TRAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR

From out of the vastness of a wind-seared night drifted the words of a song my mother loved, serene and unreserved as the memory of her laughter. Some strange flood of joy swept over the dikes of anguish clinging in the melody with the thought that perhaps she also listened, since beauty travels far, as the waves created when a pebble is dropped into a still pool.

Often the package accepted as friendship may prove disappointing because it is secured by strings

His lips were tight and his eyes bore the strain of long restless hours laboring beside the candle, as he paced so restlessly in that narrow vestibule of day. At last the message arrived and he held it in those thin, worn hands, afraid to read the contents. It was the answer to a prayer of effort; a communication from the maternity hall of 1.

Dream ships usually remain at sea until the pilots locate adequate harbour facilities. And in the event of a night arrival, they anchor near docks that have been equipped with thoughtful flares.

The morning rocked with poverty and slanders hopes as the icy fog blew in from a cold and sullen sea. Inside the small shack constructed of wrapped pieces of sheet iron and rusty sign boards, the old man made crude rolls of newspapers and forced them into the tiny stove to be rewarded by spasmodic warmth. A freight train roared past on the trestle almost overhead and a shrill blast from the whistle drove the winter day through the tin walls of the shanty. The old man sat down after the train passed and dug the charred stubs of cigarettes from his pocket, which he broke open and removed the stained tobacco. When he had lighted a cigarette of his own fashioning from the garnered pieces, he said, "Them over yonder on the other side of town are just like us, only they knew how to keep the world from ever knowing the truth about themselves."

There is a general tendency to believe the winters are not as cold as they used to be. It's the truth. And they are not going to be cold again so long as the finance companies continue to accept heated automobiles as security.

Sorrow held the distal in warm New Mexico sunlight beside the long line of green Pullmans grown suddenly silent in their far journey toward the sea. The wheel of kismet was spinning a sordid thread for two yet young enough to laugh, but broken by the weight of bright, heavy chains about the boy's legs. The girl, so frail and small by his side, like the bud of a flower that had withered before its blooming, carried the ball of iron in her hands that he who was departing might have a little more of freedom. Words are plunder piled against the unknown canvas of reality in a futile effort to depict the tragedy of her face. Wide, dry eyes burning with fear and compassion while they searched his countenance to design a matrix for memory as he placed a fettered foot on the ribbed iron step—a broken voice, a sob that rose to shade the sun. The clean, free wind lifted a lock of her short, matted hair across the miserable face and she brushed it away slowly as the coaches started to move and the trainmen closed the doors.

While I have only my hopes to comfort idle curiosity, I have often wondered at the destiny of a Montana horse-trader who once wintered at our home. At the time I was too young to appreciate the artistry of an adroit liar and I probably owe him tuition for primary instruction, but I will always feel that he left his board bill unpaid by making settlement with three broom-tailed fillies. Perhaps I could forget the ques-

Dean, District deputy Governor of District 2T from Plainview, were also present. Boss Lion Byron Schatz of Paducah and candidate for District Governor next term, paid high tribute to the Matador Club and the hospitality of the city, in a brilliant address on the city, in a brilliant address on Lionism.

The delicious banquet served by ladies of the Baptist Church, was praised by the visitors in several instances. The menu consisted of baked turkey, dressing, giblet gravy, creamed potatoes, garden peas, cranberry sauce, celery, olives, fruit salad, coffee, hot rolls and pie a-la-mode.

The program started by Lion R. E. Campbell, was turned over to program sponsor, B. F. Tunnell. After an enlightening address by Tail Twister Lion Henry Pipkin, the group was favored with entertainment by the Arkansas Hill Billies, a local trio comprised of L. C. Groves, Joe Berry Meador and Furman Vinson. The numbers received vigorous acclaim from the visitors.

Again Governor

GOV. JAMES V. ALLRED who was inaugurated for his second term to Texas' highest office Tuesday evening. Only 37, Governor Allred is the youngest in the entire country.

