Barbara's Bylines

This has been a busy day for the editor. I went to Billie Dean's at 8:00 a.m. to interview a bicyclist, riding from Alaska to the Florida Keys, (see story next week).

At 10:00 a.m. I dashed to the school office to get a report on the happenings there. I visited with the reporter for Channel 4 KAMR-TV. of Amarillo and her

Lack Of Compromise Halts Consolidation

by Michelle Beardon

Plans to consolidate the taxing entities of hospital, school, county and the cities of Roaring Springs and Matador have met with unexpected resistance from elected officials.

The consolidation plan was related to commissioner's court on September 8 by Appraisal Board member, John M. Russell.

The total tax dollars saved would be $5500/year. All tax entities are being charged 2% operating budget assessment fee now and if consolidation was completed there is a remote possibility it might have to go up to 3% which would kick the figure up to $7500. Section 6.24 of the Collection Statutes state that "taxing units may also contract with one another or with the appraisal district to perform assessment and/or collection functions. Contract may be renewed annually. When a county hires another unit of the appraisal district to collect for it both the county commissioners and the tax assessor/collector must approve the contract."

Sheriff Alton Marshall was a key figure in the Appraisal Board's consolidation plan in that tax assessment for the county is, by law, assessed and collected from the sheriff's office. The Hospital and School have contracted with the Sheriff's office to assess and collect their taxes also. He could, by law, contract out these services as has been done with the ad volarum taxes associated with the Appraisal district. Sheriff Marshall, however, indicated that he does not agree with the Appraisal Board's consolidation plan. Marshall states, "The people have elected me to be the tax collector as a part of this office and I feel this is my responsibility to do so. Another objection was cited with the plan in that the clerk's position would not be replaced but that position would be combined with that of the Chief Appraiser. This would mean that the Appraisal office would be operated totally from the sheriff's office. Marshall stated that the appraiser's, "...bss would be the appraisal board and I would have no authority over someone working in my own office."

Marshall feels that in order to separate the Assessor/Collector's office from the sheriff's department would be to bring it before the people of the county to vote on, so the sheriff's office would be a separate entity and the Collector's office another, which would make it an elected position. The Appraisal Board want the collector's camera lady who had come to get their story on the Motley County I.S.D. They could hardly believe what our students and teachers have gone through the past two years.

It was very interesting to see how the other news medias operate. They had to hurry back to Amarillo to meet their 6:00 deadline and I came back to my office to meet my deadline.

position to be an appointed position under the auspices of Appraisal Board.

Marshall states, "By continuing with the same number of personnel that have been in this office (sheriff's office) and separating the collections from the sheriff's office. I feel like consolidating the tax offices would work."

The contracting of the assessing and collecting responsibilities simply determines responsibility for doing such. The services of appraising, assessing and collecting can, by law, be either contracted out or decided by an election. If the electoral process is utilized, is more or less permanent as it can only be reversed by subsequent election. Contracting out these services would allow the Appraisal Board to dissolve after the contract expired, if it were determined that the consolidation plan wasn't working as well as expected.

However, the plan to consolidate the taxing entities fell flat in commissioners court when Commissioners Watson, Washington and Simpson declined seconding a motion made by Commissioner Russell to consolidate the taxing offices under the Appraisal Board's plan.

These Commissioner's were canvassed as to their objection to the Appraisal Board plan. Commissioner Watson stated, "I really didn't understand it...(the issue). I feel the sheriff should have the discretion to hire whoever he pleases in his office and to have the say there. I can't see that...the new appraiser... can run both offices efficiently."

Commissioner Joseph P. Simpson states, "It wouldn't be saving any money if one office, such as the sheriff's office, becomes overloaded while the city and school taxing offices wouldn't have much to do. Motley County has a small population and I can't see that we need to put all the tax offices into one office."

Commissioner Bill D. Washington states, "The sheriff was elected for this job and it needs to be voted on by the people of the county"...to remove the tax collection from the sheriff's office."

The decision of consolidating the taxing entities in Motley County has at this point reached a stalemate position in Commissioners Court. A quick survey of the surrounding counties revealed that in none does the sheriff continue to oversee the tax assessment and collection.

Will We Really Get The Money?

by Barbara Jameson

In February of 1984, Motley County residents were very proud to pay the final bill for the then new school. On May 1, the school was blown away by the tornado. Federal aid was hoped for, but refused as officials determined that not enough damage was done to warrant receiving aid. The county again pulled together and voted bonds to build the new school without outside help. Now after two and a half years of delays the students and teachers are still not in the new school due to construction delays.

