

RAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR

Hidden by the dust of silent, passing years, is the head-stone of a secret necropolis of childhood, bleached by truth washed by useless tears because it was forgotten. There is no resting to betray the peace in which it rests; nor dates to brandish; nor school compasses to measure the distance which destroyed a dream to speak like the white-haired capitalist who conducted campaigns in a brush arbour every year.

It has a subtle method of leaving unmarked trails in a faded world: golden mountains the sunset or moonlight on the great but a trace to the storm.

It is the skimmings from a complex kettle, into which the flames have often spilled more than courage.

Time's pelican jaw scoops up hours of happiness with an aping greed, yet satisfies the future with memories when life is over by a bleak shore and the sea of a troubled sea.

It has shoes and a broken heart, and a similar consequence by visiting different regions of the sky.

It comes from a small fire licked by the darkness of an Arizona night, the tongue of some wounded man waiting for the dawn, the light sifted thru the cross-arms of the railroad bridge overhead except at thundering inter-upter, as when trains split their terror under the peaceful night.

His companion dropped his head into the greased collar of his ragged army coat and feigned sleep, but his eyelids never completely closed. He roused enough to drag his branch into the fire with the up of his shoe, then sat up and stared into the darkness, as if he was a kindly look in his face which dirt and poverty had been unable to hide, and a longed-for in his eyes that thirsted for life. His voice contained the body of a frightened child's.

It broke the chunk of stale, bread evenly and ate it in. The earth shuddered and speeding passenger train passed by our tiny camp.

With long, slender fingers he peered the crumbs from the bread and mentioned the laughing girl who had deceived him in his heart. He said there was no remorse in his heart; that every man must rehearse death when a woman dies. It was his conviction that the only way of evading the truth is to lie.

It casts its tantalizing flies on the murky waters of life's stream to lure but seldom does it tempt the hungry souls which are spawned in the shadows of death.

Despite the many advancements of the modern automobile, it still offers many odors but never the comfortable, satisfying fragrance of a used saddle blanket.

After we had closed the barred gate, a red wafer blazed across the tarnished gold cloud of hung on the horizon and long purple shadows reached the heavens. We tore strips of bark off the cedar fence while our saddle horses stood motionless and growled in the month of a summer afternoon.

Words concealed the tight thoughts of parting; we laughed at the potatoes he would peel in a training camp.

Later his mother told me of the metal tag that had been returned to her from France; that she stood beside in that known farewell, is decayed in a pocket of soil.

County Has Vast Population Loss

Farms Reduced By Half According To Report Of Census

Despite the gain of Matador and Roaring Springs indicated by the preliminary announcement of incorporated towns in the 1940 population census, Motley county has suffered a loss of more than one fourth of its population in the past ten years, according to a more recent statement by Lee Carroll Smyers, of Pampa, district supervisor of census.

The announcement (subject to correction) is as follows: "The population of all Motley county state of Texas, as shown by the preliminary count of the returns of the Sixteenth Census taken as of April 1, 1940, is 4,395, as compared with 6,812 on April 1, 1930."

Loss Over One Fourth

Showing a loss of 1817 inhabitants in the 10-year period, the county's population has been reduced more than one fourth (almost 27%), or more than 181 persons per year for ten years.

Partial explanation of the enigma is found in the following report of 1940 Agricultural census of Motley County: "The number of farms in Motley county, State of Texas, as shown by the preliminary count of the returns of the Supervisor of the 1940 Census of Agriculture, inventory as of April 1, 1940, is 590, as compared with 619 on January 1, 1935, and 910 on April 1, 1930. The 1940 figure is preliminary and subject to correction."

Farm Youths Eligible For "New Career"

Ford Organization Seeks To Improve Farm Conditions

New opportunities for young men of the farm are revealed in an announcement by Henry Ford that at least 20,000 scholarships for the study of farm management and engineering are to be awarded by the National Farm Youth Foundation. Young men enrolled under these scholarships will receive a special course for home study, as well as practical training on farms. They will also compete for salaried jobs.

Complete details regarding enrollment may be secured from J. C. Brownlow, manager of the Brownlow Tractor Company at Roaring Springs.

Opportunities At Home

In announcing the new opportunities for farm youth, Mr. Ford made the following statement: "Young men of the farm have not realized their opportunities on the home soil. As a result many of them have left the farm."

"The family system of farming has suffered and we want to see it rebuilt. As a matter of fact, the Foundation seeks to help the young man of the farm to realize his aspirations for happiness and prosperity."

"Better farming methods today will mean better farm tomorrow and rural youth will be more inclined to stay close to the soil."

Sponsored By Corporation

The Foundation is sponsored by the Ferguson-Sherman Manufacturing Corporation with the active cooperation of Henry Ford, Founder, and Edsel Ford, president of the Ford Motor Company. Principal qualifications for scholarships are that the young men be between the ages of 18 and 25, American citizens, of good character and serious purpose, and live or work on a farm.

New Tax Bill May Be Passed

AUSTIN—If government plans are carried thru, the Texas trucking industry will soon be paying an additional $2,012,802 more for gasoline each year, according to figures compiled by Lynn B. Shaw, manager of the Texas Motor Transportation Association.

This increase will be due to the additional one half cent a gallon tax which is being proposed along with numerous other taxes to raise money to finance the United States armament drive. The increase will bring to one and one-half cents the federal tax on each gallon of gas purchased. The government planners expect to get about $112,000,000 new income from this tax.

SLATON—With completion of chutes and arena, preparations for the South Plains Roundup June 28 and 29 are going forward at top speed.

C. F. Anderson, president of the rodeo association, reports that the grounds committee has just finished a 6 foot wire fence around the playing field of the local football plant. Chutes and pens have been built on the south end of the field with the catch pens on the north end. The bleachers, grass and lights of the athletic field will add to the pleasure and comfort of all spectators by affording good seats, clear lights for the night performances and elimination of dust.

Social attractions have been booked and entries and inquiries are coming in rapidly. Special prizes are being offered for floats to appear in the parade; Slaton business firms have agreed to have a girl sponsor ride for them. A girl sponsors contest will include local and out of town girls. Representatives are expected from many West Texas cities, and attractive prizes will be offered in this division.

