TRAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR

Rising beyond the impetuous twilight was a range of red thunderheads, like mountains with fires in their hearts, or crimson smoke frozen against the sky. It was as if God had placed a splendid seal on the day's destinies.

The girl was like the bud of a flower with the cool dew of youth in her eyes. There was an enchantment in her presence that held the spell and expectancy of an autumn dawn, the promise of some hidden spring of beauty. When she spoke her flaming words scorched the silence and stunned the heart, like the view of a church struck by lightning.

Perhaps it is well that the old rider's boots are not within his sight in the narrow hospital room. And there is mercy in the fate that keeps him far from the land of rolling prairie, far from the songs of autumn winds in rain-washed mesquites. He is close to the Big Pasture gate, left with the lonely memories of a riding man; memories fraught with wet sage brushing the toes of his boots.

Petals fall when the rose is blossomed. The lamp is extinguished when day arrives. Life empties a man back into the earth when his work is done.

I know at least a dozen people to whom I could point an accusing finger if the quality of my own behavior was not less perfect than is theirs.

Busy clouds were weaving a blanket for the grey crib of sky that would soon rock the dawn. Yellow lamplight spilled out the windows of two farm homes and somewhere in the distance pattered hogs were squealing for their morning swill. A youth walked to the lots with rattling milk pails on his arms, and the horse with their heads over the corral fence, whinnied coaxingly for their feed. Barnyard cats appeared from the shadows and awaited patiently for their portion of warm milk. It was an hour in which life seeks no substitute.

Despite my aversion for ants, I hesitate to destroy a colony that pesters my existence. In a measure it seems shameful to destroy anything that displays so much honest and ceaseless industry.

Cool weather drags in the wrinkled hides of many old memories. One that has lost none of its delightful quality includes the scent of cottonwood smoke, a shallow, black pan on the oven door and brown sparrows bubbling in their own exquisite gravy.

An intelligent horse will wait patiently for hours when a foot becomes entangled in barbed wire while a younger and fractions animal may saw through flesh and bone in an attempt to escape. Man, when entangled in the wire of fate, may behave in a similar manner. Many a scarred life must charge its conditions to the lack of patience.

By working diligently and saving his money, a man frequently attains sufficient wealth to be able to buy the food he wants to eat while he still has a few teeth with which to conquer it.

Once a life pattern is made, it is seldom affected by changes. When a railroad is built the original cross-ties make a foundation for those that will replace them. Years pass with weight, strain and responsibility and the decaying cross-tie is supplanted with a new one. The god in men's lives is like cross-ties that support the rails of truth on which the commerce of humanity is transported.

What we say is not as important as to whom we say it.

Doss Named Substitute Lion Head

Vice president Vernon Doss assumed his place as substitute Boss Lion of the Matador club at the organization's regular meeting held in the Methodist church basement, Tuesday at 12:30 p. m.

Lion Doss will serve as head of the club until January 1st when Boss Lion Howard Tra-week expects to be relieved of duties which at present prevent him from filling the office. Doss accepted the place at the meeting of directors held at Marvin's cafe early Monday.

Arrangements are being completed for Lions Ladies Night to be held in the Henry Pinkin garden at 7:30, September 17th. The social night will substitute for the club's regular second September meeting.

Nourishing Meals Served At School

The Matador public school lunchroom opened on September 3, serving 159 students and faculty members with nourishing meals.

New equipment, consisting of 150 divided plates, a steam table to insure hot food, and an electric refrigerator, has been added. An additional number of glasses, cups, forks and spoons are needed and any donations would be appreciated, according to those in charge.

Operating under State supervision, the school is under contract with the Department of Education. Type A lunches are being served and food requirements are being planned by Miss Fuesell, homemaking instructor.

The lunchroom personnel include Miss Mary Keith, Mrs. Gerald Waybourn, Mrs. Frank Montgomery and Mrs. J. C. McBride. This group is working with the assistance and under the supervision of Miss Fuesell. They are striving to secure wholesome, attractive and tasty meals.

During the past week the personnel worked under crowded conditions which they hope to eliminate in a few days. Due to an increase in the number of students eating in the lunchroom, it has been difficult to estimate the amount of food to prepare, but larger servings are promised as soon as a schedule can be perfected.

'Fundamentals' will Be Matadors' Drill Pattern

Twenty-seven Matadors checked out their uniforms Monday, took to the gridiron and got better acquainted with Brady Thomas, their new coach. For approximately three hours, the football hopefuls went through exercises and fundamental gridiron drills and cast an eager eye at the new skipper. Thomas is the first coach that the team has had for four years.

