BAILEY COUNTY SLAPPED WITH $196,000 LAW SUIT

Unstoppable Mustangs Stopped By Fire-Eating Muleshoe Mules

BY JAY SPAIN

The sleeping giants came awake Friday night and fooled the "perverts" as they beat the number three rated team in the state in a hard fought battle.

To the satisfaction of an overflowing crowd of about 8,000, the Muleshoe Mules and the Denver City Mustangs slugged it out to final gun. Muleshoe has won Bi-District for the first time in history as they downed the Mustangs 15-7 in an all-out team effort. As the Mules came on the field they showed spirit and fire and it lasted the entire ballgame. Muleshoe took the kick-off on their nine and moved it to the Denver City 37 before fumbling and the Mustangs took over on their 45.

Accident Victim Dies Here

A longtime YL Community resident is today dead as the result of a car-pickup smash early this week.

Shelton C. Caldwell, a resident of the area for more than 18 years, died in West Plains Hospital at 5:10 p.m. Thursday, according to his physician, Dr. W. F. Birdsong.

The 62-year-old farmer was hospitalized as the result of an auto accident which occurred at the Plainview Hi-Way YL turnoff Tuesday.

According to reports, Caldwell was heading East and attempting to turn left into the YL turnoff when his car was struck by a pickup traveling westward. The pickup was driven by Eugene Templeton of Earth. He suffered slight injuries.

At the time of the accident the elderly farmer suffered lacerations. (See ACCIDENT, page 5)

Local Jaycees Concerned Over Membership Loss

Muleshoe Jaycees showed concern at this week's regular meeting, over the group's loss of members during the past months.

President Jay Spain stated that the group has substantially less members attending meetings now as compared with attendance this Summer.

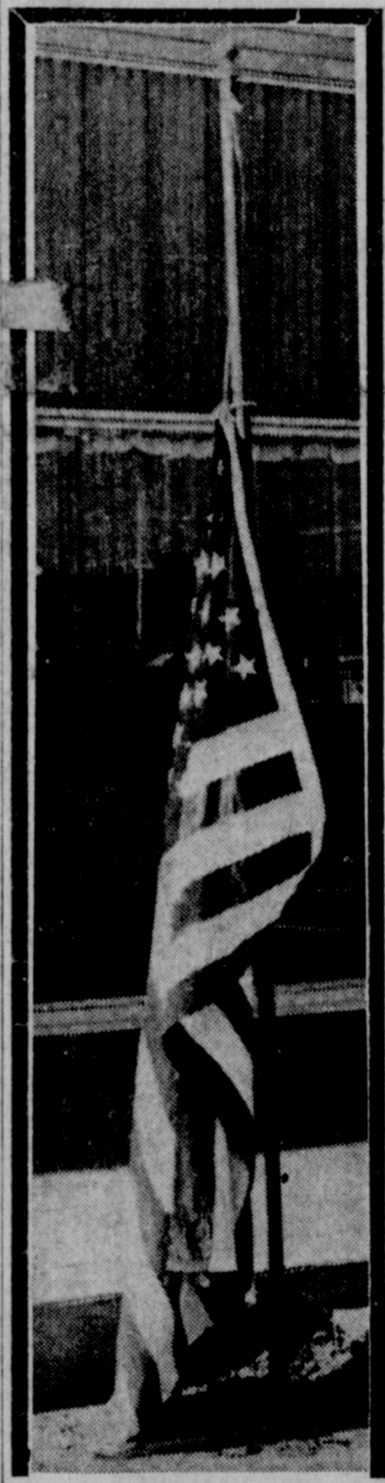

In an attempt to define the reason behind the loss, he asked members if they knew what Jaycees really stood for, and if they knew the Jaycee creed. Three or four answered in the affirmative.

All members have been requested to attend a next weeks meeting at which organizational slides will be shown and problems worked out.

Cotton

Texas State Employment Commission has estimated that cotton baling in Bailey County reached just over 22,850 this week. The totals are reached by survey of all county gins and does not include bales, ginned outside Bailey County.

USA district offices in Lubbock reports total classifications of High Plains cotton has exceeded 250,000 bales. The majority of cotton classified this week was in white grade. Average staple length continued to decline for the third week in a row. Average length was 30.1 compared with 30.2 last week and 30.4 two weeks ago.

MOURING — The flag hangs dejectedly at half mast seeming to speak for all as Muleshoe goes into mourning for the president, and those who have said in political anger, "He ought to be shot," feel just a touch of guilt.

Farmers Union Officers At Annual Conclave

Officers of the Farmer and Bailey County Farmers' Unions are today attending the two day annual Texas Farmers' Union convention in Lubbock.

Those attending the conclave are Leon Smith Jr., Farmer County president; J. C. Redwine, Travis Dyer, J. C. Boulwin, Mrs. Freeman Davis, Mrs. Leon Smith Sr., and Leon Dupler, president of the Bailey County organization.

The convention is featuring several eminent speakers and a panel discussion at which represent-

Bailey County today had been served with a summons to appear in District Court as co-defendant in a $196,135.00 land damage suit.

The cross action suit was filed on behalf of J. B. McPherson, who alleges that water channeled down county roads and ditches and diverted from its natural flow by dikes between the two farms have destroyed and injured crops and land.

McPherson charges that the value of his 479 acre farm has been reduced in value by $200 per acre or a total land damage of over $95,000. The land previously had a market value of $500 per acre and is now worth $300 per acre, he alleges.

The case centers around two dikes which border the farms. McPherson charges that these dikes divert the normal flow of water runoff and that water that would normally run onto the Bryant land is diverted onto his land.

