WINTER HITS PANHANDLE IN SEASON'S FIRST BLOW

Mercury Falls Here Before Strong Wind

RAIN BENEFIT TO WHEAT CROP

Snow Reported Above Caprock

Winter, Monarch of the North, struck the Panhandle in the first attack of the season with rain driven by a heavy north wind here and snow reported above the Caprock. The rainfall in Matador amounted to 71 of an inch late last night, while reports from Roaring Springs and the south part of the county indicated about 1.25 inches. Low, heavy clouds, carried by the increasing north wind, brought the mercury to 38 with prospects of even lower temperature in event the wind should cease.

Motorists from Floydada and other points on the Caprock and westward reported snow falling yesterday afternoon, while a report of 3 inches of snow at Clovis, N. M. was received.

Wheat is Benefited

While some farmers expressed hopes that freezing weather would hold off until after late feed could be harvested, great benefit to young wheat, as result of the rain was reported. In almost every instance farmers and stockmen declared that the wheat would be saved by the precipitation, which is hoped will bring a definite end to the prolonged drought.

Local Post Office To Move Into New Building Saturday

Plans are being made to move the Matador post office from its present location in the State Bank Building into the new Hall building recently completed on the south side of the square, postmaster Lawrence Bryan announced yesterday.

Patrons are asked to aid the postoffice force as much as possible in becoming familiar with the new quarters and are urged to call for their mail Saturday in order to avoid moving cancelled for mail.

In most cases patrons will receive different box numbers as the new building will be equipped with other fixtures.

Farmers Receive $39,000 In Second Cotton Payments

Eighty Percent of Checks Arrive at County Agent's Office This Week as Growers Benefit in Government Aid

Over $39,000 for Motley county cotton growers as the second rental payment of the 1934 cotton crop, arrived at County Agent, Frank A. Buckley's office this week and is being delivered rapidly. The 568 crop government checks represent about 80 percent of the entire second rental payment.

Mr. Buckley declared that none of the Parity Payment checks, which will aid Motley county cotton growers to the extent of $30,000, have been received, although they are expected to begin arriving in the near future.

Pooling Date Closes Saturday

The date for pooling cotton exemption certificates, which was extended from November 10 until November 24, will terminate Saturday.

Growers are asked to consider the cash revenue, which amounts to $15 to $20 per bale, that may be secured by acting before the pooling ends and which may not be available after the above date.

Those who may wait until Saturday to pool their certificates are urged to reach the office before the noon hour in order that the final poolings may be entered in Saturday's mail in order that they may be afforded a better opportunity of being sold after reaching the Government pool.

Howard Payne Wins Over St. Edwards

Led by Wedeman, star sophomore end from Matador, the Howard Payne Yellow Jackets completely routed the St. Edwards Tigers by a 19-6 score in Brownwood last Friday night.

All of the scores made by the Jackets came either directly or indirectly from passes. The first score came in the early part of the second quarter when Sunderman passed from his own thirty-five yard line to Wedeman, who galloped the remaining twenty-five yards for the score. The Tigers also counted in this quarter when Bresahan, brilliant half, broke loose and ran sixty-two yards for the count.

The Jackets scored twice in the third quarter to put the game on ice. The first touchdown came on a pass from Sunderman to Archer which was good for thirty-eight yards. Harlow kicked goal. The last counter came in the latter part of the third stanza when Taylor passed to Archer on the one yard line and then plunged over for the score.

Wedeman has played a mighty good brand of ball for the Jackets all season and is rated as one of the most valuable men on the team. He has started every game and has missed very few minutes of play for the entire season. Although he is only a sophomore, Wedeman is rated as one of the most valuable ends in the Texas Conference and will more than likely be rated as an all-conference selection.

The Jackets win over the Tigers was the fourth conference win of the season and assures the win of the season and at least a tie for the championship. Their entire record has been marred by only one tie game with the Austin College Kangaroos in a conference tilt.

Matador, Memphis To Meet in Grid Tilt Thanksgiving

Meeting at Childress Monday Night Decides Memphis as Scene of District Football Game

As a result of the game between Floydada and Spur last Friday, in which the latter defeated the Spur eleven with a score of 27-13, Matador was declared the winner of the south half of District 4 and a meeting held at Childress Monday night to decide the place of the encounter.

An agreement was reached whereby Matador will meet the Memphis team on their own field Thanksgiving day, November 29, at 2:30, to decide the championship of the entire district. The winner of the game will play Lamesa for the regional championship.

