Sgt. Malcolm T. Reinhardt has been listed as one of 618 survivors of a torpedoed Japanese prison ship, the War Department has notified his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Reinhardt of Denver City, former Matador residents.

Sgt. Reinhardt has been a prisoner of war since the fall of Corregidor and was sent to Japan on December 13th from Camp no. 1 where he was held.

According to an AP story released to the daily newspapers last week, Japan has informed the War Department that 942 American prisoners of war were killed outright when a Japanese prison ship was torpedoed in Subic Bay in December 1944.

Fifty-nine died later, two survived and evaded capture and 618 survived and presumably were moved to Japan. The War Department has received a partial list of the dead and relatives have been notified of their deaths.

The names of 482 of 618 survivors have been received from Japan, the notices said.

The message to Mr. and Mrs. Reinhardt stated that the captives were sent to a camp on northern Honshu Island.

In a letter to friends here, Mrs. Reinhardt said that a number of nurses and friends of Malcolm who were liberated in the Philippine invasion, had written them, one being a doctor who had worked with Malcolm in the hospital at Corregidor and later in the camp hospital, after the latter was assigned to hospital duty on February 25, 1942.

Worley Sees Inflation Condition In Europe

The United States has had inflation since the war began. Prices have fluctuated rather wildly in many instances but on the whole the government price control system, which admittedly has numerous defects, has still worked much better in this country than in most places I had an opportunity to visit and observe.

The most glaring example of inflation at its worst exists in Greece. I priced a pair of sandals seen in a shop window. No one in this country would have looked at them a second time because the sole was made from an old rough discarded tire casing with two straps of artificial leather. This pair of so-called sandals cost at the then rate of exchange $50. I priced a pair of fairly good men's shoes which were handmade because the Nazis left the Greeks with very little machinery of any kind. The storekeeper quoted a price of $150. I journeyed through the public market in Athens and saw the natives bargaining and buying what they could under the terrific price schedule which prevailed. One native had a hen - which obviously was a sick hen, for which he asked $20. He half-way apologized for this high price by pointing out that the hen was about to lay an egg, and eggs were valuable in their own right.

Prices were very high in all countries I visited except Germany. Prices were sagging there. All stores in the smaller German towns still left standing had been ordered closed by the American military government. I saw very little trading or commerce of any kind going on in Germany.

The British seemed to have controlled their inflationary tendencies fairly well and one way this was done was by increasing the tax rates which were extremely high.

In France prices were also very high. During the German occupation the Nazis kept the French money presses rolling day and night with the result that there was three times more currency in circulation under the Nazi regime than France ever had in her most prosperous years. Food and clothes and practically everything else is very scarce in France. Under those conditions black markets are flourishing. The Army has set up a number of post exchanges for members of the American forces where they can buy such things as perfumes, handbags, jewelry, and other things which they want either for themselves or to send back home to the members of their families. It might be of interest to point out that many French women have volunteered to assist a number of our organizations in helping the boys wrap their packages for shipment back home.

While the French rate of exchange is obviously not equitable to the Americans over there, additional steps have been taken to correct these inequities to some extent. Another example is illustrated when the Army took over the Grand Hotel in Paris which is one of the biggest hotels in Europe. This place is thrown open to all members of the armed forces where they can buy a good meal for ten francs, which is twenty cents, get a nice room where royalty used to sleep for 40 cents a day. And they can play pingpong, dance, or even get a dish of good old American ice-cream - with chocolate. This is one of the most popular places in all of Europe and the boys seem to thoroughly enjoy all the privileges offered. In addition there are numerous USO and Red Cross establishments scattered in or around Paris. One thing the boys would like to do is to go up on the Eiffel Tower. However, when I was there the Army was using the top of this tremendous structure of funds from the Federal Government; limiting the total amount which may be expended or such assistance out of State funds; and providing conditions as to residence within the State in order to become eligible to receive assistance.

In the present class of 11 OTAs, there are four from Texas: Mrs. Ruth Tener, Bastrop, former social hostess at Camp Swift; Kiyo Nagai, Orange; Betty Gibson, Dallas, and Irene Marier, Flomot.

And why do they take the basic training? The answer as given by Capt. Charles P. Brooks, Chief of Reconditioning Service, is:

"By spending four weeks under army conditions the OTAs will acquire a better understanding of the soldier. Since they will have to work with soldiers, it is to their advantage to be able to speak their language."

MOST TYPES EMPLOYMENT COVERED BY INSURANCE UNDER SOCIAL SECURITY

Most types of employment are covered under the old-age and survivors insurance provisions of the Social Security Act, according to Sam Leifeste, manager of the Lubbock office of the Social Security Board. Workers in jobs in hotels, cafes, service stations, or in other commercial or industrial establishments, are included by the system. He pointed out, however, that cooks, maids, butlers, chauffeurs, and gardeners, who are employed by private families, are not included under the law.

Employment not covered by the old-age and survivors insurance system of the Social Security Act in general consists of farm labor; domestic service; government, city and state employment; work for an educational, charitable, or a non-profit organization; certain types of professional work and services performed for a son, daughter, spouse, or parent.

Generally speaking, covered employment is a job in a factory, shop, mine, mill store, office, garage, or bank.

Fat-Salvage Bee To Aid in Licking National Fat Shortage

It's been ages since we had an old-fashioned "bee" in these parts, but just as we've always pitched in to help a neighbor, so must we pitch in for our country. To help make hundreds of battlefield and home-front essentials, more used fats are needed than are on hand. City folks are trying to make up the deficit of over 1,200,000,000 pounds. But their fats aren't enough.

Women in small cities, towns and rural districts must also save every drop of fat. Not just big amounts, but scraps of plates, meat trimmings. Melt them down once a week. Your butcher will give you up to 4¢ and 2 red points a pound. If you have any difficulty, call Home Demonstration or County Agent. Approved by WPA and OPA. Paid for by Industry.

LUMBER, BUILDING SUPPLIES AND HARDWARE

Advertising In War Time

The merchant who tells the people about himself now, who shows that he is making a valiant effort to supply the goods of his line for the benefit of the public, even though his volume and assortment is less, is the merchant who will linger in the confidence and esteem of the country after the war. He will be in much better position to build back to his former state under post-war conditions than the man who prefers to let his name drop out of the public prints - and thus largely out of the public consciousness."
