He is tall and lean, with skin like saddle left in the sun. When he was younger he used to roll his own cigarettes with one hand while getting his rope ready to drop on another calf in the round-up. He smokes ready-rolls now but says some of the new ones smell like wet cow chips burning in a pit beneath the coffee pot.

Man is such a vain creature that his personal appearance is more important than his attitude toward his fellow man; his looks more vital than the reflection that must eventually be visible in eternity.

A friend who will soon become interested in the benefits of Medicare, says his father had unusual eyesight. He could see over a hill when his son was leaning on a hoe handle instead of chopping cotton.

A religious song which is new to me, says that prayers are mere words but that religion is faith.

The minority group overlook a salient factor in attempting to force their various issues with violence. More than ninety per cent of the people in this nation are faithful, law-abiding citizens who look to the future with inspiration and confidence. They have, however, slipped into a state of lethargy regarding the perils that constantly confront progress. The only thing that can possibly bring them together in a united front is violence that threatens the things of which their dreams are composed.

Most students will agree that walking to school is healthful exercise, but the same might be said of prisoners walking to their execution.

Weakness may be present at all times but it is more evident when we are scared.

We can't solve all of our problems with money, but enough of it would reduce the discomforts and anxiety to a point where they would no longer provide subjects for conversation.

Anger has no place in an argument unless you have decided to concede, run, or fight.

More than a Million Dollars Made In Single Oil Venture

THIS IS A FOOTNOTE TO HISTORY: Eleven men had leased 160 acres of land in the Burk Burnett oil field in the spring of 1919. They had signed a note for $22,000 for interest in the Texas Chief oil well. When the well came in a gusher, May 25, 1919, they sold their investment for 80 to 1.

More than a million dollars came to Motley County in a single day, although months may have passed before all negotiations were completed.

Every dollar invested brought $80, or $160,000 to each investor. There were two exceptions. Fred C. Bourland and I. F. Fish sold when they were offered a profit of $40,000 each. The others kept their interests.

Fred Bourland, now bookkeeper at El Matador Travel Center, is the only surviving member of the group.

Matador had two banks in 1919, the present First State Bank and the Farmers and Merchants Bank. Mr. Bourland was then executive vice-president of the First State. He says the combined deposits of the two banks in the spring of that year totaled about $85,000. After the sale of the Texas Chief the deposits were over $500,000.

Some of the investors did not live here and others put money in other banks.

Rancher Goes to Oil Field Oil had taken the place of gold in the minds of men in 1919. Wealth was exploding in various parts of Texas and the Burk Burnett Field was starting. Jerry-built shacks were serving as buildings for cafes, stores and offices. The cafes were mixing hot cake batter in barrels and men were standing in line to get a little food at any price.

Henry Hobbs had a ranch west of Matador in the foothills, but 1918 had been a dry year and the cattle market had broken. It may have been the hand of destiny that prompted him to go to the Burk Burnett oil field.

He didn't have any money, but began checking the apparent trend of the oil field. From his

Time Runs Out On Car Owners

Time has run out on many motor vehicle owners who have failed to secure 1968 inspection stickers in the 60-county Region 5 of the Texas Department of Public Safety. There simply is not enough time left before April 15.

The inspection sticker is as important as the license plates for legal operation of a motor vehicle.

Many of the automobiles will require seat belts under the new law and there are not enough belts available, according to Ralph Briscoe, Safety Education Officer of the Texas Department of Public Safety from Wichita Falls, who was in Matador Tuesday.

He said only 30% (202,122) of the 690,234 vehicles in Region 5 have been inspected. Motley County has 1,717 total motor vehicles with 33%, or 560 inspected.

Motley County has four inspection stations: Super Service Station, Roaring Springs; Matador Auto Co. and Red's Fina Station in Matador, and Thomas Garage in Flomot.

"Seat belts are in short supply," Briscoe said, "and they are required on all passenger cars from 1962 models. They are also required on some late 1965 Ford pickups, and all pickups from the 1966 models. Inspection stations are reluctant to buy a large supply of belts without knowing the extent of the demand."

Inspection is not required to buy license plates, but it is required after April 15 for vehicle operation.

