PRICE SEVEN CENTS

TRAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR

Love is a white cloud mountain in the sunlight, majestic splendor. It is might with torrents of rain, crashing hail and mad rivers of wind that destroy the fragile covenants lashed to splintering courage. It contains the thunder that causes creation to tremble and the torches of hot lightning spurting through the skies. Love is silence, water trickling in a cow trail, mesquite leaves dripping, a dove calling gently somewhere beyond the hill.

Weakness requires so little talent that the most obtuse become proficient without home study.

Ability receives many a credit that is clearly the fruit removed from the orchard of providence.

Given to question is the terrifying thought that necessity was the mother of the atomic bomb invention.

Long deliberation offers no assurance that it has not fostered a mistake.

Man's festering sore can be healed without leaving a scar, when the heart resolves always to give more than it receives.

A man may walk beneath his own shadow for so many years that he does not know which direction to turn to walk toward the sun.

The man who used to always carry a few dollars in his pocket now has some green paper of the same dimensions.

Floydada Couple Receive National Awards Citation

A Floydada couple, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Willson, last week received special Freedom Leadership awards from the Freedom Foundation in ceremonies at Valley Forge Military Academy, Pa. They were selected for the accolade as result of a series of 20 lectureships sponsored by them in 18 colleges in the southwest. They were invited to the ceremonies by W. C. Sawyer, vice president in the Foundation for the awards Administration. They left by plane last week to receive the awards personally.

Also cited for special awards were Dave Garroway and Arthur Godfrey of TV fame, Frank Taylor, Elkins Park, Pa., Frank Tait, Dayton, O., and Paul E. Terry, San Diego, Calif.

Retired Adm. Arthur W. Radford, former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff presented the awards at a site not far from the historic field where Washington's tattered Continental Army spent the bitter winter of 1777-78 during the war for independence.

The citations were made to persons the Foundation said who showed "resoluteness of personal faith and character, creativeness of mind and sacrifice of heart for the Republic."

The 20 lectureships established at 18 colleges by the Willsons include most of the institutions of higher learning in this area, but extend to other states including Oklahoma, Arkansas, Nebraska and Louisiana.

Mr. and Mrs. Willson are well known in Matador and the Foothill area. Mr. Willson is prominent throughout the South Plains and well known for his wide scope of civic work.

Plan 2 Elections Here For April

As an economy measure, a state and city election will be combined here April 4th when the city of Matador elects three councilmen and the state elects a Senator to fill the vacancy resulting from Lyndon B. Johnson's being elected Vice-president.

The senate race has grown out of shape with more than 40 candidates, including three women and may include more before the date for filing ends Friday.

Voters here, exercising their new poll taxes for the first time will ballot for council candidates at one station and for the senate vacancy at another station in the courthouse lobby.

It is possible that the city of Roaring Springs will also conduct the city election in combination with the senate race election, in order to save as much expense as possible.

LONG SILENCE—West Texas Gin manager Bonnie Keltz looks at the plant seed house being dismantled (in background; now completely removed) as work is started to move the gin to a new site on State Highway 70 about one mile northwest of town. Familiar musical hum will be silenced permanently when the final bale is ginned and the last gin in Matador is moved. From one to three gins have operated here for about 60 years. Miss Sue Glenn Is Hostess At Meeting Of El Progreso Study Club And Guests

The home of Misses Amy and Sue Glenn, was the scene of a memorable occasion, Thursday of last week when they were hostesses to the El Progreso Study Club on "Guest Day."

Mrs. G. E. Hamilton was leader of the program and welcomed the members and asked that each introduce her guest.

The president, Mrs. D. E. Pitts, introduced the honor guest, Mrs. Jimmie Willson Jr., of Floydada. She presented an interesting book review of "The Hidden Persuaders," by Vance Packard.

She quoted the author as saying that depth motivation is an advertising scheme, developed since World War II, the object of which is to sell products to the American public by appealing to the sub-conscious emotions that guide our buying choices.

Eye-opening revelations as to the real reasons for purchasing certain brands of autos, labor-saving devices, magazines, etc., were given by Mrs. Willson, particularly from the woman's viewpoint.

Does a woman buy more in a supermarket than a man? was one of the questions discussed, and the author revealed how the markets use color, taste, wide range of choice, and even position on the shelf, to sell food products.

