TRAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR

beyond the shoulder of road, crushed beneath the weight uncounted miles, the old car tilted for wingless vultures in the cool twilight was last mile; warmth had died ever in the dirty and gasping time. Many roaring vehicles used in the procession of traffic none paused with the delect as swaying lights caught hulk in their beam. A load-convoy of glittering new automobiles swept on in the darkness, like young, untried lives rushing to the proving grounds of experience. The highway might have been the road life, except that automobiles instead of souls were shuttling sidily in the loom of uncertain stiny.

Where success blooms in its most inspiring radiance, is soil enriched with the crumbling bones of many failures.

In the alchemy of producing character it is frequently necessary to remove so much dross of vanity and egotism that the original identity must be completely sacrificed.

While a cloak of dreams will keep the body warm, it will bring joy and profound satisfaction to the heart.

For a time it was exceedingly pleasant to look at the high ceiling and the open window where flowering plants were suspended delicate pottery containers. The great low bed was longer than my reach, and neither too hard nor too soft for comfort and my return to reality was delayed by little naps of uncertain duration. Finally my feet struck the carpeted floor and I was looking from the window into a stone courtyard where beautiful in Guatemala City, a gentle in that had spent its heat in the tropical jungles thousands of feet below the cool highlands, from above I detected a strange rattling sound, as pigeons might produce in walking on a gravel roof. For a time I was satisfied with the identity of the sound except for the size and number of birds on the roof. After breakfast ordered from a Spanish menu and served by areofotted native Mayan girls who spoke no English, I went outside for my first look at the interesting city. First, I wanted to see the pigeons. Instead of pigeons, men swarmed on the roof. The story was being added and native workmen carried stone and mortar in an endless procession. They were small, smiling, barefooted men working faithfully I had their ancestors. The sound I had tried to identify was the sound of gravel being tramped by bare feet.

Another spring and the saffron sea of buttercups is exploding sense with dew-drenched fetlocks in galloping horses. The laughter of vanished cowboys is suspended in the stillness of unchanged hills and valleys; the chiming of their long-silenced spurs is in the wind. Where they are now camped in Valhalla, is a way of life, a piety of duty and constant fidelity to purpose.

With the dead cats being tossed into Washington alleys, the average citizen faces a decision. He can go either Democratic or Republican, or attempt to negotiate a private treaty with Joe Stalin.

Court Acts Fast In Murder Trial

One of the shortest murder trials on record in this area passed through District Judge Alton B. Chapman's court here Thursday when Henry Lee Parnell received a five-year suspended sentence for the shooting of Henry Gyrich in a Matador tourist court on the afternoon of October 23, 1951.

The jury was out less than an hour and returned with a verdict of murder without malice.

The trial was started Thursday morning and entirely completed within a single day. Judge Chapman declared it one of the shortest murder trials in his experience.

Gyrich died several days after the shooting. A rifle which he held was peppered with birdshot when he fell from a shotgun blast by Parnell. The altercation arose at the tourist court when Parnell asked Gyrich to "tone down" the language which he was using near the Parnell cabin.

Gyrich was a farmer in the Whitefett community and the Parnell family was here picking cotton. The two men were not acquainted.

Ranch History Is Told In New Book

A father-son writing and publishing team, Colquet Warren and his son, John Warren, has produced (written, mimeographed and bound) a 35-page book which went on sale last week. It is "The Matadors", a history of the Matador ranch, based on legal records and other sources of information. The booklet is copyrighted.

Both father and son are former employees of the ranch and they were employed simultaneously. John Warren was probably one of the youngest of the thousands of employees whose names have appeared on the ranch payroll during the past 71 years. He was 12 years of age when he began work.

The father and son writing team has been engaged in abstract work during the past eight years and has prepared many abstracts for ranch property in Motley and Dickens counties. The book tells where, when, how and why the ranch was founded. It tells why it was the most successful and long-lasting of the many foreign-owned ranches in the Southwest. The authors venture a guess as to why it was so.

Several original drawings in the book are by John L. Koonsman of Dickens and the maps are drawn by John Warren. Binding is attractive, and paper is of good quality. Price is one dollar at Stanley Pharmacy in Matador and Roaring Springs Drug News stands, or one dollar postpaid. Address is: John Warren, Matador.