In May of 1986, Congress changed a disaster ruling to make it possible to again hope for Federal aid. The data was gathered and submitted to the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) and the Department of Education.

On September 10, President Ronald Reagan signed the "disaster relief order" for Motley County and other schools to receive possible grants. They have 90 days from this date to file the new data.

On September 23, three men rolled into Matador to evaluate the school for Federal Aid.

Kerry Wingell, U.S. Department of Education Wash. D.C., Bill Johnson FEMA of Denton and Wes Sanders, FEMA Division of Texas Department of Public Safety, Austin met with school officials, Ron Cummings, Superintendent, Charley Johnson, Supt. retired and Haden Moore, who was the principal when the tornado hit, and Roy Hobbs, School Trustee President.

As spokesman, Wingell stated that the amount of funds is undecided and they (FEMA and the U.S. Department of Education) will take into consideration all the funds that have been received and all the eligibilities of the school back to Washington D.C. for review. He did not know how they would consider the Bond Monies. They are set up to help schools and will assist them under the formats available. They will consider what was lost and what is being completed, and they will then pro-rate the difference and determine the final analysis.

Even though President Reagan signed the order, Wingell stated that this is the end of their fiscal year and monies could run out; then it would have to be resubmitted. In addition to this obstacle, Congress could change the law regarding disaster relief, which was not likely but is a possibility.

This is the time that the county needs to prod the politicians and encourage them to be involved until we actually get the aid.

Recollections

(Editor's Note) The Tribune has been privileged to share some of the writing of the late Duff Green with our readers. Mr. Green, (1874-1960) recorded many events and profiles of people during his younger days while working as a cowboy from 1890-1920 for several of the big ranches. Green's reminiscences give us a concise picture of the times he lived in as well as bringing to life people who actually made history happen. Although Duff Green, in his following forward, realizes memory may have shadowed precision, he strove to capture accuracy through letters to old contemporaries to verify what he recalled. We are indebted to his daughter, Mary Webb of Roaring Springs, for sharing this unfolding panoramic view of our heritage.

FOREWORD
by Duff Green
1930-1940

The following pages were written almost entirely from memory of things seen and heard, jotted down during a convalescence when the tired restless minds sought refuge in retrospection. A reviewing as it were, of the rapidly changing events that made up an important phase of our Western History, yet was never recorded in detail.

Technically, they may be in error, knowing the cowman and cowboy's repugnance, to exaggeration and bombast, I have striven to be conservative in relating, as I believe, facts.

Furthermore, the effort has been a labor of love.

COWBOY LIFE OF DUFF GREEN

In 1890 the summer had been glorious. About the breaking up of the spring and summer general roundups, I was living in the new born hamlet of Aspermont, when late one evening, Gene Mayfield, the wagon boss for the Raynor Cattle Outfit, rode into town leading an extra pony. He had lost his horse wrangler and came to get me or to secure another. In any event, I was glad to go, for the work suited my fancy.

Next morning the outfit that had a small herd on hand, broke camp and took a northwest course, crossing Big Stinking Creek and passed by way of Shinery Lakes. Then on nearing the Salt Fork, instead of crossing at the Old Pitchfork crossing, they veered westward some miles, picked up fresh signs of another outfit, crossed the river a little below the mouth of Big Croton and joined forces with the Fork wagon that was camped some miles west from where Jim Ward later built his ranch house. That was all according to prearrangement.

A new fifteen year old horse-wrangler wasn't supposed to know anything about that.

This was the beginning of my cowboy career, which lasted for the next thirty years, when I established my own small ranch.

"Son Beams"

By June Keltz

Perhaps in all of our lives there are those who have rejected us and many times we can't even imagine why they turn their heads and refuse to speak. Through an enlightening seminar we learned, much to our surprise, this is often due to guilt on the part of the one who is rejecting us. He can't live with the wrong he has done to us, so he shifts the blame over on us to justify his un-Christlike conduct.

The enemy of our soul, Satan, is the great accuser and constantly points out others weaknesses, faults and human errors. He uses our imagination to conjure up non-existent situations to upset us and throw us off course. He uses our "friends" to carry tales that are distorted and only half truths. It seems that our ears are more keenly tuned to his instructions than to those of our Heavenly Father who tells us to "love, love, love, forgive, forgive, forgive."

