

RAIL DUST
DOUGLAS MEADOR
The morning is crystal globe
The face of destiny will be reflected, made twice
because of its uncertain
The morning is lovelier in the special way than the golden shafts of other years. Perhaps the blending of tranquil melodies with the soft melody of the prairie of gold-finches, crimson scrub-oak leaves, the rich yellow of tall cottonwood. Again it is the melodious songs of the winds,
the empty starlight light, or the silence of night, or the prayers of a free and happy people.
The men are obsessed by a vision which causes them to give up deliberation than they are purchasing a handkerchief from a reputable vendicator of the world's most experiences may be traced to mistakes made in selection of friends.
The rocky hillside, like an old man with a weathered face. Fragments of broken glass, which have been from the sunshades of the summers, may be seen in clumps of dried grass beneath the gray sage. The ground is one of rolling hills and groves of Chinaberry trees. Short pieces of barbed wire are imbedded in the bark of great cottonwood whose leaves are found in perpetual moisture on the sandy creek bank.
In the flat appears to have remained in rows of grass and the wind tosses it at certain intervals. The grass has filled furrows in a long abandoned field. Tracks made by the feet of a little boy have become an oblivion. There is a cottonwood stump behind the thicket of whispering sage. The tree which once stood here was felled, to make a box slightly longer than a small two-headed boy.
The sand falls into the clefts of memories and the organs of old dreams become precious through the passing of decay. It would be pleasant to return some night to the bluff hill above the Pa-nuhan and feel the spray in my face and feel the thunderous surf on my breasts of rock like a hand and hopeless lover. It would be good to feel the cloak of heavy clouds and the soft rain of solitude, or see rain on palm leaves. Some times when I ride with the swells of the sea, crashes like the surf on rocky shores.
In some aspects, growing old has advantages. During the sunny days of my youth I could not speak without feeling without courage to speak without an audience without feeling an urge to break and run to lock into many faces.
The convenience of falling asleep, I merely had to refresh my glasses. My fright was because I could not see the people. Of course the people of what I say has not improved, nor become less boring, but I am unable to see my own eyes.

Lions Show Chest Drive Schedules Rehearsal

Annual Matador Community Chest drive is under its quota according to President Clint Hicks. Although the goal was lower this year than in 1951, the response has been slower, Mr. Hicks declared.
"We have been slowed to some extent," he said, "because some of our volunteer workers have been unable to carry out their solicitations on schedule. I feel that the people of Matador and vicinity will not fail in making the quota and that perhaps the busy season has been responsible for some of the apparently lagging interest."
"We hope to complete the designated territory (that embraced by the Matador Independent School district) within a few days and workers are optimistic regarding the results. I would like to urge every citizen to contribute generously and make it possible to carry out the Community Chest's 1952-53 program."
Mrs. Homer T. Jinkins underwent surgery in Lubbock Memorial Hospital, Lubbock, Wednesday morning. Mr. Jinkins accompanied his wife there Tuesday and was to return home today.
In ceremonies performed at the half period of the Silverton-Matador game, Nov. 7, Miss Marlene Bailey, High School senior, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Bailey, was crowned Matador Sweetheart. She was selected by the football team by secret ballot.
The Matador Pep Squad saluted Silverton and Matador and then formed an M in a kneeling position, while captains Jack Spray, Neal Pipkin and Dewayne Martin escorted Miss Bailey to the field.
Jack Spray crowned her with a gold crown trimmed with rhinestones. Neal Pipkin presented her a bouquet of bronze and gold mums and Dewayne Martin bestowed the crowning kiss.
The three captains escorted Her Highness to a red and black streamer bedecked convertible, courtesy of Charles Ray Cox, and rode from the field.
The pep squad marched from the field, still in the M formation.

Armistice Observed By Veteran Groups

JOE B. MEADOR
Legion Armistice speaker

Renewal Of Faith Asked By Speaker

"IT IS TIME the people of America renew their faith in the nation," Joe B. Meador told a group of veterans, their wives and visitors in the American Legion club building Tuesday evening.
The Purple Heart veteran made the principal address following a covered dish dinner and climaxed an interesting Armistice Day program. "Small communities know more about Americanism, than the larger cities," Meador declared, "and Americanism is the privilege and opportunity to live as we please and do the small things that make up life in this republic... the boys in Korea are fighting valiantly for the privilege of retaining and returning to these things. We are passing through a critical period in our nation's history and the greatest challenge today is to renew our faith in America."
Prayer was by Post Commander Loyd Latimer, V. R. Beauchamp, Post Service Officer made a report of veterans buried in Motley county cemeteries (including all wars).
Mrs. H. H. Schweitzer, President of the American Legion Auxiliary explained the plan of providing funds for veterans in hospitals to send Christmas gifts to relatives at home.
Singers Are Popular
One of the outstanding features of the program was the singing of the Goodwin trio of Afton, accompanied by their mother, Mrs. Maurice Goodwin. The talented children singers received unusual response from the audience and were recalled for encore after they had returned to their seats.
Meador observed Armistice by closing most places of business and the flying of flags throughout the downtown section.

