Calloway Brothers Among Sponsors Of Great Race Near-Winners

This 1934 Chevrolet carried the names of Otho and Brooks Calloway as sponsors from California to Florida in the Great Race which concluded July 10th.

by Marisue Potts

Following The Great Race closely were the many small sponsors, including Otho and Brooks Calloway of Matador, of the Lubbock based entry driven by Danny Watson and navigated by Dave Walls which at first count rolled into Orlando, Florida, on July 10th in the third place slot. The final accounting of the time rally event, however, knocked out the South Plains duo and another Texas team from the winning circle because of a missed and misplaced road sign.

The Great Race featured vintage cars, fifty years and older, in a grueling two week course from Disney Land, California, to Disney World, Florida. From the heat of the desert to the humidity of the southern coastal states, men, women and machines suffered in often 100 degree weather.

The teams cranked out 500 miles a day while trying to match a set of timed instructions using only a stop watch, pencil, and paper. The antique cars were allowed some modifications for safety, and most maintained modern-day speeds.

The spiffy red and black 1934 Chevrolet sedan, owned and restored by Watson, was unable to garner a name sponsor and relied on the donations of many racing and antique car fans from the area to pay the entry fee of $5,500 and cover the expenses encountered along the way.

Among the many interesting vintage cars seen on the Lubbock to Abilene leg were a Indy roadster, a Rolls Royce, Bonnie and Clyde's Getaway Car, a firetruck, produce truck, numerous coupes and sedans.

Out of 74 finishers, the final winners were Alan Travis of Phoenix, Arizona, $50,000 first prize; Rex Gardner of Emporia, Kansas, $15,000 second prize.

LIBRARY TO MOVE JULY 30

Volunteers will once again move the over 8,000 volumes on July 30, 31 and August 1 and 3rd.

Unlike the first move which was forced by the damage done by the May 1st, 1984 tornado to the school, this chore will be divided into a four day event. Workers who can pack, disassemble shelving, cart books via hand truck across the street to the new location, provide refreshments, clean up, or mow grass at the American Legion Building are urged to sign up at the library.

At the new facility, the library will be needing dishes and silverware for the community room, study tables, and various other furnishings.

Old Friends Reminiscence After 81 Years

Eighty-one years ago Bob Jameson, Jr. and Rufus Peterson played together on the creeks and hills around Matador.

Last week, Rufus' grandson, Rolland Peterson and his fiancée Colorado came to visit Bob. The young couple were visiting her mother in Brice, Texas, so they came to Matador to look up his granddads old friend.

During the visit with Mr. and Mrs. Jameson, they called Rufus at his home in Washington State and spoke to Mr. and Mrs. Peterson. The two men enjoyed finding out about each other after all these years. Mr. Peterson asked about several people he remembered and said he was the last one of his family of 5 brothers and sisters.

Barbara's Bylines

On our recent trip to California we saw a lot of interesting places and ate delicious food. It was so nice to eat breakfast on the patio without flies or mosquitos. The days at the beach were different, the airplane advertisers fly over pulling signs. One sign read "Vote Oliver North for President."

It is wonderful to see most all people excited about a man who is making history for 'good' in America.

We enjoyed our trip touring Universal Studios and learning how they make movies.

We ate delicious hamburgers in a place called Ruby's on a pier that was like walking back into the 50's, music and all.

One of the most interesting eating places was a Moroccan Restaurant called Dar Marghrub, where we sat on cushions and ate with our fingers, napkins were towels. They washed your hands before and after serving a six course meal during 2 hours.

The beach was fun but unusually cold for this time of year, everyone said it was June weather, not July. Seeing the boats, sailboats and surfers is definitely a change from West Texas. The Pacific is really beautiful. We took a 2 hour boat trip to Catalina Island which is very beautiful and known for its clear water and underwater fish reserve.

I'm still glad I live in good old West Texas and especially in a small town like Matador.

I notice Lubbock people are fussing about people parking campers and boats in their drive ways, etc. I'm sure glad we don't have that problem in Matador. We small town people are especially fortunate to have low crime rates as well as low living expenses. We could say, come to Motley County and leave city problems behind.

A full report of the Summer Reading Club will appear in next weeks paper.

The move to the new building is already underway. We have a good number of volunteer workers for Thursday and Friday, but could use some more for Saturday. Hopefully for only cleaning up. We could use some more cookies and coffee or cold punch on Friday.