Donley County has the largest per cent of vehicles inspected, 41, and Hartley the lowest, 5, in the region. Greatest congestion is expected in the areas of largest population, but the factor of time affects all 60 counties.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Neighbors visited their children, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Ray Neighbors and family of Granbury and Mr. and Mrs. Billy Myers and children of Morgan, last week. They returned by Mogan, where they visited Mrs. Neighbor's sister, Mrs. Mae Wagley and other relatives.

New Arctic Storm Blasts Panhandle

IT WAS A SHORT summer of two days duration. Residents going to church here Sunday night were forced to scrape ice from windshields. Monday afternoon it was warm enough to turn on car air-conditioners.

Tuesday was more of the same, a beautiful spring-like day with the mercury climbing to 71 degrees. A new arctic storm hitting here about midnight, changed all that in a short time. First high north winds and then the

By daylight yesterday the mercury had dropped to 19 degrees, with snow falling. Bob Stanley registered .06-inch of moisture from the snow.

Amarillo reported a 60 degree drop in temperature after the storm struck. A low of 13 degrees above zero was expected there last night. A continuation of the blizzard is expected today by weathermen, with the possibility of more snow.

Speaker Says Boys Need Encouraging

BOYS NEED encouragement, a pat on the back "A Boy Needs A Boost," according to Wendell Tooley, publisher of the Floyd County Hesperian, Floydada, who was principal speaker Tuesday night at the 31st annual Father-Son Banquet held in the basement of the First Baptist Church. Tooley was introduced by Tribune publisher Lion Douglas Meador.

"I was glad to be invited to

Big Oil Tank Springs Leak

A lot of oil got away Monday afternoon when the Scurlock Oil Company's 5,000-barrel tank at Whiteflat sprung a leak from beneath the reservoir. Bill Palmer, who was "cleaning up" around the storage saw the oil gushing out and notified Roy Hankins who operates the pumps and pipeline from the Roaring Springs Fields.

Hankins said 577 barrels escaped before the 1½-inch hole was stopped. A pit was hastily dug by Jameson Machinery Co. and most of the oil recovered and pumped back into the tank.

"We were fortunate we did not have a fire," Hankins declared. "The Roaring Springs oil is 40% gravity and will burn like gasoline."

Oil is pumped from the Whiteflat storage into the Service Pipeline company's line at that point.

Method of closing the hole in the big tank was not simple, or easy. A tunnel was first dug under the tank (while the crude oil was flowing out) then an iron plate covered with rubber pressed against the hole with a hydraulic jack.

FFA Judging Team Wins First Place

The Matador FFA Livestock judging team brought home the first place trophy after participating in the Hereford judging contest, Saturday, Feb. 17.

Sixteen FFA teams participated from over the area. The winning score was 1210, out of a possible 1350. Nazareth was second with 1174 and Amarillo was third with 1163.

Darrell Cruse tied for high individual in sheep judging with a score of 148 out of a possible 150. Glen Moss tied for high individual in beef judging with a score of 147 out of a possible 150. Other members of the team were Larry Bostick and Darrell Marshall.

The team plans to participate in the Top O' Texas contest to be held March 5th in Pampa. Vo-ag teacher Bill Moss is also FFA chapter sponsor.

Matador, because it is the home of the Sour Dough Singers and of outstanding young men such as the late Paul Eubank, who founded the Father-Son Banquet here the achievements of youth is always good news." Tooley cited the pleasure he receives when his newspaper can boost the achievements of young people. The daily newspapers, he said, seem to "play up" the sensational news.

"Fathers need to have concern for their sons," Tooley declared, "because boys want to be taken seriously. Everyone, including our sons, wants love and affection. It is also important that our sons be taught moral values in a place of worship... we must boost our sons with a positive attitude."

Tooley, who has two boys (and two girls) admitted that "... we have every known kind of labor and time-saving device, and still we are often too busy to devote time to our children... the most important thing we can give our boys is association and companionship."

He concluded his address with a marble on which was inscribed the Golden Rule. "It is symbolical of all the great religions of the world," he declared, "and it is like the Love of God—without beginning and without end." He said war hasn't solved anything in the history of mankind and mankind apparently hasn't learned anything.

Young Farmer Meeting Called

A meeting will be held in the Matador Vocational Agriculture department Monday night, February 26, at 7:30, of all young men of the county who are interested in forming a Young Farmer chapter.

"We have felt the need for a Young Farmer organization for some time but neither community had sufficient numbers to organize," said Vo-ag teachers Bill Peacock of Roaring Springs and Bill Moss of Matador, in making the announcement.