Last year, James McPherson smashed the dike with his tractor. Bryant brought the case to court and an injunction was granted preventing McPherson from again opening the dike after it was rebuilt.

After the granting of the injunction, James McPherson was charged with breaking the court order when he ran his tractor over the dike a second time. He was tried and convicted of breaking the court's order and fined $100 and two days in jail.

The McPherson cross-action alleges Bryant and the county have allowed the dike to grow higher each year because of collection weeds and debris which in turn has built up sand and dirt to a height of two and one-half feet over what it was.

The county is involved because McPherson charges that county maintenance of the roads running along the dikes has contributed to the construction of the dikes through the use of road graders and other equipment.

The cross action states that during the year the farm was damaged by deposits of silt and trash, obnoxious weeds and Johnson Grass; that they were required to treat the land and land-plane before planting; that he lost an average of three-fourths a bale of cotton per acre over 313 acres; that he had to replant his entire crop one time, and a portion a second time.

He also charged that the second planting was again damaged and that he lost 131 acres of cotton, and that the remaining 163 acres was damaged to the extent of one bale per acre. In addition four acres of corn were destroyed and wheat loss came to 10 bu. per acre over 65 acres. Total crop damage was placed at about $93,735 by McPherson.

It is expected that the case will come to trial during the Spring term of the District Court.

City Adopts Get Tough Tax Policy

The city has adopted a new get tough policy on delinquent taxes, according to Harold Weyer, city clerk.

The city has authorized City Attorney Norman Bays to "do what he has to do to collect the taxes." Some of the more than $15,000 in back taxes dates as far back as 1926.

The city feels that it doesn't want to hurt anyone, but that it will collect the taxes and let the chips fall where they may.

Norman Bays was unavailable for comment on just how he will handle collection problems, but normal procedure is for the city attorney to contact the delinquents by mail. If that fails suit is filed in district court.

First Baptist Church Drive

Muleshoe Baptist Church is today in the middle of a Thanksgiving fund drive, according to the finance committee.

The drive is to help alleviate the church group's $70,000 building debt. Offering envelopes have been sent to congregation members, businesses and others this week.

The finance committee will also accept commodities. All donations are tax deductible.