VETS HEAR PLAN OF GIAG CLASSES

Establishment of vocational agricultural classes under the GI Bill for veterans of Motley County took a step toward Wednesday night when T. L. Leach, agricultural advisor for the Veterans Administration of Lubbock, addressed a group of the ex-servicemen in the Court-room here.

Veterans taking the training would receive $65 per month if single and $90 per month if married, according to Dick Groves, newly appointed county servicemen's officer. However, students would be limited to those who own their own land or those who have worked out a rental agreement. No wage earners will be eligible, he said.

Most 'Reduced' Old Age Pension Checks Prepared For Mailing

AUSTIN—The last "reduced" old age payments to be issued this year were being processed today by the Public Welfare department. The checks will go to 884 old folks. Checks averaged $23.55.

The checks are the September allotment. Beginning with October, the federal government has authorized a more liberal matching of state funds.

Even without this increased federal aid, the September checks are slightly above the August average which was $23.43.

Washington News Letter

By Gene Worley

On July 1, by 8 o'clock, we were circling Bikini lagoon around 8000 feet altitude and were in the 10 to 20 mile zone as we had been instructed to be the previous night at the briefing. The first zone extended to 10 miles and the second 10 to 20 and an Army man estimated we were approximately 13 miles from the spot where the bomb was to explode, which is about the same distance the plane was when the bomb was dropped at Hiroshima. We were provided with a pair of the darkest glasses I've ever seen. It was impossible to see anything through them but they were a necessary precaution against a temporary blindness from the illumination of the bomb itself. We were also outfitted with life preservers and parachutes, as well as a small piece of film which was designed to reflect any radioactivity which might come in our direction. The bombardier was about 25,000 feet at 8:30 and had already made one "dry" run. At that time a cloud was over the target and he advised he would make the final run at exactly 9 o'clock if possible. By virtue of an excellent radio timing hookup all ships and planes in the air were informed the instant the bomb was released. At exactly 9 o'clock, word came over our hookup—"Bomb away!"—the warning bell rang, the black glasses were immediately put in place and everyone sat with tense expectation because it hardly takes more than a minute for a bomb to drop 25,000 feet. An Army Colonel had said our plane would receive a heavy jolt when the bomb exploded and accordingly all of us were braced for it. I personally felt nothing stronger than what I thought was an air pocket but other Members said they thought it was somewhat worse. At any rate, I saw the most brilliant flash of light even thru those dark glasses I've ever seen. You couldn't tell whether the bomb had hit its target but immediately upon removing the glasses, we saw the most brilliant white and almost solid column of churning smoke climbing straight up into the air. We could see all ships still afloat but within a few minutes one had sunk, three were listing and burning and a most peculiar and fantastic green color was spreading on the water just over one of the aircraft carriers close to the target. One of the men aboard our plane who had been at the New Mexico bomb experiment said the ground out there had turned practically the same color. In and out of the tremendous column of smoke we could see the Army and Navy "drone" airplanes flying thru the smoke clouds. These airplanes were controlled by radio and were equipped with all sorts of devices to test the heat, radioactivity, and everything else of a scientific nature which might have been generated by the explosion. This in itself was weird and it was almost unbelievable that the drone airplane could maneuver almost as perfectly as if a human hand were at the controls.

Elected To Office At 21 Years Of Age

Meet a war hero now one of the state's youngest election winners.

Meet Travis Helpinstill of Nacogdoches, who at 21 ousted a veteran officeholder, Constable J. Todd Brown.

Helpinstill, an ex-Marine who gained fame at Saipan in helping wipe out a troublesome band of Jap snipers, found a magic campaign slogan in these words: "Old enough to know what to do, experienced enough to know how to do it, and young enough to do it."

The dark-haired campaigner said "I figured that if I could take care of myself against the Japs, I could surely fulfill the duties of constable."

The voters ate it up. They gave him a runoff victory of 2,459 votes to 1,104 for the incumbent.

Helpinstill inherited his yen for a youthful fling at office-keeping. His father, J. B. Helpinstill, was elected Justice of the Peace at the age of 23.

In the service, Helpinstill was with the armed Fourth Marine Division. While still 18, he helped storm the Marshalls, then fought through the bitter Saipan and Iwo Jima campaigns.

He came home to East Texas last fall, worked at his old job in an auto sales company, then began convincing the voters. "I'm neither too young nor too old."

Holiday Death Toll Hits 342 In Nation

The long Labor day week ended exacted a toll of 342 lives in violent accidents throughout the nation.

The figure was only slightly under the estimates of the National Safety Council, which predicted 350 persons would die from public accidents during the three-day holiday.

Of the total of 342 deaths, 246 occurred in traffic accidents. There were 40 drownings and 56 deaths from miscellaneous violent causes.

Every state in the union reported at least one violent death. California led the list with 39, New York was second with 24, and Ohio third with 21.

