of the amount loaned went to 65,000 family farmers to help them make needed adjustments in their farming operations and finance annual operating expenses.

Nearly $231 million was used by 12,800 farm families to enlarge their holdings to family size, buy and improve family-type farms or refinance existing debts.

An estimated $105 million in emergency loans helped 25,500 farmers restore their operations to a normal level after being hard-hit by flood, drought or similar disasters.

All rural counties of the United States are served by the Farmers Home Administration. Loans are made only to applicants unable to obtain credit elsewhere.

COUNTY AGENT PALLMEYER SAYS:

To provide you with a report of Extension activities in 1966, my reports show that I held 297 meetings during the year, helped to establish 11 result demonstrations and made 5 studies evaluations.

During the 248 work days, 2,203 office visits, farm and home visits and telephone calls were made or received. In addition, 254 times assistance was provided to groups or organizations. Thirty-five people received leader training to help with programs.

Other information was provided by 206 news releases; distribution of 5,242 publications, and the writing of 1,271 different letters, for a total mailing of letters amounting to 3,547,106 of the work days were mainly devoted to office work, while 142 was work in the field. This involved driving 14,049 miles.

145 days were devoted mainly to adult work, with 103 devoted mainly to youth work. Of these, 61 were for prevention and control of plant and animal diseases, insects, weeds and other pests; 43 for selection, production and management of livestock, poultry and crops; 16 for soil fertility and soil and water management; 13 days were devoted to farm business, government programs, machinery, watersheds, protection of crops and livestock against nuclear hazards and natural disasters, income, producing recreational activities and non-farm alternatives for employment. Seven days were for marketing and utilization assistance; and 54 for agriculture, community improvement, outlook, program planning, rural civil defense, public affairs and planning activities. 35 days were spent holding 4-H activities and contests, with 16 days spent training 4-H leaders, 4-H organization work and career exploration.

Programs for Motley County are planned and developed through members of livestock, field crops and 4-H sub-committees with overall work coordinated through the Motley County Planning Commission. Credit for carrying out the program can be credited to leaders and cooperators. A summary of 4-H work has previously been given, and soon a handbook of demonstrations carried out in 1966 will be made available.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank all of those who had a part in making the past year of work in Motley County a success, and invite all others to take part in 1967. The amount of programs and training that the youth of the county can receive as well as the information that can be determined by demonstrations is directly proportional to the amount of people who take part. Will you help?

During the winter while deciduous plants are in a dormant state, is a good time to control several plant pests. Spraying pecan and fruit orchards as well as ornamental trees and shrubs with dormant oils can often prevent severe damage from gall formers and scale insects for the following season. Control during the growing season is very difficult due to the hard waxy coating on scale insects and the protective gall. During the winter, these insects are generally in the egg laying stage and oils are effective as they cause death to the egg.

Boll Weevil Funds Part Of Budget

President Johnson's budget recommendations, submitted to Congress last week, include a proposed $500,000 appropriation for continuation of the High Plains diapause boll weevil control program.

Rep. George Mahon, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, said the appropriation will be needed to continue to prevent westward migrations of boll weevils and keep them from becoming permanently established above the Caprock.

The federal appropriation again would require that matching funds be provided by High Plains cotton farmers. This has been done since the diapause program was started in the fall of 1964.

In Lubbock, Donald A. Johnson, executive vice president of the Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., said the recommended appropriation should permit us to carry on the program at about the same level as in 1966.

"But it's still cutting it pretty thin," he added. The PCG co-ordi-inates the boll weevil program, which includes an eight county control zone of Briscoe, Hall, Floyd, Motley, Crosby, Dickens, Kent and Garza counties.

Johnson said the 1966 diapause spraying operations cost approximately $1.1 million. This included $550,000 in federal expenditures and a like amount from growers.

The budget for the U.S. Department of Agriculture, however, included authorization for federal expenditures of up to $1 million on the 1966 boll weevil program. The PCG had asked that a maximum of $750,000 be authorized for 1967.

Reduced Weevil Total
Johnson said the program has drastically reduced weevil populations in the control zone, where infestations had reached as high as 25,000 pests per acre in some fields before the diapause sprays were initiated.

Entomologists who serve as technical advisers to the program reported that a survey showed the control program conducted in 1964 reduced the overwintered weevil population by 90 per cent, Johnson said.

"And refinements in techniques brought even more spectacular results in the next two years," he added.

Don R. Rummel, entomologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service at Lubbock, said surveys now indicate that "populations in Dickens and Kent counties offer the principal threat of boll weevil migration into the Plains area."

Rummel said only 15,712 acres were known to be infested by Sept. 1 last year. He said this represented only 19 per cent of the cotton acreage in the control zone. An average count of only 58 adult weevils per acre was reached by Sept. 1.

