

Capacity Audience Swayed By Cantata

Easter Program Has New Laurels For Local Choir

Every available seat was occupied and many persons stood in the aisles and doorways of the Methodist church Sunday evening as this west Texas community observed the sacred holiday of Easter by attending the cantata arranged by members of the Matador Choral Club. It is doubtful if a more enjoyable program has ever been presented here than the harmonious antiphony consisting of over 30 well-trained voices accompanied at the piano by Miss Mable Jameson, director.

Intensive training had preceded the "Sermon in Song" program which held the large audience in the grip of its power and beauty from the first sounding of the piano until the last note had faded away.

Effective lighting was employed through a lighted cross on a background of darkness in the singing of "The Old Rugged Cross" as introduction of the cantata. With the exception of lights in the choir, the church was kept in darkness throughout the program.

Many Remain Outside
After the church was filled to every available seat and many people were standing, late arrivals remained in their automobiles outside the building and listened.

ONE-ACT PLAY TO REPRESENT MATADOR SAT.

If the performance of the cast in the one-act play, "Queen Anne's Lace", which was presented at the Matador High School auditorium Monday evening, is prophetic of its outcome in the district interscholastic meet at Crowell Saturday, it will doubtless be awarded first place, according to the verdict of those who witnessed the pre-view here.

Outstanding character portrayal of the respective parts was given each member of the cast, which included: Jewell McCoy as Aunt Emily—a patient sufferer of hay fever, allergic not only to the flower, Queen Anne's Lace, but to any mention of either of the three words comprising its name; Raymond Rattan, as her brother, known as Uncle Jed, a would-be writer; Frances Stearns as Betty Astor, Aunt Emily's niece, and Kenneth Simpson as Dick Lace, the young man next door, furnishing love-interest for the plot, and hindered by Aunt Emily's antipathy toward him because of his name; and Mrs. Willard, a new neighbor, played by Tom Nell Darsey, who, in her enthusiasm for the flower, unwittingly aids the lovers by causing Aunt Emily to overcome her affection.

Members of the Junior El Progresso Study Club entertained the crowd with a number of songs preceding and following the play, with Miss Lela Carpenter as piano accompanist. Girls in the chorus were: Misses Myrnavae Barkley, Aileen Russell, Zona Ruth Scaff, Wandell Berryman, Frances Carpenter, Mary Ola Tipton, and Marie Hunsucker.

SPECIALIST TO MAKE ADDRESS

Mr. Paul G. Haines, organization Specialist of the A. & M. College Extension Service, will be at Matador Monday morning, April 17, at 9:30 o'clock, at the Court House for a general meeting it was announced by Frank A. Buckley, County Agent.

Good Rains Follow Wake Of Blizzard

Fruit Crop Here Shows Much Damage By "Easter Spell"

Following in the wake of the severe "Easter spell", which struck this section Thursday, general rains early this week have brightened prospects for farming and ranching. The rain which fell Monday afternoon and night registered 42 inch in Matador and was slightly less in Roaring Springs. The total rainfall for 1939 is only 51 inch less than the first four months of 1938 according to the U. S. rain gauge record maintained by J. H. Sample and George Springer. The rainfall this year is 2.55 inches in January .05 inch in February, 1.15 inch in March and 14 inch on April 4th, 22 inch on April 6th and 42 inch on April 10, making a total of 3.63 inches for the year as compared with 4.14 inches during the same period in 1938. Rainfall for the first four months of last year were as follows: January, 43, February, 2.51, March, 1.00 and April, .20. This comparison includes the full month of April during 1938.

Blizzard Gets Early Fruit
Much of the early fruit in Motley County orchards was damaged or destroyed by the blizzard which swept over this section Thursday, covering the ground with cold.

Motley County Places 6 Boys In CCC Camp

Matador Has Good Showing At Childress

Mrs. Algie Groves, County Case Supervisor accompanied six Motley county boys to Memphis, Texas, Thursday, where they were accepted for enrollment in Veterans' Camp, CCC Co. No. 1821, for assignments to either the National Park division located at Denver, Colorado, or the State Park, at Craig, Colorado.

Three hundred and ninety Texas youths were enrolled at this time, Mrs. Groves stated, of which around 15 will be located at camp near Perryton, Texas; 50 to Carlsbad, New Mexico, and the remainder to camps in Colorado. This was the largest enrollment from this section in some time, she said.

The boys who were enrolled from this county were, Eugene Van Dyke, T. H. McCain and Edward Breeland, of Matador, Emmett Jackson, Roaring Springs, Lloyd Russell, Flomot, and Raymond Thomas, Northfield.

MATADOR GOLF CLUB PREPARES FOR SEASON

The Matador Golf Club began plans and preparations for a successful season in a meeting held Friday afternoon for the purpose of organizing for the year. W. N. (Bill) Pipkin was unanimously elected president of the body, and committees were appointed and began functioning immediately.

C. A. Pitts and Pat Sheridan, on the finance committee, reported 30 or more members paying dues for the ensuing year, while the Claude Harp, C. M. Glenn and Roy Burleson comprised a committee to supervise work on the greens and general improvement of the course.

The lease contract was renewed with J. E. Jameson, owner of the land on which the course is located, for another year beginning April 1, and a contract given E. R. (Red) Henderson for work on the greens to include oiling and screening the sand. Other work to be done will be fairway improvement, which will include re-placing all old equipment with new cups, flags and markers.

The Matador Golf Club is one of the most active, considering the size of the community, in this section, boasting a live membership and an excellent course.

CITY PUMP TO GET REPAIRS

The large Pomona turbine pump which supplies water for the city of Matador is being repaired in Lubbock today according to Howard Edmondson, city secretary. The big pump, upon which rests the responsibility of lifting over 50,000 gallons of water daily to meet the demands of Matador water users, has shown some loss of efficiency, probably due to wear caused by sand, Mr. Edmondson said. A three-day supply of water is in reserve in event work on the pump should require more time than is expected. Both the 100,000-gallon underground storage and the 50,000-gallon elevated water tank are full.