Blood Bank Date is Set

Citizens of Motley county will have an opportunity to render a great service to the fighting men in Korea next month. It is probable a blood donation from some Motley county citizen may save the life of some man wounded in battle. The mobile blood bank will be here one day only, December 3rd.
The announcement was made Tuesday evening by County Judge elect Vance Gilbreath at the Armistice program of the American Legion.
"Motley county has never failed in any request for service to our men in uniform," Mr. Gilbreath declared, "and I know we will not fail in the vital program. The county has been asked for at least 150 pints of blood. It will be necessary that we have 250 or more donors signed up when the blood bank arrives."
"Both men and women (over 18 and under 60) are eligible to donate blood. The blood bank will be here from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. It will be necessary for some to wait since all who offer blood will not be accepted."

"Happiness in the home is most essential during the plastic period of a child's life," he declared, "as he descends his own hunched and contented boyhood to the child." "Everything a parent does leaves a lasting impression on the child." Turner, Malcolm Turner and Dean, and the host and hostess, all of Flomot.

Mother Turner's jovial disposition added much to the spirit of the occasion. According to one of her children, "She says a person is just as old as she feels; and she doesn't feel old. We think she is 47, altho she says she doesn't expect to get to be after 84."

A number of hymns were sung by the children and grandchildren before Mother Turner opened her gifts. It was difficult to tell which she enjoyed most, as she joined in each hymn and expressed such joy as she opened each gift.

Mother Turner with her husband, the late B. F. Turner, came to Flomot in 1902 and made her home at the foot of Quitaque Peaks until 1943 when she moved to Plainview, where she and a daughter, Miss Roxie Turner, make their home.

If You Want Television . . .

You Will Want Zenith!

PURSUANT to the long-established policy of this firm, which places the satisfaction of customers as the first requirement in every transaction, we suggest hesitancy in the purchase of television sets until television has proven satisfactory in this area. This great, modern miracle of entertainment is still in the process of being perfected, especially with regard to "fringe" distances. Television is expensive and unless its performance is satisfactory, the customer is justified in feeling that the dealer was more interested in making a sale than in rendering a merchandising service.

Within the next few days we will have installed the most advanced type of antenna and a supreme television set — the new ZENITH. We want our customers to see television in our store, and understand fully the kind of performance they may expect. We believe the new Zenith is the best set on the market, but we want to be certain the performance is satisfactory in this area before we recommend sales to our customers. It is probable that better television performance may be received from Amarillo than from Lubbock, because of the terrain, the types of broadcasting stations and other factors. Good television service in the "fifty-mile and over areas" will require expert installation, the very best quality set and favorable terrain conditions. We believe this area may offer good reception from both Lubbock and Amarillo, but we are not positive.

We want to be certain our customers will be satisfied with the reception on their television screens before we advise purchases. Nothing better than Zenith performance can be assured.

While we anticipate a certain shortage of sets in this area, we believe we can supply the demand after a short time, and that it is good judgment to wait until the performance is proven. We invite you to come to our store and see the new Zenith in operation.

Fresh from the Freezer

Life is simpler, Judy, since we've had this Electric Home Freezer, full of fresh frozen things to eat — and the meals are better! Look at the variety in there! Corn on the cob, strawberries, peaches, snap beans — meat, cakes all baked and ready to warm in the oven — your school lunches for a week, all wrapped and frozen so I just have to take a package out in the morning when you leave for school.

And we never 'out of things'. When they have bargains at the stores — in frozen foods or in meats — I can stock up on them. I never have to throw leftovers away — just freeze them to use weeks later. So you see, this freezer saves me time and saves your Dad money, too!

DID YOU KNOW . . .

with an Electric Home Freezer you can . . .

Freeze bread slices until needed keeping them fresh and firm — freeze large quantities of cooked beans, soups, etc. and store for later use. — Freeze and store cakes. — Freeze waffles, warm in electric range oven as needed. — Store ice cubes for parties. — Save enough on food to pay for the freezer in a relatively short time!