There are many new books in the library now. Drop by and look for them.

Next weeks news must be in by Friday, so I'll just say "Volunteers, we really do appreciate you."

Better Facial Image Program Presented At Do Gooders Club

A Better Facial Image was presented at the Do Gooders' Club meeting, Tuesday afternoon, July 14 at the Flomot Community Center. Mrs. Donnie (Crystal) Rogers assisted by Mrs. Mike (Gina) Green of Wolforth conducted demonstrations on the use of cosmetics and the basis of good skin care. Mrs. Wilson Barton opened the program reading a recitation, "Our Friends".

Mesdames Doyle Calvert, Coy Franks and D.M. Gilbert were hostesses. They presided at the table laid with a white cloth, centered with a colorful arrangement of summer flowers in a wicker basket. Complimenting the floral arrangement were ceramic animals and figurines depicting a farm scene. Refreshments of fresh vegetables, crackers, dip, assorted cookies, fruit slush punch and iced tea were served.

Mrs. Wilson Barton, president, conducted the business session. A financial report was given on the Homecoming concession stand and the bandana quilt. She announced Mrs. Johnney (Carol Ann) Turner was the winner of the quilt and she had received a note from Mrs. Turner expressing her pleasure having this treasured work done by the members of the club. In other business, the members discussed encouraging those who use the Community Center not be abuse the new dividing Louvered doors that were recently installed in the cafeteria, completing one of the club's projects.

Members attending besides those mentioned above were Mesdames Seab Washington, Joe Edd Helms, Bill Washington, Clayton Bond, Howard Rogers and guest, Mrs. Wendell Morris.

"Son Beams"

By June Keltz

A small child devises a plan that if his dog barks three times within a one hour span, on Thursday, that is a sign that Mom will allow him to spend the night with his best friend on Friday.

A teenager rolls a dice and if it lands on one, four consecutive times, that means Dad will buy him that red Chevy he is desiring.

An adult prays "Lord, if you want me to go on this trip, provide the money and I'll know this is your will."

Gideon wanted assurance that God would deliver Israel through him, so he placed a fleece of wool on the floor. If the fleece became wet on dry ground he would know God would favor him. The following morning, a bowl full of water was squeezed from the fleece. Still being apprehensive, he ask God for a second sign. He requested that the fleece be dry on ground covered with dew. Again, God honored his petition. (Judges 6:36-40).

This was in old Testament times when the Bible as we know it today had not been written and when God did not speak to everyone.

In Matt. 16: 1-4, some Pharisees and Sadducees came to Jesus asking to see a sign from heaven.

They could look at a red sky in the evening and know the weather would be fair. They could observe a red sky in the morning and know there would be a storm that day. Jesus said, "Do you know how to discern the appearance of the sky, but cannot discern the signs of the time?" Before He walked away he told them that evil and adulterous generations seek after signs and that no signs would be given them except the sign of Jonah.

We do not need signs today because we have the inerrant, inspired word of God as our guide. "Thy word is a lamp unto our feet, and a light unto our path." (Ps. 119:105) Those who are His have His spirit within them as an inner witness. "Howbeit when he, the Spirit of truth is come, he will guide you into all truth: for he shall not speak of himself; but whatsoever he shall hear, that shall he speak; and he will show you things to come." (Jh. 16:13) When we lack wisdom we can ask God and He will give it to us liberally. (James 1:5)

Signs may be tampered with by the enemy or by the flesh and are therefore misleading, unreliable and may deceive even the elect.

THANK YOU LORD

Good Morning Lord,
 I've come to speak with you again.
 If not for the fact that you know all, you would probably think I've come to ask for another favor.
 Not this time - no favors, no miracles of Biblical proportion. I've come to thank you Lord for the sun rising slowly over the wall.
 Although I cannot see it, I can recall every detail of how they used to look to me when I could.
 The rays of light reflecting - prism like - off the millions of tiny droplets of dew so gracefully perched upon each dancing blade of grass.
 Thank you for the choir of birds singing outside.
 Thank you for the morning air so fresh and comforting and for the five senses which allow me to enjoy each breath.
 I can smell it, taste it, feel it engulf my lungs with the very elements of life.
 I can hear it whispering through the tree tops, and watch it tip-toeing with the flowers.
 For this and so much more, Thank You Lord.