Bill Lyons of Petrolis, Texas, outstanding rodeo producer, is furnishing the stock to be used during the two day celebration. ## Local Red Cross Is Lauded For Drive

County Fund Is Well Over Quota

Contributions to the Red Cross were expected to reach $700 this week as a total of $692 had been collected yesterday, according to Homer Sheats, chairman of the Motley County chapter. This is well over the county's quota of $480 in the $20,000,000 national drive for relief in war-torn Europe.

Fifteen per cent of the money or about $100 will remain here to buy materials for construction of such articles as knitted sweaters, hospital garments, and children's clothes.

Mr. Sheats received a letter Monday from offices of the Midwestern Branch of the Red Cross at St. Louis, Missouri, which reads as follows:

My Dear Mr. Sheats: This is in grateful acknowledgment for the additional remittance of June 4 in the amount of $335.58 making a total of $426.06 received from the Motley County Chapter for the War Relief Fund. Promptness in reporting receipts and in transmitting them to this office is greatly appreciated. Such action enables us to plan relief measures and to act swiftly in order that the maximum benefits be derived from them may accrue to the victims of the war.

The chapter is indeed to be congratulated upon having organized so promptly and so thoroughly. It is noted from your letter of June 4 that additional contributions in the amount of $102.00 have been reported to you, thus bringing the total amount well over the chapter's doubled quota. Such generous response on the part of the community will assist in enabling the organization in its program of alleviating the suffering of innocent victims of the war. Attached are additional forms 1115 for your use in transmitting future contributions.

Sincerely yours, (Signed) Helen S. Lauenstein Chapter Service.

Farm Engineering Course Offered to Youths Here

National Foundation Announces Free Scholarships Are Now Available

At least ten free scholarships for the study of farm management and engineering will be awarded to farm youths in this vicinity, according to word received here today by (name of dealer).

The scholarships, available to young men between the ages of 18 and 25 who are actually engaged in farm work, will consist of one year of study, together with practical training and experience under local farm conditions. They are provided by the National Farm Youth Foundation, which has been created by the Ferguson-Sherman Manufacturing Corporation of Dearborn, Michigan, with the active co-operation of Henry Ford and Edsel Ford.

"Young men of the farm have not realized their opportunities on the home soil," said Henry Ford in announcing his participation in the Foundation. "As a result, many of them have left the farm."

"The family system of farming has suffered and we want to see it re-built. As a matter of fact, the Foundation seeks to help the young man of the farm to realize his aspirations for happiness and prosperity."

"I am told that eighty per cent of the graduates of agricultural colleges have been going to the towns and cities for their careers instead of returning to the farm. The remaining 20 per cent are not enough to give the farm the needed leadership in agricultural progress."

"Better farming methods today will mean better farms tomorrow and rural youth will be more inclined to stay close to the soil."

Young men enrolled under these scholarships also will compete for salaried jobs with the sponsoring company and its distributors. One student will be selected from this section to work at the factory for a year at a salary of $150 a month. He will be given specialized training in the use, application and the maintenance of the tractor and its equipment.

Second award in this general area is a job with the distributor at $125 a month. Additional students will be placed in jobs as quickly as possible, with the eventual aim of giving them training and experience which they may bring to bear on future problems in their own community. Success for local young men in could not finance a college education. Others found funds lacking to set up in farming for themselves.

"Even those who have gone to college have not found in local fields the opportunity they sought," he added. "Most of these boys wind up in towns and cities. If this movement can be halted the community will benefit by the training and education its own young men are receiving and will receive in the future."

Announcement of the scholarships was accompanied by the explanation that the Foundation does not conflict nor compete with the splendid work being done by the 4-H Clubs and the Smith-Hughes vocational agriculture schools. Through its higher age limit it affords opportunity for study and advancement to farm youths who have already passed the age at which the activities of the organization mentioned are available.

Young men, to be eligible for scholarships, must be between the ages already given, and must be American citizens, of good character, and actually work on a farm. Young men wishing to apply for enrollment to secure more detailed information about the scholarships may do so by getting in touch with (name of dealer).

IS THIS ANY WAY TO RUN A HOUSE?

"Bills! Bills! Bills!" It's the first of the month again in the home without a Servel Electrolux. Of course, any husband knows he could run the house for a lot less than a woman, anyhow. "Look at this electric bill! Look at this grocery bill! We waste enough to feed two families!" He's got something there—unless you've got a Servel Electrolux.

And if you have, you never hear these squawks about the unbalanced budget. It's a nice little royalty that Servel pays you, month after month, in grocery savings and operating cost.

Let's see what Mrs. J. W. Jackson, Paducah, Texas, who used to own another type automatic refrigerator, has to say: "In the summer months, the cost of operating it would be $8.50 a month. Now our Servel operates for 60c a month." And Mrs. Travis Fore, of Nocona, says, "My ice bill alone ran from $5 to $7 a month before I owned a Servel Electrolux. It costs 70c or 80c a month."

And about food savings, here's the story from Mrs. W. E. Tosh, Stamford, Texas: "My grocery bill has been cut to almost half. There is no more food spoilage whatever."

So, next time your husband gets the "unbalanced budget blues," show him this little arithmetic problem—the savings in several hundred average homes like yours, where they spent $40 to $50 a month for food:

Saved on leftovers, per month . . . . . $2.82

Saved on food spoilage, per month . . . . . 2.60

Saved on buying bargains, per month . . . . . 3.61

Saved on FOOD ALONE . . . . . $9.58

Now add what you now spend for ice or electricity to run the jolly you have in your kitchen now. Then subtract 2 or 3 cents a day, which is plenty for the operating cost on a Servel Electrolux here. Then see if he doesn't say, "Great Scott, we're paying for one—let's get it!"

But wait... He doesn't know yet that Servel Electrolux is the refrigerator—the only automatic refrigerator—with no moving parts in its freezing system. No, not a one. Nothing to wear, to get rattly and noisy, to lose efficiency, to let you down without refrigeration in August or September, while you wait for the service man. He won't believe this "no moving parts" at first; so bring him to us. We'll show him. Just a tiny little SILENT gas flame.

