RAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR
Florida the mail delivery three-wheeled enclosed in case of sudden rain, step inside and close the doors and the motors make it able to avoid a great amount of rain.

Petersburg is famous for its outdoor post office, with its windows open to the sun and recessed slightly in the building. Many people often drop into the city's sidewalk are as wide as the streets, with benches everywhere. The town is known as the "St. Pete" along the West Coast. The past St. Pete attracted many elderly residents, but it little age distinction now. It is a beautiful city with beautiful buildings, beautiful streets, beautiful parks, and beautiful people.

Florida is a Turkish bath with a friendly, easy-going atmosphere. Both sexes appear to be principal occupation and dress is incidental. It is a land of endless fine homes, golf courses, beautiful parks, and automobiles than places to visit.

Farmers have problems everywhere. There is no market for tons of fine grapefruit rotting under the trees, and now Med fly has made its appearance to further plague the tillers of the soil. All fruits and vegetables are quarantined while blights are being spent in a separate attempt to stop the deceiver before he puts the citrus farmer out of business.

Florida cities have an interesting and apparently effective method of handling the pedestrian traffic. On a certain signal it is lawful to walk in any direction at an intersection while vehicles idle their motors.

Things were quiet in Matador yesterday. Most of the business places were closed and the streets were almost vacant during the holiday.

Flags were flying from the courthouse lawn, the American Legion, VFW and most places of business.

Where moisture is sufficient, farmers remained in their fields. Residents of the urban areas observed the holiday. Many returned at their homes to rest under air-conditioners, while others sought the resort spots. Matador residents returning from Roaring Springs swimming pool said the popular picnic area is crowded to capacity.

At a late hour yesterday the rains had not received any reports of car accidents or other mishaps in the county.

Returns Home
Nolan Fulkerson and son, Gerald of Lubbock were over-night visitors here in the Douglas Meador home, and Wednesday were accompanied home by Mrs. Fulkerson, who assisted at the home last week. They visited their relatives here, including Mrs. Fulkerson's mother, Mrs. A. Tipton, and Mr. Fulkerson's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fulkerson.

Mrs. R. E. Donovan and daughter, Rose Carolyn, accompanied by Barbara Waybourn attended business in Lubbock, Friday. Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Woodruff and small daughter, Lou Ann, left Thursday to spend several days at Ruidoso, New Mexico.

HAND-MADE SPURS FOR RODEO PRIZES ARE WORK OF ART

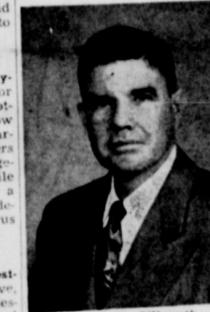

Seven pairs of hand-made, silver-mounted spurs and 8 hand-made, silver-mounted bits to be among the 1956 Old Settlers rodeo prizes were received Tuesday by Deputy Jinks Wilson.

The spurs and bits are works of art, and will remain as highly prized trophies for generations. The prizes are from the shop of A. R. Bayers of Truscott, Texas. Each pair of fine steel spurs bears this inscription in raised silver: "Roaring Springs 1956." The bits bear the same inscription but "Roaring Springs" is abbreviated. The spurs and bits are made from the steel of an automobile axle and possess the velvet "feel" of hand finishing.

Cowboys who have inspected the prizes say they are of the finest quality material and workmanship. Part of the shipment of spurs are small sizes, to be awarded boys and girls in the junior division of the rodeo. Both spurs and bits bear lifetime guarantee.

Other Awards
Other awards to be presented in the rodeo contests include two western hats (one valued at $15 and another at $20), one pair of Crockett spurs and three pairs of genuine Levi's. The group of prizes is presented by the Carl Darr Saddle Shops of Paducah and Matador. The Carl Darr (old timer's prize) saddle to be presented at the conclusion of the rodeo is now on display in the Darr shop here.

Young man's cowboy saddle Durham is being made by Alvin Durham of Russellville and is expected to be placed on display within a short time.

