Cotton Stamp Release Soon

Local Office Is Employing Extra Crew In Work

Motley county cotton producers may expect to receive cotton stamps within the next week, provided additional delays are not encountered, it was disclosed here yesterday.

C. T. Wasson, AAA district field supervisor will be here next week to approve the completed work and it is expected the stamps will be released within a few days.

The office of county agent J. Rufus Emmons is working two crews from 5 a. m. to 10 p. m. daily to rush the necessary clerical work as rapidly as possible.

First stamps in the county will be released August 18, however, release is not possible until after official approval which may require more time.

County Among First

While some delay has resulted in release of the cotton stamps, Motley county will be among the first in the Panhandle to start use of the government's plan to increase the use of cotton products. Each grower who has met the cotton stamp plan requirements, will receive in the neighborhood of $25 in stamps which may be used only in the purchase of all-cotton products, made of American cotton and processed in American mills.

Government officials here this week declared that the amount of stamps which will be released will exceed the original estimates but declined to state what the benefit might total in this county.

Stamps will be accepted the same as cash at all stores in the county handling cotton products.

Bob Robertson Is Clawed By Lioness

L. B. (Bob) Robertson is measuring his livingroom floor for a lion skin rug after an incident Monday morning which required medical treatment of his hand lacerated by the powerful paw of "Kit", the lioness which recently became the mother of four bouncing cubs.

Mr. Robertson was engaged in feeding and care of the roaring African jungle monarchs when "Kit" slapped at his hand and failed to withdraw the claws. After treatment he was able to conduct activities as usual except for the severe pain caused by the deep wound across the back of his hand.

Travelers on the two highways which intersect at Bob's Oil Well Filling station, find an endless source of interest in Mr. Robertson's private zoo which contains foreign and local wild animals, including a large collection of rattlesnakes caught in the county.

Legionnaires To Attend Convention

Chairman L. L. Russell will head a delegation of Fleming Post American Legion members to attend the Legion convention to be held in Ft. Worth beginning Saturday and continuing thru Wednesday. Besides Chairman Russell, who will be accompanied by his daughter, Mavinee, the following Fleming Post delegates have been selected to attend: Marvin Patton, L. B. Robertson, D. P. Keith and W. W. Clements.

Speeches of the Legion leaders will be broadcast over a national hook-up, including Louis Johnson, Milo J. Warner, National Commander and Mrs. Blackburn, National president of the Ladies' Auxiliary.

TO NEW MEXICO

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Davis and son of Duncan, Okla., who visited here during the week end, accompanied her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Y. Higgins on a vacation trip to New Mexico, including the Carlsbad Caverns and Taos.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Weaver and daughters, Anne and Adrienne, arrived Tuesday for a week's visit with Mrs. Weaver's mother, Mrs. Margaret Newman.

Voters Will Decide Bond Issue Tuesday

Problem Of Funds For County Roads Goes To Taxpayers

Motley county property owners will go to the polls Tuesday, August 19 and decide on the passage of $70,000 road bonds to rebuild and repair county roads damaged by the excessive rains during the spring and early summer.

County roads in many sections are almost impassable and create serious hazards that will obviously become worse with future rains, continued and heavy fall traffic. The problem of funds to repair and rebuild the damaged roads has no solution other than to vote bonds, since all funds from already existing taxes are absorbed in the county's operation.

Taxpayers Must Decide

County Judge W. R. Cammack and the commissioners' court have placed the problem with the taxpayers, without comment. The condition of roads offer concrete testimony to the serious need of repairs. The method of raising the funds leaves little room for discussion.

Tax payers have been informed that the $70,000 estimated to be required for the work, will involve, if passed, an additional tax of 10c on the $100 property valuation, or one dollar on each $1,000 worth of property rendered for taxes.

Precincts where greatest damage from the rains have resulted, point to the fact that they have already paid for their share of roads in other sections, during the past.

