Lubbock Sports Writer Sees Team Tops To Win Class B Regional Championship

THE CHIPS are down. Matador Matadors face their first 1956 conference play Friday night when they meet the Estelline Bears at Estelline. Matador fans are confident, with the Matadors rated as tops in the Class B conference. Coach Clifford Bradshaw is looking ahead, however, and does not see the championship in the bag despite the rose-hued glasses through which Lubbock Avalanche Sports Writer George Wallace looked at the Matadors this week. Verbatim account of the Matadors as written by Wallace, follows:

Singers' Meeting Planned

The hospitality for the ex-students and teachers is not open to the public, it was stressed. Those who are eligible to attend include all high school students and their guests (one each), ex-students, teachers and their immediate families, law officers and patrolmen.

ASC Office Hopes To Make Available Vital Information

CURRENT MYSTERY to almost everyone in drought-stricken Texas is the details of the Soil Bank program which promises to bridge one of the worst disasters in the state's history.

ASC offices have withheld partial information waiting for full details of the plan. Because of its extreme complex nature the Soil Bank plan is going to require a lot of explaining, according to observers. Both the press and ASC offices have felt that partial information would only add to confusion. They want the whole story as it affects owners and operators in this area.

A public meeting is scheduled in the District Court room here Saturday night at 8 p. m. Thomas E. Moore, Motley county ASC office manager is in Childress attending a two-day meeting where he hopes to obtain full details of the Soil Bank plan and explain it to interested owners and operators.

A record attendance is expected since the Soil Bank remains as the most hopeful means to bridge the drought disaster. Rumors and partial information have spread rapidly since announcement of the plan. With complete information as it affects this particular area of extreme importance, Mr. Moore has authorized the Tribune to announce the meeting.

Accompanying Mr. Moore at the Childress meeting is the county ASC committee, W. T. Ross of Flomot, Ben Edwards of Matador and W. H. Marshall of Roaring Springs, also Mrs. Mary Jones of the local ASC office.

Apothecary Globe Filled With Candy Object Of Contest

Good at guessing? Your talent may earn $5 at Stanley Pharmacy next week when the firm "sellabration" its 11th birthday of continuous business in Matador. Bob Stanley, manager, has placed a large apothecary globe in the window filled with pieces of candy. The second closest guess registered will receive $2.50. No duplicate prizes will be awarded in the event of a tie; money will be split among winning contestants. (continued on back page)

Lions Carnival Prizes Ordered

Enterprising Lions are going into various new businesses when the annual Lions carnival opens on October 20. Lion Freddie Welling said yesterday that the civic club has arranged for 24 concessions and that he has ordered 4600 prizes for the event. The carnival, located on the Jackson Estate property south of the courthouse square, will be open two Saturdays, October 20th and October 27th.

Lions members have been warned to start their various booths and concessions at once, New and entertaining games and tests of skill have been scheduled.

The carnival proceeds are used to augment the club's general fund which in turn supports the various activities under Lions sponsorship. One of the principal and oldest projects of Matador Lions is the sponsorship of Boy Scout activities.

Lions members notified to operate the carnival concessions are warned by Tailtwister John Barnhill that he is making a close check to see that orders are obeyed. He said that members will be notified only one time.

Like Can't Make It Rain, But He's Still Best Man

The other day I asked a farmer if it was dry out his way. He said sure was. "Looks like we just can't get any rain," he said. "Why, when Noah had his 40-day rain, we didn't get over half an inch."

There's no mistake about it, Texas is having itself a real drought. Some of the farmers are in such bad shape that they may vote for Stevenson.

Old Man Jones, from across the river, said he wasn't going to say any such extreme. He said he needed rain as bad as anybody else. He claimed water was so scarce in his community that the teacher was hesitating to wear moccasins with a wet handkerchief. But he was holding out awhile longer, anyway.

"I may be stubborn," said Old Man Jones, "but I just ain't been convinced that President Eisenhower is keeping it from raining."

He said he knew that Stevenson and Kefauver acted like they thought so, and they had a right to their opinion. Lyndon Johnson, he figured, knew better, but he was sticking with Adlai and Estes for the sake of unity. He said he didn't figure Mr. Sam Rayburn had known whether it was raining or not for the last 25 years.

