BENCHLEY, THE FUNNY MAN?

WHO'S the funniest man alive? "Robert Benchley!" cheers Franklin P. Adams in the August Cosmopolitan Magazine. F.P.A. has known the hilarious Mr. Benchley since 1915 when he offered the young Harvard graduate a job on the New York Herald Tribune at $40 a week. Mr. Benchley makes $1,500 a week just from his movie shorts in Hollywood. F.P.A. quotes Mr. Benchley, "As the blue vault of heaven is my witness, I don't have any more than in the forty-two-fifty-a-week days. It goes so much faster." Mr. Adams tells how Benchley once impersonated a salesman at a publishing company banquet. With a "dead pan" he mildly attacked the editorial policies of a nationally known magazine with its owner among the listeners. After the speech, when Benchley pulled off a fake wig, the magazine owner said: "I think it's funny now, but I didn't think so while it was going on." F.P.A. traces Benchley's humorous career from his halcyon days, a column writer on the Tribune; to the evening when Benchley came into his own with his first recital of the now famous "The Treasurer's Report." This was made into a movie comedy in 1928 and since then Mr. Benchley has made a fortune from his fun.

Critics Hail New "San Michele" In Story Of London Surgeon

WHEN The Great War broke out, I was the third son of a wealthy and respected Russian family, destined for an envied naval career. As the years passed, I was thrown unwillingly into a human cataclysm of revolution. My last battle against my own countrymen was the starting point of my individual life and of my career as a surgeon.

So begins the fascinating story of a great London Surgeon whose anonymous autobiography has been written for Cosmopolitan Magazine. Writing under the name of George Sava, this brilliant surgeon tells how, by sheer accident, he was launched on a career in medicine; and how, penniless and friendless, he struggled against fate year after year to get a medical education, to become a famous surgeon.

The story which began in the July Cosmopolitan and will continue for several months, is launched on a Caspian battlefield. The author, a White Russian, has just seen his best friend shot down. Carrying him to the base during retreat, the author looked about for a doctor.

No doctors, no instruments, and his best friend was dying! A bullet in his breast was killing him. If the bullet stayed, his friend died; if the bullet were removed there was a chance for recovery. So the author unclipped his knife, held it in the fire until it was red hot. The operation successful, Sava determined to become a surgeon. "I made up my mind to devote my life to fighting death instead of killing and maiming. I resolved to become the modern helper of the poor and suffering: a surgeon!"

As he did to all White Russians, so he did to this young man.

Wormy. This takes the guess out of the work as most of the worms in the intestines are large enough to be seen with the naked eye.

Worm infestation is costly as it causes a great loss of egg production, a loss of birds, besides the time and expense of control measures. Prevention is much cheaper than control. Effective prevention consists in keeping the soil, the houses, and water and feed vessels sanitary. If you direct your efforts to proper sanitation you will not have to resort to worm remedies constantly. For recommendations for sanitation practices, one may see the home management supervisor, or the county agricultural agent. There are various treatments

MRS. PEARL MOORMAN IS HOSTESS TO DORCAS CIRCLE

Mrs. Pearl Moorman was hostess to the Dorcas Circle of the Baptist Church in its regular meeting August 22. The third chapter of Romans was the text, and was read and discussed by Mrs. Ben Massie. A general discussion of the circle's activities followed, and it was decided that the Dorcas group would bake cakes for the general meeting next Monday.

The next meeting, Monday after next, will be held in the home of Mrs. Ed Cammack. Ladies in attendance were Mrs. Cammack, Mrs. Massie, Mrs. Daisy Spears, Mrs. Worsham, Mrs. Bess Patton, Mrs. Fuller, Mrs. Joe Campbell, Mrs. A. A. Tipton, and the hostess.

Receipt for getting that star-light effect for any kind of outdoor parties in the evening: paint a tin can silver, cut the open end sawtooth fashion, punch holes in the other end for the cord, and place over a small globe. Strings of these proved highly successful at the opening of the new open-air College Club at Texas State College for Women. Cost: Nothing.

