Revival Meeting To Begin Sunday

New Church Grounds To Be Cleared In Final Arrangements

The annual summer revival meeting for the local Baptist Church will begin Sunday morning, in accordance with plans and preparations which have been going forward for the past few months. However, Rev. W. C. Ashford of Abilene, who will do the preaching and Tom Ed Vaughn of Cooper, choral director and young people's leader, will not arrive until Monday morning. Rev. H. M. Weldon, pastor, has announced. Both are in meetings at this time which will not close until Sunday evening.

The First Methodist Church, headed by their pastor, Rev. D. D. Denison, has pledged its support with the dismissal of all their evening services during the Baptist revival. The merchants and businessmen are also cooperating by closing their places of business daily for the morning services.

To Clear Grounds

In order that the grounds about the church might be cleared of all building debris before the meeting, a clean-up campaign is scheduled for Friday. Mr. R. E. Campbell, building committee chairman is urgent in his request for about twenty-five men and boys, equipped with hoes, shovels and rakes, to meet at the church Friday in a volunteer effort to clear the grounds. The ladies of the church has assured that an appetizing lunch will be served the workmen. Two tractors, two fresnos and a plow will also be needed, Mr. Campbell stated.

Rev. H. C. Bristow, pastor of the Baptist Church of Roaring Springs, pledged his support in the clean-up, in a statement Sunday evening when he accompanied members of his congregation here to attend services and to participate in the first baptismal rites to be conducted in the new Matador edifice. Four members from the Roaring Springs church received baptism, while Rev. Weldon baptized two new members into local membership, being James Edward Russell and Wiley Fulfer.

TOWN INVITED BY BAPTISTS

The entire community is extended a most cordial invitation to join the Baptist congregation tonight in the basement of the church, for an informal open-house meeting in public acknowledgment to the Building Committee and its chairman, R. E. Campbell, for their splendid achievement in erecting the new church.

An interesting program has been arranged for the evening, and refreshments will be served before adjournment. It is expressly stated that no collection of any nature will be taken.

Members of the Building Committee include besides Mr. Campbell, W. W. Carpenter, Farris Fish, L. A. Stearns, A. B. Echols, Clyde Bartlett, Mrs. A. D. Burleson, Mrs. Scott Bolton, Mrs. J. R. Moore, Mrs. T. E. Cammack, Miss Rebecca Fulkerson, J. L. Woodruff, Elbert Reeves and Elmer Stearns.

All farmers interested in the control of this cotton insect is cordially invited to attend the demonstration, according to an announcement issued by county agent Frank A. Buckley's office Tuesday.

Motley Demos Select Three Delegates

O'Daniels To Get County's Pledge At Convention

Democratic nominee, W. Lee O'Daniel, the choice of half a million Texans, will receive pledged support of the three delegates selected by the Motley County Democratic Convention meeting in the District court room here Saturday afternoon. John Lee, G. E. Hamilton and Douglas Meador, all of Matador, were selected as delegates to attend the State Convention to be held at Beaumont on September 13. Jim Williams, Flomot, J. R. Moore, Matador and John Turner of Roaring Springs were selected as alternate delegates.

Of the delegates from nine voting precincts in Motley county, only one man, John Lee, declared that he supported Mr. O'Daniel in his campaign, however, all the precinct delegates as well as the three selected convention delegates, declared they would pledge support of the nominee.

State Meet Next Month

After the county meeting had been called to order Saturday afternoon, R. E. Campbell was elected chairman and Frank Pohl as secretary. This was followed by an outlined procedure of the State Convention to be held in Beaumont on September 13th, by G. E. Hamilton.

After the three delegates and alternates were selected, the convention adjourned.

FLAMES TAKE PIONEER HOUSE

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the old Vaughn home in northeast Matador near midnight Tuesday night. The house was occupied by a family of negroes at the time and they declared that the flames were already in the room where they slept when discovered. Owing to the location of the house and the lack of fire protection in that section of Matador, the fire department was unable to render aid, although efforts were made to save the windmill tower near the house by the use of water from the small tank on the fire truck.

The house belonged to Mrs. J. L. Snow of Coolidge, Arizona and it is not known if any fire insurance was in force.

It was estimated that the house was constructed about 35 years ago although some additions had been made since that date. Old times were declared that at one time it was pointed out as the best house in the city, being then in the choice resident section.

