

Norther Sets New Mark For Mercury

Lowest Temperature Of Season Recorded Over Panhandle

A cold wave which struck this section about noon Monday, dropped the mercury to the lowest levels this season when 19 above zero was shown yesterday morning. Only slight moderation was shown yesterday throughout the day and citizens kept in-doors generally, except when exposure to the weather was necessary. L. R. Bishop, returning from Amarillo late yesterday declared that snow was falling in the plains city when he left during the afternoon. No clouds were visible here at sundown, however, but the brisk north wind increased the power of the lowered temperature.

Over Entire Area

Sub-freezing weather was reported throughout Northwest Texas and Oklahoma and stock warnings were issued by the radio stations. The lowest temperature reported in the nation yesterday was at West Gate, Montana, where the mercury dropped to 25 degrees below zero.

The cold wave did little damage to crops and livestock in this section, ranchers and farmers declared, but cotton picking was halted soon after the chilling wind struck Monday.

Better Cotton Meeting Held

Fifty cotton producers from all parts of Motley County met at the courthouse Friday in the interest of quality improvement. E. A. Miller, agronomist, and F. E. Lichte, cotton ginning specialist from the A. & M. College Extension Service, addressed the meeting. They attributed much of the loss of our foreign cotton market to competition from other cotton growing countries who produce better quality. Means of improving the quality of Texas Cotton by better seed and more careful picking, ginning, and handling were cited by the speakers.

B. H. Buchanan, representative of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, described some of the advantages of one-variety communities. An assured seed supply, separate, ginning to keep seed pure and more effective marketing have long been recognized. In addition, recent federal legislation has provided free classing service and free market news to organized groups.

Frank A. Buckley, county agent was in charge of the program. He asked those present whether they were willing to work for a one-variety community and whether they were in favor of such a move. Each precinct, voting separately, indicated a unanimous sentiment for an organization in their part of the county. Plans were made to hold mass meetings in all the communities to decide on the variety to be used and select committees to sign up as much acreage as possible.

NEW GAS RATE IS ARRANGED

The P. K. Distributing Company of Lubbock, making installations of a Butane Gas system in Matador, has announced a change in the meter deposit plan, and the rate, according to Mayor G. T. Edwards. A customer will now be required to make a deposit of only $10.00 instead of the $21.00 previously required. The new arrangement is planned. However, there will be a minimum rate of $1.00 per month under the new arrangement. The company had at first planned that no minimum rate would be necessary. However, since the reduction in the meter deposit, the $1.00 minimum will be charged.

Mayor Edwards has been appointed by the company to act as their representative in Matador and those interested in the new fuel, may secure full information from him.

Dr. and Mrs. E. B. Jones left Wednesday afternoon for San Angelo, to spend Thanksgiving.

Matadors Win In Tilt With Estelline

The Matador Matadors won a decisive victory over the Estelline high school eleven on the Matador Arena here Thursday afternoon, with a margin of 18 to 8. Due to the white-hot interest in the Spur-Lockney game, which was played the following day and the lack of time in which to distribute publicity, only a small crowd of fans witnessed the conflict. The match with Estelline resulted after Spur was declared eligible by the Executive Committee in a series of meetings last week. The trade-out made it possible for Spur and Lockney to meet and decide district honors.

To Paducah Today

The Matadors will trek to Paducah today for the annual Thanksgiving game which will end their season. (Quote): Despite the dire predictions of some of the boys carrying the dope buckets the Matadors have a tradition at stake tomorrow, since the Paducah Dragons have not won over the Matadors in five years, and will probably come through with the old standard unsullied. Three Bison Purchased By Local Men

Part Of Famous Goodnight Herd Is Brought To County

Shades of the '70's! Buffalo returns to Motley county as ghosts of the thundering herds that vanished before the slaughtering smoke of the white man's rifle. Three buffalo cows were brought to Motley county Sunday, where hundreds of thousands of their ancestors grazed before the conquest of the whiteman. They are part of the famous 'Goodnight herd.

The three buffaloes were purchased by L. B. Robertson and Elbert Reeves from a livestock commission company at Higgins, Texas, and two will be used for breeding purposes, in order to start a herd of the great shaggy animals in this county. The third animal will be slaughtered for beef and sold through Mr. Robertson's market in his grocery store here. Four calves have been purchased from George Hawlett of Shattuck, Oklahoma, for delivery some time in December.