SCOUTS "MANAGE" CITY FOR ONE DAY

It is no news to local residents and visitors that Matador Boy Scout Troop 60, Saturday was in "management" of the city affairs. Duly elected "officers" were sworn in Saturday morning at 8 a. m. by Mayor Douglas Meador, and they immediately assumed "duties."

First duty was to assess a fine on the mayor for parking over a white line in front of the city hall. The patrol of 15 youngsters made the day uncomfortable for motorists who were "fined" for various traffic violations. At the end of the day of city management the Scouts had collected a total of $149.50 in fines.

Americans "Butcher" Tea-Making

The most distasteful thing in America is tea the way Americans prepare it. "Tea bags," she said, "are unknown in England where making tea is an art. We brought our own tea and tea pot with us."

English Coffee Putrid

Mrs. Tilson found English coffee equally distasteful. She found many customs in England strange to the customs of West Texas. She liked most the beauty of England, the perpetual greenness, the flowers and scenery. She was very happy to return home. Her husband will be assigned to West-over Field, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith were married in Harrow, a suburb of London, 14 months ago. Winston Churchill attended school in Harrow, as have many other famous Britishers. Mr. Smith has been assigned to duty in California.

Boys Told To Live Clean, Think Clean

CLEAN living and clean thinking are habit forming and the best habit a boy can form. Dick Todd, famous A. & M. football player, now head coach of the Washington Redskins, professional gridiron team, declared here Thursday night.

He was introducing the principal speaker at the 15th annual Father-Son banquet, held in the American Legion club building. The speaker was one of football's most outstanding stars, Sammy Baugh, quarterback for the Washington Redskins and former All-American quarterback of Texas Christian University. County Agent J. R. Emmons introduced the nationally famous athlete.

Newspapers announced yesterday that Sammy Baugh (of Rotan) had accepted a position as assistant coach at Hardin-Simmons college, Abilene.

Both addresses were brief. Mr. Baugh, who is the father of four sons and a daughter, stressed the need for clean living and for athletics in the training of boys. "Sometimes I am convinced," he declared, that teachers, Scoutmasters and coaches, have more influence in the training of boys than their parents. The teacher has a great responsibility.

The gridiron greats were followed by W. R. Postman of Lubbock, Boy Scout executive for 20 West Texas counties. He paid high tribute to the father-son banquet, which was organized by Lt. Paul Eubank, who died when his plane went down in the South Pacific during World War II. Mr. Postman said the annual banquet was the finest tradition in the entire 20-county area.

Roses From Korea

The speaker's table was decorated with a flower pot plant, annual gift of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Eubank of Dallas, parents of the late Paul Eubank, and a great bouquet of red roses, the gift of Truman Groves, son of Algie Groves of Matador. Truman Groves is now stationed in Korea. He had frequently attended previous Father-Son banquets, and wired home the money for the bouquet.

Over 300 attended the banquet declared one of the most successful since the plan was started. Lions Henry Pipkin and Curtis Graham barbecued over 350 pounds of choice beef. Other items on the enjoyable menu included mashed potatoes, son-of-a-gun, candied apricots, red beans, coffee and cocoa.

Scout Neil Pipkin, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Pipkin of Matador, was master of ceremonies. Songs were led by County Judge C. W. Giesecke, and invocation was by Rev. L. W. Baker. Frank Traweck provided piano music during the banquet.

Address of welcome was made by Lion Ralph Stapleton, vice-president of the Matador club, in the absence of Boss Lion J. E. Edwards.

Community visitors included Joe (Buzz) Thacker, Gary Carlisle, Homer Kingery and Bill Harmon, all of Roaring Springs; J. L. Speer, Raymond Speer, Bobby Willis and Lindell Martin of Flomot; Carl Bird and James Bearden of the Bird community; G. F. Yeates and A. B. Simpson of Northfield.

Compliment of Dick Todd regarding the barbecued beef, was "It was the best banquet food I have ever eaten." Praise was high from both boys and fathers, declaring the food the best ever served. General chairman of the banquet this year was Johnny Stevens, manager of the Rodatam ranch.