"We have therefore decided to explore the feasibility of a county-wide organization. All men who are interested are invited to meet with us on the date set."

Maximum age for active membership is 35, but anyone over that age may be an associate member, the sponsors stated.

Mrs. Bill Lowrimore of Lubbock visited here Monday with her mother, Mrs. H. Plemons and accompanied her to Crosbyton for a medical check up.

HOME IS TOTAL LOSS in a fire last Thursday morning in northeast Matador. Home of Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Lee Smith was in flames before it was discovered. Members of Matador Volunteer Fire Department tried to bring the fire under control with water on truck, but later carried hose a long distance to fire plug in the colored residential section of town. Cold weather and frozen ground hampered their work. Only a few articles of clothing and a TV were saved. Fire is believed to have started when a door on which clothing was hanging, was opened over a gas stove. None of the family was at home. —Tribune photo

Message from Ecclesiastes Inspires Youth

A message from the Book of Ecclesiastes in the Old Testament, Sunday night inspired young people of the community, parents and friends assembled at the First Baptist Church.

Speaker was the Rev. John Fitzgerald, pastor of the First Methodist Church who presented the message in Union Church Services held annually in community recognition of the local youth.

Rev. Fitzgerald used as his subject, "This Is Your Life," and pursued the theme as read from the 11th chapter of Ecclesiastes, by Scout Ricky Hacker.

"Rejoice in the days of thy youth—do what comes naturally, have a good time, but be prepared to pay the price," he admonished his listeners. "You have the power of choice... some of you will waste your life. Others will succeed. It is your life, but I will advise that you lose your life to greater values than simple pleasures."

He cited four ways in which "we can lose our lives," to great advantage. To God (a man must empty himself to find God); the Home (youth should have a respect for home ties; should swallow desire to live your life as you please, which often causes heartaches); the Church (in losing your life to the church, you will find more than you lose); and to your Country (we should love this land because of what it has given us—for freedom and opportunities.)

Touching on a patriotic note, Rev. Fitzgerald declared, "The fear of Communism is keeping us from winning the war in Vietnam... however, until Communism wins this country it hasn't won anything. All the other nations under its power do not equal the values found here."

Master of Ceremonies was Scout Berry Bostick. A reading, "And The Joys I Found" (Euda-Bates) was given by Frank Wellington, and other members of Matador Boy Scout Troop 60 serving as ushers were Robin Smalley, Jack Williams, Douglas Meador and Ricky Hacker.

Special music was by the Matador School Junior Choir. Directed by Mrs. Ronald Davenport they sang, "Jacob's Vision," and "Let There Be Peace On Earth." Wayne Logan, Music and Youth Director of the First Baptist Church led the congregational singing. Invocation was by Rev. Carl Savage, pastor of the Assembly of God Church, and presentation of the speaker was by Rev. Larry Heard, Baptist pastor.

Mother-Daughter Banquet Theme Features "South Of The Border"

Mothers and daughters attending the thirtieth annual Mother-Daughter Banquet Monday night in the basement of First Baptist Church, were entertained with a program featuring "South of the Border." Songs and skits were original and performed by eighth grade and high school students.

Invocation was by Mrs. Stuart Dixon and Mrs. Billy Ray Slover was Mistress of Ceremonies.

A delicious barbecue supper was served at card tables, with a stage in the center of the room. Mexican and Spanish decorations furnished colorful surroundings for the program.

Mother and daughter welcome and response was by Mrs. June Tilson and Deborah Tilson, Debra James, Jan Higginbotham, Patty Edwards and Laura Jacobs comprised a senior singing group who sang, "South of the Border," at the opening and "Vio Con Dios" at the conclusion of the program.

A group of freshman girls presented a skit written by Jeanette Day, which was narrated by Jan Higginbotham, who introduced a senorita, a Latin Lover and a group of hombres in action ending in a duel. The cast included Debra Garrison, Brigid Barton, Arleta Meyer, Jeanette Day, Debbie Smallwood, Melissa Bailey, Olive Curlee and Cindy Marshall.

An eighth grade group of girls singing "Celento Linda" included Ann Timmons, Shane Stevens, Kay Cooper, Johnny Taylor, Peggy Marrs, Pam Schuchart, Charla Wason and Krista Price.