Expect Policy Of Good Neighbors

While interest in the road bond election has raised little comment it is believed by advocates in the distressed precincts, that property owners in the more fortunate precincts will exercise the "good neighbor" policy and support the issue. With the commercial progress of Matador jeopardized by

COTTON WORMS APPEAR HERE; POISON ADVISED

Cotton leaf worms are reported to be numerous in many parts of the county, especially where the crop is of rank growth or is young and tender. County Agent J. Rufus Emmons advises farmers to examine cotton plants carefully each day, and if young worms are plentiful they should be poisoned promptly; otherwise, a promising crop may be quickly destroyed.

Calcium arsenate (arsenate of lime), three pounds to fifty gallons of water, should be used as a spray if possible, and the mixture must be kept well agitated during application. Due to great demands for this poison in the eastern and southern states during the past two months, it is nearly impossible for local dealers to purchase the powder.

Lead arsenate may be used as a calcium arsenate substitute, but precautions should be taken in its use. Formula for mixing is two pounds to fifty gallons of water, as more than two pounds may burn cotton.

Farmers should be careful about breathing the poison during mixing and apply grease or wear rubber gloves on the hands. Lead arsenate is not dangerous if used carefully.

Paris Green and London Purple will kill the worms but is likely to burn cotton and is not advised, unless other poisons cannot be secured. White arsenic should not be used.

SEVEN ESCAPE INJURY SUNDAY

Seven people narrowly escaped serious injury Sunday afternoon when two automobiles collided at the highway fork just north of Roaring Springs.

Nathaniel Storey, Negro, was driver of one car with five other occupants. As he was driving on the fork towards the highway, he pulled to the left-hand side of the road to wait for an automobile driven by Lewis Clifton to pass. Clifton, however, turned onto the fork and the left sides of both cars struck.

The Negro pleaded guilty Monday and was fined $13.50. Damage to the Clifton automobile was estimated at $250, most of which was covered by insurance.

WINTER PEAS TO BE SOLD LOCALLY

Winter peas used as conservation materials under the 1941 farm program may be obtained from regular seed dealers instead of thru the government, W. I. Rushing, AAA official has announced.

Cost of the seed, which is of the Vetch and Austrian variety, is set at a fixed price and will not exceed rates charged last year.

County needs are determined by soil-building allowances for co-operating farms, and seed dealers will furnish the seed on requisitions from the AAA office. When requisitions are turned over to the government, dealers will be reimbursed. Cost of the seed will be deducted from the farmer's conservation payment.

Maximum price per 100 pounds of seed to be paid local dealers is $3.80 for Austrian winter peas; $3.80 for common; $5.30 for Willamette; and $8.15 for hairy vetch. A premium of ten cents per bag has been placed on seeds furnished in new cotton bags. Transportation charges will be added to the purchase price.

Motley Brands To Appear In Pioneer Issue

Cattle brands registered in Motley county since 1891 will be reproduced in the Golden Anniversary edition of the Matador Tribune to be released on August 28. Some 1,400 brands have been registered in the county since it was organized but the printed record will probably show only the first 25 or 30 years.

Work of drawing, numbering and listing the brands is being started today. After the work is prepared it will be sent to Austin for engraving, to be returned in time for printing in the issue two weeks from today.

Outside firms are already well represented in the advertising of the special edition, realizing the unusual value which is offered.

Local advertisers are cited to the fact that the newspaper will be the largest ever printed in Motley county. It will contain more pioneer pictures and historical features and will become a valued souvenir. Paid circulation of 2,000 is assured and demands for extra copies are being received daily. The extra copies will sell for 10c extra.

Every business firm in Motley county is solicited for advertising to appear in this golden Anniversary edition, which will represent the united cooperation of friends and neighbors who have contributed to the progress of the county in the past.

In the early days, medicine show quacks sold crude oil for a dollar a bottle as a cure for all human ills.

Today hundreds of essentials for modern living are made from oil. It supplies heat for the home. It provides power for the Nation's machinery and transportation. It lubricates the gears of industry. It furnishes fuel for your car. It has shortened distances to make our Nation one big community.

America is safer today because of petroleum. The oilman's initiative and enterprise have made available to the United States the world's largest supply of petroleum.

In all this, Texas plays a leading part. Last year we supplied 36 per cent of all the Nation's oil, and now have over half of the Nation's oil reserves.

Fluorescent Boudoir Mirror Is Newest Aid to Charm

Magic Wands of Light in Translucent Luminaire Atop This Tall Looking-glass Treat Evelyn and Vivien to a Modern Alice-in-Wonderland Surprise.

