LOCAL YOUTHS WIN FIRST IN STATE

RUSTY WILLMON AND TRICIA PALMER

By Tricia Palmer

Motley County sent four 4-H'ers to State Roundup at Texas A&M University. The four were Jenifer Davis, daughter of Bob and Rosalee Davis; Rhonda Long, daughter of Rodney and Nona Long; Rusty Willmon, son of Dean and Billie Willmon; and Tricia Palmer, daughter of James and Pat Palmer. Ray Minkley, Nona Long and Billie Willmon were sponsors for this event.

Jenifer and Rhonda gave their demonstration on how to make curtains. They placed 7th, and were told they had a good demonstration.

Rusty and Tricia's demonstration was on how to cut your medical dollar. They placed first on state level out of fifteen.

They left on Monday, June 8 and went to Brownwood, the State 4-H Center, and spent the night. Early Tuesday they headed to A&M. They arrived at A&M around 2:00 p.m. and found their rooms. Wednesday, they gave their demonstrations and that night received awards.

Everyone had to pack and leave Thursday morning. Every night there was a dance at the Memorial Student Center, MSC. After a hard day of work and play there was an assembly at night. Tuesday night a musical group, The Shoppe played and sang. They had played up front for stars like Barbara Mandrell, Ronnie Milsap and others.

They all said they had fun and were ready to go back next year.

Eight Seconds Isn't Very Long

Jeffrey Burkes and Scott Read attended the Jim Shoulders School to sharpen their skills in bull and bucking horse riding. These young men are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Burkes and Mr. and Mrs. Truitt Read of Matador.

Jeffrey and Scott found out eight seconds can seem like an eternity if you're trying to stay aboard a raging bull or bucking horse.

Jim Shoulders Rodeo School, just east of Henryetta, OK was the nation's first school for cowboys. In its 27th year, the school still attracts cowboys of all ages. Every state except Rhode Island and New Hampshire has been represented over the years.

"If every kid had to go up against pitchers like Dwight Gooden or Tom Seaver, no one would ever learn to hit a baseball," Shoulders said. "That's the purpose of this school, give cowboys the basics and a chance to build their confidence."

"The difference in our school and other schools, is we have good school stock," Shoulders said. "That helps the beginners all the way up to the veterans. We have NFR (National Finals Rodeo) stock, but only let the experienced cowboys ride them. It's pretty easy to get the right kind of bulls, but it's more difficult to find horses that are gentle in the chute but buck right to help them learn."

The students come from all walks of life. The majority, though, are young cowboys hoping to improve. This session of 25 students included a 24-year-old certified public accountant from Fort Worth, a 15-year-old cowboy from Mississippi and a father and son team from Frenklinton, La.

The personable Shoulders, 58, captured 16 world championships competing from 1945-1970. He was an eight time bull riding champion and captured the all-around title five times.

Few can argue cowboys are a tough breed. Many aspiring cowboys annually visit the Shoulders school for one of his three summer sessions.

This was Jeffrey's third time to attend this school.

BARBARA'S BYLINES

Recently I made a weekend trip with two teenage boys, my son Jason and his friend Joe Bowden.

They had the opportunity to go to their first stock car race. They really enjoyed the loud noise, the beat up cars, the minor accidents, the dust and of course, looking for cute girls.

While at the races, an older man sat in front of us who had long lengths of white cord making dog leashes (could be used for other things - even tying up teenage boys). The boys got interested in this so the man graciously showed them how to braid two cords together. This was an added treat for them. You never know what you will learn tomorrow or where you will learn something new.

Recently while talking to some new people in town, they wanted to know if anyone ever cleaned up the City Park. I told them I didn't know, that it used to be kept clean, but I really didn't know who did it.

In case you haven't looked lately, it has really grown up in weeds and grass.

In case you haven't been by the baseball field "Forrest Park" the youth have really been having some good games and the concession stand has good, frito pies, nachos and cokes, tea and candy, etc., so go by and support the youth during their play-offs this week and next.

The Tribune welcomes Tricia Palmer as a new part time employee.

