

Trite Racket Frauds Many In New Drive Arrest Sought Of Man With Money For School Curtain

The old school curtain racket which itinerant painters have practiced on business firms in the Texas Panhandle for many years, was again used during the past month to fraud Matador and Roaring Springs firms on an undetermined sum according to an investigation being made by County Attorney, Howard Traweck. In this particular instance, however, the school curtain was never authorized, nor was it delivered.

Warrant for the arrest of E. L. Maxey of Brownwood, was filed by M. S. Alvey of Roaring Springs in complaint to County Court yesterday, who declared that the sign painter had obtained $5 from him to paint an advertisement on a curtain to be used in the Roaring Springs school auditorium, and that the curtain had not been delivered. Investigation by County Attorney Traweck showed that Maxey had obtained money from a number of individuals and business firms and that he had left the country.

Gets Money Here
Several Matador firms had also subscribed to the advertising plan and paid for their advertisements or made donations toward the cost of the curtain. Mr. Traweck found that Maxey had secured the aid of a reputable Roaring Springs citizen to solicit the funds, giving him 20 per cent commission. Further investigation showed that the curtain had never been authorized by the Roaring Springs school board, and that the school did not need the curtain, had it been delivered, since one is already installed.

Late yesterday it was known that a total of $21.10 had been obtained for the painting of the curtain.

Many Attend Wildlife Meet At Amarillo Prominent Place Of County In Movement Gets Recognition

Landowners, sportsmen, and others interested in game conservation from all parts of the Texas Plains convened in Amarillo Wednesday afternoon and evening in the greatest movement ever undertaken in this area in the interests of wildlife. Between three and four hundred were present at the banquet and the evening session while a much greater number attended in the afternoon.

Many of Motley County's enthusiastic citizens, who are leading the most significant wildlife conservation development in this part of the state, took part in the meeting. Jim Canon, J. C. Burleson, H. H. Campbell, Fred Simpson, Jack Edwards, W. I. Rushing, Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Reeves, and Mr. and Mrs. Gus Bird are among those who attended.

J. W. Chapman, state game manager, and William J. Tucker, executive secretary of the State Game, Fish and Oyster Commission, were the principal speakers at the banquet Wednesday evening. Other well known authorities on game and fish included Dr. B. B. Harris, dean of North Texas State College, at Denton, H. H. Williamson, director of Texas A. M. College Extension Service, R. E. Callender, game manager.

Jinx Broken As Matadors Are Defeated

The Paducah Dragons broke a five year jinx by defeating the Matador Matadors 26 to 0 at Paducah last Thursday in a conference game that marked the grid finale for both teams for this year. The Dragons roared over a meek Matador 11 for 19 points the first half, then were content to make only one touchdown in the last half.

The Matadors finished the season with three conference wins and against four defeats, while the entire season's record stands as four losses and five victories. This record is more than commendable when the fact is considered that nine of the eleven who took the field against Crosbyton in the season's opener were playing their first high school football game.

Coach Don Martin and his Matadors have done far more than was expected of them, and give evidence that they are to be among the ranking teams of the district at this time next year.

The ladies of the community are reminded of the bazaar which the ladies of the Methodist Missionary Society will hold Saturday, December 10, in the West Texas Utilities building. A food sale will also be held in connection with the sale of needlework. It was announced.

Everyone is extended a cordial invitation to attend the sale and take advantage of the many attractive and useful gifts which will be offered, as well as the culinary delicacies.

SPUR FORFEITS PLACE THROUGH INELIGIBILITY Committee Declares Flomot And Lockney Tied For District

The Executive Committee of District 4-B met again Monday night and ruled that Andy Hurst, reserve guard of the Spur Bulldogs, had violated the transfer rule, and hence, was ineligible. This decision caused Spur to forfeit to their opponents all games in which Hurst had played.

The ruling left Lockney tied with Flomot for the District Championship, but, due to the fact that each team had played its quota of ten games, there could be no playoff. Lockney was named by the Committee as the representative of this district to meet Wellington, winner of District 3-B, at Wellington, Friday, at 2:30.

Three previous meetings of the Committee had failed to produce evidence of Hurst's participation in athletics at other schools, but Monday night that fact was finally established. Two weeks of search had unearthed a picture of the football letterman at Roaring Springs for the school term of 1935-36 in which Hurst is shown with the group. The entire squad is wearing sweaters presented to the team by admiring fans for their season's work.

Both Flomot and Lockney have proved that each is capable of representing any district in a creditable manner. Both possess a powerful running attack and a strong defense. When the district 4-B representative was announced, the Flomot delegation pledged its unanimous support to Lockney in her bid for bi-district honors.

Young People In Charge Of Service Sunday

Services at the Baptist Church Sunday evening will be in charge of the young people, it has been announced, and while the program had not been completed late yesterday, tentative plans give promise of an interesting and inspirational service.

Principal feature of the program will be a complete report of the State B. T. U. Convention which was held in Wichita Falls Thursday and Friday of last week, which was attended by an estimated enrollment of 9000 young people, and religious leaders of the state.

Delegates from Matador, who attended the convention, included Mr. and Mrs. Noble Groves, Mrs. Earl Laughlin, Misses Ora Mae Brandon and Addie Lee Lawrence, and Mr. Dee Cates.