The agreement as to the location of the game was reached after Matador was assured $235 of the first gate receipts and a fifty percent division of all over that amount. It was estimated that the gate would possibly draw a gate receipt of $1200, providing good weather prevailed and interest in the two teams continued to increase. In event of a gate receipt of this size, Matador would receive over $600, it was declared.

An advance sale of tickets will be started immediately and an intensive drive will be made here. The admission will be 25 cents for all school students and 50 cents for adults.

Bankhead Election To Be Held Soon

Farmers in Motley county will take part in a referendum of all southern cotton producers on the question of whether the Bankhead Act should be continued in 1935. The exact date of the poll will be announced later, but it will probably be early in December.

In order to vote intelligently, producers should be in possession of complete and accurate information in regard to the entire cotton situation. A series of leaflets containing the essential facts have been mailed to 650 producers in the county. Meetings have been held in the Matador, Whiteflat and Fiomot communities where the information has been given out. Meetings will be held in the other communities of the county during the coming week. The dates and places are listed below:

Darden Canyon, Monday, Nov. 26, 7:30 p. m.

Jordan declared during the Thanksgiving program of the Matador Lions Club held at the Baptist church here Tuesday, "and," Lion Jordan continued, "we have much to be thankful for this season even though we may be affected by the present economic condition. We realize the most happiness without looking for it and usually when we least expect it. In most cases it comes from giving and not aiding those less fortunate than ourselves." Without assuming any position in politics, we must admit that we have much to be thankful for regarding the benefits our government has provided which is, perhaps, unequalled in the history of the world.

MANY ATTEND BAPTIST SENIOR CLASS PROGRAM

The special program for the Senior class at the First Baptist church here Sunday night was attended by a record crowd. Every available seat in the church room was occupied and it was necessary to bring in extra chairs to accommodate the audience.

The program included a reading entitled, "Brave Life," by Mrs. H. C. Eargle, and the song, "My Father Watches Over Me," by Coach Harvey Stanford.

It could be true that the lowly catalogue has fired determinations and ignited the fuses of ambitions that bore fruit, where before was only barren soil.

By DOUGLAS MEADOR
There were no tears in the man's eyes, no pleading in his voice as he spoke from beneath a curtain where rays of the light will not find its way. He only smiled and looked at those red, gutted lips. Quickly I gave him all the silver clouds that sped like white ships across limitless seas. I gave him only a smile when the trees were laden with gold and there is a saddest color in the sunsets. I knew in my heart that he looked through other eyes to the stars swing low and bright the sun is gone on winter wings. Perhaps he has been trying to keep the memory of a moon on a silent snow-covered world as a condemned man remembers his mother's death this side of the water.

He missed the enjoyment of motion picture material resulting after adjustment to make a three-pointed and finding myself in a lady's lap. It there were one woman in the audience, without the aid of an usher, I would try to share the seat with her. And when the light finally adjusted, there are vacant seats in every direction.

Just occurred to me the other day that my wife has never cared for a certain aunt of mine. She once pulled me out of the barrel when only two feet were visible above water.

The yellowed leaves turn back and I am a small boy in my father's arms beside the cook fire. The pale light from the wick glistens on the oilcloth over the dining table, and the rope-bottomed squeaks under our weight.

My father reads from my bird book, a simple story of birds going south, away from the old nests and the familiar trees—and some will not return. In the depths of my heart I know the tears well up and rise to my eyes to scald their way down my cheeks. I could not tell why—I shall never be able to explain.

Only this I know, that from the drama of life comes varied music, much of which brings relief to the soul, yet at uncertain hours there are strains of sadness which have no fixed beginning or ending. They come from the stillness of a moist summer night, on the wings of a farewell word or from the mighty booming of waves breaking on a deserted beach. Tears may follow when we are young but only the unwept dryness of an unhappy heart when the shadows fall the other way.

When I think of war, I think of a mother screaming. A shabby highway coach and awkward methods, of various heights lined up to face the bitterest hour. There was no splendor in the martial music that could drain away the terror of that departure.

The red and blistered eyes of the grieving mother did not leave her son and the thin fingers of her blue-veined hand reached pitifully to touch his cheek. She clung to him as one with bleeding hands holds to the rail of life when the abyss of eternity above the train had moved away to leave an unearthly silence, torn by something more painful than words, the mother turned to the arms of her husband, saying, "He will not come back."

I could not forget her words when I learned that his blood, among the first, was spilled in the cold mud of France.