Thousands At Second Allred Inauguration

Chief Of Texas Only 37 Years Old; Is Youngest Of All

AUSTIN, Jan. 19.—Thirty-seven-year old James V. Allred took the oath as governor of Texas for the second time today amid all the pomp the state could muster. In the presence of cheering thousands which jammed the hall of the house of representatives, he once more pledged to support the constitution and faithfully perform the duties of his office.

To Adhere To Principles Then, in his inaugural address, he expressed continued confidence in the republican form of government, asserting that in adherence to its principles lay the solution to problems of the times. Lieut. Gov. Walter F. Woodul, also re-inaugurated for another term of two years, voiced appreciation of the cooperation of the governor and the people in the past and asked the same cooperation in the future.

Transferred Indoors Transferred indoors at the last minute because of inclement weather, the ceremony began in a flagbeated setting, with a long procession of state notables, led by Governor and Mrs. Allred.

As the governor entered the hall, where the senate and house of representatives had met in a joint session, the military band from the Agricultural and Mechanical college played "Hail to the Chief," and the crowd, which packed the floors and galleries, cheered uproariously.

Three former governors were in the line of march, James E. Ferguson, Pat M. Neff, now president of Baylor university, and Dan Moody. Others were members of the state higher courts, state officials, representatives of the national guard and the regular army, members of Governor Allred's and Lieut.-Gov. Woodul's families and Speaker Robert W. Calvert.

Annual Boys Basket Ball Tournament Opens Friday

Again President

PRESIDENT F. D. ROOSEVELT, above, who again was inaugurated to the highest office in the country yesterday. President Roosevelt is the eleventh president to hold office for the second term.

NATION'S CHIEF TAKES OFFICE FOR 2ND TERM

Crowded Capital Gay As People's Choice Is Inaugurated

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—A crowded-capital, vibrant with gaiety, forgot dreary weather tonight and dismal prophecies of more tomorrow, in a carnival overture to the second inauguration of President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

A vast throng of 250,000 is expected to attend the ceremonies or watch the parade, according to official estimates.

The weather man was the only holdout from the festivities. To top off a cold rain today, he forecast rain, possibly even sleet or snow for tomorrow.

Crowds jostled through hotel lobbies, crowded the bars or gathered at scores of dinners and receptions.

FDR Spends Quiet Evening Meanwhile, President Roosevelt kept quietly to the White House. There was a small dinner for the heads of campaign committees, but otherwise, inauguration eve was, for the chief executive, an evening of work.

Throughout the city it was an inauguration eve in vivid contrast with that of four years ago. Then, it was a night of subdued gaiety at best. President Hoover was up late at the White House; President Elect Roosevelt at the Mayflower hotel. Harried bankers were meeting in New York and Chicago and at the treasury here. In the morning all the banks were closed.

Grim Atmosphere Absent Tonight the grim atmosphere of 1933 was absent. Democratic leaders spoke of how the wheels of industry and finance are revolving at an ever quickening tempo.

The parade will be quite different from the six-hour affair of 1933, replete with fancy costumes and floats. This time it will be almost entirely military with the famous West Point Cadets and Midshipmen from Annapolis providing a high point.

Juvenile delinquency cases in Baylor county have declined from an average of 14 cases in 1933 and 1934 to only one case in 1935 and 1936. County Judge McDaniel asserted that education and work programs of the National Youth Administration had contributed much toward this reduction.

Caution Made By County On Unpaid Taxes

First Day February Is Deadline To Avoid Penalty

In a notice to be found in another section of this issue of the Tribune, taxpayers are warned with regard to paying taxes before the first day of February to avoid penalty.

The notice also includes warning with regard to deadline to paying poll taxes and instruction on paying automobile license fees. Both men and women are required to pay their poll tax and unpaid poll taxes are a lien upon any real or personal property. With regard to the exemption of voters, the notice declares: "Those who are 60 years of age or more are not required to have an exemption to vote; those who have moved into the state since January 1, 1936, are required to have an exemption; those who have become 21 years of age since January 1, 1936, or will become of age during 1937, are required to secure an exemption certificate during January, 1937, before they may vote in any of the elections during the year; no charge is made for these exemptions."

1937 automobile license fees cannot be paid before February 1st, 1937, but must be paid between February 1st and April 1st, 1937.