Matador Becomes Electric City; Rates Lowered

If electrification of homes with its resultant ease, comfort and convenience can be considered a gauge to the standard of living, then folks in Matador live exceedingly well, opines C. A. Pitts, local manager of the West Texas Utilities Company who yesterday called attention to above-average home modernization here. "Although residential customers on our lines increased only four during the last 12 months," he said, "the number of homes equipped with electric refrigerators increased from 87 to 134—a gain of 47. The number of electric range users increased from 76 to 85—a gain of nine. Electric water heater connections jumped from 58 to 73—a gain of 15." During the same period, he recalled, a rate reduction of 16 2-3 per cent was put into effect, giving Matador a 2 1/2¢ rate per Kilowatt-hour in homes equipped with the electric range. Under its provisions, all current over 50 kwh costs only 2 1/2¢ per kwh and thus gives users an unprecedented low rate on light and refrigeration usage. Pitts came to Matador from Balingier last year, replacing Cameron Beam who transferred to Wellington. The West Texas Utilities Co., whose history dates back to 1911 when it had its origin in West Texas, has served Matador since 1926. The company is credited with giving this area its first 24-hour electric service, displacing small and costly isolated plants in many cases and reducing rates approximately 70 per cent.

Treatment For Worm Infected Flocks Is Recommended

Now is the time to save our poultry flocks, according to Mrs. Juanita G. Butler, Home Management Supervisor, Farm Security Administration. There are a number of people losing their chickens from worm infestation, which is very costly, Mrs. Butler said. People are finding their chickens weak, lame, and diarrhea or having a general unthrifty appearance, dull looking and lose weight and soon they find them dead. These symptoms indicate that intestinal worms are the trouble, however it may not be, but the sure way to determine definitely whether a flock of chickens is infested with worms is to kill and examine a few birds that are suspected of being

Shamrock Editor Offers Advice To Advertisers

Well, there are two grocery store advertisements in today's paper for the first time in a few weeks and we invite all you housewives who prefer the stores running "specials" each week instead of keeping quiet about the prices they charge, to study these grocery ads as well as the other price ads in today's paper and tell the merchants you saw their ads. It is a dangerous situation for a community when its stores quit advertising prices. It causes scores and scores of families to shop in other towns where they do advertise prices, and while a merchant may get the idea he is saving a few dollars a week by not advertising week-end specials, he will find it is hurting not only his store's volume, but the business of the whole town to the extent it is actually costing him plenty. People are interested in prices and if he doesn't advertise them they will take up the time of his clerks asking the prices.

Lower Prices
The modern merchandising practice is to charge lower prices and go after a volume of business, rather than hold the prices up and sell less merchandise. It not only saves money for the consumer but makes money for the merchant by giving him a much larger volume of business.

We will admit we are alarmed at some of the stores stopping their advertising because of the financial hardship it works on us, trying to publish a daily newspaper in a town no larger than Shamrock. But we ask you housewives to forget about our angle and look at it from your own personal standpoint. Do you prefer the dry goods merchants, the hardware and furniture people, the drug stores, the grocers and all others running prices in the paper or do you prefer them keeping their price tags a secret until you go in their stores?

If you think it is convenient and if you think it saves you money, won't you please tell the merchants that you read their advertising in The Texan and that it influences your buying. It is true we are mercenary in asking you to do this as we must have advertising to meet our large payroll and pay our bills, but it is also true that price advertising will save you many, many times more money than it could possibly mean to us.

1939 NEW YORK FAIR'S TWO MILE AMUSEMENT LOOP

NEW YORK (Special).—The 1939 New York World's Fair has planned to have the largest area and the greatest number and variety of amusements ever provided for any exposition in the world," announces Grover Whalen, President of the Fair Corporation, "but let it be understood, too, that we are already assured of producing a fair that will be remembered for its bold treatment of today's problems and for its pathfinding to the World of Tomorrow."

The accompanying photograph shows the design of the Fair's two-mile, 280-acre amusement zone as released at the time of Mr. Whalen's announcement. The sector is being laid out with a greater visitor capacity than that of any amusement park in the world. Following an entirely new pattern that lends itself to the development of new and novel amusement and entertainment features, the sector is featured by the two-mile looped thoroughfare, flanked on one side by a continuous facade 70 feet high and on the other by the more open and landscaped area extending to the east shore of Meadow Lake.

The upper end of the lake-shore region will be dominated by a $1,600,000 State amphitheatre with a marine stage for presentation of aquatic shows, operas, pageants and extravaganzas of all sorts. On the far side of the lake, as sketched, will be every conceivable kind of show, spectacle, device, ride, and eating place.

War Its Thousands Slays; Peace Its Ten Thousands

Our nation has engaged in six major wars since its birth in 1776. In total, these wars extended over a period of about fifteen years. The number of American soldiers killed in action or died of wounds during these fifteen years of war was 244,357.