The young people are requested to attend the morning service for special announcements.

BAZAAR TO BE IN CAMPBELL HOME MONDAY

The bazaar which the Baptist W. M. U. will hold Monday, December 5, will be conducted in the home of Mrs. R. E. Campbell, instead of that of Mrs. G. S. Craven, as previously announced. Recent illness in Mrs. Craven's family necessitated the change in arrangements.

A silver tea will be held by the ladies in connection with the bazaar, and all ladies of the community are extended a cordial invitation to attend.

Intoxicated Driver Gets Jail Verdict Lubbock Man To Be County Guest And Pay $100 Fine

After a 2-hour deliberation, a jury here Tuesday found J. D. Mapp, 42, of Lubbock, guilty of driving while intoxicated and sentenced him to 60 days in the county jail and a fine of $100. Mapp was arrested in April when he drove into Bob's Oil Well filling station. It was declared that he drove into the station at a reckless speed, struck a cold drink container and then in backing out, backed into another car.

The danger created by drinking general sentiment in this section regarding the driving of motor vehicles while under the influence of intoxicating beverages.

Besides the stiff jail sentence and fine, Mapp will have his driver's license suspended for six months, according to County Attorney Howard Traweck, as an automatic clause in the law for a driver who is convicted of driving a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicants.

TO EXPLAIN DETAILS 1939 FARM PROGRAM

Farmers of Motley County are meeting at community centers this week to hear the details of the 1939 farm program and to discuss the general agricultural situation. The discussions are of particular interest at this time because cotton producers are to vote December 10 on whether to continue the cotton marketing quota for another year.

Cotton allotments for 1939 planting are being handed out to those in attendance. This is the earliest that it has ever been possible to deliver to Motley County farmers the permitted acreage to be planted for a successive crop. Motley County was first in this district and twelfth in the state to receive its cotton allotments.

Cotton payments for 1939 are to be substantially greater than for 1938. This fact is demonstrated at each meeting by Charles T. Wasson, county administrative assistant, who illustrates on the blackboard the exact method of arriving at the amount of payment possible to earn on a representative farm. Wasson also compares the situation of the cotton farmer un-

NEW TRIBUNE AGENT BEGINS

Brendena Nelson has accepted a place as representative of the Matador Tribune, to aid in completing the present subscription drive, and will begin work in Matador and vicinity tomorrow.

Miss Nelson is well known here having graduated from the Matador High School last year.

The Tribune management will appreciate delinquent subscribers renewing their subscription through Miss Nelson, since her compensation is derived upon a strictly commission basis. All delinquent subscribers will be discontinued from the subscription lists after solicitation by representatives.

The subscription price of the Tribune is $1.50 per year in Motley and adjoining counties, and $2.00 per year elsewhere, except when combined with the Fort Worth Star-Telegram or other daily newspaper. The combination rate of the Tribune and Star-Telegram, daily and Sunday, is $8.45, which saves the subscriber 50c.

Hunters To Enter Fine Season Today Local Association Cautions Sportsmen On Regulations

Warning, Quail Hunters! The advertisement headed by these words which appears in another part of this paper is only a caution to sportsmen and not a threat, according to Elbert Reeves, secretary of the Motley County Game Management Association. Birds are plentiful this year and the Association wishes to encourage local people to take advantage of the open seasons and help to harvest the bountiful game crop. It is in a spirit of service that the Association calls attention to some of the important hunting regulations which might possibly be overlooked by the casual hunter Reeves said. A little forethought in complying with these regulations will make hunting a pleasure, free from the overhanging fear of falling afoul of the law.

Reeves suggested that all who plan to do any hunting this season should secure an official copy of the game law of Texas from game warden Jim Canon or from the county agent's office. He pointed out that entering with fire-arms upon the lands of another without a permit is a violation of law and is one of the strictest regulations of the Motley County Game Management Association. He cautioned especially against thoughtless violations of this rule by crossing property lines into another area where the permit held does not apply.

Baptist Join Methodist To Hear Sermon New Pastor Lauds Community Spirit In First Service Here

Rev. W. B. Vaughn, recently appointed pastor for the First Methodist Church here, and Mrs. Vaughn arrived in Matador the latter part of last week to take their places in the affairs of the community.

Rev. Vaughn preached two inspirational sermons from his pulpit at the morning and evening services Sunday, and as a courtesy to Matador's new pastor, the Baptist church dispensed with their evening service in order to join the Methodist congregation for evening worship.

"It is my sincere desire that the churches of the community continue to work in unison, as I have been advised that they have in the past," Rev. Vaughn stated, "and I take this opportunity to pledge my wholehearted cooperation to that end."

Rev. and Mrs. Vaughn came to Matador from Perryton, where he has been pastor of the Methodist church for the past four years.

Leave For Albany
Rev. and Mrs. D. D. Denison and son James Dickey, left Thursday for their new home at Albany, where Rev. Denison will occupy the Methodist pulpit, after serving the Matador church as pastor for the past four years.

The entire community joins in expressing profound regrets of losing this good family from its midst, and in wishing them every success in their new home, while extending a sincere welcome to their successors here, Rev. and Mrs. Vaughn.