Buffaloes Are Wild

The buffaloes brought here Sunday are declared to be very wild and dangerous, to an extent which prevents the owners revealing their location at present, because of the danger which would result to the public viewing them. Everyone is cautioned not to go in the vicinity of the animal, in event the location of the keeping is discovered.

Mr. Robertson purchased the head of an animal which was slaughtered at Higgins while he was there and will have it mounted as an addition to his large collection of trophies.

Mr. Robinson and Mr. Reeves were accompanied to Higgins by County Agent Frank A. Buckley, Jim Canon, game warden, and Tom Canon of Paducah.

Junior Named Grid Queen

Jewell (The Real) McCoy, Junior, was named 1938 football queen by the Matador High School as a result of a hotly contested election which terminated yesterday afternoon. The leading candidate received 18,330 votes. Jimmie Lee Irby, Senior, was in second place with 6,300 votes. Frances Carpenter, Sophomore, received third place with 2,600 votes. Wanda Nelson, Freshman, received 450 votes.

Voting on popularity was done in cash contributions to be used for the annual football and pep squad banquet 9th. Each dollar counted as 1,000 votes. Voting boxes were located at various down-town business places for the past ten days.

The coronation ceremonies will be conducted at the football and pep squad banquet.

Lockney Wins Over Spur For B Title

Bulldogs Drop Honored Place To Plains Eleven

Lockney High's smothering offense proved too much for the Spur Bulldogs at Lockney Friday, the Longhorns winning championship of District 4B with a 12-to-0 triumph.

Both teams were undefeated in the title chase before the game. Each had tied with Flomot.

Lockney scored its points in the second and fourth quarters. Brotherton skirted end from the five-yard line for the first, then converted. In the fourth stanza, Hill, bruising Longhorn fullback, drove over for a counter from the three. Brotherton's kick was low.

Spur Makes Threat

Spur's lone threat came in the opening period. Pete Wilhoit, Spur back, dropped a pass on the 12-yard line to kill the drive. Andy Hurst scampered 30 yards for Spur in the final period, the longest gain of the game.

The Longhorns had an aggregate gain of 305 yards from passing and running, to Spur's 155. Lockney completed two of five attempted passes. The Bulldogs missed completion on seven heaves attempted.

Splendid Choir Is Aid To Atmosphere Of Thanksgiving

Residents of Matador and visitors from adjoining communities had the pleasure of attending the most impressive service of its kind ever give here when a charade, portraying the first Thanksgiving was presented at the First Baptist Church last night, under the capable direction of Paul Eubank.

White robed choristers formed an imposing background for the tableau of ten Pilgrim men and women, and an Indian Chief, seated about a festive board laden with the fruits of their harvest. A striking illumination effect was obtained by the use of candles, and indirect wall lamps.

The arrangement of the program was as follows: Processional, Holy, Holy, Holy; reading, Mrs. J. R. Whitworth; Entrance of Pilgrims; prayer, R. E. Campbell (at table); Vocal solo, Mrs. Myrtle Stubblefield (at table); short talk, R. E. Campbell (at table); anthem, choir; sermon, Rev. D. D. Denison; prayer, W. F. Jacobs (at table); recessional; benediction, Rev. Denison. The 103 Psalm was used for scripture reading, and theme of the sermon.

Mrs. Melvin Meason and Elmer Gen. Jameson accompanied Miss Roberta Jameson at the piano, with violins.

All Churches Unite

The cast and choir were composed of members from Matador churches, and had been in rehearsal for the past ten days. The impressive Pilgrim motif was unique in this instance, since it had never been used in a similar presentation, in this community before. The beauty and strength of the charade aided by the voices of the choir attained an atmosphere of reverence and gratitude, reflected in the hearts of the audience, for a peaceful and bountiful land.

Terraces Check Erosion Damage

Broad-based, level terraces with closed ends retain practically all the water on the land where it falls, giving an equal distribution of moisture which results in a uniform crop stand. Farmers of the wind erosion area are finding that yields on terraced fields are higher and that erosion is checked. Terraces are recommended wherever contour farming is not sufficient to prevent loss of water. This farmer is constructing a terrace on a field in one of the Soil Conservation Service demonstration areas.