Now look at our fifteen-year peace-time record of death on the highways, recently released by The Travelers Insurance Company:

1923.....	18,031
1924.....	19,228
1925.....	21,628
1926.....	23,294
1927.....	25,533
1928.....	27,618
1929.....	30,858
1930.....	32,540
1931.....	33,346
1932.....	29,196
1933.....	31,078
1934.....	35,769
1935.....	36,623
1936.....	37,500
1937.....	40,300
Grand Total.....	441,912

Fifteen years of war, 244,357 casualties; fifteen years of peace, 441,912 traffic deaths!

In war, our soldiers fought and died for a purpose. But what purpose can there be in the killing of these hundreds of thousands on the highways?

FAIR GLAMOUR

We certainly do hear a lot these days about the New York World's Fair 1939. We keep right on hearing it, too, day after day. It seems you can't pick up a newspaper anywhere, or a magazine, either, that you don't run across something about the tremendous, stupendous, glamorous gorgeousness of the Fair, or words to that effect.

Sometimes we lean back in our worn editorial chair and wonder whether the fellow who's sending out all this press literature about the exposition isn't kidding us just a little. New York, you know, likes to kid the country-folk now and then. However, it doesn't seem there are any grains of salt sent with the press news of the Fair, so perhaps we're supposed to take it as is and believe it.

Let's see, now, what some of the wonders are going to be, as they are told to us in all sorts of flowery language. If you want to stick your tongue in your cheek afterward, that's up to you. We're just sitting still till it's time to journey to the Fair and see for ourselves.

To begin with, we're told that the Fair has built a steel globe 200 feet high, the biggest thing of its kind ever put up and that there's a steel spire 700 feet tall right next to it, and that you are going to travel from the spire into the inside of the globe on the biggest escalator in the world, and that it took a camera man more than half an hour to climb up into the spire to take some pictures of the scenery thereabouts. Well, mebbe, mebbe.

And now try some of these on your imagination: A statue of George Washington 65 feet tall, the largest portrait in sculpture in the world; a sun dial 50 feet high that's really going to tell time whenever the sun shines; the process, which all visitors will be able to witness, of milking 200 contented cows on a revolving platform so that they'll give 4,000 quarts of milk every 24 hours; the opportunity to make a parachute drop of 250 feet and live to tell the folks back home about it; the presentation of the entire history of railroading in this country, with all the dramatics of hold-ups with big six-shooters, and the like, on real tracks with real trains and masked bandits; a gigantic fountain display at night combining fire, water, sound and color as never before in what has been called "the nearest approach to chaos that man can contrive tickets; a wide amphitheatre as large as those of ancient Rome, where thousands gather to witness theatrical pageants and spectacular productions of rainbow hues; a huge island stage; an enormous model of the City of York, with some of its scrapers shown twenty feet tall, to display the latest lighting system of metropolis.

These are only a few of the promised wonders. Is the trying to kid us? What do you think?

HOW TO TAKE FINER PICTURES

YOUR vacation may actually last only two weeks, but you can make it last a lifetime if you follow the advice of William M. Strong, author of "Photograph for Fun" in an article in the August Cosmopolitan Magazine.

Mr. Strong has listed "Ten Don'ts for Snapshooters" that will make even the most amateurish camera fan bring home an album of vacation pictures that will provide pleasure for many a long winter evening.

Here they are: Don't jiggle the camera while making an exposure. The picture will be blurred. Don't take too many pictures in the middle of the day. Before 11 a.m. and after 3 shadows are longer, light more flattering. Don't picture more than one thing at a time. Don't take a portrait with a distracting background. Backgrounds should not be noticed; a plain gray background is best. Don't think you have to have the camera behind your back. Pictures with the light coming from behind the subjects are beautiful. But— Don't let the sun shine in your lens. Stand in the shadow—or use a lens shade. Don't make pictures of people standing stiffly and staring at the camera. Take pictures of them doing things. Don't take any picture, ever, without: 1. Focusing carefully. 2. Figuring out the exposure. Don't attempt a slower speed than 1/2 second with the camera held in your hand. Don't over-expose the shots you make on the beach or the water. The reflected light is usually greater than you think.

SCHOOL OPENS SEPTEMBER 5 AT WHITEFLAT

School will open at Whiteflat on Monday, September 5, according to an announcement made by C. G. Rankin, superintendent. Repair work on the building has been completed and made ready for the coming term, Mr. Rankin declared.

