Local Man Brings Technology To Motley County

by Amy Thacker

If you have driven past the Roaring Springs Ranch lately, chances are Johnny Lloyd's tree stump remover has caught your eye.

While living in South Africa with his wife, Willie Mae, Johnny Lloyd of Roaring Springs began working with the idea of a machine that would remove the troublesome eucalyptus tree in an efficient manner. Lloyd returned to the States for a short visit with his sister and devised the plan for the tree stump remover.

A native of Floydada, Lloyd was manufacturing farm equipment in South Africa when the need to remove the eucalyptus tree was brought to his attention. Removing South Africa's eucalyptus is as great as the need to remove Texan lands of the mesquite.

After several attempts to make the machine workable, Lloyd accomplished his task. The TTM Tree Stump Remover is a cost effective and environmentally friendly way to remove tree stumps, especially when compared to other methods of removal.

Lloyd pointed out the two most important features of the TTM Tree Stump Remover is that it separates the soil and/or rocks from the root and the operation does not interfere with the top soil and beneficial ground covering.

The stump remover is attached to the front of a tractor which moves in a forward motion at approximately 3 miles an hour. It displaces the stump at a desired depth without removing the top soil.

Lloyd explained that the tree stump is sheared in one-third of a second. Therefore, the shock to the tree is so great that it is immediately free of rocks and soil. After the stumps are removed the field will be level, leaving stumps to be windrowed for burning or picked up for chipping.

The owners of the company are Johnny Lloyd and Kelly Willis. With 55 million acres of mesquite trees across Texas, the TTM Tree Stump Remover should prove to be a valuable asset to Texas farmers and ranchers.

BIG GREEN MACHINE — The TTM Tree Stump Remover, developed by Johnny Lloyd, a Floydada native, is a huge machine, which is known around Motley County as the 'big green machine'. Mr. Lloyd and his partner, Kelly Willis, now have their business located in Roaring Springs.

Hospital Board Meets

The Motley County Hospital Board met for regular session, Wednesday, February 10, at 7:00 a.m.

The Board set election for May 1 of two board member places, Charley Johnson and Tom Bowman. Dates to file for election is February 15 - March 17.

The Board discussed setting a limit of miles from Matador that the Ambulance can take a patient. EMT Director, Tony Rose, explained that a policy was set up in years past not to go over 150 miles. Board elected to set 150 as the limit.

that the Ambulance was not certified for BLS (Basic Live Support) and now it has been upgraded to MICU (Mobile Intensive Care Unit) capabilities.

Donna Flenders of SPEMS (South Plains Emergency Medical Services) of the Lubbock office gave an update on the Service.

SPEMS maintains the communications system. Flenders stated they were getting ready to replace the repeaters as they have been in service for 15 years and that is about the life expectancy of the repeaters.

She said they have 5 new CRP manicans available for training as well as training videos the EMS can rent for classes.

El Progreso Club Hears Review Of Women's Role In Texas History

A program by Mrs. Robert Darsey for El Progreso Club's January meeting extolled the role of Texas women in the development of national issues, as well as those of their native state.

Meeting Thursday, January 28 at the Senior Citizens Building, the club was called to order by the President, Mrs. Dale Bumgardner, who turned the program to Mrs. Joe Campbell, leader, after conducting a slate of current and past business on the club's agenda.

Mrs. Campbell introduced the program by presenting Mrs. Frank Pohl, who entertained with three "rose" selections on her casio keyboard beginning with "Mexicali Rose," written in 1923, then "Yellow Rose of Texas" and concluding with "San Antonio Rose", which was composed and made famous by the late Bob Wills. Legend has it that the Yellow Rose was a woman named Emily Morgan, whose romance with Mexican General Santa Anna, distracted him long enough that Sam Houston and his troops won the battle of San Jacinto.

