TRAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR

Many individuals are so opposed to work that they are willing to prosecute opportunity for trespassing.

Alcohol is the approved lubricant for the machinery of hell.

In measuring the importance of a mortal in the scheme of the universe, it is necessary to know the weight of a particle of dust resting on the window sill of time.

If we could harness our fears to the needs of power, the scientists could quit tinkering with the atom.

One of the first requirements for admission to the fraternity of ignorance is the inability to recognize truth when it alone is obvious.

These foreign cars have a chance of becoming popular in West Texas if some driver can prove that he passed under a wandering cow on the highway without serious consequence.

Compassion is perhaps the greatest single quality associated with the character of mankind. The degree to which it is exercised may well be the file required at the gates of eternity.

Too often marriage may result in the exchange of a Ship of Dreams for a house boat on the dreary river of necessity.

Changing customs add variety to the passing parade. When I was a boy the standard wedding gift was a milk cow.

Altho it is easy to make the same mistake twice, it is difficult to be impressed after the first time.

CADET - Charles Giesecke marks his land navigation score card after finding the marker bag during the 1,000 meter compass course in the Hudson Highlands northwest of West Point. The military training this summer follows a thirty day leave and will continue until the beginning of the new academic year.

Matador Cadet Begins 2nd Year At West Point

(The following release was written and photographed by Specialist Fourth Jim Leach of the Texas Army National Guard while assigned to the Military Academy at West Point for two weeks of annual training duty. Spec. Leach lives in Austin where he is attached to the 100th Public Information Detachment at Camp Mabry. He is employed by TV station KLBJ in Austin.)

Texas probably has more small towns per square mile than any place anywhere. And every one of these towns has something to be proud of, either a championship football team or prize cattle or any number of things.

Matador is one of these towns and their source of pride right now is a young man by the name of Charles B. Giesecke. Charles was recently appointed to the United States Military Academy at West Point, New York. The appointment is an honor that he richly deserves.

Giesecke was actually born in Houston but he was raised in the farming and ranching

Attend Rites For Cousin

Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Christian attended funeral services in Turkey, July 12, for his cousin, Paul Lynn Christian, who was killed in a plane crash on July 9, in Colorado.

Services were at 11 a.m. in the Church of Christ. Ronnie Christian served as pallbearer.

LEGION-AUXILIARY TO MEET MONDAY

The American Legion and Auxiliary will meet Monday, August 2, at 7:00 p.m. for regular covered dish supper and program. It was announced this week.

All members are urged to attend.

IN HOSPITAL

Mrs. Kenneth Thompson entered Central Plains Hospital, Plainview Tuesday of last week for a series of tests.

RETURNS HOME

Mrs. Roy G. Hobbs returned home Tuesday of last week from Plainview, where she had major surgery. Mr. Hobbs drove to Plainview to accompany his wife home. Their daughters, Holly and Heather have been visiting in Panhandle with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Jones, who accompanied them home last week. Mrs. Jones remained to be with her daughter during her recuperation.

community of Matador. While attending Motley County High School, his scholastic and athletic prowess became obvious. He placed first in the University of Texas Interscholastic League mathematics competition on the statewide level. He held the office of president of the prestigious scholastic fraternity, the National Honor Society. Finally, he was afforded the opportunity to attend a six week mathematics seminar sponsored by the National Science Foundation.

While all that was going on, he still found the time and the energy to play basketball for his school all four years, lettering during the last two. There's no question that Giesecke has struck a fine balance between intellectual and physical abilities and interests. He typifies the well-rounded, even-tempered, outstanding individual that is attracted to West Point.

Appointed by Congressman Bob Price in 1975, Giesecke entered the Military Academy in July of the same year. His class, the last to enter the institution without women, underwent its eight week basic course (which introduced them to the basic military skills) then began the routine of classes and intramural and varsity athletics during the academic year.

CORRECTION

The name of Mrs. J. C. Cross was inadvertently omitted from the list of those who assisted the Matador Garden Club in preparing planters to beautify the Bicentennial. Mrs. Cross donated some of the plants for the flower tubs, which are placed at several locations in downtown Matador.

VISITORS FROM CORPUS CHRISTI

Mr. and Mrs. Gail Bradley of Corpus Christi arrived Monday for a visit with her sisters and brothers. Tuesday night the relatives enjoyed a picnic supper at Springs Ranch, Roaring Springs. The group included the Bradleys, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson McMahon, Mrs. Ethel Payne, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Jenkins, Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Jenkins and Mr. and Mrs. Homer T. Jenkins.