RETURN HOME

Modena Graves, accompanied by her grandmother, Mrs. Hattie Martin, of Flomot, returned to Matador Wednesday of last week from Mineral Wells, where the former has been receiving treatments for ptomaine poisoning. Mrs. Martin had been in Mineral Wells about two months.

Miss Maxine Green left Monday for Paducah, where she has accepted a position with Parker's Studio of that place.

Local Stores Aglow With Yule Spirit Large Stocks Of Merchandise Being Placed On Display

The Spirit of Christmas has reclaimed an otherwise drab world from the portals of greed and strife to cast a brighter sheen over the future as the joyous holiday celebrating the birth of Christ approaches. The old creed of mankind is reversed and millions think of giving rather than receiving.

Perhaps no city its size in this broad country is making greater preparations for the Christmas season than Matador. Merchants have bought larger stocks than ever before and now the stores are glowing with new merchandise of every description. Practically every store in town is displaying holiday goods this week and many business places have decorated their windows to further aid the full realization of the Christmas spirit.

The influence of the more metropolitan cities is witnessed in Matador this season, with larger assortments, more modern merchandise and prices designed to compete with large city stores. There can be no doubt in the mind of anyone, but that Matador is keeping pace with progress, offering the residents of the territory it serves more complete service and the most modern stock at prices which defy those found in larger centers.

Christmas shoppers are advised to make their selections now, while the stocks are complete, and while there is ample time to go about the pleasant business of making others happy without the "last minute" difficulties.

Local merchants make it possible to satisfy every holiday need without the inconvenience and expense of going elsewhere. Their merchandise is good and priced fairly. The profits which they earn support the schools, churches and pays taxes.

Highway Men Meet In Study Of First Aid

State Highway employees and officials of the maintenance department from eight west Texas counties met here Tuesday night in the Highway Department warehouse in east Matador, to further study of first aid work. The meeting was in connection with the intensive drive being made by the department to train all employees efficiently so that they may render aid to motorist victims of highway accidents. The meeting was held under the chairmanship of J. W. Hill of Austin and 42 employees were present.

Arrangements for the District 3 meeting here called for the use of a room in the court house, but the group was moved to the warehouse on account of lack of space.

Collier Is Captain
Robert Collier, Motley county employee of the State Highway Department is captain of the Matador team which competes with other teams in the district for highest grades in first aid work. The meetings are in the form of schools and tests, which will terminate by the highest 12 or 13 teams going to Austin for final competitions.

Counties represented here Tuesday night were Hardeman, Cottle, Foard, Childress, Hall, Dickens, King and Motley. Highway employees of this county attending were: Robert Collier, W. C. Eggleston, Henry Thompson, R. W. Cudd, N. M. Groves, Theodore Harmon, Rex Parson, Gene Mize and Henry Harris.

GIFTS WITHOUT SEASON

TED MALONE, Poetry Editor of Pictorial Review and nationally known radio commentator, each month selects the outstanding poems submitted to him for publication.

In the December issue of Pictorial Review a dozen poems have been chosen by Mr. Malone of which this is outstanding:

GIFTS WITHOUT SEASON

Lord, I would thank You for these things:
Not sunlight only, but sullen rain;
Not only laughter with lifted wings,
But the heavy muted hands of pain.

Lord, I would thank You for so much:
The toil no less than the well-earned ease;
The glory always beyond our touch
That bows the head and bends the knees.

Lord, there are gifts of brighter gold
Than the deepest mine or mint can yield:
Friendship and love and a dream to hold,
The look that heartened, the word that healed.

Lord, I would thank You for eyes to see
Miracles in our everyday earth:
The colors that crowd monotony,
The flame of the humblest flower's birth.

Lord, I would thank You for gifts without season:
The flash of a thought like a banner unfurled,
The splendor of faith and the sparkle of reason,
The tolerant mind in a turbulent world!

HOPE FOR CRIPPLED, SAYS MAXINE DAVIS

SOMETHING can be done to help almost every crippled child in the United States—and there are organizations to do it, according to Maxine Davis in the December Pictorial Review.

In answer to scores of requests received by the editors of Pictorial Review, Miss Davis has written a sensational revelation of the miracles being wrought by modern orthopedics.

Maxine Davis

Three in every one thousand children are crippled, the article discloses, and the causes of these handicaps are numerous. About one quarter of the cripples have been born injured; another quarter suffer from a fall of some kind and rickets; over fifty percent have been crippled by disease, infantile paralysis causing a fifth to a quarter of all crippling.

The very best thing you can do for your child is to prevent crippling," Miss Davis says. "Remember these important preventions:

"Ask the doctor about your baby's diet and follow it closely to prevent rickets.

"Be careful to avoid accidents even—indeed, especially—in our homes. More children suffer from accidents in their own homes than anywhere else. A torn carpet we've been intending to mend; a loose board we've put off repairing; a poorly lighted stairway, or one too steep, all cause shattered arms or legs. Keep watch for small dangers in the house.

"Train your child to be careful in the streets. He can be taught to respect traffic lights, to cross only at the corners, and to look carefully before he steps from the curb just as easily as he can be taught to brush his teeth.

"If you live on a farm, don't let your child meddle with machinery or take foolish chances with animals.

