TRAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR

Melancholy days, fraught with the sighing winds, the flight of restless birds and the cool, pale hands of twilight, have fallen upon the contrite summer. A region of flutters to the earth, the strong perfume of sage and the white flesh of dawn. Autumn's lips are cool, serene and soft, like the kiss of a timid lover.

Conventions are so much a part of our thoughts and deeds that to depart from them seems to border on sacrilege. Altho I am at a loss to base the attitude with any degree of conviction, I have often felt that eating should be done in private.

Some men burn their bridges after they have crossed a stream of uncertainty, then become alarmed and swim back.

The Republicans are to be commended for an outstanding decision which is so obvious that it may escape unnoticed. They are applying the advice: "If you can't whip 'em, join 'em."

Most of our lives is secret. We conceal our thoughts and often keep our deeds away from public inquisitiveness. Some times it is because the deeds are dark but more frequently because they are trivial. Extremely sensitive about my freckles as a youth, I once read that applications of buttermilk would effect a cure. Throughout the months of long, hot summer I willingly carried will to the bags I would hide in the barn and bathe my face in the liquid, then wait for it to dry, then I would go to the water trough and wash away the traces. The bags would later receive the milk they alone benefitted from it.

Marriage is a kind of lottery in which you do not always win even though you take a prize.

Death was in the little lean-to room like the acrid smoke of needless lightning. A plain metal bedstead on two cane-bottom chairs that moved slightly as neighbors passed and tread the thin, worn flooring. There were no flowers; instead the firm clasp of coarse, toll-worn hands and the sympathy of silent lips. Many things were as she had left them in the small room, like the faded calico curtains on either side of the window that rattled from the slightest wind. The oil-cloth shed pasted to rough boards on the table was beginning to chap and peel, but there was a little dignity in its whiteness. Extremely fair and wan the woman seemed asleep, but the slender hands did not move from her breast at the sound of a tiny baby crying. The room was very still except for the choked sobbing of a neighbor who held the child in her arms.

Times does not pass. Instead it is a row of golden pickets beside the road leading to eternity. Each picket is a second that is reduced to dust after it is shaded by our passing shadows.

Betrothal Is Told At Morning Coffee

Engagement and forthcoming marriage of Miss Sarah Frances Springer to Sgt. Gustav G. Waldov of Tennesse New Jersey, was announced at a coffee in the home of the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Springer, Wednesday, Sept. 10, from 10 to 12 a.m.

The betrothal and date for the wedding was revealed in an inscription, "Sarah and Gus, November 27," written in turquoise on the hutch mirror above the refreshment table.

Turquoise and white, chosen colors of the bride-elect, were used in table appointments and decorations. The table was laid with a cover of turquoise net gathered in a flounce around the edge, over white taffeta, and centered with an arrangement of greenery, and white mums sprayed in turquoise, in a crystal bowl. White napkins, inscribed in silver with the couple's names and the wedding date, and white cake squares decorated in turquoise-shaded flowers, completed the decorative note.

Mrs. Billy Dan Thomas poured from the silver service. Musical selections were played during the morning by Miss Patti Pipkin, and other schoolmates of Miss Springer, and their mothers were registered in the guest book by Mrs. Bate-man Middlebrook. They included Mesdames Don Wason, Preston Spray, Joe Bloodworth, Billy Wason, Vernon Brogdon, Calvin Monk, Gerald Waybourn, and W. N. Pipkin, and Miss Rosemary Bloodworth. Pied Pipers BY MRS. M.

We hate to have to admit our mistakes, but when they confront us in black and white, we have no alternative. Edith Sanders still lives in Lubbock, despite the fact we said in last week's Tribune that she was here from Amarillo. What puzzles us most is why we wrote it that way, and then didn't discover our error in proof-reading.

Everytime we use the word "hospitalities" in a shower or tea write-up, we have a secret fear that it will come out in print as "hostilities".

When we visited Dow Chemical company's plant at Freeport during the Texas Press Association meeting held at Houston in June, we were requested to write our name and address on a card provided for that purpose and officials explained that we would later receive a memento.

Last week the gift arrived a pair of shakers containing Dow Sea Salt. Clever little sea horses decorated the shakers. The company does not produce the salt commercially and have no plans for doing so, according to Mr. William W. Boddie, Director of Public Relations.

The salt contains virtually all of the minerals in seawater and is somewhat less "salty" than table salt for that reason.

The Dow Company had on display at Jackson Lake, where they served us a barbecue supper, a large quantity of articles made from by-products which they produce from seawater, salt, natural gas and oyster shells.

