Childress Criminal Justice To Open 500-Bed Boot Camp

CHILDRESS — It's official - Texas Department of Criminal Justice will open a 500-bed boot camp in the South Lancer warehouse building, adjacent to the T.L. Roach, Jr. Unit, by the end of May.

The announcement, made this morning by Ken Johnson of the TDCJ personnel department in Huntsville, reverses that of February 6, 1994 when the headlines read, "No Boot Camp for Childress."

And good news it is! "It will bring an additional 112 correctional officer positions plus 53 jobs for the expansion of the Roach Unit, and a multi-million dollar annual payroll to this community," said Mayor Pat Steed during an interview with The Childress Index.

With this announcement came another: Amarillo College will accept applications April 11-12 at Fair Park Auditorium in Childress for special classes certifying correctional officer training for the Childress expansion. (See ad Page 2 in this edition).

The Childress boot camp will be operated in conjunction with the T.L.

Roach, Jr. Unit; Warden Robert Treon will be in charge. Some facilities will be shared.

The Lancer warehouse building will be modified to accommodate the boot camp. Details of the modification will be released later.

The decision to place the boot camp here was delayed until TDCJ could make sure utilities were in place and adequate for boot camp needs.

That determination was made today (Tuesday).

Robert Hibbard, assistant regional director, Northern Region, said plans call for accepting boot camp inmates by June 1.

Although time is of the essence, Mayor Steed said Childress will do everything possible to cooperate with TDCJ.

Childress Economic Development Corporation, Larry Norton, executive director, Childress City Council Manager David Galligan and many others worked diligently to make the expansion reality.

The T.L. Roach, Jr. Unit, a 1,000 bed minimum security unit, is built on several thousand acres offering plenty of space for even more expansion.

Barbara's Bylines

Carla and I attended the 1994 Panhandle Press Convention Friday and Saturday. We won an award for Best Special Edition, 2nd place for the Old Settlers. It was presented at the Awards Breakfast. We took in learning sessions, met new friends and visited other newspaper people and friends we have already met. It is always fun to see how other papers and communities are doing from year to year.

***
It was fun to see our granddaughter, Leanne, on her first egg hunt. She didn't know it was to be competitive but some of the older kids helped her get eggs in her basket.

***
Bill and I made a short trip to Springtown and Azle Sunday and Monday. As usual this time of the year the flowers were beautiful. Lots of Bluebonnets and Orange Paint Brush, lots of Iris, even some along pasture fences. Looks like Spring time even though the weather doesn't feel it today (Tuesday).

Hospital Board Meets

Bob Davis, representative and President of the South Plains Health Provider Organization (SPHPO) Board of Directors, gave an update on SPHPO. Henry Hawley, Administrator of SPHPO, resigned this week due to differences with the Federal regulators. His resignation is effective April 15.

Davis reported the last two months (April and May) of this fiscal year will be tight financially but he assured the Board that Motley County will still receive funding for next year.

The Board read and approved the Contract with the Appraisal District.

They discussed joining other county entities in collecting back taxes or selling of unclaimed lots and meeting with Jim Meador, Tax Assessor/Collector.

Tom Bowman informed the Board that the 02 monitor demo the Paramedics are using is working. He had found out it is not required this year but could be on the list of requirements next year. This 02 monitor is about 1/2 price at this time. The Board elected to purchase the equipment.

Meeting adjourned.

Longtime Ag Teacher Began Tradition of Excellence

by Kelly Wade

NOTE: This article is made possible by a grant from the Reader's Digest Foundation for Texas Tech Journalism students.

In 1947, Bill Moss began a tradition of excellence in the agriculture department of Motley County High School.

Moss taught ag, animal science, shop and leather-working at the high school until his retirement in 1985.

Moss was raised in Whiteface and lived there until he left to attend Texas Tech, where he majored in vocational agriculture.

