"TEXAS" To Open June 10th

Dusk slowly settles over the High Plains of Texas. The sun lazily swings toward the horizon. Twilight gently mutes the vibrant magentas, reds and golds splashed across the rugged walls of the natural masterpiece known as Palo Duro Canyon. Suddenly, the evening serenade of crickets and coyotes is interrupted by the stirring strains of a lone bugle from high atop the canyon wall. Nature slowly brings down the lights. Two horsemen, bearing American and Texas flags, appear on the canyon rim and a cast of 80 performers takes to the stage to open the 1992 season of "TEXAS".

The plaintive call of the bugle is a suitable reminder of the strong, independent spirit that helped tame a wild land. It is an appropriate opening for the pomp and pageantry that has made "TEXAS" the best attended outdoor drama in the United States. Beginning June 10 the musical drama written by Pulitzer Prize winning playwright Paul Green plays at 8:30 each evening except Sundays through August 22. Located near Amarillo and Canyon, Texas, Palo Duro Canyon State Park provides a perfect setting for this stirring story.

During the next two and a half hours, spectators will watch the unfolding of a spellbinding tale woven from the magical threads that pit men and women against nature and each other. The romance of "TEXAS" is intricately interwoven with the realities of hardships and hard work that were staples in the lives of the early settlers who came to tame the land called Texas.

Like the land itself, "TEXAS" is filled with action and adventure. Cowboys ride the range and Indians leap from the Canyon rocks. Friendship though, is often born of adversity, and that fact is dramatically portrayed in the play. Rivalries give way to cooperation and energies are combined to settle towns and organize schools. An authentic steam train finally rumbles across the plains, symbolically bringing together the dreams of both cattleman and farmers. Prosperity follows population to the vast wilderness of the Panhandle.

The 1992 cast and crew of "TEXAS" come from nine states and three foreign countries (Thailand, Portugal and Italy). A 50 voice choir and a small orchestra provide the backbone for many scenes. The company also includes technicians, costumes, hospitality workers as well as horses, a dog, and the occasional tarantula that wanders across the stage.

For reservations to "TEXAS", write P.O. Box 268, Canyon, Texas 79015, or call (806) 655-2181. Tickets are $12, $9 and $6 for adults, and $12, $4.50 and $3.00 for children. Group discounts are available. An optional barbecue dinner, served prior to every performance by Stuphen's of Amarillo, is available for an additional $6.

If you want a taste of the sights and sounds of the West as it once was, don't miss out on a trip to "TEXAS"!

Former Roaring Springs Resident Publishes New Book of Poems

NOTE: This article was taken from The Grove Sun, Grove, Oklahoma. Mr. Yandell is a former resident of Roaring Springs

David Yandell, of Grover, Oklahoma, formerly of Roaring Springs, has recently published a new book of poems, 'Bits and Pieces'. Yandell was encouraged to organize the poems he had written over the years, by his wife Mary. The originals were written on scraps of paper in pen and pencil, and stored over the years.

The new book contains 41 poems which were inspired by various changes of season, close friends, love, holidays, religion, and even family members. Yandell said the first poem was written in honor of his 2nd grade teacher, Emma Miller. Yandell attended grade school in Roaring Springs, Texas, during the 30's. He was prompted to write his first poem

40 years later as a result of fond memories for his early teacher. After completing "An ode to my second grade teacher", he sent the poem to Mrs. Miller, who was still teaching 2nd grade in Roaring Springs. She was excited about the honor of the poem and responded with a letter expressing her joy, compliments and encouragement for Yandell's efforts. He said as a result of Mrs. Miller's encouragement, he continued to attempt other poems.

Yandell said his inspiration comes from a current event, a scene of nature, or an effort to express the love of God for mankind. He said his first wife, Earlene, kept all of his efforts to compose, together over the years. He credited his present wife, for her tireless effort to see the poems copyrighted and finally published.

Yandell was born in Matador, a community in Motley County, Texas, on close proximity of Roaring Springs. After graduation from high school in 1944, he served two years with the U.S. Navy. He has lived and worked in Globe, AZ, Miami, AZ, and finally Los Alamos, N.M. Yandell came to Quapaw, Oklahoma in 1988 to visit relatives. He was so impressed with the "Green Country" and Grand Lake, compared to the cold weather and sand of Los Alamos, he returned to Grove in 1989 to live.