Jo Ann's Jots & Jingles

By Jo Ann Dickson

I have a pet peeve! I hate to see a man sit in a restaurant with his hat on. I hate it even more when he is sitting with a lady.
 I was glad to find that I wasn't the only one who felt this way. In the LETTERS TO THE EDITOR of the San Antonio Express some writers have been expressing their views on the subject.
 One writer said, "Doesn't the writer realize that she is in Texas? Hats on men in Texas are worn neither for warmth nor protection from the elements, but are worn for the effect they have on people like you who obviously are from Yankee land."
 It's a symbol all Texans do by choice simple because we are Texans and proud of it."

Another writer said, "Ma'am, if God had meant for Texas men to remove their hats upon entering a cafe, He would have put a Confederate flag, a picture of John Wayne or a big doe trophy on the wall of every beanyery south of the Red River."

Still another writer had this to say, "It is proper to wear hats in automobiles or trucks. If you see any men wearing hats or caps in restaurants, they are probably Yankees. Texans know better."

My reply to the replies is that I was born and reared by Yankees but I was taught men don't wear hats indoors. It has nothing to do with Texans or Yankees. It is simply GOOD MANNERS!!

"Son Beams"

By June Keltz

On the Eastern perimeter of the yard of my home, stood an enormous Cottonwood tree. It's thirsty roots reached out into a nearby dirt tank where they shared occupancy with mud turtles and frogs. It's heavy green foliage afforded a welcomed shade for my cousins and me as we played and as our mothers shucked corn and shelled peas during canning time. It's sturdy low branches served as a hoist for freshly butchered beef and pork. When revival time came to the Barton community, a team of young preachers from Wayland College came and accepted our invitation to have their meals with us. After lunch they climbed the awaiting tree where each found his own personal place of study and meditation among the sheltering limbs.

For many years, only the birds enjoyed it's hospitality, but then C.M.'s children, my children and their friends grew old enough to be beckoned by it's charm. Only the tree itself holds the secrets of numerous forbidden articles that were carried into and left in it's possession.

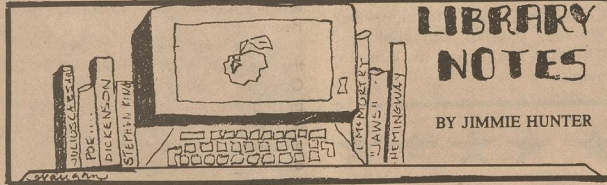

As my parents reached their golden years and the sound of children's laughter was silenced, the huge trunk became an object of therapy for mother. All around and as far upward as she could reach, she strung antique keepsakes of glass and iron giving the old tree a colorful, festive look.

Today only a hole remains where the majestic plant once grew, but it had its season and it performed well. Two generations from now, no one will even know of it's existence - only the Creator Himself.

The word of God likens a righteous man to a tree planted by streams of water, which yields its fruit in its season, its leaf does not wither and whatever he does, he prospers. (Ps. 1:3) We, like trees, are here for a given time and for a purpose. We are to touch people's lives, to help them, to pray for them, to lead them to Jesus. Our lives are meant to bear fruits of righteousness. The time will come when we, like the tree, will be remembered only by our Creator. We who are born again rejoice in knowing that where a decayed tree leaves only an empty hole, a decayed body has a soul with new life breathed into it by the Spirit of God, a life that is eternal because of the shedding of blood by God's only Son.

We are saddened for those who have not accepted the redemptive work of Jesus because, Jesus said in Matt. 7:19, "Every tree that does not bear good fruit is cut down and thrown into the fire."

HEALTHY COUPLE RELATIONSHIPS

As June is often referred to as the "marrying" month, I want to tell you about one of the most important ingredients of a successful marriage - communications with each other.

Lack of communication skills is a problem common to many couples - even those married for a number of years. Yet a healthy couple relationship requires sharing feelings as well as words.

Couples who communicate on a feeling level as well as a verbal level use many non-threatening techniques to get in touch with their own and their partner's feelings.

Talking about feeling is always a risk. Partners risk confrontation, accusations about being unfeeling, or intruding into one's privacy. Yet intimacy is built upon risk, the rewards of taking that risk can be enormous.