"Above all things, prevent crippling diseases. Keep away from them; many, like infantile paralysis, are contagious. Keep your children out of crowds as much as possible, and be grim about this when there is an epidemic.

"Make sure that the food you give your child is properly inspected. Make sure your milk is pasteurized, or boiled. If it isn't, it may carry the germs of crippling diseases."

"We can lend a helping hand to crippled children," she concludes, "but how much better that they never need our help."

A Temple On A Pyramid—
On arriving at Chichen Itza, one must first register before proceeding into the enclosure to inspect the ruins. Then they tried to sell me a book (about Chichen Itza); but, like the farmer's daughter, I did not buy it—because I already had a book.

As I glanced about me, on passing thru the gateway, my first impression was of a large meadow filled with huge and imposing ruins. Of these, the one nearest to me, the most conspicuous one, was the famous "El Castillo." The nomenclature that obtains here is misleading at times—to say the least. What one really sees is not a castle at all, but rather, a small temple standing on the summit of a terraced pyramid.

What is visible of this structure was built over another one still older. This is a custom that is found all over Mexico—this superimposing the new over the old. The superstructure here was probably built around the eleventh century. Within this outer edifice has been found another temple, another stairway, a sarcophagus containing some important archaeological finds.

"El Castillo" is also known as the "Temple of Kukul-Can"—another name for the great God Quetzalcoatl worshipped in other parts of Mexico—the Plumed Serpent.

Two sides of this edifice have been excavated and restored by the Carnegie Institute. The other half is covered with debris and rubble, through which one occasionally sees a lizard slithering along through the underbrush and rocks.

There are nine terraces to the pyramidal sub-structure, with 52 panels on the sides—symbolic of the Maya cycle. Four great stairways, with exceedingly narrow treads, and with balustrades on both sides, leading up to the summit of the pyramid. The number of steps in these stairways correspond to the number of days in the Maya year—still more symbolism.

The Temple surmounting the top has four entrances to it—the principal one facing north. There are three openings in this portal made by two serpent columns. Bas-reliefs are found on the jambs. In this Temple, in former times, the virgin who was to be thrown into the Sacred Well, was prepared, dressed, ornamented, stupefied with the native drink—balche—before she was carried down the steep stairway by priestly attendants, to be carried along the Via Sacra to the edge of the Sacred Well.

HAWAII A PARADISE, WRITES FAITH BALDWIN

THE Hawaiian Islands, remote and dreaming in the peacock-blue Pacific are yours—an integral part of the United States. The red volcanic soil, the tropical flowers, the beauty and dreaming are not alien to this country.

"Go and see for yourself," says Faith Baldwin, writing under the spell of tropical moonlight and the fragrance of ginger flowers, in the December Pictorial Review.

Faith Baldwin

"And remember all the time you are seeing, you must be very proud for the islands are our own country's Pacific Paradise."

"Aloha," the delightful brown strangers will say, coming forward to greet you and wind garlands of flowers—tells—about your neck and shoulders and wrists. "Aloha, and welcome to the islands."

"Aloha," they will sing from the wharf as you sail away, brimming with memories—for aloha means hail and it means farewell; it means greeting and it means love.

View From The Summit—

The view from the summit of "El Castillo" affords a far-flung view of the surrounding country. All about one sees a great sea of green jungle flatness, with the piles of grey-white ruins appearing like islands. On one side is a small narrow ribbon of grey leading through the jungle. This is the last stretch of the roadway that connects Chichen Itza with the Capital of Yucatan, Merida.

Immediately below are two very impressive and imposing ruins—the "Temple of the Warriors, with its Thousand Columns and the "Ball Court" or "Gymnasium" as Stephens, the author of "Incidents in Travel in Yucatan," called it. Other ruins stretch away in the distance, the Observatory, the Nunnery, et cetera.

These high exposed places rearing their heads so far above the floor of the jungle invited the bolts of lightning during storms. Much damage has thus been done to these noble ruins which had already suffered much from the vicissitudes of time.

After satisfying ourselves with the glorious view spread all about us we bethought ourselves of the descent and looked directly down the steep stairways we had ascended. A sensation of overwhelming fear seizes the climber at this point and there are some, especially women, who refuse to budge. For any readers that I may have who contemplate climbing "El Castillo"—just a word of advice—and you will be saved a heap of trouble. Never look directly down. Start your descent backwards, using all fours, and look only at the steps directly before you and have patience. In this way you will reach the bottom without heart-failure, or swooning, or screaming, and you will live to tell the tale. When making this descent, one comes to appreciate the feat that those priests accomplished years ago when they carried a drunken virgin down these steep, narrow steps. And they did not walk "crab-fashion" backwards—but forwards, if you please.

along the coral reefs and came rushing in. That's why the surf-boarding is superb at Waikiki. The outrigger canoes went paddling out and came tearing back like the flying fish we had seen two or three days out from port."

Faith Baldwin and her "Lady Who Travels With Me" sat on lawns before thatched huts and watched hula troupes—Kona natives wearing the long-trained hokokus with great dignity, and small shy girls. "There was a moon and stars," she recalls, "and the footlights were a hollowed coconut lig. There was a gourd dance and one which employed the use of split bamboo. For hula means, merely, dance. And the hula was originally a religious ceremony."

