TRAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR

A friend who is afraid his wife will burn his draft card (it is a souvenir of World War II, and she dislikes clutter about the house), remembers the first time he saw girls without hose in public. He was a young baseball star in those days and he says his team lost to a neighboring community because several girls appeared without stockings. He said their dresses were long but the players simply could not keep their mind on the game because the girls were barelegged.

Men must seek religion for it can not seek them. Perhaps the Gideons have made it more convenient than any other group by placing the Bible in hotel rooms throughout the country. It is there for the wretched, the lonely, the hopeless and those who hunger but not for bread. But now, in this changing world there is a strong competitor for hours that might belong to meditation. It is a screen that may be seen from almost any place in the room, and the odds are great that it will not bring a message of religion.

A phase of life that refuses to become involved in almost anything seems to be sweeping the country, and nations of the world. Perhaps in the instance of peace it may be justified, but certainly not with dignity. The same is true with the individual who will not become involved with the truth, with justice, with ambition and work. The concealed fault in character must eventually be written in society's contract with purpose.

A quaint old custom taken from the less rampant past, is being used by some modern motels and other establishments. It is the flaming gas flares at entrances. The dancing flames attract people and also create a pleasant atmosphere, but more interesting is the lamp-lighter who goes from lamp to lamp at twilight.

My mother never saw a golf club but she received sufficient exercise in the shade of a cottonwood tree with a similar device. It was a churn-dasher.

ATTEND FUNERAL
Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Smallwood attended funeral services for a relative, Troy Payne, 86, Saturday in Lakeview. The services were held at 3:30 p.m. from the Lakeview Methodist Church.

Death Claims "Cotton John"

One of the best-known figures in the Panhandle, J. Garland Smith, better known as "Cotton John," died Friday while at M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute in Houston, awaiting a routine post-operative X-ray treatment for an intestinal inflammation. He was 48.

"Cotton John" was farm and ranch director of Radio and Television Station KGNC in Amarillo, a position he had held since 1952. He entered the Houston hospital Dec. 28. Attendants said earlier that he was recovering satisfactorily and tests detected no malignancy.

He is survived by his wife, three children and a sister.

Funeral services were held at 2 p.m. Monday at Amarillo's San Jacinto Methodist Church.

Attended Old Settlers

During his years as farm and ranch director, Smith attended Motley-Dickens Counties Old Settlers Reunion many times and taped the programs which he later used on his radio and television programs. Several 4-H and FFA youngsters from this county have appeared as guests on his farm programs in Amarillo.

He acquired the nickname "Cotton John" during the three years he was farm editor of the Amarillo Daily News, starting in 1949, while the government's new cotton acreage allotment program was being initiated.

Smith was born Jan. 15, 1920, at Orangeville and grew up at Whitewright, both in North Texas. He took a degree and for a time was a journalism instructor at East Texas State College.

Subsequently he studied journalism and was an associate professor at Northwestern University.

VFW District C. O. Visits Local Post

Sam Spence, Acting District Commander, visited the Motley County Memorial Post 6286 on Feb. 6th, and reported that 63 members of the 82 quota had been signed. It was also announced that returning Vietnam Veterans eligible for membership would receive free membership the first year, courtesy the local VFW post.

Relative to questions concerning the flying of the flag at night, it is permissible to fly the flag at night on special occasions, the veterans were told. This flag is to fly until victory is obtained in Vietnam and our fighting men are allowed to return home. Several posts over the United States are following this practice, and this is another method of showing our support for our men in the armed services, it was pointed out.

Also on the agenda, was the making of plans to assist in the food preparation for the Mother-Daughter and Father-Son banquets.

Budget Includes Weevil Control

(Special to Tribune)

Washington, D.C.—Representative George Mahon reports from Washington that the President's budget contains $408,000 for the continued maintenance of the boll weevil barrier along the eastern fringe of the Caprock. The program has been underway for several years, the purpose being to prevent the migration of the boll weevil westward into the South Plains and cotton producing area in the western United States.

Mahon said he was confident that the Committee on Appropriations, which he heads, will support the necessary funds for the continuation of the program. The program is a joint effort by farmers and the government, farmers sharing in the cost of maintaining the barrier.

The funds requested would carry the program at the same level as last year. United States Department of Agriculture officials are highly pleased with accomplishments.

