RAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR

The old rider has left the trails...

The old rider has left the trails... bellowing cattle and he no longer drinks coffee at a range wagon and waits for dawn. Spurs are silenced against flanks of time. He has meditated on reason for the modern boy to roll the brim of his hat. The answer is simple, he desires. It allows them to ride in the comfortable cab of pickup.

Being absent-minded is one of parasites that become attached to our lives after they reach shadowy slopes. The affliction needs constant surveillance can be a nuisance. Recent changes in my morning routine daily and almost had two baths the same hour.

Quitter is never formally recognized for his true status until he throws in his last towel of ruses.

A preacher on the radio recently said, "Remember you are only one heartbeat away from eternity."

The country newspaper professes a perpetuating disillusion embittered with the constant hope that the next issue will be better. The end result is that the amount of effort never lessens, and complications are waiting on a bench, eager to get into the game.

The quicksands of time never cease their gradual hold on us.

The business is located in a large steel and masonry building on US Highway west. Mr. Spray built the structure in 1960. He moved to a farm near Anson last fall and the business has been operated by Doug Hale. Mr. Hale and family have recently moved to Grand Prairie. Name of the firm under the new ownership will be Simpson Tractor and Equipment. Mr. Simpson, who is engaged in the well-drilling and irrigation business, will continue his operations in that line. Mrs. Simpson is in the office in the sales and bookkeeping department, and Luther Green is employed at the shop to do all services. He said he would be available day and night. The line of farm implements includes M&M tractors, parts, tires, batteries and accessories needed on the farm and ranch.

LOCAL WOMEN AID TB DRIVE

Mrs. R. M. Stanley, Christmas Seal Co-Chairman and Mrs. R. E. Donovan were in the office of the West Texas Tuberculosis Association in Lubbock last week for the purpose of stuffing Christmas Seal mailing pieces. The work was done gratis.

Together, the pair stuffed a total of 2,606 of the mailing assortments. These will be mailed shortly, along with thousands of others. Every resident in Matador should receive his sheet of Christmas Seals, with accompanying information, soon.

Christmas Seals are the sole support of the WTTA, with money which comes from operation of the Christmas Seal Mobile X-ray unit. With this money, school children are given free tuberculin skin tests, clinics are planned for the education of professionals who deal with the disease, such as doctor's symposiums and nurses clinics. Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Stanley are Matador's Christmas Seal co-chairmen, and can give you any information which you may need. Only seven cents of each Christmas Seal dollar goes out of Texas, but that comes back from the national association, in the form of educational material and research. The other 93 cents remains in the state association to work in Matador and other Texas cities in discovering and caring for active cases of tuberculosis and other respiratory diseases.

Larry Bostick Warns Legion

By Judy Marrs

Communists have selected 1973 as the year of conquest for the United States. They plan to take over eastern Europe, Asia, and the United States consecutively. Communists are trying to isolate the United States by propaganda such as calling the U. S. an aggressor in Viet Nam and pushing the Civil Rights issue. The statements were made Monday night by Larry Bostick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Bostick, at the regular covered dish supper of the American Legion and Auxiliary, where he was the principal speaker.

Bostick was a delegate to the Texas Farm Bureau's Annual Citizenship Seminar held on the Baylor University campus in August.

"Youth are one of the prime communist target," he declared. He said communists are promoting sex, modern art, fast music, and rebellion. They want teenagers interested in something that means nothing.

In his closing statements Bostick said, "God's country will survive only if his disciplines put Him first."

Preceding him was Mrs. Vernon Higginbotham playing a piano solo. "The Stars and Stripes Forever."

Randall Whitworth introduced the guests on the program, following the singing of America and Pledge of Allegiance. Legion and Auxiliary business meetings were held at the conclusion of the program. Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Lee presided at the meeting respectively.