Mary Yandell said, "David is very modest and has been reluctant to pursue the issue of publishing his poems. I thought he wrote good poetry and pressed him to put the book together."

The first printing of the new book has

DPS Urges Caution For Summer Driving

The last bell is ringing for the school year. Students are happy summer vacation is here and the fun begins. Many children forget the rules of safety as they have their minds on having fun for the summer.

Major V.J. Cawthon, Regional Commander of the Texas Department of Public Safety, is asking all Texas motorists to drive with extra care this time of year. He said, "Long trips across our state can be very stressful on all occupants in the car. Frequent rest stops should be used to let the children run off some of their excess energy. Remember to protect everyone in your car by using your safety belts."

Major Cawthon also reminds us to be extra careful to keep alert while driving in residential areas. Children seem to forget about the traffic around them and run into the roadways unexpectedly, not realizing that oncoming cars are in the area. Since, the younger children do not know the law, it would be wise to always expect the unexpected and be prepared to give them the right of way.

Major Cawthon said, "In order to make this an accident free summer vacation, motorists need to take a more mature attitude towards safe driving. Let's all remember to slow down a little and live a lot by driving defensively each and every day of this summer while school is out.

The Roaring Springs Community Volunteers have adopted the highway between Roaring Springs and Matador, beginning at Buzz Field. They will keep the highway free of cans and other debris, for six miles south.

EXERCISE REVERSES PHYSICAL DECLINE IN OLD AGE...

Some physical decline is inevitable with aging, but as much as 50 percent of physical limitations can be blamed on inactivity. Even low levels of activity such as walking can lead to improvement in health and general well being. And even severely impaired elders can regain strength and independence.

In one nursing home (in Connecticut), 20 disabled residents walked daily for four months. Several people became more sociable as their walking improved and they were able to attend meals and activities. One incontinent resident resumed independent trips to the bathroom and eventually regained continence.

For safe and enjoyable exercise with older persons:

- * Exercise in pairs and groups.
- * Exercise at the same time daily.
- * Stop exercise if severe pain, dizziness, or other unpleasant physical symptoms occur.
- * Wear comfortable clothing and good athletic shoes.
- * Drink extra water before and after activity to avoid dehydration.

Before starting on an exercise program, older people need a complete physical examination from their doctor which includes:

- * A complete medical history.
- * Evaluation of medication levels to determine if adjustments are indicated for increased activity levels.
- * Blood testing for glucose and cholesterol levels.
- * An exercise tolerance or stress test to determine current level of fitness.

For maximum benefits of any physical exercise program, older people should exercise in such a way that reaches 65 to 75 percent of their maximum heart rate (number of beats per minute). This is determined by subtracting the person's age from 200. Three to five 20 to 40-minute exercise sessions a week are ideal for increasing cardiovascular fitness.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service are for people of all ages regardless of socio-economic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap, or national origin.

When temperatures are on the rise... help keep cooling costs down!

HERE'S HOW:

- Check your home for adequate insulation — R-30 is recommended in the attic.
- Help your cooling system's efficiency by caulking and weatherstripping. Infiltration of outside air is your air conditioner's greatest enemy.
- Help keep the cost of cooled air down by setting your thermostat at 78° or higher and clean your air conditioner's filter regularly.
- If your present air conditioner needs replacing, consider an all season electric heat pump. It cools in the summer and heats in the winter and saves you money on your energy bills.

INTIMACY EVERYBODY WANTS IT

It's the buzz word of the 90's. Most folks are looking for it in their relationships as a matter of equity. In other words, "If you will, I will" type thing. We want a relationship that will provide us with someone who will be intimate with us. This actually provides us with reassurance that we are loveable.

Intimacy develops through self-disclosure and that may not come by both people doing it at the same time. If a person waits for a "we" in the intimacy idea, they may find a low-level of satisfaction and resentment.

Intimacy is not the search for care from others, but an independent sense of self that gives us the ability to display our inner-self to our partner. With at least one partner capable of sustained self-disclosure, there is a chance for the other person to take part in the self-disclosure.

