Independence Subject Of Lion Address

Henry Pipkin On Boss Lion Throne For Tuesday Meet

Burlesquing the dramatic history of Texas from the Fall of the Alamo to effects of the New Deal, Lion Vernon Doss made the principal address at the regular meeting of the Matador Lions Club held in the basement of the Methodist church Tuesday.

Following the "chicken and dressing with the trimmings" luncheon prepared by the Methodist ladies, guests were introduced, while vice-president Henry Pipkin sat in the Boss Lion's chair due to the absence of Lion Henry Ford. Visitors included honor students from the Matador high school, R. E. Campbell Jr. and Robert Speed of Ft. Worth, guest of Lion L. C. Harp.

Secretary J. R. Whitworth made announcements of the District Convention to be held in El Paso on May 4-5-6, also of the Zone meeting at Turkey Tuesday night. He also announced that a number of Elm trees are still available for those wishing them.

Reports of the directors' meeting held at the Texan Cafe Monday morning were centered about the Matador rider in the Pony Express race to San Francisco. The group voted to entertain the two men upon their return home and also to sponsor a movement to raise funds in aiding them to complete the race.

Lion H. H. Courtney reported that he had sold all of the 50 Pony Express stamps allotted him and that the letters had been forwarded to El Paso where the rider would pick them up for completion of the overland trek to the Golden Gate.

Popular Editor

Under her editorship the school paper, published in supplement to the Matador Tribune, has become affiliated with the West Texas Scholastic Press Clinic.

Season Closes In Tournament At Roaring Springs

The 1939 basketball season was closed for Motley County with the conclusion of the tournament for grammar and junior high school teams at Roaring Springs last Friday and Saturday.

Matador came home with the most trophies, winning first place in the grammar school girls' division, first in the junior high school boys class, and second place in the high school junior girls contest.

Flomot had an easy time winning the grammar school boys' division, Northfield was runner-up. Roaring Springs high school junior girls took first place, while the grammar school girls lost to Matador in the finals to cop second place in that class.

Whiteflat's junior high school boys took second place in their division losing to Matador in the final round.

In the grade school boys' division Whiteflat defeated Roaring Springs; Northfield defeated Matador, Flomot was victor over Fairview, and Northfield won over Whiteflat to meet Flomot in the finals.

Supt. Rankin Re-elected at Whiteflat

C. G. Rankin was recently re-elected as superintendent of the Whiteflat school, for his second term, according to an announcement made this week to the Tribune.

Supt. Rankin came to Motley county last year, from Close City, in Garza county, and has led the Whiteflat school in its various activities in a highly commendable and satisfactory manner.

DEATH CLAIMS MRS. B. F. MOORE; FUNERAL TODAY

Resident Of County For 33 Years Dies Here Wednesday

The final chapter of the book which has chronicized the life of Mrs. B. F. Moore, 78, was completed yesterday afternoon when death wrote the closing lines at 3:30 o'clock. Final tribute will be paid to her beloved memory in services at the First Methodist Church here this afternoon, conducted by the pastor, Rev. W. B. Vaughn. Rev. C. D. Pipkin, retired minister and former pastor of the church, will assist.

Berta Hollingsworth was born at Clarksville, Montgomery county, Tennessee on April 21, 1860, and died at her home in Matador, Texas, March 8, 1939, at the age of 78 years, 10 months and 17 days. She was married in 1895 to Alfred Neblett, to which union was born one son, James who survives. Following Mr. Neblett's death, she married B. F. Moore and came with him to Texas, in 1906. Mr. and Mrs. Moore settled in the Northfield community, where they made their home a few years before coming to Matador and establishing residence.

Mr. Moore who was for many years county surveyor, preceded Mrs. Moore in death nine years ago, having succumbed in February, 1930.

Mrs. Moore had been a member of the Methodist Church since twelve years of age. Her life had been a reflection of Christian principles, not the least of them being the mothering of two orphaned nieces, the younger of whom never knew another mother, having been an infant at the time Mr. and Mrs. Moore took them in their home. While her active participation in church work was lessened because of ill (Continued on Page Four)

Divorces And Marriage In Court Room

District Judge Alton B. Chapman may challenge Reno in rapid divorce and marriages action. Mary Oats and Willie Powell (colored) received a divorce each in Judge Chapman's court Monday and declared their intention to wed but told the considerate judge that they did not have enough money to pay the fee after paying for divorces from former mates. Judge Chapman quickly offered his services and married the couple without charge a few minutes after they had been granted freedom.

Shannon Davidson, Matador's contender for the first prize money in the Nocona to the Golden Gate derby was expected to trail Tolly Sykes of Oklahoma, into El Paso late yesterday according to the latest information. The leaders of the dozen riders average about 100 miles daily.

LIons Attend Turkey Group Meet Tuesday

Lions Randall Whitworth and Henry Pipkin, secretary and vice president, respectively, of the Matador Lions club headed a delegation of twelve members in attending a group meeting at Turkey last Tuesday night.

Lions from Childress, Paducah, and Matador meeting with the Turkey club were treated to a program spiced with entertainment and information. Miss Van Horn, teacher in the Turkey public schools, presented a short talk on "The Importance of Barbed Wire in the History of Texas."

District Attorney John Davis of Memphis concluded the program, speaking on the subject "Worrying", observing that a good worryer picked out something that would never happen to worry about so that he would always have something to worry him. Mr. Davis closed his talk with the thought that each generation produces men who are capable of solving problems created by that generation.

Many Sign For New Cold Storage Plan

Virgil Parr Favored For Board Place Planning Group To Seek Legislature Aiding Wild Game

Virgil Parr, manager of the Pitch Fork Ranch and one of Texas' most successful ranchmen, was named to fill a possible vacancy on the State Game, Fish and Oyster Commission, by the Motley County Planning Board in a meeting held here Monday night.