"I hate not to go along with such a widely known crowd of weather observers," Old Man Jones said. "If there's anybody

The party ended when the group went to Pat Groves' and danced until time for the football boys to go home.

FHA INITIATES FRESHMEN GIRLS

The initiation of the freshmen girls into the F. H. A. was held last Monday, October 1. It took place all day at school, downtown, and at the home of Mrs. Arthur Fair.

The girls wore knee-length khaki britches, frilly blouses, broad belts, black hose, their daddy's shoes, a garlic and onion necklace, and their hair was pasted with starch and cake coloring. Each freshman had to follow a certain boy around all day long.

A chapel program was held after lunch so the girls could show their ability to sing and imitate Elvis Presley. Court was held to determine some questions asked the freshmen concerning their boy friends, with the entire student body acting as the jury. To conclude a very tiring day for the freshmen, a Weiner roast was held at Mrs. Fair's in their honor.

Mavericks Run Over Cubs 14-6

Thursday night, October 4, the Matador Mavericks went to Estelina to play the Cubs.

Douglas Wilson lost the coin toss so the Mavericks kicked to the Cubs. L. D. Martin scored the first score and Guy Campbell made the extra point. The Cubs made a touchdown but missed the extra point, so at the half the score was 7-6 in the Mavericks favor. In the second half Jimmy Welling scored a touchdown and Guy Campbell ran the extra point. At the final whistle the score was 14-6 for

He likes all sports, especially football, hunting and fishing. His pet dislikes are lazy people, and his ambition is to be a great coach.

FRESHMEN NEWS

The first six weeks of school is nearly over and the freshmen are just about to get the hang of dear "ole" high school. Mrs. Johnson has been very patient in English class. A day hasn't gone by that someone hasn't said "Now, Mrs. Johnson, about those book reports, etc." Perhaps the one thing that confuses the freshmen most of all, is the merit system. It's a ditch, however, that they know what a demerit is!

After this six weeks, the freshmen will be losing a classmate, Clinton Burns, who will leave Matador for Midland.

—M. H. S. B.—

EIGHTH GRADE

Six weeks' tests already! It can't be! This is a familiar cry around the eighth grade room as the realization that projects are due, book reports are to be made and various other activities are to be completed, dawns upon the befuddled minds of its occupants.

Wednesday marked the beginning day for oral book reports. As the summaries of various books were given, much reviewed interest was shown in checking out books to read. Most of the boys selected reluctant to give their reports because they are never quite sure when their boss voices are going to change to high tenor. Nelda Kay Wilson surprised the class—and herself, too, perhaps—by giving a perfect example of how not to give a book report.

Oh, well, six weeks of school is gone. Just think, we only have thirty more!

—M. H. S. B.—

4-H NEWS

Last week the 4-H club, consisting of the 7th and 8th grades, elected officers for the coming year. Gale Stafford was elected president; Janie Waybourn, vice-president; Carol Campbell, secretary; and Douglas Wilson, reporter.

—M. H. S. B.—

Mr. Pallmeyer required all of the boys and girls to fill out an information slip for his files. He also talked on what kind of projects they could have and how to select them.

PATTON SPRINGS SCHOOL REPORTS

THE AIR AROUND SCHOOL is fairly crackling with excitement this week what with six weeks tests, playing Roaring Springs in football, and the bus leaving for Dallas for the fair at 6 a. m. Friday morning. The students are having a hilarious time and teachers are on the verge of a collapse, but all that goes with life "inside the walls". Students that failed their tests are somewhat subdued and the others are glad to start another six weeks—one down and five to go!

SCHOOL PICTURES ARRIVED

Those old annuals can get underway now. The seniors went out Monday to sell their advertising and are genuinely grateful to the merchants and patrons that bought space to make it possible for us to have an annual another year. Most folks probably are not aware of the fact that a school annual costs more than twice the price charged the students. We are going to try to put out a new and different annual, and hope sincerely that our advertisers will be pleased. We really believe it is good advertising. You should see the good will exhibited toward the ones who were so kind to us. Actually, these kids go home and tell "Mama and Poppa".