"Depth motivation does not stop with influencing us to buy products we do not need," declared Mrs. Willson, "but it is also used in election campaigns in a way that makes us wonder if we really vote our honest convictions."

After welcoming the guests, the president also welcomed Mrs. M. S. Thacker back into club membership. Allegiance to the Flag was given by the group, and the year book committee announced that the next meeting would be a program on Youth, and that Mrs. R. W. Overstreet will be the hostess. Mrs. J. L. Woodruff gave the closing prayer, and at the conclusion of the program, Mrs. Pitts presented the guest of honor with a gift.

The tea committee, composed of Mesdames A. J. Daffern, Forrest Campbell, W. F. McCaghren and Elbert Reeves, served spiced tea, sandwiches, cookies, mints and nuts from a refreshment table centered with an arrangement of white chrysanthemums and greenery.

Mrs. Willson was accompanied from Floydada by Mesdames M. J. McNeill, David Battie, and Audrey Barnard. Other guests of club members included Mrs. Tom Yeates, Roaring Springs; Mrs. Vernard Alexander, Post; Rev. Mrs. Ruth Cooper, Whiteflat; Miss Verlin Reeves, and Mesdames Mike Hoyle, Algie Groves, Furman Vinson, Bundy Campbell, J. D. Mounts, W. W. PIED PINIONS

By Mrs. M.

Mrs. Roberta Paschel of Alamosa, Colo., heard the announcement of Mr. C. D. Bird's death over Amarillo radio station KGNC and came to attend the funeral. Her mother, the late Mrs. S. Williamson, early-day resident of Dickens County, was a long-time friend of the Bird family. Mrs. Williamson passed away last March 25, at the age of 90. Mrs. Paschel recalls that Mr. Bird, as an early-day cowboy on the Matador ranch was a frequent visitor in their home.

Mrs. Paschel says she listens to a number of Texas stations, including Lubbock, Sweetwater, San Angelo, Fort Worth, and Dallas and keeps up with news from this area.

Jerry (Mrs. Forrest Campbell) has a relative appearing on TV, in well-known programs. She is Suzi Carnell, whose mother, Mrs. Joe Carnell of Los Angeles is a niece of Jerry. Suzi appeared last week in "Wagon Train," and will soon be seen with Paladin in "Have Gun, Will Travel."

The former Marjorie Moore, Mrs. J. M. Harper of Lubbock has written a pageant, "From the Pages of the Past, the Pageant of the Flags," which will be presented this evening from 7 to 8 p. m. at a Texas Independence tea in the auditorium of West Texas Museum. Presenting the pageant will be members of the General James Smith Chapter, Daughters of the Republic of Texas. Seventeen children of the Rev. George Washington Turner Chapter, Children of the Republic of Texas will participate.

Mrs. Harper's son, Cris, will have one of the speaking parts, representing certain periods in the history of Texas, and narrator will be her daughter, Beverly. Mrs. Harper was reared here, and is a sister of Mrs. John Hamilton and Mrs. Olive Russell.

Following is the poem written by Miss Sandra Cooper which won first place in the fall literary contest sponsored by the Galileo, McMurry College student publication.

AUTUMN SONG - Clothed in glowing goldness . . . The tree begins her subtle strip-tease . . . Wilfully dropping her garments in carelessness . . . To the ground . . .

Then in silent glory . . . She stands . . . Lifting bare limbs to cold November skies . . . Precluding the white softness of the winter dress . . . Symbol of her purity . . .

The young poetess is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cooper of Whiteflat. Her mother, the former Ruth Simpson, is a past-master at winning contest awards. During the last world war she submitted a winning radio script featuring Randall Whitworth for his good neighborliness in writing all the boys in service from this county, as well as nearly every one else who ever lived here and moved away.

TO OUR FRIENDS

In our hour of deep sorrow, we found consolation in your kind and thoughtful expressions of sympathy. Our appreciation extends also to those who visited, and ministered to the needs of our loved one during his prolonged stay in the hospital.

CAMPUS CLIPS

by Donna Williams

We have many different names in MHS and when several are combined, the story comes out like this:

A Newman went to the Fair to get some Vinson which he wanted to fry in Briscoe. He met a Baker who was building a Carr and needed Martin to finish it. The Newman offered the Baker his Green and Brown Peirce meat, but the Baker refused because the Hart of the meat did not have a Brandon it.