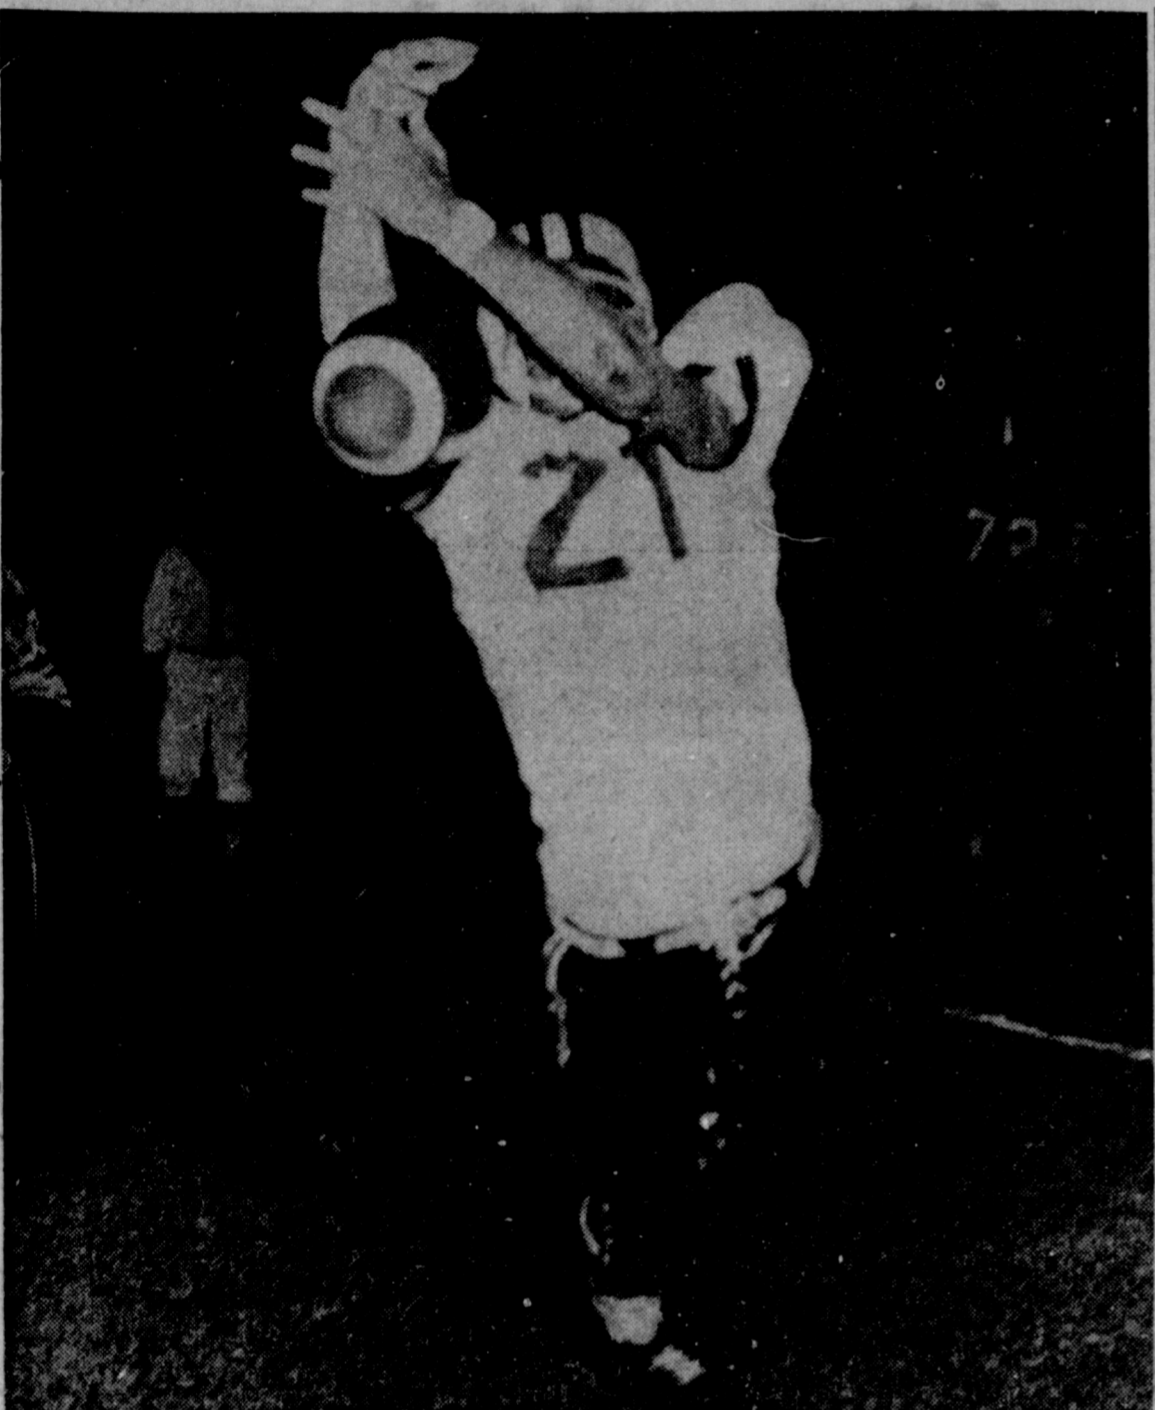

Members of the finance committee are A. T. Fowler, chairman; Sherman Inman, Horace Blackburn, Verney Towns, Myron Pool, Jr., and Lester Howard.

Religious Drama Presented Today

Rev. J. Frank Peery, pastor of the First Methodist Church, announces a change in date and time for the Bishop Company's presentation of "The Devil and Daniel Webster."

It has been rescheduled for today Sunday, November 24, at 2:30 p.m. at the First Methodist Church.

The religious drama is one of seven carefully selected works to be staged by The Bishop's Company. The play presents this situation to Webster, Mr. America himself; he is cornered by the devil in an attempt to argue for a man's soul. Webster avoids a losing defense based on facts and figures by appealing to the jury in making them sense the dignity as well as the weakness of man.

SO NEAR — Scot Oliver reaching for a long one fired by Kenney Heathington as the Mules take to the air. The pass was incomplete, but Oliver apologized a couple of plays later by making a spectacular 64-yard run for the Mule's second TD.

Government Directive Gives Basis for 1964 Diverted Acres

Last week the Journal broke an area exclusive story that the U.S.D.A. had increased the substitute crops to be authorized on 1964 feed grain diverted acres. The information came from private sources in Washington.

Today the government came through. Although the new directive has not yet been generally distributed to USDA offices it is in print.

The bulletin follows:

Substitute crops authorized on 1964 Feed Grain Diverted Acres: Farmers participating in the 1964 feed grain program will have the opportunity of planting substitute non-surplus crops on acreage diverted from feed grain production, the U. S. Department of Agriculture announced today. The special crops are guar, sesame, safflower, castor beans and mustard seed.

The law permits acreage diverted from feed grains to be utilized for specified annual non-prices-supported field crops and flax when those crops are not in surplus supply and will not be in surplus supply if produced on the diverted acreage.

The accompanying reduction in or withdrawal of the diverted acre payments results in savings on program costs. As in 1963, the minimum feed grain diversion payment rate will be 20 of the normal per-acre yield of the feed grain crop multiplied by the local support rate. Partial payment for the diverted cropland used to produce any of the specified substitute crops will be based on a percentage of the minimum feed grain diversion payment rate.

All of the substitute crops in 1964, except safflower, will receive an increase in the partial payment as compared to the 1963 program. Safflower will continue to be eligible but without diversion payment, the same as in 1963. Owing to the increase in flaxseed supplies during the past year, flaxseed planting is not included on the 1964 list of eligible substitute crops.

Following are the percentages of the minimum acreage diversion payments which will be made for authorized plantings on diverted acres for the 1964 crop year, compared with those in effect in 1963:

	1964	1963
Sesame	50	40
Guar	50	30
Safflower	x	xx
Safflower	30	20
Castor Beans	50	30
Mustard Seed	30	xxx
Flax	x	x

xPlanting permitted but partial payment authorized.

xxNot included on approved substitute crop list.

xxxPlanting on diverted acres not authorized by law.

First Freeze Strikes Muleshoe; Annual Rubberleg Epidemic Here

By DICK GOODROW
When cold weather strikes and the temperature falls below freezing Bailey county farmers are joyous — its time to harvest the cotton.

City people like myself feel sad because its time for the annual Fall snowsuit buying trip. And that trip is a prelude to the annual epidemic of rubberleg.

Some years ago a man invented a way to make a bed in three seconds flat. He could jump up in the morning, pull a handle that was attached to ropes that ran through a series of pulleys, and presto, the sheets, blanket and spread were pulled up, smoothed out and tucked in.

Unfortunately, the name of that man has been lost, but if he reads these words it is hoped he will get in touch with the National Association for the Relief of Parent Frustration.