Matadors Blanket Noise of Warriors

by Jesse Perkins

AN EARLY LEAD by the Matador Matadors Friday night blanketed the noise of the Valley View Warriors, at Valley View. When the skirmish was over the Matadors had captured the reservation 28-18. On the opening kick-off Matador's speedy fullback Joey Meador raced 85 yards to paydirt. The Matadors held the Warriors and regained possession of the pigskin. ## Lead Short-Lived

In the final stanza of the momentum in their favor, the Warriors scored 6 more to take the lead 18-13. But the Matadors showed the makings of a team as they came back and scored on a 28 yard pass from quarterback Larry Bostick to flanker Ronnie Welling. Bostick passed to Welling for the extras as the Matadors regained the lead 21-18. The Matadors still not satisfied, came back with Mark Timmons going in for the final touchdown of the night from 12 yards out. The extras were kicked by Don Cox to make the final score 28-18.

Joey Meador rushed for 70 yards, followed by Mark Timmons with 46 yards, Mark Hill 30 yards, and Larry Bostick 47 yards rushing and 83 yards passing.

On defense Mark Timmons had 12 tackles and 4 assists, David Garrison 9, Don Cox 9 and 4 assists, Darrel Marshall 8 and 4 assists, Jackie Bynum 8 and 1 assist and Glen Moss 8 and 3 assists. The Matadors will meet the Rochester Steers tomorrow night in Rochester, at 7:30.

Baptist Public Relations Award Received by Lubbock Newswoman

A Methodist woman was selected as recipient of the 1967 Texas Baptist Public Relations Award. Mrs. Opal Dixon, religion editor of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, received the award during the 82nd annual meeting of the Baptist General Convention of Texas in Lubbock.

The award was presented in the closing session of the convention Nov. 2 at 8 p.m. John Earl Seelig, chairman of the Public Relations Advisory Committee and assistant to the president at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, made the presentation.

The award is presented annually to a person in the public relations or journalism field who is judged to have made an outstanding contribution in communications concerning religion. The Public Relations Advisory Committee of the Baptist General Convention makes the selection.

On Methodist Board

Mrs. Dixon, an active member of the Official Board of Lubbock's First Methodist Church, was cited for her long tenure of service as religion editor of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal and her coverage of all religious denominations. She has been a staff writer for the Avalanche-Journal since 1943.

She was honored last year by the Lubbock Baptist Association for her coverage of Baptist activities. And, in 1955, was cited by the Lubbock Ministerial Association. It was the Baptist association that recommended her for the current state award.

the office of Miss Helena Mokray, Home Demonstration Agent. It was voted to have the next meeting on Nov. 16 instead of the regular meeting date of the 17th, due to conflicting activities.

The date for the Christmas party was set for December 15, in the home of Mrs. Wilson Barton, for a 12 o'clock luncheon for club members only. Each member is to bring a gift not to exceed $2. in price.

Those attending the business meeting were Mesdames Wilson Barton, Bill Smith, Tom Edwards, Fred Bourland, Dewayne Martin, and Bessie Patton, Miss Mokray and Miss Melba Jameson.

Mrs. Dixon shares her love of reporting religious events with helping children in the local, state and national levels of the Spelling Bee, an educational project sponsored locally by the Lubbock newspaper. She has worked with Spelling Bee entrants since 1952.

Of her writing experience she says, "I like people." Her first love reportedly came in the fifth grade when she used "writing" as her theme for a term paper in school.

Mrs. Dixon has very positive ideas on religious journalism and church news. "If churches are to get new people to take part in worship services, then they need first to let them know what is happening. Some churches are doing an excellent job of this. Texas Baptists are, but others are ignoring public information."

In an address to Lubbock ministers, Mrs. Dixon said, "Our job in the newspaper business is to inform and our job in the church is to convince, sometimes to convert. I see no conflict in these objectives. If people are better informed, then more of them might go to be convinced and converted."

"Factual Information"

The editor added, "It seems to me that many persons like the manner of presentation of newspapers. We try to give factual information, leaving out the big words unless they are the ones that best present the meaning."