And as Mrs. Henry Brooks, Paducah, Texas, says, too—any home, anywhere, can enjoy Servel Electrolux refrigeration. Yes, town, farm or ranch. She says, "The beauty of Servel Electrolux is, if you move to the country you don't have to trade it off; it operates on butane or kerosene, as well as natural gas."

And if you live on a farm or ranch now, by all means come in and see how you can have ice cubes, ice cream and perfect city refrigeration—the same identical Servel Electrolux that a million city families use, except it uses butane or kerosene. And no matter—town or country—we can make it easy to own one. Come in and find out these things for yourself—or phone us and we will come to see you.

- NO MOVING PARTS in its freezing system
- PERMANENT SILENCE
- CONTINUED LOW OPERATING COST
- MORE YEARS OF DEPENDABLE SERVICE
- CONTINUED SAVINGS THAT PAY FOR IT

ONE MILLION Texans

One million Texans would have to find other means of livelihood if the Texas petroleum industry were to shut down tomorrow.

Steady employment, good working conditions, reasonable working hours and fair wages are the industry's responsibilities to its workers and their families—a million Texans in all.

It must maintain production, find and develop new fields, meet competitive markets for its products and pay its total expense bill of 750 million dollars a year, which includes its payrolls.

The Texas petroleum industry now has to pay 97 million dollars a year in taxes to Federal, State and local governments before it can consider wages and employment.

When expenses must be cut to satisfy increasing tax demands, employment suffers, and with it, the buying power that employment creates in our State.

TEXAS MID-CONTINENT OIL AND GAS ASSOCIATION

Wells Opens Campaign With Speech Friday

Following a month of intensive person to person solicitation, Deskins Wells will open his speaking campaign in Wellington, Friday, June 14. The rally will be held at the Wellington football field beginning at 8 o'clock.

The entire Panhandle will watch this opening with keen interest and will study the opening speech of Deck Wells with close attention, due to the fact that impartial observers rate the Collingsworth man as one of the leading candidates in the Congressional race.

"The ability of Deskins Wells to overcome difficult tasks and his obvious sincerity had attracted attention long before the present race started," Guy Beasley, stockman and master farmer said upon being informed of the opening date. "But even those of us who have known him for 38 years were wondering how he would stack up in the rough and tumble of politics. We know now. Reports from every county in this district indicate that his cheerful good humor, and his forthright honesty are doing the same things in other counties that they have done here—winning him steadfast friends. We are jubilant over our chances of electing him to Congress."

"I wish every public official in Texas knew of the record of Deck Wells as mayor of Wellington," was the comment of Fred Lederer, who followed Deskins Wells as mayor of Wellington. "He reduced the bonded indebtedness from $220,000 to $163,000 in four years without sacrificing any essential services, and at the same time $50,000 worth of new streets were built."

Furthermore he has continued to help me every time I asked for it in continuing this work."

"The farmers in this section are solid in their support of Deck Wells," stated Jack Watson, manager of the Farmers Co-op Gin, "but a trip to Pampa and Phillips has convinced me that the oil field workers are just as interested in his candidacy as are the farmers down here in his home county."

Deskins Wells' only personal comment follows: "I want this campaign to be one of natural support. In these critical times my sole interest is in preserving our Democratic form of government and perpetuating our chosen way of life. I believe that I stand for something of vital concern to the people of the Panhandle, and I am more interested in seeing this section and this nation pursue a proper course than I am in being elected."

"Friends and supporters tell me that I am the leading candidate in their opinion. This is of no great concern to me. My real concern is to see this section have a fair chance and to see this nation maintain its present place as the greatest, strongest and most civilized country on the face of the globe. If I am elected, I will devote my entire energies to this task."

Nearly 400,000 Texas school children each year have their entire schooling paid for by the Texas oil and gas industry.

Texas oilmen paid $13.82 in school taxes for each pupil in the public schools of the state in 1938.

Texas has more oil refineries than the two next largest refining states combined. The Lone Star State has 141 plants with 1,386,705 barrels daily capacity, while California and Pennsylvania together have only 111 with 1,275,060 barrels capacity.

Selected as Stamford Sponsor for Texas Cowboy Reunion

Miss Eilah Blain Elliott (above) has been selected as Stamford's sponsor for the eleventh annual Texas Cowboy Reunion which will be held in Stamford July 2, 3 and 4. Sixty or more towns, counties and ranches will likely be represented at the Reunion by cowboy sponsors, who will compete for the special saddle and three other prizes. Brownfield's sponsor, Miss Fern Sawyer, won first place last year.

Farmers Are Subsidized To Offset Tariff

(This is one of a series of articles on the government in farming.)

By RAY DAVIDSON
Uncle Sam came to the farm in March, 1933.

At that time, he did a lot of other new things; but these should not be confused with his coming to the farm. His dipping into agriculture merits consideration in a class by itself.

The government got into the farming business after considerable pressure from farmers themselves who were in the depths of financial misery.

Farm leaders pointed out two great ills affecting agriculture. The immediate trouble was a surplus of all products. The long-range trouble was a stifling of foreign trade by tariff walls. The Smoot-Hawley tariff bill of 1930, agricultural leaders said, was the burden that finally broke the old mare down. With it laying bricks on the tariff wall, free trade with other nations might as well be forgotten.

But tariff is another story within itself. Suffice it to say that after each new tariff increase, exports of farm products dropped off appreciably because foreign buyers had nothing to barter for American cotton and other products.

Agricultural leaders had for some time been telling Uncle Sam that the farmer needed some sort of subsidy payment to counteract the harmful effect of tariff; and that he needed some sort of limitation of acreage that could be enforced by the government.

With the coming of a new political regime to Washington, something was done in these directions. In a dramatic emergency measure congress passed an act permitting the department of agriculture to pay farmers for every acre of growing cotton plowed up.

Machinery went into action

with record speed. In a few weeks after the New Deal was inaugurated, farmers were in the fields turning under every third acre of cotton. And for every acre of cotton turned under, the farmer was paid cash by Uncle Sam.