MARSHALL FISKE

The Maya Indians, from time immemorial occupied what is now Guatemala and Honduras. They arrived before the beginning of our Christian era, but how many years before, no one knows. Here they remained until the 8th century, when for reasons unknown, they wandered northward and settled on the peninsula of Yucatan. Hundreds of these communities lie scattered in Yucatan and in Central America. Most of them are still hidden from view by the encroaching jungle. These settlements of the Mayas were first discovered by the chicle hunters who were in search of trees whose sap furnished the principal ingredient in the manufacture of chewing gum. Archeologists, Monsieur and Madame LePlongeon and others, then came with pick and spade to wrest from the tentacles of the jungle octopus these monuments of the ancient Mayas. The Peabody Museum of Harvard University, the Field Columbian Museum of Chicago, the Carnegie Institute—to mention but a few, then took up the work of excavating and restoring these ruins on a larger scale. In this manner a few of the greatest monuments have been brought into the light of day. But a comparative few of these buildings have been restored, the great majority of them still remain hidden under the jungle's growth. Mounds of earth covered by trees, vines, bushes, an entangled mass of vegetation, by their very configuration, show them to be buried buildings, temples, of the Mayas. Archaeologically, these ruins are of the utmost importance, especially those of Chichen Itza and Uxmal. A visit to these places proved to be the climax of my Mexican peregrinations. Where Did They Come From? No one knows from whence came these Mayas. This is the truthful answer, but many conjectures regarding them are rife. Everyone has their own pet theory which they defend with ardent zeal. I hold no brief in the matter, but shall mention a few of these theories and you may take your choice. Theory One: These Mayas came from somewhere in the north—from the high central plateau of Mexico or from what is now known as the United States. Theory Two: These Mayas were the marooned remnant of the population that formerly lived on the fabled continent of "Atlantis," which sunk beneath the waves of the Atlantic Ocean. This is both possible and plausible, but no positive proof has so far been forthcoming to substantiate these extravagant claims. This theory has many intelligent adherents, especially among the high-class Mexicans. No less an authority than Stacy-Judd, himself, advanced this theory. He even went further than that and calls the lost "Atlantis" the "Mother Empire of Nations" from which all civilizations sprang. For many years the territory between the Tigris and Euphrates Rivers—Mesopotamia—held that distinction. Theory Three: These Mayas were the famous "Lost Tribe of Israel." Carvings on the Maya monuments often reveal a very Semitic cast of feature—the high-bridged, hawk-like noses. It was this, no doubt, that gave rise to this interesting theory. Then there are still others who believe these Mayas to have been Egyptians, Chinese, Hindus, Persians. They were supposed to have arrived on our shores via a land bridge connecting Asia and North America in former times, or they came across the seas in boats, or some think, continents now separated by water—South America and Africa—were formerly connected by land and then slipped apart. These theories arose from the fact that people as seen in the carvings of the Maya monuments resembled strongly people from Egypt, China et cetera. Even at present one sees among the living a very Oriental cast of features recalling vividly the Chinese. The pyramidal form of the Maya architecture gave rise to the belief that these people formerly hailed from Egypt. In spite of all these theories—nothing is definitely known. The greatest mystery surrounds the origin of these ancient Mayas. GREECE, YUCATAN, & ITALY Great illumination occasionally take place on our earth. Five hundred years B. C. saw Greece enjoying her golden era—in the days of Pericles; in the tenth and eleventh centuries, while Europe was still floundering in the dark ages, Yucatan blazed forth in all her glory; the 16th century beheld the great Italian Renaissance. At such times a vast beacon light flashed Art, Beauty, Philosophy, Belles Lettres, and Science illuminating the vast corridors of time. In their hey-day, about the 10th and 11th Centuries, the Mayas of Yucatan were the most advanced people living on our globe. They were great builders, artists, astronomers, philosophers. The Maya chrysalis of barbarism had burst revealing the new-born butterfly of civilization. Greece, Yucatan and Italy all have glorious reminders of their great past. The ruins one now sees in Yucatan attest to the high culture and the state of evolution that these ancient Mayas had reached. Character of the Mayas— The character of the Mayas changed with the passing of the centuries. The older Mayas were a peace-loving people, not at all war-like nor belligerent, but given to meditation on things pertaining to the abstract. The science of astronomy had made great strides, especially as regards to calendar making, obtained from observing the heavens. Their accuracy of observation has astounded modern astronomers who have verified their deductions by means of their modern instruments and found them surprisingly accurate. Thus we find the character of the Old Mayas to have been peace-loving, intelligent, students of the movements of heavenly bodies, philosophers due to their meditative contemplations. The New Mayas concerned themselves more with the concrete than with the abstract. They were more of the earth. They practiced the arts of war-fare, engaged in out-of-door sports, as