"Every history has its heroes, but there also have been many heroines," Mrs. Darsey stated as she introduced her subject. "Texas women, like the state, are portrayed in song and legend as brave, beautiful and strong. Such women can handle a rifle, herd wild cattle, and rock the cradle with equal ease, and much of what appears as romantic today, were yesterday's necessities. Historical women of Texas had vision. They were builders of their communities and concerned with the needs of the people, especially children. They put hearts and souls into mortar and brick as they established orphanages, schools, hospitals, libraries, museums and other cultural needs, not to forget the Suffrage leaders who led the struggle for the vote." She cited women of ethnic races, including Indian, Hispanic, Black and others who played an important part in Texas history.

In highlights of accomplishments by Texas women, Mrs. Darsey pointed out that "Most often, women worked in clubs or organizations to make their communities responsive to people." The Texas Federation of Women's Clubs played a major role in the development of Texas communities after its organization in 1897, she said. Prior to that time however, Literary societies had established free public libraries. In 1876 the Salado Ladies Reading Society raised $130 to purchase library books from New York.

"As the idea of libraries spread women collected books and opened reading rooms wherever they could find the space. In Odessa the first library was in an old jail. In Stephenville it was a room over a drug store. In Matador, it was a room over the former First National Bank Building. The goal of the TFWC was to have a free library in every county. In 1887 there were only six. Today, 230 of Texas' 254 counties have at least one free library."

"The garden clubs of Texas and The Colonial Dames of America were among other organizations of energetic women who worked to make their state more beautiful and the quality of life better for all Texans," Mrs. Darsey continued, adding "Black women, too, organized schools and churches all across Texas. And the Texas Federation of Colored Women's Clubs, set up in 1905, played a major role in enhancing the lives of black Texans. Mexican-American women were involved in similar activities in service organizations, such as La Cruz Blanca, Catholic Church groups, the YWCA and the auxiliaries of the League of United Latin American Citizens (LULAC) and the American GI Forum.

"Plains Indian women were among Texas' earliest builders," Mrs. Darsey observed. "They were the architects and construction workers who put together the family homes - the traditional tepee. They designed the tepee to stabilize in strong winds. Flaps on the tepee controlled the air flow. Because tepees were made of buffalo hides, they could weigh as much as 300 pounds. Women working together could dismantle and pack them in as little as 30 minutes and they traveled with special work saddles so they could pull the tepee behind them."

Other areas of leadership by women in Texas included hospitals, Mrs. Darsey said, citing that many of the women were members of Roman Catholic religious orders, including three young nuns from France who rode a wagon from Galveston to San Antonio in 1869 to establish the first Catholic hospital there, what is now Santa Rosa Medical Center, the largest Catholic Hospital in the nation.

One of the first girls' schools in Texas was established in 1834 by Frances Trask. Among others were Stuart Female Academy in Austin, founded in 1876, and College of Industrial Arts (CIA) in 1901 in Denton, renamed Texas Woman's University in 1957. This institution, championed by the Woman's Christian Temperance Union and other organizations had to wage a 20-year battle with the Texas Legislature to establish a state supported girls' Industrial College. St. Mary's Hall of San Antonio, established in 1879, is the oldest continuing girls' school still in operation in Texas. First kindergarten in Texas was established in 1893 in El Paso by Olga Bemstein Kohlberg and the local Woman's Club. Mrs. Kohlberg brought new ideas about preschool training from her native Germany. Other women across the state took up the movement and among them was a kindergarten opened in Canadian, Texas in 1906.

Women played a definite role in the establishment of museums in Texas, Mrs. Darsey asserted, with special mention of Ima Hogg, who personally supervised the restoration of the Windale Historical Center, which she gave to the University of Texas at Austin for an outdoor museum and study center. She also gave her family home, Bayou Bend, to the Museum of Fine Arts in Houston.

The spotlight of publicity also shone on Clara Driscoll, "The Savior of the Alamo," among other specific areas, as she went on to become an author, playwright, politician, diplomat and businesswoman. Another woman of influence given special mention by Mrs. Darsey, was Carrie Marcus Neiman, who brought high fashion to Texas when she, with her husband and brother, opened Neiman-Marcus in Dallas in 1907.