Gilbreath Is Named Commander

Following the recommendation of its nominating committee, the Fleming Post American Legion Monday night elected County Judge Vance H. Gilbreath as new commander to succeed James P. R. Whitworth.

Other officers named in the election were: A. L. Fair, vice-commander; Noble Dirickson, 2nd vice-commander; J. R. Whitworth, adjutant; Knox Jameson, chaplain; J. Tom Hamilton, historian; M. S. Patton, service officer; V. R. Beauchamp, child welfare chairman, and Ward Rattan, sergeant at arms. Election was by acclamation. The nominating committee included W. W. Clements, Hub Swearingen and Ward Rattan. (Part of the officials were reelected.)

The program, following the covered dish supper, included a report by Pat Groves and Richard Hamilton (Roaring Springs) of the trip's attendance at Boys State. Each youth expressed his appreciation to the Legion for sponsoring the trip. (Boys State is sponsored jointly by the Legion and the Lions Clubs of Roaring Springs and Matador.)

Rev. Woodrow Williams, accompanied by Mike Groves at the piano, presented a vocal solo. Visitors included Mrs. Josephine Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. Alge Groves and Mrs. R. P. Moore.

FAR FROM THE HEART OF TEXAS—Standing to the left of the prize steer, above, is Miss Lucetta Edwards, daughter of Lion and Mrs. Ben Edwards of Matador. The picture was made in Miami, Florida, Wednesday night, June 27, during the Lions International Convention parade in Miami. The last of the group will have returned to Matador. Behavior of the group was exemplary which required two hours and eight minutes to pass the reviewing stand. Three Matadors marched in the parade. Boss Lion Elbert Bill Seale, Lion Ben Edwards and Lion Jack Darr. Texas received first place and $500 in the parade contests for "Uniform Delegations." Another West Texas girl, Miss Nancy Nelson of Childress, daughter of Lion District Governor and Mrs. Dub Nelson, is on the Texas float standing at the right. The Texas float emphasized that the Lone Star State is the birthplace of Lionism, that it has cotton, oil, fat cattle — and pretty girls.

Weary Lions Straggle Home From Miami International Convention

NOW IT CAN BE TOLD (but there is a secret pact that some of the details will be omitted), facts about the experience of Matador's delegation to the Lions International Convention in Miami, Florida last week. If Lions Sweetheart Miss Rachel Patton manages to arrive as scheduled today, the last of the group will have returned to Matador. Behavior of the group was exemplary which required two hours and eight minutes to pass the reviewing stand. Three Matadors marched in the parade. Boss Lion Elbert Bill Seale, Lion Ben Edwards and Lion Jack Darr. Texas received first place and $500 in the parade contests for "Uniform Delegations." The Texas float emphasized that the Lone Star State is the birthplace of Lionism, that it has cotton, oil, fat cattle — and pretty girls.

Lion and Mrs. Douglas Meador arrived in Amarillo at five p. m. Monday, via motor bus after having gone to Florida by plane. They were "grounded" in Clearwater, Florida, Friday when they learned the return plane tickets had not been confirmed. Congestion in Florida air travel made the 48-hour bus trip necessary. Lions Sweetheart Rachel Patton is returning on the special chartered bus which left from Lubbock and will arrive today.

The Tribune editors, the last to leave Matador, arrived in Tampa, Florida Thursday night, and located at Dunedin on the West. They flew to Miami, Wednesday, joined the Matador group, then returned to Dunedin early Friday morning.

Miami was impressed by the Lions show, especially the parade. Traffic in Miami and Miami Beach was paralyzed Wednesday evening. Newspapers said it was one of the largest parades ever staged in the resort city.

Reviewing stands were arranged along famous Biscayne Boulevard, but less than 20% of the crowd.

ATTEND ANNIVERSARY
Mrs. Herman Stanfield, with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Turner drove to Dallas Sunday where they attended the 55th wedding anniversary of Mrs. Stanfield's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Dunn. Approximately thirty-five relatives attended. Mr. Stanfield accompanied his family to Fort Worth where he visited relatives. They returned home Wednesday morning.