Miss Baldwin imports to the States in her Pictorial Review article a new assortment of Hawaiian language-twisters—hoomailmail, for example, which is simply a nicer word than baloney.

And like all mainland visitors who bask in the languor of the Hawaiian sun, Faith Baldwin returns to the States with one conviction—"I must go back."

The Temple of the Warriors

My greatest impression, one of breath-taking beauty, that I beheld while inspecting the ruins at Chichen Itza, was the so-called "Temple of the Warriors." To me it resembled a huge temple of ivory. A thing of great beauty. This temple stood on terraced heights, below on two sides, were The Thousand Columns, sans roof. These columns, on closer inspection, turned out to be of two kinds, square and round. The square ones were richly sculptured while the round ones were unadorned. These led in turn to the sunken Market place also outlined with columns.

The nomenclature employed here, designating this superb edifice as "The Temple of the Warriors" may be questioned. No one knows, of course, to what purpose this structure was originally put.

Freshman: "I don't know."
Soph: "I am not prepared."
Junior: "I can't remember now."
Senior: "I don't believe I can add anything to that which has already been said."

HELP KIDNEYS

To Get Rid of Acid and Poisonous Waste
Your kidneys help to keep you free from the blood. If your kidneys are functionally disordered and fail to remove excess impurities, there may be poisoning of the whole system and body-wide distress.
Burning, scanty or too frequent urination may be a warning of some kidney or bladder disturbance.
You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, played out.
In such cases it is better to rely on medicine that has won country-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Use Doan's Pills. A multitude of grateful people recommend Doan's. Ask your neighbor!

BONES GUARD SPANISH COINS OTHER RELICS

Silver coins, Spanish and Mexican of an early date and other relics were found near the bones of presumably an Indian, uncovered in Knox County, eight miles east of Benjamin, according to James A. Stephens of that city.

Stephens, a candidate for Judge of the Court of Criminal Appeals in the summer primaries, was informed of the find by Lee Coffman District Clerk at Benjamin. The discovery was made on the Pete Moody ranch.

"The bones were exposed in the side of a bank near the brow of a hill," Mr. Coffman wrote. "The lower jaw and teeth were in perfect condition and one or two teeth were missing out of the upper jaw."

"Part of the hair was in good condition, being eight inches long. Ten or twelve silver dollars, some half dollars and some quarters were found, some being Mexican and some Spanish money. The latest date I saw on the silver dollars was 1845. This was a Mexican coin. One of the Spanish half dollars was dated 1789. There were lots of beads and remains of a gun, bridle bits and knife. On the arm bone were several bracelets in good condition. Some of the rings found were much smaller than the ones on the arm bones and one of them had a small cluster of small beads, as if they might have been worn in the ears."

MAKE ROOM FOR SILENCE, WRITER ADVISES

THE reading public is ready and waiting for any suggestion from any source which can help them lift themselves into a higher understanding of harmonious and spiritual living, say the editors of Pictorial Review Magazine.

As positive proof of this "return to fundamentals," the offices of this well known woman's magazine are receiving hundreds of letters expressing gratitude for the inspirational guidance of the religious articles by Celia Caroline Cole.

"They come in from every walk in life," the editors say, "and from all over the world—simple letters of gratitude for courage gained and burdens lifted. The response has been nothing short of phenomenal."

Miss Cole's articles have been appearing in the Pictorial Review for over a year and their popularity has been steadily increasing. In the December issue of the magazine, Miss Cole discusses the value of Silence in our lives.

"Make room for silence," she says. "Give it its way in you for it is the 'Secret Place of the Most High.' You need not have religious belief in order to meditate with great resulting benefit. If your need is great, you have already called out to the Unseen whether you know it or not and Someone somewhere hears. Such is the great plan of love."

Seek Owner Of Dead Animals

The owner of a dead horse and mule left on a side street in east Matador last week, is being sought by local authorities. The carcasses of the dead animals were found Saturday morning within a short distance of the State Highway Warehouse. Complaint has been filed against J. Dyle Carmon of Bristol, Oklahoma, according to County Attorney, Howard Tra-week. Identification tags on the animals made it possible for officers to trace them to an auction sale held in Lubbock last week, where it was learned the horse and mule were purchased by the Oklahoma man. It is believed the animals either died or were killed in transit and their bodies dumped on the Matador street sometime Friday night.

The owner of the animals is subject to a fine of not more than $200, Mr. Tra-week declared.

It had been impossible to locate Carmon late yesterday.

MRS. ROBINSON BREAKS ARM IN FALL ON WALK

Mrs. Jack Robinson suffered a broken arm at noon Friday when she fell at the south step of the court house terrace. She was rushed to the Traweek hospital where she received immediate medical attention, later to be moved to her home.

County clerk, Jack Robinson, was out of town at the time and did not know of his wife's accident until he returned later in the day.

Mrs. Robinson had started from the court house to the post office when she became overbalanced and fell, breaking her left arm near the wrist.

Altho she had been improving since the accident, the broken arm became more painful last night and plans were being made for an x-ray picture this morning.