Texas Magazine Uses Article By Tribune Editor

The current issue of the Cattlemen Magazine, published at Fort Worth and read extensively in this section, contains an article written by Douglas Meador, editor of the Matador Tribune.

The article titled "Bringing Outlaws Out of the Croton Brakes," is on page five of the August issue and treats the cover page which is a picture of cowboy boys capturing an "outlaw" steer out of the Croton brakes on the Matador ranch. The picture was made in 1909 by Erwin E. Smith, well-known Texas photographer. The Cattlemen Magazine has been in publication over a quarter of a century and is recognized by cattlemen everywhere for its authentic stories, articles and ranch pictures.

Plea Is Made For Labor On Highway Job

Commissioners Go To San Antonio With Petition

Members of the Motley county Commissioner's court accompanied by County Judge W. R. Cammack met with members of the Texas Highway Commission in San Antonio Monday, asking the new construction on Highway 18 be placed as a N. R. W. R. project instead of being done by the Highway Department. The Motley county delegation which was aided by Representative Bob Alexander, asked the change be made in order to provide labor for men needing employment. It was declared that should the work be placed as a N. R. W. R. project it would provide in the neighborhood of $100,000 in labor for the construction of 12.6 miles paving between Whiteflat and the Hall county line, while the state's appropriation is only $45,000 for the use of machinery and material.

Consideration Promised

County Commissioner Joe Lambert said yesterday that the Highway Department gave the Motley county delegation every consideration and promised to secure the N. R. W. R. project if possible. It is declared that about 100 men in Motley county are qualified for relief employment and that a project is badly needed in order to help the county bear the relief burden.

Members of the Commissioners' court returned Tuesday while Judge Cammack remained for business in Austin and later to visit his son, Cecil Cammack in Fort Worth.

LOCAL GROCERY TO CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY

Beginning tomorrow, August 5th and continuing through Thursday, August 11th, Bob's Foodway, local grocery, will celebrate the third birthday of the enterprise by offering special prices on fancy and staple food products according to an announcement appearing in this issue of the Tribune.

The store, which is under the personal management of L. B. (Old Job) Robertson, first opened its doors on August 10, 1935. Mr. Robertson immediately established himself as a successful grocery merchant as the store's patronage increased rapidly requiring greater stocks, more employees and additional displaying facilities.

Bob's Foodway has maintained a strict cash policy which is declared to have been responsible for much of the store's success, enabling Mr. Robertson to offer merchandise at lower prices because of the savings which many stores must charge to expensive collections and poor accounts.

Regarding the anniversary of his grocery store, Mr. Robertson said, "We are extremely grateful to our many loyal customers who have made it possible to pass this third milestone and we want each and every one to accept our sincere thanks for their patronage. We shall, in the future, continue to offer our customers the very best foods possible, and offer them at the lowest possible prices."

COWBOY INJURED

Morris Harrington, cowboy, employed by the Matador Land and Cattle Company received painful injuries Tuesday afternoon when he was thrown from his horse while working with the Matador range wagon. Mr. Harrington was brought to Matador immediately where he received medical attention. He sustained a severely sprained knee and ankle and a broken vien in his ankle.

Mesdames R. P. Moore, John Hamilton and John Russell and Misses Aileen Russell, Marjoria Moore and Florine Ellison, made a business trip to Lubbock Thursday.

Lions Raise Funds To Aid Flood Area

Lion Pipkin Makes Report On Meet At Oakland

Lion Henry Pipkin, recently returned delegate of the Matador Lions Club from the Oakland, California International Lions meeting, declared that "wild oats were neck deep but it was harvest time and I didn't sow any," in concluding his report at the regular meeting of the local club held in the basement of the Baptist church, Tuesday.

Lion Pipkin, who attended all the sessions of the Oakland meeting, said that great strides were being made in Lionism as reports showed a membership of over 100,000 and more than 2,700 clubs. He was much impressed by the display of flags representing eight nations who had delegates at the convention and declared that he believed strife between nations could be lessened through similar organizations.

After the delicious chicken dinner served by the Baptist ladies, guests were introduced, including Mrs. U. L. Wile of Matador, J. A. Caswell of Bullard, Texas, and Mayor G. T. Edwards of Matador.

Homer Sheats, Motley county Chairman of the American Red Cross announced that $50.00 had been sent as the county's quota for relief of south Texas flood sufferers and that an additional request for more funds had been received. Tail Twister, J. D. Craven, collected $11.25 toward the amount needed. Donations may be made at the First State Bank or to Mr. Sheats it was announced.