Action May Be Taken It was declared that in order that the county have proper finances for the year that action may be taken on delinquent taxes where the property owners have neglected to pay. The action will be brought about by necessity, it was declared.

Relic From Pioneer Days In River Bed

Cast Iron Kettle Is Corroded By Strange Sand Formation

A piece of equipment doubtless by some pioneer of this country was recovered from the sandy bed of Tongue River and brought to Matador this week. An old fashioned cast iron tea kettle still supporting a rusty piece of barb-wire for a bail, and the entire object covered with a heavy sand and rock formation, looking very much like iron containing lava that had cooled into the strange shape. Large flint rocks are a part of the conglomerate surrounding the kettle. The kettle was found by Glenn Bird on the Bird ranch some time ago and is now on display at the Burton-Lingo Lumber Co. yard.

Long Under Water Many who have viewed the odd object are of the opinion that it has been under water for a long period of time and that the sand and rock corrosion has resulted from qualities probably contained in the sand and water. The stone covered kettle weighs over 26 pounds.

The junior division office of the National Reemployment Service at Dallas placed 89 Texas youths in private industry during its first month of operation in cooperation with the National Youth Administration. John I. Beauduy, acting supervisor, reported.

Twelve Clubs Accept Invitations; More Are Expected

Two-day Event

Lions Sponsor Cage Contests Eighth Successive Time

Twelve clubs have accepted and more are expected to attend the eighth annual boys basket ball tournament sponsored by the Matador Lions Club which begins in the Matador gymnasium tomorrow morning, according to the committee on arrangements. While the annual event has lost some prestige due to other schools now having gymnasiums and conducting tournaments, much interest is expected as the various aggregations meet this year. Some of the best basket ball clubs in this section of the Panhandle will compete in the contests, including Plainview, Chillicothe, Roaring Springs, Flomot, Quitaque, Lake View (Hall county), Quanah, Crowell, Paducah, Floydada, Turkey, Valley View and others.

Trophies Offered As the usual custom, appropriate trophies will be presented the winning teams, it has been announced. Local citizens are requested to attend the sessions not only as a civic obligation, but with the assurance that they will witness genuine rivalry displaying skill and training in the exceedingly popular American sport. While small admittance fees will be charged the tournament is operated on non-profit basis, any net proceeds being used for civic needs.

Visiting teams and coaches are furnished with lodging gratis in the homes of townspeople.

Among the list of additions to the library, will be found a number of books of special interest to children, such as, Children of the White House, The Dreadful River Cave, A Little Maid of Quebec, The Whistling Snake, Pinnocchio, The House at Pook Corner and Pinnocchio Under the Sea.

Farming With A JOHN DEERE Is Easier and Cheaper...

"I'll say farming with the John Deere is the way to more profit"

Farming with a John Deere is so far ahead of horses or mules that there is no comparison. Furthermore, John Deere farming means lower-cost farming.

Until you own and operate a John Deere you can not appreciate the benefits and advantages of it. But just ask any John Deere owner about it. He has tried both horses and the John Deere, and he knows. You can bet that he isn't going back to horses --- Or mules either.

With a John Deere you can get the job done speedily, and speed often saves a crop in this country. Ask your neighbor about his John Deere, and then call on us for a demonstration.

HOT SPRINGS NEAREST APPROACH TO FOUNTAIN OF YOUTH, WELLS SAYS
 If there ever existed a Fountain of Perpetual Youth, Arkansas can claim that her "valley of smoking waters" almost fills the bill!
 So says Carveth Wells, internationally known explorer, who will describe attractions of one of the world's finest health resorts—Hot Springs National Park—in his Continental Oil Company broadcast, "Exploring America with Conoco and Carveth Wells," over station WFAA, Dallas, at 6:30 Saturday night.
 "Ferdinand De Soto was the first man to sample the magical waters of Hot Springs when he visited Arkansas in 1541," Wells relates. "But long before the days of De Soto, the medicinal value of the water at Hot Springs was so well known among the Indians that the various tribes fought for possession of the valley in which the springs were situated. Today, these health-giving springs have the distinction of being the only ones controlled and supervised by the government. Cost of baths is within the means of everyone."