Will Meyers Back From Long Trek Of Pony Express

Matador Has Good Showing At Childress

Willie Meyers, sponsor of the Motley county winning entry in the Nocona to Oakland Pony Express race, accompanied by Billie Meyers, Jr., Elwood Bird, the cook, and the two now famous horses, "Rocket" and "Ranger" returned to the home range Friday. Shannon Davidson, the youthful rider who pushed his mounts across the goal line over 100 miles ahead of the nearest contender to win 750 silver dollars and national recognition, remained in Hollywood to make screen tests. Mr. Meyers said yesterday that Davidson's chances of being offered a film contract seemed favorable and after deliberation he decided to remain in the film capital until the return of the tests had been announced.

Many See Horses
The return of the Meyers automobile and trailer which hauled the two horses back on the long trail they had blazed to the west coast, attracted much attention upon arrival in Matador. The horses were the center of interest, however, and were visited throughout the afternoon by curious groups who seemed content just to see the animals which had endured the trek from the plains of Texas to the shores of the Pacific. Mr. Meyers answered questions rapidly as friends sought the answers to many arguments that had ensued while the race was in progress.

Von Wiegand Spotted Hitler As A Man of Destiny

BACK in 1921, when the staff of Adolf Hitler began to rise in the firmament of future headlines, newspapermen in Europe laughed at the funny-looking Austrian house-painter with the rattle-brained voice and Chaplinesque moustache. But Karl H. von Wiegand refused to laugh. He was able to perceive that beneath Hitler's physical insignificance, there was something about the man, a certain mystic quality, that marked him for destiny.

Karl von Wiegand, Dean of American Foreign Correspondents, is the Cosmopolitan of the month in the April Cosmopolitan. His biographer, Frazier Hunt, himself a world-famous newspaperman, calls von Wiegand the unofficial American Ambassador of Good Will to the people of almost every country on earth.

For twenty-five years von Wiegand has been acting in this capacity, as well as a maker of history and a recorder of its stirring events. His start in life was humble; no silver spoon was placed in his mouth at birth. Born into obscurity on an Iowa farm, he packed up at the age of twelve and ran away from home. But he was soon found, brought back and put to work again. In less than a year he was off once more, determined to find his way in life far from the ties of a farmhouse. It was not until he was seventeen that his parents heard he was still alive.

By then he had become a telegraph operator; but his high ideal was journalism. He spent all his spare time studying history, biography and international affairs. He devoted special attention to the rise of Germany in the nineteenth century, sensing that before long that nation and England would clash for supremacy of the world. And nothing, he vowed, would keep him out of it when the clash occurred. In a short while he justified his great faith in himself. The head of a news agency came to California; von Wiegand went to see him, told his astonished listener war was inevitable in Europe, and asked for the job as correspondent in Germany. The brilliance of his reasoning proved irresistible. He got the job. This was his start. He moved fast. In an incredibly short time the name of Karl von Wiegand was a by-word the width and breadth of Europe and America.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

YOUR CAMERA LENS

A camera with an anastigmat lens, f.6.3 or faster, is a great help in obtaining clear, sharp indoor pictures such as this.

TAKING first-rate snapshots requires good eyes. One is your "eye for pictures," your ability to recognize a picture when you see it. The other is your camera's "eye"—its lens.

You can train your "eye for pictures." The more snapshots you take, the better you learn to see a picture chance when it confronts you. But, once you have chosen a subject, it is up to your camera's "eye" to record it clearly and sharply.

Lenses on most box type or fixed-focus cameras are remarkably good, at the price. But the finest camera lenses are known as "anastigmats." They are fast—let in a greater amount of light than the ordinary lens—enabling you to take pictures under adverse conditions, on dull days and at night. And they produce negatives with needle-sharp detail over the entire picture area. Negatives made with anastigmat lenses yield splendid enlargements.

The word "anastigmat" is usually stamped on the mounting of these lenses. It is something like the "Sterling" mark on silver. Actually it means "free from astigmatism." The speed of the lens is also indicated, in the form of an "f-number," such as f.6.3, f.4.5 or f.2.

This speed is important. An f.6.3 anastigmat lens is four or five times as fast as the average box-camera lens. This extra speed makes snapshots possible in dull weather, and with small photo bulbs at night. Again, an f.4.5 anastigmat lens is twice as fast as the f.6.3. And on the better-grade miniature cameras, one finds fast lenses rated at f.3.5 or f.2—so fast that they take snapshots at night by ordinary room light, when the camera is loaded with high speed film.

The smaller the "f-number," the faster the lens. Always remember this, when you examine a camera. And when you get a finer camera, with fast lens, treat the lens as carefully as you would a jewel. Don't smear it with fingerprints; clean it occasionally with a soft lintless cloth. If you treat your camera's lens well, it will repay you with many better pictures.

THE RAID—

Then one day the long-expected happened—the convent was raided. The alarming news swept thru the convent like a prairie fire. All hurried as quickly as they could to this room to don their civilian clothes and flee to safety. But age exacted its tribute from the elderly nuns—some over eighty. These were unable to escape due to their lack of agility. Eighteen nuns were apprehended in this raid. Those who escaped sought refuge with their sympathetic friends who concealed them; others fled for Mexico City while others fled the country for foreign parts.

RETURN—

It is a well-known fact that a murderer has a yearning to return to the place of his crime, so it was with some of the nuns who had escaped.

The convent was raided in 1934 and some time later, it was opened to the public as one of the interesting sights of Puebla. Then one day some of the nuns who had lived here in secret for years, joined the casual throng of visitors as they flowed through the various rooms in which they had their being. But on beholding once again their former haunts, emotion overcame some of them—too many poignant memories had crowded in upon them—with the result that some of them became hysterical and had to be led away lest they betray their real selves.