While it has never been awarded any place in literature, a nice mail-order catalogue to spread down in the floor near the fire, is mighty apt to provide a delightful evening of entertainment. It makes possible the enjoyable practice of window-shopping at your own fireplace.

SENIOR REPORT

The Senior class wishes to thank the Baptist church for the special service they had for them last Sunday night.

The church was decorated in the class colors, pink and white. Junior girls were used as ushers and Junior boys took up the collection.

Mrs. Eargle gave a reading. Mr. Harbour, the class sponsor, a prayer. Mr. Stanford sang "I Believe in God," accompanied by Miss Rachel Patton.

JUNIOR REPORT

Last Sunday night for the program given in honor of the Seniors at the Baptist church, three Junior girls were ushers and a Junior boy took up collection.

Allie Faye Williams and L. V. New have been absent because of illness for several days but have now returned to school.

GENERAL NEWS

The Junior football season ended Nov. 14. The boys were defeated only once, and we didn't hold that against them as they hadn't practiced for two weeks before the game.

The Juniors are looking forward to basketball season. Almost all of the faculty as well as a number of students attended the game between Spur and Floydada last Friday at Floydada.

They were somewhat relieved by the outcome of the game. Floydada 27-Spur 13. This automatically makes Matador champion of this half of the district. Spur having lost one and tied one, and we lost none and tied one.

Several visitors attended the assembly program last Friday. The high school was very glad to have them and hope to have more this coming Friday morning at 9-45 o'clock.

There were eighteen Seniors at the special service given in their honor at the Baptist church Sunday night. Special seats were reserved for the Seniors and their parents.

The Matadors are now sporting some new football uniforms. Their first public appearance in these suits will be against Memphis at the district championship at Memphis on Thanksgiving day. The suits are very light but durable.

The front of the pants are gold.

duck with purple horse hide knee caps. The backs are purple knit.

The jerseys are gold with purple insert shoulders and sleeves, purple insert on the sides; purple double numerals in front and back, also purple socks of the same material as the jerseys.

The head gears are of gold with purple cross bars on the top and front. These suits will enable the team to move about with more ease and speed.

"LA JUNTA" NEWS

The "La Junta" club gave an interesting program last Friday at the assembly program. Rev. Pipkin delivered an interesting devotional which was closed by the Lord's Prayer given in Spanish by the Spanish students.

A chorus of about sixteen girls sang several songs in Spanish. Sibil Daffern and Katylynn Humphries played several Spanish selections. A play, "The Three Bears" was also given in Spanish.

The characters were: the big bear, J. D. Allen; the middle bear, Oma Mae Jameson and the wee baby bear, Clifford Harris. Katy Lynn Humphries was the little girl.

Several visitors were present. Everyone seemed to enjoy the program very much.

Mrs. Miller is the club sponsor and Allie Faye Williams was mistress of ceremonies.

Girl's Sports Report

A large number of girls are coming out for basketball this year. They practice the second period and after school. Although they do not have a coach yet they are having some good workouts.

They have some splendid material this year and are going to have a fine team. They will not play any games until after Thanksgiving, but when they do start playing you'd better keep your eyes open.

Boy's Sports Report

The Matadors had the title to the south half of the district handed to them on a silver platter last Friday when the Floydada Whirlwinds blew through the Spur Bulldogs for a 27-13 verdict.

The second string defeated Roaring Springs last Thursday at Roaring Springs by a 32-0 score.

"Mrs. Stanford," said Jesse, as he turned the pages of his English book. "How did the cliff dwellers keep warm in the winter time?"

Mrs. Stanford: "Why I guess they used mountain ranges; now don't ask any more foolish questions."

Mr. Tunnell: "What is salesmanship?"

Bill Clements: "Salesmanship is selling a guy something he doesn't want at a higher price than he expects to pay for it."

Lucretia Estes: "R. E. Campbell, I wouldn't marry you if you were the last man on earth."

R. E.: "No, honey, you'd be killed in the rush."

Absent Minded Professor took out his crank (R. C. Jeffers) and locked the keys up in his car—Mr. B. F. Harbour at Floydada.

MOVIE CHATTER

By A. Rogue

At last we have the show you have been looking forward to. It's none other than Richard Barthelmess in "Massacre." Here's a show every one will like—it's crammed with red-blooded action. A picture that moves every second it's on the screen. With one girl's terrible secret stinging his soul—another girl's fierce kiss burning his lips—a "civilized" red man goes on the warpath to save his people from the savage passions of the modern world. This for Friday and Saturday.