Resolutions approved by the group included the following: "Be it resolved that the Motley County Wild Life Planning Board in session March 6, 1939, go on record as favoring Senate bill 155 which provides for regulatory powers for the Game, Fish and Oyster Commission, and a Universal hunting and fishing license law.

"Be it resolved that we oppose House Bill 377 which provides for abolishing the Game, Fish and Oyster Commission. Be it further resolved that special commendation be given the Game, Fish and Oyster Commission for the present set-up of providing Planning Boards for the counties of the state.

"Be it further resolved that in event a vacancy occurs on the Board of Game, Fish and Oyster Commission, that we heartily endorse the name of Virgil Parr, manager of the Pitch Fork Ranch, to a place on the commission. (Continued on Page Four)

TOTAL LOSS AS FULKERSON HOME BURNS

Fire of unknown origin completely destroyed the home of D. A. (Uncle Dave) Fulkerson about 9 o'clock last night. No insurance was carried on the property and none of the household effects were saved. The house, which was located on north Main Street, was declared to be one of the oldest residences in Matador. It was a mass of flames before the fire was discovered and because of failure of the fire alarm, only a part of the fire department answered the call. Although no wind was blowing, the home of county and district clerk R. A. Seay was jeopardized and but for the aid of garden hose, would have probably received serious damage before the fire department was able to establish a connection.

Mr. Fulkerson who lives alone since the death of his wife last fall, was at the home of his brother, M. P. Fulkerson. He declared that there had been no fire in the house during the day and was at a loss to know how the fire had originated.

Ex-Paducah Banker On Trial March 27

DALLAS, March 7.—Grover Yowell, Paducah, Texas, former bank president, who was captured by FBI men in Memphis, Tenn., after a six-year search, will go to trial in Wichita Falls at the March 27 session of court, Joe H. Jones, assistant United States attorney, said today.

Birthday Is Observed By Relatives

A gathering of forty-two descendants and other relatives of Mrs. M. E. (Grandmother) Meador, 95, assembled at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. D. Long, Sunday, to participate in a birthday dinner-celebration which has become an annual affair during the past ten years.

Four generations were present on the occasion, and included two daughters and three sons, with their families, all of whom are residents of Matador and near-by communities.

Among the many birthday greetings and congratulations received by Mrs. Meador this year, was one of personal felicitations from Ken B. McClure, nationally recognized radio commentator over W. O. A. I. and Public Relations Councilor of San Antonio, Texas, which read in part: "Destiny has, indeed, been kind to you—permitting you to enjoy life for so generous a span, and certain it is she must have a very special place for you in the land of Tomorrow, otherwise you would not be asked by God to study and observe throughout these years."

But she is really being perhaps a wee bit kinder to those of us who are younger, because without the wisdom and venerable sagacity that you have gathered through the years, we who are comparative juveniles would be denied the all important words of experience that you oldsters can extend us.

"May it please God to deny Heaven your presence for many more happy summers, for this currently crazy world has much need for the patience and wisdom of its elders. Most respectfully yours, Ken B. McClure."

RETURN HOME

Mrs. A. C. Traweek returned home Friday from a two weeks trip which included a visit in Dallas with her sister, Mrs. Roy Lee, and at Houston, with her daughter, Dr. Mary Rosenstein.

New Books Arrive For Library

The Matador City Library has received two recent shipments of new books for the shelves, according to Miss Amy Glenn, acting Library Chairman for El Progresso Study Club, sponsors of the library, and Miss Mary Keith, Librarian.

Included in the number of new volumes are several for juvenile readers, books on philosophy and religion and recent best-sellers in fiction and non-fiction.

Library patrons will be glad to learn that Du Maurier's "Rebecca", and "All This and Heaven Too", by Field, are among the newly acquired literary additions. Others include: "Alone", Byrd; "Whispering Statue", Keene; "The Strange Echo", Judd; "World's Greatest Religious Poetry"; "The Back Door", Meade; "Dynasty of Death", Caldwell; "Christmas Gift", Hancock; "Rediscovery of Man", Link; "Sailor on Horseback", Stone; "Horse and Surge Doctor", Hertzler; and these juvenile volumes, "Mystery of Ivory Charm", Keene; "William and his Kitten", and "The Airplane", Lenski.

Hailed by critics as one of the most outstanding books of the post-war period, the novel, "Rebecca", is sweeping on to the top of the list.

Marked progress in the school's advancement has been noted since Mr. Rankin has been at the helm, and the community should feel indebted to the board of trustees for retaining such an able man at the head of its school. (Continued on Page Four)

Legislature Bill To Protect Press

AUSTIN, March 7.—It would be against the law for anyone to give false information to a newspaper regarding a wedding, birth or death under a bill being considered in the house.

It was introduced by Representative Arthur Holland of Belton. Any person knowingly making a false report could be fined up to $500 or sent to jail up to six months, or be punished by both fine and jail sentence.

Young People Of Church Of Christ Are Entertained

The Young people of the Church of Christ were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter White, of Whiteflat, last Sunday night after services. Despite the terrible sand the young people enjoyed themselves.

The meetings each Sunday are to plan bigger and better young peoples night. The next young people's night will be March 19.

Leon Ice Company To Provide Service For This Territory

A semi-cooperative cold storage plan for this territory whereby the Leon Ice Company of Matador will maintain storage vaults and lockers for patrons on a yearly rental basis, was meeting with wide popularity late yesterday. Applications for lockers were being signed rapidly and the new plan which was offered by the enterprising ice manufacturing company is declared more to the satisfaction of patrons that the proposed cooperative stock plan.