Little Red Wagon Saves Wear and Tear on Artist

A little red wagon takes the place of a "brown and yellow basket," so far as Daphne Parker, brunette senior at Texas State College for Women, is concerned, and she's not planning to lose it. Used for carrying the weighty supplies which have loaded down many a student in commercial art, the wagon serves its purpose admirably, according to Daphne, who has bestowed upon it the title "Cyclone." The wagon trails her all over the campus, with steps presenting the only real difficulty, but the little artist from Temple seems to have surmounted that obstacle.

fit so one can see the light of day percolating thru many apertures. Oriental-looking Villages— We motored thru a few very primitive, Oriental-looking villages en route. The scene conveyed to my mind the impression of being in the Orient—in Egypt, India—I saw many be-shawled women garbed in immaculate white, walking along the highway carrying various and sundry things on their heads. Rebecas at the well. Or like figures that had become detached and became animate who formerly adorned a fine vase. Beneath their white skirts one could see their brown, unshod feet. And the men, not to be outdone, by the weaker sex, also presented an immaculate appearance what with their white, clean shirts hanging out of their white, clean trousers. They too, were bare-footed. All of them seemed to show their old Maya blood—a superior race—intelligent, friendly. Their huts flanked the roadway. These huts were for the most part, white-washed wattle huts with thatched roofs, thru an open doorway, we caught glimpses of a hammock in which could be seen people reclining enjoying dolce far niente, as the Italian say—sweet-nothingness. The First View— Soon we left this section of the highway behind us and now on both sides we were surrounded by the lush jungle growth. Walls of it on both sides. Cows walking on the highway would be compelled to retreat in the jungle fastness when we honked them away. In this manner, for miles, were swallowed in the maw of time. Then we came to a jog in the roadway, and struck off at a tangent and there before us arising from the flat jungle a pile of masonry that looked like something out of a Fairy Tale. It was a glorious vision as it arose in all its majestic impressiveness towering towards the sky—famous Castillo of Chichen Itza. It all seemed to me like meeting an old friend in an out-of-way place. Everyone is familiar with this famous ruin—it has reproduced countless times pictures and also in miniature replicas in museums. Now I see it in person as it were. And this was my first glimpse of the famous Maya city Chichen Itza that had been rescued from the encroaching jungle. (To Be Continued)

THANKSGIVING

Today we are observing an old, old custom—that of giving thanks after a bountiful harvest. To many people Thanksgiving means "turkey," to others "holiday," to some "football game," but to everyone it is also a day of Thanksgiving.

We all know the story of the first Thanksgiving and how the Pilgrims prepared a huge feast. They invited their relatives and the Indians to attend. Every since that memorable day, we have observed a day of thanks with turkey, pumpkin pie, and other delicacies and have invited our friends and relatives to share in the rejoicing. "Los Toreros" wishes all of you a very pleasant Thanksgiving, and our only hope is that you don't eat too much turkey.

Beat Those Dragons!!!

DID YOU KNOW—

That annually the President makes a formal announcement, and the governors of the various States issue proclamations calling on the people to give thanks?

That Thanksgiving is probably the outgrowth of harvest-home celebrations of England?

That during the Revolutionary War, eight special days of thanks were observed after signal victories?

That Mrs. Sarah J. Hale is known as the "Mother of Thanksgiving" because of her widespread movement to make it a national holiday?

That Thanksgiving is an occasion for family reunion? Canada celebrates Thanksgiving on the last Monday in October?

RECESSIONAL

God of our fathers, known of old, Lord of our far-flung battle-line, Beneath whose awful Hand we hold Dominion over palm and pine— Lord God of Hosts, be with us yet, Lest we forget—lest we forget!

The tumult and the shouting dies; The Captains and the Kings depart!

Still stands Thine ancient sacrifice, An humble and a contrite heart, Lord God of Hosts, be with us yet, Lest we forget—lest we forget!

For heathen heart that puts her trust In reeking tube and iron shard, All valiant dust that builds on dust, And guarding calls not Thee to guard,

For frantic boast and foolish word— Thy mercy on Thy People, Lord! —Rudyard Kipling

WHO IS IT?