Plainview Man To Speak For Bob Alexander

Hon. A. B. Tarwater of Plainview who was recently elected by a majority of 3 to 1 to his sixth consecutive term as Representative of the Plainview district, will make an address in the interest of the candidacy of Representative Bob Alexander, on the streets of Matador Saturday afternoon at 3 p. m. Representative Tarwater will probably speak in front of the First State Bank but his speech may easily be heard anywhere in the business district since he will use an address system.

Mr. Tarwater, who is completing ten years of service in the Texas House of Representatives, is, like Representative Bob Alexander, an actual dirt farmer, living on his farm eight miles from Plainview. He is chairman of the board of directors of the Plains Co-operative Creamery, the largest institution of its kind in the United States. He has served as the chairman of the Texas House Agriculture committee for many years.

Mr. Tarwater is declared to be a very capable speaker and a cordial invitation is extended to everyone interested in the Representative campaign, to hear his address. After his address here, Mr. Tarwater will immediately go to Paducah where he will again speak in behalf of the candidacy of his friend and neighboring district Representative, Bob Alexander.

Oil Scouts Again In Motley County

Deputy's Son Stops Attempt Jail Escape

Eight Year Old Hal Courtney Is Good Detective

Hal Courtney, 8, son of Deputy Sheriff and Jailer H. H. Courtney, proved himself a good detective and able to aid his father who is in the Traweck Hospital following an appendix operation, when he prevented what would have been a delivery from the Motley county jail late Tuesday.

Young Courtney heard unusual sounds in the prisoners quarters as he played in the yard and to satisfy his curiosity, he climbed up the metal eaves pipe to the second story where he peeped in at the window. He noticed that the iron bars had been dug loose from the stones in several instances, making it possible, with more of similar work, to lift the fabricated iron from the rock sill. He slid down the pipe and as he reached the yard, one prisoner, "Red" Hill, convicted recently in connection with cattle theft in this county and wanted in several other west Texas counties, asked the boy if he could find the ax.

The prisoner had torn a sheet to strings to be lowered from the window, asking the boy if he would attach the ax. When he refused, he was asked if he could fasten a hack-saw blade to the cloth string. Again young Courtney refused.

When Mrs. Courtney, the boy's mother, returned from the hospital where she had been to visit his father, he reported all that he had witnessed and heard and Mrs. Courtney summoned Sheriff L. A. Carlisle, who locked the prisoner in cell confinement inside the run-around, while the building was repaired Wednesday.

It is declared that the prisoners would have doubtlessly escaped during the night if young Courtney had not made his observations and report.

SPRINGS TEAM HEADS TOURNEY

Overcoming injuries to two players, Roaring Springs' determined baseballers defeated the Oklahoma Flats team, 8 to 5, Sunday afternoon, qualifying for the second round in the week-long tournament at Amherst. It was expected that they would meet either the Lockney team, which they defeated in a tournament several weeks ago, or the Lubbock colored team, Tuesday.

Paul Enloe, catcher, was injured in the latter part of the game, when he slid into second. Goodwin, left fielder, received painful but not serious injuries when he was struck by a ball while at bat.

Play was slow for the first three innings, as Oklahoma Flat scored in the second, and Roaring Springs met with a series of outs. However, in the fourth inning, Roaring Springs hit a streak, begun by Bridwell with a walk to first, and powerhoused by Goodwin, next, with a hit. The team remained in town for six tallies in one inning, and succeeded in getting ten men up at bat before three men went out.

Batteries for the Springs aggregation were Enloe, catcher, and Lee, pitcher. Other players included Dobbs, McFather, F. Bridwell, Goodwin, George, Faircloth, Bird, and Storer.

Batteries for Oklahoma Flats were Edgar, catcher, and Floyd, lanky pitcher.

IMPROVES

Mrs. Ivy Cooper, who has been receiving treatments at the Baker Hospital in Eureka Springs, Arkansas, is in a much improved condition and expects to return home within the next few weeks.

Humble Start Tests In Vast Matador Ranch Lease

Oil scouts seeking to locate the liquid black gold moved into Motley county again last week as seismograph crews declared to be employed by the Humble Oil Company, started operating in the vast Matador Land and Cattle Company lease comprising over 400,000 acres. It is estimated that more than two months will be required to complete the tests. Geophysical surveys were completed some time ago and the seismograph work will possibly be followed by actual drilling tests.