Star Sammy Baugh was besieged at the door by autograph-seekers among the boys in his audience.

Todd And Baugh Discuss Sports At Boys Banquet

The fifteenth annual father and son banquet was held Thursday evening, February 7, at the American Legion Hall. The banquet was started off by the master of ceremonies, Neal Phipps, a high school sophomore who is in the Boy Scouts. After the welcome we sang "America" together. The guests were then introduced by Harry Platt. Rev. L. W. Baker gave the invocation before they started serving the food.

The menu consisted of the following: baked beef, son-of-a-gun, potatoes, brown beans, and stewed apricots. Coffee, hot chocolate, and water was served to drink. While we were eating, Frank Traxweek played the piano.

The address of welcome was given by Ralph Stapleton and then the program was turned over to Rufus Emmons, who introduced the speakers. Dick Todd, head coach of the Washington Redskins, talked of his career and made a short speech in which he stressed clean living and thinking. He then introduced Sam Baugh or "Mr. Football," the quarterback of the Washington Redskins. Mr. Baugh gave an account of his life and his love of sports. He also talked to the fathers about taking their children for granted and about how much the little things you say and do mean to boys and girls. The district scout director, Bill Postman, talked about scout work and the importance of scouting. The banquet ended by all saying the Lord's Benediction.

man, a stockman's magazine. Doones agricultural letters, the agriculture forecast. The Country Gentleman, a farm home magazine. Farm and Ranch, an agricultural and livestock magazine. Home Craftsman, a shop magazine and Southwestern Crop and Stock, the farmer's magazine.

Matador Boy Coggers Taste First Triumph

After many discouraging defeats, the Matadors caught fire to lead the Pioneer Longhorns by a score of 46 to 26, Tuesday, Feb. 5. The game was nip and tuck through the first two quarters and at the half the Matadors led by a score of 16 to 10.

After leading by only 4 points at the half the Matadors went wild in the third and fourth quarters and looked like the ball club they have been all season but just haven't shown.

When the game ended, the Matadors led by 26 points. Cullerton was high scorer for Matador with 34 and Phipps was a close second with 23 points. Eight point man for Pioneer was Koertke with 7 in his credit.

LORE TO SILVERTON

The Matador High school boys were defeated by the Silverton Owls in a conference game by the score of 46 to 27. Matador was trailing at the half-time by 20 to 15. Eight point men were Phipps for Matador with 23 points and Hamilton for Silverton with 21 points.

It looks like a "POWER YEAR"

New Horsepower — new Brake Power — and new Power Steering blossom on Buick's ROADMASTER for 1952

MAYBE you've heard—horsepower has hit a new high on the ROADMASTER. Brake power has done the same. But today, we'd like to concentrate on the third member of the power trio—Buick's own version of Power Steering, available on ROADMASTERS at a moderate extra cost.

What is this Power Steering like? It's something like a helping hand, something like a "hydraulic sleeve"—that relieves you of all steering strain, but lets you keep command.

What we mean is this: Power Steering is handled by a special hydraulic unit—and engineers cut design this unit to take over any amount of steering effort—even to a point where the wheel seems to float in your hand.

But in that case, you'd surrender all control to that hydraulic unit—get to steering "feel" from the wheel.

Now suppose you're selling two agile tons of automobile what to do in traffic. We think you'd like to have it know that you're in command.

And—out on the straightaway—we believe that a part of the joy you get from owning a Buick is the sensation of having something alive and eagerly willing beneath your hands.

So we're glad to announce that Buick engineers didn't spoil this thrill. They've kept the fun of driving, and simply eased the effort.

When you're rolling along smooth and straight, it takes almost no effort to keep any Buick on course. It almost steers itself, as every Buick owner knows.

But—when you want to get away from a curb —back into a parking spot—make a Buick's Power Steering comes into play and saves four-fifths of the effort required in ordinary steering. Power Steering does extra work.

And—in case you wonder what happens Power Steering gets out of kilter, the steering nothing. Your Buick steers just as it always steered.

That's why we've been saying, "This is Power Steering as it ought to be."

Come in. Try it out. We think you'll agree.

Depreciation, maintenance, price and model are subject to change without notice.

Sure is true for '52