The lockers are being rented on a yearly basis of $10 for twelve months or $1 per month when less time is desired. Paragraph five of the agreement reads as follows: "The Leon Ice Company will operate facilities for preparing, processing and freezing meats, poultry, fowl, fish, game, fruits, berries and vegetables approved by it for storage, making sausage, and curing meats and will charge for such services, at rates which will be posted in a conspicuous place in the Leon Ice Company plant. The Leon Ice Company will make no change in any such rates without first giving the patron a 30-day notice of such change by posting a new or revised list of fees."

Work of enlarging the Leon Ice Company plant is being rushed to completion as soon as possible and will include the rented cold-storage lockers. It is now believed that the popularity of the plan will tax the original building designs when all of those desiring the service have been contacted.

Civic leaders hail the cold-storage arrangement as one of the most progressive steps ever made in the county when consideration is given to the vast possibilities which it offers. It is pointed out that many thousands of dollars (Continued on Page Four)

TURKEY TO BE HOST TO FIVE COUNTY MEET

The five-county Singing Convention will meet on the fifth Sunday in April, at Turkey, it has been announced by officers of the association. The meeting will be held at the high school of that place.

The association includes singers from Hall, Floyd, Briscoe, Dickens and Motley county, and holds its meetings on fifth Sundays in the month.

O. R. Browning of Turkey is Chairman of the group, and F. M. Casey, Whiteflat, is Vice-chairman. In making the announcement, Mr. Browning stated that they were making preparations for a record attendance at the convention to be held next month, and that further announcements with reference to the program for the day, will be made in the near future.

All singers in the county are requested to keep the date, of the meeting, April 30, in mind, which in this instance is also the last day of the month, as well as being the fifth Sunday.

SALES TAX COLLECTOR JUMPS GUN

Local officers are looking for W. M. Butler, itinerant magazine salesman who collected 6 cents extra from a Motley county customer yesterday, declaring that the 6 cent fee above the price of the magazine subscription, was for the "new pension tax."

This leaping muskellunge was done by Fred Everett for 1939 Wildlife Week stamps.

Heart Beats Over 100,000 Times Every Year

...TIN—"The fact that the heart contracts more than 100,000 times a year, 86,000 every twenty-four hours, during the additional beats by violent physical and mental effort, is little known to the average person," states Dr. W. Cox, State Health Officer. The heart expels from its left ventricle approximately 2,000 gallons of blood every day, 180,000 gallons annually. Thus the little imagination to realize the astonishing amount of work that a fifty-year-old heart does, and that it does it, though the source of its remarkable energy is unappreciated, is a remarkable fact. It is at middle-age, it should continue to perform satisfactorily for many more years, barring serious illness or accident. But this is no excuse for failing to realize that one who has lived fifty years or more has a heart, however unconscious of the heart's effort one may be. "The heart's ceaseless activity, except for the pause between beats, is bound to result in some wear and tear. Obviously, no heart can possess, after fifty years of untiring work, the resiliency of former years. A proper appreciation of the excellent past performance of this vital organ, therefore, involves a rational attitude toward its continued satisfactory action. While in this connection there is definitely no place for a heart-complex or heart-worry, positive cooperation is indicated. Such an attitude will be reflected by adhering to certain basic living principals including the moderate use of tea, coffee, tobacco, and other stimulates; eight hours' sleep daily; refraining from sudden or prolonged exertion; reduction of emotional stress and worry to an absolute minimum; and avoidance of overweight thru temperate eating, or, if one's poundage already is excessive, then the seeking of medical advice so that this embarrassment to the heart's best performance safely may be removed.

"If to a non-fantical application of hygienic living be added the annual physical check-up by the family physician, a continuing satisfactory performance of the middle-aged heart logically can be expected for many years to come."

TRUETT SMITH FIGHTING FOR APPOINTMENT

AUSTIN—A spirited backstage battle with West Texan against West Texan is raging in the capitol.

The fight is over the confirmation of District Attorney Truett Smith of Tahoka to be state life insurance commissioner.

Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel, who appointed Smith, is playing the roll of the forgotten man in the drama. He is keeping his hands off. The principals:

Coke Stevenson of Junction, lieutenant-governor and president of the Senate which has the power to confirm or reject the governor's appointees.

G. H. Nelson of Lubbock, state senator who ran against Stevenson last July for lieutenant-governor.

When Gov. O'Daniel named Smith to be life insurance commissioner, he cast one of his choicest plums to a section of the state which has always been ignored by previous governors in making major appointments. It was the first time that the rich agricultural South Plains had received such an appointment.

But in making that selection, the governor did not please Lt.-Gov. Stevenson because the man the governor chose happened to be a close friend and former law partner of Sen. Nelson.

Behind the scenes Stevenson began maneuvering his forces to block Smith's confirmation, and that has put the lieutenant-governor in a paradoxical position.

In the first place he is cast in the role of working against confirmation of a popular West Texan for one of the most important posts in the state government.

In the second place he is cast in the role of working against the choice of the governor.

Stevenson, endorsed by O'Daniel in last August's Democratic runoff against Pierce Brooks of Dallas, several times has announced he would co-operate with the governor.

Gov. O'Daniel, whether or not he has been appraised of backstage maneuvers against his appointee, has indicated he will not lift a finger to bring pressure on senators to approve any of his appointments.

Meanwhile Stevenson is reported busy pulling strings to line up enough senators to keep Smith out. He needs only 11 of the 31 senators to block confirmation.

Attempts have been made to have Smith's name withdrawn from consideration by the Senate to avert a showdown, but these attempts apparently have failed.

Clarion Chorus Hushed

When tens of thousands of huge trumpeter swans flew north and south across the continent their voices rang like mighty horns from the upper air levels. Now only 148 of these great birds remain in the United States, under the careful protection of the Bureau of Biological Survey. The trumpeter shown here was painted for the 1939 Wildlife Week stamps by Lynn Bogue Hunt.