IN THAT ALL-IMPORTANT matter of looking most charming, neither Evelyn nor Vivien knew what amazing things fluorescent lighting could accomplish in the boudoir. Indeed, each had marveled at the new kind of lighting recently introduced by science. They had seen it glorifying merchandise in stores. They knew that light from the long slender tubes is doing big things to speed up production in defense industries.

But it was only the other day that Evelyn and Vivien experienced their biggest fluorescent surprise. This occurred as the girls were being conducted on a tour of the Nela Park laboratories, "lighting headquarters of the world", at Cleveland. There in "the home of tomorrow" at G.E. Institute, they saw how beautifully fluorescent lighting can serve in the average home.

The above picture shows Evelyn standing before a full-length mirror in the boudoir of Nela's light-conditioned home. The refreshing breeze of the cool light from two of

POPULAR CANNING RECIPES FOR PEACH PRESERVES AND JAM GIVEN

With an abundant peach crop at local stores, Rufus Emmons, county agent, urges all housewives to purchase an ample supply of fresh peaches for home canning and preserving in order that every family can enjoy tasty, delicious, health-building peaches throughout the year.

Popular canning recipes for peach preserves, jam and fruit butter suggested by the Bureau of Home Economics, U. S. Department of Agriculture, are called to the attention of local housewives by Mr. Emmons.

"Peach preserves with whole pieces of fruit in a clear sirup are a pleasing sweet to add to any meal. Peel the peaches and use them whole or cut into halves, quarters, or slices. To each pound of fruit allow 3/4 to 1 pound of sugar. Combine the fruit in alternate layer and let stand 8 to 10 hours. Or if you want to cook the preserves at once, add 1/4 cup of water for each pound of fruit. Boil rapidly until the sirup is somewhat thick, stirring constantly to prevent burning. Pour at once into hot sterilized jars and seal."

Are Favorites

The department's bulletin continues, "Peach jam and peach butter are favorites with hot breads or toast on cold winter mornings. For them you can use the soft, riper fruit that would not hold its shape so well in canning or preserving.

"To make peach jam, first peel the peaches, then remove the pits and crush the fruit. Add 3/4 to 1 pound of sugar to each pound of peaches. Let the mixture stand 3 to 4 hours until some of the juice is extracted. Heat slowly until the sugar is dissolved, stirring meanwhile. Continue stirring and bring to a boil. Cook until the fruit is clear and the jam somewhat thick. Pour into hot sterilized jars and seal.

"Fruit butter is a thicker product, with a spicy flavor. To make it, crush the peeled peaches and cook until they are soft. Press them thru a colander and then thru a fine sieve. Measure the fruit pulp and add about half as much sugar, with a little salt to bring out the sweetness. Boil rapidly and stir constantly. Add spices if you like. You'll find that cloves, cinnamon, and a little allspice are good with peach butter. Test the butter by dropping a little on a cold plate. It is done when there is no rim of liquid separating around the edge. While the butter is boiling hot, pour it into sterilized containers and seal."

Pied 'Pisinos BY MRS. M.

The shortage of silk stockings seems to be the cause of little or no concern among the women of this community. In fact, a number have been heard to observe that they would like to see a good substitute for silk hose placed on the market, since silk ones have been such an item of expense during the years.

And only a few have bothered even to "stock up", inasmuch as whatever new item to be introduced will replace the present vogue for silk to such an extent that everyone will be clamoring for the latest.

Cottage Cheese Fights Back

"DEERING, Mo., Aug. 11—Mrs. Ivan Garman put a bag of cottage cheese in her well to cool.

When she started to pull it up it fought back. She finally hauled it in—along with a large catfish hooked onto the bag by its fin."

This little news story intrigued me for several reasons, one being the fish angle and another because of the recollections which it aroused.

In the back recesses of my mind I have for many years entertained the desire to go fishing, because away back yonder in my youth, I once caught a two-pound bass, and I'd just like to know whether or not the performance could be repeated.

Making the story more interesting however, is the fact that the very same fish I had the pleasure of catching, was hooked out on the banks of a bayou (we pronounced it bi-o) just about four or five miles down a railroad track from the same little village of Deering.