Caustic soda, produced by Dow is used in these articles, which were displayed: Humble Oil cleaning fluids, Motor oil, DuPont cellophane, canned meats, phonograph records, Drano, Procter & Gamble soap, Springmaid sheets, Cannon Mills towels, Crisco, Petroleum jelly, Orion articles, Clorox, Purex, nylon stockings, sodium orthosilicates, detergent, Colgate, etc.; Del Monte peaches and auto tires.

In the "Glycols" group were: Dacron clothing, DuPont Zerex, condenser insulation, D. S. C. anti-freeze, Dick Mimeograph ink, Pittsburg Plate Glass binding sheets, Cannon Mills paper, Lucky Strike, Old Gold and Phillip Morris cigarettes; Adams vanilla extract, Listerine tooth paste, Wrigley's wrappers, lipstick, printing ink, lotions, hand cream, pharmaceuticals, cellophane and Chux.

The "Magnesium" display included: Jet engine castings, Magnesium Anodes, aluminum foil, fertilizer, oxyment flooring, chain saw, magnesium ladder, carpenter's level, steering wheel, aircraft tail wheel, Tide, Lux, Camay, Ivory.

Samples of these were in the "Chlorinated Solvents": Carbon Tetrachloride, refrigerants, freon, penicillin, cortisone, streptomycin.

objects, tetraethyl lead, Eastman Kodak film, Perklor drum, Dow Corning Silicoes, Butyl tires, Anaco Camera film, paint resin, chloroform lozenges, styron movers, Perchloroethylene cleaning fluid, Cook Paint & Varnish Co. thinner, Christmas tree bubble lights.

Plastics included just about everything: Super Kem tone, Weingarten's non-skid rugs, linoleum, styrofoam, synthetic rubber, Spred-Satin, non-breakable phonograph records, saran articles, saran rope, saran film for food packages, Anaco Rediflex Camera, KO cookie cutter, kitchen scale, compartment tray, cup and saucer, Blixolite blocks, plastic file, plastic envelopes, styron ukelele, Crosby Shelvador, Dow Corning Grippmitts, Vinyl venetian blind tapes, plastic glasses, Sight Savers, poker chips, colored trays, napkin dispenser, canister sets, plastic dishes, Dazey ice crusher, watering can, Ethocel sheeting and nursery plaques.

Just about everything AND the kitchen sink! And we're still enjoying the set of plastic picnic plates we brought home from the barbecue.

Flomot Party For Teachers Is Gala Affair With Large Number Attending

The "Meet the teachers" party held Monday evening, Sept. 8 in the High school gym was a gala affair with more than a hundred and twenty-five persons attending.

Most of the crowd had assembled by 7:30, with most of the women taking seats on the south side of the gym and the men on the opposite side. The program opened with the singing of "The Eyes of Texas", led by the Flomot High School girls chorus, which was followed by an instrumental solo by Max Crowell. Rev. L. W. Baker gave a devotional on "Cooperation" and offered the invocation. Greetings were brought by Sam Ross, president of the school board, and the welcome was extended by Mrs. L. B. Turner, president of the Flomot Home Demonstration club. Supt. Louis

Purvis gave the response and introduced the teachers.

A judging team was then selected and a spelling bee held. Contestants were the men and the girls' chorus against the women. Fifty-six took part in the spelling bee, after which a children's game of "How's your blood pressure?" was played.

Each family brought sandwiches, which were served with iced punch and coffee during the get-acquainted hour.

Concluding the program was a hymn by the girls chorus, and a prayer in song by Wilburn Martin, with Rev. A. L. Eubank pronouncing the benediction.

Faculty Members

Following faculty members were introduced at the party: Louis Purvis, O'Donnell, Superintendent and coach; and math teacher, Mrs. Louis Purvis, Homemaking, Dee Daniels, 5th and 8th grades, and bus driver, Mrs. Dee Daniels, 3rd and 4th grades; J. W. McGraw, 7th and 8th grades; Mrs. Andre Alexander, Canyon, English; Miss Delores Poyer, Stratford, first and second grades; Wilburn Martin, Flomot, commercial subjects, and girls coach.

How to Watch Football Games Explained by Famous Coaches

Watch the blocks and the actions of the kick-coverers if you want to appreciate the kick-off. Diagram from "How to Watch Football."

Do you know what to watch for at the kick-off in a football game? Do you know where to look for exciting action on a pass play? Do you know a T-formation from a Split-T?