"We seek to leave opinionated adjectives out of our writing, unless they are attributed to the source who gave them. We seek to answer questions of the reader instead of raising questions. Our presentation of news is such that a child can understand it and a busy adult can get the gist of a story in a few paragraphs."

The veteran newspaper writer pointed out that many churches pass opportunities for free publicity. She added, "Churches could flood newspapers with more news than could be used." She had high praise for pastors saying, "Ministers have a much better knowledge of information needed for stories than most news sources and they seldom object to any logical explanation of why things are, or are not done as they expect." She added that she finds ministers "considerate of the rights of others, including the newspaper."

Mrs. Dixon also feels that one of the major problems today is the effort to classify religious and secular matters as if they were separated. "The people who go to church are the same ones who work in 'secular' fields, and vice versa," she concluded.

Mr. and Mrs. Wes Hall and Mrs. Mark Hall visited in Soper, Okla., recently.

Safety-Convenience-Security Dusk-to-Dawn

Guard-lite is the name for the automatic outdoor dusk-to-dawn light being installed throughout the service area of West Texas Utilities, to light up and help guard commercial buildings, equipment storage areas, churches, schools, warehouses, motels, parking lots and homes in rural or secluded areas.

At Dusk a photo-electric cell switches the Guard-lite on automatically. At dawn it turns it off again. Throughout the night, your Guard-lite helps bring you greater convenience, security from prowlers and vandals, safety from accidents, and adds a touch of prestige to your property.

Low rental covers everything—normal installation, maintenance, lamp replacement and the cost of electricity.

Guard-Lite is a bright idea —call WTU for complete details

Consumer Ed Week Designated 6-10

By Helena Mokray, HD Agent

Hats off to Consumers! The week of November 6-10 has been designated as Consumer Education week. The purpose is to call to the public's attention the educational information available to help in making decisions about buying for the family.

In keeping with this theme, there will be a series of articles bringing you information that will help you 'shop smart'. One of the best ways to stretch the budget is to buy wisely.

Plan for your spending, know in advance what some of your purchases will be next month and the following. Be prepared for the added expenses of winter clothing, holiday spending, higher utilities that come along with the shorter days and cold weather. Will the family car need replacing or repairs shortly?

Once you decide what you need, there is information available on almost every subject for the shopper, in the form of consumer advertisements, service booklets, business-sponsored publications, and government bulletins. This information can help a buyer decide on the kind of things he wants before he sees the salesman.

Consider the price, but also be ready to recognize quality. A low price may lead to a poor purchase if quality is lacking. When a purchase lasts longer, so does your money. But there are times when a lower price item is desirable even if the quality may also be lower, as with items that will not be used for long periods. Fad type clothing for teen-agers falls into that class.

Sales offer a chance to buy items at reduced prices without sacrificing quality. They are bargains only when they offer you the chance to get something you want for less than the original cost. Buying something you don't want or need doesn't help the budget.

Whether quantity or large size buying can really save you money depends on your family and your situation. Usually prices can be cut considerably by combining the two methods. But don't be fooled into buying more than your family can use or has space to store. The homemaker that buys 10 pounds of potatoes and lets half of them rot has paid twice as much for potatoes. If your family can use the large size before it spoils, you come out ahead.