Other Lands Blocked

Other interest in oil in the county includes blocking of acreage by local individuals who expect to interest other oil companies in making tests within the near future.

The search for oil in this section has held the interest of oil men for many years and has embraced the drilling of a number of test wells over the country. Although no definite oil indications have been disclosed, many oil experts have expressed belief of profitable territory within the boundary of the county.

The Humble lease which embraces the Matador Land and Cattle Company's property is located principally in this county while a large acreage is within Cottle county, and smaller quantities in Floyd, Dickens and Hall counties.

Former Residents Suffering Illness

Mrs. Flora Shira who resided here for several years before going to Lubbock to make her home with her daughter, Mrs. Wilburn Cox, is reported to be in a serious condition there, as a result of a cerebral tumor.

Mrs. Gene Luker of Levelland, also a former Matador Resident, who has been critically ill at the home of her parents at Wellington, is improving from a serious throat and sinus ailment, according to recent reports.

Pastor Continues Revival Meeting

Rev. D. D. Denison, pastor of the local Methodist Church who has been conducting a revival meeting at Baird, returned home the first of the week, accompanied by Mrs. Denison and her son, James Dickey, who visited relatives at Elgin. They left Monday afternoon for Center Plains, where Rev. Denison is conducting a one week meeting this week.

An announcement is made by Rev. Denison that evening preaching services will be dismissed at the Methodist Church during the Baptist revival, which will begin Sunday, in order that that congregation might lend its support to the meeting.

Assembly Of God Services Continue

The Assembly of God revival will continue on another week with J. B. Singleton as the evangelist. The main service will begin each evening at eight o'clock with a Junior service and a young people's service immediately preceding. The revival is being held under an open air tent at the rear of the church lot. Preliminaries will be in joint charge of Rev. G. W. Pitts and Bro. W. L. Pitts. The evangelist has charge of the Junior and Young People's services.

GIVE PICNIC

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Willett were hosts at a picnic supper on their lawn Tuesday evening, complimenting Mrs. T. Pryce Metcalfe and her children, Marilyn and Pryce Jr., of Franklin, who are visiting here with Mrs. Metcalfe's mother, Mrs. C. L. Glenn.

Other guests included Mr. and Mrs. Farris Fish and sons, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Woodruff and children and Mrs. Lottie Hunsucker.

Harp Challenges Alexander Record

We want it understood that this space is duly paid for by friends of R. A. (Allen) Harp. Mr. Harp has had no free editorials written in his behalf. He has had no speaker from outside this district to attempt to influence the people to vote for him. He has run a clean race. He has left it to the judgement of the people his candidacy for the office of State Representative. He has withstood murmur, free and unfair publicity favoring his opponent. He has realized that it is impossible for him to compete, through advertising, with free editorials in the pages of several papers throughout the district. There comes a time when a patient man is tried beyond the limit of human endurance, and he must rise up in righteous wrath for the protection of right. That limit was reached when Mr. Alexander sent a telegram to the Governor-Elect, W. Lee O'Daniel, offering his congratulations and co-operation. Harp has not mentioned Mr. Alexander on his record before, and perhaps regrets very much that conditions have arisen, making it seem advisable for his friends to do so. He holds no grudge against Mr. Alexander and could not be induced to bring personalities into this race. The people deserve to know the man's record who serves them, and it is with all kindness that we mention Mr. Alexander's record.

Because of limited space we will discuss only Mr. Alexander's record on the old age pension program of Texas. The first thing that we wish to call to your attention is that during the regular session of the 44th Legislature on June 1930, Mr. Alexander voted against House Joint Resolution, No. 6. This was the resolution which amended the Constitution and was submitted to a vote of the people for the authorization of the payment of old age pensions. Mr. Alexander voted against this resolution. He was one of the thirteen who did so. If you recall, the people voted for this amendment to the constitution by more than four to one. As a citizen, I went to the polls and voted for old age pensions. As your representative, Mr. Alexander went to the Legislature and voted against it, by refusing the people a right to vote on an important question.

the conference report on House Bill 8, which included the deliberalization of old age pensions, thereby cutting off many deserving citizens of this state, who had for many years paid taxes for the sustenance of their government. This deliberalization law was the one which they provided among other things, that aged persons with children able to take care of them were ineligible for the pension.

Mr. O'Daniel was elected governor on July 23, setting out a definite old age pension program. In his campaign, Mr. O'Daniel particularly condemned this provision of law, providing that where old people have children they shall not receive old age assistance.