BAND STUDENTS

went to Lubbock last Saturday morning by school bus to get final fittings of the chaps and brought them back with them. The shirts are red and black corduroy except the solid white ones which are trimmed in sequins for the drum major and four majorettes. The chaps are black with red and silver trim—very pretty!

COULD IT HAVE BEEN THE AG STUDENTS

that fixed that nice concession stand from an old bus body? Clever idea—be sure you go by for coffee, home made cake and sandwiches when you are at the ball games. You will be helping the band along.

THE FFA CHAPTER

of the Patton Springs School held its regular meeting Monday, October 1, 1956. Officers were elected and are as follows: Jerry Rainbolt, president; Darrell Blasingame, vice-president; Geary Blasingame, treasurer; Gene Edwards, reporter; Max Legg, secretary; Delbert Tenison, student advisor and Manuel Young, sentinel. A chapter sweetheart, Virginia Foard, was elected. Nominees from the other classes were: Rylene Partridge, freshman; Sherry Porter, sophomore, and Nancy Hale, senior. Virginia is a junior.

INITIATION OF FRESHMEN

F. H. A. students began Monday, in a meeting of the group. Officers were elected previous to this meeting. They are Virginia Foard, president; Sherry Porter, vice-president; Rylene Partridge, secretary; Dorothy Joplin, treasurer; Jerry Ann Williams, reporter; and Yvonne Nichols, parliamentarian. In the meeting Monday, the girls also made plans for a Halloween party to be given for the first grade students. Initiation of "fish" will continue Monday.

GIFT TEA HONORS MISS ANN CRAVEN

A courtesy for Miss Cora Ann Craven, bride-elect of Ned Nichols, was a gift tea Friday, Oct. 5, in the home of Mrs. Forrest Campbell. Reception hours were from 7:30 until 9:30 in the evening.

Announcement of the forthcoming marriage of their daughter was made recently by Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Craven. Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Nichols of Dickens are parents of the prospective bridegroom.

Hostesses with Mrs. Campbell for the tea were Mrs. T. E. Cammack, R. E. Campbell, Sr., Bill Dunning, Velma Fulfer, Colquet Warren, Edgar Lee, Frank Price, James Ed Russell, Lois Smart, Margaret Newman and Bill Pipkin.

Decor for the affair was in blue and white, chosen colors of the honoree. The refreshment table was laid with blue taffeta, overspread with lace, with blue candles in crystal holders flanking a centerpiece of white shasta daisies and carnations. Cookies, nuts and mints were served with punch.

Misses Francine and Patti Craven, sisters of the bride-elect, alternated in pouring, while another sister, Miss Rachel Alleen Craven, registered the guests.

Across a wall mirror above the buffet, was suspended a blue satin ribbon bearing the couples names, and date of their approaching marriage, Oct. 12th. Reflected in the mirror and centering the buffet, was a cloud of petal-decorated blue angel hair surrounding a miniature bridal couple on a white pedestal. Branches of white petals formed the background, with blue candles on either side. Roses and dahlias were used for other house decorations.

Out of town guests attending were Mrs. E. J. Nichols and Mrs. Bennie Nichols of Dickens, mother and sister-in-law of the prospective bridegroom, also his aunt, Mrs. Sam Porter, and Mrs. Hollie Partridge, of Afton.

Bus of the Future

The number of communities entirely dependent upon buses for public transportation will increase from today's 50,000 to 100,000. As for the buses, he envisions: Many will be powered by exciting new engines that are already undergoing secret tests. They will be more colorful—with new type dyes, paints and metals, adding brilliance to our highways. More glass than ever will be used—they will be virtually picture windows on wheels. They will ride more smoothly and quietly. They will be lighter in weight due to the use of new plastics and still to be discovered new metals. As for the nation itself he says: More and more people will be at work. The average income will rise—the work week will be shorter—vacations longer—and more people will live longer—enjoy retirement life.

Family Moves Westward

The widow and eight children (the youngest, Doug, was born several months after his father's death) moved westward the following year. They first settled in Young county and in 1886, moved to Stonewall.