By time another crop was in the ground, the notorious Bankhead act had been passed. It provided that the government should rent a certain percentage of each farm. Land thus rented by the government could not be planted to commercial crops, so surpluses were partly reduced by this method.

QUOTAS FIXED

The act went further to authorize the fixing of cotton quotas on each farm. The farmer was told to raise a certain number of bales of cotton. All above that amount was taxed prohibitively by the government.

This program was in effect during the 1934 and 1935 crop years. In January, 1936, the supreme court held the Bankhead law invalid. It looked as if 1936 would be a year in which Uncle Sam would not farm.

But representatives of various agricultural organizations, the department of agriculture, and congress' agricultural committees worked overtime to turn out a new farm program in time for application on the 1936 program. With addition, it remains in use until the present.

TRIPLE OBJECTIVE

This program is based on the three-barreled objective of controlling production, paying the farmer a subsidy to offset the effect of the tariff and conserving soil.

In 1938 congress passed a new agricultural act continuing this soil conservation program, as it is now identified, and offering farmers the privilege of adopting cotton marketing quotas under a setup that would allow tax of cotton produced on uncontrolled acreage. Farmers voted by overwhelming majorities to fix the quotas on 1938, 1939, and 1940 crops.

Meantime, Uncle Sam has been

FORMBY SPEAKS TO GRADUATES AT GATHERING

Members of the Motley County Club of Texas Tech, Lubbock, entertained a group of the county's 1940 graduating seniors with a swimming party and picnic at Roaring Springs, Sunday afternoon.

Judge Marshall Formby of Dickens, President of the Tech Alumni and Ex-Student Association, addressed the group, giving a brief history of the college and extending a welcome to the graduates to attend the institution.

W. E. Street, Tech engineering instructor and club sponsor, was also present, giving a short talk. Houston Schweitzer of Matador, club president, introduced the speakers.

Warning Given Against Home Gasoline Use

AUSTIN—Home fires could be reduced to a minimum if Texas housewives would refrain from the use of gasoline, especially for cleaning purposes, Marvin Hall, state fire insurance commissioner, warned today.

The commissioner reported that the explosive power of gasoline has been ascertained at 83 times that of dynamite, and that the flash point of gasoline may be as low as zero.

"Static and friction should be avoided in handling gasoline," he said, "and people whose jobs involve its use should be thoroughly conversant with its dangers. Of course, its use is a commonplace as well as a necessity, but there's no need to ignore its power."

RANGE PROGRAM

Also in the meantime, a range program had been inaugurated, to encourage ranchmen thru cash aids to improve their holdings for future generations.

In 1939, the export subsidy scheme for increasing cotton exports was put into effect. This and other details of the program are worth separate articles in this series telling about Uncle Sam on the Farm. That which has been mentioned above may be a hopeless tangle of terms to the non-farmer who has been wondering all these years what the heck all this is about anyway. But it traces, briefly, the rise of the government-farmer combine.

In next week's Tribune, details of one phase of Uncle Sam's activities on the farm—the export subsidy—will be given.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS (By BOYCE HOUSE)

Abraham Lincoln said that when he was a boy, nobody liked ginger bread better than he did, or got less of it.

Nobody bestows more publicity than newspapermen, or get less of it themselves. So, what-a-yuh-say!—being's as how the State Press convention over at Mineral Wells is on my mind, let's devote this go-round to the members of the Fourth Estate. Here goes:

Stanley Babb, courthouse reporter for the historic Galveston News, is press-agent for a pirate. Well, maybe not exactly, but he has written poems about old Jean LaFitte, and good ones, too.

Speaking of writing, W. B. Rugles, before he became the pro-fund head editorial writer for the Dallas News, used to be sports editor and, in those days, he wrote Grantland Rice-esque poems.

And Asa Patrick, city editor of the Weatherford Herald, used to write notable fiction—in fact, one of his short stories appeared in the same issue of a magazine with a story by O. Henry.

A few years ago this observer was handling publicity work in a state race and visited Lufkin where C. S. Boyles, Jr., editor of the news, reversed the usual picture—he bought my lunch! And that is an even bigger news than a man bit

Of course the older joke is the one about porter who was assigned up a big society wedding church. He came back and the city editor write the story." De young news-gatherer ain't no story—the didn't show up."

Romance A Modern Linerider on the Range

"Hangin' a pot's like bulldoggin' a steer"

THE modern linerider has a language all his own, much the same as the West Texas cowboy uses a "range" tongue "foreign" to most of us.

These linemen are hanging a pot on a 50-foot Black Diamond. They are using a gut on the bot wires for protection against high voltage juice.

A "pot" is a transformer, fixed high up on a creosote pole. It reduces voltage to 110 or 220 volts so that electric current can be safely used in your home. A "gut" is the rubber line hose placed around the wires to prevent shock.

Until a worker is experienced enough to perch atop the pole without fear and without holding on with one hand, he is known as a "clumb-some." The man working on the ground, sending up tools and handling paraphernalia is called a "Grunt." "Coon that pole" is the signal to climb a pole when not equipped with climbing hooks or spurs. "Suck on it" means to take up the slack in a new wire being strung. A "johnnie ball" is an insulator. A "nigger-head" is a porcelain fuse cutout around which wires are tied on cross-arms for insulation purposes. "The Bear" is the sobriquet sometimes given "the boss."

Although the lineman's life is fraught with danger, he is a normal citizen... maybe your neighbor. He is one of hundreds of men and women working behind the scenes to help make Electric Service efficient, dependable, and economical here... On him we bestow a title of honor — A Modern Linerider.

This is the fourth of a series of "THUMBNAILED SKETCHES" featuring the work performed by our Linemen in bringing ELECTRIC SERVICE to your home

Farm Engineering Course Offered to Youths Here

National Foundation Announces Free Scholarships Are Now Available

At least ten free scholarships for the study of farm management and engineering will be awarded to farm youths in this vicinity, according to word received here today by (name of dealer).