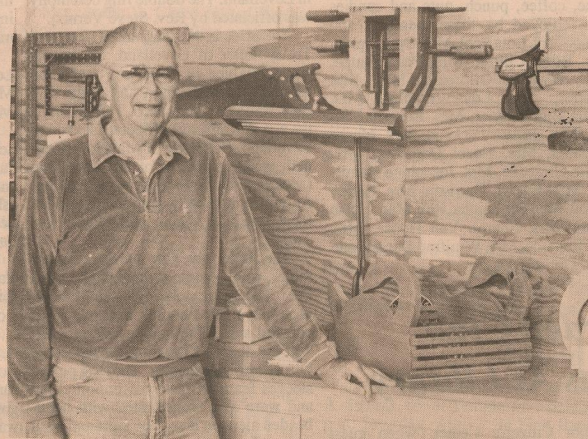

After graduating, Moss went into the Army, serving three years in Germany. Upon returning, he went back to Texas Tech and earned his master's degree in agriculture.

Moss then moved to Matador, where he began teaching.

During his tenure at the school, Moss demanded the utmost respect from his students.

Jim Cooper, the present ag teacher and former student of Moss, stated that Moss applied "discipline, but with fairness."

"During the 38 years that Moss taught, no student failed one of his classes. "My biggest satisfaction was watching my students develop," Moss said.

Mr. Bill Moss in his workshop.

Cooper was a student under Moss for four years, and credits Moss with motivating him to major in agriculture at Texas Tech and wanting to teach it to others.

"Mr. Moss instilled a love of learning in his students," Cooper said.

Cooper began teaching agriculture classes in Matador in 1985, and was very nervous about taking over for Moss because he knew that he had "big shoes to fill."

"I try hard to keep up a high quality program," Cooper said.

Texas To Become Second Most Populous State In '94

by Michelle Mittelstadt
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (SP) — The exact date can't be pinpointed, but at some point this year Texas will nudge aside New York to become the nation's second most-populous state.

Official population figures won't be released by the Census Bureau until December. But some demographers say Texas is expected to overtake New York by July.

In fact, by some rough estimates the shift from No. 3 to No. 2 might have taken place in March, putting Texas behind only California in population size.

Texas has far fewer people than California, which in 1993 posted a robust 31,211,000 population count - almost 13.2 million more residents than Texas boasts.

Demographers, who are used to dealing in the fluid world of shifting numbers and trends that are difficult to quantify, are hesitant to point to a specific month when Texas will move to No. 2.

"I think that's a little bit bold to suggest an exact date," state demographer Steve Murdock said Wednesday. "I'd just rather suggest that some time during 1994 that should occur."

The Texas population stood at 18,031,484 as of last December, just slightly behind the 18,197,154 estimate for New York compiled by the Census Bureau.

Texas is growing at a much faster clip than New York. A comparison of the two states' growth rates between 1992 and 1993 suggests that Texas is gaining an average 29,000 new residents a month versus 7,300 for New York - assuming that current population growth is occurring at a similar pace.

Federal funding is a sore point for many Texas officials. Gov. Ann Richards frequently points out that in 1992 Texas ranked 46th among states when federal funding was considered on a per capita basis. The Texas Office of State-Federal Relations estimates that the state received $9.9 billion in federal dollars last year.

Added population also brings with it increased representation in Congress. With reapportionment every decade, states gain or lose House seats on the basis of population. In the 1990 reapportionment process, Texas gained three House seats, swelling the state's House delegation to 30. New York lost three seats, for a total of 31.

Population growth also brings new burdens - on education, medical care, infrastructure and a host of other services provided by state and local government.

IN MY OPINION

by Mary Meason

Everyday we hear people say "What is wrong with our teenagers?"

The main thing that's wrong with them is parents, adults, television, cars and lack of discipline, and lowering of learning standards in our schools.

There are many, many good moral and ethical teenagers. But somehow the media never mentions them and we seldom hear of the good deeds and wonderful things that teenagers do. Maybe the public is to blame for that because we have become saturated with violence and anything sensational and we have become addicted to hearing all the bad and we don't hear of all the good that goes on in our world.

Parents are certainly not all to blame for their children's conduct. Necessity has played a big part. During World War II so many women went to work in plants producing war material because all able-bodied men, under 40, were being drafted for the armed forces. That was the beginning of the "latch key kids". Then after the women realized that it was nice to have their own money and extra money, too, they continued working.

Then along came inflation and so many families in our country could not live on only one salary so the wives had to seek employment again. That left children alone until parents got home from work. Children were left to get their own meals and get off to school. Parental guidance was again at a low level. So we can't blame all teenage mistakes on the parents, nor all on teenagers.