The list of Texas women of note was so long that Mrs. Darsey said she had to limit her recognitions by naming only a few. These included Eleanor Brackenridge, who set up the Texas Woman Suffrage Association in 1913; Carry Nation, described as a "Shock trooper of the temperance movement," who lived and worked in Texas for 10 years and later founded a home for drunkards' wives; Katherine Stinson, one of the first women in America to fly. She made her first solo flight in 1912 - eleven years before Charles Lindbergh even started flight training and was called the greatest woman pilot in the world for her daring stunts as first skywriter and first woman to loop-the-loop, and her endurance flights before World War I; Elizabeth Ney, sculptor from Bavaria, who came to Texas in 1872 with her husband, and established her studio in Austin, where many of her works are on display; Oveta Culp Hobby, during World War II worked for the War Department and became Commander of the Women's Auxiliary Army Corp. She became the first woman to receive the Distinguished Service Cross. She became publisher of the Houston Post at the death of her husband, in 1964.

One of the most distinguished and well-known of Texas women was Babe Didrickson Zaharias, Olympic gold medalist and golf champion who won more medals and set more records in various sports than any other athlete - male or female - in the 20th century. Others mentioned were Cynthia Ann Parker, Indian captive, whose life story has become a Texas legend; Jane Long, known as the "Mother of Texas" and several ranch women, Lizzie Campbell of the Matadors, Comelia Adair of the JA Ranch in the Texas Panhandle, and Henrietta King of the King Ranch in south Texas.

These are but a few of the women who are featured in "Texas Women - A Celebration of History," compiled by Mary Beth Rogers, from which Mrs. Darsey quoted. "The Texas Women's History Project discovered more than 500 truly remarkable women who deserve recognition for their services. We are sorry that space permits us to list only a few," the author and staff of the project offered in the epilogue.

For Inspirational Thought Mrs. Campbell read a poem, "If I Should Stumble," by Helen Lowrie Marshall in "Quiet Power." Also a short quotation by Edgar A Guest, and a verse from John 17 in the Bible.

Hostess, Mrs. Pohl was assisted by Mrs. John Hamilton and others in serving refreshments of chocolate cake squares and cranapple punch at the conclusion of the program. Present were Dorothy (Mrs. E.A.) Day, Opal (Mrs. W.N.) Pipkin, Bailey (Mrs. Ted) Elliott, Pearl (Mrs. Harry) Patten, Dorothy (Mrs. Frazier) Watson, Sue (Mrs. George) Seigler, Lila (Mrs. Douglas) Meador, Jo Etta (Mrs. Dale) Bumgardner, Loys (Mrs. Joe) Campbell, Lola (Mrs. Frank) Pohl, Winifred (Mrs. Robert) Darsey, Josephine (Mrs. John) Hamilton, and Lucretia (Mrs. R.E.) Campbell.

BEWARE THE "COLD" SEASON

"The Cold Facts"
An estimated 60 MILLION DAYS OF SCHOOL and 50 MILLION DAYS OF WORK are lost each year because of the common cold!! Many colds come home with our children. In fact, since young children's immune systems are not fully developed, it is no wonder they get sick easier and more often than adults. In fact, children between the ages of two and six get colds twice as often as nine-year olds, and nine-year olds get colds twice as often as twelve-year olds. Teaching children good cleanliness habits is in step toward helping prevent the spread of infectious diseases this season. And hand-washing is a very important cleanliness habit to practice.

- often spread germs. For instance --
- * Sharing drinking glasses or eating utensils.
- * Coughing or sneezing into a phone
- * Putting a toy into the mouth
- * Coughing or sneezing into your hands and not washing them afterwards
- * Leaving used tissues around
- * Using the toilet and not washing your hands

Remember, it takes only a few little germs to spread the common cold, sore throat, or flu! Washing your hands often will remove germs and help keep you and your family healthy.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service are for people of all ages regardless of socio-economic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap, or national origin.

"The Invisible Germ"

No matter how closely you look, you can't see germs with your naked eye. In fact, germs live on dry surfaces for hours and on moist surfaces for up to three days. Simple, everyday activities and habits

Local 4-H Member To Exhibit Livestock Houston Show

Darryn Perryman, Matador 4-H member, will join other 4-H and FFA members from throughout Texas for show ring competition at the upcoming Houston Livestock Show, Feb. 20 through March 7 at the Astrodome.

