TRAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR

West Texas has a special meaning for speeding motorists. It is a busy intersection.

Consequence of a lie comes in the explosion of a plane making the sound barrier when character is going through some special kind of test.

A poor sport is a member of an audience who starts laughing when you are half-way through your story, merely because he has already heard it.

Decision is so closely related to deliberation that it requires lifetime to look back and assure the effects.

It is easier to be gracious in the beginning than to apologize later, but the sharp flavor of sarcasm is not there.

Women are creatures of sentiment, who sift flecks of gold dust from life's coarse sand and prefer a little praise to expensive baubles. They know the rich stores of love and manage to encompass the past, present and future in their eyes when they hold a baby in their arms.

Dictators have needed an extended course in training to learn that a man will not willingly fight for a country that has denied him liberty.

Hospital Election Date Is Scheduled

THE SIGNATURE of Gov. John Connally on House Bill No. 227 has made it possible for Motley County voters to determine whether or not they want a hospital district. Since the bill passed both Houses of the Legislature with 2/3 majority, the law went into immediate effect.

County Judge Elbert Reeves talked with State Representative Bill Healy in Austin late Tuesday, and learned that the bill had been signed by the Governor. Judge Reeves said the Commissioners Court will appoint a County Hospital Board. This board will be authorized to proceed to make plans for a hospital building, and to set a date for voting bonds needed in financing.

No Funds Received For Youth Program

ONLY THE MONEY is needed for Motley County's government sponsored Neighborhood Youth Program which was scheduled to start last Monday morning. A good turnout of young people were present in the District Courtroom, when Judge Elbert Reeves announced that there would be a delay. No funds arrived for the program. A meeting in the District Courtroom Thursday night brought a large attendance of adult sponsors and others interested in the program. Outlines were planned to begin work Monday.

The program is for young people 16 through 21, to aid in training them for future employment. None of the young people will replace anyone currently employed, and college students can not qualify.

In Motley County 70 have registered for the opportunity program. Cities, counties and schools alone can qualify for training projects in this area.

Judge Reeves said a change required in the county's application may have been the cause of the delay in funds being received. He said, however, the project would get under way just as soon as the money arrives.

Shangri-La in Foothills was Location of Pioneer Motley Home

TIME and decay have been patient deep in a high-walled canyon in the Foothills. Only the walls remain of what was once a modern pioneer home beside Miller Creek on the late A. B. Echols purchased the land from Mr. Miller, remembers visiting the Miller girls, by walking over the high ridge from the south, or riding horseback.

Walls remain in Foothills Shangri-La that was home of the pioneer Miller family.

Seven of the Millers' 11 children were born in the two-room house, including Mrs. C. H. McCully of Spur. The house, built in about 1892, was in one of the most inaccessible areas of the Foothill country. Near the crumbling walls of the house are the rock ruins of what was a shelter for milk cows. John Miller selected the site as was common with pioneers, because of protection from the elements, and because it was less than 100 feet from a dependable source of water in the creek bed by Miller Springs a few hundred yards west.

High canyon walls were on three sides. There was ample wood to be had for the chopping. The place was not hard to reach by horseback, in a buggy, or with a wagon and team. It is difficult today. The old road is washed out and overgrown with mesquite. The walking is rough for more than half a mile.

Mrs. Birnie, whose father, the late A. B. Echols purchased the land from Mr. Miller, remembers visiting the Miller girls, by walking over the high ridge from the south, or riding horseback.

Old maps show that Mr. Miller owned several sections of land in the area, but that he built the rock home on a strip of "excess land" on which he filed. It is also probable that the strip of land was "excess" because surveyor did not want to compete with the rough terrain.

Mrs. McCully says: "One of my fondest recollections is the beautiful rocks and many formations. I have no memory of my mother's ever speaking of living elsewhere. I believe it was in September 1911 that we moved to Whiteflat so that we could go to school."

There had been a pioneer school much closer, 20 years before. Called Hide Bug, it was some distance south of a later school known as White Star. Mrs. Birnie remembers her father's telling about the mountain of buffalo at the location the first time he saw it. Great numbers of hide bugs remained for a long time after the buffalo hides were hauled away, hence the name for the pioneer school.