So the new Guy went on through the carnival where he found a Nichol. He spent this to buy a Key and a pretty Garnett which he lost in the Hays. He immediately left the entertainment and started home.

After a few blocks, he was met by Spearman who demanded his Sandefer boots and his Lipham. He told the men to never Cross his way again or he would Sue them. So, the men scattered like Birds and the Mary Newman returned home to shave his Bearden mustache and spray himself with a Spray and dry with a Terry towel. There he Nelda Dinky sign on his door and placed a Jack against it. He then ate Cheri cobbler and Campbell soup with his Vinson, and went to bed to relax while the Gale blew in Hobbs New Mexico.

Library Lapse

by Donna Williams

This week's book is THE CURLEW'S CRY by Mildred Walker.

The curlew's cry is a sad lonesome wail. This lonely feeling was a very real part of Pamela Lacey's life. She had been reared in Brandon Rapids, Montana, in the early 20th century. Her mother lived in town but Pam and her father loved to spend all the time possible living out on their ranch a few miles from town.

When Pam married Alan Randall, from the east, she knew she did not love him but felt she would learn to as the years progressed. Her best friend, Rose, had married Wren, the boy Pam had always felt she would someday wed.

After five years of married life Pam left Alan to again live in Brandon Rapids. She took up work at the hardware store there but later put her talents to work by converting her dad's old ranch into a dude ranch.

Pam's thirty years of life in Montana through two wars, the flu epidemic, her mother's and Wren's death, and the horrible loneliness of living alone, make this a truly wonderful story.

It has been found by the English students that authors of old England led interesting lives. Every day someone has been given a fifteen minute talk on some English author. Who is your favorite Blake, Burns, Scott, . . . ?

The seniors finally were able to have their class party after three postponements. It was held Thursday night, February 23, beginning at 6:00 with a volleyball game and a chicken supper enjoyed by Roy Hobbs, Gale Stafford, Carter Luckett, Guy Campbell, Dink Wilson, Stanley Welling, Jimmy Welling, Buddy Davis, Gary Lipham, Nelda Wilson, Norma Cooper, Linda Thompson, Janie Waybourn, Frances Cooper, Gwen Killingsworth, Ida Fair, Anita Martin, Jane Saff, Donna Williams, and Carol Campbell. Sponsors Miss Sturdivant and Mr. Johnson were also present.

Senior Statistics

How observant are you? Have you noticed these characteristics of the senior class?

That nine out of the eleven girls wear black loafers?

That there are only two blondes in the class?

That twelve of the twenty-one in the class wear glasses?

That only one boy takes English?

That Jimmy Welling is the youngest?

That more last names begin with "W" than any other letter?

That they are the first ones to have black sets in their class rings?

That they try to manage at least one smile a week?

That there are twenty-one seniors and two sponsors?

That more seniors appear on the honor roll than any other class?

That all but seven of the seniors started in the first grade together?

That you only have fifty-one more days in which to observe the senior class' characteristics.

Roaring Springs FFA Chapter Earns $2526

Roaring Springs Future Farmers of America chapter was organized in 1947, when vocational agriculture was added to the curricula of the Roaring Springs school system, with Marcus Harvey as the first instructor.

Other teachers have included Noble McKibben, 1948-1950; T. B. Hamilton, 1950-1953; Orval Harris, 1953-1956; Mickey McMeans, 1956-1957; W. A. Moore, 1957-1958; and Bill Peacock, the present instructor, who succeeded Moore.

The physical facilities furnished by the school is the vo-ag building consisting of a class room and farm shop, plus equipment for both, and text books. A lot of the equipment and teaching aids used in teaching, are built in the local farm shop.

"We try to set up the program of vo-ag education to meet the needs of youth who plan to enter the profession of farming, ranching, or other related agricultural occupations," explained Mr. Peacock.

"Most of the vo-ag program as far as subject matter is concerned, is standard over most of the state with each farming area giving more time or special attention to local farming problems and crops concerned."

"Here, we put special emphasis on livestock, cotton, grain sorghums and pasture and some time on the possibilities of growing crops new to this area for a possible cash crop and producing a living at home."