She's sponsor of the Freshmen And teaches typing, too; She's liked by every student I'm sure we'll all guess who.

A senior girl is this one, The cutest you've ever seen; Folk's have you heard the news? We want her for our queen! Answers last week: J. W. Durbin and Frances Stearns.

MEET A SENIOR

Name: Bill Eggleston; age, 18; personal appearance, brown hair, brown eyes, height 5 ft. 10 inches, weight 155 pounds; has attended M. H. S. for 4 years; likes, lots of holidays and plenty of pretty girls; dislikes, English and chemistry and all alcoholic drinks; ambition, to marry a school teacher so she can make the money.

Yea, Matadors, Fight 'em!!!

COMMERCIAL DEPARTMENT

M. H. S. offers a four-year business course to students wishing to prepare themselves for some line of commercial work. There are two years of typing, one of bookkeeping, and one semester each of commercial law and business arithmetic.

The typing department was installed last year and is under the supervision of Mrs. McKenzie. It gained a great deal of popularity at once, and this year there is a second year class. Mrs. McKenzie is a graduate of West Texas State Teacher's College where she majored in Spanish. She has done graduate work at Texas Tech with English as a major and lacks only her thesis before receiving her Master's degree. Mrs. McKenzie has been teaching at M. H. S. for three years. For the first two years she taught Spanish and now has an English III class besides her typing classes.

Mr. Tunnell received his B. S. degree from North Texas State College in 1927 and his master's degree from Texas A. and M. in 1938. He has been superintendent of M. H. S. for 10 years and has placed the school on a very high standing with other Texas high schools.

Tom Nell: "Silly, you should keep your nose out of that place."

"A woman is like a chicken. She struts along, squawks a lot, and then as soon as she attracts someone's attention, she loses her head."

EXAM WEEK AGAIN!

"Exam week again! How time does fly!" sang the students of M. H. S. as they went back to the routine of "No work, no play" for something like three days—and nights. Yes, time does fly, and many of us wish we had done just a little more studying this last six weeks, so we wouldn't have to make up for all the lost time. Nevertheless, it's all over, and we still have about six weeks to prepare for those mid-term exams. How grand it would be if every student passed in every subject for the first semester! Students, it can be done, that is, if we want to. Let us make the most of our time, and see if we can't do it!

THIS AND THAT

Little Wanda Nelson, the freshmen's dimpled darling, has made quite a hit in M. H. S. Rumors have been circulating about concerning her and Bob. We hear he buys candy for her at football games. (Don't you think they make a cute two-some?)

Well, well, we guess Miss Barkley loves 'em and leaves 'em. She has been making "eyes" at a little "fish" at the football games. (J. W., he hope you don't mind—much.)

Believe it or not, folks, we have a "baby" in high school. The boys have nick-named Willena "Big Baby." (Don't get sore, Willena. It's all in fun.)

After all, Coach, you shouldn't get the "big head" just 'cause we won a ball-game. We know it's an unusual occurrence, but nevertheless, you'll have to get reconciled to it. Our ball team is really goin' to town next year!

Unfair Rates For West Texas Cited

A cotton shipper in Lubbock pays 61 cents per 100 pounds to have his cotton hauled to Houston, a distance of 525 miles. If the same shipper had the same cotton in Charleston, Mo., he could ship it to New Orleans, a distance of 556 miles, for 36 cents per hundred pounds.

This is one example of freight rate discrimination against West Texas quoted in an analysis of the rate question recently issued in pamphlet form by the traffic boards of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Others Pointed Out

The report points out other discriminations just as glaring. WTCC officials state. In fact, the discriminations, they contend, are costing West Texas $100,000,000 annually.

The rate on wheat and coarse grains from Lubbock to Galveston, 525 miles, is 35 cents per 100 pounds. The rate on the same commodity from Henrietta, Mo., to New Orleans, 900 miles, is 31 cents. Equalization of the mileage rate would give Lubbock a rate of 20 cents per 100.

First-class rate from Lubbock to Piggott, Ark., 857 miles, is $2.77 per hundred. The first-class rate from Purvis, Miss., to Lexington, Va., 853 miles, is $2.32. This represents a difference of 45 cents per 100 in favor of the Mississippi shipper.

Increased In West Texas

While rail carriers contend that freight rates for the country as a whole have been decreased during the last two decades, figures presented in the WTCC report claim class and commodity rates in West Texas have increased 109 per cent since 1914.