MOVE TO DALHART

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Clifton and children, Jama and Landy have moved to the Beck Ranch near Dalhart, where he has accepted employment. Mrs. Clifton has been associated here in business with her mother, Mrs. John Briscoe, owner of Christene's Beauty Shop.

During the summers, from the time they enter until graduation, the cadets will have a month's leave followed, upon returning to the school, by two months of military field training. This particular phase of the cadet's Academy career is climaxed in the summer following the second year when the cadets travel to various parts of the world to get a first-hand look at training under realistic conditions.

The final summer, prior to the senior year, starts with a leave and ends with two months of preparing the incoming class, called "plebes," for their experiences at West Point. Giesecke, presently in his second summer, is spending his two months at the Military Academy's summer training center, Camp Buckner, learning military field techniques designed to complement the academic training he receives throughout the rest of the year.

In 1979, Cadet Charles B. Giesecke will become 2nd Lieutenant Charles B. Giesecke, United States Army. His graduation will mark the end of years of careful and painstaking preparation, both physical and mental, for his role as an officer in service to his country. When he is done, he will have completed the course in the finest tradition of the hundreds of cadets that have gone before him. The town of Matador will know that their pride is well placed.

Mrs. Seay died late Sunday, July 25, at her home in Matador. Her death was not discovered until Monday morning, by her sister, Mrs. Lena Fisher. Mrs. Seay had been slightly ill for several days, although her condition was not thought to be serious. Death was attributed to natural causes.

The former Lillie Pearl Garrison, Mrs. Seay was born October 23, 1890 in Jack County, Texas, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Garrison. She came to Motley County with her parents in 1900, lived in Terry County for about six years, and returned to Matador in 1909. She was married to Richard Alva Seay, June 20, 1922, in Floydada. They were in the abstract business here for many years, and Mrs. Seay took care of the business during the years her husband was County Clerk.

Mrs. Seay was a longtime member of the First Baptist Church, Matador, and for many years worked in the Sunday School departments. Mr. Seay preceded her in death, February 1, 1970. Mrs. Seay continued to lead an active life until her own death at the age of 85 years, 9 months and 2 days.

She is survived by one brother, Gabe Garrison of Silverton, and her sister, Mrs. Lena Fisher of Matador. A large number of nieces and nephews also survive.

Nephews served as pallbearers: Dickie Garrison, Luther Green, Fred Garrison, Guy Garrison, Paschal Garrison and Bill Jones.

Some confusion has resulted in the recently published schedules of Dr. Do and Dr. Y in announcing the days and hours they will be on duty at the Motley General Clinic, and on call.

The physicians will be on call before and after clinic hours, on alternate days of the week, and also on alternate week ends.

In an effort to assist in clarifying the matter, the Tribune will publish a display schedule showing the exact days each doctor will be on call. Both are on duty throughout the week from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m.

The schedule is found on page 2, and Dr. Do is on call today, before 8 a.m. and after 5 p.m. and will be on call during the week end from 5 p.m. Saturday until 8 a.m. Monday. Dr. Y will be on call Friday before and after the clinic hours.

Starting Monday, August 2, Dr. Do will be on call Monday, Wednesday and Friday, while Dr. Y will be on call Tuesday, Thursday and the week end, starting Saturday, August 7.

As stated above, both physicians are on duty every day in the week, during the day. Also on duty is Dr. Albert Traweck, who has moved his offices to the rear of the former Traweck Hospital, now in use as the Motley General Clinic.

Mrs. Bruce Seigler and Mrs. Charles Gwinn are office receptionists.

Proceeding the ceremony, Mrs. Ronald Cox, organist, provided traditional wedding music. Miss Susan Hunter, vocalist, sang the "Song of Ruth," accompanied by the piano by Mrs. Dan Kingstom, both of Floomot.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Vance Davison of Riverside, Iowa, matron of honor, Miss Becky Palmer of Roaring Springs, maid of honor, Mrs. Had Lyons of Enid, Okla., bridesmatron and sister-in-law of the bride, and bridesmaids, Betty Sue Markham, Matador and Miss Holly Overstreet of Enid, Miss Overstreet and Mrs. Lyons also served as candle-lighters.

deep cuffs of scalloped lace, and the long, full floor length skirt was surrounded by a deep scalloped ruffle. All were edged with pleated nylon ruffling.