Then, the town was comprised of several blocks of unpainted dwellings occupied by employees and their families, of a great industrial agency of the east, operating two separate divisions, a railroad and a sawmill, with a huge lumber yard. On Sundays the principal diversion of the citizens was to gather at the depot at train-time, and then stroll down the broad planked avenues of the lumber yard, through aisles of great stacks of lumber awaiting shipment, while the children played hide-and-seek, with the company office as home base.

Very little of the old industry remains now. Timber which once grew almost to the doorsteps, has been cleared away to make place for great fields of cotton and other crops. The sawmill with its mammoth machinery, has vanished and in its stead stand several modern cotton gins. Only a small amount of lumber is kept on hand, and this is sawed and made ready at small mills located thru the outlying fringe of forest.

The narrow plank sidewalks through the little town still remain, but the rows of dreary houses, all of the same pattern, are gradually being torn down and replaced with neat, new cottages painted a shining white. The old building housing the commissary where we used to call for the mail before purchasing supplies—market in the back, groceries on the left and drygoods on the right, is still in use, but the two-story hotel is gone, and a modern home for the superintendent stands on that corner.

How I remember that hotel—the first one I was ever in; and the people thought my sister and I were twins because we were dressed alike—even to our new Billikin shoes in which we marched so proudly down the wide, carpeted stairway! The few days we stayed there until our furniture arrived, were never-to-be-forgotten ones.

Only about fifteen miles from the county seat, this small community is declared now to be the wealthiest in the school district. A new educational system is under construction to augment the brick building which has been in use for several years. Nine buses are in use, and consideration is being given the purchase of another to accommodate the fast-growing scholastics. The science and home-making departments rank among the highest in the state, and their commercial department won national recognition last year when the star typist went from county, to district, regional and state championship, to tie for first honors in a Canadian contest.

The vision and confidence of one man brought about these many changes several years ago when he purchased the town and surrounding land from the great company, and made out of a wilderness one of the largest plantations in that section.

A card from the head of vacationing Stearns family declares their eastern tour just about perfect; weather ideal, The Hermitage and Great Smokies wonderful, and "—the Parthenon over my head."

Tasty Peach Recipes

PEACH ICE CREAM

Fresh peach ice cream is a star dessert attraction that really qualifies as a quick and easy treat. And it's thrifty, too.

2 cups peach pulp, 1/2 teaspoon almond flavoring, 3/4 cup sugar.

Juice of 1 lemon, 2 cups of cream. Select soft, ripe peaches, peel and put through a sieve. Add sugar and lemon juice and dissolve. When sugar is dissolved, pour into tray and freeze to a mush.

Whip the cream, add two table-spoons of sugar. Fold peaches into cream. Return to freezing tray. Stir once and finish freezing.

These proportions will serve six.

the road condition, it is believed local businessmen will lend support. However, there has been little comment to indicate what the decision of the voters will be after the returns are received from the county's ten polling places, Tuesday night.

The damaged roads will affect travel of school buses, in some precincts and at present residents are required to drive detours and in constant danger of accident. Importance of transporting cotton to gins and market in the fall will doubtless cause serious consideration of all farmers when they vote on the issue.

Trees In Cemetary Show Rapid Growth

Trees in the Matador East Mound cemetery have made rapid growth from the unusually favorable rainfall during the past six months. Matador's burial grounds have the appearance of a well-kept park with a profusion of flowers and attractive trees concealing the somber aspect found in most cemeteries.

E. B. Chambliss, caretaker of the cemetery deserves the appreciation of all who have loved ones buried here for the diligence and continued effort which he has exercised in maintenance. The continued rains required his constant efforts to keep the weeds under control but the results of his work are gratifying. While no system of watering the cemetery has been provided, Mr. Chambliss' regular cultivation of trees and flowers has produced remarkable growth. Matador now has one of the most beautiful small cemeteries in West Texas.

Federal Reserve Head Starts Action Against Installment Buying

WASHINGTON — Federal reserve officials Tuesday began drafting stringent regulations for the government's initial "crack-down" on installment buying in an effort to block present inflationary trends and to curtail manufacture of consumer goods which are tying up production facilities needed for defense.