THESE BACTERIA MAY BE IN YOUR FOOD

Improperly packaged, stored, or prepared foods can become a breeding ground for the following bacteria.

Salmonella bacteria are found in raw fish, poultry, eggs, and dairy products. Refrigeration stops its growth, and it is easily destroyed in cooking.

Staphylococcus aureus forms a toxin in improperly stored ham, meats, fish, custard-filled foods, cream pies, sandwich fillings and dairy products. People who have a staph infection contaminate these foods through their hands, sneezes, or coughs. Staph is killed by cooking, but the toxin is not.

Clostridium perfringens (C.P.) can grow if food has not been kept hot or cold. Banquets and parties often invite the growth of C.P. because food is often held for a long time at improper temperatures. C.P. grows best in meat and poultry that has not been well-cooked, and in sauces, gravies, stuffings, pies, salads and casseroles.

Improper processing of home-canned meats, fish and vegetables is the main source of costidium botulinum. This bacteria grows and produces a deadly toxin in improperly processed or sealed food. Boiling food for 10 minutes before serving will destroy the botulism toxin.

Social Security Tips

by Terry J. Clements

Occasionally people ask if its possible for a person to get Social Security while in jail. The situation usually arises when the worker has been charged with a felony and Social Security retirement or disability payments are the family's primary income.

In general, the Social Security law prohibits the payment of benefits to people imprisoned for the conviction of a felony. These include childhood disability beneficiaries as well as people receiving other types of benefits under the Social Security retirement, disability, or survivors insurance programs.

However, benefits may continue to be paid to any family members receiving benefits on the prisoner's Social Security earnings record. And the prisoner's benefit may begin again with the first full month after release from prison if he or she is otherwise entitled to benefits.

The only exception to the prohibition against the payment of benefits to prisoners is if the person is entitled to benefits on the basis of a disability and is actively engaged in a vocational rehabilitation program approved by a court of law. The program must be expected to result in the person's being able to do substantial gainful work within a reasonable time after release.

A crime is considered a felony if it is defined as such under applicable State law. In legal jurisdictions which do not use the term felony, a crime shall be considered a felony if the sentence exceeds 1 year.

The present prohibition is a result of legislation enacted in 1980 and 1983. Before 1980, Social Security benefits were paid to people imprisoned for a felony on the basis that the benefits were an earned right that could not be taken away under existing law.

County Agent's Corner

SEYMOUR -- Area cattle producers will have an opportunity to improve their herd management techniques during a wheat-stocker cattle seminar at 9 a.m. August 11 at the Baylor County Extension building here.

Marketing alternatives and herd management will be the theme for the Rolling Plains Economic Program seminar, said Delton Gerloff, Extension agricultural economist in Vernon. Registration will begin at 9 a.m. The meeting is free and pre-registration is not required.

"The course is a combined effort which focuses on the questions and problems of the producer," said Gerloff.

Dr. John McNeill, Extension livestock specialist in Amarillo, will discuss cost-effective stocker management practices. Gerloff will explain marketing alternatives and computer services which can benefit the stocker operator.

A panel of Extension specialists will report on results of a study of intensified wheat-stocker operations in the Rolling Plains.

Panelists will be U.U. "Al" Alexander, agronomist; Emory P. Boring III, entomologist; Gerloff, and Dr. Nelsom Adams, livestock specialist. Ed Garnett, district director for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, will moderate.

After lunch, representatives of several commercial firms will demonstrate, with live animals, the proper use of products and techniques used in stocker cattle management. Dr. Dee Griffin, veterinarian, will present a necropsy demonstration.

Presiding over the sessions will be Ken Lane, Haskell broadcaster who serves as chairman of the Rolling Plains Economic Program executive committee, and Burt Dockery, Vernon farmer, who is vice chairman.

The Rolling Plains Economic Program is a regional organization sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service to promote economic growth and development in a 30-county area.

If you would like to ride over there with the County Agent, please call the Extension office at 347-2733.

Delta Kappa Gamma Society Holds Meeting In Paducah

Gamma Eta president, Naomi Gilbreth, conducted a short business meeting. Lila Hoobler, vice-president, had charge of planning the program for the 1987-88 yearbook.

The first meeting of the new year will be September 19 in Ralls at 2:00 p.m. in the Senior Citizens Building.