In 1890 the family moved to this area. Mrs. W. E. Meador died here in 1941, within two months of her 97th birthday. Mrs. Long has lived in the area continuously for 66 years. She and her older brother, Jim, share the same home, and their brother, Joe, lives a few blocks up the street.

MEADOR CLAN WAS AMONG COUNTY'S FIRST SETTLERS

One of Motley County's oldest pioneer families was the W. E. Meador clan, three of whom survive and live in Matador with many memories of the early days which fill their hours with reminiscing.

Born in Tarrant County, 14 miles southwest of Newark, on Oct. 6, 1866, James E. (Jim) Meador, Saturday celebrated his 90th birthday. His sister, Mrs. W. D. Long, was born about two miles east of the same community, January 8, 1871, and their brother, Joseph E. (Joe) Meador was born at the same location, December 1, 1872.

Their parents, W. E. (Elsberry) Meador and Martha Elizabeth Preston, were married in Fort Worth in 1860. While he was away as a soldier in the "War Between the States", Indians raided the community many times. Once the young pioneer mother hid in a barn filled with oats. With two small children and holding her baby, Jim, in her arms she watched the Indians take several saddle horses.

When Berry Meador returned from the war he became a captain in the Freewill Rangers, a group of Civil War veterans dedicated to drive the Indians from the frontier settlements.

While searching for a span of oxen, Berry Meador contracted pneumonia and died May 22, 1877. He is buried in an unmarked grave in the old Veales Station cemetery.

MOTHER SPANIEL GIVES BIRTH TO ALL-BOY LITTER

Mrs. Leo Archer has a problem. She has two small but lively boys and a mother Cocker Spaniel with six pups. Things became complicated in her household because it is almost impossible to keep the boys and the pups separated, and both require attention — often at the same time.

Mrs. Archer also wonders about the pattern of nature. For instance her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Martin, have eight grandchildren and they are all boys. The mother Spaniel did not want to break the chain of events — all of her children are boys. Commercial to this story is Mrs. Archer has some Cocker Spaniels for disposal.

"Trail Dust" Gets Place In New Book On Makeup Design

Special to The Matador Tribune

The heading of the "Trail Dust" column by Douglas Meador is reproduced as an example of good journalistic art in a new book on newspaper makeup which has just come off the press.

It is "Functional Newspaper Design" by Edmund C. Arnold, editor of Linotype News, which has just been published by Harper and Brothers of New York. Linotype News, a house organ of Mergenthaler Linotype Company, is called "the typographic laboratory of the nation." It has for over 30 years led in streamlining newspaper makeup to make it easier and more pleasant to read American newspapers.

John E. Allen, its first editor, has been called "the single man most responsible for modern newspaper layout." Arnold's book expands the principles Allen first advanced in three books he wrote on the subject.

Arnold, in addition to duties as editor of Linotype Publications, acts as consultant on newspaper typography for the Mergenthaler firm. He was on the staffs of the Lansing State Journal and the Saginaw News, both Michigan dailies, and was editor and still is co-publisher of the Frankenthuth (Mich.) News, a prize winning weekly. He served with the 70th (Trailblazer) Division and was decorated for his work as a combat correspondent in France and Germany, and was with Stars and Stripes.

He writes on newspaper designing for several American and Canadian publications and conducts many workshops and clinics on the subject of newspaper groups. A graduate of Michigan State University, he is a member of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity, Phi Theta Kappa and Phi Kappa Phi, Headline Club and House Magazine Institute, both of New York and the National Editorial Association.

Mrs. Bill McCaghren drove to Amarillo, Tuesday to accompany home her mother, Mrs. H. S. Watson, who spent last week visiting her daughter, Mrs. Jack Edwards and family.

The Diary of Mary White

September 9, 1956, Sunday:

We have darkness from eight-thirty until five in the mornings now. When I arose at six-fifteen this morn there was still an impression of darkness. This was due, in a great measure, to the prevailing weather — low hanging clouds and a gale driven rain. As I looked through my window the sea was having a billowy time. White caps rolled and tumbled like a sea sick stomach and the waves churned the beach and retched spray and foam all the way to the cliffs. A sou'wester!