Officials moved to carry out regulation and possible prohibition of installment credit—now estimated near $10,000,000,000, with a yearly turnover of $7,000,000,000—under sweeping authority vested in the board by President Roosevelt.

Chairman Marriner S. Eccles of the federal reserve board, now virtual czar of the nation's multi-billion dollar annual installment trade, said the first regulations will apply to such durable goods as automobiles, washing machines, refrigerators, ironers, vacuum cleaners and many other goods. He declared that the first orders will be issued shortly as "test guides" to further limitations.

Officials said the severity of the regulations will depend on public reaction to credit curtailment as reflected by reserve board indexes. Business will be given 3 days to become adjusted, Eccles said.

Banks, personal loan companies, department stores, automobile companies and other credit agencies also are subject to credit restriction under the board's vast new powers.

"Regulation of consumer credit represents another step by the government in its efforts to prevent inflationary developments," Eccles said. "It is supplementary to other more fundamental measures that are being undertaken in other fields."

"The danger of inflation arises from the constantly growing volume of government disbursements for defense, giving consumers ever-increasing buying power at a time when the country's capacity for producing durable goods available for civilian consumption is nearing its limit."

"An initial regulation will be issued as promptly as possible," he added, "following consultation with representatives of the trade and the financial institutions affected. The regulations will reflect a policy of flexibility and will be in more or less general terms until experience and further study establish more precise guides that may be followed."

Eccles announced that he had called a meeting for Thursday with federal reserve bank representatives. He will confer Friday with officials of banks, commercial credit companies, and the trades, including retailers, dealers and others engaged in installment selling.

The board chairman explained that the President's order does not include regulation of credit to purchase or carry a residential building, thus permitting a home building to equip his house with stove, ice box, and other equipment on an installment basis.

Articles ordinarily bought for productive purposes, such as farm implements, similarly will be exempt as will be open accounts at stores and straight loans made by banks and other agencies "payable at one time and in one payment—whether or not secured."

Small loan bank installment credits, however, come under the order "since this type of credit is so closely related to the purchase of articles of the kind listed."

Bricks Donated To Canyon Museum

The first gift of bricks for the Panhandle Plains Historical Society Museum at Canyon by a Motley county donor, were received by the Tribune last week from H. Plemmons, West Texas pioneer. The brick drive is being conducted to complete the museum building.

"It is the greatest thing in the Panhandle," Mr. Plemmons declared, "and every true west Texan should contribute to this drive. It is the greatest collection of museum material depicting the pioneer life of this country that has ever been assembled." Either bricks or money donation may be made at the Tribune or direct to the museum.

Ship Fortification By Cotton Bales Is Plan Of Wichitan

WICHITA FALLS—J. C. McQuery, Wichita Falls dairyman and a former resident of Childress, has devised a plan for fortifying ships with cotton bales and is seeking a supplementary patent on the invention.

The plan provides that the cotton bales be encased in six-inch steel below the waterline which would allow the vessels to escape with scant damage when attacked. McQuery constructs the cotton bales with several six-inch tubes to fit the anchor stem, which solves the problem of anchoring the cotton on the outside of the ship.

A patent for the use of cotton for general maritime protection was granted the inventor in April, 1940. The patent he seeks now will be a supplement to the old one.

The Navy department has referred the matter to the National Inventor's council.

GOVERNOR TELLS NEWSMEN, ROAD BILL ONLY ISSUE

AUSTIN — The prospective special session of the Texas legislature to enact a county road bond debt bill was further informally confirmed Monday by Governor Coke Stevenson in conversation with news correspondents. Here is the way, from Stevenson comments, the session looks at this distance:

How long does he think the legislature should take to do the job? "I'll settle for ten days."

The probable date—Sept. 9? "That looks like a good date."

The probable subject matter—anything else besides the road bond bill? "I know of nothing else right now that ranks as an emergency."