RETURNS FROM VISIT
Mrs. Arch Black has returned to her home here after an extended visit in New Orleans. Laid tended visit in New Orleans. Laid tended visit in New Orleans. Laid tended visit in New Orleans.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Hunt spent at Ruidoso, New Mexico.

Rains Again Dot Texas Panhandle

Clouds Part Above Matador

Matador is still one of the dry spots of West Texas despite the series of rains that brought relief to many areas during the past three days. When the rain fronts reach Matador, the clouds part, leaving parched lawns, wilted flowers and gardens, and a disappointed citizenry.

Tuesday afternoon Roaring Springs received rainfall of between one-half and three-quarters inch (estimate), while Matador received little more than a trace. A storm cloud late yesterday moving in from the west and accompanied by a heavy bank of dust, kept up the pattern. Rains apparently fell both north and south of town. Here the rain gauges showed little more than a trace (about 10-inch).

Parts of the county have received highly beneficial "cotton showers" and crops in some sections are in good condition. Roaring Springs, Whiteflat and Flomot communities have fair to good prospects. Farmers in the Matador area, have in most instances, been unable to plant cotton. With the cotton planting season now passed, hope is still held that rainfall may yet make it possible to plant late feed.

Cyclones Sighted
News reports last night said two cyclones had been sighted late yesterday on the Plains, but that they had remained in the clouds and that no damage resulted.

Rainfall over the entire Panhandle has been spotted. A news report last night said that in north Memphis late yesterday over one inch was registered while the south part of the Hall county seat town registered 10-inch.

Summer Attendance In Sunday School And Church Is Good

Attendance in Sunday School and Church services of the various churches of the community during June has been good, despite many absences due to the vacation period.

Church pastors and officials report many tourist visitors who pass through the city while on their vacations, and take time to attend services here.

With an increase in attendance of 7, the Assembly of God Church reported an average attendance in Sunday School for June of 64, with a 100% attendance in church.

Report from the Church of Christ during June showed an average attendance of 85 and more.

The attendance at all services at the Methodist Church was very encouraging during the month, with an average attendance in Sunday School, and coincidentally in morning worship services, of 145, with an 86 average for the evening services.

Report from the First Baptist Church for June revealed an average attendance in Sunday School of 140, as compared with 200 for May. Church services drew good attendance, with nine additions in membership for the month.

Large Crowd Attends District Phone Meet

Approximately 175 employees and guests of the General Telephone Company of the South-west, Ralls district, Saturday afternoon, attended the annual company barbecue held at the Roaring Springs pool. Members of the Matador exchange served as hosts. Towns represented at the annual affair were, Paducah, Abertown, Ralls and Matador.

Arrivals started at 3 p. m. to enjoy swimming and volleyball games prior to the evening meal with barbecued chicken as its principal inducement. It was the first time the picnic has been held here. Date and place of next year's meeting will be announced later.

"Everyone seemed to enjoy the fun and the chicken," Mrs. Allie Patton Cox, chief operator and cashier of the local office said. Matador employees attending included Inez Bailey, Dorothy Knight, Lola Swearingen, Elizabeth Fletcher, Cleo Watson, June Meador, Shirley Smith, Anne Fromm, Elwanda Simmons, Troy Fred and Howard Gwinn.

Out of town guests were District Manager and Mrs. E. L. Jenkins of Ralls; Mrs. Eleanor Brauer, northern division traffic manager; Miss Mozelle Vandaver

Kay Pierce And Ronald Eudy Marriage At Turkey Of Interest To Friends Here

The marriage of Miss Kay Pierce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burl Pierce, and Ronald Lewis Eudy, son of Mayor and Mrs. Lewis Eudy of Turkey, and former residents of Matador, took place Saturday, June 23, at the home of the bride's parents.