 Aside from the famous hot springs, this region can boast delightful mountain scenery and offers a variety of opportunities for enjoyment of favorite sports. "Hot Springs is truly an all-year playground," says Wells, "patronized especially by those who believe in the old saying that an ounce of prevention is better than a ton of cure."
 Girls working in National Youth Administration sewing rooms that have never worked before are learning discipline and productivity, Fenner Roth, district supervisor, has reported to Lyndon B. Johnson, state director.

On the walls of this recon- structed house are seen what is through politeness called "Folk Art" collected by Mrs. Rockefeller, Jr. and loaned for the time being. This so-called art is the immature expression of daubers, children and adults 'who have never taken a lesson in art in all their life'. And it looks it too. For the most part a collection of hideous chro- mos.

POMP and CIRCUMSTANCE . . . The Governor's Palace and its separate houses and formal gar- dens were next visited. This edifice is more than a mere build- ing—rather it is a symbol of royal authority and prestige in Virginia, later on it shared in the begin- ning of a dignified democracy (Patrick Henry and Thomas Jefferson the first two governors of the Virginia Commonwealth had this building as their executive mansion). After the removal of the capital to Rich- mond, this palace served as a hos- pital for the wounded from Gen- eral Washington's army at York- town.

Besides the palace proper one sees many separate houses as was, and still is, customary in the South so we see in turn, The Laundry, The Salt House, The Smoke House, The Kitchen, The Ice House, The Public Wash Rooms, ets. Behind the Governor's palace one sees a very large formal garden, hedges outlining the various floral and infection in man, is a warning issued by Dr. George W. Cox, State Health Officer.

"During the winter season pork and pork products are more freely used and a warning against insuffi- cient cooking of them is in order," he said, "as the danger of eating pork that is not thoroughly cooked is indicated by the increas- ing number of cases of this disease being reported.

"If pork is cooked thoroughly, there is no danger from its use save the danger of eating too much of a meat which is more or less difficult of digestion due to its high fat content. Pork, showing a slight red or pink, is a warning signal that this is dangerous to eat for it may contain trichinae which have escaped destruction by insufficient cooking of the meat and thus give the careless consum- er the disease trichinosis.

"No method of meat inspection will invariably discover the pres- ence of these parasites. It is next to impossible to detect infested hog flesh by inspection for two reasons: (1) the cysts are extremely small, (2) they are of the same color as muscle tissue in which they are imbedded. These larvae are encased in the lean portion of the pork ready to develop in the stomach of the per- son who eats the meat. Heating the meat to 145 degrees Fahrenheit the temperature used in the past- eurization of milk, will destroy the parasites. But there is often the danger of not maintaining this temperature inside of the meat. Outel portions of the meat may appear well cooked while the in- ner part is quite raw and will retain the living parasites. Espe- cially is this true if the piece of pork is quite thick.

"To be safe, no pork or pork products should ever be eaten un- less it has been thoroughly cooked and until all color disappears throughout the piece of meat."

The industrial survey of the State being made by the Texas Planning Board shows that a great majority of the hides produced in Texas are shipped out of the state to be tan- ned. There is only one tannery in the state.

"BE IT RESOLVED: That I will make use of the Electric Servant in 1937."

One of the best New Year's Resolutions - a really MODERN Kitchen!

The West Texas Utilities Company long ago re- solved that it would bring the West Texas house- wife the maximum in service at a minimum cost. This vow has been kept to the letter. As proof, it reminds you that the average housewife today enjoys thrice the comforts of electric service known less than a score of years ago.

Yes, this policy of giving the housewife her money's worth, which has reduced the net average rate per kilowatt hour from as much as 20 cents to 5 cents, today makes electric service the cheap- est commodity in the average home.