The first-class rate from Lubbock to Dallas has increased from 95 cents to $1.63 or 72 per cent during this period. The increase in first-class rates between Lubbock and Houston has been from 95 cents to $2.06 or 116 per cent.

This increase has been made during a period when production of commodities was increasing in many instances more than 1,000 per cent and when Lubbock and other West Texas cities were growing rapidly in population. The population increase in Lubbock was from 1,938 in 1910 to 25,000 in 1936 (estimated census) or 1,216 per cent.

Against The Consumer

The freight rate penalty is, of course, against the consumer as well as the producer. For the consumer must pay discriminatory rates on everything that is shipped to him, the report points out.

County Well Represented At Farm Meet

A strong speaking program at the city auditorium at Plainview Monday attracted more than a score of the leading citizens of Motley County among the twelve hundred or more in attendance. The gathering consisted mostly of farmers and ranchmen from twenty or more counties in the Plainview area.

Those who addressed the meeting included M. L. Wilson, under-secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., Dr. R. H. Montgomery, professor of economics at the University of Texas, Austin, Texas, and L. T. Mayhugh, president of the Producer's Grain Corporation, Amarillo, Texas. A message from Congressman Marvin Jones, who is now in Washington, D. C., was read to the group. The Monday afternoon session was a part of the two-day annual meeting of the West Texas Producers' Congress.

Mr. Wilson discussed the economic background which makes the present farm program necessary. Dr. Montgomery pictured Texas and the South as a colonial empire, which is constantly being made poorer by being forced to pay tribute to the north through tariffs, pensions, unequal freight rates and other means.

"As long as more money goes out to New York for manufactured goods and services than comes back to Texas for its raw materials, then some way must be found to get it back to Texas. This can be done only by the Federal Government," Dr. Montgomery said. He cited figures showing that 90 to 100 percent of Texas industries based on natural resources are owned in the North.

Those present from this county included A. B. Echols, Elmer Stearns, W. T. Patton, E. F. Springs, Geo. C. Springer, W. I. Rushing, C. B. Payne, C. P. Waybourn, J. A. Rushing, Gerald Waybourn, Elbert Reeves and F. A. Buckley, all of Matador, J. C. Burleson, H. S. Watson, Joe Bloodworth, Ernest McWilliams, W. L. McWilliams, Clovis Murphy and T. G. Tilson, Whiteflat, Bill Meyer of Flomot, and Sam Hunter and John Turner, Roaring Springs. Several others made the trip whose names are not available.

Hundreds of requests for the freight rate pamphlet have been received by the WTCC from all over Texas and from other states. News-papers in every part of the state have given emphatic editorial approval to the recommendations of the traffic boards, WTCC officials state.

L. M. Smith To Have Role In Radio Program Former Resident To Appear On Ripley Dramatization

L. M. Smith, (Smitty) service-man for the West Texas Utilities Company and former resident of Matador for a number of years, is going to New York as a guest of Robert L. Ripley. Mr. Smith will tell radio listeners how 33,000 volts of electricity hurled him to the very brink of eternity, when he was struck by the charge near Clarendon in 1928. The following news story is from the Saturday issue of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram:

CLARENDON.—Ten years after 33,000 volts of electricity coursed through his body as he worked near a power plant in Clarendon, L. M. Smith, now of Childress, will go to New York to appear on Robert L. Ripley's radio program. Smith was in Clarendon Thursday afternoon securing affidavits of the accident. He said he would take the clothing he was wearing at that time, and a piece of his skull which had to be removed before his recovery.

An employee of the West Texas Utilities Company in Clarendon, Smith was pulling up grass under a highline late in August, 1928. He evidently had failed to throw the switch of the lightening arresters, which run to the ground. As he pulled the grass, his head came in contact with the charged wires.

He received the full 33,000 volts, electricians said, a jolt great enough to kill 300 men. He was believed dead for hours. He now is an engineer for the utilities company in Childress.

Mr. Smith is well known in Matador and has many friends here who will listen with interest when the program featuring him appears over a national radio hook-up, at a date probably to be announced later.

TO LAS VEGAS

Mrs. Bob Echols and daughter, Dorothy, left Monday for Las Vegas, Nevada, where they spent the week with their son and brother, Bobby. They will witness the Thanksgiving game between the Las Vegas Wildcats and the team from Fallon, Nevada, in their final conference game, this afternoon.