Jesus prefers that we have healed relationships above offerings. He says in Matt. 5: 23, 24 that if we are presenting an offering to Him and remember that a brother (or sister) has something against us, we are to leave that offering, be reconciled to our brother, then the offering will be acceptable.

He says, also, in Matt. 6: 15 that if we do not forgive men, then He will not forgive us our transgressions.

Praying in unforgiveness is a waste of time. Mark 11:25 "Whenever you stand praying, forgive, if you have anything against anyone; so that your Father also, who is in heaven, may forgive you your transgression."

Eph. 4: 30, 31 lists some things that grieve the Holy Spirit - "Stop being mean, bad tempered and angry. Quarreling, harsh words, and dislike of others should have no place in your lives. Then He lets us know what pleases Him in verse 32. "Instead, be kind to each other, tender hearted, forgiving one another, just as God has forgiven you because you belong to Christ." (LB)

Bridal Shower Is Courtesy For Miss Dinette Plagens

A bridal shower honoring Miss Dinette Plagens of Garden City, bride-elect of Coke Barton, was given Saturday, September 20 in the home of Mrs. Roy G. Hobbs.

Hostesses for the morning courtesy from 10:30 until 12 o'clock, with Mrs. Hobbs, were Mesdames James Meador, Morris Burkes, Billy Wason, Johnny Turner, Dean Turner, Truitt Read, Lewis Bostick, E.A. Day, Charles Gwinn and Vann Francis.

The refreshment table was covered with a white linen cloth, overlaid with a white cutwork lace cloth. The centerpiece, designed and made by Mrs. Bostick of Home Interiors, featured an all white arrangement of four votive candles in crystal holders, entwined with white roses and topped with a pair of white love birds. The decoration was reflected on a mirror base.

Miss Leigh Barton presided at a silver coffee service and Miss Brandi Barton served summertime tea from a crystal service. Other refreshments included assorted cookies and coffee cakes.

Miss Koree Campbell registered the guests in the bride's book, at a table which featured the honoree's chosen colors of teal blue and white, with blue candles and an arrangement of white silk roses tied with blue ribbon. A miniature bridal couple enhanced the setting.

Out of town guests were the bride-elect's mother and sister Mrs. Edward Plagens of Garden City and Miss Darla Plagens, a student at Tarleton State University, Stephenville.

AVOID THE PERFECT PARENT TRAP

There's no such thing as a "perfect" parent, and trying to fit unrealistic expectation may mean you no longer enjoy what can be a fulfilling role.

Here are some ideas for avoiding the perfect parent role:

*Honestly assess your goals. Do you expect too much of yourself? No one is perfect at everything -- including parenting.

*Be willing to accept children's help. Even young children can put away toys, help set the table or make their beds. It may not be done to your standards, but remember there are steps to learning all tasks. Encouragement will motivate the child to improve.

*Recognize that you are not instantly equipped with parenting skills. Most jobs require a training period. Parenting is no exception, but the training usually is done on the job. Just about the time you learn a skill, the children grow and change, requiring you to learn new skills.

*Develop a sense of humor. Perfectionists tend to take themselves and their children too seriously. Recognize that children are messy, active, become tired and sometimes make mistakes.

*Learn to accept what can't be changed. Each day has 24 hours and only so much can be accomplished in that time. Parents may try so hard to get everything done that they don't feel good about what they are doing.

*Learn to relax and find some time away from the children. It's important for parents to sometimes make changes to cope with the daily demands of parenthood. Relaxation will allow you to tackle your parental responsibilities with renewed enthusiasm.

*Enjoy your children. Their growth and development can be one of your greatest pleasures.

Remember When
by Annie B. Cloyd

Hello Neighbors, it's been a while since we have been able to visit, due to a lot of things, but maybe things will be better now. Anyway I found something that I think you will be interested in remembering, as I was. Something that I never thought about before. It is a good history lesson:

Lincoln was elected in 1860 - Kennedy elected in 1960.

They were both concerned with civil rights. Both were slain on Friday in the presence of their wives.

Their successors, both named Johnson, were Southerners and had served in the U.S. Senate. Andrew Johnson was born in 1808 and Lyndon Johnson was born in 1908.