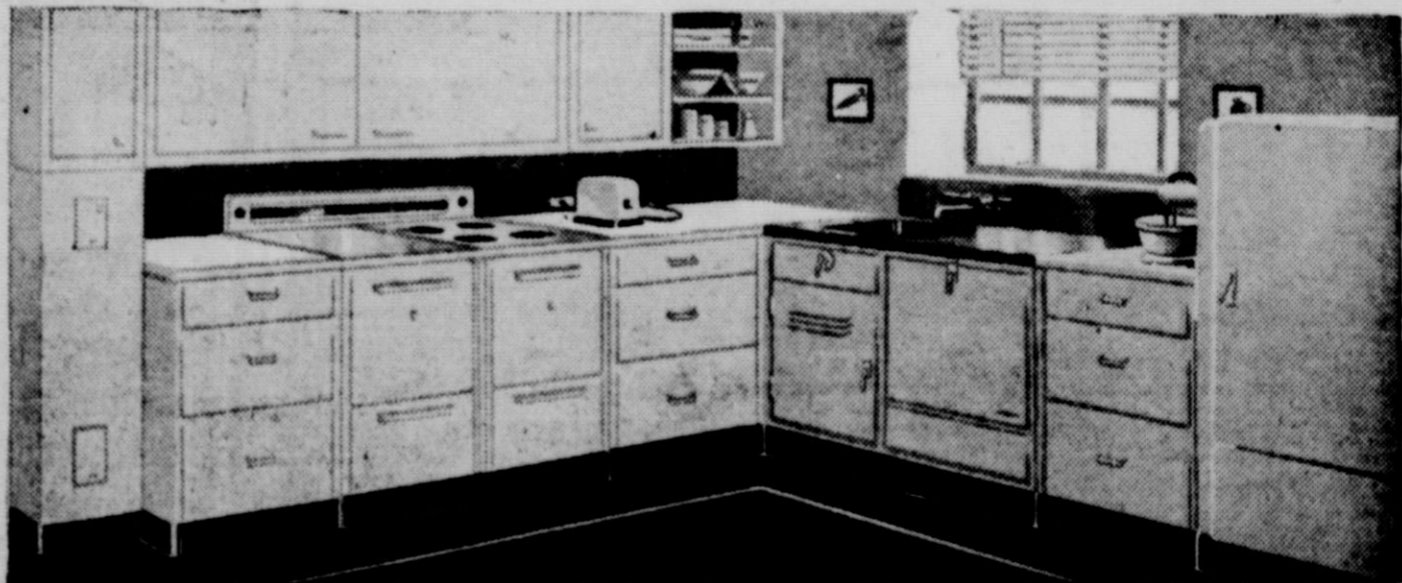

The modern home is equipped with many appliances that use but relatively few watts of electric energy per hour. Electric refrigerators, electric ranges and electric water heaters operate on an incentive rate (discount) schedule that amounts to much less than 5 cents a kilowatt hour. There are 1,000 watts in a kilowatt—1,000 watts of energy for one house for 5 cents.

The new electrified home should be the model West Texas American home under these condi- tions. There is nothing prohibitive about the cost of operating any electric appliance. They have become staple products, recognized as standard for comfortable, modern homes—as much a fix- ture as the rug on your floor.

Modern housewives will pass a resolution today to modernize their homes in 1937, using the Elec- tric Servant to eliminate drudgery and to stimu- late the happiness that electricity served up to you has made possible in this great area.

You can secure your modern Electric Kitchen step by step. As you add each major electric appliance—refrigerator, range and water heater—you automatically receive the benefits of low incentive (discount) rates.

RESETTLEMENT AND FARM TENANCY

"I have never seen among the peasantry of Europe poverty so abject as that which exists in the great cotton states from Arkansas on to the East Coast." These are strong words, but they are the carefully considered statement of Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, following a recent tour from Arkansas to Georgia. Wallace was travelling with Resettlement Administration officials who knew intimately many of the people living in the hovels that dot the Southland, and Wallace came away with the realization that the problem of farm tenancy was one of the greatest problems now facing the American farmer.

In a recent article in the New York Times Magazine Wallace has this pertinent paragraph: "I have been asked, 'Is there danger of a peasant group in the United States?' I am tempted to say that one-third of the farmers of the United States live under conditions which are so much worse than the peasantry of Europe that the city people of the United States should be thoroughly ashamed. One of the first problems is to bring this group up to a level as high as that of the peasantry of Europe. This is the job to which the Resettlement Administration has addressed itself in its activities embracing some 500,000 farmers. It is a slow job, which will still be only partially solved fifty years hence."