Intimacy is an aspect of relationships that may be learned and shared. In our culture however, many men have not been encouraged to develop this side of themselves. Many wives will say, "He's a wonderful provider, a good father, and always faithful, but..." Then she indicates he cannot talk or show feelings.

Couples who share their feelings begin to become friends, not just spouses. Because marriages often begin with a sexual attraction rather than friendship, some couples never become good friends.

Being a good friend means being able to share ideas, activities and feelings without being owned or judged. Even couples who develop friendship find that life is not always smooth, but communication skills help.

When marriage partners open up and let the other into their lives, intimate relationships develop.

Intimacy through communication is one of the most important aspects of the relationship that couples develop throughout their married lives.

An 8 o'clock breakfast on the morning of May 30, 1987, ended the teaching career of Elwanda Martin McCaghren. She retired after thirty-five years of teaching in the Petersburg Schools.

The breakfast was provided by the Petersburg Chamber of Commerce and served in the school cafeteria. On this occasion school superintendent, Bert Grimes, presented Mrs. McCaghren with a thirty-five year diamond service pin.

Social Security Tips

by Terry J. Clements

People who plan to apply for monthly Social Security retirement, survivor, or disability benefits can help speed the process if they are well prepared at the time they apply.

The applications are designed to obtain information about the worker, spouse, children, and work history, including military service and railroad employment. Applications for disability benefits also record information about the person's disabling condition.

A person will need certain documents to support his or her claim. Only original copies of documents or copies certified by the issuing agency can be used. Uncertified photocopies are not acceptable.

Some or all of the following documents may be required in a particular case: Birth certificate, proof of military service, W-2 form or self-employment tax return for the most recent year, proof of marriage, proof of divorce, children's birth certificates, and death certificate if applying for survivor benefits. People applying for disability benefits should have information about their work history and information about the sources that treated them for their medical condition.

A person should not delay applying for benefits because he or she does not have all the required evidence. People at the Social Security office may be able to suggest alternatives.

When possible, a person should apply 2 or 3 months before he or she wants benefits to begin. This will allow plenty of time to process the claim so checks will start on time.

People do not have to visit a Social Security office to apply. They can take care of this by telephone or they can call to set up an appointment. You may contact us at 1401 B West 5th or call us at 293-9623.

ANNOUNCEMENT SOCIAL SECURITY

A representative of the Social Security Administration will be working at the First State Bank in Matador on the fourth Wednesday of each month: July 22, Aug. 26, Sept. 23 from 1:30 p.m. until 2:45 p.m.

You can get free help with your Medicare claims by calling 1-800-442-2620.

Many things can be handled by telephone. Call 1-800-293-9623.

Kevin Scarbrough Named Academic All-American

KEVIN SCARBROUGH

The National Secondary Education Council announced recently that Kevin Scarbrough has been named an Academic All-American.

The NSEC has established the Academic All-American Scholar Award Program in order to offer deserved recognition to superior students who excel in the Academic disciplines. The Academic All-American Scholars must earn a 3.3 or better grade point average. Only Scholars selected by a secondary school instructor, counselor, or other qualified sponsor are accepted. These scholars are also eligible for other awards given by the NSEC. These are awards few students can ever hope to attain.

Kevin Scarbrough who attends Patton Springs School was nominated for this National Award by Curtis Smith, coach. Kevin will appear in the Academic All-American Scholar directory, which is published nationally.

Recognizing and supporting our youth is more important than ever before in American history. Certainly, winners of the Academic All-American Awards should be congratulated and appreciated for their dedication to excellence and achievement," said Dr. George Stevens, Executive Director of the National Secondary Education Council.

The Council selects Academic All-American Scholars upon the exclusive recommendations of teachers, coaches, counselors, and other qualified sponsors. Once awarded, the students may be recognized by the NSEC for other honors.

Kevin is the son of Ronald and Bonnie Scarbrough of Afton and the grandson of Pat and Julie Rolinson of New Deal.