Religious training has been neglected for a number of years. Cults, Satanism and Atheism have taken hold of many young people in lieu of Christian training. Young people and children need to be guided and led into Christian living and not left to grope and struggle with their moral life alone.

Sex, it seems is the greatest lure to young people and I suppose it always has been, but sex is more out in the open and less stigma is placed upon an unwed mother and her child. It has always seemed unfair that an illegitimate child should be discriminated against. That child had no choice. If the facts of sex were taught in the home by parents beginning at an early age of understanding and continuing on into the teens, maybe there would be fewer problems. It seems that would be better than having a stranger explain it in a mixed classroom at school.

Television hasn't helped much in raising the standards of teenage living. In the love stories there is nothing left to the imagination. Crimes of all kinds are shown right down to the puddle of blood on the floor or pavement and that in vivid color. Television is something the public can do something about if we would just let the stations know that we object to the types of programs shown.

The Easter Story Lives For El Progreso

El Progreso Club met March 24, 1994 in the sanctuary of First United Methodist for an open meeting celebrating the Holy Season of Easter. Mrs. Lola Pohl and Mrs. Sharon Van Hoose welcomed members and guests with beautiful organ and piano music as a prelude of things to come.

The group was welcomed by Mrs. JoEtta Bumgardner dispersing with regular business to proceed with the anticipated afternoon's program. She, in turn, turned the program over to Mrs. Pohl who was leader for the day. The group joined in singing the hymn "In the Garden" to set the stage for Rev. Mary Helen Cross who told in first person the week preceding the crucifixion of our Savior, Jesus Christ. Rev. Cross was dressed in costume of the day portraying Mary Magdalene and the events she shared with our Lord as he lived that last week previous to His crucifixion. As Mary related, Jesus was a different person, some wanted to kill him while others revered him. She told of the entry into Jerusalem and revealed Mary Magdalene's personal feelings and who was going to be a part of the kingdom of God. The trip went from Bethany to Jerusalem prepare for Passover. She related how, on Thursday, Jesus and the twelve arrived in the Upper Room, how Jesus washed the disciples feet, being asked why he was doing this and he replied that if he was doing this for them, we must do it for others. One would betray him. He went into the garden of Gethsemane where the guards came to arrest him. He dragged the cross up to Golgotha and it was noted only one disciple, John, was with Jesus mother, Mary. We cannot imagine the agony of the crucifixion and only believe what he said, "Forgive them, Father, for they know not what they do." Mary Magdalene (Rev. Cross) told of the disposal of Jesus' body, wrapping it and putting it in the tomb, putting the stone at the entrance while the women watched. When the Sabbath was over the women went to the tomb to prepare for the final burial. Upon arriving they found they body gone. Peter and John came, went in and saw what the others had seen and left. Mary Magdalene saw a man outside, it was Jesus and he was alive. She ran back telling she had seen the Lord. He appeared the next day to others to teach, to proclaim, to love. Mary Magdalene's life changed when he came to town, he feared her and then she sang "He Touched Me".

Sharon Van Hoose then sang, "The Holy City" to bring to end an afternoon of reverence and awe. When the group repeated The Lord's Prayer it dispersed to the Fellowship Hall for refreshments from Easter decorated tables that had been prepared by Mrs. Bumgardner, Mrs. Callie Giesecke and Mrs. Pearl Patten. Cake, coffee, punch, nuts and candies were enjoyed by these members and guests: Mrs. Lola Pohl, Mrs. Opal Pipkin, Mrs. Billie Clifton, Mrs. Pearl Patten, Mrs. Wynona Gilbreath, Mrs. Lila Meador, Mrs. Loys Campbell, Mrs. JoEtta Bumgardner, Mrs. Beverly Vinson, Mrs. JoAnn Dickson, Mrs. Marge Edwards, Mrs. Hazel Donovan, Mrs. Callie Giesecke, Mrs. Josephine Hamilton, Mrs. Evelyn Garrison, Mrs. Bailey Elliott, Mrs. Sue Seigler, Rev. The skirt and train were edged with handbeaded lace. A design of beaded lace accented the front of the skirt and train. A large bow accented the back of the dress. She wore a white headpiece that featured pearl sprays and tulle falling to fingertip length. She carried a cascade arrangement featuring a magnolia with an assortment of white flowers and greenery.