How can Mr. Alexander cooperate with him in his program and be sincere and consistent when his own record is against it? He voted not to let the people vote at all on the old age pension, and then voted for deliberalization of pensions, both of which are not in accord with the principles of the platform of the governor-elect. According to Mr. Alexander's record, it will be utterly impossible for him to co-operate with Mr. O'Daniel, because he doesn't believe like Mr. O'Daniel does. At least he didn't believe that way, and if he does now it is because he had a change of heart July 23rd.

Harp is not trying to ride on the coat tail of W. Lee O'Daniel. He has never told anyone that he is an O'Daniel man, but his platform closely coincides with his. He had been in the race for representative several months when O'Daniel announced for governor, and he has not changed his platform since he announced. Therefore, he can and will cooperate with the governor-elect, W. Lee O'Daniel.

Also, Harp wishes his friends and supporters in Motley County to know that he is working hard to be our next Representative and with the support previously given from this county, feels certain of victory.

(Note: Anyone doubting the truth of these statements is cordially invited to go to the courthouse and look up the page numbers given in the House Journal.)

Climaxing this six day school will be the all-star gridiron clash between the Senior all-stars of the North and South Texas teams next Saturday, August 6 at Texas Tech stadium. This windup feature of the school—the dream game in interscholastic football—is expected to draw a record attendance.

This is the fourth game of its kind, last year's battle being staged in Waco. Choice tickets still remain on sale at 75 cents with end zone seats selling at forty cents. Sports fans of the South Plains will not want to miss this exhibition—the prelude to 1938 football.

Bradford's 'Rock' Is A Meteorite

The rock that C. L. Bradford found on his farm southeast of Floydada some months ago and which has been on display in The Hesperian office window for weeks, was hurled to the earth from the skies when some terrestrial body whipped through space and got caught in the gravitational pull of this sphere.

This is the verdict of Denver experts to whom a sample was submitted recently through the good office of Dr. Edgar A. Howard, of Philadelphia. A telegram this week confirmed this fact. In Denver is located one of the outstanding students of meteorites in America. He said unquestionably the piece of metal or rock is a particle from a meteor.

Mr. Bradford found the metallic appearing mass weighing 27 pounds in his pasture recently. Hit with a nail or hammer it gives off a tinkle or ring like a bell.

When it hit the earth and buried itself on the Bradford farm is not known.

The Textile and Culinary exhibits will be shown this year at the Golden Jubilee Celebration of the State Fair of Texas in the Educational Building, as will the Hobby Show, the nature study, club, school and other interesting exhibits.

Salted Water Will Prevent Heat Cramps

AUSTIN, Texas.—If your work is such that it causes excessive perspiration, add a pinch of ordinary table salt to each drink of water you take to help prevent heat cramps.

Workmen whose duties require muscular exertion should be especially careful to add more than the usual amount of salt to what they eat and drink.

Salt deficiency may be prevented by taking salt in various ways. Where prepared tablets are not available, table salt may be added to each drink of water.

Heat cramp is characterized by pains (cramps) in the abdominal region, headache, and in severe cases, by nausea and vomiting. The body temperature remains about normal, likewise the pulse rate.

VILLAGE OF TEPOZTLAN...

An isolated Indian village in Mexico has been brought into the lime-light, thanks to two men: Dr. Redfield, the anthropologist, whose monograph "Tepoztlan" formed the basis for Stuart Chase's Mexico—"A Study of Two Americas."

Dr. Redford shows us the customs of the inhabitants of Tepoztlan, as well as their folk-lore, ceremonies pertaining to weddings and death. He takes us into their huts, into their fields, shows us their art handicrafts.

Be that as it may, the fact still remains that the most affluent of the Mexicans in Tepoztlan avail themselves of the machine age.

In consequence of my readings, I decided to pay Tepoztlan a short visit.

The highway leading from Cuernavaca to Tepoztlan, passes through very fine scenic stretches of countryside. One never loses sight of the castellated crags that rise up on all sides—the views of the snow-capped volcanoes.

I got out of the car and walked towards this church set far back from the roadside. I walked thru tall, unkempt grass and weeds. Here and there bits of color were flashed to me—blues, yellows and purples—wildflowers growing amidst the grass and weeds.

ON THE ROOF— Then I was conducted by my guide, who also acted in capacity of chauffeur, upstairs and out upon the roof. A glorious panorama was revealed to our sight.