In addition to this, areas for training for individual growth in leadership, citizenship, scholarship, thrift, and cooperation are provided through the activities of local chapters of the Future Farmers of America.

Under the supervision of local high school administration, the vo-ag teacher provides organized group instruction through short courses evening classes, and individual instruction on the farm for adult farmers.

Projects Earn $2526
As part of the program, each boy taking vo-ag in school is required to carry out a supervised productive project.

From these projects, the boys of the 1959-60 school year at Roaring Springs earned a total net income of $2526.

In carrying out their projects, the boys learn by actual experience to care for their livestock and methods of producing a crop of some kind. They learn feeding, buying and selling, disease prevention, and problems related to their projects which they will actually face when they are on their own.

"Of course," Peacock pointed out, "not all projects will show a profit, as in farming not all crops or livestock will show a profit each time. In deciding what projects a boy will have, we study the present market, past and future predictions; what the experts think about it, and the facilities which the boy has to work with at home."

Boys enrolled in vo-ag at Roaring Springs are, John Castillo, Arens Esqual, Gordon McGee, Bobby Murphy, Don Carl Tardy, Rogene Swim, Roger Ashley, Bill Bailey, Keith Brooks, Don Dawson, Gary Grizzle, Virgil McGee, Jimmy Don Melroe, Cecil Nolan, Bill Brooks, Ronnie Davis, A. J. Dye, Jackie Martin and Larry Pierce.

Others, who are members of the FFA, but not in the class are Bobby Moore, George Smith, Bert Green, Lewis Carpenter, Rodney Long, Rex Martin and Max Thacker.

ROARING SPRINGS Chapter Future Farmers of America has been outstanding in all phases of agriculture during the past year. At the right is shown the Senior Farm Skill and Junior Farm Skill teams, both of which won 1st place in Plainview District leadership contest last fall. Later in area contests the senior team won 2nd and the junior 4th, competing against 104 schools in the Panhandle. Reading left to right: Bill Peacock, instructor; Gary Grizzle, Bill Bailey and Keith Brooks of the senior team; Rogene Swim, Gordon McGee and Don Tardy, junior team. At San Antonio Livestock Show, Roaring Springs FFA grass judging team won 5th with a total of 1,107 points, competing in the entire state. George Smith was 6th high scorer who had a total of 384 points. The variety of work done by FFA chapters embraces all phases of farming livestock-raising and the boys learn by actual experience, making it possible to apply the most scientific training directly to the area's principal industry. Value of the training is immediately evident, and reflected in the interest shown by FFA boys in advancing the economy.

COUNTY AGENT PALLMEYER SAYS:

DATE SET FOR COTTON ALLOTMENTS RELEASED

In order to expedite the release and reallocation of 1961 cotton acreage allotments, the state has been divided into five zones by the State Agricultural Stabilization Committee.

Motley County is located in Zone 5, and final date set for this zone for release of allotments, is April 14. The release date is also the last date cotton producers can file for additional allotments. That is, acreage in addition to the cotton allotment already established for a farm.

UNUSED ALLOTMENTS A COMMUNITY CONCERN

Cotton is a commodity which creates a good "multiplier" effect in the economy, because most of the farmer's dollar is usually dropped into the money stream of the community. Though the dollar's identity may be quickly lost, it tends to circulate through all the avenues of trade and commerce.

The loss of cotton income, on the other hand, can adversely affect a community's whole economy. For that reason, unused cotton allotments are a matter of community concern.

The law under which cotton farmers are now operating contains provisions for the voluntary release and reallocation of 1961 cotton allotments. Where the release is made, the released acreage is retained on the releasing farm as history and used in figuring future allotments. However, it will not qualify a farm for an old farm allotment as having planted cotton in one of the three previous years.

If all the farm allotments are released for three consecutive years, the farm loses its eligibility for an old farm allotment. Farmers are urged to check with the local ASC office to obtain particulars in this program.

Mrs. Gordon Stine of Wichita Falls was a Saturday visitor in the home of her cousin, Mrs. Algie Groves.

Harold Renfro, with his son Curtis, and daughter, Becky visited his mother, Mrs. C. C. Renfro and other relatives, Sunday.