Preceding the ceremony, Miss Janis Russell of Turkey rendered several selections and the traditional wedding march Mrs. John A. Rakestraw of Plainview sang "Always" and "Whither Thou Goest." Miss Beverly Lisenby read Browning's sonnet, "How Do I Love Thee," accompanied at the piano by Miss Russell.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a waltz-length gown of white lace, fashioned with a fitted bodice and brief sleeves. The tulle yoke was encrusted with iridescent sequins and seed pearls over ap-

The bride carried a bouquet of white orchids surrounded by stephanotis atop a white Bible.

The double ring ceremony was solemnized by Minister Olen Holland of Stanton, Texas, pastor of the Church of Christ, before an arch entwined with greenery, centered with a white satin bow and pink gladioli blossoms. The white kneeling bench was decorated with white satin bows, flanked by tall white baskets of pale pink gladioli.

The three-tiered wedding cake was decorated in pink and white with a miniature bride and groom adorning the top layer. The cake was surrounded with pink carnations in pots and white mums. A silver coffee service was used with other appointments of crystal.

Following the reception, the couple left on a wedding trip to New Mexico. The bride's traveling costume was a champagne suit with black and white accessories and a white orchid corsage.

Church and Society

Methodist Church Government Outlined By Dean Davis At Family Night Program

The difference between the Methodist Connec-tional system of church government and the Congregational system of church government was outlined in an address by Dean Joe B. Davis of Amarillo College here Thursday night. Dean Davis was featured speaker at an all Family Night sponsored by the Methodist Men of the local church.

In his interesting and informative study of the structure and organization of the Methodist Church, Dean Davis outlined the system of government and gave emphasis to the various conferences and their duties.

"The official Board of the local church is the basic group in Methodism," Dean Davis declared. "All the vast energies of the church stem from the devoted work of the laymen and women of this basic group, from the Quarterly Conference, which meets once a year making plans and receiving reports on a district level, and the Annual Conference which meets once a year receiving reports and making plans and setting goals on an area-wide scale."

"The Annual Conference is superceded by the Jurisdictional and finally the General Conference, which meets once every four years and is the sole law-making and policy-making body of the Methodist Church. Its delegates are elected from all over the world with an equal number of lay delegates. From this organization came the Meth-

The Diary of Mary White

May 9, 1956, Wednesday

Today seemed so much like spring. The rain quit and though the sun didn't actually shine the clouds were thin and the day was bright. It seemed time to get out and play base ball. I inspected the spot that had been cleared for a playground. We burned the tall dead grass and after examining every square foot I gave up. There was not a dry spot big enough for a hop-scotch game much less a volleyball court or baseball diamond. Pools of water stood between all the grass roots. If there wasn't a pool there all one had to do was to step there, spring up and down a time or two and a pool would appear. We tried to dig a post hole for a back stop post. Eight inches down the ground was frozen. So much snow has melted and so much rain has fallen that the eight to ten inches of unfrozen ground is saturated and equal to a sponge. If it will be dry enough in July I don't know. It certainly is not in May. Went back to the schoolroom and read until four o'clock. What a shame I can't will some of this unwanted water to the dry thirsty soils in Texas! Every letter I get speaks of no rain yet.

No new books to read tonight. Didn't want to work so folded my hands, sat on the couch and talked to my husband. Well! Have any of you done such lately for a couple of hours. It is surprising how many layers of civilization, so called, are covering the bedrock of our personalities. If one is going to build a superstructure it is wise to go to bedrock for the foundation. It seems that in our case we are slowly getting to bedrock. Will we be smart enough to build once we are there? Well, the water is getting deep and I am not an excellent swimmer so I'd best beat a hasty retreat and get to bed.

May 10, 1956, Thursday

Lost my patience and my temper about the middle of this morning. Classes went smoothly and classroom behavior was a beautiful dream all afternoon. Glad I don't have to look at me during a temper tantrum. It must be a horrible spectacle to produce so much perfection in those that witness it. I can remember, as a child, when a preacher depicted hell in fear-some reality I was unusually good for several days after that, trying desperately not to go to that place. As a middle-aged woman the enormity of the power of God still affects me that way when I meditate upon it. Still it does not cause the same chills of fear because I have long since experienced the warmth of His love and realized that He desires only to use this power for my benefit. Only when His offers are utterly, utterly rejected and His love willfully spurned does He use His power for the destructive and unitive purposes of hell.