Darryn will show a heifer in the beef division and will also participate in the Calf Scramble.

These FFA and 4-H exhibitors compete in one of two divisions of the Houston Livestock Show - the junior show division. The other division, the open show, attracts its exhibitors from the world's agricultural industry, who are primarily professional breeders and ranchers.

Entries in both the junior shows combine with horse show entries to make the Houston Livestock Show the world's largest.

Representing 862 Texas 4-H clubs and FFA chapters, the junior show is expected to exceed 11,000 entries this year. A variety of animals are shown in the junior show division: market steers, market swine, market sheep, market poultry, beef and dairy heifers, breeding sheep, goats commercial steers and breeding rabbits.

The four market animal categories (steers, sheep, swine and poultry) represent animals raised by the exhibitor as food sources. Top animals in each of these categories are eligible for their individual market auctions. Total money paid in 1992 at the four junior show auctions exceeded $3 million.

"Our junior show is the highlight of our livestock show, placing an emphasis on education, supervised instruction and fair competition," said Steve Woodley, Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo manager.

In addition to the upcoming livestock show competition, a series of lectures, seminars and live animal demonstrations again will be on the calendar for the month of February - the International Livestock Congress. Held Feb. 24-26, 1993, at the Sheraton Astrodome Hotel, this school focuses on lectures and seminars delivered by agricultural experts from throughout the world.

Barbecue cooking fans can enjoy the World's Championship Barbecue Contest beginning Friday, Feb. 19, at 4 p.m. in the northwest corner of the Astrodome parking lot and the contest continues through Saturday, Feb. 20.

Also on Feb. 20, the streets of downtown Houston will fill with hundreds of thousands of spectators for the 55th annual downtown rodeo parade. The parade, featuring more than 6,000 trail riders, marching bands and colorful floats, will begin following the Conoco 10K Rodeo Run.

Starting at 9:45 a.m. downtown, this year's race is expected to draw 4,500 to 5,000 runners. All entry fees will be donated to the Show's scholarship fund. A total of $278,000 in entry fees has been donated to the Show by Conoco since the race's inception in 1988.

With much more planned for the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo, ticket prices are $10 and include admission to the horse show (excluding National Cutting Horse Association sponsored events), the livestock show, the carnival and the rodeo. Tickets can be purchased at all Ticketmaster outlets, including the Astrodome box office.

Officials at Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers (PCG) say a breakfast meeting with U.S. Representative Bill Sarpalius will hopefully provide the framework for a close working relationship on cotton-related issues.

The meeting, which involved PCG staff members and officers and representatives from the Rolling Plains Cotton Growers Association (RPCG), was held to acquaint the Congressman with the two organizations and promote a close working relationship.

Rep. Sarpalius serves the 13th Congressional District, which includes the majority of the Texas Panhandle and part of the Rolling Plains area along the Oklahoma border. Sarpalius' district, by virtue of a redistricting plan adopted by the Texas Legislature in 1991, likely contains the highest number of cotton acres of any current congressman.

The 13th District had slightly over 1.7 million acres planted to cotton in 1991. Over 1.3 million of the cotton acres were planted in counties served by PCG.

Issues discussed by PCG and RPCG officials included the progress the new Administration was making in filling positions within the various agencies, the proposed reorganization of USDA, the importance of maintaining the current Farm Bill as is and also maintaining federal funding for projects like Boll Weevil Eradication that can directly benefit the environment, rural economics and farmers. Sarpalius agreed with PCG officials on the importance of these issues. He pledged to work closely with PCG on these and future matters.

Sarpalius also noted that he would be chairing a subcommittee on rural development, environmental and small business issues within the House Agriculture Committee. He noted that this would be a good opportunity to enter testimony and other beneficial information into the Congressional record that could help direct future legislation.

Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers (PCG) has recently learned that producers need to be aware that tax information Form CCC 1099-G, issued by the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC), will show marketing loan gains along with other government payments.