Following tradition, for something old and blue the bride wore the garter worn by her mother 25 years ago; something new was her gown and something borrowed were pennies minted in the year of their births, 1971.

The matron of honor was Kirsti Morris of Post. The maid of honor was Debbie Potter of Lubbock, cousin of the bride. The bridal attendants were Tina Hays and Geton Hathaway, both of Lubbock. They all wore black slimline dresses with v-backs; the long fitted dresses featured kick pleats in the back. They carried bouquets of magnolias and greenery.

In My Opinion

When discipline, chaperones, phonics, spelling books and correct spelling was discarded and teachers were burdened with piles of paperwork, and aides hired to do the teachers job, our schools suffered!

Who, in the state of Texas, has to wade through all the paperwork that is required of the teachers? I imagine all that stuff is shredded!

Oh, well! There is a lot of room for improvement in our adult lives, so we can't blame everything on the teenagers.

Teach Kids Dangers of Tobacco

Everybody knows the dangers of tobacco, right? Wrong.

Kids don't. And that makes them easy prey for a potentially lethal addiction.

Cigarette smoking is the No. 1 health problem in this country — "the single most important preventable cause of death," the U.S. surgeon general says. A major risk factor for heart attack, cancer and stroke, cigarette smoking claims an estimated 417,000 American lives each year, according to the Centers for Disease Control.

Unfortunately, many children don't know about — or ignore — the dangers of smoking. They experiment with smoking and then, before they know it, they're hooked...for life.

Nationwide, the CDC estimates that 75 percent of all smokers start before age 18, and 90 percent before age 21. Every day 3,000 American young people become smokers, new recruits to fill the shoes — and graves — of the 3,500 smokers who quit and the 1,150 smokers who die each day.

Peer pressure is a major reason why 2.2 million teenagers smoke. They're also seduced by cartoon characters that glamorize smoking and sophisticated imagery that promises popularity, power and freedom. Impressionable young people are no match for the persuasive power of $4 billion (over $450,000 an hour) spent yearly for tobacco advertising.

Many children, too young to smoke, are still at risk from tobacco. Second-hand smoke causes up to 300,000 lower respiratory tract infections (such as pneumonia and bronchitis) in children less than 18 months old. Up to 15,000 of these children must be hospitalized. And mothers who smoke 10 or more cigarettes a day can cause up to 26,000 new cases of asthma in their kids each year.

Now, a new menace — smokeless tobacco — is becoming more popular. A recent CDC survey found that nearly one in five males in grades 9-12 now uses smokeless tobacco. And smokeless tobacco has been directly linked to cancers of the mouth, throat and esophagus, gum disease and tooth loss.

Tobacco use in any form must be discouraged for clear medical and health reasons. You can help by taking a few simple steps.

First, set an example. If you smoke or use tobacco products, quit. If you can't quit, don't use tobacco products in front of your children. Warn them of the dangers and keep the products out of your kids' reach. Also, don't allow smoking in your home.

Finally, make sure the schools in your area are smoke-free.

Safeguard the life and health of your children. The vast majority of teens don't use tobacco products. Help your kids grow up free of this danger.

Lindsey's Lines

by Lindsey Williams

Last Tuesday and Thursday many high school students attended the district UIL meet which was held in Paducah. Each student had been practicing their events every time they had a chance. The sponsors made an extra effort to be there to help also.

The stying and practicing payed off. We received third place overall. Several teams and individuals will compete again at Regionals which will take place in Levelland on April 22 at South Plains College.

We hope to do as well there as we did last week. Wish us luck! Each of us appreciates the time and effort that the sponsors spent working with us. Their work is always a big help.

Social Security Tips

by Terry Richardson

If you are getting close to your 62nd birthday, you could be facing a major decision. Should you retire now and begin collecting Social Security benefits, or should you wait until you're 65 when your benefit check will be larger?

For many people, choosing when to retire is not an easy decision. To make the decision that is best for you, there are several facts you should consider. For example, the amount of your monthly benefit check may be the deciding factor.

If you retire at age 62, your monthly benefit will be 20 percent less than if you waited until you reach age 65. Once you choose the reduced benefit, you won't be able to change to the full benefit when you reach age 65.