Intimacy is not just sex - it is sharing of the deep parts of the inner-self: our fears, desires, hopes, etc. Better sex may be involved with a committed relationship. Better sex is not just relaxing and garter belts. Sex is not a matter of paraphernalia, but personal. Intimacy moves sex from the area of quiet complacency to responses of "where did you learn that?"

HEALTH NEWS

THOSE ACHING JOINTS

Aching joints could indicate the presence of arthritis, a term used to refer to the effects of more than 100 related diseases described as "rheumatic." James Burke, M.D., an orthopedic surgeon on staff at Methodist Hospital, identifies forms and symptoms of arthritis as the following.

Osteoarthritis is a form of arthritis associated with the degeneration of the smooth, weight-bearing surfaces of the joints. Osteoarthritis usually develops after age 40, and it may be the result of either wear-and-tear on the mechanical parts of the joint or of injury. Obesity and heredity also may contribute to its development. The hips, knees, ankles and hands are most vulnerable to osteoarthritis.

Rheumatoid arthritis is a systemic disease characterized by chronic inflammation in the synovial membrane, the thin layer of tissue which lines the joint. It can affect many joints simultaneously and is a disease of both the young and the old. Heredity may be a factor in the development of rheumatoid arthritis, which is believed to be related to a defect in the body's immune system

There is no cure for arthritis, but it can be treated successfully. See your physician if you experience one or more of the following symptoms:

1. Swelling in one or more joints
2. Early morning stiffness
3. Recurring pain or tenderness in any joint
4. Inability to move a joint normally.
5. Obvious redness and warmth in a joint.
6. Unexplained weight loss, fever or weakness accompanied by joint pain.
7. Symptoms like these which persist for more than two weeks.

Amy's Anecdotes

by Amy Woolsey

Man, I had forgotten what moving was like! It's a lot of hassle! My room is total chaos, not to mention the other parts of the house. Boxes are everywhere! It'll all get better when it's all put into the new house, right? Haha, I don't think so!

I don't see how my mom is handling this! So many things at one time! She is handling it all fairly well! (Better than I would!)

I don't know what I am going to do when we move into Roaring Springs. I've lived in the country too long! I'm just a "country bumpkin", I guess. I am going to miss my old house. There are so many memories there. The front porch where, all my friends and I played to our hearts content, singing and dancing and acting silly. My bedroom, where we played house and office and had pretend parties. Walking in the pastures and making tree houses.

All that is going to change and it will be a big change. I hope I can handle it. What I am going to miss the most is having all my dogs and cats gone!

I will cherish the memories forever and ever. Yes, it's time for a change, but it's hard to let go of the old and grab onto something new.

For we are God's workmanship, created in Christ Jesus to do good works, which God prepared in advance for us to do.

Social Security Tips

by Mary Jane Shanes

SURVIVOR BENEFITS ARE ONE REASON THAT SOCIAL SECURITY IS ALSO A "CHILDREN'S PROGRAM"

When most people think about Social Security, they usually do not think about the benefits that the program pays to children. That's understandable. Because it is true that people are more likely to know retired individuals who receive Social Security payments than to know children who get Social Security.

However, our Commissioner, Gwendolyn King, has recently emphasized the fact that Social Security is also a children's program.

Here's why. Each month Social Security pays survivor benefits to approximately 1.8 million children of deceased workers, and dependent benefits to another 1 million children of retired and disabled workers.

I believe that survivors benefits are the least appreciated aspect of the Social Security program.

For all Americans born after World War II, survivors benefits are taken for granted. They are as much a fact of life as tomorrow's sunrise. But it was not always so.

Until this century, the death of a husband usually meant destitution for the widow or family. Life insurance policies were rare; the opportunity for women to work outside the home was small; and there was no program to provide income replacement for survivors.

Children were usually parceled out to relatives or orphanages; widows had to rely upon the charity of their own families to take them in.

The original Social Security Act, passed in 1935, did not make provisions for survivors. But in 1939 amendments to the act provided for monthly benefits for widowed mothers with eligible children.

The program has expanded since then, and today 98 out of every 100 children could receive survivor benefits if a working parent should die.

In fact, the value of this protection against income loss for a worker's family is probably greater than the value of his or her commercial life insurance.

If you would like an estimate of the Social Security survivors benefits that could be paid to your family, call or visit our office to ask for a Personal Earnings and Benefit Estimate Statement. It will show an estimate of survivors benefits that could be paid, as well as estimates of retirement and disability benefits and other important information. Our number is 293-9599.