Fashion Joins the Vltzkrieg via The First "V for Victory" Dress

Now the first "V For Victory" dress joins up with the wild-fire "V" campaign launched by Prime Minister Churchill. Millions of women all over the unoccupied world will soon be making and wearing this new "V" dress designed by the Simplicity Pattern Company of New York. Patterns for the "V" dress are on their way to 7,500 stores across the United States. More, with sewing instructions in Spanish, are winging their way to department stores in the 21 Latin American republics. Others are bound for England and Australia. Miss Josephine Johnson, 1940 glamour debutante, chose this version of the "V" dress, made up in light grey wool. It has V-shaped shoulder sections outlined in bold red applique, V-shaped pocket flaps embroidered with the opening notes of Beethoven's Fifth Symphony—three long and one short, the equivalent of the gallant letter "V" in Morse code.

I was more fortunate than many boys—my father was a "drummer". That's what a traveling salesman was called in those days. And he used to take me along much of the time, when I was quite small.

There was the thrill of riding on the train (this being before the era of the "horseless carriage"), and of looking over the wonderful wares of the "news-butcher", including glass pistols and glass telephones, filled with small, round, red bits of peppermint; California oranges, California grapes and California figs—it seems that all the fruit was from California in those days—even the chewing gum was called "California juicy fruit"—and such classics of literature as "Slow Train Through Arkansas" and "I'm From Texas—You Can't Steer Me."

The conductor was an awesome individual in regal blue uniform with fifty, or maybe more, gold buttons; the brakeman was nearly as important as he hurried down the aisle at night with a lantern on his arm or stood in the door and called out "sounds that were supposed to be the name of the town we were approaching. Even the porter, in his white coat, played an important part as he purveyed sandwiches—two thick, thirst-provoking slices of white bread with a tissue of cold boiled ham in between, and the porter again came into prominence as darkness set in, with a flame at the end of a long steel rod, he lit the lamps.

Sometimes my father would hire a horse and buggy at the livery-stable and we would visit inland towns, stopping now and then along the country and while he tacked up a few signs, using a marvelous hammer that had a magnetic tip which would hold a tack.

But it was the travel by train that was the most exciting part. There was a method of counting the clicks of the wheels for a minute and then figuring out how fast the train was traveling—sometimes it got up to 30 miles an hour; that, however, was for only a short stretch and usually down a grade.

Looking out the window, one could see boys and girls who waved at the train—I always waved back.

One Christmas Eve, I spent on the train and—would you believe it!—when I awoke next morning there was a stocking full of presents. A few nights later, we arrived in Graham, Texas, and I had barely fallen asleep when there was an outburst of shooting. Maybe Indians were on the war-path was my first thought from having seen the pictures on the covers of "Buffalo Bill", "Diamond Dick" and "Young Wild West"—but, no, it was New Year's.

Though too young to pay a fare, I was often given a hat check, punched with mysterious holes, and once the conductor allowed me to keep it, so I alighted from the train in my home town and marched proudly up the street, still wearing the check, the envy of all my playmates—unlucky lads whose fathers were not drummers—

Cotton Clothes Are Suited To Southern Climate

Cotton clothing is more suited to southern climates than any other fabric, declares Harry Willett, chairman of the local Cotton Industry Committee in outlining government efforts to increase domestic consumption of cotton products.

"Cotton fibers are so constructed that they have high absorption qualities," Mr. Willett continued, "thus enabling them to absorb perspiration rapidly. This factor makes cottons cool and comfortable during the summer months."

Also, cotton is washable, and the fibers, stronger and tougher than steel, can be subjected to countless launderings. Most garments can be washed without fear of shrinkage or running and fading dyes.

Increasing popularity of cotton play suits and slacks suits in the south is largely due to the fabric's ability to withstand hard wear and strain.

"The fact that cottons are suitable to the south is all the more a reason why we should buy cotton garments," the committee chairman stated. "Certainly it is to our economic advantage to wear cottons, for some 11,000,000 of us are directly dependent on cotton for a livelihood and the remainder indirectly derive at least a substantial portion of their incomes from the cotton industry."

If the seed of redbud trees are gathered and planted as soon as they have ripened, they will come up next spring and produce plants two to three feet high in one season.

Sweet corn is likely to become a major commercial crop in the lower Rio Grande Valley for early spring markets, says a Texas magazine. The Iona hybrid, planted to some 3,000 acres, has done excellently in that section.