His services are desperately needed to cope with this year's snow suit crisis, which is worse than usual due to the vast increase in the number of people under five years old, coupled with the normal winter epidemic of rubberleg.

As a result, parent hours expended per degree of temperature drop have skyrocketed and no one is benefiting, except the manufacturers of before dinner tranquilizers.

Rubberleg, of course, is the disease that afflicts small children when Dad or Mother is trying to draw on the arm or leg of a snow-suit. As pressure is applied the child's limb inside suddenly turns to rubber.

Instead of a foot or a hand popping through the opening, the whole leg or arm collapses like a piece of damp macaroni, causing paternal-maternal frustration.

Efforts have, it is true, been made to ease the crisis. One man is rumored to have applied for a patent on a machine based on the principle by which aluminum is extruded into various shapes.

There is a kind of grooved track. At one end is a set of hollow forms over which the legs of the snowsuit are pulled.

At the other end is a large compression screw operated by a wheel. After the child is inserted into the machine. A quick spin of the wheel forces him, or her, feet first into the suit.

One objection to the machine (See FREEZE, page 5)

Candlelight Ceremony Read For Karen Tilson And Larry Haydon

Wedding vows for Miss Karen Tilson and Larry E. Haydon both of Plainview were solemnized Saturday evening, November 23 in a candlelight service read at 7:30 p.m. in the chapel of the First Methodist Church, Plainview. Dr. J. H. Crawford, Lubbock, read the double ring ceremony.

The organ prelude and wedding marches were presented by Mrs. J. W. King who also accompanied Mrs. Hugh M. Bain, soloist.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Tilson, Route 2, Plainview and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lavelle C. Haydon, Plainview.

The chapel altar was centered with a red velvet kneeling bench, flanked with baskets of white mums and white gladioli. White cathedral tapers in branched candlebrac tied with greenery and white satin bows illuminated the setting. Satin bows and greenery marked the bridal aisle.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was dressed in a formal gown of white bridal satin. The scalloped neckline was embroidered with seed pearls and iridescent sequins continuing down the front to form a panel to the hemline. Long sleeves tapered to petal points over the hands. A molded bodice extended to long torso lines, joining a sweeping skirt with unpressed pleats on the side. The back fullness was accented by a bustle bow which flowed into a long chapel train. Her headpiece was a tall tiered tiara accented with pearls and crystal drops, which held her bouffant veil of imported silk illusion. The bride carried a bouquet of white sweetheart roses centered with a white orchid.

The bridal tradition was carried out by the wearing of something old, something new, something borrowed and something blue.

Mrs. LaMarr Ramsey, Amarillo, was her sister's matron of honor. Miss Patsy Lemons was maid of honor. They wore dresses of deep red velvet, styled with bell shaped skirts, short sleeves and fitted bolices with bateau neckline dipping to a V shape in back. Their shoes were of matching red. Their headpiece was a red velvet flower encircled with illusion. They carried cascade bouquets of white mums and stephanotes tied with love knot streamers.

Miss Brenda Winter and Mrs. Randy Bennett were bridesmaid, and bride matron. Their dresses were identical to the honor attendants.

Candlelighters were Miss Marilyn Kidd and Miss Judy Owens. Their frocks were of red velvet and their wristlets were of white spider chrysthermums. Todd acted as flower girl. Her dress of red velvet featured a fitted bodice with full box pleated skirt. Her flower headpiece and red shoes completed her ensemble. She carried a white lace trimmed basket with red roses.

Best man was Jack Williams, Plainview, cousin of the groom. Groomsmen were Conner Ashley, Plainview, Kenneth Gordon, Lubbock and Bill McLaughlin, Albuquerque, New Mexico. Ushers were LaMarr Ramsey, Amarillo, brother-in-law of the bride and Travis Creamer, Plainview. A reception was held in the church parlor following the ceremony. The table was laid with Chantilly lace over a white satin cloth, centered with a tall alabaster vase holding red carnations and arranged with the bouquets of the attendants at the base.

Mrs. Louis Hair of Olton, aunt of the groom, presided at the silver service. Serving the tiered wedding cake was the bridesmaid, Mrs. Woodson Terrell of Lampasass and Miss DeLee Dameron of Plainview.

On the register table was an arrangement of red carnation. Miss Jeannie Graham secured signatures of guests. Others in the house party were Miss Ronnie Roach, Miss Gloria Deardorf, Mrs. Mike Billingsley and Mrs. Travis Creamer all of Plainview. Miss Ann Castleberry furnished piano music during the reception period.

For travel the bride chose a nubby wool beige suit with mink collar, black hat and black accessories. She wore the orchid corsage from her bridal bouquet. After a short wedding trip to points of interest in New Mexico the couple will be at home at 1201 Quincy Street in Plainview. Mrs. Hydon graduated from Plainview High School and is now manager of Larry's Shoes in Plain-

Rev. Don Boles Is Guest Speaker

Rev. Don Boles, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, was guest speaker for the Epsilon Sigma Alpha Thanksgiving Dinner held Tuesday evening at Muleshoe Country Club.

Decorations for the dinner carried the holiday theme with miniature turkeys and orange candles highlighting the tables.

Rev. Boles used as his topic "What Makes A Criminal". He pointed out the basic reason as being self pity created primarily by parents who are not able to understand that each child is a different child — a complex thing who needs greater study than they are given. He stressed the fact that all parents should see that their child does not develop an attitude of self-pity.

"In this land of ours", he said, "there is no need for it. Anyone can become what he wants to be if he tries."

Rev. Boles worked for a time at LaTuna Correctional Institute and stated that he met with criminals from all walks of life and found in each an overdose of self pity, thus the creation of criminal actions.