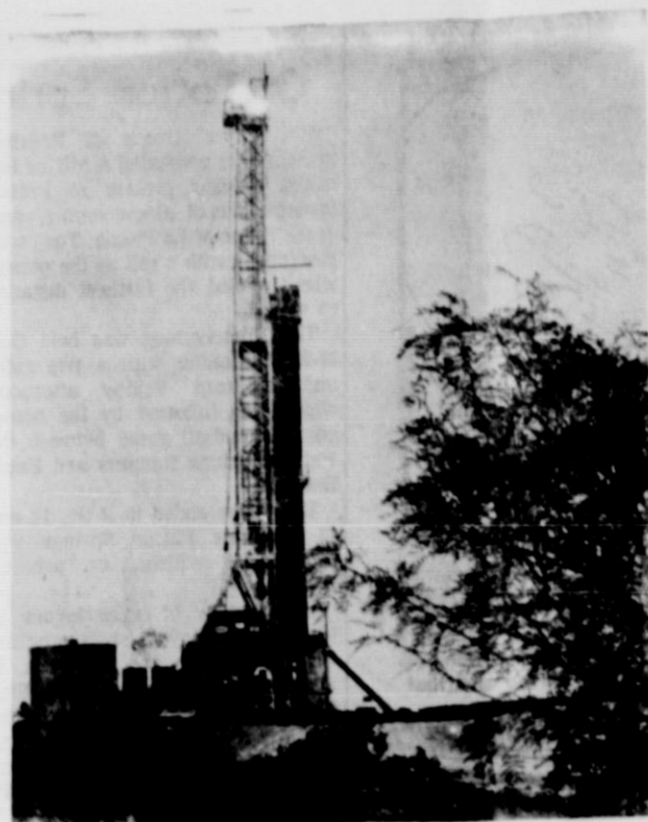

And after purchasing an item, care for it. Proper care means fewer replacements and longer time periods between purchases. Be careful of waste, especially in such items as food, utilities and clothing.

Morris Parks

Another of the "Old-Time Cowboys" has gone from our midst. He worked cattle in every ranching area in Motley County, was an expert roper with a wiry, tough physique and had "The Face of a Cowboy."

Morris joined the Methodist Church here in his teens, and later brought his young wife, Mae, and son Oran to Motley County when still a young man. They lived far out on ranches and were not able to get to church often. Mae's mother died when she was a baby and she was reared by her Methodist preacher grandfather, and grand-mother.

In later years they bought a small ranch East of Matador and a few years ago moved to Matador, living neighbors to Rev. and Mrs. Vaughn with whom Morris shared many happy associations. Morris and Mae have a second mother whom they fondly refer to as "Ma-

DRILLING THE DEEPEST

Humble Oil & Refining Company's Rig 32 is shown here in the Gomez field of West Texas drilling the world's deepest producing well. The new ultradeep producer — the Henry Willbanks No. 11 — was completed in the Ellenberger formation at 21,883 to 22,610 feet. The well, located in Pecos County about 10 miles northwest of Fort Stockton, flowed gas at a calculated open flow rate of 14 million cubic feet a day.

ma New" (Mrs. Ellen New). Many weeks at a time Morris collected her mail, grocery shopped, and visited her daily as she was unable to do these things for herself. Morris loved little children and many of them will miss "Uncle Morris."

In our many years of friendship I never heard Morris use a swear word or tell an off-color story. He was a true friend and a great man in the truest sense of the word.

Amendment 6 to Remove Problem

Voters of Texas will decide Saturday on a Constitutional Amendment that concerns the future of state-supported higher education. Amendment 6 seeks to alter a section in the 1876 Texas Constitution to allow non-elective state officers and employees to serve on state and federal advisory boards and committees.

The Constitution currently prohibits such appointments by stating that officers and employees of the state cannot hold more than one office of "trust, honor or profit." The provision will still not allow state officials to hold two bona fide and salaried offices.

Much of the contract research being conducted by the federal government is guided by personnel serving in an advisory capacity. With no representation by the members of Texas' public institutions on these boards, the state is placed at a serious disadvantage. The state loses millions of dollars by not obtaining such contracts, and research, and federal grants.

Appointments to the various advisory boards can greatly help faculty members keep abreast of developments within their fields. Approval of Amendment 6 also would benefit Texas' state-supported colleges and universities by allowing employees of government agencies, NASA scientists for example, to accept appointments as part-time faculty members and consultants.

Amendment 6 does not allow a person to be paid for holding both offices. It does permit an individual to accept per diem and allowances for his secondary appointment. And, all such appointments must be approved by the State Legislature.