EPWORTH LEAGUE NEWS

The Epworth League of the Roaring Springs Methodist church met Sunday night, November 27, with Wanda Cornell in charge of the program. The subject discussed was "Our Parents." The following talks were given:

Scripture reading, Turner Hunter; "Homes of Our Parents", Sarah Campbell; "A Child in His Home", Elizabeth Swim.

Maurice Campbell was appointed as leader for December.

The League is meeting Wednesday night to plan a program for Dec. 6, when Roaring Springs is hostess to the other chapter in the Caprock Union.

There are some of our members who have not been present in a long time. Now we would like to see you out with us next Sunday night, so do not forget the time: 6:30 o'clock.—Reporter.

Whooping Cough Is Beyond Control Of Present Methods

"Some communicable diseases are measurably controllable from a public health point of view. However, whooping cough is not yet one of them. It appears and spreads rapidly despite every effort to hold it in check. Because of the great difficulty in applying effective measures, many parents consider this childhood trouble as inevitable. They foolishly argue that since their child is bound to get whooping cough anyway, the sooner it is history, the better," states Dr. Geo. W. Cox, state health officer.

"It is true that many older children do not appear to suffer serious consequences from this disease, nevertheless in this group pneumonia and tuberculosis sometimes follow in its wake, which is serious enough. But when the attack is experienced by the very young, it is likely to be extremely dangerous. For example, of whooping cough deaths in Texas during 1937 totaling 337, ninety-five percent were under five years of age," Dr. Cox pointed out.

"While it is impossible to keep children from other youngsters, parents must realize that a cold may be the forerunner of whooping cough. Once this possibility is appreciated, a physician will be summoned when a cold evidences itself and the child prevented from mingling with other children. It should be understood that it is at this period of the attack, usually before a diagnosis has been made, that whooping cough is most contagious. This rule may seem unduly harsh. However, if parents would apply it, there is reason to believe that the whooping cough incidence would decline, and perhaps markedly so. And in this connection, the necessity for early recognition of the disease in very young infants cannot be stressed too strongly.

"As it now stands, in most instances physicians and health officials have no knowledge of the case until the disease is well defined and usually noted by the parents themselves through the characteristic "whoop" in the cough. By that time the child has contacted many other children and has been the spreader of the infection. Moreover, the possible damage to the youngster himself through this delay has been increased.

At best, whooping cough is a mean antagonist. It requires wholehearted and prompt cooperation not only on the part of the physicians and public health officials but by parents also. Until this happy combination is more generally recognized the likelihood of definitely diminishing the present power of whooping cough will continue to be slim.

NEW FRONTIERS FOR YOUTH, SAYS WRITER

BUSINESS is booming in two unexploited American outposts, says foreign correspondent Herbert H. Hillshire, for in Alaska and the Philippines new frontiers await young men and women who are willing to work for a foothold in these undeveloped lands. "These great areas have been practically untouched by the current depression," says Hillshire in the December issue of Cosmopolitan Magazine. "If business maps show the monthly status of employment and industry throughout the United States were to include Alaska and the Philippines, these areas would shine like headlights, pointing the way to opportunity for wide-awake citizens."

Hundreds of American young men and women are making their fortunes in Alaska right now and there are just as many doing the same thing in the Philippines. If you like the languor and romance of the tropics, then it's Manila for you.

If you like a rugged pioneer life, winter sports and adventure while loading down your back with gold dust and nuggets, then get acquainted with the Land of the Midnight Sun. Of the nations of the world, the Philippines are the ninth largest purchaser of the products of American farms and factories and as the purchasing power of the islands increases through greater development of natural resources, there will be greater and greater opportunities for American enterprise, Hillshire points out.

Alaska, on the other hand, has poured over $2,000,000,000 in new wealth into the United States since it was purchased in 1867. "There is a field in the Klondike for many professions," he says, "and of course the great attraction is still the lure of fortunes in gold mines. Those who know mining in Alaska today will tell you that there are far greater opportunities now to make fortunes in mining than there ever were in the gold rush of '95."

So there you have it. If you like the adventurous life of personal effort, then Alaska beckons. If you prefer the balmy breezes of the tropics and an entirely different kind of life, then your fortune may be in the Philippines.

Avoiding Colds Is Easier Than Cures

Prefacing some reasonable advice on common sense ways of avoiding colds, with the remark that it is a mistake to say you "catch" a cold, Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, added "As a matter of fact the cold catches you when you are not up to the mark, physically. Therefore: 1. Keep yourself as physically fit as possible. Eat nourishing food. Have your meals at regular times. Avoid rich, indigestible combinations. Include plenty of milk, other dairy products and fruit in your diet. Remember to drink plenty of water—several glasses during the day, every day. 2. Dress according to the weather. Add a sweater to your outfit, or a heavy coat when the frosty days come. Avoid sudden chilling. Don't expose yourself unnecessarily to drafts. Don't sit around in wet clothing. If you are caught in a drenching downpour, change to dry clothing as soon as possible.

3. Take some outdoor exercise every day. Be out in the sunlight as much as possible. If you have a job that keeps you indoors most of the day, you will find it pays to spend a few minutes two or three times a day, at an open window, flushing your breathing apparatus with fresh air.