The bride's chapel length train of satin was edged with scalloped lace and covered with applied lace roses. Her three tiered veil of tulle was held by a satin, rose covered crown edged with nylon pleating, and she carried a cascade bouquet of shasta daisies and baby's breath centered with a corsage of yellow rosebuds.

Her jewelry was an antique lavalier which had been worn by former Stephens brides.

The matron of honor and flower girls wore dresses of pale yellow sheer over deeper yellow lining, embossed with white plush daisies, and the bridesmaids wore dresses in pale blue over a deeper shade. The dresses were all identical, styled with square necklines, bell sleeves, and high empire waists lined with satin ribbon that tied in long streamer bows. The flared gored skirts were floor length. They wore head bands of white shasta daisies and carried bouquets of long stemmed daisies tied with satin ribbon streamers, and the flower girls wore daisy wristlets.

FOLLOWING the ceremony, the reception in the church basement was hosted by the bride's parents.

The bride's table featured a white crocheted cloth underlaid with yellow. The three tiered cake of pale yellow was covered with daisies. Flanking the cake were blue hurricane lamps surrounded by daisy bouquets. Presiding at the crystal punch service was Mrs. Davison, with Becky Palmer and Holly

Overstreet serving the cake. Presiding at the bridegroom's table were Mrs. Had Lyons and Holly Overstreet. The table was laid with a cutwork cloth over blue for a silver coffee service and German chocolate cake. A western theme was featured in the decor which included a western hat, spurs and bronzed boots filled with daisies which drew attention to the groom's cake.

Letter From Carrye Burley

Dear Friends of Motley County,

My year abroad is quickly coming to an end. After a tour of Yugoslavia, Greece, Turkey and Bulgaria, I will return to my beloved lone star state. Whenever some one found out that I was a Texan, they generally wanted to know about COWBOYS. Being an "almost" city girl, I felt I had little to say about cowboys until I remembered dear ole Matador. That is when the long tall tales would begin. I began every tale with "yes, there are cowboys, why in Matador, Texas ... I taught 28, 4-6 year olds on my final teaching practice. We had a topic on America and what should come up ... none other than the cowboys! With the aid of the Matador Tribune, I showed them real pictures of cowboys (Roy Rogers). They were thrilled to see the pictures and it gave me the opportunity to introduce new words that cowboys used. They enjoyed saying words such as vittles, grits, rodeo and "howdy partner." The class made up a play with two characters, "Tex the Cowboy" and his wife, "Mrs. Tex. Using the new words and ideas from stories told about cowboys, they acted the two parts. Yes, my 28 little English pupils enjoyed learning about Texas. A special thanks I send to Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Edwards and Mrs. C. M. Barton for sending those invaluable Matador Tribune Newspapers to me. I kept them on display at Rotary meetings and in my classrooms. And thanks Mrs. Morris Stephens for insisting that I attend a branding, for that experience enabled me to tell many - a tall tale to my pupils.

Yes, England there still are cowboys in Texas; why in Matador, Texas ... Sincerely,
Carrye Burley

County Agent Pallmeyer Says

Boll weevil infestations heavy enough to cause economic loss have already been found in 17 cotton fields in the county. As the diapause program is not scheduled to start until September 6th, some producers may have to control this insect before then.

Check your fields regularly, and if you find even one punctured square to indicate control, I have a publication, "Suggestions for Controlling Cotton Insects" that lists the recommended insecticides, rates to use and precautions.

Potential donors to charities and religious organizations deserve to know how their money is spent, and as we all know more are being received each year.

In 1975 almost $20 billion was given by individuals, representing an $80 donation from every man, woman and child in the U.S. This is a lot of money and even though many of the organizations are on the "up and up", some are not.

For non-profit organizations, three basic kinds of expenses have to be met, and donors should know how money is allocated among these three areas: program service, fund raising and management. You have the right to know how an organization makes decisions, and does the group have a functioning board of directors composed of responsible people with knowledge about the objectives of the organization.

Consider these points when deciding whether to give or not. Request activity, managerial and financial information. Request a statement of purpose from the organization, stating who the group is trying to help. If you receive a telephone request, ask the solicitor to put the request in writing and to supply complete information. If the solicitation is made door to door, ask the person for identification, and do not give cash, making the check payable to the organization, not an individual, especially if the person is unknown to you.