It is expected that in the neighborhood of 150 students will be enrolled this year.

Teachers for the Whiteflat school include Troy Perkins, principal, Misses Bonita Newsome, Faye Mayes and La Faye Blair, and Mrs. Lenna McWilliams. All teachers have degrees and Whiteflat is one of the few two-years high schools in Texas in which all the teachers have degrees, superintendent Rankin declared.

Small Fire Here Early Sunday

Fire caused by a short in an electric refrigerating unit at the Spot Cash Grocery, was prevented from serious damage early Sunday morning when it was discovered by night-watchman J. C. McBride. Although the fire alarm was sounded and responded to by the fire department, it was not necessary to use the large water hose to check the fire.

J. H. Sample, manager of the store declared that the loss was very slight, although serious damage might have resulted had not the fire been discovered in time.

Latest feature of campus dances at Texas State Teachers College for Women is the rendition of popular songs written by students. Requests for "Campus Shadows" at the last hop outnumbered the calls for regular favorites.

Visitor Here To Appear On Screen

Those who attend the showing of "Gold Diggers in Paris" at the Rogue Theatre Sunday afternoon and Monday night, will have an opportunity to view Adolph Faylauer in action. Faylauer, as you remember, is the actor from Hollywood who has visited in Matador on several occasions during the past nine years as guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Meador.

For the past few years he has written a column exclusively for the Tribune, under the non de plume of Marshall Fliske, titled at first "Hollywood" and later changed to "Anchors Aweigh". Faylauer modestly states in a recent communication that he has locks of his hair ready to be sent out in response to fan mail which he will probably receive after the public attends a showing of his most recent cinematic vehicle.

SOCIETY WRITER EXPOSES DARK SECRETS

MISS MARY WARD, who restricts her observations to the highest strata of society, bursts forth in the July Town and Country with the revealing information that society's Mrs. Paul Abbott and Mrs. Arthur White have but terfles tattooed on their knees. Not only that, but Hadie Eame Yates has a Kewpie on her thigh. Carresse Crosby Young has a cross on the sole of her foot; Bettine Belmont has two bumblebees on her knee; Dorothy Parker has a heart on her arm; Orlan Starr has an American flag, snakes, and what not all over; J. Bryan, 3rd has an elephant over crossed cannons on his dexter carpal radii;—and so it goes with a dozen or more well known socialites who have submitted to the long, sharp needles of the tattoo expert.

In her article on the startling subject, Mary Ward traces the rise of the art of tattooing through the Navy (which in 1937 received orders to "keep it clean") and into society via sea-faring sons of kings. At one time, according to Miss Ward, coats of arms became almost as customary on the forearm as on the family silver.

Led by such fraternities as DKE and the Phi Deltis, who still wear a Maltese cross on the left arm, tattooing reached into the colleges. From colleges it slipped into high society, where social registeries now vie with each other for the finest and most colorful designs.

IT'S OPEN SEASON, BOYS

Maryland Marlin

THE hum of the reel and the singing of taut lines is beginning to be heard all along the miles of open beach where Mother Nature has prepared her bountiful piscatorial feast. Off the coast of Maryland, the Old Line state, sport fishermen will be matching their skill and strength against the tricky speed of the white marlin, sportiest fish in the ocean. Along the Jersey coast special preparations are being hurried for bluefin tuna fishing while Maine is looking forward to its biggest salt water fishing season. In the July issue of Motor Boating, Erl Roman, noted authority on fishing, has written an intensely interesting article on where they are and how to get them. They are tall stories, these tales of fierce battles and long struggles with the briny tribe, but they are hard to disbelieve, for Mr. Roman has liberally illustrated his article with pictures made on the scene.

The Hint Beyond

By Frances Frost

He and the wilder part of earth were secret allies from his birth. He hates to plant a sloping field which last year had a mustard yield. Hawkweed and paintbrush on his land you'd think he's sown with his own hand. And as for blue vetch flanking hay, he'd stand and stare at it all day nor lift a scythe to buttercup that might as well be down as up. His hired man says that he was hired to work, and he is getting tired of waiting while the farmer looks at brown-eyed Susans by the brook, of being told to mow around a patch of colored haying ground. He and the wilder part of earth were secret allies from his birth; that may be why his eyes behold a hint of blue, a ghost of gold.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES

Eugene L. Naugle, pastor. Life is a day's work. Every man must work. That is the inflexible law of the universe. Christ said: "My father worketh hitherto and I must work." The angels serve ceaselessly. Man must work on earth and in heaven he must serve. Work is the law of being, the condition of health, the privilege of power, the joy of life. And even those who foolishly seek to escape working, work the hardest of all, and suffer the utmost of weariness. There is much work to be done. "Let us work while it is day for the night cometh when no man can work." There will be no preaching next Sunday as the pastor will be in a revival at Afton. Come down. Help with your presence and with your prayers.