PCG is encouraging producers to seek the advice of accountants on how to handle the marketing loan gains to avoid the possibility of double taxation of could occur if loan receipts are categorized for tax purposes as income. If an option to purchase contract is subsequently executed with a merchant the marketing loan gain shown on Form 1099 could already have been included as income.

A marketing loan gain is the difference between the loan principal and the AWP in the week the loan was redeemed.

Deadline Nears For SBA Disaster Loan Assistance

Businesses in nine West Texas counties have until February 22, 1993 to file applications for low-interest disaster loans from the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA). The SBA's Economic Injury Disaster Loans are available for businesses dependent on farmers and ranchers sustaining crop losses from freeze and excessive rain which occurred between September 1 and December 31, 1991. Farmers and ranchers are not eligible for these SBA loans.

Walter Fronstin district director for the Lubbock office of the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA), said today that the deadline for filing applications under that EIDL declaration is February 22, 1993. Applications and further information can be obtained by calling the SBA, toll-free at 1-800-366-6303, or TDD 817-267-4688 for the hearing impaired.

Businesses in the following West Texas counties are affected:

Armstrong, Briscoe, Collingsworth, Floyd, Gray, Hall, Motley, Swisher, Wheeler.

These loans are intended to assist businesses in offsetting working capital losses which they suffered as a result of the freeze and excessive rain reducing the crop income of the area farmers and ranchers. Small businesses claiming to have been physically injured by the adverse weather are not eligible.

Social Security Tips

by Mary Jane Shanes

SOCIAL SECURITY:

A WORLDWIDE PHENOMENON

What do Bolivia, Congo, Japan, Morocco, Switzerland, Venezuela, and about 140 other countries around the world have in common with the United States? They all have Social Security programs. My guess is many people are surprised to learn this. Perhaps some assume that Social Security is a uniquely American concept while others might think that only the western industrialized nations have Social Security programs. Quite the opposite is true. As a mechanism for meeting basic human needs, Social Security programs have achieved near universal acceptance. Almost every country in the world (in fact, 146 of them from Afghanistan to Zimbabwe) offer some form of social insurance for their citizens.

Of course, the kinds of benefits offered vary widely from one country to another, but there are many similarities. Almost all countries offer some form of old age, survivors, and disability coverage. Many also provide worker's compensation and unemployment benefits, and some Social Security programs include sickness and maternity care. As in the United States, almost all Social Security programs are financed by a tax on earnings.

Some of the countries have interesting qualification factors for benefits. For example, if you were a citizen of Burkina Faso, a land-locked republic in Northern Africa, you could receive an old-age pension at age 55, or as early as 50 if "prematurely aged." Residents of Iceland must wait until age 67 to collect their retirement pensions. (By the way, beginning in the year 2000, the age at which U.S. citizens can collect full retirement benefits begins to climb from 65 to 67. People born in 1938 will have to be 65 and 2 months, people born in 1939 have to be 65 and 4 months, etc., until the full retirement age reaches 67 for people born in 1960 and later). In Czechoslovakia, men can retire at age 60 but women can start collecting retirement benefits between the ages of 53 and 57 depending on the number of children raised.

Another interesting aspect to the universality of Social Security programs is a set of agreements the United States has established with 13 countries (so far) that help coordinate taxes and benefits for people who work in two different countries. These agreements, called "totalization agreements," generally eliminate double coverage so that employees and employers pay taxes to only one country's Social Security system. They also help employees who have worked in the U.S. and another country, but not long enough in the U.S. to qualify for Social Security benefits. In many cases, credits from both countries can be combined to pay a "totalization" benefit from the U.S. We currently have totalization agreements with Austria, Belgium, Canada, France, Germany, Italy, the Netherlands, Norway, Portugal, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, and the United Kingdom.

Her derriere still bare, pants down below her knees, she was gaining speed down the slope and creating an unusual vista for other skiers.

The husband reported that the woman skied under the ski lift and finally collided with a pylon. The good news is that the pylon stopped her descent. The bad news is she broke her arm, making it impossible to pull up her pants.