FALL FREEZE INJURY AND HOW LOSSES CAN BE REDUCED

Winter injury to trees in Texas occurs most often when trees have been exposed to an extended period of warm weather and the temperature quickly drops to subfreezing. Such drastic temperature changes frequently occur in the fall before plants have a chance to become acclimated to low temperature. This occurred in the fall of 1991. As a result hundreds of trees were killed in the panhandle counties of Texas. This was a direct effect of the cold. Indirectly many trees were placed in a stressful situation and then invaded by fungi. This resulted in additional tree loss. In some cases a single limb may be damaged by the freeze. Leaves on those limbs have been slow to develop and are smaller in size.

Practices that encourage succulent growth in the fall will increase a tree's chance of being damaged by an early freeze. Fall pruning or addition of high rates of nitrogen in mid to late summer encourage a rapid growth rate in the fall. In most cases large amounts of high nitrogen fertilizer should not be applied after the first of June. Trees should be pruned only during the dormant season or in early summer. If possible reduce irrigation in late summer and early fall. This does not mean cutting off all water but apply only enough to prevent tree stress. Once the trees are dormant, make sure the soil is kept moist. Trees in dry soil are more likely to suffer winter injury than trees in moist soil. These practices are difficult to follow if a tree is part of a landscape because large amounts of nitrogen fertilizer and water are often required to maintain the lawn.

Remove freeze injured limbs, so that they will not be entry sites for canker and wood rotting organisms. It is best to wait until the trees have completely leafed out before pruning off the damaged wood.

First Texas Lottery Millionaire to be Picked June 18th in Dallas

(AUSTIN) — "With an independent auditor on hand to ensure absolute fairness, the Texas Lottery's first instant Grand Prize millionaire will be picked on June 18 in Dallas," Lottery Director Nora Linares said recently.

"Seven contestants will vie for the $1 million cash Grand Prize in the first of 12 drawings that will create an instant Texas millionaire every Thursday through September 3. The rink at Americas Ice Garden in the newly renovated Plaza of the Americas in Dallas will provide the backdrop for the biggest giveaway in Texas history," Linares said.

"The 12, $1 million Grand Prizes make the Texas Lottery the nation's first to award so many large prizes — in cash — during its first two games."

The seven finalists' path to the skating rink begins with their purchase of one of the 500,000 entry tickets in "Lone Star Millions," the Lottery's first game. Those tickets went on sale at 6 a.m., Friday, May 29.

Players scratch the latex covering off of all six Lone Stars on the front of the tickets. Each scratch reveals a prize amount. Any ticket with three matching prize amounts is a winner, and any ticket with the word "Entry" appearing three times is eligible for the Grand Prize Drawings. Eligible tickets must be mailed to the address listed on the back of the ticket to be placed in the drawing:

Grand Drawing
P.O. Box 149777
Austin, TX 78714-9777

Players are urged to keep photocopies of both sides of their tickets.

Lottery officials will check the tickets' validity. Each week, up to the first 80,000 eligible tickets received will be placed into the 126-cubit-foot mixing drum at Lottery Headquarters. Entries received later will have a chance at the next weeks' drawings.

"The drum is so big - it would hold about 80,000 golf balls - it's actually caused some problems for us," Linares said. "It took us a couple of days to find a place large enough to store it."

A preliminary drawing from the drum will be held - at Lottery Headquarters and open to the public - 10 days before each Grand Prize event. The preliminary draw for the seven finalists who will appear at the Plaza of the Americas, for example, will take place on Tuesday, June 9.

"Lottery security and an independent auditor will make sure that the entire process is absolutely fair and above board," Linares said. "Whoever selects the lucky seven tickets, for example, must wear short sleeves or roll up their sleeves and must be blindfolded."

The first Grand Prize drawing will begin at 12 noon on Thursday, June 18, when the seven finalists are escorted onto the custom-built Lottery set in the middle of the rink at Americas Ice Garden.

After five of the contestants win prizes of $10,000, $10,000, $15,000, $15,000 and $25,000, the attention focuses on the two remaining grand prize finalists.

"One will win $50,000 - in cash, of course - and the other will be the Texas Lottery's first instant millionaire," Linares said.