"LIFE AFTER 40"

"WHY do so many seem to think that life is synonymous with such words as 'shelved' - 'dormant' and 'gigolo'?", Constance Foster asks in her article in the 40th issue of Good Housekeeping. Foster, who "confesses" she is about to have a 40th birthday, says that all around her are women who regard forty as a deadline and are bewildered at loose ends. "Must the 40's be dangerous she asks. 'Need I spend my playing bridge or wandering idly from beauty parlor to motion picture theatre?' The writer points out that the 40 life expectancy of a woman is 32.15 years and that she has already opened up for the woman forty. There are millions of women in the nation for whom Foster opens a new vista. 'I she agrees, "begins at 40."

PLEASE!

NEW YORK—In the World of tomorrow, there will be no such thing as "Keep the Grass." At least the New York World's Fair 1939 has already introduced, on the Fair grounds, signs reading merely "Please." The young lady in the picture, Miss Betty Rafferty, is requesting the sign with genuine earnestness. "I never liked those signs 'Keep the Grass.' It is certainly a happy and considerate thought to use the word 'Please.' Surely the public will both understand the meaning and will appreciate the kindness of the request."

NEW METHODS TO SAVE MUCH OIL AND GAS

The remarkable achievement of the Continental Oil Company in developing new engineering methods which promise to effect vast savings of oil and gas in the country's oil fields is the subject of an article in the Reader's Digest for September. Using the Continental Oil Co.'s, new Tepehate field in the State of Louisiana as an outstanding example of the new procedure, the writer describes how natural gas, at one time regarded as a nuisance by oil men, and later treated as a by-product of oil recovery, is now harnessed by Continental Oil Company engineers to maintain pressure in the oil sands and force the crude oil to the surface. Oil recovery by the new method, according to the writer, is almost twice as efficient as heretofore. In conjunction with this development, the article tells that Continental engineers have developed a process for capturing and conserving the volatile elements or "light ends" in the crude oil. The combined process constituting a "development in engineering, which can save untold quantities in oil and gas." Continental's president, Dan Moran, is credited with being the chief factor in bringing about this advance in petroleum conservation.

Walking Into Trouble

In its interesting analysis of the hows, whys and whens of automobile accidents in 1937, The Travelers Insurance Company has published some revealing figures relating to pedestrian deaths. With fatalities and injuries to pedestrians rising at an alarming rate, the figures are worth the attention of every individual. Nearly 28 per cent of the deaths, the figures indicate, resulted from the obviously unsafe habit many walkers have of crossing in the middle of the block. Of the 27.5 per cent or a total of 4,450 pedestrians killed while crossing at intersections, only 280 met death while crossing, as they should, with the signal. No less than 1,100 died when they attempted to cross against the signal light or the officer's signal. The remainder were killed while crossing diagonally in the intersection or while crossing at intersections where there was no signal. Other leading causes of pedestrian deaths, in order of their importance were: walking on rural highways, children playing in the street, coming into the street from behind a parked car, men at work in the roadway, and hitching rides.

A burglar, with absolute disregard for fingerprint evidence, broke into the Brown home, thumbed through the secretary's association records in his search for valuables. He found nothing, she reported, but left several latent fingerprints that might lead to his apprehension.