There's no tax on safety, it's as free as the air, but brother, there's a tax on accidents and you pay it!

The Texas Safety Association predicts that the cost of accidents for this year may hit the million mark! Play Safe, and Save.

The tendency to snore is greater among adults than children. Snoring increases from age 30 on, probably because of letdown in muscular control.

Coke Says That Jester Is Running Show

AUSTIN—Governor Coke R. Stevenson today said that Beau Jester is "running the show" politically in Texas.

Stevenson's statement was in response to an inquiry for his views about Jester's announced state for the Democratic state convention honors and key position on the state Democratic Executive committee.

"I am not commenting on personalities," said Stevenson. "He is elected. He's running the show."

Some surprise had been expressed in Austin at the announcement of Robert Calvert of Hillsboro for State Democratic chairman. Calvert was Stevenson's rival in 1933 for speaker of the Texas House of Representatives in one of the most spirited contests for that honor in recent years.

Both Stevenson and Calvert had claimed victory and the morning of the election, the Stevenson supporters were wearing a carnation as he entered the House of representatives and wore the flower in going to the desk to vote for speaker. Calvert won a later term as speaker in 1937 after Stevenson had two terms and was not a candidate.

The selection of Calvert was believed to be due to Jester's long friendship with Calvert, former resident of Corsicana and in his boyhood days a protégé of Jester.

VERNON LATIMER AND SONS

Our pilot and most everyone aboard was inquisitive so we edged in as close as we could for a better view and circled the lagoon and ever-brightening smoke column for about half an hour before returning to Kwajalein.

As another precaution all aircraft traffic within a radius of 5500 miles surrounding Bikini had been frozen for a 24-48 hour period on account of the possible dangers of radioactivity. As we left, the top part of the cloud had reached an approximate altitude of 35,000 feet and was slowly dissipating. Due to the shortage of time we had previously been given permission to leave Kwajalein for Guam immediately if we assumed whatever radio-activity hazards were present, which we did. I understand most everyone back in the United States had heard an on-the-scene description by radio but it was rather garbled. I understand also a number of people have expressed disappointment over the power of this bomb, but so far as I am concerned, it is by far the most destructive power man has ever had a hand in. This view was shared by all of the military and naval personnel with whom I talked.

Mr. and Mrs. John Mackenzie of Denver, Colorado, were here several days this week looking after business matters at the Matador ranch.

Visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howe Hines over the week end were her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Thomas, a brother, Kenneth Thomas, and a sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Carter and daughter, Vickey, all of Lubbock.

Under Texas Skies

Devoted to a better understanding of the Lone Star State. By A. Garland Adair, Vice Chairman Centennial Commission

Vol. III Austin, Texas No. 3

Centennial Plan Considerate of Veterans

The future well-being of Texas is dependent primarily upon a sound economy and the happiness of our rural communities, for it is said that the farm is the "cradle of the nation." The life of our rural communities must be attractive—economically, socially, spiritually, and physically, so that our people will be drawn to the land.

World War II saw the greatest movement of youth from rural areas in history, with more than 1,500,000 of them serving in the armed forces and from 2,000,000 to 3,000,000 others in our war industries. Many of them have already returned to their farm and ranch communities, but whether or not the best of them will remain to develop the citizenship so important in America depends upon the initiative of the rural community. None of reconstruction's basic objectives comes so close to home as the re-establishment of our returning servicemen and women in the community. Through their experience in war they have learned to appreciate the American Way of Life. They fought to defend our American institutions. We must now help them to make the best possible use of their heritage. Shortly before his death our beloved President Franklin D. Roosevelt said: "We have taught our youth how to wage war; we must also teach them now to live useful and happy lives in freedom, justice and decency."

The Texas Centennial of Statehood Commission proposes to commemorate one hundred years of Texas statehood in a practical program designed to revitalize rural life, to rebuild the land, and with the land, the man, and through the man, the State. The attainment of such destiny will constitute a living monument—greater than any of perishable stone—in which all Texas will share and our rural youth will have an opportunity to "live useful and happy lives in freedom, justice, and decency."