Safeguards Now Protect Health Of Unborn Child

"Never in history have there been safeguards available to protect the health of the unborn child as there are today. With the family physician supervising the mother through the expectant period, essential advice influencing a favorable outcome for both mother and offspring is available to all those who will take advantage of this protection," states Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer. "Unfortunately, the value of this service is overlooked by many expectant mothers. Indeed negligence in this regard annually is responsible not only for thousands of avoidable maternal deaths but for the birth of physically and mentally handicapped children, for many miscarriages and for the majority of stillbirths. Syphilis plays a significant part in these casualties. "It follows that every expectant mother should make sure that she is free of syphilis by requesting a blood test when she goes to her physician for a prenatal examination. The earlier the discovery is made the better. However, if the examination is conducted before the end of the fifth month of pregnancy, thanks to the defence mechanism of the body that resists the passage of the syphilis germ, to the unborn child, proper treatment will insure the birth of a normal child. "Were this policy generally adopted the tragedy of 60,000 syphilitic babies being born each year in the United States could be lessened, not to mention the miscarriages and stillbirths—calamities that occur to eighty-three percent of untreated syphilitic women at childbirth. "It is, therefore, of paramount importance that women early in pregnancy should have a blood test, so that if infection is found, treatment may be promptly instituted."

TRYING TO REDUCE DEER

Pennsylvania receives a large number of claims from motorists for damage to cars by deer on highways. On one stretch of 26 miles of road, 867 deer were killed within a year, the National Wildlife Federation reports. Seth Gordon, executive director of the Game Commission, has obtained the co-operation of the State Department of Highways in increasing the number of deer crossing signs. The legal kill of deer in Pennsylvania exceeds that of any other state, and a generation ago there were no deer in the commonwealth. The seed stock of the present population was brought in from Michigan. This year an open season on mottled deer was declared to keep the herd within the limits of its natural food supply.

America's Beloved Tree

Leslie Ragan painted this American elm for the National Wildlife Federation's series of 1939 Wildlife Week stamps. All elms in the United States are doomed unless the blight called Dutch elm disease is wiped out by complete destruction of all infected trees. Hope has been given up for the elms of England and Europe.

Society Reporter Finds 'No Trespassing' Sign In Many High Homes

DESPITE her inexhaustible supply of white gloves, Inez Callaway Robb, society reporter (blue-blooded in her own right), has been given the old heave-ho from prominent homes often enough to have made her a cynic. But her sense of humor and her small-town conviction that no one could snub an American born on the right side of the tracks and get away with it, invariably saved her tranquility of mind. And if these preventatives ever happened to fail, she would call upon that sure-fire, soul-satisfying bromide: "I've been thrown out of better places than this."

There was, for instance, Miss Robb relates in the April Cosmopolitan, the late Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt who kept her "quarantined" for thirty minutes in the vestibule because she (Mrs. Vanderbilt) "did not permit members of the press abovestairs." Or the time the second

Mrs. Marshall Field invited Miss Robb to her home to discuss a charity ball she was promoting and had her shown into the servants' sitting room.

It remained, however, for John Jacob Astor, 3rd, to administer the coup de grace. Miss Robb's paper had permission to photograph the Astor infant son William, but Mr. Astor requested that Miss Robb leave his ("magnificently gloomy") home before the picture was taken lest she frighten little Bill. Astor later confessed to the photographer women reporters scared him to death.

But not all of Miss Robb's adventures into high society were on the sour side. One of the earliest friends she made in her career was H. Edward Manville, the Asbestos King. Others who stand out as having treated her as a democratic equal are Prince Cyril, brother of King Boris of Bulgaria, and Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr. She has an especially warm spot in her heart for Cornelius, who, she says, has been trying for twenty-five years to rise above the blight of inherited wealth and social position and the handicap of his illustrious name.

16 MM. CAMERA BIG FACTOR IN VALLEE'S CAREER

RUDY VALLEE is the proud possessor today of eleven different movie cameras, each devoted to a specific job. Rudy, of course, couldn't visualize in his youth—his ambition then was to become an operator in a motion-picture theatre—how important a part homemade pictures was to play in his future life. Like everyone else of the day, he looked upon the 16 mm. camera as a toy.

In the April Cosmopolitan, Rudy writes of his cameras and projectors and tells how he struggled along as an amateur discovering things for himself by the trial-and-error method. But today he takes pretty good pictures, Rudy admits, for his experience has been long and progressive—and expensive. And the practical gains are most gratifying. Rudy uses his cameras for the following reasons: as a rehearsal medium; as a check on work which is being done for him and which he lacks the time to supervise personally; as a way of renting houses, buying boats, automobiles and other goods which he's too busy or too far away to inspect first-hand; as a method of getting detailed information on subjects which interest him, and as a history of all the eventful incidents in his life.

A surprising thing to Rudy is that so many Hollywood stars have gone in for homemade movies. One would think, he points out, that actors would be only too glad to forget about cameras, once they got away from the studio. But the excellent work done by such notables as Harold Lloyd, Robert Montgomery, Gary Cooper and Shirley Temple gives ample testimony that photography is a hobby to be reckoned with.

GAY BANDS FOR GULLS

The newest thing in bird banding is the "sight band," a brightly colored ring fastened on the leg which can be identified without capturing the bird. Various colors are used in tagging a species, so as to give clues as to where and when the birds were banded. Last year, on ten gull rookeries along the Atlantic coast, 5,000 young herring gulls were banded in studying the migration habits of this familiar species, which has greatly increased under the migratory bird treaty act of 1918, according to the National Wildlife Federation.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS BY BOYCE HOUSE

The little red schoolhouse versus the rich and powerful State University—these are the principals in a battle now raging for ownership of a tract of land which has produced millions of dollars in oil.

Arrayed with the University are numerous oil companies while, on the side of the public schools is R. L. York, well known West Texas rancher.