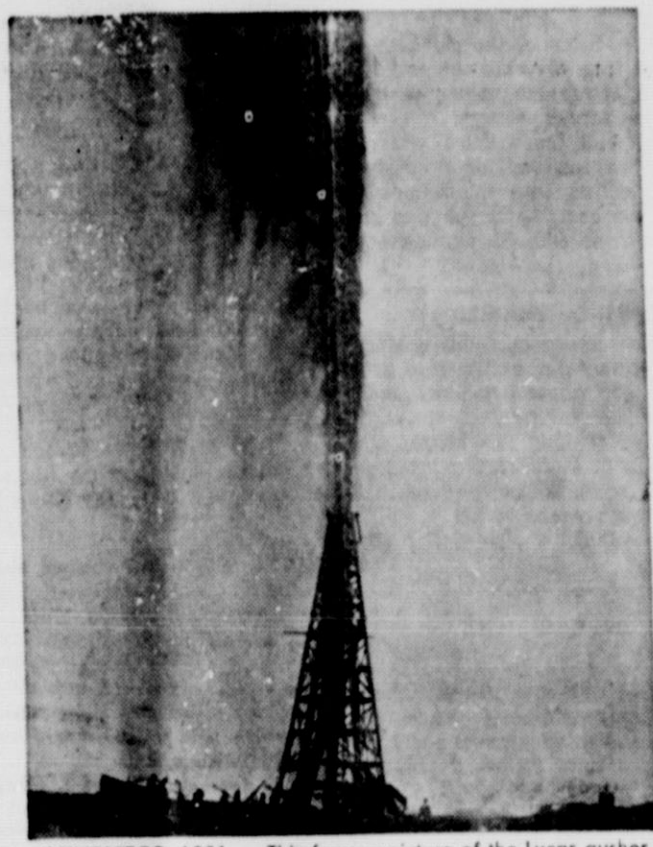

Despite the decreasing numbers of weevils, the pests were widely scattered last year over a control zone area which initially covered approximately 165,000 acres Rummel said.

The entomologist added that weevil movements after Sept. 1 required that the zone be enlarged to approximately 195,000 acres for treatment during the early stages of the diapause spraying.

Diapause is a physiological condition weevils undergo in the fall in preparing for hibernation. The Plains control program is designed to kill weevils before they complete that preparation, thereby progressively reducing the numbers that emerge the following spring.

Rummel said no boll weevil infestations of economic significance occurred above that Caprock last year. But he said ecological conditions in some areas of the control zone below the Caprock "are such that tremendous populations would develop if allowed to go unchecked for even one year."

Visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Meador Sunday afternoon were her cousins, Mrs. Glen Austin of Cimarron, N.M., and Mrs. Lorene Stephens and children,

Game Wardens Nab 4 Thieves

TWO game wardens, Ronnie Vandiver of Matador and Larry Ruler of Spur, let two steaks get cold at Smith's Steak House early Saturday evening.

About two hours earlier the game wardens had picked up a notice from Childress on two-way radios to be on the lookout for a car after shoplifters had taken merchandise from two Childress stores.

The two game wardens were being served their steaks when they saw a car that fitted the description going west on US Highway 70. They left their suppers and gave chase. The car had reached the Plains and was in Floyd County when it was finally stopped. Childress County officers were notified.

The following article appeared in the Childress Index, Monday issue.

"The largest amount of shoplifting loot ever taken from Childress stores in the memory of Chief of Police Alvin Maddox, resulted in the arrest Saturday night of four Negroes near Floydada and the return of all of the merchandise.

"Included in the heist were several men's suits, some valued at $100 each.

Merchandise was taken from Buckley's Mens Store and Watkins, Inc.

"Glenn Buckley said that the four—a man and three women, came into the store but made no purchases and he became suspicious.

"When they left, I followed and learned what kind of car they were using and then went back into the store to check," he said. "I could find two suits missing and called the police department.

"Maddox put out an area wide description of the auto and he was told that it sounded like a group of shoplifters that were working out of the Lubbock area.

"This was shortly after 5 p.m. Saturday.

"Shortly after 7 p.m. the Police Department was called from Floydada and identification of the shoplifters and merchandise stolen was requested.

"Deputy Sheriff Don Ham and Maddox picked up Buckley and went to Floydada.

"There Buckley identified the four and found six suits with the Buckley label in them. Also discovered were five suits and five sport coats taken from Watkins, Inc.

"The four were returned to Childress and they were charged with theft of over $50 and bonds were set at $1,000 each.

"A bonding company out of Lubbock made bond and they were released.

"They are Emmett Earl Dedrick, 23, of Lubbock; Ella Faye White, 22, Cynthia Ann Johnson, 25 and Deloris Washington, 30, all of Slaton."

Appearance of Alton "Suzie" Marshall's wrecking yard at the intersection of US Highway 70 and Dundee Street in east Matador is being improved.

Mr. Marshall has sold 200 old car bodies to the State Highway Department, and the junk tin is being hauled away and dumped into a deep wash near Quitaque.

Frames and engines of the cars are cut away from the bodies and will be sold as junk metal. Marshall said he had been negotiating with the Highway Department for about 60 days before funds were approved to purchase the old car bodies. Some of the old cars are more than 30 years old, and Marshall knows the names of many of the former owners.