Linares said the Grand Prize Drawing is a part of the Lottery's plan to involve as many Texans as possible in the games.

"We know that folks from all over the state will 'compete' for the million dollar prize, but we're also trying to bring the fun and excitement of the drawings to all corners of Texas," Linares said.

"For example, on June 25 we'll be at the Ranching Heritage Center in Lubbock, and on the following Thursday the drawing will be in Corpus Christi."

"The Grand Prize drawings will continue through the end of 'Lone Star Millions' and into the Lottery's second scratch-off game," Linares said. "Between those two games, more than 1 million tickets will give Texans a chance to enter the 12 drawings."

On The Home Front

The Temperature of Temperament

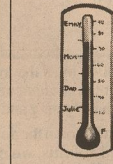

I'm not a believer in astrology, but I do wonder if the day on which a person is born affects his or her personality.

For instance, our older daughter, Julie, was born on Feb. 27 — an unpredictable time of year weatherwise in Kentucky.

This year, for example, the crocuses were poking their heads up along our front walk when Julie's friends tromped in for her 12th birthday party. But in 1980, the wind and snow blistered past my hospital room window as I debated which of 10 or so outfits I should put on the baby for the ride home.

"All of them," the nurse suggested.

I don't know if there is any connection, but Julie is cool and reserved. She is not one to show much emotion or let her temper — or temperature — rise.

Seven years later, Emily was born in late spring — May 27. She arrived after I had sweated through the last few weeks of pregnancy in July-like weather.

Rushing off to the hospital at 5 a.m., I had no need to grab even a sweater.

"We set another record," said Jim, wiping the perspiration from his forehead when he came to take us home from the hospital.

Is it coincidence that Emily's fiery personality, her emotions hiding just below the surface, matches the day she was born? Her outcries of agony and delight are well-known around the neighborhood.

Emily takes after my mother, who was born 62 years earlier to the day. And she's a lot like my brother, who celebrates his birthday just three days before hers.

I suppose genes could have something to do with it, but I think I see a pattern here. Nature may have given Julie her Dad's cool self-possession; he was born on a cold November day.

I myself was born on the first day of spring. The day I was born, I'm told, sunshine beckoned my Dad to the garden to pluck daffodils (still my favorites) for his firstborn. Spring arrived with the gentleness of a lamb that year.

Other years, though, spring growls in begrudgingly like a lioness awakened from a long-night's sleep. Lamblike or lionlike, the first day of spring is never predictable.

Sound like anyone you know, dear family? ☺

SEEDS FROM THE SOWER

Michael A. Guido Metter, Georgia

One day I saw a truck stuck in the mud. It was loaded with children. But instead of getting out of the truck, they stood where they were and pushed the cab. They almost pushed it off the frame but they didn't get out of the mud.

When you try to lift yourself by your own boot straps, you're doing the same thing. The only way to get out of the mud of your own wrongdoings is by calling on God.

That's what the Psalmist did. He said, "I waited patiently for God to help me. He lifted me out of the pit of despair, and set my feet on a firm path and steadied me as I walked along."

Stuck? Look to the Lord. He'll lift you!

Recycled Plastics: The Wave of the 90's

Many people don't know that the plastic used in food and beverage containers is one of the fastest growing recycled materials in the U.S. This plastic—called "PET" for short (polyethylene terephthalate)—has a multitude of uses and is perhaps best known as the plastic used in soft drink bottles, introduced in 1979.

Manufacturers today have begun to use PET for many other food product containers as well, such as vegetable oils and salad dressings. Recently, for example, the entire line of Wish-Bone® Dressings switched over to PET recyclable plastic bottles. In most cases PET containers replace glass, because while offering the same advantage—transparency—they are also lighter and shatterproof.

The wider use of PET in containers is related to a growing market for recycled PET. In other words, the more ways the plastic can be used after it is recycled and the more communities that participate in recycling plastics, the more manufacturers will be able to use this material in their products.

Recycled PET is used to make the fiberfill in outdoor clothing, sleeping bags, cushions and upholstery. Five recycled two-liter PET bottles make enough fiberfill for a man's ski jacket, for example, and 35 recycled bottles are enough to fill a sleeping bag.