A great deal of criticism has been heaped on 'vacancy-hunters' who have been pictured as infesting Austin, waiting until land has become valuable, then pouncing on some little tract in the heart of an oil field with a suit in Austin to try to take it from the original settler.

But, whatever the situation may have been in other cases, the condition is exactly the reverse this time. Buck York belongs to those straight-shooting, hard-riding cattlemen who have built the West. He lives in Midland and has owned a ranch in Ector County for many years. The tract which he contends is a vacancy (unsold public school land) consists of 2,652 acres and adjoins his ranch.

It is true that the outgoing Land Commissioner, on Dec. 28, made an award in favor of York while a suit was then pending involving the land but it is also pointed out that York has been claiming there was a vacancy and has been trying to buy the land from the State for 10 years, long before there was a single oil well within miles. In the records is a copy of the appraisal made by a surveyor named by the Land Office in 1928 soon after York filed his application and his attorneys have a letter written in 1936 (under the administration of Commissioner J. H. Walker) stating, "The Land Office accepted and filed his (York's) application and field notes, and I might add that we have heretofore made awards under the same condition."

There are now 61 wells on the land but while they were being drilled, York visited the tract and told oil company representatives in effect, "You are drilling on my land."

In the Fall of 1937, Commissioner McDonald was holding an open hearing when a representative of the State suggested the proceedings stop and he would file a stakeholders' suit in Ector County, not taking sides but letting the courts decide between the University and the public schools. York agreed but, instead, the case was filed in Austin, almost in the shadow of the University tower which stands higher than the State Capitol itself, and the suit sided with the University.

The constituted authorities have not hesitated to sue for the schools when an individual citizen has occupied an alleged vacancy for many years but, if there is a question as to whether the University or the public schools own a piece of land, the University is always favored—about the only exception being the action of Bill McDonald in awarding the vacancy to York (and thereby favoring the claim of the schools).

after York felt that the agreement had not been lived up to and renewed his fight. Following the award, York filed a suit against the oil companies in Ector Co. where the land is.

And so on one side we have the University, one of the richest institutions of higher learning in the world, paying its football coach $15,000 a year and with 11,000 students; on the other side are the public schools with 50,000 teachers, some paid as little as $65 a month, and with 1,500,000 students attending schools—in some instances that run as little as six months—because of the lack of funds.

"Success ain't in holdin' a good hand but in playing a pore hand well."

Entry in "oldest joke" contest: An Irishman, seeing a scrap, ran up and asked, "Is this a private fight or can anybody get in?"

The daughter of one of Texas' immortals, Mrs. Molly Reagan Mobley of Palestine, last week visited the State Capitol for the first time in 30 years. The venerable lady called on Jerry Sadler, Anderson County native son who is a member of the State

Fear Man's Greatest Scourge, Says New York Clinic Head

FEAR, according to Dr. Edward Spencer Cowles, founder of the Body and Mind Clinic in New York, is the most prevalent, the most sinister disease in the world. Eight out of ten surgical operations are unnecessary, he contends, since many people suffering from bodily disorders are not sick at all, in the usual sense of the word, but simply are victims of a broken nervous system. And fear stems directly from this loss of nerve-cell energy.

This is true, he maintains, despite the fact that pains may be actual and the symptoms so real that an X-ray will often reveal them. In other words, fatigue of the nervous system can act as an imitator of all sorts of disease; it can even cause blindness, deafness, paralysis, crooked arms and withered legs. What is needed, therefore, is not operation, but the raising of the nerve-cell energy back to normal.

Choral Contest To Be Held For County

All schools in the county will be entered in a Choral Singing contest to be held in the high school auditorium at Matador, Friday night, March 17, it is announced by officials in charge.

ATTEND FUNERAL

G. E. Hamilton, John Hamilton, W. J. Whitworth and S. L. Bolton attended funeral services at Floydada, Monday afternoon, for W. B. Clark, pioneer of Motley and Floyd counties. An ex-school teacher, Clark served as County Judge and Clerk of Floyd county for a number of years. Funeral services were held at 3:00 o'clock at the Baptist Church.

BANK DECORATES

The general appearance of the First State Bank here has been noticeably improved with the recent addition of venetian blinds at all doors and windows. The blinds, which were hung last week, afford a much better lighting system, in addition to enhancing the appearance of the building.

health following Mr. Moore's death, the memory of her goodness and kindness will live on in the memory of those she served daily in neighborly ministrations. Failing health became apparent about a year ago, and she had been confined to her bed at intervals during that time. Death was attributed to an internal stroke which paralyzed her throat and internal organs, and resulted in a brain hemorrhage Saturday. She was conscious only a brief time Monday and lapsed into a coma from which she never recovered.

Immediate survivors besides her son, James Neblett, Matador, include one sister, Mrs. Lucy Waller of Southside, Tenn., a grandson, James Russell Neblett, Matador and two foster daughters, Miss Ruth Moore, Matador, and Mrs. Lloyd Thomas, Northfield.

Interment will be made at East Mound Cemetery.

triumph in America. This is the book that was recently reviewed at Plainview by Evelyn Oppenheimer of Dallas.

Miss Oppenheimer also reviewed "All This, and Heaven Too", by Field, in an appearance at Lubbock on her trip to this section. Based on truth stranger than fiction, (the heroine was a great aunt of the author), this novel combines the drama of a noted murder case, vivid scenes from family life in France, in New York and New England in the 1850's, and as charming a romance as has recently been put between book covers. Rachel Field is known to thousands of readers for her "Time Out of Mind".

The SNAPSHOT GUILD OUTDOORS AT NIGHT

Flash bulbs make outdoor snaps possible at night, even with slow lens cameras. Here, lantern provided atmosphere, but flash bulb, held above camera, supplied light needed for detail in subject.