John Wilkes Booth and Lee Harvey Oswald were both murdered before trials were held. Booth was born in 1839 and Oswald was born in 1939. Booth and Oswald were both Southerners.

Both Kennedy's and Lincoln's wives lost children through deaths while living in the White House.

President Lincoln's secretary was named Kennedy and warned him not to go to the theater that night. President Kennedy's secretary was named Lincoln and she advised him not to go to Dallas.

President Kennedy was shot to death in a Lincoln which was made by the Ford Motor Company.

President Lincoln was killed in the Ford Theater.

The killers of both Booth and Oswald had the same last name of Ruby.

This account was printed a long time ago in my home town paper, "The East Texas Light", by my good friend Mattie Dellinger, a longtime writer for that newspaper. Just recently, she was asked to bring it back so we could think about it once again, and now you have it to read and remember.

Now, back to things in Flomot, and thinking about old times. I wrote a good while back about all kinds of dances - well, I have been reminded of some I left out so - One was the "Shimmy", remember the old song, "I Wish I Could Shimmy Like My Sister Kate"? Another was the "Drag", there was a song, "The Varsity Drag". Another was the "Toddle", from the song "Chicago - That Toddler Town".

Better stop and get back to looking back at the old times in Flomot. We will be back and "Remember When" again soon.

House Cleaning Business Continues Rapid Growth

by Kristi Montoya
Plainview Herald Regional Editor

LOCKNEY--This month marks the first anniversary of Helping Hands, a maid service here owned by Rick and Lisa Mosley.

Helping Hands is unique in that the owners don't work out of a shop and a top priority, they say, is to become friends with their customers.

According to Mrs. Moseley, it all started early last year when her husband was considering getting out of farming and the couple was wanting to start a business. "We were looking for a service-oriented business...something we could do together."

By September, Helping Hands was created. Initially, the three-person janitorial crew consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Mosley and one of their farm hands. Utilizing a system they felt to be more efficient than the traditional one-person cleaning service, the trio would go into homes, each with a designated job. Therefore, the work got done three times faster.

"We were kind of a novelty," says Mrs. Mosley, explaining that they weren't sure if people were ready for a primarily male maid service.

In the meantime, Mosley decided to stick with farming, a decision sending him back into the fields. The other crew member left soon after that. Mrs. Mosley was then left with an expanding business and no employees. She needed to find at least two co-workers quickly.

The search wasn't as hard as she expected. "It was just what some women wanted." The present crew includes Mrs. Mosley, Sherry McDonald and Pat Frizzell, all of Lockney, and Carol Taylor of Plainview.

Stressing that Helping Hands has never advertised, Mrs. Mosley says she wanted the business to grow by word-of-mouth. "We wanted to build by reputation."

Reflecting on one week last summer when business suddenly slowed to a near halt, she says, "I was really starting to get worried." Then the boom hit. "I had to turn people away," she recalls.

On the average, the crew will work in three houses per day.

Helping Hands has done a number of unusual jobs including an entire paint job and being called on to thoroughly clean out a car.

Mrs. Mosley remembers this time last year when she was hoping that the business's first anniversary would bring a full schedule. However, it came a lot sooner than that. They are presently servicing about 40 homes and businesses.

Due to Helping Hands' overwhelming popularity, the Mosleys have discussed opening a branch office in Amarillo or Lubbock. However, Mrs. Mosley says she likes to be involved in the actual work and believes branching out would limit her participation to a strictly management level.

"I like the personal contact - getting to be friends with them (her customers)."

The Mosley Children have been known to get in on the act too. "They always want to help," says Mrs. Mosley of Jared, 9, Johnnie, 7, and Nicole, 4.

Although she says she loves her work, she admits it's not all roses. "Some days are real killers."

Mrs. Mosley, who has worked in a District Attorney's office and a retail shop, says this is the first time she could feel like she had accomplished something at the end of the day. "When we leave, we can tell we've made a difference."

An art major in college, she refutes what she sees as a stereotype of janitorial workers as uneducated people unable to obtain any other kind of employment. "I always felt like I could do whatever I wanted to," she says, insisting that she has a lot of fun in her line of work.

As a rule, the Helping Hands crew does not work on weekends. However, according to Mrs. Mosley, there have been entire months with 10-hour cleaning days and seven-day weeks.

In the beginning, the women on the crew were going to set aside one afternoon a week to clean their own homes. As their popularity spread, however, they soon found out it wasn't going to be that easy.