They are: Mrs. Dean Broyles, president; Mrs. Nealy Moore, vice-president; Rebecca Stroud, secretary-treasurer; Marylin Engelking, reporter-historian and Frances Walton, advisor. The officers wore white dresses with red and the colors were carried out in table decorations of candles and red roses.

is that it can not handle arms, but this may have been overcome by a mother who has sent in a drawing of a piece of equipment based on a different principle.

The main part is a large bobbin-type threader similar to those used to rethread the draw-cord in pajamas. The bobbin is attached to a short length of nylon cord, which is tied around the child's leg or arm. The bobbin is then threaded into the appropriate opening in the snow suit and the arm or leg drawn neatly through.

Various other devices have been developed to fight the epidemic of rubberlegs. A typical one consists of a set of splints with a quick release attachment. The splints are clamped around each leg and arm in turn, which is then inserted into the suit. At the end of each operation a rip cord is pulled which collapses the splints and allows them to be withdrawn through the zipper opening.

Snowsuit manufacturers, who must accept a good deal of responsibility in this matter, also may be awakening to the crying need for improvement in their product.

One experimental model being tested consists of an X-frame to which the child is strapped. The pieces, two arms, two legs, and a kind of vest affair which covers the body. After the child is attached to the frame, the left arm and right leg are put on and connected by an elastic clip-strap. Then the right arm and left leg are similarly attached. Finally the vest affair is zipped over all.

Live testing of selected rubber-legged children will begin as soon as engineers iron out the last bug in the equipment — how to get the child unstrapped from the frame.

Unfortunately, none of these models will be available commercially in Muleshoe this winter. Mothers, fathers, teachers and others should remember, however, there is an old-fashioned remedy to fall back on. It has been used by generations of parents, occasionally with success: Pray for an early spring.

by Stanley Black.

The Mules moved to the 11 yard line before Hubbard intercepted a pass on the three and moved out to the nine with only 15 seconds left in the half. The Mustangs chose to run the clock out as they ran the ball out to their 29. The gun sounded and the half ended with the score reading 15 to 7 in favor of the Mules.

As the high-rated Denver City received the ball on their 21 and ran out to their 39 yard line, a 15 yard penalty moved the ball to the Muleshoe 46 where Heathington intercepted a pass on the Mules 40 and moved the ball to the Denver City 45 before being stopped. The Mules started driving and moved to the Mustang 13 before handing the ball over on downs.

Denver City started bucking the Muleshoe line and moved to the Mules' 14 yard line before their drive was broken up by Ronnie Johnson on the five and ran all the way to the Denver City five which was called back to Muleshoe 21 on a clipping penalty. The Mules moved to the 32 yard line before punting to the Mustangs 20.

The Mustangs moved out to the Muleshoe 49 yard line where Barry Lewis recovered a Mustang fumble. The Mules moved to the 34 yard line before handing the ball over on downs. On the fourth down with time running out and only three yards for a first, the Mustangs gambled and tried to throw a pass which was incomplete and the ball went over on downs.

The Mules moved into the three yard line and were penalized back to the eight yard line where the final gun sounded and the Muleshoe Mules are bi-district champions of districts 3-AA and 4-AA.

Travel Through South America Told By Capt. Bruce Simnacher

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following letter was written by Capt. and Mrs. Bruce Simnacher to their parents, the Joe Simnachers and B. H. Montgomerys. The letter concerns a recent trip made by Capt. Simnacher from Rio de Janeiro where he is stationed as a military attache. Both Capt. and Mrs. Simnacher are graduates of Muleshoe High School, entered the service in 1957 and will continue work at his present station for the coming two years.

Dear Simnacher & Montgomerys Incorporated:

Will use this form letter to tell of my trip. The 8th of Oct., Major Patterson and I left for a three week trip to various sections of Brazil and Paraguay, Argentina & Uruguay. We flew from Rio de Janeiro to Sao Paulo, Brazil's industrial city, the largest city in South America, and from there into the state of Parana. We stopped at 3 small towns with dirt strips for landing and were able to see them up close: Londrina, Maringa, Campo Mourao. Next we put down at the Foz de Iguacu, had a bus ride of 40 kilometers to our hotel overlooking the falls. Iguacu falls is a series of cataracts on the Brazil-Argentina border, formed by the Iguazu River as it drips over the edge of the Parana plateau near its junction with the Parana river which is also Brazil's border with Uruguay. The Parana river has rapids above, an estimated 275 separate cataracts plunge 237 feet into the valley below. Most of the water falls into the "Garganta do Diabolo" (Spanish for "Devil's throat").

We spent a day in Argentina at a place once named Puerto Eva Peron, but now called Puerto Iguacu. We had our first opportunity to practice our Spanish at this point. Ran into a 45 year old German couple at our hotel swimming pool who spoke to me in German-Spanish, Portuguese-German — any wonder my English is so bad now! I just don't have a multi-track mind. The couple have lived in Brazil all their lives but still think of themselves as Germans first — this seems to be true of all people of foreign extraction in South America.

The atmosphere in Argentina is very different here only a mile or so from Brazil and Paraguay. It seems more progressive and European, less lazziefiere and Brazilian. You have the feeling that time has once again become meaningful. The food in Argentina and in Paraguay was better than in Brazil, although the food in all three places was very good — just different, tripe, tongue, kidney, strange fish and fruits.

We saw a lot of huge lizards of the Iguana type, but real monsters. Our driver kept trying to run over one for us, but they were big and fast. Beautiful birds, many colors, and numerous large, fast flying bats which flew into the falls to roost and hunt in the rocks behind them. Also many, many gorgeous butterflies kept fluttering in and out of our buses.