UNTIL a few years ago, snapshots outdoors at night were rather hard to make. Now, thanks to extra high speed film, thousands of snapshot-takers take them. The fast film plus a fast lens is sufficient for brightly-lighted street scenes and flood-lighted buildings.

For outdoor pictures of people at night, all one needs is a camera that can be set for a time exposure, and a "flash" bulb in its inexpensive flashlight-type holder.

To take such pictures, simply place the camera on a firm support, and set the shutter for "time." Position the subject in front of the camera, click the shutter open, flash the bulb and close the shutter. If the surroundings are dark and there are no lights within the view of the lens, the camera may be held in the hand.

For flash pictures, the camera can be loaded either with regular "chrome type" film or one of the panchromatic films. The distance between the flash bulb and the subject determines the size lens opening you should use.

Here are suggested distances from bulb to subject, outdoors, when you use a No. 10-size bulb with the metal reflector that is a part of the small battery operated holder: for "chrome" type film, 7 feet; for high speed film, 14 feet. These distances will provide correct exposure when you use a box camera, or a camera with anastigmat lens set at f.16. Correct distance from light to subject is important; but distance from camera to subject doesn't matter, as far as illumination is concerned.

Several of the special small flash bulbs can be carried in an overcoat pocket. These are convenient to carry on a hike. They can be used for box-camera pictures if high speed film is employed—but, of course, since the small bulb yields less light than a large bulb, it must be placed nearer the subject.

With flash bulbs, you can picture winter sports subjects at night, and other outdoor activities, though without a special flash bulb synchronizer, do not attempt to "stop" very rapid action. Interesting lighting effects can be obtained by flashing the bulb from unusual positions—for example, holding it low to obtain a lighting angle which suggests freighth.

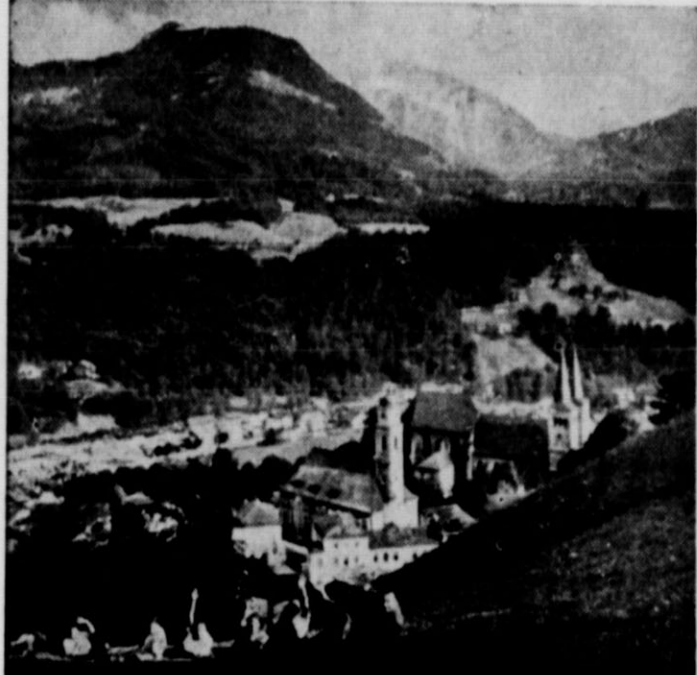

With time exposures, excellent pictures can be obtained of campfire scenes at the skating rink or pond. Campfire "time" exposures can be made without using a flash bulb—or, the bulb can be flashed just at the end of the exposure, to obtain added detail in the scene. For true freighth pictures, the high speed panchromatic films are best.

Take your camera along whenever you go on a skating or sleighing excursion, or moonlight hike. A few flash bulbs enable you to use the camera—and "flash" pictures are always unusual and interesting.

Hitler Foresees His End; Gives Self Six Months To Two Years More!

A DOLF HITLER, sitting high up in the political driver's seat in Europe today, feared as no man has been feared since Napoleon, shakes the very foundation of his strength with these words: "My time is now short."

On One of These Peaks Overlooking the Town of Berchtesgaden in Bavaria, Hitler Has Built His "Eagle's Nest" where He Goes to Plan Germany's Future and Ponder His Own Fate.

This startling disclosure is made in the April issue of Cosmopolitan magazine in an article by Karl H. von Wiegand, noted correspondent, called "Hitler Foresees His End!"

The Fuhrer, von Wiegand says, gives himself six months more, perhaps a year, at the most two years. And then... Hitler is already living in a retreat—"Adlerhorst" ("Eagle's Nest")—high in the Bavarian mountains, which many believe is his self-designed mausoleum.

Whether this presentiment of impending disaster comes from a fear of death through illness or accident, or whether he foresees being overthrown by his enemies or even his own people, Hitler does not say. All he will commit himself to is this: "Meine Zeit ist nun kurz!"—"The end of my mission in the world is nearing."

This is of terrifying proportions Hitler, von Wiegand reports, is being consumed by a fever of haste and impatience, fearful that he may not have the necessary time to achieve the goals he set for himself long ago: (1) To be the liberator of Germany. (2) To be the increaser, uniter and consolidator of the Third Reich. (3) To be the destroyer of Bolshevism. The first two goals Hitler believes he has achieved. As to the third, von Wiegand has always understood it to mean the creation of the independent state of Ukrainia and the overthrow of the Bolshevik regime in Moscow. It is interesting to note that today Hitler no longer flies, the same man who traveled almost everywhere in Germany in his own special plane. He has also given orders that Field Marshal Goring and other important members of cabinet must not fly. "An accident shall not come to the aid of enemies of Germany," he explains.

The strength, the weakness of Hitler, this paradoxical interplay of emotions, how can they be explained? Von Wiegand believes Der Fuhrer stands under some mysterious command: "that long and intense concentration on the idea and thought of the attainment of power, now achieved, has exposed him to a 'might complex' with all its mental, emotional and psychic dangers."

