TRAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR

Faith is like the unseen roots of a mighty tree that nourish its growth and keep it firm against the influences of the elements.

Failure writes a special dossier for each customer but the first qualification is fear - to try again.

We might accomplish more in middle age if less effort were required to plaster up the leaks in the dam holding back the flood of years.

When I behold a blind man tracing the course of each footstep with a cane, whatever burden I may be carrying melt like fragile snow on my shoulders.

Ambition is a chronic condition responding to early treatment if administered during hours when the rest of the world is asleep. Its cure, however, is speculative, and may leave the patient more miserable than when suffering sudden attacks of failure.

Life is punctual to the extent that no gate is ever left open by which we can return to the pasture of yesterday.

No other disappointment possesses the arrogant mockery reflected through the window of an empty mail box.

An obvious fact of life which often escapes detection is that in most instances a man requisitions his troubles in advance and feigns surprise when they arrive.

Youth Admonished To Have Fun

In a soul-searching message Sunday night as speaker for Union Youth services at the First Baptist Church, Rev. Lloyd Hearn, pastor of the First United Methodist Church urged the young people to "Have fun all your life." He then outlined rules to abide by, in reaching this achievement.

For scriptural basis Rev. Hearn read from Romans 12, and Ephesians 4, and stressed the thought, "hold on to what is good... wage peace instead of war."

"So many people wear themselves out trying to have fun," he declared. "You ruin the game by not playing by the rules." He illustrated his message with the use of an acoustic of the word FUN. "Be fair - follow the Golden Rule and always treat others as you would like others to treat you. But we should always be fair to ourselves as well."

"Be united with humanity," Rev. Hearn continued. "Christians should be united for the glory of God. When we

Audience Inspired By Banquet Speaker

The audience of men and boys at the 40th Annual Father-Son Banquet Thursday night, Feb. 24, were inspired by a short but impressive address by Brian Hall, outstanding former Texas Tech football player. The event, sponsored by Matador Lions Club, was held in the Motley County School gymnasium. Mr. Hall, introduced by program chairman, Lion

John M. Russell, was reared in Dalhart, and graduated from high school there in 1972. He attended Texas Tech, graduating there in December, 1976, with a degree in mass communications. While at Tech he was a three-year letterman with the Texas Tech Red Raider football team, and received numerous awards, including the Kern Tipps Memorial Award.

Hall lost a foot in a childhood accident, but did not let this handicap interfere with his career. Rather, the handicap seemed to be used to his advantage, as he held the position of kicking specialist for the Red Raiders.

His short, inspirational speech made no mention of his personal handicap, but rather dealt with a quality that he referred to as "competitive spirit." He compared the abilities and achievements of three former football teammates, and described the difference between the three as the competitive spirit.

"The first teammate had an unusual natural ability for football and excelled in the sport during the elementary and early high school days," he said. "As his high school days went by, most of his other teammates began to outperform this player on the field. By the time this young man was a senior, he could not even make the starting team. He lacked only the desire to work hard enough to make a success of his football efforts."

The second and third acquaintances were described as having either average or below ability for football, but both worked extra hard and eventually became starting players on their college teams. "The attitude of these three teammates," Hall said, "can be compared to any field of endeavor, such as a career, scholastics, or other goals which an individual might have... the difference between the average and the outstanding, in most instances is that quality known as the 'competitive spirit'."

Joe Don Warren was Master of Ceremonies. The program opened with singing of America, led by R. E. "Pappy" Campbell Sr. Invocation was by Rev. Philip Hilton, pastor of the Assembly of God Church. Announcements were by Boss Lion Larry Hoyle, followed by the introduction of the speaker and his address. Hall received a standing ovation from the audience at the conclusion of his talk, and Joe Don led the group in the Scout Benediction to conclude the program.

The program following the supper will be given by Mr. and Mrs. Furman Vinson and will be a slide presentation of their trip to Greece.

Program Given For El Progresso Club

Giristown U.S.A. was the yearbook program subject for regular meeting of El Progresso Study Club, Thurs. afternoon, in the home of Mrs. Douglas Meador. However, in substitution, Miss Charise Cullin, as a special guest, presented the program and gave highlights of her trip to Washington, D.C. and the inauguration of President Jimmy Carter.

Following a business session conducted by the president, Mrs. Harold Campbell, Miss Cullin was presented by Mrs. W. F. Jacobs, leader for the day.