We visited museums in both nations and increased our knowledge of the flora, fauna and geology, also gave us a basis for comparison of Argentina with Brazil etc. This area of western Brazil, northern Argentina and Paraguay is one of the world's largest lava plateaus. The Rio Parana and its tributaries have cut deep canyons back into the resistant diabase or lava and have under mined it to form these spectacular falls much greater than Niagara.

We entered into Paraguay by outboard dug-out and took a bus from Puerto Stroessner to capital, clear across the country. We took buses this trip in order to meet more people and to see the land from a more realistic viewpoint. The red dust and heat, 108 degrees, were uncomfortable but the trip was a real experience and well worth the discomfort. The Paraguayans are mostly mestizo, the most predominant racial strain being Guarani Indian. The Tupi-Guarani Indian, at one time occupied most of Brazil, Uruguay and Paraguay. There are almost no negroes, and very few orientals. These Guarani Indians are a very friendly people quite in contrast to their pugnacious brothers in Argentina, Chile and even to some of the tribes in Brazil. The Guarani contribution to the Paraguayan mixture is a large one, both in blood language and modes of living. The Guarani language is still the popular language of Paraguay and the people on the bus representing middle class and poorer people spoke and sang in Guarani.

The land is divided into essentially two areas, the Chaco or alluvial plains which extends from mid Paraguay to the Andes, a result of the wasting of the Andes by the great rivers, and the Paraguayan plains, a low lands frequently subjected to flooding. The eastern part is covered with semideciduous forests which are important to the Paraguayan, giving them "quebracho" (iron wood) which gives tannin for use in tanning the hides which come from the upland plains (chaco). These lava soils support a very dense tree growth, a real jungle by our standards, while the chaco area is covered with sparse brush and vast grassy plains. The Paraguayans fought a very violent war for the oil which is supposedly waiting beneath this chaco of theirs. The Bolivians, who had a better claim to the area, a modern well equipped army, and a greater population, were soundly defeated by a nation of very spartan like individuals in 1932-35.

Asuncion, capital of Paraguay, is an orderly city by S. A. standards, but has no traffic lights or signals. The Hotel Guarani is the most modern in S. A., and still reasonable. The dictator, Stroessner, has a tight grip on the country and appears to be an enlightened dictator who can do much for his backward country.

I met a Paraguayan at the Guarani Hotel who had served in Brazil as a diplomat and was happy to talk to me in Portuguese and policy problems. Only truly guesse about our shortcomings pro-American South Americans will normally do this as they hope our policy will change and improve relations between us thru open discussions. This diplomat strongly felt that vast areas of South America are in grave danger of communist inspired revolutions similar to Castro's and areas in Brazil in particular. This man, a graduate of Cordoba in Argentina, and others are currently predicting communist penetration into the mainland of S. A. within the next year. We took a trip out of Asuncion by bus just wandering and came to a town which was having its annual rodeo. Bull fighting (no killing) and horse throwing were features. The local cavalry units rode and jumped — their mounts, Indians were everywhere and a real barbeque beef not humans. We wandered on and walked into an Indian settlement where I found a toothless old man with a snake around his neck. I asked him in Spanish if I could take his picture. He didn't reply but posed for me. Then he held out his hand and said in perfect Spanish, "That will be 30 quarnies" (50 cents). So, civilization marches on and on.

Before leaving Asuncion, I told the Major I would get us a good road map, and stepped off in the direction of a gas pump I thought to be a service station. It was brought up short by a teenage Indian in a police uniform with a sub-machine gun leveled at my naval. I think he told me that I was on police property with a nasty looking black brief case and "el Presidente" didn't approve of this. At any rate the map waited until I saw a BIG Esso sign. I found out later than an American Army Sgt. had driven through a check point too fast this year and had his car shot full of holes, killing his 6 year old daughter.

We left Asuncion by outboard to a large river boat named the "Guayra" which took us down river as far as Correntes. We passed several small towns and rivers with names like the Pilcomayo, Bermejo, Salado and finally at Corrente we met the Rio Parana which flows into our Rio Paraguai. At the river port on the Pilcomayo we saw some obviously German-Argentine soldiers, they even spoke German among themselves.

There was a monkey aboard the boat, not completely wild, but belonging to no one aboard. The critter gave everyone a hard time who tried to catch him. He ran from one end to the other of the boat with a gang of sailors chasing him. When penned up, he went over the side and jumped to a lower deck. My first meal aboard included 6 courses (a fresh plate and utensils with each dish), cold cuts, potatoes, soup, tongue and vegetables, steak and spinach, bread and beer, desert and coffee. The boat went aground often and had to back off. The boats have platforms on each side where men drop weighted lines and call out the depth in feet (not meters) "dez pe e tanto" (10 meters) "ocho pe e media" etc. The third class passengers all slept in a common room, very crowded and noisy down there with the engine. The shafts ran thru in a covered housing, the galley was also rather uninspiring, but good food. Later at correntes, we boarded a several hundred passenger vessel called the "City of Parana" to ride on into Buenos Aires. "B. A." is a large city but on the whole unimpressive and depressing. The Peronistas had a riot in the square outside our hotel the night we arrived. The police were forced to break it up with clubs and tear gas. I trust they were expecting us — really, the new president had just been inaugurated the day before and the Peronists were objecting to his assumption of office.