MHS

Kampus Klatter

"Silver threads among the gold" seems to be the new fashion among the girls at MHS now. However, we have always admired gray hair and youth must have its fling!

We surely are happy to have Eleanor O'Kelly, a senior, from Baird with us. That makes a total of ten seniors to graduate this year.

The presidential race caused quite a few spirited discussions around the campus this week, however there were no casualties.

We were pleased to have the James Smiths, ex-teachers of MHS, visit us this week. They are living in Cisco where Mr. Smith is employed by an oil company.

The radio program over KFLD presented by Matador students seem to have been favorably accepted. Personally I think it is wonderful that we have so much talent in our school.

Mrs. Ethel Emmons went to Fort Worth last Thursday and while she was there, she visited the fifth grade class.

Here's a correction I would like to make concerning the write-up about the Carnival Queen nominees. Sara Carson's escort will be Frank Traweck instead of Richard Hamilton.

What's the biggest "little" business in Texas?

If it's the business that employs one out of seven Texas jobholders . . .

It's the business that helps to bring you everything you buy, use, eat or wear . . .

It's the business whose taxes build one-third of all Texas highways . . .

It's the TRUCKING business! Over a million Texas men, women and children depend directly on it for their livelihood.

Yes—fifty-six per cent of Texas' trucks are owned by individuals with only one truck. Trucking is probably the biggest "little" business in the State!

Texas can't do business without truck transportation.

No community can exist, even if it is on a rail line, without trucks to haul goods away from the railroad and get them to stores and homes.

There are 1,786 Texas towns that have no rail service at all. If it were not for trucks, they would have no commerce with the rest of the State and the nation.

Wherever you live in Texas, whatever you do—trucking services are essential to your way of life. Trucks belong!

And here's the biggest seller of its class in the business . . .

Watch the Texas truck drivers . . . they drive safely and courteously!

Using latest registration data on 8,069,000 trucks, life insurance experts prove Ford Trucks last longer!

Pied Pinions BY MRS. M.

Anybody lost a pound of bacon recently? One was left at the Tribune office a week or so ago. It's in the office ice box and owner may have same (or a reasonable facsimile) by calling for it.

As we see it, the only difference between here and there is a "T".

According to a local merchant, the most popular indoor sport for women, is leafing through the pattern books.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil E. Burney of Corpus Christi, were mentioned and pictured in the November issue of Argosy. Mr. B. is president of the State Bar of Texas, and his wife is the former Kara Hunsucker of Matador (granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Moore).

The article, "Texas Gavel and Stetson's" is by Harry Steeger, and is an account of the annual convention of the Texas State Bar Association, held recently in Houston, with Erle Stanley Gardner as principal speaker.

Mr. Steeger writes: "For years we've read about everything in Texas being bigger and better than any place else. We've listened to good and bad jokes, probably originated by the Texans themselves, about the prowess of its inhabitants. And we became a scoffer, first degree.

Now that the trip is over, we're willing to say uncle three times and bow our heads to the South—as far as the State Bar Association of Texas is concerned, anyway. We ran into a group of men whose brilliance and drive combine to produce rather inspiring results."

He writes further: "... We were introduced to Cecil E. Burney, president of whom Park Street had written, 'Down in Texas we feel he is the best president of any bar association anywhere', leaving very little doubt as to his opinion. We were anxious to meet Burney because of his state-wide campaign to enlist lawyers in devoting part of their time gratis to the upgrading of justice."

Impressive are the chimes which are played at evening tide, from the First Methodist church in Mineral Wells. The hymns assume an ethereal quality as bell tones merge with space.

Samples of products manufactured or secured from over the state, were brought to the convention held by the Texas Women's Press Association, and distributed to those attending.

We came home laden with honey from Uvalde, Gebhardt's Chili Powder from San Antonio, a pictorial history of San Antonio, contained in a book distributed by Pioneer Flour Mills on their 100th anniversary; aluminum ash trays from A&M College; "Lady Texas" nylons from Airmail Hosiery Mills of Dallas and New Braunfels; sugar cane from the vicinity of Tyler; tiny seal stickers from Southwestern University at Georgetown; marine "buckeye" good luck charms, made from amoebs washed up on Padre Island, across from Corpus Christi, and, as an appreciation gift to Mr. M for speaking to the group, a book of poems, "Some- one Must Dream", presented to him by the author, Cora Pritchard Dines. Mrs. Dines has held the office of Poet Laureate simultaneously in the Texas Woman's Press Association, the National Federation of Press Women, Inc., and the International Federation of Press Women.