The trip to Washington, Charise related, started in Dallas, where she joined her mother and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Richardson. They drove through the southern states of Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, North and South Carolina and Tennessee. "The country looked exactly as I had pictured it," she declared.

Their first sight-seeing stop was at Vicksburg, Miss., for their first glimpse of the Mississippi River. They were not too impressed by Birmingham, Ala., because it is an old, industrial city. In Virginia, they visited in Yorktown with Mrs. Richardson's aunt and family. Mr. and Mrs. Bob York, whose home is on Chesapeake Bay, and from there made sightseeing tours of historic Williamsburg.

"The Governor's palace was beautiful," Charise recounted. "Everywhere were emblems of the British Empire - unicorns and lions. We saw a film on the Revolution, and were really impressed by the silversmiths, who were using the same implements which the early silversmiths used."

After reaching Washington, they spent as much time as possible at the Smithsonian Institution, while sightseeing. The Museum of Natural Resources, National Gallery of Art, Iwo Jima statue, the Sky Lab, and Cultures of the World were but a few of the nation's treasures which they saw.

"The city was packed the day of the inauguration. We had a place in the Senate standing area on the Capitol grounds during the ceremony, and were in a good position during the parade, when we were very close to the presidential group. There were secret service men positioned everywhere - but they were easily spotted."

They attended the inaugural ball in the Pension Building, and during their stay in Washington, tours for them were arranged by Mr. Richardson's nephew, Bill Shafe, and by a friend, Farook Sait, who has offices in the Auditor's Building.

Hearings Requested By Con. Hightower

(Washington, D. C.) - Congressman Jack Hightower requested the House Subcommittee on Livestock and Grains to hold hearings in Wichita Falls, this spring to look into the problems resulting from the Robert Johnson Grain Company shortages.

Hightower stated to the Subcommittee, "Farmers in good faith placed grain in the elevator and now find that the grain has disappeared and the grain company is in bankruptcy. In many cases, the missing grain means disaster to a farm family." Hightower asked the Subcommittee to determine if legislation could prevent future losses by farmers from elevator shortages.

Guaranteed FHA Housing Loans Will Be Available

Floydada, Texas - The Farmers Home Administration has begun a program through which it will guarantee rural housing loans made by commercial banks, savings and loan associations, and other private lenders.

At present, the USDA agency will offer loan guarantees only under its single-family housing loan program. FmHA will continue to make single-family housing loans with its own funds. It will also continue to make, but not guarantee, loans for rural rental housing, farm labor housing, housing site development, and other purposes.

Single family housing loans are made in open country, towns of up to 10,000 population, and certain designated towns of between 10,000 and 20,000 population. They finance modest but adequate housing and related facilities, Harrison explains.

Loans may be used to buy, build, improve, repair, or rehabilitate houses and related facilities, and to provide adequate water and waste disposal systems. Guaranteed loans will be made only to applicants with moderate income, defined by FmHA as adjusted gross income of less than $15,600 per year for residents of Texas, and not eligible for FmHA subsidized rural housing loans. Low income applicants may be eligible for subsidized rural housing loans made by FmHA.

Loans to be guaranteed are limited to 97 per cent of the market value of homes and sites for the first $25,000 and 95 per cent of the loan in excess of $25,000. The borrower must have equity from his own resources, in the form of cash or land for the down payment, notes Harrison.

The top limit for guaranteed rural housing loan to a resident of Texas is $33,000. The maximum repayment period is 33 years. Harrison also reports that FmHA regulations provide lenders who obtain guarantees for rural housing loans options for selling, assigning, or selling participations in the guaranteed parts of these loans.

FmHA regulations require that the lender making a guaranteed rural housing loan be a local lender located in or doing business in the area where the house is located.

To apply for an FmHA-guaranteed rural housing loan, contact your local lender.

BRUSH CONTROL MEETING SLATED

A meeting to present the newest and most successful methods of brush control and range improvements will be held in the courthouse in Matador Tuesday, March 8, starting at 7 p.m.

Dr. Tommy Welch, Area Range and Brush Control Specialist, Vernon, will present information on brush control and grazing systems and Dr. Dale Lovelace, Area Agronomist, Vernon, will cover the subject of improved grasses.

As returns from beef cattle represent about 50 per cent of the income from Motley County, these Extension Service Specialists will present information that should enable local producers to increase their net returns per acre. "Brush control is important," says Extension Agent Bill Pallmeyer, "but without proper management it is impossible to obtain top net returns per acre."