When buying a ticket to a fund raising activity or purchasing items from a charity, determine what part of the total contribution can be deducted as a charitable contribution.

Recipients are not obligated to pay for or return unordered items received, such as name labels, pens, stamps or other items. When in doubt about an organization, check it out with local Better Business Bureaus or the Consumer Protection Division of the Attorney General's office in Austin.

Farmers now have until October 25 to comply with certain safety standards under the Occupational Safety and Health Act (OSHA) that were to become effective June 7th. The safety practices concern guarding power take-offs (PTO), displaying safety signs and providing initial employee training for machinery operations.

Particular emphasis is on guarding the PTO drive line. The tractor shield on the rear PTO shaft must be in place, except the master shield may be removed when necessary to operate PTO driven equipment, providing the guards on such equipment cover the tractor PTO shafts.

Regarding safety training, a farmer must instruct every employee in the operation and servicing of all equipment with which that employee is involved. This includes keeping all guards in place when the machine is in operation, permitting no riders on farm equipment other than persons required for instruction or assistance, stop the engine, disconnect the power source and wait for all machine movement to stop before servicing, adjusting, cleaning or unclogging equipment, except when the machine must be running to be properly serviced. Make sure everyone is clear of machinery before starting the engine, engaging power or operating the machine, and locking out electrical power before performing maintenance or servicing equipment.

Henry Duckworth of Lefors visited here last week end with Will Pallmeyer and Butch McKelvey. Colton Thacker of Woodson, Texas visited last Wednesday and Thursday with his brother, Freeman Thacker. Visiting recently with Mr. Thacker were his daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Tinsley Jr., and Ginger of Oklahoma City, whom he accompanied home for a visit, returning here last week.

Family Farms Lead Over Agribusiness

Family farming in the United States is holding its own as the most permanent and dominant influence in America's agriculture.

This view of modern agriculture expressed by Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz, was recounted by Soil Conservation Service Administrator R. M. Davis in an editorial in the July issue of Soil Conservation magazine.

The requirement for safety signs calls for such signs to be placed at prominent locations on tractors and PTO driven equipment indicating that power drive system safety shields must be kept in place. Also, when removal of a guard or access door might expose an employee to any equipment that continues to rotate after the power is disengaged, the employer must provide warnings to look and listen for evidence of rotation and not to remove the guard of access door until all component movement has stopped.

Before long it will be time to make up another list of persons who have land that they would like to list for hunting or fishing.

If you would like to be listed this year, let Mike Isbell, Tony Dean, Emilio Aguilar, Alfred Harrison or myself know. We will need to know how many acres you have for lease, and type of game available. As for the actual leasing, that will be between you and the prospect.

Henry Duckworth of Lefors visited here last week end with Will Pallmeyer and Butch McKelvey.

Colton Thacker of Woodson, Texas visited last Wednesday and Thursday with his brother, Freeman Thacker. Visiting recently with Mr. Thacker were his daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Tinsley Jr., and Ginger of Oklahoma City, whom he accompanied home for a visit, returning here last week.

According to Davis, Butz reports that about 95 per cent of all U.S. farms are still family farms and produce about 60 per cent of all farm produce sold. More than 90 percent of the farms are closely held family operations rather than large agribusiness firms.

"The ability of the family farm to survive is good news for conservation because the family farmer is also the mainstay of soil and water conservation," Davis said. "Family farms have been first in conservation since the beginning of the Soil Conservation Service."

It was the family farmers who offered their farms as demonstration sites for new conservation practices. They organized conservation districts, tried out new agriculture practices and products, installed conservation measures, and developed and supported soil stewardship in local churches.

"Almost always, it is the family farmer or rancher - frequently encouraged by sons and daughters - who is the first to try out new parallel terrace systems or no-till farming, then invites the neighbors over for a look," Davis said.

"As we mark the 200th anniversary of our country's birth in freedom, we should remember that it was the yeoman farmer, the family farmer, who 'fired the shot heard around the world,' and eventually won our independence.

"Now it is the family farmer - and rancher - who keeps alive our voluntary program of soil and water conservation ... who conserves and improves our basic resources," Davis concluded.

Visitors Monday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Phillips included a nephew and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Phillips of Burus, La., and Mr. and Mrs. Hosea Phillips of Floydada, parents of Johnny and Grady Phillips. The Grady Phillips family also joined the group for visiting.