1987 Tax Payments

AUSTIN, Tex. -- State Comptroller Bob Bullock Thursday sent checks totaling $52.6 million in local sales tax to 1,039 cities that levy the one-percent city tax. Bullock said 1987 payments were down 6 percent as compared to payments to date made in June last year.

Houston's check was the largest - $8.2 million - bringing total payments in 1987 to $66.6 million, down 9 percent over 1986. Dallas received $6.3 million for a total of $50.1 million in total payments for this year, a decrease of 5 percent.

San Antonio's payment of $3.3 million increased that city's 1987 payment to a total of $26.6 million, down 6 percent over last year.

Austin's check for $2.4 million pushed payments to $19.4 million in 1987 - down 8 percent.

Fort Worth received $1.9 million for a 1987 total of $16 million, down 9 percent. El Paso's payment of $1.3 million brought its 1987 total to $11.1 million.

Bullock also sent checks totaling $24.3 million to the state's six metropolitan Transit Authorities.

June checks represent taxes collected on sales made in April and reported to the Comptroller by May 20.

SUMMER JOURNEY OF THE TEXAS WAGON TRAIN

June will find the wheels of the wagons once again rolling around Texas. The summer journey is on tour of ranches in the West Texas area. "Wagons Ho" will once again ring out by Wagon Master Garry France, on June 13, in Sterling City. After stopping at several ranches on the route, the wagon train will complete its journey at the Pitchfork Ranch, June 27, after two days of crossing country on the Beggs Ranch and the Pitchfork Ranch.

The original organizer of last years Texas Sesquicentennial

Wagon Train and president of the Texas Wagon Train, Jan France said, "The Texas Wagon Train is rolling not only in June, but will roll three times a year for two weeks. Each wagon train journey will be planned for a different area of the state."

The Texas Wagon Train completed a very successful two-week journey from Junction to Uvalde in March.

The fall wagon trail journey will be a very special event-ONLY authentic and antique wagons will roll through North East Texas. The wagon Train which will roll out October 3-17, will be followed by horseback riders who are sure to enjoy the fall changing of the trees.

Ms. Stacey Day Westbrook of Roaring Springs is accompanying friends on this trail ride.

CAVALRY AND COMANCHES MEET IN FRIENDLY CONFRONTATION

The U.S. Cavalry will once again confront the fierce Comanche warriors as Bill Neeley, historian and author of Quanah Parker And His People, details the clash from the Indian's point of view. History buffs are invited by the sponsoring 4th Cavalry Memorial Regiment to Neeley's talk at the South Plains Electric Cooperative Community Room on June 25 at 7 p.m. The meeting room is located at 110 N. Amarillo Road, north of the Mackenzie Park entrance, Lubbock.

One hundred and thirteen years ago on this date, 700 hand-picked Comanche, Cheyenne, and Kiowa warriors attacked a buffalo hunters' outpost in the Panhandle, "The Battle of Adobe Walls." Neeley reveals how the Indians were defeated by 28 frontiersmen, their own medicine man, and a lucky shot from a buffalo gun.

The 4th Cavalry, a history reenactment group, is dedicated to promoting the colorful history of the Indian Wars period when Mackenzie's 4th Cavalry operated in this area. Besides educational talks, their activities include living history displays and demonstrations, training sessions, encampments, research and historical preservation, and sabre and shooting matches.

The general public is encouraged to attend this informative talk.

Refreshments will be served. For more information, contact Larry Goldston: 806-745-0234.

FEDERAL LAND BANK LOWERS INTEREST RATES, ENTERS PHASE II OF FIXED RATE LOAN PROGRAM

AUSTIN -- Officials of the Federal Land Bank of Texas today announced plans to extend their new fixed rate, purchase money loan program.

Favorable response to the Land Bank's fixed-rate loan program in May prompted the bank to initiate Phase II of the program. Phase II offers qualified purchasers a 9 3/8 percent interest rate for the purchase of rural residences. Each program has a 1 point closed loan fee to the bank.

"The bank's Executive Committee reviewed the overall benefits of the program and determined that the program would be beneficial to our stockholders by helping stabilize the rural land market in Texas," says Don Rogge, president of the Federal Land Bank of Texas.