Programs of this type are planned by local producers who are members of the County Program Building Committee or subcommittees which are an integral part of all county Extension Programs.

PSYCHOLOGISTS SUGGEST THAT YOU MAY DISCOVER NEW FRIENDS. ONE WAY IS BY ENROLLING IN EVENING CLASSES AT A HIGH SCHOOL OR COLLEGE. CHOOSE A SUBJECT THAT HAS STIMULATED YOUR CURIOSITY, BUT THAT YOU DON'T REALLY KNOW MUCH ABOUT. One out of every 20 preschool-age children has a vision problem, the most serious being "lazy eye." The National Society for the Prevention of Blindness warns that without early professional help for the affected "lazy eye," it may not develop properly and sight can be diminished permanently.

To make sure your child is not suffering from lazy eye, write for the free "Home Eye Test For Preschoolers" from The National Society for the Prevention of Blindness, SN, 79 Madison Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10016.

Dougherty and Booth Spur; Dr. Roland B. Smith, Texas A&M Extension service, College Station who gave pertinent information regarding the dependency of moving much of the food and fiber grown in the area served by the line; Calvin Nelson of Houston, an economist retained by the shippers, was also present for the hearings. Attorneys and Nelson also represented the businessmen of the area at the Washington, D. C. hearings on December 6.

QA&P FUTURE CRITICAL

No decision has yet been reached in the QA&P track abandonment case. Ed Fiero, Quana manager of the Panhandle Compress, said, "The case went before the Interstate Commerce Commission on December 6, but as far as we know they haven't reached a decision yet."

According to Fiero, the Commission has until March to give a yes or no answer. "The decision rests in the hands of Judge Geraldine Keys, administrative judge with the Interstate Commerce Commission, Transportation Division."

The compress manager said the abandonment could affect Panhandle Compress to the point they will have to let some employees go. "If the compress can't ship by rail, we will have to ship by trucks which is not feasible in every location, such as Roaring Springs. Consequently, we may have to shut the plant down. This will mean a lower volume of cotton going through the Quana compress."

The Quana, Acme and Pacific Railway Company applied in April 1975 through Section 1 (18) of the Interstate Commerce Act to abandon 104.8 miles of track. The abandoned sections would encompass Hardeeman, Cottle, Motley and Floyd Counties.

According to QA&P, their lines were part of the main transcontinental route of the St. Louis-San Francisco Railroad to the west coast. The route of travel passes through Floydada, Texas gateway with the Atchison-Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad.

The service level in 1973 was two trains a day. In September, 1973, an agreement was reached between the Santa Fe and the St. Louis railroads to change their west coast gateway to Avarad, Oklahoma (northeast of Amarillo, Texas). Consequently, during this month, all bridge traffic over the QA&P was diverted to Avarad. Train service dropped to one train a week, from Floydada to Avarad.

According to an attorney working against the abandonment, the QA&P is a totally owned subsidiary of the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway Company; headquartered in St. Louis, Missouri.

The case first came up at a public hearing in Paducah last November 12. It started with the presentation of a study of the economic impact of the proposal presented by Dr. C. Phillip Baunel, economics professor at transportation specialist from Iowa State University, on behalf of the railroad and its parent corporation organization, St. Louis and San Francisco Railway Co.

Most of the testimony, by operators of grain elevators, cotton warehouses and compresses and other shippers and business leaders was devoted to refuting the arguments presented early by Dr. Baunel's testimony as to availability and cost of trucking service and also his figures on the cost of shipping by rail.

Elevators and compress operators testified the switch to truck transportation of crops would require them to increase storage capacity and install new and costly loading facilities. Costs in some cases would be prohibitive, they said.

Later in the case, counsel for the shippers and the QA&P examined records being used by their opponents in preparing supporting papers to be forwarded to the ICC in Washington. These supporting papers were mailed to Washington.

Jim Sowell, Quana attorney and representative of the railroad, joined St. Louis attorneys to represent the railroad at the hearings.

Ray Farabee, Wichita Falls attorney, retained by shippers to represent them and Congressman Jack High-tower testified for the shippers. Tom Backus of Wichita Falls assisted Farabee.

Supporting the people who would be hurt by the discontinuance of the line serving the rich agricultural area from Floydada to Quana were several score of men who would be directly affected.