We enjoyed 3 days in B. A. and left by hydro-foil or hydroplane for Colonia de Sacramento in Uruguay, from there to Montevideo by bus. We travelled in the country around Montevideo, visited museums, etc., Punta del Este and left by air for Porto Alegre in Rio Grande do Sul in southern Brazil. We enjoyed a few days here and on our second night, the Major and I were walking to a remote restaurant when we approached a crowd on and in the street watching old movies on TV of Zorro, the Masked Bandit, cut up his opponent with his swift sword. As if by prior agreement, the Maj. and I rolled up our newspapers and fought a pitched battle through the crowd. Imagine two 6ft. plus Americans dressed in suits and ties beating one another about with newspapers and shouting in Portuguese, "Death to the false Zorro!" The crowd opened a path, but also followed us for half a block until we threw away our newspapers and refused to entertain them further.

We rode by bus to Curitiba across German settled Santa Catarina and Parana, where a bottle of good wine costs 10 cents and by the gallon about 30 cents. I returned to Rio to find our maid fired, our car held up in the bay by a dock strike, the dog tried to bite me (bless her heart) and no mail. (The Brazilians are holding it up searching for contraband). So, the trip was a roaring success and I look forward to the next one.

Our political situation is firming up some here though things are still rather shaky and the papers are full of charges and counter-charges. I don't feel anything will occur because with his defects, the Brazilian is still the most patient and least violent person in this hemisphere. Not all are prone to revolution or violence at least for political reasons. (As I type this, Vaileta is squatting on the kitchen floor with our longest, sharpest butcher knife over a rooster and a hen. She slices their throats, and then holds the cut over a bowl till they bleed to death!!! NEVER will we have a chicken dinner again).

It appears to me that even though I left home to jump out of airplanes and travel the world, that you all are living more dangerously than we are. I bet you both still have gasoline up to your knees from keeping your feet in the carburetors. Slow down and fly safely! Your kids may not be so hot, but look at your grand-kids.

On Sunday, Nov. 3, the family, (all 4 of us) climbed on the scooter and drove over 28 miles on a beautiful scenic tour. The traffic got so bad on the return I sent Joan and girls home in a taxi. I bought some tropical fish and put in our "bade!". Lia has already sent one down the drain, the girls playing together killed another, and a neighbor boy pulled the plug to do away with 3 more. Guess I'll have to give up and get a fish bowl as Monday, Nov. 11 the washing machine is going in to the bath to replace the badet. This is being typed, Fri. Nov. 8, been a long time in the making! This morning Bruce took the packages to mail to the states for Christmas, altho' we are 2 weeks behind on the recommended mailing date, I think they will get there in time.

Tomorrow at noon, we're having the Sgt., wife, 3 boys, over who works in office with Bruce and who has been very helpful and good to us. Also, they told us about the smaller, cheaper hotel where the Mgr. (Bzn.) had us to his home once. I'm letting Vaileta do the chicken Bzn. style, and hope it's edible for all concerned. She will also make a "Maconeza", a dish like potatoe salad with other vegetables and olive oil as dressing, that I hope they like as well as other Bzns. and we won't have to eat it for a week. It's really hard to entertain people like these, as their standard of living is so terribly far below ours, almost the simplest things look like banquet food to them, and yet we want to be as hospitable to them as they were to us. We must have eaten and least 1-2 of their month's salary that Sunday.

Sun. Nov. 10. Had a lovely B-day. The girls gave me a nice casserole with stand. The water colors, Bruce and I chose last month and that are being framed are my present. The lunch went off very well and in the late evening the Gardners the attache's wife and other FAST couples surprised me by bringing over a cake and visiting.

Today we went with Gardners to talk with Bgr. Col who is going to Ft. Holobird, Md. in Jan. and wants information and also chance to practice his English.

Summer is arriving here! We were all sweaty and dirty before getting to his house 40 minute drive across Rio.

Love to everyone, Bruce, Joan, Nina, Lia, Vaileta and Happy!

Clown Motif Theme's Sudan Birthday Party

The clown motif was used for the party celebration of the eighth birthday of Debbie Ritchie Wednesday. Pink and white streamers with party favors were horns, clowns, bubble gum and balloons. Three Way To Hold Union Thanksgiving

The Three Way Community Club is sponsoring a union observance of Thanksgiving at the Community Building in Maple on Tuesday evening Nov. 26, with everyone invited to attend. The Thanksgiving program will begin at 8:00 p.m., with members and pastors of various churches taking part in the service. The message will be brought by Rev. C. E. Strickland of the Three Way Baptist Church.

After the hour's program, the ladies of the Community Club will serve refreshments to all who desire to take part in a time of fellowship in the club building, just south of the Community Center.

FRANKLY SPEAKING

By REV. J. FRANK PEERY

AN ATTITUDE OF GRATITUDE
I have always liked the phrase, "an attitude of gratitude". Such a thought puts one in the category of always being thankful. Actually there are many people who have just the opposite attitude. Some read the newspapers each day just to see how bad things are and to get fresh ideas for criticism of community, government, country, church, and world.

Listen to people talk and you will discover it is the rarest thing to hear anyone saying good things about anybody or anything. Actually, we are making ourselves sick deep within because of the loss of "an attitude of gratitude".

Nothing brightens life — our own and others — more than the spirit of thanksgiving. "An attitude of gratitude" does more than just say "thanks". It changes one's way of life. Thanksgiving involves gratitude for the past, the present, and the hope of the future. "An attitude of gratitude" leads one into a greater maturity for the living of each day. Most of us are thankful for the gifts of our daily goods. This is only a beginning. We must not forget that one-third of the people of the world go to bed every night hungry.

Thanksgiving must help us to grow into an appreciation of those gifts which belong not to any one of us alone but to all of us in common. Here we think especially of the common blessings such as our freedom. Freedom is a possession of no one of us in America alone. We cherish it together or not at all.