Rogge noted that during the first 30 days of the program, 298 applications totaling $47 million were submitted to Federal Land Bank Associations across the state.

"We are encouraged by the response to the new program. We feel it could be an indicator that the real estate market in Texas is beginning to turn around," Rogge said.

The program fixes the interest rate for 10 years and converts to the bank's variable rate at the end of the 10 years. Purchasers must qualify under the Land Bank's usual credit standards and use the money for new purchases only.

According to Rogge, rates for the bank's existing variable rate borrowers also were reduced on June 1. The new rates are 10.25 percent on farm and ranch loans and 10.50 percent on rural residence and farm-related business loans.

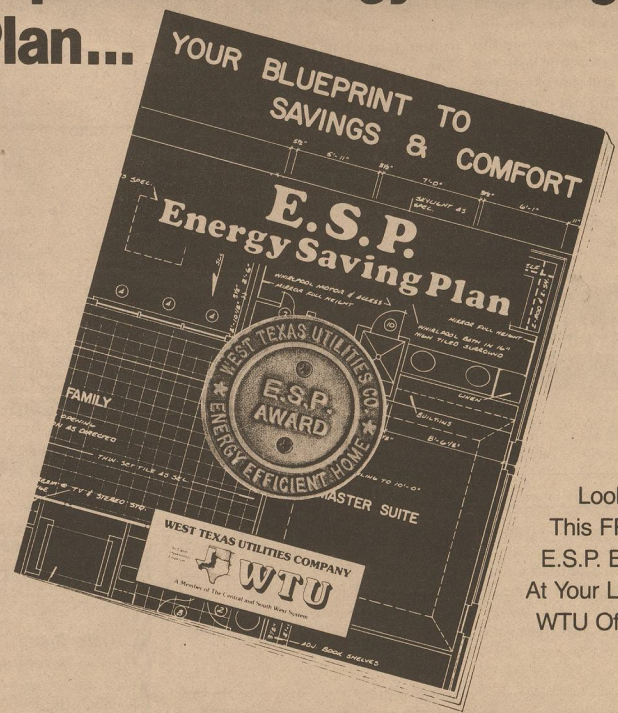

The Federal Land Bank and 44 Federal Land Bank Associations located throughout Texas have $2.38 billion in loans outstanding on 37,000 loans to approximately 100,000 Texas farmers and ranchers.

Those interested in more information should contact their local Federal Land Bank Association, the bank president said.

YOUR TEEN'S DIET: HOW YOU CAN HELP

Your influence can have a lot to do with how well your teens eat and how healthy they are—now, and in the years to come. Here are some important facts from top nutritionists surveyed by the Opinion Research Corporation (ORC) to help your family stay healthier:

- The best way to control weight is by balancing food intake with adequate exercise. Many nutritionists feel that the major cause of calorie imbalance in teens is the lack of physical activity, not excess food intake.
- To prevent chronic diseases in later life, most nutritionists cite eating a well-balanced diet and reducing fat intake. Teens should try to limit their intake of salt.
- When it comes to what constitutes a balanced diet, most nutritionists believe that snack foods, such as chocolate, can be included—provided other nutritious foods are a part of the diet. Some snack foods, in fact, can be a source of many nutrients such as protein, calcium, riboflavin and carbohydrates.

STAMPEDE Part II

A few men are left to tell of the stampede of the Hitson-Kidwell herd of cattle that were being held in the old wood corral near the spots. It had stood and settled for on the outside are running as fast as they could on the range stopped being able to break down the solid wood walls of the corral, the cattle piled up, one upon another and overflowed, absolutely crossing the fence on the crushed, broken, mutilated bodies of both the dead and living cattle on both sides of that wood corral that would not yield to the furious pressure of that frightened, mad, crazed herd. Yes! Yes! A few men are left that saw that shocking scene of enough dead and maimed cattle to sink a battleship.

If you wish a detailed personal account, look up W.P. Moore of Hamlin, Texas; Dan Stephens of Royston, Texas; Eli Kidwell of Dallas; Jim Savage of Swearingin; and Gill Green of Dickens, Texas. Any of them, I am sure, were present during the run and saw the horrible result the next morning. The time was about 1891.