To help you make your decision, we suggest you call Social Security's toll free number, 1-800-772-1213, and ask for an estimate of the benefits you would receive at age 62 and at age 65 so you can make a comparison. If you take early retirement, benefits are reduced five-ninths of one percent for each month before age 65. The following example will help you to understand how benefits are reduced.

Let's say you have had average earnings over your lifetime and your benefit is estimated to be $800 a month if you continue working until you are 65. If you retire at 62, your monthly check would be reduced by 20 percent for a total of $640.

If you retire at age 63, you would receive $693 each month after a reduction of 13.33 percent. If you wait until age 64, you would receive $746 each month after a reduction of 6.66 percent. These benefit amounts are based on the month of your birthday. But you don't have to retire in your birthday month. As you grow closer to age 65, your benefit increases. If, for example, you retire three months after you become 63, your benefit would be reduced by 11.66 percent and your monthly check would be $706.

Although your benefit will always be reduced if you retire early, your payments may be increased when you reach age 65 if you worked anytime after beginning to receive Social Security checks. You'll get back five-ninths of one percent for each month in which you did not receive a check because your wages exceeded Social Security's earnings limit.

Although you may retire early, you won't be eligible for Medicare until you are 65. Because you will be receiving Social Security benefits, you will automatically be enrolled in Medicare. About three months before your 65th birthday, you should receive your Medicare card. If you don't, call the toll-free number (1-800-772-1213) to let us know. Your automatic enrollment will include both Part A (hospital insurance) and Part B (medical insurance), although you'll have the option to decline Part B coverage.

Officials of Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers (PCG) announce their 37th annual membership meeting will be held April 8.

PCG's meeting will be held in room 107 at the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center in conjunction with the Texas Cotton Ginners' Association (TCGA) convention and trade show April 8-9. All producers and ginners are invited to attend.

Registration for the PCG meeting will begin at 8:30 a.m. outside room 107. The program is scheduled to begin at 9:00 a.m.

PCG officials are pleased to have three outstanding speakers on the agenda for the meeting as well. They are: Norma Trolinder, Plant Physiologist at the United States Department of Agriculture-Agricultural Research Service (USDA-ARS) Plant Stress Lab in Lubbock, to discuss biotechnology and what the future holds for cotton producers in this area; Bill Lovelady, Chairman of the National Cotton Council (NCC) Producer Steering Committee to discuss legislative issues facing the cotton industry; and Steve Verett, Executive Director, Texas Food & Fiber Commission to talk about the role of that agency and how it relates to the cotton industry in Texas.

"I am very excited that Norma Trolinder, Bill Lovelady and Steve Verett were available to address the PCG membership at our 37th annual meeting," says

Donald Johnson, PCG executive vice president. "I believe they each have something of interest to pass on to the cotton producers of the high plains and I encourage everyone to come and hear them."

In addition to PCG's guest speakers the meeting will also feature addresses from PCG President Wayne Huffaker of Tahoka and Johnson. Reports on the High Plains Boll Weevil Control Program and the Plains Cotton Improvement Program are also scheduled.

Following the membership meeting the PCG Board of Directors will meet in rooms 108-109 of the Civic Center for the election of 1994-95 officers. Current officers include Huffaker, Vice President Frank Jones of Lamesa and Secretary-Treasurer Jackie Burris of Wellman. Each of the current PCG officers has served the maximum two-year term in their current position.

In addition to the PCG Annual Meeting and the TCGA trade show next week there will also be a cotton marketing seminar taught by Carl Anderson and Jackie Smith. The workshop, titled "Intermediate Futures and Options - Using More Advanced Strategies to Price Your Cotton", will be held from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. April 6 at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station north of Lubbock. The registration fee for the workshop is $30 and participation is limited to 40.

DEC Helps Shape Leaders of Tomorrow

Dickens Electric is proud to sponsor and contribute to the youth of our service area in various activities. One example is the successful stock show season which has just passed. This summer Scott Harrell and Johanna Nuding, both of Jayton High School will be spending two weeks in Washington, D.C. Also this summer, plans are being made for DEC to sponsor an Electric Camp for 4-Hers in our service area. More details will be forthcoming on this camp as plans are finalized.

Helping sponsor judging contests for FFA and 4-H members, baseball teams, various awards, and donating to scholarship funds to aid students who wish to continue their education are a few more ways DEC serves the youth of our service area.