TEXAS CATECHISM: "Hats off to the past; coats off to the future." A Texas Centennial silver 20-cent piece will be given to the one sending in the reply acceptable to the editor of "Under Texas Skies" stating by whom the above quotation was first made. Replies should be sent to Centennial of Statehood Commission, 612 Capital National Building, Austin, Texas.

aged the growing of soil building crops and we understand that the growing of cover crops has even been discouraged. In the last few months much interest has been created in our conservation materials program. In that 40 thousand pounds of 45% super phosphate has been distributed to producers and orders have been taken for nearly 15 thousand pounds of Austrian Winter Peas which will seed about 1,000 acres. In addition to good winter pasture for livestock the Austrian winter pea will make a good cover and green manure crop. Experiments have shown where cotton was planted following this crop an increase in yield was realized the first year and any one could tell to the row where the peas were grown. The AAA recommends that phosphate be put under the pea crop and demands that the peas be properly inoculated with fresh inoculants. These 15 thousand pounds of Austrian winter pea seed will be received in the county this week and should be planted within the next two or three weeks. Also to be received about the 15th of this month is 80,000 lb. of 20% Super phosphate. Producers are signing up for this material now. Despite the fact that the application of phosphate and other materials and the seeding of winter legumes have been discouraged in the past, much interest is now being shown and all producers with an intent of making the soils of Motley County produce again are willing to spend money and time and give this program a chance to help the depleted and mineral hungry soils of the county.

Mr. E. E. Moss of Roaring Springs applied 12,000 pounds of the last shipment of phosphate to his permanent pasture and has placed orders with the AAA for more of this material to be applied to crop land and has expressed his desire to plant a good acreage of his land to Harry vetch or any other good winter cover crop or winter legume. This is the case of only one producer, others could be mentioned. For instance, Chas. Long, also of Roaring Springs, applied this material to crop land and has placed orders for more and will also get several hundred pounds of the Austrian Winter Pea seed soon to arrive.

The AAA objective of providing materials and services for carrying out conservation practices under the AAA Conservation program is solely in the interest of aiding and establishing the use of sound conservation and soil-improvement measures. Greater interest on the part of the farmers in carrying out needed conservation practices has been noted in the immediate past. These results are at least in part due to AAA encouragement in the adoption of practices which farmers are not generally familiar with but which have been proven to be desirable. AAA financial assistance, and by the AAA developing sources of materials or services not previously available. . . .

SIX TONS OF DISHES WASHED IN AVERAGE HOME ANNUALLY

Accelerated Salvaging of Household Fat Makes Possible Present Supplies of Soap for This and Other Household Chores

It has been calculated that every American housewife washes six tons of dishes every year! Add up the accumulation from 365 breakfasts, luncheons, dinners and in-between snacks and the total would fill six trucks, experts say. Staggering as the task of washing six tons of dishes sounds, imagine how much more impossible the job would be without soap! The prospect of a soap-less life is not on the horizon, however, as long as housewives keep up their present rate of salvaging fat.

Department of Agriculture authorities point out that if it had not been for salvaged fat in 1935, housewives would have had 13 per cent less soap. Even so there are not enough industrial fats and oils available to meet the demand for soaps and other goods the public wants.

Help Yourself
Every time you turn in a pound of fats to your meat dealer you are actually helping yourself and your neighbors by relieving the shortage not only of soap but also of scarce items like table linen, draperies, floor coverings, even possibly some more nylons.

Food experts too are urging fat conservation! Use and reuse every drop and ounce of beef, bacon and even lamb fat when you're cooking, they say. Then, when you've had all the food value of your fat, turn in the drippings and scrapings for salvage.
The 800,000,000 people starving in Europe and Asia are scavenging in garbage cans for grease that many an American family washes down the drain. Fats are scarce everywhere. We, as a nation, must be careful not to waste material, which if properly used would save human lives in some other country.

Remember your annual six tons of dishes.

Remember your annual six tons of dishes. Sixteen tablespoonsful of used cooking fat turned over to a meat dealer helps relieve the shortage of industrial fats and frees enough soap fats to help make a box of packaged laundry soap, or six bars of laundry soap, or five bars of toilet soap.

The lady engineer and general manager of such a household therefore can save and salvage enough used cooking fat to take care of her dishwashing needs.

Remember that in addition to dishes, literally tons of clothes need washing every year—miles of woodwork and linoleum must be scrubbed and it takes mountains of soap. Sit down and figure out the amount of soap . . . and the amount of fat . . . required to keep your household clean.

Supplies Never Lower
Supplies of edible and inedible fats and oils all over the world have never been as low as they are today. Fats and oils imports to the U. S. are still only a shadow of their pre-war tonnage. The only tangible way to get more raw materials for soap making and other essentials is by turning in more used cooking fat.

Continued conservation of every drop of used cooking fat will prevent shorter supplies of soap. Accelerated fat salvaging—the skimming of soups, scraping of pans, rendering of raw and cooked fat—means improvement in soap supply, and a slight easement in the household burden of six tons of dishes every year.

DR. COX STRESSES CARE OF TEETH

The fact that dental decay is likely to occur in the mouth of the average person, despite proper home care given the teeth, does not lessen the importance of brushing the teeth and massaging the gums daily, nor does it minimize the need for a cleaning and inspection of the teeth twice a year by the family dentist. Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, says that the lack of these measures gives added power to germs that attack the enamel of the teeth and gum tissues.