I must be demon possessed, for something in me responds to these blows. All the aesthetic joy vanished like a bubble however, when I leaned forward and my clothes line came into view. Theretha had hung blankets and the silk wash on the line yesterday and we had forgotten to bring them in. Besides not being dry, they were wrapped and tied in every conceivable and a few inconceivable ways. I had to cut shoulder straps in order to get some of the garments untangled. All this while my family slept peacefully on.

The bulk of the day was spent on lesson preparation. By four o'clock the wind had tired to a breeze and there were breaks in the clouds. I decided I could not stay in the house another minute so arousing R. W. from his book I suggested that we take a walk. Donning rubber wear we strolled through a shower to the airstrip.

The hushed feeling that I get in the presence of brilliant yellow trees was full-fledged today. Cottonwood and spruce border the runway. The yellow of the cottonwood, the blue-green of the spruce and frothy white beach made a lovely setting for the rainbow that lent its colors during a brief display of sunlight.

I gathered wild, red berries, limbs bedecked with yellow and green fern on our way back down the hill. Blueberries, cranberries, and currants are plentiful. Ferns to delight the heart of any florist grow everywhere.

I am entranced with the surroundings. I breathe deeply of the rain-cleaned air and feel all bubbly and young again. I look around for someone to share my feelings. R. W.'s long legs have taken him out of sight down the trail, so I hurry across the spongy tundra to catch him and share my feelings, only to find him interested in a spruce hen he might be able to kill for supper. What a romantic Creature!

With arms loaded I came by the garden and picked a huge cabbage leaf. With the leaf as a base I made a display of fern, red and yellow leaves, and berries. I made no pretense at flower arrangements, but we had color above our piano tonight. I used the scraps to make my reading chart for tomorrow about the beginnings of fall.

A letter in Friday's mail from a friend in Kettle Falls, Washington said they had frost on Sept. 3rd. She accused me of sending the cold air that way. She will have to hunt up some other culprit and some other spot on the globe for we have had no frost yet. My lettuce is still green and we are eating fresh cabbage from the garden.

Incidentally, I will be glad when it does frost on that cabbage. Every time during the summer I would ask, "What do you want for lunch (or dinner, as the time might be). Always I got the non-committal "Oh, anything."

School began on the fourth and the mad rush was on. I scheduled certain jobs for the week and who was to perform them. The school lunch program is not in operation yet, so I instructed R. W. to have some dish cooked so that we could eat bread, butter and a drink, and have lunch.

The first day he asked, "What do I cook for lunch?" I replied, "Oh, anything."

He stated that I might not like his anything but I insisted that I would eat anything he cooked. He cooked some cabbage. Tuesday we had fresh boiled cabbage for lunch. Wednesday for lunch we had fresh boiled cabbage. Thursday it was fresh, boiled cabbage with one slight change. He boiled enough that we could have some left for the evening meal too. Friday I had a definite suggestion about lunch!

September 10, 1956
"They got off about 9 o'clock." I heard someone say. Investigation revealed the "they" were Jeanne Saccheus and Louis Charles, a forty-nine and fifty-five year old woman respectively. "Off" was about twelve or fifteen miles into the hills where these two were going to establish a camp and spend a week trapping squirrels. They took traps, eggs and such, and hiked to their site. Most of the supplies were hauled on the back of dogs.

I knew that Jeanne had been squirrel hunting earlier with only a twelve year old daughter. I asked her then if she wasn't afraid of bears. She said they beat on a tin can with a stick before they went to bed, and any time during the night that she happened to wake up. How's that for adventure, Ladies! No, thank you. But they need fur for parkas for their families, and this is the way they are obtaining it. It takes about 45 squirrel skins to make a full sized parka.

Theretha and some of the older girls went on a picnic after school today. Temperature was forty degrees. Doesn't sound too hot like picnic weather, but it is just that here. Returning, they talked to a group who had just beached their boat. One hunter had brought in a fifteen hundred pound moose. Fresh steaks in the village tonight! Hope I get one too. U-m-m-m!