Joe Pratt and Marvin Syntell, both of Texas Attorney General John Hill's office in Austin, participated in the hearings. A spokesman said, "the reason the state of Texas is interested in this proceeding is to ensure that the transportation needs of an important agricultural area are met." The state contends that public convenience and needs of shippers "are best served and will continue to be best served by the continued availability of service by Quana, Acme and Pacific Railway Co., to this area."

Also present for the hearings was Joe Ptosky from the Austin office of the Texas Railroad Commission.

Testifying for the shippers were Winston Wilson, Quana, president of the Texas Wheat Growers Association; Herman Proptst, Anson, Director of the Rolling Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., J. R. Atchley, Cleburne, secretary, Texas Legislative Board of United Transportation Union representing the employees of the line; Alton Higginbotham, Floydada of Lighthouse Electric Coop; Lewis White, Texas Highway Department of Childress; Chuck Holms, Floydada manager of a vegetable shed at Floydada; Doug Frazier, Floydada Chamber of Commerce manager, and Neil B. Scott, Commodity broker of Amarillo and owner of an elevator at Roaring Springs.

Also Lewis Bearden of Long Davis Farm Supply Co. of Floydada; Smitty Faucett, Little Rock, Ark., of Olin Fertilizer; H. A. Poteet, Dallas Texas Cotton Association; Wayne Fuller, Floydada trucker; Norman Brints, A&M economist of Vernon; Kinder Farris, president of the Board of the First National Bank of Floydada; Long Davis of Davis Grain Co. of Floydada and Jim Carraway of the Paducah Post.

Testimony was also heard to continue the line from Pearl Palmer of South Plains Elevator of Roaring Springs; Buddy Lynn, South Plains Texas elevator operator; Bill

Cagle, Floydada, Producers Grain Corp., Delwin Brooks, Brooks Grain Co., Paducah; Lee Curry, Panhandle Compress, Paducah; C. L. Long, Panhandle Compress, Roaring Springs and Ed Fiero Panhandle Compress office in Quana.

Also Roger Poage, D & P Grain Co. at Dougherty; Rufus Gibbs, Paducah Implement Co.; Bob Vickers, Producers Grain Co. at

Words are so inadequate to express our thoughts at this time. Your prayers and encouraging words, cards and other thoughtful acts of love and friendship during the long illness of our loved one meant much to him, just as your prayers, cards, visits, calls, beautiful floral offerings and memorial service at his passing, have meant so much to us. To those who prepared and served food for us, or ministered to us in any way, we are also deeply grateful. May God bless each of you in a special way, is our prayer. Jayton Wins Tournament

(DELAYED)
Jayton took the District 12-B basketball championship title from Motley County, Saturday at Spur, but it wasn't an easy victory. It took three overtimes and ended 55-52. The game was tied at 44 at the end of regulation play. The other overtime scores were 46 and 48, before Jayton jumped out ahead by as many as 4 points in the third overtime. Motley County's Ricky Turner put in 18 and Harold Dempsey added 16. Harold Parker led Jayton with 20 and Gene Cleveland added 12. Motley County tripped McAdoo 52-43 Friday to gain a spot in the tournament finals. In this game, Turner netted 22 points and Dempsey added 14 more for the home team. Motley County closed the season at 19-10, while Jayton advanced to bidistrict to meet Roby in a site and time yet to be determined. Jayton's win over Motley gave them a 24-8 record.

IN THANKFULNESS
To everyone who helped us in every way while Henry was in the hospital in Paducah, for the visits in our home after he returned, and for those who came to the house to help us to the hospital when Henry became sick, we are very thankful. Also appreciated were flowers, telephone calls and visits, and those who prayed for us. May God's richest blessings rest on each one.

Lockett 4789-A

THE EARLY BIRD

This relatively early Lockett variety is getting more and more recognition as a fine, early cotton for this area. Its early maturity (slightly earlier than Paymaster 18) along with being a highly determinate variety, allows it to set bolls early, then "cut-out," resulting in the production of more mature bolls with higher lint quality. It is well adapted to narrow-row as well as conventional planting because it matures early and the close-fruited plant holds the low bolls off the ground. Lockett 4789-A normally produces a good yield of quality fiber with staple length of an inch or more. It is recommended for both dry and irrigated land. However, under irrigation it should be grown only on wilt-free soils. To be sure you're planting the real thing, buy only certified seed from a Pioneer Seed Dealer. Reserve your supply of Lockett 4789-A planting seed now.