"If, despite the proper application of such procedures, decay is suspected or teeth are injured in any way, the thoughtful person will seek the dentist's office promptly for the necessary corrective work," Dr. Cox said.

"It is surprising, though, even in these days of comparatively painless dentistry, that so many persons neglect to make good their dental defects, inevitable or otherwise, because they foolishly fear the discomfort they might experience in the dentist's chair," said the State Health Officer. "There are others who having lost a tooth or several teeth make no effort to obtain replacements. Apparently they believe they can get along without them. Reduce masticating power, the annoyances and sometimes actual discomfort of chewing hard substances on the exposed gums, and crooked teeth are some of the possible consequences of gaps in the teeth."

Dr. Cox advised those who are interested in experiencing the best dental and bodily health possible, to give daily attention to their mouths and visit the dentist twice each year, and promptly seek the dentist's services should decay or other suspicious conditions arise between the periodic visits.

The Force that Holds a Giant Stalactite Up... OIL-PLATES Your Engine!

THE tons-heavy stalactite—the giant "icicle" of stone—is held tight to its cavern roof by the tremendous attractive force of molecules pulling up against gravity. Utilizing the force of molecular attraction (basic force that holds things together) Conoco scientists bring to America's motorists the benefits of new and better oils.

By molecular attraction, a special ingredient of Conoco No. 1 motor oil is bonded so strongly throughout your engine that cylinder walls and other parts are OIL-PLATED! And because molecular attraction holds Conoco OIL-PLATING up where it belongs . . . prevents it from all draining down to the crankcase, even overnight . . . you get these benefits:

- added protection when your engine starts up
- added protection from corrosive action
- added protection from wear that leads to fouling sludge and carbon
- added smooth, silent miles

Convert Stall to Pen
 NOW is the time to get those jobs done that will make next spring's work easier and more profitable. For instance, a double horse-stall may be turned into a serviceable farrowing pen by the addition of studs and asbestos board.
 Light studding run from the sides of the stall to the ceiling joists will serve as a framework on which the asbestos board can be applied to form the necessary partitions. A couple of 2x4's can be set at the end of the stall for wall studding and the door jamb.

Add a guard rail along one side of the wall to prevent crushing of young pigs. A simple brooder can be installed in one corner by fitting in a triangular piece of asbestos board about a foot from the floor. Cut a circular hole in the center of the board and suspend a bulb in a reflector above this. The light and heat will attract the pig to the brooder and keep them safely in the corner except when feeding.

ARMY SET FOR SEPTEMBER CALL

Completing a 60-day vacation, the Army's draft became effective this week as notifications were put in the mail. Men will pour into reception centers at the beginning of next week, Army officials declared.
 Aim of the Army is to draft 25,000 men in the 19-29 bracket in September. The Selective Act expires on March 31, but Army officials say that 155,000 men will volunteer before that date, and that the draft must provide 185,000.
 Mentioned in the most recent draft orders are those men classified at 1-C (Discharge). Draft boards were advised by the national draft authorities to reconsider those discharged who have not served on active duty outside of the United States or Alaska, or provided they have not had at least six months of active duty after September 16, 1940.

Four new divisions have been added to the "occupational deferment" list. They are college and university teachers, home construction workers, critical production and transportation workers.
 Eighteen-year-olds will still have to register, although they will not be inducted until they become 19, according to a recent law passed by Congress.
 Fathers and essential agricultural workers will not be called. Army officials say. Men of 30 will not be called immediately.

Pictures Show Highlights of Atomic Year One

The atomic age opened July 16, 1945, with the New Mexico test of the bomb (1). A few hundred picked observers saw it. A year ago, at Hiroshima (2), the first war bomb left 160,000 dead and injured. At Nagasaki (3) a few days later casualties were 80,000. Only other atomic explosions have been in two Bikini tests (photo 4 shows first one), scored by atomic scientists as long on showmanship, short on science. Along with others, scientists are observing Hiroshima anniversary with pleas for controls to end all use of bomb.

The most lethal way to deliver an A-bomb is by rocket. Army trials of German V-2 type (above) brought assurances by the end of Atomic Year 1 that the day of long range atomic rockets is almost here. Scientists know of no defense.

After directing Los Alamos bomb laboratory, Dr. J. R. Oppenheimer helped draft State Dep't. proposals.

Biggest issue of Atomic Year 1 was international control. U. S. plan, presented to UN Atomic Commission by Bernard Baruch, drew counter proposals from Russia's Andrei Gromyko (shown above reading his plan; Baruch at right). Most observers expected final compromise.