"Somehow, it just doesn't work that way," says Mrs. Mosley, laughing as she recalls how clear-cut her plans were in the beginning.

Though she contends she doesn't want to work in Helping Hands for the rest of her life, Mrs. Mosley insists it's the best job she's ever had, adding, "I'd rather be doing this than sitting in an office."

Booster Club News

by Noilene Bowden

For me football is a game that came on Saturday and Sunday T.V. A program that I didn't dare turn off even if everyone was asleep in the room, and being in sympathy with the housewives who become widows during football season. However, life changes for each and everyone of us who has a son in football. Red and black become the most beautiful colors, and the yell of the Cheerleaders is music to ones ears. The Program is a companion during the game, and the first name you look for is your son's, of whom you are so proud. Your whole week is rescheduled so you can be at the games, home or away.

Hollenback. Come and learn what your son is doing and how the game is played.

Did you notice the New Motley County Insignia? Worn for the first time Friday night. It was very impressive and professional.

The Motley County Athletic Booster Club met on September 22, 1986, in the History room with 13 members attending. Present were Kenneth Marshall, president; Mary Marshall, Margaret Barnhill, Maurice Azevedo, Jan Azevedo, Sec.-Tres.; Noilene Bowden, Coach Hollenback, Coach Wilson, Coach Eddleman, Coach Hill, Ron Cummings, Supt., Lindy Stafford, and Tonda Hollenback.

President Marshall, presiding, opened the business meeting by presenting the first order of business. The Booster Club voted to sell Motley County Hats at the Motley County - McLean game, Friday, September 26th, before the game and at half time.

A motion was made and carried to donate money to the Motley County I.S.D. General Fund.

Noilene Bowden was voted as Vice President and Reporter, by acclamation.

The next meeting, Monday September 29, in the History Room.

KEEP UP THE GOOD WORK TEAM!!!

Adrenalin flows rapidly through the body as the ball is kicked off. I however am lost from that point on. I have been told that the ball must be carried over some end line for something called a touchdown, and Les Woolsey fell down. I was not sure what he was doing, but the Coach said it was great playing while viewing the play by play reviewing.

Is your son talking a strange language? Lateral pass, end zone, or touch back, or a bootleg? Well! That is Football talk. If you missed the instant replay at the ball game, come to the Booster Club Monday for a play by play by Coach

Football News

The Motley County Matadors lost to the Springlake-Earth Wolverines Friday night by a score of 59-0. Despite the lopsided score and shut out, the coaches were very optimistic about the improvement in the offensive performance. The Matadors opened up the offense Friday and it produced some sparkling results. Jeffrey Burkes had several long runs on quarterback keeps and sprint out passes. Rodney Doran and Les Woolsey both showed the ability to break tackles as they pounded up the middle. The offense also showed some misdirection with the quick feet of Brent Marshall. The offensive line, which continues to improve each week, had its best game of the season. David Stafford, Tim Kendall, Jarrett Jameson, Jack Carlson and Les Woolsey, all had good games with their offensive blocking.

The performance of Jeffrey Burkes was even more amazing because it was not known until game time whether he would even be able to play at all. Burkes received a neck injury early in the week and practiced very little prior to the game. With additional practice and experience the offense should continue to improve each week and learn to be more consistent in taking advantage of opposing team's defenses.

Defensively, the Matadors have a lot of work to do. The defense did not play very well on Friday night. There were too many mental mistakes and missed tackles. The coaching staff plans to spend extra time this week concentrating on improving the defensive performance. The Matadors will go back to the beginning with extra time put in on stance, alignment, keys, reaction, and tackling. There will also be some changes in positions as the coaches try to find the best combination.

The kicking game has a big improvement this year. The punt snaps of Gilbert Guerrero have been very consistent and the punting of Rodney Doran and Brandon Eddleman has allowed the opposition little return yardage. The punt team members have done a very good job in covering punts, especially Brent Marshall. The kickoff return team had their best night in two years consistently bringing the football out to the 35 or 40 yard line.

The Matadors will host McLean this Friday night at 8:00 p.m. The team plans to work very hard this week to record their first victory of the season. All Motley County fans are invited to come out and support the team in their quest for victory.

Jr. High Football News

By Coach Chip Hollenback

The Motley County Mavericks lost a close junior high football game Thursday night to Crowell, 12-8. The game went rather quickly as Crowell decided to play six minute quarters on their home field.