The scholarships, available to young men between the ages of 18 and 25 who are actually engaged in farm work, will consist of home study course, together with practical training and experience under local farm conditions. They are provided by the National Farm Youth Foundation, which has been created by the Ferguson-Sherman Manufacturing Corporation of Dearborn, Michigan, with the active co-operation of Henry Ford and Edsel Ford.

"Young men of the farm have not realized their opportunities on the home soil," said Henry Ford in announcing his participation in the Foundation. "As a result, many of them have left the farm.

"The family system of farming has suffered and we want to see it re-built. As a matter of fact, the Foundation seeks to help the young man of the farm to realize his aspirations for happiness and prosperity.

"I am told that eighty per cent of the graduates of agricultural colleges have been going to the towns and cities for their careers instead of returning to the farm. The remaining 20 per cent are not enough to give the farm the needed leadership in agricultural progress.

"Better farming methods today will mean better farms tomorrow and rural youth will be more inclined to stay close to the soil."

Young men enrolled under these scholarships also will compete for salaried jobs with the sponsoring company and its distributors. One student will be selected from this section to work at the factory for a year at a salary of $150 a month. He will be given specialized training in the use, application and the maintenance of the tractor and its equipment. Second award in this general area is a job with the distributor at $125 a month. Additional students will be placed in jobs as quickly as possible, with the eventual aim of giving them training and experience which they may bring to bear on future problems in their own community.

Success for local young men in

could not finance a college education. Others found funds lacking to set up in farming for themselves.

"Even those who have gone to college have not found in local fields the opportunity they sought," he added. "Most of these boys wind up in towns and cities. If this movement can be halted the community will benefit by the training and education its own young men are receiving and will receive in the future."

Announcement of the scholarships was accompanied by the explanation that the Foundation does not conflict nor compete with the splendid work being done by the 4-H Clubs and high schools. Through its higher age limit it affords opportunity for study and advancement to farm youths who have already passed the age at which the activities of the organizations mentioned are available.

Young men, to be eligible for scholarships, must be between the ages already given, and must be American citizens, of good character, and actually work on a farm. Young men wishing to apply for enrollment or to secure more detailed information about the scholarships may do so by getting in touch with (name of dealer).

IS THIS ANY WAY TO RUN A HOUSE?

"Bills! Bills! Bills!" It's the first of the month again in the home without a Servel Electrolux. Of course, any husband knows he could run the house for a lot less than a woman, anyhow. "Look at this electric bill! Look at this grocer bill! We waste enough to feed two families!" He's got something there—unless you've got a Servel Electrolux. And if you have, you never hear these squawks about the unbalanced budget. It's a nice little royalty that Servel pays you, month after month, in grocery savings and operating cost.

Let's see what Mrs. J. W. Jackson, Paducah, Texas, who used to own another type automatic refrigerator, has to say: "In the summer months, the cost of operating it would be $8.50 a month. Now our Servel operates for 60c a month." And Mrs. Travis Fore, of Nocona, says, "My ice bill alone ran from $5 to $7 a month before I owned a Servel Electrolux. It costs 70c or 80c a month."

And about food savings, here's the story from Mrs. W. E. Tosh, Stamford, Texas: "My grocery bill has been cut to almost half. There is no more food spoilage whatever."

So, next time your husband gets the "unbalanced budget blues," show him this little arithmetic problem—the savings in several hundred average homes like yours, where they spent $40 to $50 a month for food:

Saved on leftovers, per month . . . . . $2.82
Saved on food spoilage, per month . . . . . 2.60
Saved on buying bargains, per month . . . . . 3.61
Saved on FOOD ALONE . . . . . $9.03

Now add what you now spend for ice or electricity to run the jollyo you have in your kitchen now. Then subtract 2 or 3 cents a day, which is plenty for the operating cost on a Servel Electrolux here. Then see if he doesn't say, "Great Scott, we're paying for one—let's get it!"

But wait... He doesn't know yet that Servel Electrolux is the refrigerator—the only automatic refrigerator—with no moving parts in its freezing system. No, not a one. Nothing to wear; to get rattly and noisy, to lose efficiency, to let you down without refrigeration in August or September, while you wait for the service man. He won't believe this "no moving parts" at first; so bring him to us. We'll show him. Just a tiny little SILENT gas flame.

And as Mrs. Henry Brooks, Paducah, Texas, says, too—any home, anywhere, can enjoy Servel Electrolux refrigeration. Yes, town, farm or ranch. She says, "The beauty of Servel Electrolux is, if you move to the country you don't have to trade it off; it operates on butane or kerosene, as well as natural gas." And if you live on a farm or ranch now, by all means come in and see how you can have ice cubes, ice cream and perfect city refrigeration—the same identical Servel Electrolux that a million city families use, except it uses butane or kerosene. And no matter—town or country—we can sure make it easy to own one. Come in and find out these things for yourself—or phone us and we will come to see you.

ONE MILLION Texans

One million Texans would have to find other means of livelihood if the Texas petroleum industry were to shut down tomorrow.

Steady employment, good working conditions, reasonable working hours and fair wages are the industry's responsibilities to its workers and their families—a million Texans in all.