You may well wonder what called forth such a tirade on my part. Well, it was pints, quarts, and gallons, day, weeks, months and years, plus measures and volume. The third and fourth and fifth had problems in measurement. The sixth and seventh had problems in capacity. I worked like a Trojan explaining, drawing pictures and diagrams, and actually working the problems all morning only to check and find about eighty per cent of every paper wrong. When I sat down in utter resignation, instead of being chagrined by their failure they gleefully left their seats and joined the primary group.

I had given the primaries nice little booklets tied up with pretty yellow ribbon and instructed them to 'make a pretty story book like the one Patty read to baby'. Practically every student in the room was interested either in making a like booklet or in seeing what some little child had put in his book. Dumb teacher! Why didn't I just give them all some paper, paints and ribbon and say, "Now let's see your storybook," instead of berating them because they didn't give a hang whether it was quarts or gallons, whether it was one square foot or one hundred square feet, or if January had thirty-one days or thirty-one hundred days?

May 11, 1956, Friday

Low overcast and rain again today. We made a trip to the beach for sand so we could fill up the water holes in the yard enough to play marbles. It never ceases to amaze me how these children play... weather and favorable playing conditions changed. They never grumble about the weather. I never hear anyone express a wish that it would quit snowing, or that the sun would shine, or anything to that effect. Guess it's best to accept what we cannot alter but as Mrs. Dunn says, "who would be mean enough to fix everything just right and not leave me anything to grumble about?"

May 12, 1956, Saturday

Windy with high clouds but warm. House to clean and the wash was colossal. Had an offer to help from an Eskimo woman. I knew I would have to supervise every detail and I prefer the work to the supervising so I put it off until another day. Later in the day I changed my mind and went to the basement and did it all by myself. Hope the native woman wasn't too confused when she saw my sheets on the line. There are times when I just have to be alone and times when physical labor is like salve. This was one of those times.

Still no mail and no word as to why not, so the letters I usually write over the week-end just didn't get written. I knew that somewhere in a bottleneck caused by weather were letters, written and waiting to be delivered to me but, as Lila says, my muse just wasn't with me. (to be continued)

COUNTY AGENT PALLMEYER SAYS:

Parallel terraces may be one way to control soil erosion on sloping land without some of the complications of the usual kind of terraces where row crops are to be grown. The difficulty of farming terraced land keeps some farmers from protecting their sloping fields from erosion. The trouble is that when terraces are fitted to the natural contour of the land, they're frequently irregular in curvature and don't parallel each other. That means point rows. More time is spent in turning around and less time in farming.

Cooperative research by USDA and the Missouri and Alabama experiment stations showed it's practical to lay out substantially parallel terraces. That cuts farming time. The studies were made at the Midwest Claypan Experiment Station at McCredie, Mo., and the experiment station at Auburn, Ala. The new plan was tried out with corn, soybeans and cotton as tilled crops. Run-off and erosion control was satisfactory.

ARS agricultural engineer D. D. Smith and his associates at McCredie found that terraces parallel to each other reduced point-row area 70 per cent and nearly doubled average row length. It cut operator time in the field with tractor and equipment about 10%. Time for all operations was also reduced. It costs about $21 per acre to reconstruct terraces and time saved under parallel system will repay the cost of reconstruction in about 7 years. It isn't always practical to have all terraces parallel to each other in a large field with irregular slopes. That problem can be met and point rows avoided by using two or more terrace systems, each parallel within itself. Irregular extra space between nonparallel systems should go into grass or drilled crops.