To get enjoyment out of a football game, you needn't know how to play, but you ought to know what to watch for. That's the consensus of eleven famous football coaches who have combined to write a new 48-page illustrated booklet on the fine points of being a football spectator.

Entitled "How to Watch Football", it is authored by top-flight mentors of the Big Ten and Big Seven conferences and carries the endorsement of The American Football Coaches Association. The booklet may be obtained free of charge from Phillips 66 Dealers in this area.

Ray Eliot, head football coach at the University of Illinois advises, "Don't keep your eye on the ball," if you want to appreciate football's most spectacular play—the kick-off. Instead, watch how the receiving team forms interference. Watch how the kick-coverers counteract the interference. The flight of the ball is the least important part of the action.

Equally sage advice on how to enjoy the game comes from Bud Wilkinson of Oklahoma, Don Faurot of Missouri, Benny Oosterbaan of Michigan and Forest Evashevski of Iowa. Each contributes a short informative article on some phase of offensive strategy.

Jules Sikes of Kansas and Stu Holcomb of Purdue tell what to look for on a pass play. The role of the flanker is described by Bill Glasford of Nebraska. Wesley Fesler of Minnesota, explains punting, while Bob Voigts of Northwestern and Ivy Williamson of Wisconsin talk about defense.

If you want to be able to "expert" the games this fall, "How to Watch Football" will give you the background you need in addition to articles by the coaches; the booklet contains schedules of the leading college and professional teams as well as a key to the understanding of officials' signals and a summary of penalties.

ROARING SPRINGS RESIDENTS MAKE INTERESTING TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. King last month returned to their home in Roaring Springs after an interesting trip through the south, which began at Angleton, Texas, where they visited a former schoolteacher of Mr. King's, Mr. Clyde Kendall, who is also a veteran newspaperman, and was editor of The Matador (or Texas) Maverick, from about 1900 until 1904, or later. He recently retired from newspaper work after publishing the paper at Angleton for a number of years.

Other points of interest visited by the Kings included Pensacola, Florida, Biloxi, Miss., Mobile, Ala., and in Tennessee they visited relatives at Paris. Returning by Oklahoma, they visited at Wilburton with Mr. King's daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Swim.

Church Pastors Speak In Chapel

Several pastors of Matador churches were guests speakers at the first chapel program and football pep rally of the year, held by the Matador schools Friday, Sept. 12, at 9 a. m. Superintendent Bert Ezze'll acted as master of ceremonies. Rev. G. R. Underwood gave the invocation. Mr. Ezze'll introduced the school faculty, then presented the four guest speakers for the program, who were, Rev. G. R. Underwood, pastor of the Assembly of God Church; Rev. Marvin Brotherton, Methodist pastor; Rev. Keith McCormick, Baptist pastor, and Minister J. B. Tidmore, Church of Christ pastor. Each speaker gave a short talk in which he extended an invitation to the students to attend his services. Next we started our first pep rally of the football season with a speech by Coach Hopkins. The Pep Squad then gave a few yells and called on the football captains, Dewayne Martin, Billy Jack Spray and Neal Pipkin, to give speeches. Everyone sang the Matador Victory Song, after we were dismissed by Rev. McCormick.

Frances Traweck Is Pep Squad Head

The M. H. S. Pep Squad has been organized for this season. Frances Traweck, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. C. Traweck, is head cheerleader, assisted by Marlene Bailey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Welton Bailey, and Wanda McMahan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George McMahan. Nancy Vaughn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Vaughn, is majorette for the marching exhibitions.

During the summer, Frances Traweck, head leader, attended a school for cheerleaders at S. M. U. in Dallas. It was attended by ninety-five students from all over Texas. Frances brought back some new yells and songs, which will help our pep squad.

Officers elected for the pep squad are: Frances Traweck, president; Marlene Bailey, secretary; Bette Montgomery, social chairman and Carol Gordon, reporter. Mrs. Quinn Martin is

The leaders' uniforms are red corduroy skirts and white turtle neck sweaters with a red and black "M" on the front and a chenille figure of a "Matador" on the back. Miss Vaughn's uniform is a short, black corduroy skirt with a red turtle neck sweater. The girls will wear black corduroy skirts with red turtle neck sweaters.

The pep squad sponsored a Bake Sale Saturday, Sept. 6, and we wish to take this chance to thank everyone who helped us.

A new concession stand has been built at the football field. The pep squad girls will be in charge of this.