Old Joe Wheeler, an old "HIT" cowboy, said he and other "HIT" men were placed in a winter camp and given the task of building that wood corral. They set upright posts made of large dead mesquite trees some four or five feet apart and hauled dead timber and placed close and securely between the spots. It had stood and settled for many years and had held thousands of cattle prior to the great loss mentioned above.

Stampedes, like cyclones, are of short duration and usually both dangerous and costly. Runs in daytime, when one can see, amounts to little for the cattle can be thrown into a mill for a short time and then the mill is broken. A night run is something else entirely.

The meaning of a "mill" is that the cattle are swung into a circle and bunched together. The cattle on the outside are running as fast as they can run, while the cattle in the center may be walking around or even standing still. The men just sit around on their horses while the cattle quieten down a bit. If on the trail, in time, the mill is broken, and the cattle are strung out once more on the road. Those cattle on the run in a circle evidently think they are getting away.

At night, if it is a dark one, in ones effort to circle the cattle may be working against a man on the other side and it produces what is known in cow parlance as "laning" them, or stringing them out and scattering the herd.

In trail days it was a known fact that some herds occasionally became spoiled about stampeding and various methods were used to break them from the habit of running. Often they became exceedingly unruly and hard to handle. Lost flesh, crippling each other, delaying their progress and numbers were lost from herds and never recovered.

Once upon a time the Reynolds (X) Ranch on the Clear Fork of the Brazos, started a trail herd north. After reaching the open prairie country, somewhere in northern Oklahoma or southern Kansas, they stampeded and got away from the boys. They were rounded-up the next day with nominal, if any, loses. That night they repeated, and on and on for several days.

No progress was being made, so the boss sent a man to town to wire Gentry, the (X) foreman back home for advice. Gentry didn't answer the telegram, but boarded a train and went North, as near as possible to the herd, where he obtained a horse and went to the outfit.

The cattle were still running and getting away, but had been rounded together again when Gentry arrived. Naturally the outfit was worn to a frazzel. Horses, men, and cattle! Gentry monkeyed around the wagon until very late in the afternoon, when he forked his horse and rode out to the herd. He told his foreman to take his men to the wagon, eat supper, and go to bed for a little rest.

Gentry's action stunned the boss, and he said, "You don't think you can hold this herd by yourself, do you, when the whole outfit hasn't been able to do it?"

Gentry told him to go ahead, that he had the cattle. The herd began to scatter and feed out in all directions. Gentry just rode around and let them spread out. About dark, he too rode to the wagon, staked his horse, and went to bed. Next morning they ate breakfast, went out and found their cattle nearby, counted them, put them on the road again, the first move in several days. That ended the running, at least for the time being. The simple expedient of turning them loose on the range stopped the habit of running. Range cattle do not run to any great extent.

That exhausted herd with nerves a jitter, fed or grazed until filled, then laid down until morning.

Mark Gentry hadn't trailed cattle through the sixties, seventies, and eighties without learning his onions!

HEALTH TIPS

SKIN CANCERS RELATED TO LONG-TERM SUN EXPOSURE

Basking in the summer sun may seem like a relaxing and healthy activity. But the Texas Medical Association says the long-term effects of too much sun include skin cancer.

There are three types of skin cancer: basal cell carcinoma, squamous cell carcinoma, and malignant melanoma. A chief cause of all three types seems to be years of exposure to strong sunlight.

In basal cell carcinoma, the most common type of skin cancer, cells just below the surface of the skin become cancerous, and a tumor develops and becomes ulcerated. The ulcer grows slowly as it destroys the tissue at its edges. Unlike many other malignant (life-threatening) growths, it does not spread to other parts of the body until it has been present a long time. A basal cell carcinoma can be removed in a number of ways, and all methods have a high success rate.