Bobby is one of the outstanding players on the Wildcat squad which is coached by Harvey Stanford, former Matador Coach. The Wildcats are in line to play for State Championship at a future game.

Materials, then some way must be found to get it back to Texas. This can be done only by the Federal Government," Dr. Montgomery said. He cited figures showing that 90 to 100 percent of Texas industries based on natural resources are owned in the North.

Those present from this county included A. B. Echols, Elmer Stearns, W. T. Patton, E. F. Springs, Geo. C. Springer, W. I. Rushing, C. B. Payne, C. P. Waybourn, J. A. Rushing, Gerald Waybourn, Elbert Reeves and F. A. Buckley, all of Matador, J. C. Burleson, H. S. Watson, Joe Bloodworth, Ernest McWilliams, W. L. McWilliams, Clovis Murphy and T. G. Tilson, Whiteflat, Bill Meyer of Flomot, and Sam Hunter and John Turner, Roaring Springs. Several others made the trip whose names are not available.

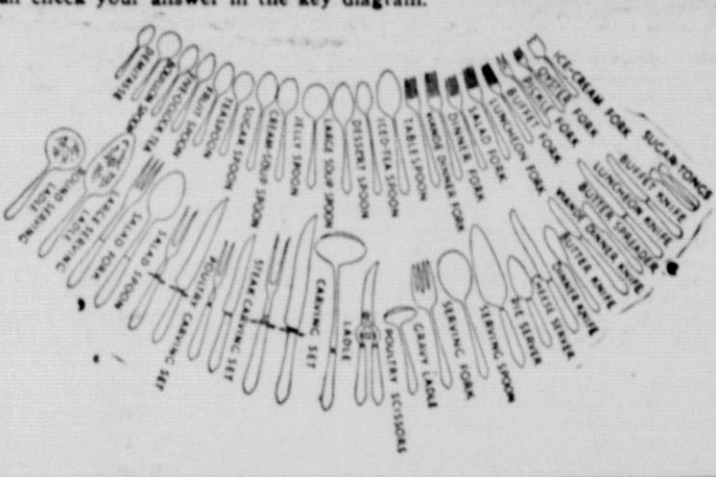

What Do You Know About Silverware?

THE average family needs at least twenty different kinds of pieces of silver and a truly complete set holds from thirty-eight to forty-four pieces.

"An exact answer to what would comprise a set for an individual family would depend on the family income and their manner of living and entertaining," says the Good Housekeeping Studio in the December issue of the magazine. "Etiquette and the good form we all wish to observe are important factors but on the whole the answer is: enough pieces and enough kinds of silver flatware for serving properly and eating every kind of food that you prepare for your family and your guests."

Here is what your jeweler calls a complete set of silver containing forty-four different kinds of pieces. See how many you can name. You can check your answer in the key diagram.

CHURCH HOLDS SERVICE OF APPRECIATION

Heating Plant And Needed Equipment Receives Thanks

In an informal service of Thanksgiving, the Baptist church dedicated its new edifice Sunday morning, following a brief sermon by Rev. H. M. Weldon, pastor who turned the service over to the congregation for any remarks of gratitude they wished to make.

Led by R. E. Campbell, chairman of the Building Committee, a number took advantage of the opportunity to express appreciation for the new church building in Matador and its influence on the community. Principal cause for thanksgiving, however, was the new heating plant which was recently installed and put into operation, and the near completion of the Intermediate and Young People's departments. While these departments had been in use since the construction of the building, they had been occupied in an unfinished condition until last week, when work on the ceiling and walls was begun. These rooms will be completely finished by Sunday, it was announced, and no further work on the interior of the church will be considered for the present.

Installation of the heating plant, completing the two departments, and a protective covering of wire on the exterior of the building, were made possible through a successful drive for $1350.00 which was started the latter part of last month, and various activities of the Sunday School departments in which they raised funds to be used in this connection.

At the conclusion of the service, a special thanksgiving collection was taken by Elmer Stearns, chairman of the Finance Committee, which amounted to $70.00, in addition to $30.00 which was contributed in pledges to the $1350. fund. Mr. Stearns announced that this drive for funds would be the last to be made until it would be deemed wise to start a fund to finish the outside of the building. This, however, would not be undertaken before next year, and possibly not earlier than the fall season, he stated.

A number of members from the Methodist church attended