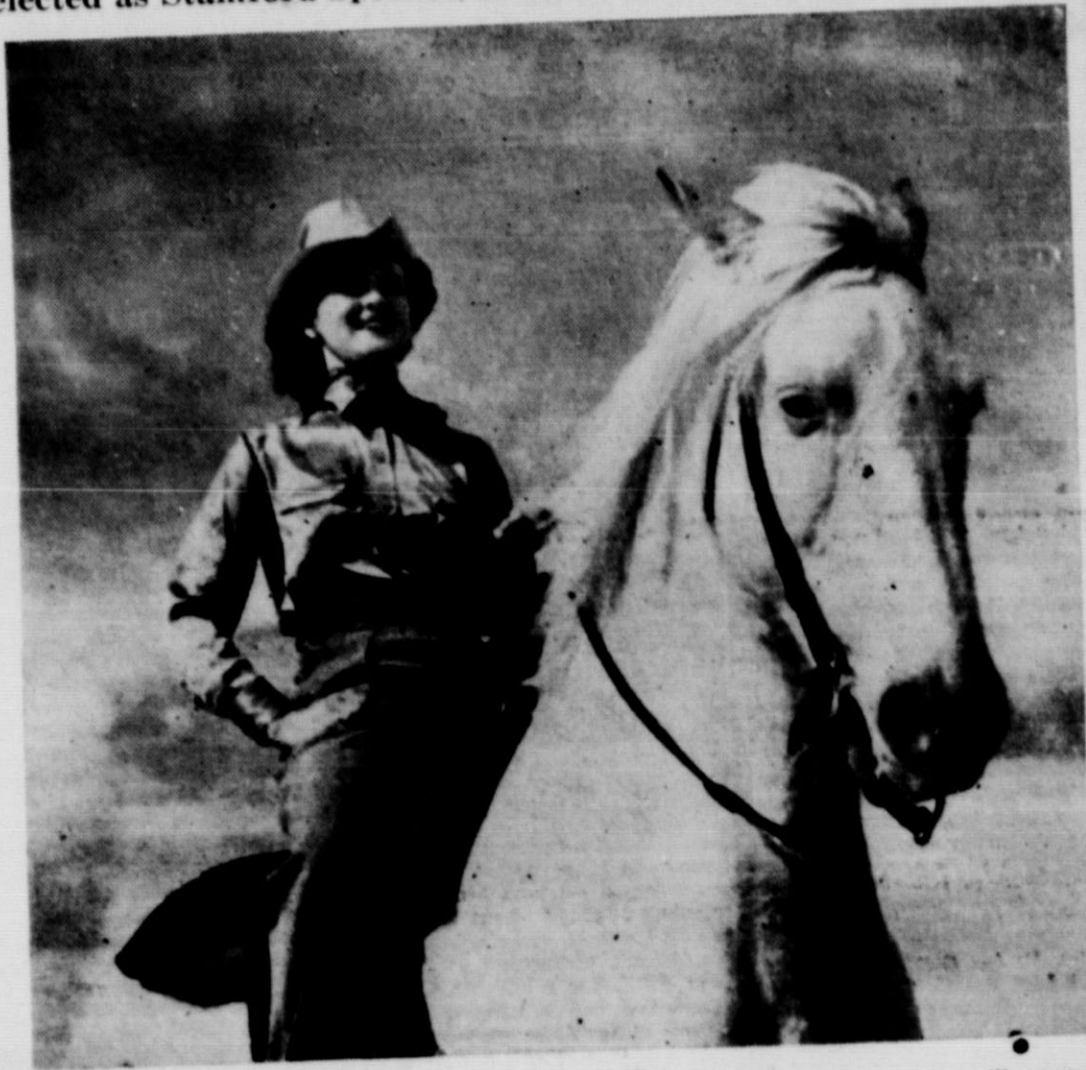

It must maintain production, find and develop new fields, meet competitive markets for its products and pay its total expense bill of 750 million dollars a year, which includes its payrolls.

The Texas petroleum industry now has to pay 97 million dollars a year in taxes to Federal, State and local governments before it can consider wages and employment.

When expenses must be cut to satisfy increasing tax demands, employment suffers, and with it, the buying power that employment creates in our State.

Wells Opens Campaign With Speech Friday

Following a month of intensive person to person solicitation, Deskins Wells will open his speaking campaign in Wellington, Friday, June 14. The rally will be held at the Wellington football field beginning at 8 o'clock.

The entire Panhandle will watch this opening with keen interest and will study the opening speech of Deck Wells with close attention, due to the fact that impartial observers rate the Collingsworth man as one of the leading candidates in the Congressional race.

"The ability of Deskins Wells to overcome difficult tasks and his obvious sincerity had attracted attention long before the present race started," Guy Beasley, stockman and master farmer said upon being informed of the opening date. "But even those of us who have known him for 38 years were wondering how he would stack up in the rough and tumble of politics. We know now. Reports from every county in this district indicate that his cheerful good humor, and his forthright honesty are doing the same things in other counties that they have done here—winning him steadfast friends. We are jubilant over our chances of electing him to Congress."

"I wish every public official in Texas knew of the record of Deck Wells as mayor of Wellington," was the comment of Fred Lederer, who followed Deskins Wells as mayor of Wellington. "He reduced the bonded indebtedness from $220,000 to $163,000 in four years without sacrificing any essential services, and at the same time $50,000 worth of new streets were built."

Furthermore he has continued to help me every time I asked for it in continuing this work."

"The farmers in this section are solid in their support of Deck Wells," stated Jack Watson, manager of the Farmers Co-op Gin, "but a trip to Pampa and Phillips has convinced me that the oil field workers are just as interested in his candidacy as are the farmers down here in his home county."

Deskins Wells' only personal comment follows: "I want this campaign to be one of natural support. In these critical times my sole interest is in preserving our Democratic form of government and perpetuating our chosen way of life. I believe that I stand for something of vital concern to the people of the Panhandle, and I am more interested in seeing this section and this nation pursue a proper course than I am in being elected."

"Friends and supporters tell me that I am the leading candidate in their opinion. This is of no great concern to me. My real concern is to see this section have a fair chance and to see this nation maintain its present place as the greatest, strongest and most civilized country on the face of the globe. If I am elected, I will devote my entire energies to this task."

Nearly 400,000 Texas school children each year have their entire schooling paid for by the Texas oil and gas industry.

Texas oilmen paid $13.82 in school taxes for each pupil in the public schools of the state in 1938.

Texas has more oil refineries than the two next largest refining states combined. The Lone Star State has 141 plants with 1,386,705 barrels daily capacity, while California and Pennsylvania together have only 111 with 1,275,060 barrels capacity.

FORMBY SPEAKS TO GRADUATES AT GATHERING

Members of the Motley County Club of Texas Tech, Lubbock, entertained a group of the county's 1940 graduating seniors with a swimming party and picnic at Roaring Springs, Sunday afternoon.

Judge Marshall Formby of Dickens, President of the Tech Alumni and Ex-Student Association, addressed the group, giving a brief history of the college and extending a welcome to the graduates to attend the institution.