RURAL CRIME WATCH

Dickens Electric Cooperative, Inc. has begun a program similar to the neighborhood watch programs in the cities. The new program is called Rural Crime Watch. The Cooperative has contacted local law enforcement agencies and will be watching the rural areas within its service territory. The intent of the program is to cut down on the number of burglaries and similar crimes by watching for and reporting unusual activities in the Dickens Electric Cooperative service area.

Dickens County Sheriff Doyle King stated, "Most of the burglaries are occurring during the daytime while people are at work." He also noted that, that is the time that the Cooperative's personnel are out in the countryside doing line work and reading meters.

The Cooperative employees will not actually be making arrests. They will, however, be calling in on the radio if they see anything out of the ordinary. Then the sheriff's office can be notified of the situation.

Sheriff King and Lubbock Police Officer Kenneth Brendle urged everyone to go to their local police or sheriff's office to borrow an engraving tool to identify all their belongings. Officer Brendle recommended using your driver's license number as an identification number because the police can track that number easier than a social security number. "Just engrave TX DL, then your Texas driver's license number," said Brendle. He stated that the identification should go on televisions, vcr's, radios, washers, dryers, refrigerators, microwave ovens, and all other similar items. This makes it easier to get your items back in the event that they are stolen. Taking photographs of your jewelry can also help in identifying stolen property.

Other recommendations from the officers included installing dead bolt locks and window locks in your home. Trimming any excess trees and shrubbery will reduce the number of places a burglar can hide while trying to break into your house. Leaving a light on while you are not home can also help. However, if you are going to be gone several days, you might want to leave a light on a timer to make the house look like it is occupied.

"With the number of rural burglaries on the rise, we are proud to be watching out for our members in the countryside," states Dickens Electric General Manager Bailey Reece. "We hope that watching out for our neighbors helps cut down on the problem." Dickens Electric Cooperative is one of the many Rural Electric Cooperatives involved in a crime watch program.

BILL STANDIFER
Part II

The men were handcuffed together, their horses necked and driven overland like cattle. Somewhere in the foothills of the Western Cap-Rock, as they left the waters of the upper Pecos, they came upon a lone dugout, occupied at the time by a woman, the man being away from home. There they stopped for a morsel to eat. While the woman prepared the meal, the captives were unshackled to wash. The officers overlooking, but not so the prisoners, a Winchester that leaned in the corner.

The Deputy stepped outside and the prisoners tried to overpower Standifer. On hearing the commotion, the Deputy dashed back. What he saw was two men trying to disarm Standifer, while the third man stood guard over the scene with a Winchester.

General confusion prevailed while the shooting lasted and when the riot was quelled, both the woman and the Deputy lay wounded. Nothing was left for Standifer to do but leave his wounded Deputy and drive the captives, single-handed, across the trackless prairie for a hundred miles or more, without sleep for himself, and little food and water for anyone.

Bill landed in Estacado right side up, later going to Colorado City; and from there by train, ultimately reaching Young County, where the men were jailed. This is the type of Sheriff that Bill Standifer made. A man with an innate hatred for a thief; and a man who didn't know the meaning of the word quit, if he had a hunch that he was on the track of the party wanted.

The Sheriff's office and work, became too tame and palled on his nervous energies, so he retired and for several years, he went about the country, armed to the teeth, hunting tough characters. It was said that Bill Standifer was a U.S. Marshall. The later years of action were as a "scalper" on big ranches, mostly the "Espuela" or Spur Ranch. A "scalper" is a man who works independently and secretly, keeping down and in subjection cattle stealing. In short, a Detective.

Cattle pilfering, I suppose, has gone on from the beginning of time, at least, from the time Jacob robbed his father-in-law, Laban, of his cattle on the Plains of Padan Aram, to now and will possibly continue so long as cattle are worth money, or can be used to kill hunger.

Back in the early nineties, the Two Buckle range was leased and stocked with big steers from Old Mexico; locally called the "Corleties" outfit. A man by the name of Wright was manager. A local tough worked for a time, but Wright was not pleased with the new employee, whose name was Stewart, and meant to release him. By some grapevine or underground method, Stewart was informed that his job was in danger. Being of the blustery, man-eating type, he sent Wright word that if he fired him, he, Stewart, would wet-rope him all over the ranch.

If rumor was correct, Stewart made his bluff stick, temporarily at least, for Wright seemed afraid to act. Standifer was employed and made manager, for the time being, to get rid of Stewart. A job to his liking, not that he had anything personal against Stewart, but liked to deal with men that thought they couldn't be dealt with. Standifer sent for Stewart, gave him his check and told him to move on, which he did, without any hot air escaping.