The great American public spent Atomic Year 1 coping with new words, new fears and new hopes. Scientists predicted blessings from the atom, but not if war strikes. Photo shows exhibit at New York Museum of Science.

Drive for civilian control of atom in U. S. was led by Sen. Brien McMahon (D., Conn.).

Million Dollar Cattle Deal Is Closed At Lubbock

A million dollar cattle deal, involving between 10,000 and 12,000 cows and bulls, was completed Tuesday at Lubbock between Sam C. Arnett Sr. and Tobe Foster, and the Red River Cattle Company of Tucuman, New Mexico.

Cash payment of $60,000 was made and the remainder will be made upon delivery of the cattle, according to the pencilled longhand contract. Albert Mitchell represented the cattle company.

A half-interest in the cattle has been sold to Joe W. Espy of Fort Davis, rancher-banker and one of the most widely known cattle traders in the southwest.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard W. Amick have returned to their home in Bellflower, California, after spending a few days visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Amick of Flomot. Also visiting their parents recently were Captain and Mrs. Roy W. Amick of Luke Field, Arizona, and Mrs. Bobbie Lee Nelson and small son Mike, of Waco. Captain Amick is being transferred from Luke Field, to Barksdale Field, La.

Do you know when right is wrong? It's when you are walking on the highway, says the Texas Safety Association. If you are doing any hiking, remember that you should walk on the left-hand side of the road, so you can watch the approaching cars on your side. In the catfish of safety, there is only one answer, walk with caution, courtesy and common sense!

The Texas Safety Association says that when a driver starts up the motor of his car, he automatically assumes the responsibility for the load he hauls, the car he drives, his life, the lives of any persons riding with him, and the welfare of those who share the highways. A car can be replaced; the load can be replaced, but nowhere are there

Saga Of Sea Duty Following V-J Day Is Told In Letter

Although it is not known definitely how many Motley county boys were in the Pacific zone a year ago, when the war came that Japan had surrendered, at least one sailor from here was cruising in dangerous waters.

In a letter to Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Webb, of Matador, written January 29, this year, Bill Byron Knight, E. M. 2-c, attempted to answer their questions concerning his whereabouts when the Japs surrendered.

Knight is back home now, as is his buddy, Gene Webb, to whom he refers in the letter. However, Billy Wason, also referred to in the letter, is still on duty in Yokohama.

Excerpts from the letter are as follows: "Dear Webbs' . . . I went over to Gene's ship today and spent the afternoon. He is in good condition and his morale seems to be O. K. so you can cease to worry. I'll take care of him' . . . I met Billy Wason up in Yokohama the other day and he is going to come down to see us Sunday . . .

"Artie you wanted to know just what I was doing when Japan decided to quit, well here it is for the first and last time. You had better preserve this because the story holds no beauty or fascination for me and I had just as soon forget it.

"Well, on V-J Day, as you people call it we were at sea off the coast of Japan with the remainder of the third fleet and a few British ships. A couple of days before the Missouri and the chosen few went in we were given orders to stay at sea for stand-by duty just in case, so you see I'm not a hero! I missed the big event. Naturally I got to see the armada of ships and aircraft that made the initial landing on Japan, but still no 'Silver Star'.

The day of my arrival in Japan was September 2. We had been going up and down the coast of Japan ever since V-J day. When we finally got to stop for a while we found ourselves in Japan's big naval base of Yokosuka.

The next day we got the job of clearing the harbour of Japanese ships so our ships could get in. The floating ships, we moved to isolated places and the sunken ones were cut up and raised by our divers or at least parts of them were removed from the main channels. This work went on for about three or four days until we got orders to go to sea with the U. S. S. Boston, three destroyers and an A.P.D.

At Jap Suicide Bases
Our job this time was to go to isolated bays, harbours and small islands where the Japs had suicide bases and to disarm them and to destroy or sink all weapons and suicide craft. The suicide craft were mostly small speed boats about twenty feet long with an explosive in the bow, and two-man submarines.

For the next month we went to General Quarters (Battle Station).

Cox, state health officer, has issued an appeal to high school girls to consider nursing as a profession, and the league of nursing has issued a similar appeal.

The educational, recreational and living facilities of student nurses is the highest since the beginning of the profession, yet there still remains a dearth of applicants, the league officials declare.

A number of the nursing schools have changed their opening dates from September 1 to September 15, and to October 1, in an effort to await a possible enrollment increase by virtue of a publicity campaign.

THAT'S YOU, MRS. HOUSEWIFE!