MORE ROOMS—

In the refectory the thing that impressed me the most was the grand piano. Here after dinner it was their wont to foregather about it and sing. It must have been an appreciated and pleasant interlude in their hard, austere lives—this post-prandial ensemble singing.

In still another room I saw a number of life-like figures seated about a table in the manner of the Last Supper. On the walls hung so-called paintings on velvet. The subjects were, of course, Holy themes—"The Garden of Gethsamane", "Magdalene Washing the Feet of Christ" et cetera. But these were no mere daubs on velvet. Cartoons had first been drawn on white velvet then color was applied in the form of dyes to simulate a painting. The result was startling in its beauty and originality.

SECRET DOOR—

What looked ostensibly to be an ordinary book-shelf in one of the rooms, resolved itself into a secret door which led on to a balcony overlooking the interior of the adjacent church. Here thru a heavy grill the nuns could follow the religious services held in the church below—could see, without being seen.

In one of the rooms I saw a hideous looking object that was preserved in a glass jar filled with alcohol. It was the heart which once had beaten in the breast of one of the bishops connected with this place. It might have been, no doubt it was, an object of great veneration but it most certainly was not a thing of beauty to contemplate—this "pickled" heart. One look sufficed and I marched on.

PANTEON—

A subterranean passage led down to a panteon in the basement. Here in niches in the wall, lie the remains of the many nuns who once resided in this convent. Owing to lack of space, when a nun joined her deceased sisters, the oldest one—in point of interest—was removed from her niche to make room for the new comer; her head was then cut off to be placed with other skulls while the remainder of her skeleton found a resting place elsewhere. The skulls were placed in crypts under the flooring while the other bones were piled on a bone heap. A nice cheerful place to spend your honeymoon—but personally I had no particular hankering to remain long in these precincts.

VALE—

I finally emerged from it all—once more I was outside breathing the fresh air again, feeling the warm welcome rays of the sun feeling a gentle breeze blowing against my cheek. Soon I had joined the human maelstrom as it swirled through the streets, eddied around corners. Behind me I had left a maze of rooms surcharged with a feeling of things macabre, filled with a musty religious secretiveness, with religious fervor, self-inflicted pain, all this, somehow, did not seem fit into the present scheme of things.

But be that as it may, I was very glad that I had the opportunity to visit this secret convent, it made a deep impression on my mind—one, I shall not soon forget.

If all the world were flooded

And I were going to die,

I'd stand upon my history

For it is always dry!

ANCHORS AWEIGH

BY MARSHALL FISKE

HOLE—

Now we come to a place—a mere aperture in the lower wall, that, in order to negotiate it, it was necessary for us to lie down resting on our palms and the tips of our toes. In this manner we proceeded to lurch through this hole. Pantingly, and somewhat disheveled, I emerged into a small chapel.

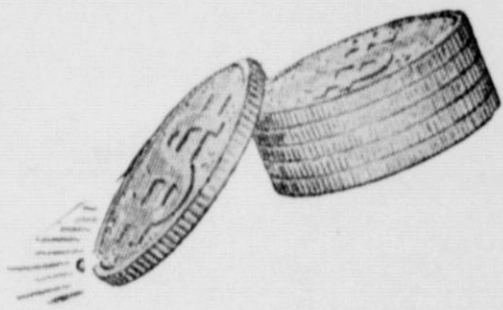

On the walls were paintings that showed how these nuns "acted" while in here.

Each carried a huge wooden cross on her back, a rope about her neck, a crown of thorns pressed into her head. Everytime they came before one of the Stations of the Cross, they beat themselves on their backs with the rope, pressing the crown of thorns farther into their flesh. Simulating in this manner, the agonies that He suffered on the road to Golgotha. To some minds all these cruel practices might be considered in the nature of machochistic flagellations.

ANOTHER HOLE—

In one of the rooms, a hole in the floor led down to a very dark subterranean one. This room was reserved for the nuns when they meditated on death. In this room was an altar covered with a black cloth on which reposed a skull beneath an over-hanging electric light bulb. There was a figure of a nun kneeling before it—in prayer and meditation. Along the walls in the gloom, one could make out garments. These were donned by the nuns when they came into this funeral chamber. Nearby hung their civilian clothes, which they would don in case the convent were raided by the authorities. After that they could pass

Industrial Health

Much has been written lately about occupational diseases. Attention has been called especially to the danger of silicosis, caused by inhalation of silica dust. When complicated by tuberculosis, development of which it seems to favor, silicosis often causes total and permanent disability.

For some time most of the larger industries have been aware of the need for health work, including preventive efforts, in their plants. Industrial leaders realize that stockholders, as well as workers, lose when sickness occurs. But owners and managers of many of the smaller plants have maintained that they could not afford health services for their employees.

Today, however, there is an increasing recognition of the value of industrial health work. Employers realize not only that no one can work when he is disabled by sickness but also that no one can work efficiently unless his physical machine is operating more or less normally. This trend, in addition to making places for more company doctors, is leading to better co-operation between industry and the medical profession and public health agencies. Dallas News.

Since the first goldfish was brought to the United States in 1878, a tremendous industry has developed in their production. Today nearly 800 "farms", scattered over the country, produce more than 20,000,000 goldfish annually.

Sportsmen's Tax Fund Claimed for Wildlife By National Federation

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The voice of conservation in America will be raised emphatically during the present session of congress, it was announced today from headquarters of the National Wildlife Federation.

The legislative program of the Federation, says Carl D. Shoemaker, executive secretary, calls for the carrying out of the purposes of the Pittman-Robertson act, support of the Izaak Walton League's anti-pollution bill and the setting up of projects for improvement of fishing by the states. A 10 per cent tax on fishing tackle is proposed for this purpose.

The Pittman-Robertson act earmarked excise tax funds from the sale of arms and ammunition for use in the states for wildlife restoration.

States Benefiting

About 20 states already have set up Pittman-Robertson projects approved by the Bureau of Biological Survey.