COUNTY AGENT PALLMEYER SAYS:

From a quality standpoint, the basic objective in cotton harvesting is to keep moisture and trash content to a minimum. Their removal at the gin creates a major quality preservation problem, as excessive moisture and the presence of green leaves also cause quality losses in storage. The moisture and trash content factor in seed cotton is related to prevailing weather, plant condition, and machine adjustment and operation.

For better cotton, harvest when moisture of seed cotton in the field is 10%, or less; condition machines prior to harvesting and keep in adjustment as dictated by plant and field conditions; make sure operators are trained and supervised; and follow a specific service program. Also remove any excess lubrication; do not mix seed cotton of varying trash and moisture content, and keep the cotton loose, clean and dry.

It is a long drawn-out process to produce a quality crop. Don't waste all this time by trying to save a few minutes when the time for market preparation starts.

Grazing small grain pastures before they have a chance to make needed growth can reduce their value as suppliers of fall grazing. Oats, barley, wheat and rye which were planted this fall should be from six to eight inches in height before they are grazed.

Research has shown that small grains will produce considerably more fall grazing when allowed to reach the 6 to 8 inches in height as compared to grazing plants when they are only 3 or 4 inches tall. This grain doesn't get a chance to grow, since most of the fall growth is made before cold weather begins. The plants must have a lot of leaves and warm weather for fast growth.

When the leaves are grazed off early, the plants at best make only slow growth. This severely limits grazing during the winter months when the leaves are not growing.

Another guide for grazing is to be sure the plants have rooted down. Stands and yields can be greatly reduced if the young plants are pulled up by grazing animals, and there is no way to replace these missing plants.

Now is the time to start making sure your sprayer or duster will work next year. All pesticide materials should be cleaned from the equipment by washing or other means, and all moving parts lubricated. Be sure to disassemble parts that need to be cleaned thoroughly. Nozzles and strainers should be soaked with kerosene, and run a wire through the spray rods and rinse the hoses. Store clean hoses where they will not crack or freeze. Before putting a clean power sprayer away for the winter, put at least a pint of oil in the tank, filling with water and starting the pump. This leaves a thin coating of oil on the inside of the tank, pump and circulating system. Drain completely and store in a dry place.

In addition to the above, follow any other suggestions found in the operator's manual. This should allow you to use the equipment without a long delay in getting it ready next spring when the need or use arises.

Any left over agricultural chemicals should be properly stored during the winter, if they are to be used next year. Wettable powders or dusts should be stored in the original labeled containers because either the carrier or active ingredient may be corrosive to other metal containers or other lids of glass containers. All bottles or cans containing liquids should be tightly sealed to prevent loss of activity by vaporization.

These products should also be stored in a cool place where the temperature does not make extreme changes. If the label has become faded or torn, it may be a good idea to copy the vital information and attach it to the container along with the old label. All unlabeled material should be discarded immediately, with burying at a depth of about 18 inches a safe method of disposal.

As a final precaution, keep any carried-over material under lock and key, especially if young children may be around the place.

One thing that's pretty hard to ignore around any farm with stock is manure. Manure must be gotten rid of, so why not use it to the maximum?

Manure will build up landpower, the more landpower, the better crops. One ton of manure is equivalent to 100 lbs. of 16-16-16, plus added value of making the more water absorbent. Elements in the manure help seed germinate and help promote root growth. All farmers need more manure. Why not use one ton that you normally have on the farm place of throwing it away?

If you are wondering about quality of hay or silage that are buying or storing, why have a forage analysis run? Not only will let you know the quality of the feed, but serve as a valuable aid in opening an economical feeding program.

Cost of the analysis for only is $2.00 per sample. Containers and information sheets are available at no cost and results have shown there is a wide range of variation among the crude protein content of over 17% to less than 10%, depending on the maturity at harvest time and amounts of fertilizer used.

Why wait for the animal you she isn't getting what needs to eat. Knowledge of feed used will help you prevent weight losses and keep animals in a thrifty condition.