Squamous cell carcinoma is characterized by a firm, fleshy, hard-surfaced lump that develops and grows steadily. In some cases, it looks like a wart. In others, it looks like an ulcer, but the ulceration never heals completely. A squamous cell tumor usually appears on a place that is constantly exposed to sunlight, such as the lower lip, the ears, and the hands. Like basal cell carcinoma, this skin cancer usually can be treated successfully if it is detected early.

Malignant melanoma is the most serious of the three types of skin cancer because it often metastasizes, or spreads, throughout the body. In this form of skin cancer, a tumor develops from cells in a mole or sometimes from pigment cells in what looks like ordinary skin. The most common symptom is change in a mole present since childhood. When malignant melanoma is diagnosed, treatment consists of removal of the melanoma along with a wide margin of nearby tissue. In addition, any nearby lymph glands may be removed, because the cancer can spread through them. In some cases, cytotoxic, or anticancer, drugs also are given.

Although physicians can treat many skin cancers successfully, prevention is the wisest course. Limit your exposure to strong sunlight and use sunscreen or sunblock lotion with an SPF (Sun Protection Factor) rating of at least 10.

USING YOUR OWN BLOOD

Autologous blood transfusion, or pre-donating your own blood for use during surgery, is becoming an increasingly popular procedure because of its ability to minimize risk of disease transmission.

According to Dr. Louis H. Nannini, director of laboratories at physicians and Lubbock's United Blood Services in cases of elective surgery. These cases may include cosmetic, orthopedic and some pediatric surgery cases.

An autologous donor may begin donating blood up to 35 days but no closer than three days before the surgery, Nannini said. A unit of blood is taken each time during a relatively painless, half-hour procedure.

Nannini said it is recommended that donations take place five to seven days apart, meaning a person could collect as much as four to five units of blood during the 35-day period. In most cases, only one to two units are needed.

A person's unused blood may qualify for donation to someone else, Nannini said, providing the donor meets all the requirements of a regular blood donor. This possibility depends on the donor's health, and any blood donated to someone else would go through the usual degree of testing for diseases, including hepatitis and AIDS.

Another type of autologous donation may be made with blood lost during the person's surgery. The blood can be collected, washed and returned to the patient through the use of high-speed equipment, which is available at Methodist Hospital.

This procedure is an especially good one for heart and chest procedures, but is not recommended in cancer surgery, where cancer cells may be reinfused into the body.

A decision to make an autologous donation is one between you and your physician. The patient wishing to use this procedure fills out a form that is signed by the physician, and the request goes to United Blood Services. United Blood Services collects the blood and gets it to the hospital prior to the surgery.

INSTRUCTION ON WEIGHT MANAGEMENT

Methodist Hospital is offering a weight reduction program, called TakeShape, that give professional guidance in nutrition and fitness.

Participants learn how to make lifestyle changes through diet and exercise. At the end of the program, they will know how to make sensible dietary choices that will help break previous bad habits. They also will receive an exercise plan specially tailored to meet their needs.

IRISHMAN JOINS WATSON REUNION

by Monte Watson

Colum was an honorary adopted member of the Watson Clan. The Watson family has long prided itself concerning its Irish origins.

Eugene Watson, upon learning that a full-blooded Irishman was camping out at the Springs Ranch, checked around the campsites with his son Larry, and quickly located the young McCann. Eugene explained to Colum that the Watson family was of Irish descent and was having a reunion, and that he would be more than welcome to attend and engage in the activities. Colum accepted and thanked the Mayor of Roaring Springs for his gracious invitation.

Colum quickly won over the assembled family members by both his Irish accent and personable character. When asked to give a speech, Colum accepted, delighting everyone by his accounts of himself, his present activities here in the U.S.A. and his home country of Ireland.

Colum McCann is 21 years old, and is bicycling across America, gaining a better understanding of both our country and its people. Colum graduated from school early, at the age of 16. He then received a 2 year degree in Journalism at the age of 18. Upon completion of his studies, Colum cycled the countries of the British Isles and Continental Europe, broadening his horizons both geographically and intellectually. Colum became fluent in three languages, English, Irish and French.

Finishing his tour of Europe, Colum set his sights upon America. He arrived in Boston, Mass., with his bicycle, traveled south and began his tour of America. Colum travels usually with almost 100 pounds of gear consisting of food, clothing, tent, sleeping bag and his few personal belongings.