The deepest level of our thanksgiving must center in and through God. Unless the wealth of God's kindness penetrates life, our "attitude of gratitude" is in no way genuine.

Frankly Speaking — If we would begin each day with the opening words of the hundred and seventh Psalm, "O give thanks unto the Lord, for he is good; for his mercy endureth forever," it would not only change our own hearts, but it would also change our world around us. May you and yours have a God-centered Thanksgiving.

MORE KINDS OF CHEVROLETS THAN EVER BEFORE.

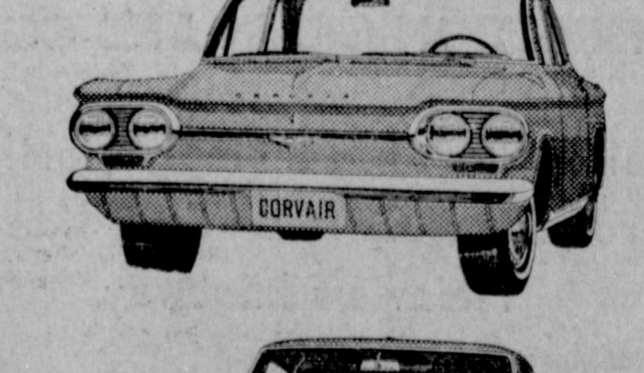

JET-SMOOTH LUXURY CHEVROLET
15 models. Four series. One brand-new series—the Impala Super Sports. More luxury, too. Even the Biscaynes are now fully carpeted. There's seven different engines' worth of power—140 hp to 425 hp (optional at extra cost). It's a matter of knowing if you'd like your luxury on the gentle side or on the other side.
Model shown: Impala Sport Coupe

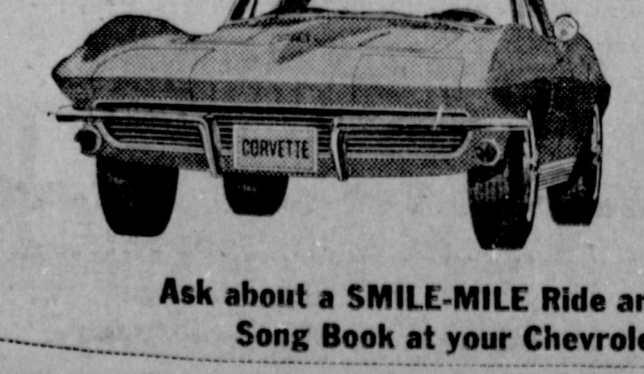

TOTALLY NEW CHEVELLE! 11 models. Three series. An entirely new line of cars sized a foot shorter than the big cars, so you get the handling ease of smaller cars. But don't sell it short! Chevelle gives you generous passenger and luggage room. Engine choice: 120 to extra-cost 220 hp.
Model shown: Malibu Sport Coupe

NEW CHEVY II Six models. Two series—Nova and Chevy II 100. Both now offer an extra-cost 195-hp V8 or a 155-hp six, to give you more Chevy II power than ever before. Match this added power with Chevy II thrift, and you can see why Chevy II will be harder than ever to keep up with this year.
Model shown: Nova 2-Door Sedan

NEW CORVAIR Seven models in four series. Two Greenbriers. A new standard 95-hp engine (nearly 19% livelier). An extra-cost 110-hp engine on all Corvairs and a 150-hp Turbo-charged engine in the Monza Spyder. Styling? Never been cleaner. Interior? Never been brighter. Fun to drive? Never been more so.
Model shown: Monza Club Coupe

NEW CORVETTE Two models—the Sport Coupe with a new one-piece rear window plus improved interior ventilation, and the dashing Sting Ray Convertible. Both boast smoother rides, improved sound insulation. Both go with four big V8's, including a new extra-cost 375-hp engine with Fuel Injection.

Christ, Son of Mary, Son of God is king, ruler, hear master, and leader. Here is the best, the rarest king of all time. Here is the king who rules only by love. Our Christ, who is so fully described in all four of the Gospels, has nothing of the recluse, the dreamer, or the fugitive from harsh reality in his makeup. Christ was very much engaged in the many ways of human life. He was entirely aware of objects; birds of the air, flowers of the field, needles, camels seeds, mountains; He was aware of activities: sowing, fishing, baking-bread, and reading the signs of tomorrows weather; but above all, of people, their cares, and their needs, sickness and hunger, sorrow, taxes, and marriage. Besides He showed a strong distaste for sheer force as a means to an end. This King has no army in the usual sense of word. Weapons, missals, or stockpiling as such He could not care less. If this King does not rule by love, He does not rule. Christ attained His kingdom in a strange way—by suffering and death. It follows that people who undertake to serve and follow King Christ must expect his whole instinctive scale of values to be turned upsidedown. This King promises infallible final victory to His followers, but the victory will come only at the end of much hard using; it will be achieved in most unconventional, unromantic, and unrewarding ways. It never becomes exactly easy for the most sincere friend of Christ to live with the nagging fact that this Leader steadily stands at odds with all values, slogans, procedures and techniques of all other leaders. It is strange that people should become poor in order to be rich, should welcome failure as condition of success and should die in order to live. Well, what kind of kingdom is this anyhow? Is there a fair word to be found for it? Let us glance in the Roman Missal, where the reign of Christ the King is thus described; an eternal and everlasting kingdom, of truth, and life, a kingdom of holiness and grace, a kingdom of justice, love and peace. These are the terms that almost every leader has held out to his followers. But this is what Christ the king alone can give. It is worth a precious price too.