With the exception of two plays, the Maverick defense turned in another excellent performance. On the second play of the game, a Crowell runner broke loose for a 65 yard touchdown run. That was the only scoring in the first half of a tough defensive battle.

In the 2nd half Motley County elected to kickoff with a very strong wind which put Crowell deep in their own territory. The Mavericks quickly gained possession of the football and started driving down the field.

Matt Washington ran a quarterback sneak for 22 yards and the tying touchdown. The Mavericks repeated the same play for the 2 point conversion and an 8-6 lead.

On the next series, however, Crowell ran a nifty reverse for a 70 yard touchdown run and a 12-8 lead. Although the Mavericks continued to play hard, they were not able to score the winning touchdown in the fourth quarter.

The Mavericks will be open this Thursday in conjunction with the Powder Puff Football Game, but will return to action the following Thursday as they entertain Valley Junior High at home. Kickoff time is set for 6:00 p.m.

And now abideth faith, hope, charity, these three; but the greatest of these is charity. (I Cor. 13: 13)

This War Must Be Fought At Home

Beau Boulter Report

A star athlete in the prime of his life dies of a cocaine-induced heart attack. A federal narcotics agent is kidnapped and tortured by Mexican officials. A home is burglarized by desperate junkies looking for money to buy a fix. A parent discovers that his child is hooked on drugs.

There is no escaping the fact. Drug abuse and its horrible side-effects have shattered our families, and weakened the fabric of our entire society with its burden of economic losses, health costs, and increased crime. This crippling disease, and it is a disease, knows no boundaries. It cuts across race, sex, personal wealth, and social status. Drug abuse is an equal opportunity destroyer. It can kill anyone.

That's why we must work together to defeat this epidemic, before it slowly and most surely defeats us. We must declare war on drugs, and begin our campaign where it unfortunately starts, with our young people. True, it makes some sense to target the domestic and foreign fields where these deadly crops are grown, and it also is sound and necessary policy to increase the enforcement of laws which discourage the smuggling of this poison. However, these supply targeted efforts would be quite unnecessary if there were no demand for drugs in the first place.

It would not matter how relentless drug traffickers were, or how vicious their tactics could be. These parasites on our society would be powerless in a land where each person had simply said "no" to this ultimate form of materialism.

Each individual's decision to live-drug-free is a stone in a wall of fortification that would protect society beyond the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration's wildest dreams. For some individuals, that decision must be made again and again, and will undoubtedly not be an easy one to make. However, we must do our duty as parents, teachers, clergymen, community leaders, and friends to ensure that the decision made by the young people of this country is the right one.

Often, the simple love of a parent or friend can fill the void that some attempt to fill with drugs. Youth needs to be encouraged to be independent thinkers, alert to resist an adverse mental climate.

As your Congressman, I have, and will continue to support legislation that increases funding for the enforcement of our drug laws, as well as the prison terms imposed on suppliers and smugglers. Unfortunately, this will not be enough. We must seek to enlist every citizen in our attack on this menace. The actions begun in Washington must be carried on down to our families and schools.

The deadly circle of the drug culture can only be stopped by society's awakening our of materialistic, self-seeking values that perpetuate that cycle. A society represented more exclusively by positive values would leave fewer spaces for the weed of drug abuse to take root and grow.

By Ray Minkley

Crop Insurance To Replace

Beginning with 1987 crops, farmers who are eligible for multi-peril crop insurance will not be able to obtain emergency low-interest loans, says Ray Minkley, county agent with the Texas Agriculture Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

This provision includes small grains--wheat, oats, and barley--that producers will be planting in the near future.

This new and somewhat unpublicized cost-cutting feature of the 1985 farm bill could create a real problem for producers that have disastrously low yields, Minkley points out. Remember that Sept. 30 is the deadline for signing up for multi-peril crop insurance for the 1987 small grain crop.

Recall that when the 1980 crop insurance act was passed, the objective was to replace the low-yield disaster program. Now, the 1985 farm bill has taken another step toward making multi-peril crop insurance. For 1987 crops, which include small grains currently being planted, the producer who is eligible for multi-peril crop insurance won't be eligible for emergency low-interest loans, says Minkley.

A new publication states: "Beginning with 1987, crop insurance replaces low-interest disaster loans and disaster payments."