Hitler related to von Wiegand many years ago how the divine mandate came to him. He was lying in a hospital shortly after the war, blinded from a gas attack on the front. "And as I lay there," he narrated simply, "it came over me that I would liberate the German people and make Germany great."

That was in 1918. Today, more than twenty years later, he is still striving to make Germany great. But if he feels his time is short and must act quickly, what does this portend for the future and the peace of the world? It is a question which must not go begging. Only Hitler or the democracies can answer it.

to the Cathedral in Mexico City. The towers contain many bells and a clock is seen on one of the towers. The rather austere exterior hardly prepares one for the glories of the interior.

On entering, the first thing that obtrudes itself on one's mind is the similarity it bears to its great rival in the Mexican capital, which in turn, is patterned after old Spanish cathedrals in Spain. The feature of these churches is the obstruction in the central nave. Near the entrance is a fore-altar, behind that the enclosure containing the huge pipe organ and the wonderfully carved choir stalls. From this leads a fenced-in pathway which in turn leads to the great High Altar, the work of the noted church architect, Toisa. This altar is of onyx. Behind it, in the extreme rear of the nave is the Royal Chapel. Two unobstructed naves flank this central enclosure and lateral altars take up the sides of the church.

This cathedral struck me as more handsome than the great one in Mexico City. Above all it presented more cohesion, more unity. This was brought about by the uniform black and dark red flooring and the great gilded grills before the side altars. But in some of its details the Cathedral in Mexico City was finer. The choir and the Royal Chapel in Puebla fell below that of its great rival.

You're Invited To S. F. Fair

Motorists driving to Treasure Island, site of the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition which opens February 18, all receive one of these windshield stickers at the gateway to the island. "The West Invites You to the 1939 World's Fair on San Francisco Bay," says the sticker, and pretty Marilyn Gordon echoes the invitation.

main part fashioned from onyx. The commerce of the Twentieth Century had overcome the spiritual impressions of an earlier day.

The Ugly Toad We have all heard of the ugly toad that wore a gleaming jewel in its head. For "toad" read "church" and for "jewel" read the Chapel of the Rosario.

On a side street in Puebla, standing back from the street, one sees a very ordinary, non-descript looking church. To judge only by its unimpressive exterior, one would never have any desire to enter it.

But the Rosario Chapel here in Puebla is one of the greatest of its local sights—the finest chapel in all of Mexico, perhaps.

As I entered the church containing this famous chapel a hideous looking object is encountered at the entrance. In a glass case lies a "corpse"—a wax effigy of the dead Christ. The interior of the church is done in white and pale green and lacks the element of richness. I walked rapidly down the central aisle to the altar then I turned to the left and there it was—a glorious vision of great beauty—the chapel of the Rosario.

The room had all the appearance of a magnificent golden grotto in the center under a canopy was a large glass case, in it were two divinities—the Virgin Mary and Her Christ Child. The Virgin wore a handsome robe—with wide-flaring skirts. On her head was set a huge golden crown that towered upward in monumental majesty. In her arms rested the Child wearing also a huge crown out of all proportion to His head. Before this gilded in enclosure was the altar on which gleamed fine golden candleabra tipped with pale gold flickering flames. A priest was holding mass before it. The lights of the candles danced all over the surrounding walls, leaping from one gilded surface to another and in the midst of all this glorious beauty stood the Virgin and Her Child wearing their towering golden crowns upon which the candle light danced.

It was all a vision of golden loveliness that held one spell-bound in its grip—that elevated one to a higher plane.

And such was the famous Chapel of the Rosario—the great gleaming jewel in the forehead of the ugly toad.

Citadel is a very large enclosure—a great sunken court—pyramidal structure within. No doubt, the populace collected at times, for protection against a common enemy or perhaps to witness great ceremonials in connection with their worship.

Everything in all this vast enclosure that interested me, however, is the ruins of the temple of Quetzalcoatl, seen near the center towards the back.

It can be seen only a portion of the pyramidal structure dedicated to the Plumed Serpent. Much lies concealed beneath the earth like a curtain that has been lifted at one corner, we can see its great majestic beauty, wonderful, carved embellishments.

A portion of the stairway leading towards the summit, the steps are very narrow and balustrade at either side, fantastic heads of the Plumed Serpent.

The facade of this pyramid is especially noteworthy on account of its carved embellishments in Different--Better Flavor!

EDDIE'S BREAD is Different! Its flavor, appearance and texture is definitely NOT what you'd expect from a commercial bakery. It is actually, something you'd expect to come from a huge, old-time kitchen on baking day—you know the kind—delicious, golden-brown loaves, with a flavor and richness that only good milk, butter, fine flour and the skill of the baker can impart! Try some today, for that Different touch at meal-time!

Visit Made By Supervisor To Home Ec. Class

The third year class in home economics was in a dither last Tuesday. Our supervisor, Miss Gladys Armstrong, was cheerfully inspecting everything that shouldn't be inspected.

Miss Faulkner and the inspector frowned on sewing without a thimble. Just before Miss Armstrong came into the room, Mary Ola asked, "What finger do you wear a thimble on?"

We discussed intelligently the kinds of seams that are best for different kinds of material. It is hoped that we made a good impression, because we are working to affiliate the third year of home economics; and our work must be good!

Mary Ellen Barton— Better known as "pest"— Never lets us have Our desired peace and rest By J. M. and R. R.

This Nice Girl

I went to the fountain with Mary and met with an awful mishap. For I awkwardly emptied a bottle of soda pop all over her lap.

But Mary was gentle and gracious. There are few so tactful as she. For smiling with perfect composure, said sweetly—"The drinks are on me!"