Colum works for an Irish newspaper, sending back articles on his journey through America. So far in his travels, Colum has always met a good samaritan along the way, that has taken him in for whatever reason, whether to wait out a storm, provide a meal or simply to do the laundry. Colum also stated that so far in his trip across America, "The United State of Texas, has been the most friendly and hospitable state he has been in."

Colum stayed for Sunday morning services with the Watson families at the Springs Ranch. He had lunch with them and then bid them all good bye and went on his way. Colum is on a time schedule, in that he receives mail from family and friends back home arriving general delivery at a predetermined destination and date, which in this particular instance is Amarillo. The Watson families wish their newly-adopted cousin, Colum McCann good luck on his journey.

Methodist Bible School Has Closing Program

TRAVELS WITH PAUL was the theme of the Vacation Bible School held at the United Methodist Church the past week with an enrollment of 65 children attending the Christian fellowship.

The commencement program and presentation of the diplomas was held at 4:30 p.m. in the church sanctuary. Mrs. Frank Pohl played the processional and accompanied on the piano the special VBS songs, including the theme song, "Who Was Paul?". Each class sang songs and recited scripture verses they had learned.

Mrs. Billy Ray Slover, director of VBS, expressed her appreciation for the good attendance and for all who had contributed help. She presented certificates of appreciation to the following who helped with Bible School: Pre-School, Mrs. Truitt Read and Bonnie Richards; Primary, Mrs. Barbara Luster and Tina Cummings; Juniors, Mrs. Agnes Aaron and Mrs. Gene Louder; Music, Mrs. Ronald Richards and Mrs. Frank Pohl; Crafts, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Behtard, Mrs. Lewis Bostick, Tanya Cummings and Lavenia Bowden; Refreshments, Mrs. H.R. Jameson and Mrs. Vance Gilbreath and Recreation, Memori Assister, April Vandiver and Paige Williams.

Following the program, an arts and crafts Open House was enjoyed and refreshments of freezer ice cream, cake, cookies, fruit punch and coffee were served to the many who attended. A large chocolate sheet cake baked by Mrs. Bethard, decorated with miniature church houses made by the Junior VBS students and a colorful outline of Paul's Missionary Journey centered the serving table laid with a lace cloth.

The Rev. Bruce Parks, a District Supt. of the UMC Plainview Conference, visited the Bible School, Wednesday.

Love the Lord, all his saints! The Lord preserves the faithful, but the proud he pays back in full.

VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL at First Baptist Church is in full swing. Commencement will be Friday evening at 5:30 p.m. so that all may attend the baseball play-offs later in the evening. Pictured are Kyle Brandon, Misty Thomas, Tanya Barkley and Bert Darsey with their creation of Noah and the Ark.

HOBBY-BACKED, SENATE-APPROVED BUDGET WOULD INCREASE SPENDING BY ABOUT 12 PERCENT

AUSTIN -- Governor Bill Clements today cited the bloated Senate-approved budget as the major stumbling block in current negotiations to resolve the state's fiscal problems.

"Lt. Gov. Hobby and the Senate have passed a budget of approximately $41 billion," Clements said. "In the category of major funds, the Hobby budget represents an 11.8 percent increase, or a whopping $3 billion. Specific programs include the Department of Human Services, up 36.6 percent, or $664.4 million, and medical schools, up 26.2 percent, or $294.8 million.

"The people of Texas do not understand why Mr. Hobby and the Senate would approve a budget that increases spending 11.8 percent at a time when the vast majority of Texans are forced to live within extremely tight household budgets," he added.

"My budget," the governor noted, "starts at 1987 spending levels, plus 2 percent. I am willing to negotiate in a full spirit of solving the problem. But just as most Texans, I am not willing to see the state budget increase 11.8 percent. It is not justified.

"Texas taxpayers cannot afford it. Our Texas economy cannot stand it. And I will not agree to it."

*Includes nearly $1 billion in Education and General Funds (tuition-related funds and grant money).