In a bullfight skit, narrated by Vickie Holt, the spotlight was held by Carol Martin, Cheryl Moore, Seven Smith and Kathy Lawrence, seniors.

Patty Edwards was a strolling serenader during the dinner. The program was titled "Un poquita de tu Armor," or A little of your love.

First Mother-Daughter banquet held thirty years ago, was sponsored by the Matador Child Welfare Association, which later became the Parent-Teacher Association. The subsequent organization sponsored the banquet annually until it disbanded. Since that time, the Eternas Junior Study Club has been the sponsor.

COUNTY AGENT PALLMEYER SAYS:

If you plan to buy USDA Choice Yield 5 beef, be sure you know what you are getting. Yield grade 5 is the lowest grading yield grade carcasses available, with 1 being the top group.

Yield grades are based on the estimated yield of boneless, closely trimmed steak and roast meat which can be obtained from the loin, rib, round, rump and chuck in relation to carcass weight. Estimated yields for the different grades are: Yield grade 1, 52.6% and up; YG 2, 50.3-52.3%; YG 3, 48.0-50.0%; YG 4, 45.7-47.7%; and YG 5, 45.4% and below.

Normally, yield grade 5 carcasses are not a good buy unless they are priced very low. You can add about 25-30% to the above figures for the percentage of take home meat from the hanging weight.

Both the Junior and Senior 4-H Livestock Judging teams placed 3rd in district competition at Wichita Falls on Feb. 8th. Alternate was James Palmer, Roaring Springs, with 419 points. Junior team members were Lance Jameson, Matador, with 481 points; Buddy Allen, Roaring Springs, 451 points; and Tommy Palmer, Roaring Springs, 431 points. Johnny Palmer, Roaring Springs, was alternate, with 372 points. Also competing as alternate was Steve Stevens, Matador, who scored 442 points.

Transportation was provided by Mr. and Mrs. Bill Palmer, Roaring Springs and myself. I would also like to thank Bill Peacock, Roaring Springs, for coaching the Roaring Springs boys.

Liquid supplemental feeding is receiving more and more attention, and research has proven that it is feasible. Water soluble nutrients are available and special formulations, even for individual cattlemen can be prepared.

Molasses is the basic material used and is the readily available energy source required when feeding non-protein nitrogen (urea) materials. Mineral phosphate is known to be deficient in dry roughages and mature pasture forage, and this may be added in the water soluble form. Vitamin A, sometimes a problem, can also be added in the liquid mix.

The combination of molasses and urea automatically limits consumption to approximately two to four pounds per head per day to mature cattle, depending on the quality and quantity of forage. This self-limiting amount, preferred by producers, also will help cut feed costs and permit all cattle in the same pasture a more equitable share of the feed.

Equipment costs and services should be considered in appraisal of this feeding method. These can be relatively inexpensive or very expensive. This factor alone may sometimes cause liquid protein supplements to be more expensive than oil seed protein feed.

Liquid supplemental feeding has a place in the present and future cattle industry. It is expected to gain a more prominent place when the ingredient prices become more competitive with presently used feed supplements.

The six micronutrients also play a vital part in soil fertility, especially after the major and secondary elements are present in the correct amounts. I will cover iron first.

Plants absorb iron through the roots and leaves. It is vital to the respiratory enzyme and essential to chlorophyll formation. As iron is immobile, it is not translocated from the older parts to the younger parts of the plant, therefore new leaves exhibit chlorosis while old leaves may remain green. Yellowing occurs between the veins, and may proceed to a complete white discoloration, with even the veins losing their green color.

The most susceptible crops are sorghum, corn, beans, fruit trees and ornamentals. Foliar sprays of 1% to 3% solutions are suggested, as supplying iron through the soil has not been satisfactory. To make a 2 1/2% solution, add 1 oz. of FeSO 4 to 1 gallon of water, adding a pinch of detergent. Not much iron is required, and one reason why iron is one of the micronutrients is that only 2,000 parts are required by plants, where 1,000,000 parts of Nitrogen are required; 30,000 parts of Phosphorus and 400,000 parts of Potash.

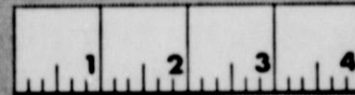

If iron deficiency is suspected, spray some of the affected leaves with the solution previously mentioned, and see if you receive a response.