BUFFALO CAUSES TRAFFIC MISHAP

AMERICAN BOY MAGAZINE COMPANION TO THOUSANDS

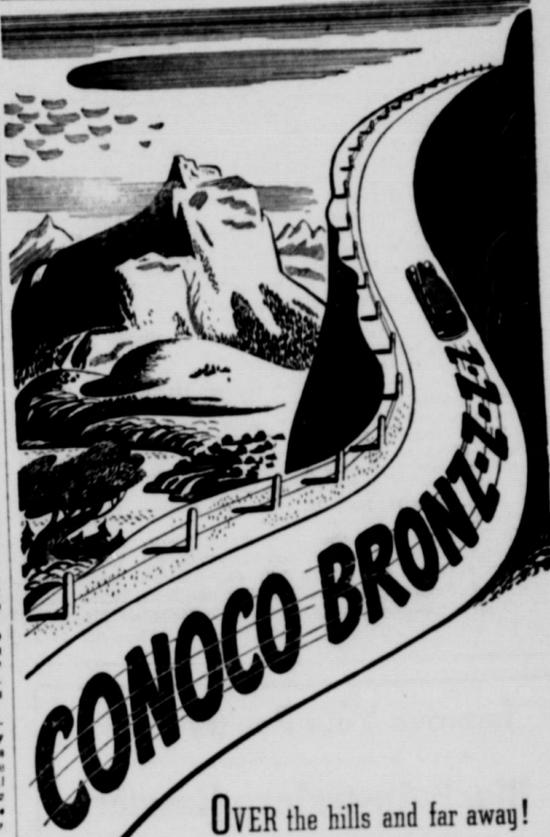

Teachers, librarians, parents, leaders of boys' clubs and hundreds of thousands of boys, themselves, enthusiastically recommend THE AMERICAN BOY Magazine for all boys over twelve. "It's more like a companion than a magazine," remarked one high school student. "It gives advice and entertainment on every subject in which a young fellow is interested. I made our school basketball team solely because of playing tips I read in THE AMERICAN BOY." Trained writers and artists, famous coaches and athletes, explorers, scientists, and men successful in business and industry join with an experienced staff to produce in THE AMERICAN BOY, just the sort of stories and articles boys like best. THE AMERICAN BOY sells on all newsstands at 15c a copy. Subscription prices are $1.50 for one year or $3.00 for three years. "DREAM HOUSES" WILL REMEDY THE DEPRESSION, SAYS NOTED EDITOR

"THERE are too many little dream houses in this land of ours," says William Frederick Bigelow, editor of Good Housekeeping in the June issue of the magazine.

"Their number has increased by two or three millions in the last half dozen years and there is no let-up in their building," he adds. But these dream houses are only dreams, Mr. Bigelow points out. "The statisticians will tell you how many houses short we are. Their figures will be startling, but they will be cold, impersonal figures; they will not tell how many times a dream house tumbled into ruins, became a heartbreak house instead of a home," he says. The article states that the housing shortage is one of the most serious phases of the depression and that meeting this shortage would aid greatly in ending the slump in business. But the cost of building stands in the way, Mr. Bigelow says. "To know that giving every bride a chance to have a home of her own would give millions a chance to become prosperous again is a challenge to the ingenuity of America." I really must have my picture painted by the idealist who painted the portraits of candidates for state office. Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Edmondson made a business trip to Lubbock Tuesday.

THREE NEW HOLLYWOOD COIFFURES

ACCORDING to Dorothy Cocks, Beauty Editor of the Pictorial Review, "Girls under twenty want to wear their hair so as to look older. And the women past thirty want coiffures to make them look younger. Here are 'wish coiffures' for both.

Says Miss Cocks, "I went to those talented hairdressers on the movie lots who are so uncannily expert at creating coiffures that make a star more emphatically herself, or make her over into a different personality, as the director commands."

"Show me how you would dress a young girl's hair, to suggest that she is growing up but without in the least letting her look so sophisticated that the effect is silly or common or hard," she asked them.

The pictures show what Miss Cocks learned.

It's the designedly crooked part that does it—that takes away the babyish look from symmetrical features and gives them an unexpectedly grown-up quirk. Judy Garland shows it here. A one-side arrangement adds to apparent age.

Conversely, a symmetrical coiffure (alike on both sides of face) is always youthful; adds length to a square face or a low forehead. Deanna Durbin wears flowers to accent youthful symmetry.

Carole Landis has her page-boy bob thinned out and trained close to her head to look grown-up. You don't need to be told, by now, that there's more than one way to turn the trick. All that remains is to decide which is yours!

SHIRLEY TEMPLE'S PLAYROOM

MISS SHIRLEY TEMPLE, a small girl with yellow curls and clear, blue eyes, has just completed a vacation trip to the East Coast with her family.

She was welcomed by the President of the Republic, governors of states, mayors of cities, and had hot dogs and went swimming with Sisile and Buzsie Dall at the Krum Elbow estate of the Roosevelts.