Two anonymous contributions have been telephoned to the newspaper. Excerpts from a letter regarding the picture, are as follows:

"The extra $1 is to apply on the purchase of the picture for Ed D. Smith, as illustrated in the Tribune this week. This is a nostalgic experience for me. As a child, I spent many nights at the home of my parents, who were friends of my parents. His mother baked the best German or Dutch coffee cake I have ever eaten. The Tuesday night accumulation was in the neighborhood of three inches.

Bob Stanley's rain gauge registered .85-inch yesterday afternoon. Farmers and ranchers, as well as businessmen looked on the additional winter moisture as improving the already promising outlook for a better than usual "ground season."

COUNTY AGENT PALLMEYER SAYS:

Wheat farmers, if the green bugs didn't kill your grain, recent moisture makes it favorable for top yields, if the nitrogen supply is adequate.

Under dryland, about 30 lbs. acre should be considered, but a soil test will give you a more accurate figure. Since nitrogen increases the number of seed heads, topdressing should be done before jointing takes place.

Liquids containing urea should be "dribbled" on the soil surface rather than sprayed on the small grains. Solids can be topdressed also. Little benefit can be expected from topdressing phosphorus and potash because these elements should have been placed in the soil last fall, if needed.

No screwworm cases reported in January for the first screwworm free January since the eradication program started in 1962. Livestock owners are urged to help keep this situation under control by submitting any samples of suspected screwworms to the Mission Lab.

In case you don't have a sample mailing kit, I recently received a new supply, so if you need one, please let me know.

Ranchers who are interested in cutting their fencing costs in about half, should be interested in the revised edition of the Texas Extension Service's leaflet, "Save with Suspension Fences." Information is given about the benefits, construction costs and where to use these suspension fences. They are good for boundary, interior and cross fencing. They turn cattle well and last as long as standard-type fences, but the cost is about $350 a mile as compared to $600 a mile for standard fencing.

This leaflet is available in my office.

Cattle lice may not create much of a problem in the warm months, but it's a different story during the winter season. Closer confinement aids the spread of lice to clean animals.

By the time lice are easily seen, much of the damage may already have been done. The time to treat lice is while the infestations are light. Four species of lice suck blood from cattle and cattle infested with lice have a rough coarse appearance and do not make normal gains. The pests are more abundant during the winter and spring when the hair coat is long.

Because of the restrictions on the use of various insecticides available for treating cattle, ask for a copy of MP-691, "Texas Guide for Controlling External Parasites of Livestock and Poultry", which is available in my office. Listed are the various chemicals, along with the use and the restrictions of their use. Formulations for both dusts and sprays are given, along with dilution charts for mixing.

Sulfur is the third of the secondary elements of soil fertility, and of late the fertilizer industry has placed more emphasis on this element. Don't be oversold on its use or inclusion in the fertilizer you buy, as 21-0-0 (Ammonium Sulfate) has 26% sulfur in it, but until recently, the sulfur content was not emphasized.

Plant requirements of sulfur are comparable to requirements of phosphorus. It is a constituent of all plant protein and some plant hormones. It favors the development of nodules and nitrogen fixation as well as affecting carbohydrate metabolism.

Plants obtain sulfur from the air and soil. In our area, little sulfur is obtained from the air, as there are no industrial plants nearby that release this element into the air, but the use of pesticides, decomposition of inorganic sulfur and the addition of fertilizers containing sulfur, make this element available from the soil.

In general, soils deficient in sulfur are those which are highly leached and sandy soils low in organic matter. Sulfur will also reduce pH, but if this is a problem, the cost of applying enough sulfur to reduce the pH is prohibitive, and only temporary because of the large amount of native material in the soil that is causing this high alkalinity factor.

Sulfur deficiencies may show up as: short, thin stems inclining to be woody, reduced leaf area, reduced fruiting, pale color, delayed maturity and leaf spotting. Much of this resembles nitrogen deficiencies, but with nitrogen, the old leaves lose nitrogen, and the plant may become a uniform yellowish-green color, or the lower leaves may turn yellow and fall from the plant. With sulfur deficiency, the older leaves retain sufficient sulfur to remain green, while the younger leaves become yellow-green.

Too much sulfur can kill plants, so if this is your problem, use a soil test for recommendations on how much to apply.

Clothing Fires Are Out Of Fashion

The American Medical Association has for many years annually warned of the dangers inherent in flammable fabrics. There are many injuries and not a few deaths every year—mostly in the winter—from clothing fires.