DON TARDY... Buffalo corner man learned quickly

Don Tardy Wins Star Positions On WTSU Buffalo Grid Team

Tommy Bryant, Sports Editor of the Amarillo Daily News, said Don Tardy has done a lot to give a starting corner back to the West Texas State University Buffalo football team. He has switched from eight-man to 11-man football, and last season he was nearly late to his own school because of football. Tardy, 5-11, 185-pound senior, played only eight-man football at Roaring Springs High School, the same district with Patton Springs, Guthrie and Jayton.

Buffalo assistant coach Jack Peppy Harris watched Tardy in a six-man and eight-man football all-star game in Ranger last summer after his graduation from his school. "I recall that I intercepted his passes and scored either two or three times in that game," said Tardy. Harris thought that was good enough to warrant a scholarship to WTSU and Tardy accepted.

On Freshman Squad
As a freshman, Tardy started playing safety man for the Stompers (West Texas State's freshman squad). Just switching to 11-man football was hard enough because of the added number of players on the field.

Tardy served as backup man to regular safety Steve Haterius during his sophomore and junior seasons. As Haterius was due to return for his senior year this season and Tardy was getting too good to sit on the bench, he was moved to Tom Krempasky's right corner back slot.

When Don took over that post he also obtained the defensive signal calling duties.

The handsome marketing major was married Sept. 10, just before the start of his junior year. The team scrimmaged that afternoon and Don got in for an eight-minute quarter.

By the time he left the stadium and cleaned up, he was nearly late for his 6:30 p.m. wedding to the former Debbie Wirt of Canyon.

Just learning a new position this year was a chore as there is all the difference in the world between playing safety in the Buffalo defense and playing corner back.

As a safety man, Don has been accustomed to playing back for deep passes on nearly every play. As a corner back, he must play closer to the line of scrimmage, play the run and still be able to drop back for deep passes in his zone.

Formations Are Varied
The formations he must call are varied. The team used five defensive sets, one to each side of the line for a total of 10 against New Mexico State.

Tardy must be able to call the signals for both sides of the line. A great deal of the success of the defense depends upon his judgment in calling proper formations.

Tardy, who will graduate this spring, learned his football lessons quickly at WTSU. Playing against Arizona State last year he was named as the game's standout defender as he intercepted two key passes.

Adjusting to a corner back post was chicken feed to a fellow who had to learn to play with three more men on each team.

COUNTY AGENT PALLMEYER SAYS:

Take proper steps now to prevent damage to grain sorghum that is stored on the farm. The first requirement is to use adequate facilities which will exclude all outside moisture, be easily accessible and allow for the drying of grain if needed.

Storage facilities cannot protect grain unless they are clean. Bins should be thoroughly cleaned of all waste material and sprayed with a residual spray. Old grain, trash or other debris furnish excellent living quarters for insects.

Malathion has been approved for use in stored grain as a protectant against insects. If this chemical is applied before the grain is placed in final storage, it will greatly reduce the possibility of insect damage. Other control measures are included in L-217, "Control of Insects in Farm-Stored Grain", which is available at my office.

Agriculture scientists are making advances in many unheard-of developments with plants. Dr.

Page Morgan of Texas A&M recently reported some of these projects which include:

Transfer the nitrogen-fixing character of legumes to other plants.

Transfer the moisture-conserving metabolism of cactus like plants to crop plants.

Develop means of changing the flow of carbon fixed in photosynthesis towards either fats or proteins rather than carbohydrates.

Replace the photosynthetic structures—chloroplasts—in some crop plants with the more efficient chloroplasts from corn leaves.

Imagine a nitrogen-fixing cotton plant using water as sparingly as a pineapple and carrying out photosynthesis as efficiently as corn. All of these achievements are certainly not probabilities but recent discoveries indicate that such far-out ideas are worthy of study. Manganese, a trace element, has been found to influence earliness and leaf shed of cotton. A&M researchers have found that above-normal levels of manganese cause cotton to flower as much as 10 days earlier than usual. If some way can be developed to apply manganese in the field at above-normal levels, growers might speed up flowering by a week or two without changing planting dates.