In some places irregularities of slope in a field can be minimized enough for parallel terraces by land forming with a bulldozer or land leveler. This leaves somewhat more area of subsoil exposed in the conventional system. Good farming practice, however, will largely overcome that problem before long. Smith found yields last year—fourth after reconstructing the terraces at McCredie—was only 7% lower on exposed subsoil than on the rest of the field.

Since row crops parallel the terraces and there are few point rows, it's possible to space the terraces for multiples of 2 or 4 row to fit the machinery used on the farm. Laying out a field for parallel terraces calls for work of a competent engineer. It takes careful study of the field. Those interested in parallel terrace system are advised to contact their local county agent.

Soil Bank Acreage Agreements Now At County ASC Office

The County ASC Office now has copies of the Soil Bank Acreage Reserve agreements available for signature by farmers wishing to participate in the program, according to R. G. Shraunser, Chairman of the State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee. A short visit to the county office will provide interested farmers with full information on terms and conditions of participation in the Acreage Reserve, which is the first part of the program to get underway this year. "Growers interested in taking part in the Acreage Reserve have until July 20 to sign the Soil Bank agreements, including the acreage of "basic" crops which will be included under the program," Chairman Shraunser explained, first must be applied with all allotments his farm. However, it may produce one acre of Acreage Reserve. If he has this condition, he then has or four opportunities for payments on 1956 crops.

Such a farmer may elect either by underplanting or by plowing a portion of the acreage below the Acreage Reserve. Certain conditions for the acreage below the Acreage Reserve. Payments may vary with county rate based on county rate for normal or the approach according to the method of farming.

Payments for winter wheat, seeded last harvest in 1956, may be only if the farmer underplanted his farm wheat because of adverse weather conditions. The rate for this is $4 per acre. Laying out a field for parallel terraces calls for work of a competent engineer. It takes careful study of the field. Those interested in parallel terrace system are advised to contact their local county agent.

Guests in the Group home over the weekend were Mrs. David Swain of Denton, and Miss Ruth of Wichita Falls. Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth King of Plainview were two weeks visit in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dunning.

WEARY LIONS . . .

spectators had seats. In one respect it was an advantage to stand because in the more than two-hour parade, the American flag passed 45 times. The mass of humanity standing did not have to rise. Police had difficulty in keeping the crowds back from the path of the parade. When the Texas delegation passed, boys broke from the side lines to pick up the empty cartridges from the blanks the Texans were firing.

Installation Next Week
Installation of Matador Lions Club new officers will be held during a Ladies' Night meeting Tuesday night, July 10. Installation was delayed because of margin of time needed for the return of the Miami delegates.

PIED PINIONS

By Mrs. M.

It is flattering to know one is missed, and we received several warm expressions of good wishes and pleasure that we were having a vacation. Our respondents were very cooperative in sending in their news early, and each has written us a nice little note. "We were happy that you had a vacation. I'm sure you enjoyed it, although I know you will need relaxation to get back on schedule. . . . regardless of where we roam, there's no place like home. Welcome home!" wrote Mrs. Rose (L. B.) Turner of Flomot; and Mrs. Maggie (Lige) Cooper of Roaring Springs wrote, ". . . I hope you had a pleasant vacation, and don't come back tired out like a lot of people do. I enjoyed Mr. M's Trail Dust from Florida. I think your new 'hands' got out a good paper. You will have to take another vacation soon. You really needed this one."

Two Matador Ambassadors who should be acknowledged are Randall Whitworth and Hazel Donovan. We received several packets of mail from them, and it was through Hazel we first learned the Tribune had been a Sweepstakes winner!

The force thought we would be filling a lot of space with corrections this week, but we agree with Mrs. Cooper that they did a mighty fine job while we were gone.

It seems they "goofed" on the trophy head, and declared we were "PTA" winners. Several papers were run before the error was caught, so they sent us a copy of this notation, "How do you do this, without a child or a chick in the yard, not to mention a membership in the PTA?" They folded a corrected issue inside, so we might think they had gotten out an 8-pager. As Hazel says however, their little joke backfired, as we received all this in some re-forwarded mail, after our return home.