The problem is acute and tragic. Partition politics should not be allowed to enter into the administration of this most urgent effort to help the tenant farmer. Nor should there be a bureaucratic struggle for domination of this new effort. The Resettlement Administration already exists with a capable and efficient organization to attack the problem without loss of precious time. The Resettlement Administration was the first government agency to recognize and point out the seriousness of the tenant problem, and the first agency to make surveys and recommendations pointing toward a workable program of relief and rehabilitation. Here is one problem for which a federal agency is ready for operation without waste motion, and which has already completed the preliminary work to attack the problem wholeheartedly.

NEW YORK. (Special).—Photography and ingenuity combine to show about how the New York Fair will appear in 1939 to visitors arriving from the west in planes flying at an altitude of one and three-quarters miles. Cameraman made this "shot" from a plane over the New Jersey meadows. Shown in the foreground is the shipping along the Hudson-Manhattan with its towers grouped about the Empire State building (center) which houses present headquarters of the Fair—and in the middle distance the 1,216-acre site of the 1939 international exposition. To the right lies Brooklyn and, beyond, the hinterland of Long Island. At the extreme left, spanning the East river, is the new Triborough bridge over which many of the 50,000,000 visitors expected at the Fair will motor to the convenient parking lots. A photograph of the table model of the Fair has been superimposed on the negative of the air view to show the grid of the central exhibit zone, the boat basin being constructed on Flushing Bay and the lagoons that will feature the exposition's amusement zone.

Farm tenancy exists in every state in the union, although it is more acute and more dramatic in the deep South. The sooner Resettlement of some other federal situation the better it will be for agency is empowered to act toward alleviating this distressing the whole nation as a unit.

Natural Gas Bids To Locate Future Industry In Texas

DALLAS, Jan. 18.—With current sociological and economic forces pushing American industry into a board decentralization program, the question of what direction this inevitable movement will take confronts industrial planners.
The answer, according to many observers who for years have been pointing to the South's great natural equipment for industrialization, lies in the Southern states and what they are willing to do in providing enterprise and encouragement to capital to develop their natural wealth. And the greatest of these states—potentially—in scope, variety and progressive spirit, is Texas, a report of the All-South Development Council points out.

Natural gas, the report says, offers one of the greatest inducements to the migration into Texas of industries to extend the processing and conversion of the state's rich and manifold raw materials—many of which are yet virtually untouched commercially.

Fuel Is Important
In all earlier periods of industrialization the availability of coal has played a preponderant part in centralization of major industrial enterprises. But modern industry's location has been materially influenced by the use of new sources of energy such as oil, water power, natural gas, and by improvements in transportation and transmission of electric energy.

For several years Texas has been by far the leading producer of natural gas, in 1935 furnishing 36 per cent of the nation's marketed output. The state showed a 12 per cent increase that year over 1934, mainly accounted for by substantial gains in use of the gas for industrial purposes.

Raw Materials
Although many industries have been attracted to Texas because of its matchless store of raw materials and availability of cheap power and gas, the Council's report points out, other Southern states are getting new industrial "plums" out of proportion to their comparative physical advantages. Louisiana, Mississippi and Florida particularly are showing the way in this respect, largely by reason of recent laws exempting new industries from taxation for periods of from 10 to 15 years.

tion law, the action of the legislature in modifying proposed new and increased taxes on various natural resources, indicated the report said, a realization of excessive taxation tends to discourage capital and to retard development of new industries.

Many Established
Among industries already well established in the state using raw materials and natural gas are flour milling, vegetable oil refining, meat packing, salt production, gypsum and cement manufacture, dairy products and cotton textile manufacturing. Others, such as chemicals and glass manufacture, are particularly dependent on natural gas for fuel.

Industrial chemistry is finding many new and valuable chemicals that can be produced from petroleum and natural gas as raw materials, some of which will be in the long-time conservation program being sought for these unlimited resources. The manufacture of these chemicals may become an extremely important Texas industry if it is assured such enterprise will not be penalized.