Surviving children of the Miller family, in addition to Mrs. McCully, are Fred Miller of Post, Mrs. J. H. Hardberger, Lubbock; Mrs. W. M. Young, Devol, Okla.; Mrs. L. A. Growdon, San Antonio; Harry Miller, Cleveland, Ohio; Mrs. J. H. Miles, Dallas, and Francis Miller, Cason, Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller are buried in Matador's East Mound Cemetery.

Earlier History
History of El Rincon country goes back further than pioneer families. It is extremely vague however. Old stories have been handed down by pioneers that Mexicans grazed sheep in the fertile valleys before the Indians were driven out. In many places along the deep canyons may be seen the remains of crude rock fences, where it is believed the Mexicans kept their sheep or horses. Old stories say the Mexicans were murdered by either Indians or outlaws. The Spanish term for the area (El Rincon) means "cozy corner or remote place." A corruption of the term through enunciation of the pioneers changed it to Rain Cone and in later years it was sometimes called Ring Cone. Early settlers used to say if rain fell anywhere in the Foothills, it would be in this area.

Voices and laughter of children have been gone many years now from the crumbling ruins of a pioneer home. Nothing remains of the once abundant orchard to the west of the house. The creek whispers during the night while pack rats have prepared a long unlighted

Good insect control means healthier and more productive gardens. L-642, Control of Insects in the Home Garden is available for those wishing a copy.

Topics covered include the groups of insects which normally cause trouble, these being those with sucking mouth parts; those with chewing mouth parts; and those which live in the soil. Each group requires a different control method, and often a different insecticide.

Tables are included in the publication showing the amount of insecticide needed to make even a small amount of spray. Safety precautions are also listed. If insects are your garden problem, this publication will eliminate insect problems, if followed correctly.

Those having trouble with blossom-end-rot on tomatoes can stop this problem with a small application of calcium chloride. Blossom-end-rot appears as dark, sunken, leathery spots on the blossom-end of green tomatoes. The first symptom is a slightly sunken, water-soaked spot.

Although nothing can be done for affected tomatoes, an application of calcium chloride will usually stop the problem in later-developing fruit. On sandy soils, apply one heaping tablespoon of calcium chloride in a two-foot diameter around each plant and then wetting this with about one gallon of water to leach the material into the root zone. For heavier soils, dig a trench around the plant, put material and water in trench, then cover.

Blossom-end-rot usually occurs in plants that are about 1/3 to 1/2 grown, showing up after periods of dry weather or prolonged dry winds, or after excessive rainfall. Lack of calcium that is usable by the plant is the cause of the trouble, therefore the reason for applying calcium chloride to the soil.

Boll weevils have been found in Motley County. Cotton farmers are urged to keep a close watch on their fields for these emerging overwintered weevils, as spot controls may and can if applied correctly, prevent weevils from spreading over the entire field.

AUSTIN, Tex.—A total of 33 interim study committees were created during the recent legislative session.

Meetings of these committees will bring most of the legislators back to Austin during the next 18 months.

Studies will cover a wide area, ranging from state and local tax policy to such subjects as livestock auctions and restorations of Santa Anna's battle flag.

All but three of the legislators who are appointed to the interim panels will be eligible to draw travel expenses to and from meetings. In addition, some study panels are furnished staff funds.

Some committees will delve into election laws, juvenile crime, rights of news media in reporting on persons charged with crime, liquor laws, the nursing profession, problems of farmers and ranchers, feasibility of a Pleasure Island State Park, public education, facilities for the criminally insane, and need for modernizing state fair facilities.

INTEGRATION QUICKENS—School systems are integrating faster under threat of lost federal aid, Texas Education Agency reports.

To be eligible for shares of $80,000,000 in federal aid under the 1965 civil rights act, districts must give assurances of having plans for integration. Total integration isn't required until September, 1967.

A TEA official says 1,150 districts have signed promises to comply with civil rights act, and 125 more have filed plans for future racial desegregation.

SEISMOGRAPH CRISIS — Land commissioner Jerry Sadler has cancelled all outstanding seismograph permits in coastal waters and called in oil and seismograph representatives to review the rules.

He also issued further revisions of the rules, knocking off the delay to June 21 for all explosives to be permanently marked, and announced that new permits would be issued only to companies which are marking their explosives.

Sadler's action came after another rash of seismograph explosives washed in on Gulf beaches, mainly in the Sabine Pass area. Earlier washing ashore had been in the Corpus Christi region, where about 50 were found along beaches.