The amazing interest taken in the life of this talented youngster is the subject of an illustrated sketch in the August issue of House Beautiful. Shirley lives in a rambling stone house on a wooded hill in Santa Monica, overlooking the Pacific. Both the outside and the inside of the rambling home are completely charming. Shirley has a bedroom and a nursery of her own. Her favorite colors are red and white and they are carried out in the decorative scheme. Both rooms are full of sun and toys and color and are gay and bright in keeping with the charming child who lives in them.

tends her little hand expecting aims. Then one sees a boy of ten or twelve leading a middle-aged man, his father, probably, who is blind. No music is forthcoming—but both palms of father and son are extended to receive whatever we are ready to bestow. His sightless orbs turn from side to side, while his face is alert with expectancy, eager, anxious for the wherewithal to keep body and soul together. Life in the raw as seen in the depths of abject poverty—these scenes are unforgettable, they grip one with poignancy. (To Be Continued)

The average freshman at Texas State Teachers College for Women is a girl of 19, weighs 119 pounds and stands five feet three in her stocking feet. Blondes and Brunettes are about 50-50, and there are plenty of redheads to keep things from getting monotonous.

THE DISCOVERY—

As I gazed upon these vast fields of cacti, I bethought myself of a painting I had seen in the Palace of Fine Arts in Mexico City entitled "The Discovery of Pulque" by the artist Jose Obregon. It shows the daughter of an ancient Mexican chieftain at the court of the Toltec King Tepanalcaltzin—but never mind that—she is presenting to his Majesty a bowl filled with the newly discovered pulque.

History tells us His Majesty liked this new drink, fermented from the juice of the maguay very much, nor was this all, he liked the maiden who brought it to him more than passing well. In fact he liked her so much he made her part of his already large harem. That is why her father looked in vain for his daughter's return.

GREAT FEUDAL ESTATES—

Great haciendas were passed from time to time and here and there one saw studding the landscape old Mexican churches with their towers and domes.

People in Southern California call their stucco houses 'haciendas' but in Mexico it means more than this. Here it means a vast estate of millions of acres sometimes, that is an active operation. On this estate, in a compound surrounded by a high wall of stone or adobe, one sees the large mansion of the owner, the haciendado, together with many smaller huts where live his peon help, also a school where their children learn their three R's, and a church where most of them repair on Sundays, if they are not too drunk.

There is a time, and not so long ago either, when Mexico was practically owned by a handful of these wealthy haciendados. The largest hacienda in Mexico contained some seventy millions of acres, while one of a mere million acres was rated as just a moderate sized one. All this has undergone a great change today. These vast estates are all cut into much smaller parcels of land. Some is left for the original owner, while the rest reverts back to the peon. Belated justice is implied in this gesture. This is premature, however, as the peon is not sufficiently educated, not sufficiently trained to handle his vastly augmented lands, has not enough money for seeds, for ag-

Lily Pons Plants "Autograph Orchard"

IN the rolling Connecticut hills, a scant hour from the roar of New York, Lily Pons and her new husband, Andre Kostelanetz, have started a new fad.

Lily has an "autograph orchard". In an article in the August issue of Good Housekeeping Magazine, Miss Pons explains her reasons for starting this unusual hobby.

"I ask all my friends when they wish to give me housewarming presents to give me trees for my garden instead."

Having received a tree, the famed soprano hangs a metal disc on a low limb and on the disc is an autograph of the donor. She has autographed trees from Grace Moore, Jascha Heifetz, Geraldine Farrar, and, strangely, Mr. Andre Kostelanetz.

recultural implements. A generation is required to bring about satisfactory results, if then. As I now stand, neither party in the transaction is satisfied.

Stations Become Market—

Every station at which the train halts for a few minutes is turned into an improvised market by the Mexican peon. The station platform swarms with a vast concourse of merchants with everything imaginable under the sun to sell—things to eat, to drink; flowers, fruits, precious stones, novelties of all kinds. The Mexican excels at this—such diversity of objects seen must be the result of pure inspiration. Many of these things vended are carried on the heads of the peons and brought to the car windows in hope of effecting a sale. Many arms reach out from the train windows, and centavos, pesos, are exchanged for the merchandise offered. Now ensues a feast of eating and drinking, while those who purchased souvenirs and novelties are busy standing up and placing them in the racks above their heads and one sees all manner of strange, looking objects protruding from on high.

The men and women vending these things are generally barefooted, the women be-shawled and the men wearing sarapes about their shoulders, with tattered straw hats on their heads.