Mental Health

by Ron Trusler, M.Ed., L.P.C.
Assistant Executive Director Central Plains Center for Mental Health, Mental Retardation and Substance Abuse.

WHAT IS DEPRESSION?

Depression can cause a person to withdraw from others, quit doing things they once enjoyed doing and even feel physically bad. Most of us have felt sort of down or "blue" at times. This usually happens when we are under lots of stress and tension. But when these feelings last a long time or get really serious, its time to get some professional help.

Lots of people are depressed but its often ignored. If it is severe it can disrupt a person's life, work and emotional well-being. It can affect anyone. The elderly may get depressed due to physical problems, retirement, declining income, various losses they have suffered, etc. The middle aged are the most common. Their goals may seem out-of-reach, children leaving home, etc. Even the younger adults, adolescents, and children due to responsibilities, search for identity, physical changes, conflict, etc.

Women are twice as likely to suffer depression than men. It's not for certain if this is due to biological differences or because its more common for women to show their feelings.

Some people feel that admitting depression or taking medication for it is wrong, that its a sign of weakness. Not so!! Admitting it is the first important step to getting relief and if taking medication is required, its not any worse than taking medication for physical problems. If you're suffering from depression, call someone that can give you information on how to get some help.

WHEN YOU CALL THE CLINIC

The time may come when you need to call your health care provider for a particular problem. Here are some points to keep in mind so you can receive the help you need.

Before you call the clinic, take a few minutes to get ready:

1. Make a list of your symptoms
  - * What's bothering you? Be as specific as possible.
  - * How long have you had the problem?
2. Write down any questions you want to ask.
3. If you have questions about your medicine, bring the bottle to the telephone.

The person who answers the phone will ask you a few questions, including:

1. Your full name.
2. Your phone number.
3. The reason you are calling.

Then your call will be referred to the best person to help you:

1. The receptionist or clerk can make an appointment for you.
2. The nurse or aide can answer most of your questions about health problems. If that person doesn't know the answer she will ask the provider for more information.

SEEDS FROM THE SOWER®

Michael A. Guido
Metter, Georgia

A friend was asked, "Why are you fat fellows so good natured?"

"Because," he answered, "we can't fight or run."

But a Christian must do both.

The Bible says, "Fight the good fight of faith." A believer is born to battle. It's a battle against self, Satan and sin. No one can be beaten who'll never stop fighting.

The Bible adds, "Run from anything that gives you evil thoughts." Why? Evil thoughts lead to evil deeds.

But where should we run? The wise man answered, "The Lord is a strong fortress. The godly run to Him and are safe."
So start now!

MATADOR NEWS

KEITHS KEEP ON MOVING!

Joan and Charles Keith spent the last weekend in February visiting their grandson, Jack Schmalstieg and his parents, Liz and John, in Georgetown, prior to their attending the Eighth Annual Texas Testing Conference at the Stouffer Hotel in Austin.

During the conference, they attended workshops about testing, from Special Education to the Gifted and Talented, from pre-kindergarten through high school and into college, and from achievement tests to the TAAS, TASP, ACT and SAT. The knowledge they gained will be of great help to them as they work with the entire Motley County community, as well as the other districts served by Joan through the Rolling Plains Education Co-op; Guthrie, Paducah, Patton Springs, Spur, and Valley.

Spring Break found Joan and Charles once again in Los Angeles, visiting her daughter, Judi, who hosted an Open House for them on March 13 at the new home they helped her locate following the earthquake in January. Attending were family and close friends who were eager to hear all about Matador. The remainder of the week saw them entertained noon and night, including "High Tea" at the Peninsula Hotel in Beverly Hills, a special Japanese Family Dinner, and a Saint Patrick's Day Celebration.

During their absence, final plans were formulated for their new home, and ground was finally broken! They are looking forward to the completion of the "retirement retreat" - hopefully by the end of July.

On March 26, they participated in a Passover Seder at Temple Shaareth Israel in Lubbock, and it was Viola and Charlie Keith's introduction to the special holiday celebration that is centered around children and the story of the Exodus from Egypt.

Flora Mae Hall (Phillips) of Memphis visited with Cora Hall Sunday afternoon.