4. Get plenty of sleep. Strike a balance between work and play. Don't fool yourself into thinking you can play around at all hours of the day or night, day after day; snatch a few hours sleep, and be entirely fit, physically, and ready for your profession, your job, or for school, or household duties.

when morning comes. 5. Colds are spread by the discharge from the nose and throat. Every time the victim of a cold has a coughing spell, germ-laden droplets of mucus are brought to the surface and spread around. Every sneeze throws germ-laden spray into the air. Avoid these hazards. Don't mingle unnecessarily with persons who have colds.

6. The careless coughs or sneezers sprays his germs all around the place and leaves them on everything he touches. Don't use a common drinking cup. Have your own towel and wash cloth. Always wash your hands before eating.

7. If you happen to be overtaken by a cold, show as much consideration for your neighbor as you would like him to show you. Don't be a transmitter. Don't broadcast your germs. Sneeze or cough into your handkerchief. Use paper handkerchiefs that can be burned or otherwise disposed of. The quickest way to get rid of a cold is to go to bed; eat very lightly and drink plenty of water. At the first indication of fever, send for your doctor, and then follow his advice.

FACE to FACE, Your Mileage Merchant can frankly give you these same straight reasons for positive winter starting and big oil savings with your engine OIL-PLATED... more than an oil-change!

SEE how refreshing it is, the way Your Mileage Merchant—here in the paper and at his Conoco station—backs up his statements about Germ Processed oil. It brings you more than an oil-change, because right after it is pumped up from the crankcase like any oil, it does something any oil cannot do. Energized by the Germ Process—patented—it bonds to every working part and stays up lastingly in the form of OIL-PLATING. Even grindstones can scarcely remove OIL-PLATING, so it certainly cannot drain down while your car stands cold—no matter how long. Therefore the instant you want to start up, every engine part swiftly and safely slides into action on its ready OIL-PLATING—the lubricant that plainly can't be held back by any cold; that can't hold back your battery. The quick starts tell you there's no grinding wear in your OIL-PLATED engine.

It won't get hoggish with your Conoco Germ Processed oil, another good straight reason for you to change to Your Mileage Merchant today.

Seniors Plan Trophy Case

Recently the senior class decided to leave a trophy case as its gift to the school. It will be built by Mr. Baldwin and will cost about seventy dollars. The plans drawn by him call for a case ten feet long, six feet high, and one foot deep, and it will have a glass front with sliding doors. The trophy case will be built in the front entrance hall. The drinking-fountain which is located there will be removed, and two new individual fountains will be placed on either side.

This gift has been the object of much thought and study on the part of the seniors and Mr. Ezell, class sponsor. They wished to leave a gift that would be both permanent and beneficial to the school, and they felt that a trophy case would add a great deal to the appearance of the front hall besides providing a safe protection for the school trophies.

Notes FOR THE KITCHENEER by Gail Kittredge

"WAYS WITH CHILI SAUCE AND CATSUP" Chili Sauce and Catsup—those versatile condiments have won for themselves a well deserved place of honor in modern day cookery. They give to meats and meat dishes, to macaroni and rice casseroles, to baked beans and other vegetable dishes a delicious, rich flavor, without fuss or muss. Of course, Chili Sauce and Catsup have always been man's standby. He wants them right at his elbow when eating. Many homemakers now, however, are finding that they can cook the zest, the snap, the mellow blend of flavor which accompanies the use of these favorites right into the food itself. Here's how!

This recipe has a tempting flavor and is very inexpensive to make. It is: CASSEROLE, SICILIAN STYLE 1/4 cups cooked broad noodles 1/2 pound boneless shoulder of veal, cubed 1/2 pound boneless shoulder of pork, cubed 1 tablespoon butter or fat 1 cup thinly sliced onions 1 clove garlic, minced very fine 3 teaspoons salt 1/2 teaspoon pepper 1/2 teaspoon minced parsley 1/2 cup catsup 1/4 to 1/2 cup hot water 1 cup bread crumbs 1 tablespoon melted butter

Cook noodles in large amount of boiling, salted water, until tender. Drain in sieve, rinse with cold water. Sauté meat in fat until well browned, add onions and minced garlic; cover. Cook for 10 minutes, stirring frequently. Add salt, pepper, parsley, catsup, and one cup water. Cover tightly, simmer slowly for 20 minutes, adding remaining water as necessary during cooking period. Place 1/2 of noodles in an open, buttered baking dish; cover with meat mixture; add remaining noodles. Mix crumbs thoroughly with butter; sprinkle over top. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) 30 minutes. Serves 6.

Then, here's a new and different way of serving an old-time favorite meat relish, Jellied Chili Sauce. To make it, soak 1 tablespoon gelatin in 2 tablespoons cold water for 5 minutes. Meanwhile heat 1 cup chili sauce or catsup to the boiling point. Remove from fire, add the soaked gelatin, and stir until it is dissolved. Chill in large mold and slice. Individual molds can be used if desired.

When preparing pot roast for baking, spread catsup on top of the roast. It will develop an intriguing, different flavor that everyone will enjoy.

Did you ever bake a slice of ham with Chili Sauce? You'll be pleasantly surprised with the extra deliciousness it gives. Or, if you want to call your pork chops perfect, add Chili Sauce just before baking. Fish, too, is delicious when topped with a sea food cocktail sauce made with catsup, lemon juice, horseradish, celery (cut fine), and salt, just before baking or broiling.