The Blind; Lame; Halt—

Those who have nothing to sell, beg. And there are scads of these, ranging from young children of six and seven to octogenarians. I recall an old couple, he was blind and playing a guitar while his wife was leading him and holding out her dark scrawny hands for forthcoming money. If this was not forthcoming, he would begin to sing in a cracked voice—that generally helped, while his old wife would look eagerly from one to another, scanning the faces anxiously for the expected returns. A little girl of six or seven hangs on to an old man who plays an antiquated harp, from time to time she ex-

LOCAL FARM LOAN OFFICERS ATTEND MEET

M. S. Patton, Secretary of the Matador National Farm Loan Association, accompanied by J. C. Bureson, a director of the organization, drove to Lubbock Tuesday of last week where they attended a district meeting of officers and directors of the association. More than 150 attended the group meeting, it was stated. Mr. Patton reported that the conference afforded an excellent opportunity for officers and directors to discuss problems of mutual interest as well as to review the operations of the associations represented at the meeting. More than 1,915 loans totaling $4,440,400 were made during the first seven months of 1938 by the Federal Land bank of Houston and the Federal Farm Mortgage corporation to Texas farmers and ranchers. Of this amount, $1,208,780, representing 596 loans, was for the purchase of land for agricultural purposes. Nearly 400 bank-owned farms were sold to

MATADORS TO START SEASON SEPTEMBER 9

The Matador Matadors will start their grid season in an opening game with Crosbyton on Friday, September 9, according to announcements made by coach Martin yesterday. The boys are in their third week at the training camp and have shown remarkable interest, being in good shape for their first tilt. Despite the lack of age and experience in the team, they feel confident of victory in the first game, the coach declared. The probable starting line-up will find G. W. Ratcliff and Raymond Rattan or Ellis Terry at the ends. W. O. Cox and Jack Martin will probably receive the call for tackles, with Norman Harp and Jim Elmore as reserves. Wiley Fulfer and J. B. Cooper will likely start at guard position, unless Ervin Clower, Raby Tilton or Alton Titus beat them out. For center position the burden will probably fall upon Thomas Bourland. The backfield will be manned by Kenneth Simpson and E. A. Day as certainties, while Harold Faulkner, John Alsup, J. W. Durbin, Leroy Nelson and Merritt Faulkner fight it out for the backfield positions. Other boys likely to see service either in the line or backfield are James Edward Russell, J. C. Titus, James Rufus Fish, Billy Tunnell and James Russell Neblett. Coach Martin is optimistic over the prospects for victories in the first two games. The second game will be on the Matador field with Quitaque. The squad will open their conference, schedule September 30, here with the Turkey Turks.

GIRLS: DON'T ELOPE

"GIRLS, don't elope," is the advice of Caroline L. Gray, noted woman's writer, in June issue of Good Housekeeping. "Have some sort of a wedding, no matter how simple," Miss Gray urges young Miss America. "You be married in church if your inclination and affections lean that way," she urges. Miss Gray gives valuable advice to the newlyweds in her article and simplifies the preparations for the great event. She lists the proper clothing, the social obligations of the bride and groom and explains the things necessary to make the ceremony a success in a modest cost.

MEN'S COATS TO BE LONGER

Pleated pants are continuing and increasing in popularity with men everywhere. The pleated pants model goes hand in hand with the wider knee and narrower bottom trouser. The prevailing knee width is 22 or 23 inches for fall and the prevailing pant bottom measurement is 18 to 19 inches. Greens and all similar shades of bluish green and bluish gray will be the popular color trend for men's fabrics for the coming months. The pattern tendency favors stripes over checks by at least 2 to 1, and there is also a slight leaning toward the coarser finished cheviot fabrics for the coming season. Gabardines will retain their well-merited popularity.

According to a style survey published by National Tailors Co., St. Louis, Mo., representative of the Matador Cleaners, the styles in men's coats for the coming fall and winter will be longer than heretofore. The shoulders are made wider and this coupled up with the more fitting hips and the longer length accentuates a man's height and adds style to his appearance. Draped-style coats are gaining in popularity.

Several representatives of the dairy manufacturing industry traveled long distances to attend the Matador meeting. These included Roy Stovall, manager of the Spur Creamery, Mr. and Mrs. Angus, who operate a creamery at Floydada, and two representatives of the Lubbock Poultry and Egg Co., of Lubbock, C. R.