This winter something new has been added to this danger—paper clothing.

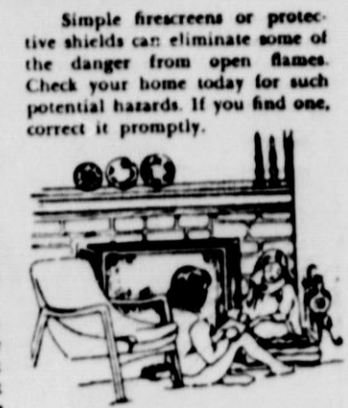

Paper clothing—mostly women's dresses—is so new that as yet there are few data on the potential burn dangers.

A top government safety official warned recently that people who wear paper clothing risk burning themselves if they wear it near an open flame, or if they are in a room that is smoky.

The Journal of the American Medical Association reports that approximately 2 million persons annually are burned severely enough to require medical attention, and that 100,000 of these require hospital care. About 2,000 Americans die of burns each year. Far too many of these burn victims are injured when their clothing catches fire.

Whether the garment is paper or cloth, it might ignite if the wearer gets too close to an open flame. It's a temptation to huddle close to a stove or fireplace on a cold morning. It also can be fatal.

Simple firecreens or protective shields can eliminate some of the danger from open flames. Check your home today for such potential hazards. If you find one, correct it promptly.

Using kerosene or a commercial "fire starter" for the fireplace or barbecue grill also has potential hazards. If there are hot coals in the fireplace or grill, the volatile liquid may flare up or explode, especially in a closed room.

Little girls' dresses with flimsy, flaring skirts are obviously a fire hazard. So are flowing robes and night gowns. Small boys in their blue jeans are much safer. But even jeans will flame up if ignited.

If someone's clothing catches fire, roll him on the ground or floor, using a blanket or a rug to smother the flames. If the victim panics and runs, the flames will flare even higher.

Court of Criminal Appeals Judge W. A. Morrison and Leon Douglas, a candidate for the Court of Criminal Appeals have no Democratic opposition.

Republican

Governor—Paul Eggers of Wichita Falls, Wallace Sisk of Houston and John R. Trice of Dallas.

Republican candidates with no primary opposition are: Lieutenant Governor—Douglas DeCluitt of Waco; Attorney General—Sproesser Wynn of Fort Worth; Treasurer—Manuel Sanchez of Brownsville; Comptroller—John Bennett, San Antonio; Agriculture Commissioner—E. H. Schuhart of Dalhart; Land Commissioner—Millard Neptune of New Ulm; and Railroad Commissioner—Jim Segrest of San Antonio.

DRINK BATTLE RENEWED—Gov. John Connally told a press conference that he may renew his effort to strengthen state liquor laws and legalize and tax liquor by the drink at the special session of the Legislature he must call this year.

Connally said the liquor proposal he made in 1967, which was killed by the Legislature, may well be a part of his program for raising the $150,000,000 to $190,000,000 which will be needed to operate state government next year.

He renewed his attack on the "subterfuge" of the private club, and said that his efforts in 1967 to tighten up the liquor law were opposed by some who now profess to be shocked at the shortcomings of the liquor laws.

But Connally said he has not yet decided when to call the Legislature back to Austin. Speculation is that the session will be in June, after the primaries.

He suggested that if the liquor issue is not handled by the first special session, he might call another session to work on it. He also announced that he wants a strong conflict of interest law to prohibit any member of the Legislature from practicing before any state agency.

MIGRANT EDUCATION BOOSTED—Migrant education will get a $6,300,000 federal boost in the next six months, if State Board of Education preliminary plans are carried out.

Board also agreed to widening federal aid application due to congressional action which increases U. S. funds available in Texas for 1967-68 from $3,900,000 to $10,300,000. While program now is limited to children whose parents were in the "migrant stream" when school started, it will in future cover those whose parents left itinerant agricultural work up to five years earlier.

COURTS SPEAK—State Supreme Court agreed with lower court verdicts that a 76-year-old San Antonio man, who was pardoned after being sentenced to death in the electric chair, should get $20,000 in false imprisonment compensation. Catch is the governor last year vetoed appropriation set aside by the Legislature to pay the oldtimer, Anastasio Vargas.

High court also upheld the jury award of $75,000 to owners of property condemned by city of San Marcos to expand Southwest Texas State College.

VISITORS TO AUSTIN—Tourists from all over the state and from every area of the nation visit the State Capitol Building in Austin. Its doors are open day and night.