Hubby raced to the rescue, put warmth on cold "checks" and left to summon the ski patrol who transported her to a hospital.

Finally at the hospital a man with a broken leg was also brought to the emergency room. Making small talk she asked, "How did you break your leg?"

"It was the craziest thing you ever saw," he said. "I was riding up the ski lift and I couldn't believe it. There was this crazy woman skiing backward, out of control, with her bare bottom hanging out. It was so crazy I couldn't believe it...I leaned over to get a better look...and fell out of the ski lift."

"So, how did you break your arm?"

Whoso hearkeneth unto me shall dwell safely, and shall be quiet from fear of evil.

Senior Citizens Report

by Bill Dunning

The Matador Senior Citizens met on Tuesday, February 9 for their regular luncheon day with 22 people attending, several were absent due to Dr. appointments.

Rev. Gaylon Cox gave the blessing for the noon meal. A wonderful lunch enjoyed by all, lots of food left. Barbara and Carla, you forgot us.

Cora Hall called the business meeting to order. No one had a birthday or anniversary. Jean Cooper told the report of the meeting with the Commissioners. We have to have Insurance on the building to keep from being sued if someone gets hurt in some way. It's going to cost over $1,000 a year. Our bills for last month for butane, lights, and water were over $275.00 and our County can't buy all that and pay for insurance. It's to be voted on to see if the Senior Citizens and those who use it can pay the monthly bills.

There will be a time later we will vote on it. Tell us how we can come up with the money.

Addie Murphy and attended the funeral services of J.D. Spray. Mrs. Murphy visited from Saturday until Wednesday in Plainview with Mr. and Mrs. Doc Cross and Mr. and Mrs. J.C. Murphy.

Mrs. Clovia Saylor of Fairfax, Oklahoma, took her father, Joe Rice Sr., home with her Thursday of last week. Mr. Rice had been hospitalized for treatment of severe emphysema at Veterans' Hospital in Amarillo for a few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlie Long of Waxahachie were here for the funeral of his mother, Mrs. Irene Long last Friday. Carlie was in Lubbock Tuesday for his mother's surgery. His sons, Steve, Eric, and Ryder were also here for their grandmother's funeral and acted as pallbearers.

Mr. and Mrs. B.L. Peacock were in Lubbock Friday to get her new glasses and attend to other business.

Francis Gunter of Floydada, in town for Mrs. Long's funeral, told friends that his mother, Mrs. Mamie Duren of Amarillo, was just out of the hospital after hospitalization with pneumonia. Mrs. Duren lived here many years.

Mrs. Agnes Meredith was taken by Motley County Ambulance Saturday afternoon to Lubbock where she is having tests at newtime.

For Valentine gifts there are candy and flowers; then there's the Westinghouse frost free refrigerator that was delivered by Thackers to Mrs. Minnie Dye, the gift of her son, A.J.

All Your Home's Little Holes That Leak Air, Can Add Up to One Hole

Big Enough To Chase a Cat Through!

You could be losing a lot of air. Air you pay to heat or cool. Why not start saving instead?

It doesn't take a smarty-cat to see that sealing those little holes can help you save on your energy bill...month after month.

So, take a tip from HandyCat! Inspect your home for all those little places where you could start saving energy...and money! Look for cracks around windows, doors and plumbing wall joints. Consider adding insulation to your attic.

And when it's time to replace your worn out furnace or air conditioner, install a high-efficiency, energy-saving electric heat pump that will help keep you comfortable—better-year-round. For more information on state-of-the-art heat pumps, call WTU or your heating and air conditioning supplier.

Try These Energy-Saving Tips From WTU For Lowering Your Monthly Electric Bill

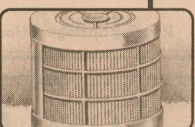

Apply caulking to windows, cracks and where plumbing pipes meet walls.

Install weatherstripping to door edges to provide a tighter seal.

Add extra insulation to your attic.

Replace worn-out furnace or A/C with an energy-efficient, electric heat pump.