Through Federation activity, an advance appropriation of $1,000,000 was made to enable these projects to be launched without waiting until June 30, this year, for the tax funds to be available.

Meanwhile the current budget allows $1,000,000 for Pittman-Robertson operations, although it is estimated that there will be on hand $2,250,000 from sportsmen's tax payments. Taking out the advance of $1,000,000, there would be left about $2,250,000 for the nation-wide restoration projects in the states. By the end of 1939, more than 40 states probably will be in line for Pittman-Robertson benefits, consisting basically of research and of land management for the increase of valuable wildlife.

The excise tax on sporting arms and ammunition now requires legislative renewal every two years. It automatically expires next June. It is proposed to make the tax permanent.

Wildlife Refuge Earnings

There are nearly 300 wildlife refuges administered by the Bureau of Biological Survey. Many of them yield incomes, from hay crops, fur and various leases. This income now goes into the Federal treasury, and will amount within the next year or two to between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000. The Federation urges that this sum be earmarked for administration of the refuge system.

The Izaak Walton League has again brought to Congress a bill for the control of stream pollution on a national scale. This is in line with one of the declarations of policy made at the time the National Wildlife Federation was formed. In the last congress an anti-pollution bill, sponsored by the Izaak Walton League, was amended until it lost all effectiveness, and was vetoed by the President.

The Federation gives its full support to this new measure. "At the proper moment," Mr. Shoemaker explains, "the State Federations and their affiliated organizations, such as sportsmen's clubs, Garden Clubs, youth groups, farmers and business men, will be given full information as to what is pending, and what should be done to help. Then, they can follow the recommendations of the Federation if they see fit.

"The Federation is a servicing body, with two aims—keeping the public informed what is doing politically in relation to wildlife, and building up an adequate program of education in the funds mental of conservation."

Special Election Notice

TO THE SHERIFF OR ANY CONSTABLE OF THE CITY OF MATADOR, TEXAS, GREETING:

You are Hereby Commanded to notify, by posting this notice, the qualified voters who are property tax payers of Matador, Motley County, that a Special Election will be held on Saturday, the 29th day of April, A. D. 1939, at the City Hall in Matador, Motley County, Texas, for the following purposes, viz:

To determine whether or not improvement bonds in the amount of Six Thousand Dollars ($6,000) shall be issued for the pavement of streets in the city of Matador, to wit: two blocks on Dundee Street between Commerce Street and Bundy Street, and two blocks on Main Street between Stewart Street and Bailey Street, said bonds to bear interest at the rate of not more than 4 1/2 per cent annually and to mature serially within ten years from the issuance thereof; and to provide for the payment of said bonds and the interest thereon by the assessment of a property tax at the rate of ten cents per One Hundred Dollars property valuation, which said assessment is sufficient for said purpose.

G. T. Edwards, Mayor, City of Matador, Motley County, Texas.

Fire Chiefs To Receive Grapefruit

Clay Gilbert chief of the Matador Fire Department, is in receipt of information from the Lower Rio Grande Valley fire chiefs that each delegate to the State convention of the State Firemen's and Fire Marshals' Association of Texas, will be given some choice Valley grapefruit as he registers for the convention.

The annual convolve of firemen is attended by an average of 2500 delegates and visitors and is to be held in the Lower Rio Grande Valley, with headquarters at Harlingen, on June 13-14-15 of this year.

"damaging" to Poland if that country ceased to respect German rights, and adding a reference to Poland's precarious geographical position.

Charges of Polish violence against Germany, similar to those which preceded other coups, have now been made in the controlled press of the Third Reich although even German newspapers in Poland reported no such violence. But Poland has long been preparing itself for cries on either or both of its eastern and western borders.

Because of the exposed nature of these borders Polish military authorities have always emphasized the need of strong and efficient organization for defense. Many who doubted whether the Czechs would fight if pressed by Germany yet hold the opinion that the Poles will. If this opinion permeates to Berlin, the prediction "Poland next" may yet be found mistaken. The strategy of bloodless conquest requires its followers to prod the line of its intended victim's resistance to find the soft spots. The Poles have long promised themselves that Poland will not be one of these. Yet as Germany presses on Poland from the northwest and the south the question mark grows.—Christian Science Monitor.

Poland Next?

"Poland is Not Czechia", "Danzig is Not Memel", said the signs that polish housewives of Teschen carried in an anti-Reich demonstration the other day. The placards were intended not to carry a geography lesson, however, but a political point.

Though Poland was the first of the Central European Powers to withdraw from France's post-Versailles ring around Germany, by signing a ten-year nonaggression pact with the Germans in 1934, Poles have never entertained any illusions about their position. Their efforts to continue good relations with Russia and France as well as Germany illustrate Polish realism. Talk of their foreign minister's going to London soon, indicates the Polish Government's increasing concern about its future on a Continent dominated by the Third Reich.

Events of the last few weeks justify that concern. When Reich's Führer Hitler crossed racial borders to absorb Bohemia and Moravia and to put Slovakia at German disposal, best-informed circles were saying that the next chapter of National Socialist history probably would be written on the Polish frontier. Herr Hitler's sudden move to reincorporate Memel into the Reich supported this opinion.