Texas Agriculture Extension Service News

SUBJECT: Highly Erodible Land, Wetland Conservation and Conservation Compliance Provisions of the Food Security Act of 1985.

Three provision of the Food Security Act of 1985 (Farm Bill) effective immediately could disqualify farmers from participating in any USDA programs unless they satisfy certain requirements according to interim regulations recently released. These provisions are referred to as "sodbuster", "swampbuster", and "conservation compliance".

USDA programs covered by the regulations are price and income supports, disaster payments, crop insurance, Farmers Home administration loans, Commodity Credit Corporation storage payments, farm storage facility loans, and other programs under which payments are made with respect to commodities produced. Failure to comply with these conservation provisions will make the farmer ineligible for any of these USDA programs.

Sodbuster: Farmers must certify that they have not converted "highly erodible lands" to cropland since December 23, 1985 or if they have, crop production must be in compliance with an approved conservation plan.

Swampbuster: Farmers must certify that they are not producing agricultural commodities on land that was converted from "wetland" after December 23, 1985. The sanction applies to all commodity crops produced by those farmers, not just those produced on converted wetlands. Farmers who began the conversion of wetlands before December 23, 1985 are exempt from this provision.

Conservation compliance requires farmers participating in USDA programs and who are farming "highly erodible" land to implement conservation plans developed by SCS and approved by SWCDs. (This provision will have the greatest impact.)

Soils classified as "highly erodible" and "wetland" will be defined by SCS.

Areas Impacted Most: Major land resource areas for which impacts will be greatest are the Southern High Plains (south of Highway 70), all of the Rolling Plains, the Blackland Prairies (those soils with slopes greater than 2 1/2%), all of the Claypans area, sandy soils in the Upper Rio Grande Plains, selected areas of the Cross Timbers, all sandy soils in the western part of the state not previously mentioned, and all soils being cultivated in the eastern part of the state that have slopes of 3 percent or more.

Wind erosion is the major factor for several of these areas mentioned, especially the Southern High Plains. For some counties 100% of the soils will be classified as "highly erodible". More than 75% of the Southern High Plains croplands will be classified as highly erodible.

STEALING ELECTRICITY IS AGAINST THE LAW

Stealing Energy is a Felony

Some people tamper with their electric meters to avoid paying for the energy they use. Stealing electricity is a felony offense in the state of Texas and violators will be prosecuted. West Texas Utilities' Current Diversion Department is working hard to help combat the growing problem of energy theft.

Energy Theft is Dangerous

Not only is service theft a crime, but it is also very dangerous. Serious injuries can result from meter tampering.

A Crime Against You

When someone steals electricity, they are not only stealing from WTU — they are also stealing from you, as a rate-payer. Just as shoplifting increases the cost of items you buy in the store, power theft increases the cost of your electric service.

WTU Will Prosecute

Because we are concerned about the dangers and costs resulting from meter tampering, West Texas Utilities will prosecute energy thieves.

Serving you with dependable electrical energy from the Red River to the Rio Grande.

Card Of Thanks

Once again Bennie and I find ourselves indebted to our precious friends and loved ones for meeting our needs in a time of trial. You showed forth the love of Jesus in the many cards you sent, the beautiful flowers, phone calls, visits and delicious food. To Barbara McCollum for keeping my shop open (without pay) goes my heartfelt appreciation. To Sister Dillard, Kellie Martin and Tonda Hollenback for offering to do the same, a "Lord Bless You." To Barbara Jameson for putting some "rush frames" together - "thanks Barb." To my art students for the sweet visits and food - "I love you kids." For my rapid recovery I give thanks to the healing power of Jesus, a wonderful Doctor and your many prayers that covered me like a blanket. Last but not least, I appreciate my loving husband who has patiently cared for me in every way.

May the Lord repay each of you a hundred fold for your acts of love and kindness.

June Keltz

We thank you for your comforting expressions of sympathy at the death of our loved ones. The lovely floral offerings, food, memorial donations, cards, telephone calls, prayers and other acts of concern will be remembered with gratitude.

Mrs. Jeff Sperry
Mr. and Mrs. Terry Sperry

We want to take this means of saying thank you to all the friends who in any way helped when David Trevino hurt playing football Friday night. Especially to the Ambulance Crew. Mr. and Mrs. Cummings, for staying at the Caprock hospital with me. Also Kenny Rice and Gilbert Hernandez. For your prayers, calls and concern for David. May I be of help to you in your time of need.