For Sunday and Monday we have Mae West in her latest vehicle "Belle of the Nineties." It's really a grand show, and why shouldn't it be? For a background, we have glamorous New Orleans in the gay nineties combined with Mae's talent. The original title of this picture was "It Ain't No Sin," so come out and see if it ain't no sin to see "Belle of the Nineties." This is Miss West's third picture, so come up n see her this time.

For our Thanksgiving program we are offering you "Bring 'em in Dead," starring Boris Karloff. Here again we find "crime does not pay." Look for our great lobby display and a wonderfully equipped truck that brings the news to your door. This picture will run one afternoon and night only. Matinee starts at 2:30 p. m.

Johnny Moss of Cone and L. E. and Lawrence Cooper of Roaring Springs were Matador visitors Wednesday.

Ozzie Westmoreland of Paducah was a Matador visitor Saturday.

John A. Hamilton returned Monday from a trip to Ft. Worth.

The Flomot junior football boys are happy over a hard earned 19 to 0 victory over the Matador junior team. The game was played on Flomot's grounds on Wednesday of last week. Both teams played well, showed an excellent brand of sportsmanship, and demonstrated clearly that they will carry on as the football stars of tomorrow. Cordell Light, Talbot Brown and Ardell Thomas were outstanding on the home team, while Lyman (Buddy) Campbell, B. F. Tunnell, Jr., and Buddy Scaff looked best for the visitors.

The Flomot basketball teams settled more than one argument Thursday evening by beating the Gasoline teams on the Quitaque gym court. Following a well played junior girls game between Flomot and Quitaque, which the Flomot girls won, and a brief half game between Flomot and Gasoline junior boys, which resulted in a tie, the Flomot senior girls defeated the Gasoline girls 14-10 in a fast and thrilling contest and the Flomot senior boys took the measure of the Gasoline boys 30-15. Our teams will meet the Dickens teams Tuesday night of this week.

The new school bus continues to render excellent service. Until now it has never been late one minute and has been able to meet its schedule to the letter.

We are happy to have Margaret Clay back in school after an appendix operation.

A party consisting of Ward Rattan and family, Mrs. Eldrid Seliger and children, Misses Emma Lesta McKee, Ruth Simpson and Hazel Elthorpe, Elmer Gene and Tom Edd Jameson from Matador joined a group of Flomot folks Saturday for an all-day picnic and a mountain climb up Quitaque Peaks. All reported that the view from the tops of the peaks was worth the exertion. Four other visiting parties have been seen climbing the peaks this week.

TRAIL DUST By DOUGLAS MEADOR

Near midnight, and the fire a man crouched over a snail in the ditch at the side of highway. I placed my hand on the window of my car as the glass was cold, and the wind was bending the yellow mesquite trees. The man on the little altar of war did not look up. Only a few separated him from many men, and he had looked too long at the glaring lights of a street that would not sink into darkness without a pause.

So wrapped in a blanket every he watched the fire burn. I wondered what his name had been and thought of the cold, grey dawn he must have seen the night finally dragged away over his heart.

Only a few days have passed since the sun gleamed again on golden leaves in the branches of the Cottonwoods as they stand so alone against the sky. The rugged and enduring of both trees and men is remembered when winter comes and sweeps away the leaves and the youth.

Howling around home the old I found part of the old carpet covered pedals and to stand in the corner melody has long been heard in the silence of years many of the voices that were in its presence. On the earliest and tenderest of days is that of standing by another as she played and me.

Something to think about. Successful South Texas is never writes letters. It is interesting to know who adopted the practice after his earlier love affair.

While possessing a completely active imagination, I have been able to make the my wild oat crop sound convincing or interesting. An have observed that the hardy man is the less hard on himself and I have decided to bury my past here. A man may be stupid as long as he remains silent and does not have to share the with anyone.

With trumpets sounding part I sat on the rear pl of a west bound California and one golden morning watched the stars being crimson splashes of crimson the ancient and purple more out of the horizon on the and stood majestic structures of the sun. The of long-cold lava la black monument to the centuries. Volcanic a had been belched from a earth tried to hide un shadows against the sides. Then the pe blue and gold as a other range to the south took off the gossamery green dawn.

Day was born on the the train roared with its cargo of human beings suddenly from an other another train going opposite direction groaned the east-bound train met with the heat of the sun. With fire seems to come from the mountains instead of the irritating familiarity and back.

Yet through the years since, the two trains more have passed over as flying shuttles carpet for the finicky fates.