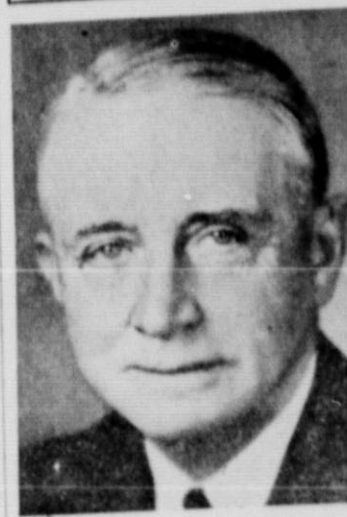

Those familiar with the prelude of calm before the storming, can read between the lines of an Associated Press dispatch from Berlin which states that "a disclaimer of any Nazi intentions of aggression against uneasy Poland was voiced by the semi-official mouth piece of the German Foreign Office." A few hours later the Deutsche Diplomatisch-Politische Korrespondenz, taking up another tune, was saying it might be

Texas Banker on Job Fifty Years Will Celebrate

NATHAN ADAMS

Nathan Adams, president of the First National Bank in Dallas and leader in cotton and oil financing, will celebrate fifty years of continuous service with the bank April 19 to 21, inclusive. Adams went with the bank April 22, 1889, after a few months clerking for the Texas & Pacific Railroad in Dallas. His bank, today, is the largest in the Southwest and ranks 60th in the nation. Born in Pulaski, Giles county, Tenn., Adams came to Texas in December, 1888, and was elected president of the bank in 1924. He has held many positions of state and national importance; was a member of the original Federal Home Loan Board, president of the Texas Bankers' Association, committeeman for American Bankers' Association and director for United States Chamber of Commerce. During World War he organized hundreds of savings societies under direction of Treasury Department. Two dinners and an afternoon of open house are scheduled for the Adams golden anniversary. Notable industrialists and financiers from over the nation are being invited.

Chief Gilbert was advised that Valley firemen have selected several tons of choice Valley grapefruit which has been placed in cold storage and as each delegate registers he will be handed several of the famous fruit.

Because the Rio Grande Valley is so near the Gulf of Mexico, the cool sea breezes and opportunity for swimming and fishing is expected to cause many of the visiting firemen to take their families to make a summer vacation of the annual visit to the coast.

SOCIETY WRITER SPURNS SOCIETY

"I've given the best years of my life to Society," says Inez Gal- Robb. "Would I, after eleven years of constant association and devotion, like to be a full-time bona fide member of it. No, I would not. I must have my own life. All Society has always seemed to me a dull, lifeless, and petty dull club to me." With this revelation, the famous society writer, sums up her attitude toward the social set in May Cosmopolitan's social story, "A Pair of White Wings."

Society is changing and being reformed. Miss Robb goes on to say, "Outside and inside influences, and Federal taxes make the fortune heir to multiplied millions. Yachts, mansions, private racing stables and other monarchical pleasures are becoming a thing of the past because few can pass on the wealth they can maintain them. The serious problem is increasingly difficult. The day of the great host and social leader is at an end. The younger generation prefers a direct and simple approach to life and the decline of inheritance is making this approach necessary."

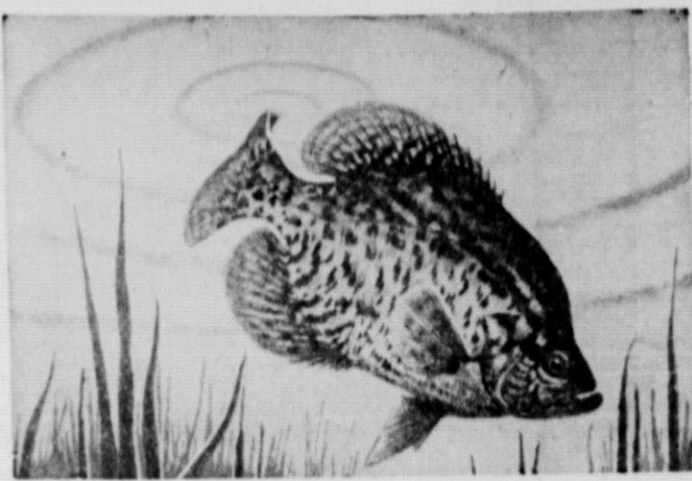

The fabulous success of Elsa Maxwell has grown out of the inability of society to entertain itself. Inez is convinced that the acquisition of wealth is usually accompanied by the loss of two of mankind's precious boons: imagination and a sense of humor. Miss Maxwell supplied society with these two boons. Persons who can lighten for one moment that ennui induced by too much money and too little imagination are worth their weight in gold to a group which long ago gave up all effort to hide its yawns when face to face with itself," Miss Robb says in discussing Elsa Maxwell.

ELSA MAXWELL

Society in 1939 is showing a few encouraging signs, the writer believes. There is no longer such a thing as a social arbiter. The throne is vacant because none of the younger socialites have thought it worth bothering about. Class lines are being broken down to admit exponents of various talents. But society still needs to get more for its money. Miss Robb says in conclusion, "Riches ought to be good for something beside a ringside table and a Winchell footnote."

Democratic and Popular

One of the best known pan fish in America is the crappie, painted for the 1939 Wildlife Week stamps by Fred Everett. A vote taken among sportsmen and outdoor writers showed that the crappie rated right up with the most aristocratic game fish in popularity, although a crappie a foot long and weighing a pound and a half is a real big one.

Through the hall of honor a large entrance lobby leads to an elevator which will whisk visitors up through the shaft to the observation tower. The shaft is 47 feet square at the base and tapers to 30 feet at the top. Its total weight is 70-

300,000 pounds. Mural paintings, the subjects of which have not yet been definitely decided upon, will adorn the plastered portions, above the marble finish, in the Museum of Historical Relics.

The cost of the project, not including the statuary, paintings, and exhibits, has run well over a million dollars. This cost is borne equally by the state, the Public Works Administration, the Works Progress Administration and the Federal Government through a direct grant.

Every day that the sun shines, it pushes the San Jacinto Memorial away from it, first to the west, and then toward the east.

That sounds impossible, doesn't it? But the sun's heat expands the huge stones on the side that it is shining from, causing the largest stone monument to lean away from it. The wind sways the giant shaft about two inches when it's blowing hard, but it could be swayed several feet without damage.

An idea of its actual height may be gained by one electing to climb the 850 steps leading from the basement to the observation tower. It took a young Houston athlete 15 minutes to make this journey and 10 to descend.

When the shaft is dedicated, the grounds will present a picture of beauty almost unbelievable to those who remember its wood-covered hills. Many improvements already have been made. A new highway system has been built, with roadways offering easy access to the many historical monuments and markers that dot the grounds.