Reading and Lighting and 'Rithmetic

Look what some figure-happy statistician just found out. From kindergarten through high school, school kids have to plow through a pile of books 18 feet high. A photograph taken of this pile of books would make your eyes ache.

Close visual work is hard on the eyes. A New York State survey of 83,000 students showed only one in 20 kids had vision defects at kindergarten age. By senior high, eye troubles affected six students in 20.

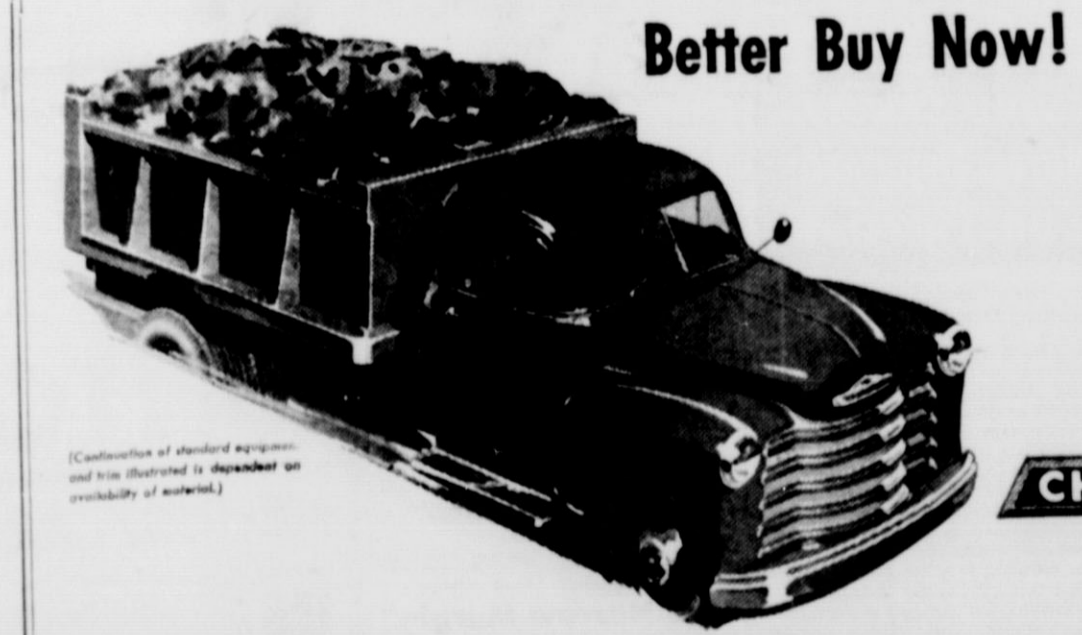

Good lighting is one readily available means of making seeing easier for these students. Lighting engineers find that over half the schools still use old, globe-type fixtures that give only one-sixth the light that ought to be on the desks.

In those schools that have installed modern lighting, teachers report that students are more eager to study, are happier and require less discipline. The teachers find their jobs easier.

To help schools analyze what light is needed, General Electric engineers work out various lighting systems in model classrooms where effects can be demonstrated and compared. A booklet is offered, "Making Schoolwork Easier on the Eyes," in which current practices are summed up. (Write the Lamp Division, Nela Park, Cleveland, Ohio.)

It is the aim of General Electric to translate its engineering help into public service at the community level.

FROM OUR READERS

Roaring Springs, Texas
Mr. Meador:

The article you had in this week's Tribune is, I think, an insult to the millions who are sick and disgusted with the rotten New Deal (so called) administration in the history of the American people.

As for the statement you make concerning the apostate of the Democratic party, I think it apostatized 20 years ago. According to the vote at the polls there are a few more who think the same.

As for the contempt for the men (Shivers and Daniel) do you think they had sway over all the people who voted for Ike? Huh! No, they had nothing to do with the overwhelming vote for Ike. It was purely and simple, disgust.

You say Stevenson is such a great man. Why did he tag along with Truman if he is such a magnificent man? I like so many others, think he is downright DUMB else he would have had his own platform and let go of Truman's coat-tail.

I have always voted democratic. Would have this time if there had been one running for president. As for being called a Republican, I choose that name rather than the stripe of democrat that has been in power the past 20 years.

If you are going to have contempt for the people that were responsible for the overthrow of a near dictatorship, well you will get to include quite a bunch of the American people. Thank God for a people that open their eyes and know when they have had enough of this so-called democratic ROTTEN DEAL.