In an average household there are six tons of dishes washed every year! To get enough soap for this staggering task, save every drop of used cooking fat. Turn it over to the meat dealer for four cents per pound so that industry can turn back to you the soap you need.

tions) almost every morning. We never stayed around one of those jap bases at night, because a bunch of hopped-up Japs with Hari Kari intentions and a few tons of explosives hidden away in caves, etc., are not exactly healthy; so we preferred to spend the night at sea. If we did not finish our bomb disposal job one day we would go back the next and clean up.

I was sent on a couple of working parties on our 'D' Days or landings. At that stage of the game the Japs didn't seem any too happy to see us, nearly everyone hid from us and watched from behind something, the streets were usually deserted by the population when they saw us coming. The few Japs we did see on the streets were eager to please us and all we had to do to get something done was to pat a gun butt and point, then they really moved.

Good Equipment Destroyed
We visited and held field day on about eleven different bases and we were credited with destroying and sinking about 30 two-man submarines and 60 or more suicide boats of different sizes, we really destroyed some good equipment, but the job had to be done.

When we got through sinking all the weapons we could find we went back to our old job of raising the sunken Japanese ships from the bottom of Tokyo Bay in the Yokosuka area.

About all the Japs had left for a navy here were over a hundred small ships and boats and almost all of them were on the bottom. Our divers have raised quite a few of them but we, or someone, has another nine months work ahead if they want them all moved, so unless we get relieved of our present duty, the Mighty (?) Molals (Knight's ship) will be here for quite sometime . . .

So there it is, no excitement, and little adventure, dull don't you think? Well write soon, but please no more sea stories from me".

Ludwick Thompson, tenant farmer, followed 25 acres of winter peas with cotton. In the same field on similar soil he had an additional 53 acres of cotton. Cotton on pea land produced 537 acres of lint per acre as compared with 267 pounds of lint cotton where no peas had been planted.

Social Security Benefits Earmarked For Vets Survivors

Many survivors of World War II veterans who have died since leaving the service may receive monthly benefits under the Social Security Act Amendments of 1946, Elliott W. Adams, manager of the Lubbock Social Security Administration field office has announced.

The survivors may receive the benefits if the veteran has died within three years of his discharge, and if the survivors are not qualified to receive compensation or pensions from the Veterans Administration. National Service Life Insurance is not considered compensation or a pension, Adams said.

Benefits will be made to the survivors retroactive to the death of the veteran if his death occurred before the enactment of the bill. Benefit claims must be filed before February 10, 1947, Adams declared. Persons already receiving such benefits under the old provision, may receive greater compensation under the new law, according to Adams.

No one has yet found a more profitable crop for the South, than cotton.

Cotton is too valuable, too versatile as fiber and cellulose, too essential as a source of food oil and protein-feed, too pliable in the chemurgists hands, to yield its place to competing newcomers.

Nursing Schools Delay Opening In Recruiting Effort

Because of a nurse shortage, more than one-fifth of the nation's hospital beds have been closed and nursing schools are delaying the opening of their semesters in an effort to obtain more students.

Student nurse enrollment in the nation's 37 accredited nursing schools for this year have totaled only 300. In 1945, only 1,137 nurses enrolled.

Officials of the Texas League of Nursing Education declared that the slump in nurse enrollment has come at a time when an increase in population has brought about some diseases to epidemic proportions.

The House That Jack Built

This is the house that Jack built.
This is the wife that keeps house in the house that Jack built.
This is the washer that does the wash that helps the wife keep house in the house that Jack built.
This is the iron that irons the wash the washer washed, that helps the wife keep house in the house that Jack built.
This is the wire that carries the power that heats the iron, and turns the washer that does the wash, that helps the wife keep house in the house that Jack built.

THIS is the story of better living—of electric living—in Jack's house. The tale could go on endlessly. For electricity is a servant of many talents, of which washing and ironing are but two.

The electric power that helps Jack's wife is always ready, dependable, available in any quantity at any time. And Jack doesn't need much jack to pay the bill.

This is the company that strings the wires and makes the power that gives the jacks—and countless families like them—all the comforts and convenience of electric living.

Our job this time was to go to isolated bays, harbours and small islands where the Japs had suicide bases and to disarm them and to destroy or sink all weapons and suicide craft. The suicide craft were mostly small speed boats about twenty feet long with an explosive in the bow, and two-man submarines.

For the next month we went to General Quarters (Battle Station).

Cox, state health officer, has issued an appeal to high school girls to consider nursing as a profession, and the league of nursing has issued a similar appeal.

The educational, recreational and living facilities of student nurses is the highest since the beginning of the profession, yet there still remains a dearth of applicants, the league officials declare.

A number of the nursing schools have changed their opening dates from September 1 to September 15, and to October 1, in an effort to await a possible enrollment increase by virtue of a publicity campaign.