We sincerely hope you will all come out and help support our football players. Be sure to attend all the home games and ones out-of-town, if possible.

Future Homemakers Begin Class Work

Homemaking classes have begun, but no cooking has been done yet. With no rain and Texas wind, quite a bit of kitchen cleaning had to be done. The lab now shines with new white shades and crisply starched curtains to give it a more inviting atmosphere.

At the present, the homemaking class is figuring how to live on an income of eighteen hundred dollars to thirty-six hundred dollars. The classes are also giving reports on physical handicaps, feeble-mindedness, and nervous disorders. The Freshman are reading thermometers and will soon learn to care for sick persons.

Another New Ring Is Flashed Around

The Seniors not only received their class rings this week, but we also hear that Mr. Word received his Senior ring from Southwestern University the same day the Matador Seniors received theirs.

We haven't heard him say, but you know he's one proud person. Who wouldn't be? It sure is pretty and anybody would be proud to wear one just like it.

Girls To Attend Annual Convention

Frances Traweck, editor, and Marlene Bailey, business manager of the La Arena are going to the Steck Plains-Panhandle Yearbook Clinic. The Clinic will be held in the Hilton Hotel, Plainview, Texas, on Saturday, October 11.

At this meeting staff members and sponsors of annuals of the Texas Plains and Panhandle will get together for discussion, acquiring new ideas, see the latest trends in annuals, and entertainment, which is furnished by high school talent in this area.

Grade School Has Three New Teachers

The new teachers of the Elementary school this year are: Mrs. John Hamilton, second grade; Mrs. Ethel Damron, sixth grade; and Mrs. Jake Edwards, eighth grade.

Mrs. John Hamilton received her degree at T.S.C.W. at Denton. She has taught one school term in Matador grade school, which was 1949-50. She has a family of three boys and one girl and has lived in Matador all her life.

Mrs. Ethel Damron majored in Inter. Education and received her degree at W.T.S.C. at Canyon. Her previous teaching was at Flomot and Quitaque. She has two girls and has lived in Matador for thirteen years.

Mrs. Jake Edwards received her B.A. degree at T.S.C.W. and her M.A. at W.T.S.C. at Canyon. She has formerly taught at Tyler, Port Arthur and Matador. Her favorite subject is math, which she majored in at Denton. Mrs. Edwards has one boy and one girl.

Dinner Given For Trustees; Faculty

The regular annual dinner for the trustees and faculty was held at the luncheon Sept. 9, at seven-thirty.

All teachers were present and Dr. Stanley gave a brief discussion on the trustees' responsibilities to the teachers and public. Mr. Fair gave his interpretation of The Code of Ethics drawn up by some of the teachers.

The dinner consisted of Fried chicken and gravy, mashed potatoes, lettuce and tomato salad and hot rolls. There were coffee and tea to drink and ice cream for dessert.

High School Has Four New Members

Matador High School has four new students this year. They are: Carolyn Sue Tidmore, Robert Bune, Raye Nell Tanner and Reba Faye Bain.

Carolyn is a Sophomore and attended school last year at Canton. We are proud of the way Carolyn has entered in the school activities and has gotten along with the students of M. H. S. Her favorite subject is physical education and favorite pastime is going. She is five feet and three inches tall and is fifteen years old. Robert comes to Matador from Grand Prairie High school. He is seventeen years old and a Junior. Robert is very well liked by the student body.

Reba Faye doesn't seem like a new student to most of us, because she has attended Matador school before. She last attended Northfield school and like most Northfield kids she is well liked. Reba's favorite subject is typing and her favorite pastime is basketball.

Raye Nell Tanner comes to Matador from Flomot. She is fifteen and in the tenth grade. Raye Nell is liked by everyone and she has entered into all the school activities, which we are glad to say. Her favorite subject is English.

The Junior class received their Junior pins Tuesday, Sept. 9. The pins are gold with the letter "M" and High School on them. The person's initials are engraved on each side of the pins.

OLD TRIBUNE ISSUES AVAILABLE TO READERS

The Tribune is cleaning house and has a large stack of back issues which readers may have by coming by and picking them up. In re-arranging our files, we have accumulated a large quantity of newspapers for the years 1947 up to the present, which will be destroyed if not called for.

As we continue the work of clearing up our files, there will be extra issues of years previous to 1947, which will also be available at a later date.

Our space is limited, and we do not have room to keep these extra issues for very long. If there are any old or back issues which you wish, please come in at once and pick them out. Friday and Saturday will be the most convenient time for us.