Something new has been added for the visitors' pleasure. It's a beautiful 170-page, 7x10 book in gorgeous colors entitled "The Texas Capitol—Symbol of Accomplishment".

If you're contemplating a trip to Austin, write the Texas State Highway Department for a copy of this $2 book. You'll double the pleasure of your visit by having background information on what you're going to see.

RETARDED CHILDREN WORK FOR HANDICAPPED—Retarded children (some as old as 60) at Travis State School in Austin are having the time of their lives potting and planting more than 9,000 flower, shrub and tree cuttings which will be raised for transplanting at other state schools and state hospitals all over the state.

The idea of a beautification project for the grounds of state institutions for the mentally ill and mentally retarded was sparked by MH-MR Commissioner John Kinross-Wright who donated and potted some of the first plants. Since then, others have been donated by gardeners who heard about the landscape program by word of mouth.

Short Snorts

Governor Connally appointed Jerome Jones of Texas City judge of County Court No. 2 in Galveston County to succeed Judge Hugh Gibson.

Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway Company has filed application with Texas Railroad Commission to discontinue six Texas passenger trains—serving Gainesville, Dallas, Fort Worth, Brownwood, Houston and Farwell.

Thomas Alva Edison in his lifetime—even after 1097 inventions—never could have imagined the many jobs flameless electricity does today.

In your home alone, 166 electrical appliances are available to save time, reduce work, and do a better job faster and more economically.

The average American family has nearly doubled its use of electricity in the past 10 years. And at such a low cost, it is today's biggest bargain in your budget.

Here at WTU we keep pace with the increasing use of electricity in industry, in business and in the home. It's a way of life with us, for we know that electricity powers progress.

Cure Toothaches Before They Start

In bygone days, some people believed that kissing a donkey would cure a toothache. Others believed that a sprig of parsley hung around the neck would prevent a toothache. While modern dentistry has dispelled odd superstitions, there are still misconceptions about dental health.

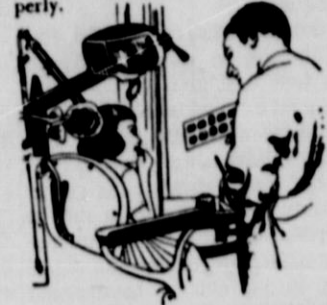

During the week of Feb. 4 through 10, the nation will observe the 20th anniversary of National Children's Dental Health Week. Its purpose is to provide sound dental health information to children and parents, and to remove misconceptions about dental health.

Today, people don't go around kissing donkeys, but some still believe that dental caries (decay)—the cause of a toothache—can be cured. It can't. Dental decay can be removed from a tooth and the tooth filled. And, with proper care—by cleaning the teeth after meals and by cutting down on sweets—the decay possibly won't recur.

Decay can be prevented—not by parsley, but by fluoridation. Countless studies of children in fluoridated communities have proved that fluoride in the water prevents decay by about 65 per cent. And, if fluoride is not in the water, the dentist can either paint a child's teeth with a fluoride substance, or he can prescribe dietary fluorides. The American Dental Association says some fluoride toothpastes are recognized as effective in decay prevention.

Here are some important facts about dental health:

- Baby (primary) teeth are important. They save the proper eruption space for permanent teeth and are necessary for chewing, speech and appearance.
- Milk does not prevent decay. It helps the teeth form properly.
- Sweets are a causative factor in decay and their consumption should be limited, probably to meal times.
- A great proportion of children have some type of gum disease. If untreated, the disorders will become more serious as the child grows. Gum disease is the greatest cause of adult tooth loss.
- Destroyed tooth enamel cannot be repaired. If a tooth stops aching, this means the pulp has been infected—an indication of real trouble.
- Very few people are "immune" to dental decay. Approximately 98 per cent of the population suffers from caries. But regular toothbrushing, fluoridation and routine dental care will greatly reduce decay. 4-68

FORTS

Historic Forts Trail Leads Visitor Into Areas of Texas' Stormy Past

AUSTIN — Historic forts and missions throughout Texas have long been a source of pride and a challenge to those Texans who have worked for their preservation. Now, under the direction of Gov. John Connally, their dedication is being repaid with the establishment of the Texas Forts Trail.

It is one of 10 Travel Trails announced here January 17 by the governor at the third annual Governor's Tourist Development Conference.