Everything For The Home, Farm and Ranch Higginbotham-Bartlett Co. LUMBER, BUILDING SUPPLIES AND HARDWARE

flanking cell-like rooms, once more I passed the patio with its banana trees, once more I emerged into the courtyard before the church. Grass, weeds, flowers, butterflies all as before—all but the skinny dog who had sought other fields where food might be forthcoming.

I soon entered the waiting car and settled back, closing my eyes to formulate my impression, to again explore this village as Dr. Redfield had disclosed it in his book, as Stuart Chase had contrasted it with a typical city of the United States.

FLITTING MENTAL IMAGES—

In my mind's eye, I again saw the interior of these peon's huts—saw again their small hearth, their stone metate on which corn had been ground for tortillas.

IN HONOR OF TEPOZTECO—

Then I turned time back—it was now the 8th of September, the culminating day after a week's religious celebration. I saw their pyramid-temple on the side of the cliffs overlooking the valley, saw their great God, Tepozteco, dance with his rattle in hand, chanting, wearing his huge feathered headpiece, his fringed skirt, his purple stockings.

Nor were these ceremonies confined solely to the pyramid on the cliff, other ceremonies were being held in the church I had just visited. Even on the roof people were celebrating—on that very roof I had just left.

My mental cogitations being over, I opened my eyes; we were approaching the outskirts of Cuernavaca and I directed the driver to take me up the hill so that I might have a chance to inspect my first pyramid while in Mexico, the Pyramid of Teopanzalco.

MEXICAN PYRAMIDS VS. EGYPTIAN PYRAMIDS—

As every one knows, the pyramids of Egypt are gigantic tombs of their ancient rulers. Here within the confines of a huge mass of masonry are the royal chambers housing the royal tombs, sarcophagi with their accompanying trophies of furniture, gems and golden jewelry, their 'ka', or spirit, to accompany their former master on his long journey.

So far as is known, Mexican pyramids were not used as places of sepulcher. These truncated, terraced pyramids were but sub-structures on which temples were erected in honor of their gods, principally, the Plumed Serpent, Quetzalcoatl, who had taught the natives the arts of husbandry and sundry other things, their great and beneficent protector, teacher and friend.

As far as height is concerned, these pyramids of Mexico are much inferior to their Egyptian prototypes. The tallest Mexican one is only about half as high as the Pyramid—say Cheops, in Egypt. But in cubical content some of these are not only as large but larger, than the Egyptian ones.

As this was the first pyramid I had encountered in my Mexican peregrinations, it impressed me differently than it would have done had I seen some of the others, especially the larger ones, before. This structure is more complicated than the usual run. It has two stairways leading up to the summit on which one still sees vestiges of the temples that formerly stood there in all their impressiveness.

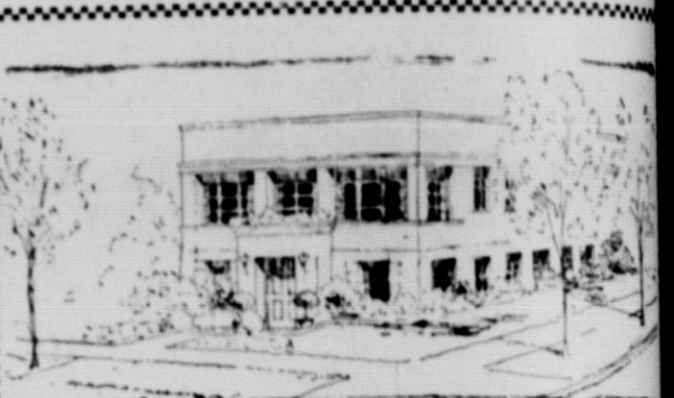

The original pyramid was built by the Toltecs, while later on superimpositions were added by the Aztecs. This is a typical procedure. While in the National Museum in Mexico City I remember very well seeing a small plaster model of the pyramid of Tenayuca. This model was cut through revealing a cross section. One could distinctly make out six different additions that had been made upon the original one. This pyramid at Teopanzalco makes one think of three things mainly: Age, labor and devotion. The centuries it has stood, the long time required in its building both the original and the super-structure, also the devotion to their great God Quetzalcoatl, their divine protector and friend.

I am glad I saw this one first, for had I seen it after the great ones, say at Teotihuacan, Cholula or Thanpan, this one would have seemed merely an anti-climax.