W. E. Street, Tech engineering instructor and club sponsor, was also present, giving a short talk. Houston Schweitzer of Matador, club president, introduced the speakers.

Warning Given Against Home Gasoline Use

AUSTIN—Home fires could be reduced to a minimum if Texas housewives would refrain from the use of gasoline, especially for cleaning purposes, Marvin Hall, state fire insurance commissioner, warned today.

The commissioner reported that the explosive power of gasoline has been ascertained at 83 times that of dynamite, and that the flash point of gasoline may be as low as zero.

"Static friction should be avoided in handling gasoline," he said, "and people whose jobs involve its use should be thoroughly conversant with its dangers. Of course, its use is a commonplace as well as a necessity, but there's no need to ignore its power."

RANGE PROGRAM

Also in the meantime, a range program had been inaugurated, to encourage ranchmen thru cash aids to improve their holdings for future generations.

In 1939, the export subsidy scheme for increasing cotton exports was put into effect. This and other details of the program are worth separate articles in this series telling about Uncle Sam on

(This is one of a series of articles on the government in farming.)

By RAY DAVIDSON

Uncle Sam came to the farm in March, 1933.

At that time, he did a lot of other new things; but these should not be confused with his coming to the farm. His dipping into agriculture merits consideration in a class by itself.

The government got into the farming business after considerable pressure from farmers themselves who were in the depths of financial misery. Farm leaders pointed out two great ills affecting agriculture. The immediate trouble was a surplus of all products. The long-range trouble was a stifling of foreign trade by tariff walls. The Smoot-Hawley tariff bill of 1930, agricultural leaders said, was the burden that finally broke the old mare down. With it laying bricks on the tariff wall, free trade with other nations might as well be forgotten.

But tariff is another story within itself. Suffice it to say that after each new tariff increase, exports of farm products dropped off appreciably because foreign buyers had nothing to barter for American cotton and other products.

Agricultural leaders had for some time been telling Uncle Sam that the farmer needed some sort of subsidy payment to counteract the harmful effect of tariff; and that he needed some sort of limitation of acreage that could be enforced by the government.

With the coming of a new political regime to Washington, something was done in these directions. In a dramatic emergency measure congress passed an act permitting the department of agriculture to pay farmers for every acre of growing cotton plowed up.

Machinery went into action

with record speed. In a few weeks after the New Deal was inaugurated, farmers were in the fields turning under every third acre of cotton. And for every acre of cotton turned under, the farmer was paid cash by Uncle Sam.

By time another crop was in the ground, the notorious Bankhead act had been passed. It provided that the government should rent a certain percentage of each farm. Land thus rented by the government could not be planted to commercial crops, so surpluses were partly reduced by this method.

QUOTAS FIXED

The act went further to authorize the fixing of cotton quotas on each farm. The farmer was told to raise a certain number of bales of cotton. All above that amount was taxed prohibitively by the government.

This program was in effect during the 1934 and 1935 crop years. In January, 1936, the supreme court held the Bankhead law invalid. It looked as if 1936 would be a year in which Uncle Sam would not farm.

But representatives of various agricultural organizations, the department of agriculture, and congress' agricultural committees worked overtime to turn out a new farm program in time for application on the 1936 program. With addition, it remains in use until the present.

TRIPLE OBJECTIVE

This program is based on the three-barreled objective of controlling production, paying the farmer a subsidy to offset the effect of the tariff and conserving soil.

In 1938 congress passed a new agricultural act continuing this soil conservation program, as it is now identified, and offering farmers the privilege of adopting cotton marketing quotas under a setup that would allow tax of cotton produced on uncontrolled acreage. Farmers voted by overwhelming majorities to fix the quotas on 1938, 1939, and 1940 crops.

Meantime, Uncle Sam has been

paying farmers outright subsidies on each pound of cotton grown, or allotted. In the effort to offset disadvantages forced on the farmer by tariffs.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS (By BOYCE HOUSE)

Abraham Lincoln said that when he was a boy, nobody liked ginger bread better than he did, or got less of it.

Nobody bestows more publicity than newspapermen, or get less of it themselves. So, what-a-yuh-say!—being's as how the State Press convention over at Mineral Wells is on my mind, let's devote this go-round to the members of the Fourth Estate. Here goes:

Stanley Babb, courthouse reporter for the historic Galveston News, is press-agent for a pirate. Well, maybe not exactly, but he has written poems about old Jean LaFitte, and good ones, too.

Speaking of writing, W. B. Ruggles, before he became the prominent head editorial writer for the Dallas News, used to be sports editor and, in those days, he wrote Grantland Rice-esque poems.

And Asa Patrick, city editor of the Weatherford Herald, used to write notable fiction—in fact, one of his short stories appeared in the same issue of a magazine with a story by O. Henry.

A few years ago this observer was handling publicity work in a state race and visited Lufkin where C. S. Boyles, Jr., editor of the news, reversed the usual picture—he bought my lunch! And that is an even bigger news than a man bit

Of course the oldest joke is the one about porter who was assigned up a big society wedding church. He came back and the city editor write the story." De young news-gatherer ain't no story—the didn't show up."

Romance
A Modern Linerider on the Range

"Hangin' a pot's like bulldoggin' a steer"

THE modern linerider has a language all his own, much the same as the West Texas cowboy uses a "range" tongue "foreign" to most of us.

These linemen are hanging a pot on a 50-foot Black Diamond. They are using a gut on the hot wires for protection against high voltage juice.

A "pot" is a transformer, fixed high up on a crossote pole. It reduces voltage to 110 or 220 volts so that electric current can be safely used in your home. A "gut" is the rubber line hose placed around the wires to prevent shock.

Until a worker is experienced enough to perch atop the pole without fear and without holding on with one hand, he is known as a "clumb-some." The man working on the ground, sending up tools and handling paraphernalia is called a "Grunt." "Coon that pole" is the signal to climb a pole when not equipped with climbing hooks or spurs. "Suck on it" means to take up the slack in a new wire being strung. A "johnnie ball" is an insulator. A "nigger-head" is a porcelain fuse cutout around which wires are tied on cross-arms for insulation purposes. "The Bear" is the sobriquet sometimes given "the boss."