Then here's good news! You can now purchase baked beans in glass pots which are exact replicas of the old fashioned Boston Baked Bean jars. The beans are heated and served in the same pot they come in and isn't that a time and labor saving idea? If desired, add a small quantity of Chili Sauce and brown sugar just before heating and remember the beans in these glass baking pots can be heated by either putting the container in hot water or directly into the oven.

Let Chili Sauce play the leading role, as a variation in Salad Dressings.

A quick mock Thousand Island Dressing is made by adding Chili Sauce to Mayonnaise, and a dash of piccalilli relish will give it a snappy touch also. Chili Sauce and piccalilli both come in glass jars with fitted tops—ideal for storing in the refrigerator. After using, the top is easily and quickly resealed and the spiciness of the Chili Sauce or piccalilli is retained indefinitely.

When cooking with ground meat, add Chili Sauce before it is shaped into a meat loaf or patties. Such mixtures immediately step out of the commonplace and assume a rich, savory and appetizing flavor.

PUBLIC SPEAKING DEPT. The newest department at Matador High School is the public speaking department which was begun this year under the direction of Mrs. Randall Whitworth. The class is composed of 19 students and has already presented two very good one-act plays this year. Besides training students for dramatic work, this department offers excellent training for students who wish to enter declamation, extemporaneous speaking, and debate in the Interscholastic League Meet. Mrs. Whitworth has taught expression in the Matador Public Schools for eight years. She is a graduate of Texas Women's College where she majored in speech arts. She has done two years of graduate work under Dr. and Mrs. Curry, founders of the Curry School of Expression of Boston, Mass.

We wish to welcome a new student at M. H. S. He is Delbert Stone of Roosevelt, Texas, and has enrolled in the Freshman class.

A Lesson in Zoology—For Drivers

A car is like a cat according to a new highway safety booklet entitled "Death Begins at 40" recently issued by The Travelers Insurance Company. It is quiet, except for a low and pleasing purr. Its padded tires are like padded feet. It has powerful eyes that shine at night. And when it is allowed to run wild, it gives an awful screech at the moment before it does its victim to death.

At 25 miles an hour, it is like a pussy-cat. It may scratch you up in an accident, but it isn't likely to kill you. Few fatal accidents have been found from official reports occur at low speeds.

At 30 miles an hour, it is not twice but four times as powerful. Like a bobcat, it is quite able to inflict great damage.

And at 35 miles an hour it is not three times but nine times as powerful as at 25. It is nine times as hard to stop, nine times as hard to turn, nine times as deadly.

Thinking of speed in these terms will help you to keep a lighter toe on the accelerator.

Lower Speed For Holidays Being Sought Safety Department Pleads For Aid In Saving Human Lives

AUSTIN, Dec. 1.—With the most dangerous traffic month of the year facing motorists and pedestrians state safety department officials pleaded today for close observance of traffic rules in December.

Homer Garrison, Jr., safety director, recounting that 230 people died in traffic crashes in December last year, pointed to the Christmas holidays as the heaviest traffic period of the year during which the death rate leaps upward.

Texas highway patrolmen—a force limited to 300 men—will work double shifts during most of the month to deter reckless drivers in a strict enforcement drive. Referring to the 20 per cent decrease in fatalities in Texas since the beginning of the year, Garrison pleaded for drivers and pedestrians to be alert to the hazards that will confront them with shortened daylight periods, murky and cold weather, heavier traffic, and wet pavement to combat.

He was joined in the plea by Chairman W. H. Richardson, Jr., of the safety commission.

"Texas, like other states, is faced with a possibly heavier death and destruction month in December," Chairman Richardson said. "Motorists must cut their speeds appreciably and be alert to impending traffic disasters. Pedestrians should walk with heads up, eyes toward approaching vehicles, cross only at proper places and be careful in darkness." Garrison added that a sharp death reduction in December should bring to Texas a fatality drop of more than 400 persons for the year, "a great saving in human lives."

ment specialist of the Extension Service, Senator Ben G. O'Neal of Wichita Falls, and Gene Howe, publisher of the Amarillo News Globe and members of the State Game Commission, appeared on the day's program.

The prominent place of Motley County in the wildlife conservation movement was recognized by the Amarillo Sunday News Globe when an announcement of Wednesday's meeting, headlined on the front page, was topped by an enlarged photo of a Motley County Quail. The quail was shown perched atop an Extension Service sign on the Elbert Reeves ranch near Matador and was submitted to the paper by county agent Frank A. Buckley who has played a prominent part in organizing the local game management program.

Four Motley County wildlife scenes, together with a column-length story of Motley County game conservation work, were published in the Dallas News Sunday.

is prohibited; and trapping for fur-bearing animals requires a special license under a new law. Game birds must not be killed with a rifle, and all pump or automatic shotguns must be plugged so that not more than three shells can be carried in the gun at one time. Proper hunting hours and legal bag limits should be strictly observed for each species. Anyone convicted of violating any game law automatically forfeits all hunting privileges for a period of one year. All members of the game association are pledged to report all game violations observed within the demonstration area, and many other patriotic citizens will do likewise.

"A safe and sane hunting season" will be the slogan of the Motley County Game Management Association during the next several weeks.