LIONS AND CATTLE — A possible outbreak of Q fever has been averted by an alert Dallas veterinarian, U. S. Department of Agriculture animal diseases eradication officials say. A Nubian lion imported to the Dallas zoo was found by Dr. Jack M. Brundrett to be carrying a Hemaphysalis leachi tick which carries the dread disease, as well as typhus fever.

During May, back tags were applied to 86,294 animals, providing information by which brucellosis can be traced back to the farm where the cattle originated.

Testing at auction markets reached 25,217 head of cattle of which 688 were reactors. Slaughter establishments found 730 reactors among 24,080 bag-tagged animals which reached the federal, municipal and state inspected establishments.

★ 'Accent on Health'

By Texas State Department of Health

Are you safe at home? Hardly. You're safer at a nuclear reactor site than you are in your own home, according to statistics. The nuclear industry has one of the best safety records on the books, less than ten deaths in twenty years.

Accidents in the home and on the way there are, on the other hand, among the leading killers of people. Motor vehicle accidents, falls, fires and similar accidents account for nearly 6,000 deaths yearly in Texas, and over 90,000 deaths in the nation.

An industrial hygienist commented recently that a worker's chances of accidental injury increased when he left his place of work. One study found seven off-the-job accidents causing absenteeism for every one happening on the job.

Every four minutes someone is permanently disabled, and every 16 minutes someone is killed by an accident in the home.

Falls account for most fatal home accidents. Next in order of frequency are burns, scalds, explosions, mechanical suffocation, poisonings, gas and firearms.

The only way to avoid accidents is to prevent them with forethought, planning ahead - simply using your head.

No one is immune to falls, burns, cuts or other similar injuries. If you step on a chair to get dishes out of a top cabinet or change a light bulb, your chances for a fall are considerably higher than had you used a sturdy step-ladder.

Taking a chance on straining gas on a smoldering fire one more time, or attempting to adjust power equipment while the motor is running aren't even "calculated risks." They are just chances unnecessarily taken.

And, among children and youth, accidents are the leading killer. As adults, it is our responsibility to protect a baby of age, and then begin to train a child - slowly but surely - to avoid accidents and to protect himself.

Give a little time and thought to making you and your family safe at home.

New Caparol controls weeds in cotton at layby without residue problems in crops planted next spring.

You can spray new Caparol* at layby for control of most annual broadleaf weeds and grasses, without fear of a soil residue carryover to harm crops planted in the spring of 1966. Just apply Caparol after your cotton is up six inches or more and before weeds are two inches high.

Spraying Caparol at layby will give you control until your cotton is up high enough to shade out any weeds that may germinate late in the summer. You can even apply Caparol where other herbicides have already been used and you find weeds breaking through.

Caparol is easy to handle and apply. Just direct the spray at the base of the cotton plants. You'll get quick knockdown of the young weeds and grasses. Then the action of Caparol continues to control weeds and grasses through the roots as they germinate for the next several weeks.

With Caparol on the job, you won't have weeds to compete for moisture and plant food. And you won't have rank weeds to foul up harvesting... to stain and downgrade lint.

So plan now to use Caparol at layby. It's available through your local supplier.

HUMAN TELEPHONE WORKS

Have you ever taken a tour of your local telephone company office? If not, it would be well worth your while to see the intricate workings of all the switches and connections developed just so you can communicate to other persons near and far. While on this tour, ask the man what would happen if some of these switches were shortened out or a bank of connections quit working.

We each have a similar "human telephone" in our body. The brain is the switchboard while the spinal cord and nerves are the wires connecting all parts of your body to the brain. What do you think happens when a nerve becomes pinched. Of course, wherever that nerve supplies, there is a lack of communication between that part and your brain. That part then does not work properly.

Just as your telephone man traces out your phone circuit, your chiropractor traces out your nerve circuit. When the "short" is found, it is corrected. Your telephone and your health is restored.

A baby of 6 months was brought to us with nasal congestion, couldn't drink cows milk without breaking out in a rash and was constipated. After proper spinal examination adjustments were begun. This baby was put on cows milk 48 hours after first adjustment, and within 2 weeks his nose and bowels cleared up.

Does a nerve interference interfere with your health? You be the judge.