For Women Only

Probably men are just as much annoyed at the actions of the women whom they are entertaining as are the women at the men. They too, fear to find much fault. A man does not like to see a girl apply make-up in public—especially at the restaurant.

Girls, be truthful. Never deceive a boy, for he will probably find out the truth anyway. Perhaps he does not admire too much rouge. Girls, remember the aversions of your escort. Your chance of winning more than an escort may be increased.

Did You Know—?

That from an enrollment of 186 students in 1903 the Texas State College for Women has grown to be the largest college for women in the world? That the school was created by an act of the Twenty-Seventh Legislature in April, 1901, and is maintained by legislative appropriations?

That in 1902 Denton was selected as the site for the college because of the healthful climate and the good moral and social environment? That home economics graduates are ranked among the best?

That 37 buildings make up the college and living quarters? That the government of the college is vested in a board of regents consisting of nine members nominated by the governor, and appointed by and with the consent of the senate?

That the Student Government Association was created to develop self-government? That majors may be selected from 45 different subjects? That two college physicians devote their entire time to safeguarding the health of students through preventive medicine?

That the total expenses for a nine month's term is $327.50, including room and board in one of the dormitories?

If you are a poetry lover, you should be in Mrs. McKenzie's English III class. These students have been composing poetry. We can hardly imagine a junior's writing a poem, but they say it's been done. It's also rumored that some of the compositions are exceptionally good—well, well!

News Briefs

Last Wednesday afternoon report cards were handed out for the fourth time this school term. There will be only two more six weeks terms this year. The students in the first year typing class have been typing the United States Constitution. Most of them have completed their's now, and there is much rejoicing.

Home Ec Girls Study New Units

A new group of interesting subjects is now being studied by the various home economics classes. The first year class has the unit on "Managing Time and Money Wisely."

The second year class has the unit on "Adjusting Our Wants to the Family Income," in which each student is now making a general wear dress in class.

To Whom It May Concern

Watch for a man with a dream stagger; it may be you. If you catch yourself when you find that it is someone else, remember to ask yourself the question "Can this be me?" If it is, stop at the first house and stay until you are more or less under the weather then get someone to bail you if you are influential enough.

Next, go home and tell your mother to spank you, or be still, to stop your allowance for the next fifteen years or so. Take plenty of exercise—exercise with the pick shovel. You might not have if you disregard the drunken danger.

Without Words? Can We Think

We should think of the study of English in the terms of cultural development—a development that can become continuous, leading us into new fields of discovery, where our understanding becomes daily more and more illuminative. The art of learning is said to be the art of understanding; and if we learn by doing, we assuredly have abundant opportunity to improve our English understanding, for we are obliged to use our language in either spoken or its written form a good part of our working hours.

should ever be on the alert to add to our language understanding. The study of English—of every language, is the study of words, their meaning, their pronunciation, and their combinations; and it is the study of words that enables us to combine them so as to express our meaning with accuracy, with clearness, with beauty, with force. A rich vocabulary is the golden key that lifts us to higher levels in the business, the social, and the professional world.

You Must Decide WHAT PRICE HUMAN LIFE... TRUCKING interests demand legislative authority to increase the existing truck load limit on Texas highways, arrogantly ignoring the fact that highway hazards to life and limb grow greater year by year. On the highways of Texas in 1937, the last year for which authentic figures are available, 670 persons... men, women and children... lost their lives in accidents in which trucks were involved... and 3,360 others were injured... many of them permanently disabled. In the past six years... 1932 to 1937, inclusive... the number of persons killed annually in truck accidents increased from 241 to 670... and those injured from 887 to 3,360. These indisputable figures... taken from actual accounts of truck accidents published in Texas newspapers... show that in the six-year period 2,936 persons lost their lives and 15,183 were injured in truck crashes on the highways of our state. The number killed is greater than the population of Odessa, Gateville, Lampasas, La Grange, Raymondville or a score of other thriving Texas cities... while the number killed and injured exceeds the population of Sherman, Marshall, Corsicana or Paris, all ranking business centers of the state. Analysis of official records of accidents in which trucks were involved reveals a farther vital fact... that the heaviest and largest trucks, as a class, operating over Texas highways in 1937, showed a death rate of four and one-half times that of all trucks, large and small, and almost seven times that for all motor vehicles, including trucks. The combination of weight and size of motor vehicles is thus definitely proved to be the controlling factor in fatal highway accidents... the heavier the vehicle... the harder it hits... the more surely it kills or cripples. The statutes now in effect have governed truck operations on Texas highways since 1931 and the ever-growing toll of truck accidents, injuries and deaths, reflects only the increasing ingenuity of the operators of overloaded trucks in evading or openly defying the laws created to control them in the interest of public safety. Large trucks use your highways only by your permission expressed through your legislature. Texas citizens and taxpayers have built and maintained Texas highways. They are definitely entitled to the safe use of them and not to be driven from them by those who seek to operate them for selfish gain. THE TEXAS RAILROADS

STOP Coughing and Stop It NOW. Enjoy A Good Night's Rest. BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE certainly makes short work of relieving those stubborn cold bronchitis coughs and croup that other cough remedies fail to badge, according to Mr. H. A. Allen. Mr. Allen says: "For years I suffered every winter with a terrible cough. I had had many sleepless nights and coughed until tears ran, and my stomach ached. I started again with the same old cough this year—but after a few doses of BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE my cough was gone." You can't go wrong on BUCKLEY'S Mixture by far the largest-selling cough medicine in all sold Canada. One or two doses and stubborn, long hanging coughs are often on their way. There are only 220 compresses in Texas and 73 of them are located at the ports, therefore are not fighting an increase in the load limit.

They operate only four months on an average in each year. Their investment and pay rolls are therefore insignificant when compared to the investments and numbers of people employed by the industries being crippled by the 7,000 pound law.