September 11, 1956, Tuesday
Well, those moose steaks are in the ice box — enough for at least six meals. I tried to refuse so much, but they insisted. I'm sure I don't look underfed. They must have been looking at R. W.

Went down to visit in a family with a six-year old who had played truant for two afternoons.

There he lay on a bunk as speckled as a pup. Measles! Oh, dear. Measles have never been in this village, so you can see what we are in for. A sixteen year old boy had a spell. The natives called it a heart spell. It looked like some kind of a seizure to me. After lying in bed for another day, he too broke out. Guess the measles are going to go hard with the thick, dark-skinned people.

September 12, 1956, Wednesday
If you want to know the truth, just listen to a child.

R. W. fished in the rivers near the Eskimo summer camps. He fished with a rod and reel. He worked at it seriously and prided himself on his catches.

Today the fourth and fifth grade classes were discussing how they would like to decorate the bulletin board. They wanted to make posters of things their fathers and mothers did in the fall time. We discussed whaling, seal hunting, squirrel trapping, duck hunting and the usual activities. One girl mentioned cutting fish. Now there is no fall fishing, only summer and winter so to rule out her suggestion, I said,

"Fishing is summer work isn't it? Haven't you been fishing all summer?"

Little second grade Judy was listening, so she contributed to the discussion with, "Yes, but Mr. White always just play-fish."

I just sat down and laughed. That grown man thought he was really doing the fishing up brown but to the little Eskimos he was playing. Their parents fish with nets and haul them in by the hundreds.

I am inclined to agree with Judy.

September 13, 1956
I had heard rain falling during the night for I slept restlessly (too much eat as the Eskimos say). After lighting the kitchen range and putting the coffee on to perk I went to the basement to investigate the state of the water reservoir. It was spilling over the sides. Now I was happy to know that the water in the reservoir couldn't endure the sight of water going over the top and out the drain. I came back upstairs, slapped some toast in the oven and proceeded to arouse my sleepily family. They would have refused a bite of breakfast had they known why I was rushing them around. I gulped my last cup of coffee, went to the laundry room and drew all tub full of water, came back up the stairs to the breakfast table and "sprung it" on them. They each had to take a bath in order to use the water. In the pressure tank so we could pump up more in order to make room in the reservoir for the fresh fall. It was still pouring outside.

Of all the grumbles, groans, and protests! But they all went through the process and then I luxuriated. I used two spoons of bath water instead of the customary one. It seems I didn't mind its going down the drain if that promise, and he promised to give us a government in Washington that we could be proud of, because it was clean and honest and efficient — and, in this man's opinion, he had kept that promise.

"I know you're reading and hearing a lot of stuff to the contrary," he said, "coming from Brother Stevenson and Brother Kefauver and the rest of the politicians on the other side. That's politics for you. Everybody expects them to jump on the every way they can, and I guess they'll keep on doing it right up to Nov. 6. But the American people are to see if the water in the reservoir is smarter than some politicians give them credit for being, and before they vote they're going to sit down and ask themselves this question:

"Remembering 1952, when our boys were dying in Korea and the newspapers were full of talk about the Democrats and Communists and corruption in Washington — now, be honest about it: If you could, would you go back to 1952 and start over with Adlai Stevenson instead of Dwight D. Eisenhower?"

This man said he wouldn't, and come to think of it, I wouldn't either. As a matter of fact, I use the water in the pressure tank so we could pump up more in order to make room in the reservoir for the fresh fall. It was still pouring outside.

Blank stares with never a smile so I gave up. I had them scrub up and let them go about three-thirty. Woe unto Fred Kohle if he doesn't send me some film next week!

It had a little soap and dirt mixed with it.

It has kept up a steady down-pour all day and the children had to play inside. They didn't mind, but it is a bit hard on the teacher. We are hoping it will rain itself out before tomorrow, because it is mail day.

R. W. has had the toothache for two days now. We all have to walk easy. His whole jaw is sore and so is his disposition. He pulled out his bridge, crowns and all and threw them away. I think he wishes he could pull off his head and throw it away.