WORLD'S LARGEST MASONRY MONUMENT
STANDS AT SAN JACINTO BATTLEFIELD

Structure To Contain Thousands of Texas Relics

According to George A. Hill, Jr., president of the San Jacinto Museum of History Association, patriotic societies throughout the world have been invited to participate in the celebration of Texas' one hundred and third anniversary.

On April 21—General Sam Houston won the sixteenth most decisive battle in world's history.

On April 20 and 21, this year, the younger generation is going to do something about it.

Mr. H. Jones, chairman of the San Jacinto Finance Corporation, felt that there should be a memorial, which he planned to erect on the battlefield.

Today there stands upon the San Jacinto Battleground a shaft, taller than any masonry monument in the entire world. The shaft was dedicated to Gen. Houston and his tiny band of patriots who wrested Texas' independence from Mexico.

This vast structure, whose height is 12 feet higher than that of the Washington Monument, is to be found literally thousands of miles of Texas of yesterday.

The San Jacinto Memorial stands 567 feet above the hallow-ground in this state park. The memorial is reinforced concrete with variegated golden buff limestone, quarried near the state capital. Polished limestone is used for the interior, and brown rock for the exterior. Limestone is of shell formation and takes a high polish, which makes it appear quite like Travertine marble.

The idea of the immense size of the monument may be gained by a scrutiny of the huge star at its apex. This star is 35 feet high and 27 feet in breadth, and weighs 220 tons. Yet, from the ground it appears to be a mere plaything.

The foundation of this memorial was built to last through the centuries. In it was 120 carloads of gravel, 90 carloads of sand, 25 carloads of cement and 11 carloads of steel. It is 124 feet square and 15 feet thick.

The base has two broad approach terraces. One rises six feet and has a spread of 224 feet. The base building is 124 feet square and 36 feet high. The entrance to this is through a hall of honor 44 by 45 feet, in which niches are provided for the statues of pioneer men and women who, by their courage, stamina, faith and patience, fashioned an empire state from the heritage of the montezumas.

To the left of this hall of honor will be a museum of historical relics—a room 36 by 103 feet. The exhibits will offer wide insight into the settlement of the state as well as evidence of the deeds of heroes of the turbulent days in Texas.

Upon entering the museum, one doffs the raiment of today and travels back through the corridors of time and meets General Houston, Davey Crockett, and other of the boys who made Texas Texas.

At the right of the hall of honor is a meeting hall and art gallery of the same size as the museum hall. Here will hang portraits of the early settlers of note and depictions of scenes in the state's history.

At the rear of the base building is an amphitheatre seating more than 5000. On the opposite side is a lagoon wherein the shaft will be mirrored from base to tip.

Survey Made Of Statewide Welfare Work

A recent statewide survey made to determine the service rendered to a county by its County Welfare Workers, reveals the following statistics as furnished by Mrs. Rita Groves, Motley county welfare worker.

Through the county case worker and no other avenue, 314,000 Texas families have been certified for WPA since 1935.

The county case workers have selected 110,000 boys for CCC since 1935, adding over $5,000,000 in incomes to needy Texas families. In April enrollment between 5,000 and 6,000 boys will be selected to add at least $110,000 in incomes to their dependents.

The families certified for food and clothing from the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation received $9,676,736.20 worth of goods during 1938, an average of $14.65 per family per month.

County case workers certify youths to NYA and resident projects for NYA and also train NYA youths for office work.

Texas county case workers assist in the care of the 75,000 families of unemployables, through local and community aid. They also aid in securing hospital and medical care for indigents.

Many Families Need Aid

The survey shows that 350,000 Texas families need public assistance and that 20,000 families are eligible for aid to 51,000 dependent children. Texas has 3,000 needy blind persons.

The following services are provided by the county welfare workers: Referral of Children's problems to child welfare; Crippled children to that division; adults to vocational rehabilitation; tuberculars to state sanatorium; psychopaths to state hospital and referral of veterans to hospitals and CCC.

Social research for penal institutions, both state and federal; Cooperative exchange for out of town inquiries, interstate and interstate agencies. Research for community needs. Employment agency. Interpretative medium and liaison office between county and Works Progress Administration.

Boy Scouts Building World's Fair Camp

Layout of the two-acre Boy Scout camp at the New York World's Fair, to be used by 3900 different Scouts and leaders from all sections of the United States during the Fair season.

Any qualified member of the Boy Scouts of America may apply for an opportunity to take part in a unique demonstration and service camp at the New York World's Fair. Dr. James E. West, Chief Scout Executive of the National Council, Boy Scouts of America, has announced. The plan for a Scout camp of approximately 150 different Scouts and leaders each week, on a two-acre site within the Fair grounds from April 10 to October 31, was approved by the World's Fair Corporation and the National Council, Boy Scouts of America.

The camp, to be located immediately adjacent to the Federal Building, will accommodate four Troops of 32 Scouts and four leaders. Each site will be equipped with tents of various colors and designs. There will be a large tent for the display of Scouting including woodcraft, handicraft and campcraft. There will be opportunity for Troops that have produced outstanding articles of handicraft and campcraft to have them shown in this tent at the World's Fair and the exhibit will represent the finest craftsmanship so far developed by Scouts.

Near this tent there will be an open area for flag ceremonies, together with a rustic amphitheatre for dramatics and other spectacular demonstrations and a dining hall with full equipment.

Totem Pole at Gateway
The gateway is to be an imposing one with a 40 foot totem pole. The headquarters building will serve as the administration center for the camp, and a stockade will surround the entire camp area. In line with the symphony of colors of the World's Fair the Scout camp will be most colorful with the flying flags of all Scout nations waving aloft, a symbol of world brotherhood and a friendly greeting to visitors from all over the world.

Contacts with Officials
Service projects will be an important part of a Scout's program during four or five hours each day. This will put Scouts in touch with the management of the enterprise, and they will have many occasions to meet the distinguished persons involved in the Fair.