Logical Location
Manufactures which might logically be attracted to Texas because of the advantages of natural gas as fuel, assuming that assurance of a definitely friendly legislative policy by the state is forthcoming, include: pottery and ceramics, glass, cellulose products, more cement and gypsum production and vegetable oils and canning. Raw materials for all of which are unusually plentiful as natural resources of the region.

Senator Nelson Is Given Recognition

AUSTIN, Jan. 14—State Senator G. H. Nelson, Senator from the 30th District of Texas, was given distinctive recognition by Lieutenant Governor Walter Woodul, when the Senate met on Tuesday for the first day's work of the Regular Session of the 45th Legislature, by giving him important committee assignments.

Senator Nelson was made Chairman of the Committee of Judicial Districts, and Vice-Chairman of the important committee of Education. Due to the fact that much important legislation will come before the Senate during this Regular Session affecting the many pressing educational problems of Texas, the committee on Education is considered one of the most important assignments to be received by any Senator. The activity of Senator Nelson with reference to a Constitutional Amendment to bring about the One-House Legislative System in this state is well known. Recognizing the Senator's interest in this matter, he was given a place on Constitutional Amendments Committee. This will afford him the opportunity to propound his idea of a unicameral legislature which has already gained statewide discussion.

On Finance Committee
All appropriations for the support of educational institutions is handled through the finance committee. It is expected that Senator

Nelson by receiving an appointment on the finance committee will be able to render valuable assistance to Texas Tech.

Other committees on which Senator Nelson has been placed by the Lieutenant Governor are: Civil Jurisprudence; Public Lands and Land Office; Penitentiaries; Governor's Nominations; Senatorial Districts; Representative Districts; and Highways and Motor Traffic.

To Fight Gambling
On Wednesday, the 2nd day of the Regular Session of the 45th session of the Legislature, State Senator G. H. Nelson of the 30th District, introduced in the Senate a bill to repeal pari-mutuel betting on horse races in this state.

Senator Nelson is quoted as saying, "The time has come when the good citizenship of Texas must take an active stand to curb the gambling instinct of the people. Something must be done," he said, "to remove the temptations of gambling from the boys and girls of this generation."

This bill to repeal race track gambling in Texas is due to bring one of the greatest lobbies before the Texas Legislature that has been seen in many years.

SIDELIGHTS

(By MARVIN JONES)
Member of Congress from Texas

Provision for crop production loans is one of the first tasks of the new Congress. It is of especial importance to our section.

For the last several years, it has been necessary to pass legislation at each session of Congress giving financial aid to farmers for planting their crops. Each year the need arose as great as that of the year before, and new provision was necessary.

It is essential that any aid given the farmers in producing their crops be given early in the year. Delay was often unavoidable and the need for annual legislation made the situation uncertain.

I have introduced a measure which broadens the base of the feed and seed loans and makes permanent provision for them, in order that the need may be met from year to year without the necessity of setting up legislative machinery each time.

The measure authorizes an appropriation for a revolving fund of fifty million dollars. This will make annual appropriations unnecessary.

The loan is broadened to include assistance not only for feed and for planting, cultivating and harvesting, but also supplies incident and necessary to such production. The maximum to any one borrower is increased to four hundred dollars.

The purpose of these loans is to make essential funds available to farmers who are not able to qualify for credit under the production credit associations or to obtain sufficient funds elsewhere.

I had a conference with the President on this subject last week. He vetoed the crop loan measure last year, but at the urgent request of several of us, loans were provided for from emergency funds. I hope he will see fit to approve the new measure, taking into consideration the broadened base, the fact that the loans seem to be essential, and that they have been well administered.

The farmer of course wants to keep clear of debt. He is at last beginning to see the light of day.

However, correcting the evils of the past half a century is a slow process that requires a careful approach. Provision must be made for financing farmers who are unable to obtain working funds, especially in sections like our own where a prolonged period of drought has made help from the outside necessary.

I hope early approval can be obtained for the crop production measure in order that loans for the new year can be made without delay.