DOCTOR OF PODIATRY — FAMILY FOOT SPECIALIST

The Doctor of Podiatry or Podiatrist, as he is usually called, is the specialist responsible for the care of feet. He is concerned with the diagnosis, prevention and treatment of foot disorders by medical and surgical means. He was formerly known as a chiropodist.

Six Years of Higher Education Required

It takes six years of higher education to become a Podiatrist. A minimum of two years of pre-podiatry college work is required for entrance into a professional school. The podiatry course is four years in length.

Colleges of podiatry are accredited by the Council on Education of the American Podiatry Association. The Council is recognized by the U.S. Office of Education as the official accrediting agency for colleges of podiatry.

On completing academic, clinical, and other requirements, the graduate is awarded his Doctor's degree. He then can undertake internship training, postgraduate and refresher courses; and participate in scientific sessions and seminars.

Podiatrists entering private practice are required to pass a state board examination.

What Does a Podiatrist Do?

Most Podiatrists treat all types of foot problems for all ages, but many carry their specialization further. They may serve patients needing only foot surgery or patients with other problems — defects, diseases, and injuries of the bones and joints of the foot. Some concentrate on podopediatrics (children's foot ailments) or on podogeriatrics (foot problems of the elderly).

Surgical treatment may be required for such conditions as ingrown nails, tumors, bone deformities, shortened tendons and cysts.

Foot infections, skin disorders and ulcers are other ailments the Podiatrist treats.

Where Does He Serve?

The Podiatrist is engaged mostly in private practice but he also devotes time to service on hospital, clinic and nursing home staffs.

In addition to officer status in the Armed Forces, Podiatrists are on duty in Veterans Administration Hospitals and city health departments. They participate in government-sponsored and industrial health programs. Podiatrists also serve on faculties of medical schools and schools of nursing.

Why Should You See a Podiatrist?

For the same reason you seek out a specialist in ailments of other parts of the body. Self-treatment often causes infection and can transform a relatively minor condition into a much more serious one.

In addition, foot problems are sometimes symptoms of such serious general health disorders as diabetes, arthritis, heart disease, kidney ailments and arteriosclerosis. The Podiatrist is trained to recognize such trouble and when he does, he promptly refers the patient to the family doctor. As a member of the health team, the Podiatrist consults with other medical specialists in treating diseases affecting the whole patient.

For additional information, write The American Podiatry Association, 3301 Sixteenth Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20010.

species. Of these, probably about 5 will be major plants supporting most of the grazing. Each plant has its level of palatability which will vary with periods of growth or seasons of the year. Some plants, like blue grama are palatable nearly all year. Continuous grazing, even tho' it is not stocked heavy, will result in these plants being overgrazed while the unpalatable plants, like tobosa grasses, are getting deferment or little use.

Experiment Stations at Sonora, Barnhart and Throckmorton have all found better animal performance and faster range improvement through a systematic rotation of deferments. During grazing periods the pastures are stocked heavy enough to force the stock to use some of the less desirable plants. Then a complete rest gives all plants an even chance to increase.

Following brush control is another critical period for deferment. It takes 3-4 times as much water to grow a pound of dry mesquite as it takes for 1 pound of grass. When the brush stands using moisture, the surrounding plants will start growing and spreading, if they have a chance. A full growing season deferment following brush control will give the desirable plants a chance to use this moisture and grow into healthy plants. Grazing after brush control holds back the desirables and lets the poorer plants increase.

Deferred Grazing Stressed by SCS

According to information from the local Soil Conservation Service, Motley county has received less than average annual rainfall for the past 5 years. As a result the grasses on most of our rangelands have been losing vigor. With good fall moisture and above average moisture to start this year, we should expect some regrowth on our grasses this year. This spring and summer will be a critical period to give the grasses a chance to make growth and build up the root systems to increase plant vigor.

Deferred Grazing is the best practice to accomplish this. By giving a pasture a complete rest, you are giving every plant a chance to grow. If you cut down the stock and don't defer, you will benefit the less desirable grasses. Stock will keep on eating the better plants.

Most pastures have from 15-25 or more different grass monies when the Father-Son Banquet was organized 31 years ago. Tribute was paid to Lt. Paul Eubank, who organized the Father-Son Banquet and later lost his life in the South Pacific during World War II.