There will be accommodations for only 3,900 of the 1,271,000 present registered Scout membership, most of whom, judging from requests already on hand, would like to avail themselves of this privilege. The opportunity will be open to Scouts in any part of the United States who meet the standards prescribed by the National Council, and preference will be given to applications in the order of their receipt.

All camp reservations must be made through local Scout Councils and not directly with the National Council.

Farmer's Fearless Friend

Indian warriors sometimes fastened skunk skins to their heels to tell the world, "I run from no man." Skunks are valuable not only for their fur, but are, with moles, the only enemies of various species of burrowing plant pests. Skunks also are great mousers, and destroy the eggs of snapping turtles. Some species of skunk is found in almost every state. This skunk picture in the 1939 Wildlife Week stamp series is from the brush of Lynn Bogue Hunt, famous painter and illustrator.

Tire Dealer Attends Meet At Abilene

An active spring and summer tire advertising and sales campaign will be undertaken soon by more than 33,000 U. S. independent tire dealers throughout the nation. Mr. L. B. Robertson, local U. S. tire dealer, reports following his return from Abilene, where he attended the annual district sales meeting of U. S. Tire Dealers Corporation.

"Tire line simplification in the passenger field," Mr. Robertson said, "has been further improved by the U. S. organization through concentration of its manufacturing and sales activities on a fewer number of tire lines. This simplification is a boon not only to dealers, but also to consumers, for the former does not have to stock, and the latter, when buying, is not confused by an over-lapping array of variously priced tires."

Dealers, Mr. Robertson added, were especially impressed with the new, advanced U. S. Royal Raymaster tire for trucks and buses, which was introduced and previewed at the meeting. This tire, with its fabric of improved rayon, heat-resisting cord, was described as "one providing the additional mileage that today's truck owners require, and embodying features that assure substantial savings to operators." The outlook for tire replacement sales, particularly in the passenger car field, Mr. Robertson said, is exceptionally encouraging and all dealers attending the meeting reported signs of increasing business during the month to come.

Maybe We Can Help You 'Make Up Your Mind'

There Is a Solution to Every Electrical Problem

Your Electric Servant Offers these

FREE SERVICES

"I wish I could make up my mind" is a common complaint. It is then you need the seasoned experience of an expert if your problem concerns electrical usage. That is why Your Electric Servant maintains a staff of trained men and women at vantage points throughout West Texas, available to you almost at a moment's notice. Their services are FREE. They will help you. In addition to industrial power engineers, serving cotton gin, oil and gas producers, and similar industries, this company offers you a service of lighting advisers, air conditioning experts, and home economy specialists to assist in planning your all-electric kitchen. Either telephone or mail the clipping below, to our nearest local manager if you need any of the free services listed here.

F. H. A. INFORMATION—In most cases you can include modern kitchen equipment. F. H. A. loans for building or reconditioning homes. Electric appliances, giving you ALL-ELECTRIC kitchen with the cost included in the F. H. A. loan, may be purchased on this low-interest, long-term arrangement.

KITCHEN PLANNING—If building a new home or remodeling, let us help arrange the kitchen to save steps, time and labor. Complete plans in color will be drawn (free of charge) so that you may have an exact picture of your kitchen before construction begins.

LIGHTING ADVISORS—Educational work in the lighting field, helping you to eliminate glare, injurious to eyesight, and the proper placement of IES lamps and usage of lamp shades, as well as information as to proper-sized bulbs, is a free service.

ELECTRIC COOKERY—One of the home economists is located in your vicinity to help you obtain all the many benefits of the electric range. Her service is free. She gladly will visit your home and provide any information you may need, i. e., home-canning, menu-planning, operation of the range, or similar varied usages.

AIR CONDITIONING—If you plan to air condition either one room or your entire home, office or business firm, let us help make a free survey and obtain for you complete information about equipment and costs. It is particularly desirable to "plan ahead" if building or remodeling. You can save on wiring and air duct expense.

ELECTRIC REFRIGERATION—It is essential to plan for the future. The size of the refrigerator and its location should be based on your individual requirements with regard to convenience and step-saving. Our refrigeration engineers will assist you with either residential or commercial problems. Their services are free.

INVITE A FRIEND TO VISIT WEST TEXAS

Tourists annually spend approximately $10,000,000 in West Texas. This amount might easily be doubled. Invite friends to other states to visit, or pass through, West Texas on their way to or from World's Fairs during 1939. Tell them about the wonderful climate, the fine highway and railway transportation, and the scenic beauty of West Texas. Remember: When you write 'em, invite 'em to visit, West Texas, the Land of Opportunity!

Texas Rudimentals

By Frank L. Perrin

Austin, Texas
A new school of political thought has been evolved from political, economic and public relief problems in Texas since the administration of James S. Hogg, Governor of Texas some forty years ago, down through the terms of Colquitt, Moody, the Fergusons and many others, all the changes have been rung on the tuncel and the discordant political theme. It cannot be said that Texas has always been well governed, or that it has always been honestly governed. It can be said today, with the advent of Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel, that so far as he is able to direct and determine the course of events the State will be honestly governed. Whether or not it will be well governed will depend, from present indications, upon the improbable success of efforts now only indifferently attempted, to compose vital differences between the Executive and the Legislature.

Governor O'Daniel, as I appraise him, is neither a unique nor an unknown political entity. He staged a spectacular campaign but it won for him quite unexpectedly, a distinction and an opportunity for signal service. He may be among the first to admit that he was not in all ways prepared to undertake the responsibilities thrust upon him. Texas is a large State, both in area and in population. Its industries and resources are varied and important. Its people, while predominantly Democratic in the older and more commonly accepted meaning of that term, are not predominately of the newer faith. The people have not been aided or been made more prosperous by the formulas prescribed and administered nationally. Their economic problems remain to be solved, many of the people of Texas agree, by themselves.