Hostess Hints

Would your children like Velvet Soup? Dilute condensed chicken noodle soup with water and condensed cream of mushroom soup with milk. Combine and savor its lip-smacking goodness.

Need a novelty dessert? Use Dutch process cocoa in waffle batter. Bake. Serve with scoop of vanilla ice cream. Lily-gild with chocolate sauce.

Brace yourself for a possible two-year sugar shortage: use raisins to sweeten instead. Add finely chopped or ground raisins to waffles, pancake batter, or cookies, cakes, or frostings.

Friday's fish loaf gets extra savor and a crunchy texture that is pleasing when India relish is added to the salmon mixture before baking. The fresh raw vegetable habit is good to cultivate. Cut strips of carrot, green pepper, cabbage, turnip. Serve as salad or appetizer with dunking sauce in lettuce: 1 cup mayonnaise, 1/4 cup tomato ketchup, 2 tablespoons evaporated horseradish, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce.

Green beans make a main-dish on toast, topped with rarebit. Melt over low heat 1 tablespoon butter, 1/2 cups finely diced American cheese. Add 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon prepared yellow mustard, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1/4 teaspoon red pepper sauce. Add, stirring constantly 1/4 cup milk. Remove from fire, then beat in 1 well beaten egg.

Potatoes need promoting? Give them novel flavor, increased food value; serve scalloped with condensed cream of mushroom soup as sauce.

Rousing new flavor makes veal out-lets a sensation. Rub mixture of prepared mustard, salt, pepper, into meat. Dip in egg-and-water, then bread crumbs. Fry in hot fat.

Reconstitute condensed cream of mushroom soup; thicken like white sauce. In baking pan arrange alternate layers cooked asparagus, sliced hard cooked eggs, sauce. Bake until heated. Serve on toast.

Tomato soup takes on extra bulk, gains nutritional glory when combined whole kernel corn, green beans or peas, and noodles are added to the pot. Uses up end-of-the-season stock.

In baking pan place layers browned sausage meat, cooked rice, sprinkling each with rehydrated dried onions, minced. Pour on condensed cream of tomato soup doubled with milk; add sprinkling of ground cheese. Bake.

Save and Share

The President's plea for food-thrift at home to save the starving overseas can be met by you this way.

Use up every crumb of bread; don't throw away those last dried slices; don't let mold waste that final third-of-the-loaf. Convert leftover bread into puddings and brown betty's. Apples, seedless raisins, and dry bread cubes make a family favorite baked with seasonings and spice. Budget-thrifty, too.

Crumbs are the housewife's hand-iest helper. Dry out stale bread in slow oven till crisp. Crush with rolling pin. Store in capped-jars or covered box kept near heat. Useful in making stuffings... crisp coatings for foods to be pan-fried... extenders for hash, croquettes, meat loaf, hamburgers, puddings... topping on macaroni-and-cheese.

Stretching the wheat supply to feed the famished means cutting down on those trips to the flour bin at home. Here are some substitute-suggestions that will save wheat, still serve the family sumptuously: Banish wheat cakes from week-end breakfasts. Restore American buckwheat cakes to their former table-glory. Lather in maple syrup, serve with sausage, and you'll rediscover a pioneer flavor favorite.

Corn bread is an old timer due to rise in favor. You can make it the frontier way without flour. Comes out in a thin flat cake, all crust, crackle, and crunch. Wonderful with ham and boiled cabbage, or served with condensed cream of tomato soup sauce as a meat substitute dish. Remember corn bread's cousins: corn pone, southern spoon bread, corn crisps. They can all take the place of bread, need use no flour, go easy on shortening.

There are other ways to bake than using wheat flour: Rye meal, bran flakes, graham flour, and cereals have their points, are worth looking into now. You can make graham muffins, bran muffins, rye muffins, all without excessive use of flour. Rolled oats make excellent hot breads; hominy gems are an old-time favorite.

The whole family of steamed breads is due for a revival. Boston brown bread, made of rye meal, corn meal, and whole wheat flour is bonanza for beginning-bakers, takes more time than talent.

New England brown bread will stage a toothsome comeback. Stale bread cubes make up the bulk of this, with rye, corn meal and whole wheat added for good measure. Molasses gives this class of breads their sweetness. Raisins go here, too. They're also in line with the fat-saving order; for no shortening is needed.

School Increase . . .

The new lunchroom equipment has won the approval of the student body and the officials alike. By virtue of the type of meals now being produced, approximately twice as many students are eating in the lunchroom as there were last year, school officials reported.

Also, the new sound motion picture projector, which may be used for a public address and record playing system, has been tabbed for use in the coming football games and other social functions.

Two film contracts, one with Abilene Christian College and the other with Texas Tech, were completed this week with an eye toward obtaining educational films.