The 608-mile journey passes through the counties of Brown, Coke, Comanche, Eastland, Erath, Jack, Jones, Mason, McCullough, Menard, Palo Pinto, Runnels, San Saba, Schleicher, Shackelford, Taylor, Throckmorton, Tom Green and Young.

Research shows that 70 to 80 per cent of a national sample of vacationers indicated they are primarily interested in the presence of historic sites in planning their vacation.

Forts listed on the trail are Fort Richardson in Jacksboro, Fort Belknap in Young County near Newcastle, Fort Griffin north of Albany, Fort Phantom Hill north of Abilene, Fort Chadbourne in Coke County, Fort Concho in San Angelo, Fort McKavett near Menard and Fort Mason near Mason.

Fort Richardson, located at the south end of Depot Street in downtown Jacksboro, was built in 1867 as the most northerly in a chain of military posts occupied by the U.S. Cavalry to halt Indian raids. During the 1870s Fort Richardson was occupied by Gen. Ranald McKenzie and was the largest military post in the United States from 1870-1873. It was abandoned in 1878.

The Forts Trail follows U.S. 281 southward to Mineral Wells, a noted health resort which became nationally famous because of its mineral baths. Several splendid lakes are nearby—Mineral Wells, Palo Pinto and Possum Kingdom.

U.S. 180 and U.S. 80 are used to route the Forts Trail through Metcalf Gap, on to Ranger, past Lake Leon and to Comanche via State Highway 16. Comanche is noted for its production of peanuts, Burks Museum and Proctor Reservoir on the Leon River.

Fort Mason, built in 1851, lies one mile north Mason at the junction of U.S. 377 and 87. The fort was well established in 1855 and used to quell attacks by Comanche, Kiowa and Lipan-Apache Indians. The fort was closed by the Army in 1869.

Leaving Mason, the Forts Trail travels State Highway 29 to Menard and nearby Fort McKavett, located 18 miles west on State Highway 29 and seven miles south on Farm Road 864. This fort contains 17 buildings that are not in rubble.

The Forts Trail follows State Highway 29 to the junction with Farm Road 2084 leading northward to San Angelo. Fort Concho is located within that city. Built about 1871, it was first occupied by part of the 4th Cavalry from Fort Chadbourne which had been abandoned because of water supply failure. Fort Concho was finally ordered abandoned in 1889.

The community which became San Angelo actually grew up around Fort Concho. Today, it is one of the largest primary wool markets in the United States and also home of Goodfellow Air Force Base, Angelo State College, Lake Nasworthy and a pair of reservoirs—Twin Buttes and San Angelo.

Fort Chadbourne is located in northeastern Coke County, 12 miles northeast of Bronte. The fort was established in October, 1852, for the 8th U.S. Cavalry. The land is in private ownership. Some of the original buildings are still standing.

Fort Phantom Hill is 14 miles north of Abilene although very few buildings remain. It was established in 1851 and served as an important link in the frontier defenses that reached from the Red River to the Rio Grande. The site was also used as a station on the Butterfield Overland mail route.

Next stop is Albany, reached by Farm Road 2883 out of Abilene and U.S. 180. Fifteen miles north of Albany on U.S. 283 stands Fort Griffin, now a state historical park and home of the state-owned herd of longhorn cattle. Fort Griffin was established in 1867 to replace Fort Belknap, which was being abandoned. Fort Griffin and its troops played an active role in campaigns against the Indians on the Staked Plains of the Texas Panhandle. The fort was abandoned in the spring of 1881.

U.S. 283 leaves Albany and runs northward to lead Forts Trail travelers to Throckmorton, to Graham, Lake Graham and to the vicinity of Newcastle, where State Highway 24 goes eastward

Tulia Publisher Rejects LBJ Job

TULIA—H. M. Baggary, Tulia publisher, has turned down President Johnson's request for him (Baggary) to come to Washington as a presidential assistant.

Baggary informed the president of his decision by letter.

The offer of a position on President Johnson's staff was made to the Tulia man Jan. 29 at that time Baggary said he had two personal telephone calls from President Johnson.

In the letter, Baggary stated his newspaper here and the image he has tried to give it during the past 20 years come first.

"Under no conceivable circumstances would I dispose of it, or allow it to suffer damage as the result of neglect or inability to find leadership to continue what I consider proper direction," Baggary wrote.

Baggary thanked the President for "the confidence you have placed in me." He added that he considered it the greatest compliment of his career.