September 14, 1956
Sure enough nature played fair today. The sky was clear and there was no wind. The plane came on schedule and everyone was happy until it was discovered that no film came.

Faces were long and interest in school work was nil, all afternoon. If I asked questions they were as silent as the tomb. If I said be quiet and study, they buzzed like a hive of bees. Finally, I wrote a little jingle and read it to them:

"I say 'tell me something' and I hear not a word. I say 'no talking now' . . . Oh, the noise that is heard. . . Queer little children, wound up the wrong way . . . Wonder could I unwind them. . . So they'd run right for one day."

Blank stares with never a smile so I gave up. I had them scrub up and let them go about three-thirty. Woe unto Fred Kohle if he doesn't send me some film next week!

Garber, Okla. last year, thinks he has probably one of the best backfields on the South Plains. Ace of that foursome, which includes two juniors, is fullback Arvin (Porky) to his teammates) Ellithorp, an All-South Plains performer last season. The hard running senior weighs 205 and sprints the 100 in 10 flat, about a step ahead of the other members.

A junior with two letters, 140-pound Dayton, Graham quarterback the squad and has scored 31 of the team's 115 points this season. Pat Green, 142-pound junior, and 146-pound Charlie Renfro, a senior with three letters run from the halfback posts.

"They have to stop Ellithorp", Bradshaw said, "and if they do, then the other boys break loose." The fifth member of the backfield is Gerald Pipkin, 119-pound sophomore, who can play quarterback and either half.

Up front, end Garland Cartwright, a second team All-South Plains selection in 1951 season, spearheads the line. The former Oklahoma City University gridder, describes Cartwright, a 185-pound three-year letterman, as "fine blocker, pass catcher and defensive star."

Cartwright's running mate at the other end is Shelby Jackson, 146-pound junior letterman. Tackles are capably manned by Clay Jameson, 165, and 200-pound Lewis Fair, a sophomore letterman. Jameson owns three letters.

Johnny McNelly, 138, and Leon Hughes, 134, lightest members in the line, perform at guards. McNelly is a junior and Hughes a senior.

Frank Thrasher, 158-pound junior, is the center. Cartwright, Jameson and Thrasher were starters last year along with backs Ellithorp, Graham and Renfro. Green was a defensive regular and saw service on offense.

Roger Scaff, 127-pound junior, alternates with McNelly at guard and sees some action at a line-backer spot. Bobby Cross, 140-pound sophomore, is a regular defensive end.

Bradshaw lists lack of reserve strength as the team's biggest weakness.

The progressive drug firm has grown steadily under Mr. Stanley's management until today it is one of the largest and finest drug stores in West Texas. All departments are well-stocked with modern merchandise attractively displayed. The soda fountain is a favorite meeting place for coffee, sodas, milk drinks and ice cream. The large prescription department is well-stocked with fresh drugs. Service is prompt, efficient and always dependable.

During the "sellabration" week many items are offered at substantial savings (see advertisement elsewhere in this issue of the Tribune). Monday, October 15, is the birthday of the store. Free coffee will be served all day, Tuesday, October 16.

Article By Canyon Author Will Be Used In Digest Booklet For November Release

CANYON, Texas—Miss Loula Grace Erdman of Canyon will be one of six authors represented in a booklet distributed soon by Reader's Digest.

J. Chandler Hill, Reader's Digest advertising and promotion director, wrote asking Miss Erdman's permission to use her article, "I'll Stick to Teaching," in a 24-page booklet which will contain six articles previously published in the Digest.

Purpose of the booklet, according to Chandler, "is to point out to teachers, parents and the public the contributions teachers have made to the profession and the pride which teachers should take in their occupation."

BANK TO OBSERVE NATIONAL HOLIDAY
Patrons of the First State Bank will find the doors closed tomorrow when they attempt to do banking business. The institution will observe Columbus Day (October 12) as a national holiday, as will other banks throughout the country.

Through an oversight this notice was omitted from last week's issue of the Tribune. Only a limited part of the newspaper's circulation will receive this issue before closing time today (Thursday). Notices of bank holidays are published as a service to readers to prevent possible inconvenience.