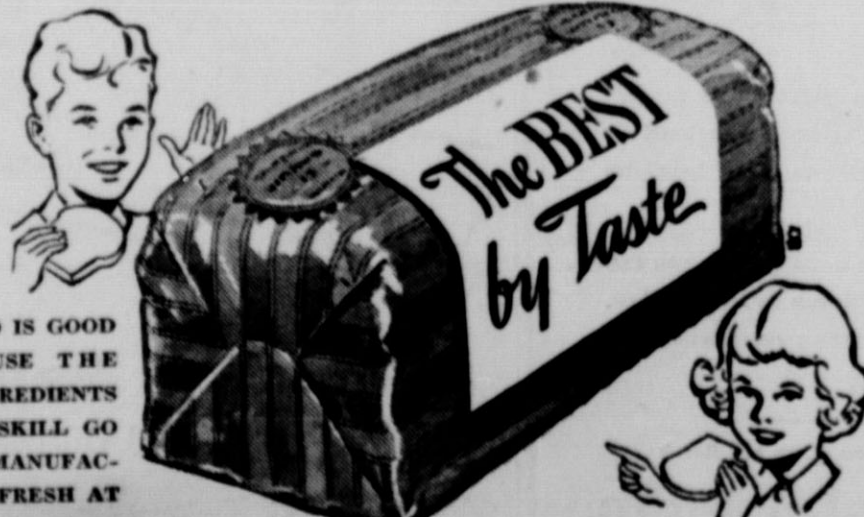

Although the lineman's life is fraught with danger, he is a normal citizen... maybe your neighbor. He is one of hundreds of men and women working behind the scenes to help make Electric Service efficient, dependable, and economical here... On him we bestow a title of honor—A Modern Linerider.

DOCTOR WARNS AGAINST SPREAD OF DISEASES

AUSTIN—Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, today warned city and county health officers over the state to take immediate control measures against the spread of diarrhea and enteritis (summer complaint). Widespread outbreaks of the disease have already been noted in several parts of Texas, and unless immediate checks against the disease are inaugurated, there is a likelihood that the 1940 morbidity and mortality total may rise above that for 1939, when a total of 2,338 deaths were reported in Texas.

"June, July and August of each year witness the peak prevalence of intestinal disorders, most of the victims being infants who suffer from so-called 'summer complaint.' Adults are also affected, the aged being quite susceptible," Dr. Cox further pointed out.

Illness is usually of sudden onset, accompanied by fever and severe diarrhea due to inflammation of the lining of the bowel (enteritis). The patient suffers loss of bodily fluids, and the bowel discharges often contain blood and mucus. Convulsions and coma frequently precede fatality, particularly in the infantile type of summer diarrhea.

Of the 1939 total of 2,338 fatalities, 1,775 affected infants and children under two years of age, and 563 deaths were among persons over two years of age (chiefly elderly people).

Diarrhea and enteritis as a rule result from the use of contaminated food products or contact with a patient or carrier. Dysentery bacilli or germs are often found thru laboratory examination of intestinal discharges. Laboratory studies demonstrated that many patients with diarrhea and enteritis (summer complaint) are really suffering from bacillary dysentery. This infectious disease is very similar to typhoid fever in its method of spread from person to person.

Prevention of diarrhea and enteritis is dependent on positive control factors such as: (1) Safeguarding food, milk, and water supplies. Foods should be covered at all times to prevent access of flies; raw vegetables and fruits should be thoroughly rinsed before using, and should never be sprayed either in transit or in commercial establishments with water other than approved as being free from contamination.

(2) Improvement in sanitation; methods of excreta disposal, and fly control. Breeding places of flies should be destroyed to prevent propagation; houses and commercial establishments should be thoroughly screened to prevent their entry; garbage should be placed in covered containers to

CANDIDATE

Ethel Payne above is candidate for the office of county treasurer of Motley county, subject to the action of the Democratic primary, July 27.

Mrs. Payne was born and reared in Motley County and is well known here. She was, before her marriage, Ethel Jinkins, daughter of the late F. M. Jinkins, pioneer of this section.

ATTEND ANNUAL MEET

Fire Chief Roy Smith, accompanied by Firemen Dick Groves, Brooks Calloway, and Harmon Mills, left Sunday for Houston where they are attending an annual convention of Texas firemen. The group will return home Sunday.

prevent access of flies, and collection and disposal of the garbage should be more frequent in the summer during the fly-breeding season. In localities where approved sewage disposal systems are not available, surface toilets should receive special attention as to sanitation. It is recommended that excreta be covered with waste oil, sand, ashes, or lime frequently during the summer season for satisfactory sanitation.

(3) Ready access of food handlers to soap and water so that strict cleanliness in preparation and serving of food may be had.

(4) Scrupulous attention to the matters of infant care and home hygiene. It is urged that special care be taken in the preparation of the infant's diet. Unless the home is fully screened against flies, the baby's crib should be screened or covered with netting.

Citizens are urged to report to their local city and county health officers any cases of diarrhea and enteritis of which they have knowledge so that immediate control measures may be inaugurated to prevent the further spread of the disease. Persons contracting diarrhea and enteritis (summer complaint) are further urged to get in touch with their family physician for immediate medical care.

NATIONAL FARM YOUTH FOUNDATION

The men who are responsible for the Ford tractor have established this Foundation to make a new kind of opportunity available to young men living or working on the farm.

Those who are selected as Members of the Foundation will receive, without obligation, a specially prepared course in Farm Engineering and Management conducted by La Salle Extension University. This course is complete and authoritative, and if regularly sold, would be priced at $136.

But in addition, members will receive regular class training under our personal guidance, and will also be given the opportunity to gain practical experience in sales and demonstration work. This education and training is invaluable. But in addition, the Foundation will award two salaried jobs to young men in this general area, as well as other desirable awards.

The whole story of this unusual opportunity is told in the book, A New Career. We have a copy for you. Come in and get it, tomorrow, and let us tell you more about the Foundation. Do not delay, because our training class starts soon.