PET is also used to make carpet fibers, automobile parts, egg cartons, paintbrush bristles, industrial straps, surfboards and skis. Non-food containers such as those for cleaning and laundry products are also using recycled PET. In fact, the industrial demand for recycled PET plastics is estimated to reach 640 million pounds by 1994!

... Polyethylene terephthalate ("PET"), the plastic used in food and beverage containers, is one of the fastest growing recycled materials in the U.S. Expected demand for recycled PET plastics by 1994: 640 million pounds!

With so many re-uses, it's no wonder that PET recycling is the wave of the 90's. Just as Americans learned to recycle aluminum in the 70's and glass in the 80's, they are now supporting their local communities' efforts to develop and implement plastics recycling programs today.

To find out where to recycle PET plastics in your community, or how you can help initiate a local program, call your city sanitation department. Information about plastics recycling is available from NAPCOR, the National Association for Plastic Container Recovery at 1-800-7-NAPCOR.

ATTITUDE IS IMPORTANT

Our cultivation of the proper attitude toward the Bible is very important in our search for eternal happiness. In the book of Psalms we have a collection of verses which will help us formulate the proper attitude and a deeper respect for the Word of God. "O how live I thy law! It is my meditation all the day." (Psalm 119:97). "Thy word have I hid in mine heart, that I might not sin against thee." (Psalm 119:105)

One who lives the Word of God, meditates upon it day and night, hides it within the heart to overcome temptations, and allows the Bible to be a lamp and a light for his or her daily walk, will surely be blessed of the Lord. Yes, this will come through proper attitude and study of the Word of God. The attitude of which we are speaking, is the willingness to trust and obey. I ask of you, to carefully and prayerfully study God's sacred volume, to meet His approval.

"And now I commend you to God, and to the word of his grace, which is able to build you up, and to give you an inheritance among all them that are sanctified." (Acts 20:32)

Modern Gadgets Are A Matter of Choice

by Earlyne Jameson

As I sit on my piece of Western prairie my life is a far cry from that of my grandparents.

Does the digital clock on the VCR you were given last Christmas still blink? There you sit, instruction manual in hand, "Hold remote control. Press Power. Now press Program. Select function by pressing the appropriate number..." Heaven forbid, you're going to have to call in a certified electrician or one of your grandchildren to set the clock on your new VCR! You just became the victim of the malady of the 90's...Technophobia!

One woman said the instructions packed with the cordless telephone she purchased recently were easy to follow, but the VCR instructions might as well be written in Chinese. Her kids had to come and straighten everything out. The people who write the instructions already know how the gizmo works and assume you do too!

Did you give up trying to set the automatic timer on that newfangled coffee-maker? Do you use your microwave oven for just warming leftovers? Want to carve the holiday turkey with a knife that runs on elbow grease instead of electricity?

Music lovers, especially those who own record players, have found rapid changes in the audio industry hard to swallow. The popularity of cassette tapes and compact discs has sent long playing albums and 45 r.p.m. platters spinning off store shelves. Even more disheartening, you can't find a new needle for the record player so that you can continue to enjoy the prized music albums you do have.

You can either shell out money for a cassette or C.D. player or do without.

When the latest product on the market makes an old stand-by obsolete, buyers may feel they are "not in control" of their lives. You may not have "technophobia", you might be among millions of well adjusted Americans who believe many of today's electronic gizmos just don't fit into their lifestyle. For a lot of older people, these things are obnoxious.

The most severe form of forced feeding might occur when a machine chokes off human contact. They can't exchange smiles with them. Secretaries were used to routines that involved typing, filing paper and dealing with old patterns of the office. Now, most faculty members do their own typing and secretaries do duplicating. In many cases, skills developed over the years are rendered useless. No wonder they are resistant.

One woman I admired refused to buy a microwave oven. "I prefer a tea kettle to heat my water", she said. "Microwaves don't whistle." Good for her. If you'd rather make a long-distance call to your grandchildren on a dial-type phone instead of a push-button model, that's okay!

"If you prefer the 'old fashioned' way of doing things, that doesn't mean you are stubborn or afraid to adapt. You are just exercising freedom of choice," explained Professor Langdon Winner of Polytechnic Institute in Troy, N.Y.

We view using modern gadgets as a matter of choice, not a sign of mental strength or weakness. It is okay to pull the plug on technology for those Americans who embrace devices with which they are familiar and comfortable operating!