Governor O'Daniel evidently is convinced that those of the older, as well as the newer political school, are not, merely because they are politicians, able or overly desirous of bringing order out of the present economic chaos. He disclaims any political astuteness or any political ambitions. As to national problems he professes no knowledge sufficient to qualify him as critic or adviser. He acknowledges that his work as Governor is all that he can undertake at the moment.

It is encouraging that this sense of individual responsibility prevails without a single exception among all the Chief Executives interviewed on this trip through the States from the Lakes to the Gulf. The conviction seems to have been reached that there is no universal or national panacea which will correct the mistakes voluntarily made in the effort to overcome an economic dislocation that has been adjusted time and again by homely and perhaps inexperienced processes.

Somewhat to the surprise of the people of Texas, and especially those who voted for him in November last, Governor O'Daniel has espoused the cause of the Townsend school of pensioners. He is seeking to persuade the Legislature to submit for ratification by the people of Texas a Constitutional amendment providing for pensions for all who retire or in need after they have reached a prescribed age indicated as sixty-five. The money to meet this demand would be raised by a transactions tax levied upon all sales or transactions, as was proposed by Dr. Townsend and his supporters.

The issue has been raised suddenly and unexpectedly, because it was known that prior to his election Governor O'Daniel was opposed to the pension plan now proposed. In fact I am not at all certain that he is not still opposed to it. Of one thing there is no doubt; he is determined to take the issue out of politics if this is possible. He would freeze the system into the State Constitution if it is adopted and make it impossible for it to become the casual football of politicians and office-seekers. As an indication of the political sagacity of the Governor himself, it may be accepted as convincing evidence that he is somewhat of a politician himself.

It is extremely doubtful, taking a long view ahead, that the measure proposed, if submitted as a Constitutional amendment, will be adopted. The problems of public relief and public expenditures are the handy playthings of politicians and political campaigners. Why should Governor O'Daniel be allowed to take relief out of politics?—Christain Science Monitor.

Easter Rites Unite Couple

Rites were performed on Easter Sunday, April 9, at Carlsbad, New Mexico, uniting in marriage Miss Adele Burleson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Burleson, of Matador, and Stafford Forbis, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Forbis, of Afton. The nuptials were read at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mack Glouhin.

Following the ceremony, the couple left for a ten-day wedding trip that will include Carlsbad Caverns, El Paso, Texas, Juarez, Mexico, and other points of interest. They will then make their home at Afton, Texas.

The bride attended Texas Technological College, Lubbock for two years following her graduation from Matador High School in '32. She then completed a business course at Draughon's Business College at Wichita Falls. She is employed as City School Tax Collector and will continue to hold this position until the present school term expires.

Mr. Forbis attended Texas Tech for three and one-half years. He is the son of a prominent rancher of the Afton community, and is engaged with his father in the ranching business.

The Tribune joins with their many friends in wishing the couple much success and happiness.

rain which changed to sleet and snow. Apricot trees in particular suffered from the passing glap of winter. In some instances the fruit was as large as marbles, while other trees were in bloom.

Part of the plum and peach crop is believed to escaped damage, according to farmers.

A fresh norther swept into the section late Tuesday and again sent mercury tumbling but it is believed that besides the inconvenience of again building fires, there were no other ill-effects.

the good will and favors extended by friends back home. They were the ones whom we knew we could always depend upon; of those we met, we were not certain. I am especially grateful to Sheriff L. A. Carlisle for allowing deputy sheriff H. H. Courtney a leave of absence to come to our aid. And I am equally grateful to Mr. Courtney for hurrying to our aid at his own expense and with no thought in mind but to be of service to us. I am positive we would not have been successful had not Mr. Courtney arrived to aid us when he did and to him and all responsible in any way for the encouragement and services rendered us, we want to express our appreciation. The friends back home made our success possible."

Mr. Meyers said that he had not received a message from Davidson since Sunday but that he expected to receive word that he had secured a contract or that he was returning, immediately.

And now "Ranger" and "Rocket" are nipping the tender sage tops and the wild rye on their home range north of Matador in the Foley community, none the worse from one of the most extraordinary trips ever attempted horseback.

PENDERGAST IS INDICTED

Nearly 50 years ago, before he was old enough to vote, Tom Pendergast of Kansas City went into politics, "because it looked like a good business", but today he stands indicted by a federal grand jury on a charge of failing to pay income tax.

Specifically the charge alleges that Pendergast failed to pay on $135,000 received in connection with settlement made in insurance litigation. R. Emmett O'Malley, insurance commissioner, has also been indicted. A few weeks ago a county grand jury indicted Pendergast henchman.

Pendergast, the old-time type of politician who rules with the mailed fist, used to say that the only thing a political organization could do was to furnish jobs. He furnished them. He epitomized it this way: "We feed 'em and we vote 'em". He rose steadily in power, finally controlled at least 100,000 votes and could more or less dictate even gubernatorial elections. He became immensely wealthy.

Young People Hold Service At Northfield

The young people of the Church of Christ had charge of a program last Sunday evening at Northfield. The program consisted of several songs by the young people's quartet, a short lesson by one of the young men, and a very interesting sermon by Minister F. T. Hamilton.

The people of the Northfield community seemed to enjoy the work of the class, and invited them to come back every second Sunday in each month.

Those to attend from Matador were: Maurine Hall, Lois Cook, Mildred Meador, Mosele Duncan, Joe Berry Meador, F. T. Hamilton, Ervin Clower, J. W. Durbin, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter White and daughter, Claudie, of Whiteflat.

The Young People will have charge of the service here Sunday night, April 16. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

to the singing. Due to the warm weather Sunday evening, most of the church windows were opened which provided ample audibility for those outside.

The cantata, "Easter Glory", was composed by R. M. Suits, with the text from the Gospel of St. Matthew and well-known hymns.

A picnic planned by the choral club director, Paul Eubank, as reward for the successful presentation of the cantata, was postponed by inclement weather Tuesday evening and will be held at Roaring Springs Monday evening, April 17th, it was announced.