Master of Ceremonies Tuesday night was Scout Lamar Tilson. Singing of America was led by Lion J. R. Whitworth and announcements and introduction of guests were by Boss Lion Charles Johnson. Invocation was by Rev. Larry Heard, Baptist pastor.

Boss Lion Johnson gave the Address of Welcome and expressed appreciation to the VFW and others who are not members of the Matador Lions Club for their work in preparing food and other help. "The Father-Son Banquet has become a community affair," he said.

Due to circumstances, neither of his sons accompanied Mr. Tooley to the banquet as previously planned, and Darrell Moore was his "son" for the evening.

The Scout Benediction concluded the program.

PATIENTS RETURN HOME

Mrs. Clay Hart, who also had recent surgery in the Quana Hospital, was accompanied home Saturday by Mr. Hart.

 earnings in selling oil leases, he acquired an option on 160 acres of land. He would need $22,000 in the matter of a few days or lose the option. He returned to Matador and talked to his friend, Fred Bourland.

They considered seriously the risk involved, even if they could raise the money. Not all wells drilled were producers, but Hobbs believed in the new location and Bourland believed in Hobbs.

They decided to sell interest in the project at $2,000 each. Several men, able to buy, refused but 11 men did buy. They were A. B. Echols, A. D. Beauchamp, W. R. Dirickson, Jack Luckett, T. G. Duncan, W. A. (Raldo) Newman Oscar Williams, J. R. Moore, I. F. Fish, Bourland and Hobbs. They went to the First National Bank in Wichita Falls and borrowed the money.

At first the well did not look too promising but things improved and other oil men wanted to buy the holdings. It was then that Bourland and Fish sold.

"I could see that $40,000 profit," Bourland says, "and I knew the note was coming due, but two ill-fated loans to friends after I received the money took most of what I had made."

"There was much excitement in Matador after the Texas Chief was sold," Bourland recalls, "and as I remember, 20 Buick automobiles were bought, besides other makes. However, 1919 was a good crop year."

Motley County was open country for oil stock salesmen after the Texas Chief. Many lost money and others made money in the purchase of oil stocks. A short time later there was much excitement in drilling for oil in the county. The newspaper even changed its name to the "Gusher," but it was two decades before there was any production in the county, in the Roaring Springs Field in 1957.

Substantial Wealth
 Motley County had been known as a county of substantial wealth before the Texas Chief but the oil well deserves a place in history for adding to that wealth.

During the dark days of 1933 when banks were closing all over the country, and people were losing their savings, Motley County stood solid and no depositor lost a dime. The county had three banks at the time but the First State Bank was strong enough to withstand the crisis, while losses were sustained on four sides.

Fred Bourland was born in Coleman County, near Santa Anna, January 2, 1890. His parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Bourland moved to the Plains in 1891, and later moved to Motley County in 1897. He has lived here for over 71 years.

He was married to Miss Kathryn Hamilton here, September 4, 1916 at her home. They have three children. They are, Fred C. Bourland of Wetaskiwin, Canada, Thomas A. Bourland of Lubbock, and Mrs. J. P. McCarty of Battle Mountain, Nevada.

Ed Smith Picture Fund 'Over Top'

The Tribune's drive to raise $25 for the purchase of the painting of veteran cowboy Ed D. Smith, has been over subscribed. Now a frame has been ordered for the 16x20 portrait by Fort Worth artist Rogers Melton.

The Tribune will give all money received, above cost of picture and frame, to the old time cowboy as a "birthday" present. He was 73 on February 4th.

Any contributor who may object to "extra cash" going to Ed D., may secure a refund at the Tribune. Several contributions were refused after the needed amount was received for the picture and before it was decided to buy the frame and give the extra to Smith.

Following contributions have been received by the newspaper since last week: R. E. Campbell Sr., $1, James Bearden $1, J. B. Cooper $1, Gus and Catherine Bird $1, Wayland Moore $1, J. R. Whitworth $1, Farris Fish $1, Alton Marshall $1, Melvin Dirickson $2, Odis Killingworth $1, Mr. and Mrs. A. Z. Martin, Amarillo $7, Pat Seigler $1, Mrs. U. L. Willie $1, Humpy Briggs, Floydada $1, Harry Hamilton, Lubbock, $2, Charles Payne, Silverton $1, Annie Mae Jackson $1, Pat Sheridan $1, D. I. W. Birnie $2, J. M. Hill Jr. $3.