That job was remunerative, though short lived and gave Bill many a laugh. Standifer lived in the wide open spaces, led an active, virulent, dangerous life.
Part III, next week.

Remember When

By Annie B. Cloyd
Box 22
Flomot, TX 79234

Hi Neighbors, it's me again, here in Flomot trying to keep cool. How did we ever manage way back before electricity? Aren't we thankful for air conditioners now.

Remember when we didn't have anything but a piece of cardboard or a folded piece of paper to fan with? Those fancy folding fans, with the hand painted pictures on them, made in Japan, were so pretty but who could afford them even if they didn't cost very much? Some folks that had lots of money might even have one trimmed up with lace.

Remember those cardboard fans at Church? They had a picture on them too but they also had the name of the Funeral Home on the back. They had a wooden handle and were nice to fan with. I know they put them all along on the benches for the folks on Sunday. I can still see the little babies asleep on the benches and their Mother's just fanning away to keep the air moving as well as the flies, and wishing, I'm sure, that the faithful old Preacher would finish up soon.

We didn't get electricity out in the country for a long time. But the folks in town had it. They also got electric fans too. I remember the first ceiling fan I ever saw was in the drug store. We thought it was just great to have a nickle and go to the drug store and get a double dip ice cream cone and sit at the table under that ceiling fan.

Seems like that everything that has been around - comes around again because look at all the ceiling fans now. They were all out of style for a while but everyone wants one now.

Electricity has brought something else back that went out of style a long time ago and that is the curling irons for the hair. Remember the old kind that we lit the old coal oil lamp and put the curling iron on the crimping iron down in the lamp chimney to get it hot enough to work? I sure do - I had a lot of hair and when Mother got through with me I would look pretty frizzled. You know I see some hair that is sort of frizzled now but I do think that it isn't as bad as when I was little.

Girls now days don't know what they have missed by having shampoo instead of lye soap to wash their hair with. One thing about it was we sure did have clean hair. But we used lye soap for washing everything because that's all we had.

Better stop for now but I'll be back so we can "remember" again.

Family Fun And Education At The Texas Folklife Festival

Tired of reruns and rented videos? Soggy from all those hours at the pool? Haunted by that dreaded end-of-vacation complaint, "I'm bored"? Maybe a change is in order, something different to lift the summer doldrums - something like the annual Texas Folklife Festival.

Scheduled for Aug. 6 to 9, the Texas Folklife Festival is a celebration of the state's rich heritage sponsored by The University of Texas Institute of Texan Cultures at San Antonio. Featuring the music, food, dances and crafts of the many ethnic groups who settled and developed Texas, the Festival blends education and entertainment in an event the whole family can enjoy.

Children, parents and grandparents alike discover more about Texas history and culture as nearly 6,000 participants from throughout the state share their special skills, talents and traditions with approximately 100,000 visitors. Age has no limits at the Festival as young and old explore together the many things to do, see, hear, taste, touch and try.

Elizabeth Ellis of Goliad presents folk games in the Festival's "Back 40" area. For her one of the most rewarding aspects of the Festival is to see grandparents reminiscing with their grandchildren about their own childhood. "So many older people come up with their grandchildren and when they see a game or toy they recognize they say, 'I used to do that when I was a kid, but I've forgotten how to make it.' Pretty soon they're making one together," she says.

In addition to folk games the Festival presents a variety of crafts and pioneer skills such as basketmaking, spinning and weaving, lye-soap making, log construction, breadbaking, whittling and more, all of which visitors can try for themselves. Other activities include joining the soldiers at the fort, practicing handwriting in the one-room schoolhouse and learning about the lives of Indian Texans at the tipi.

Festival demonstrators not only encourage participation, but also welcome questions about their particular craft or skill. Ruffin Hill of Kyle, who organizes the spinning and weaving presentation, enjoys having visitors express their interest by asking questions. Though Hill notes that the majority of the questions she receives come from children, she suspects that many adults are just as intrigued but are reluctant to ask for explanation or details.

"It's interesting that as adults we get a little shy about asking questions so we get our kids interested and get them to ask," she says.

At the Wendish booth, however, no one seems afraid to ask, "Who are the Wends?" In fact, the question comes up so often that the group has produced a pamphlet to help answer visitor queries about Wendish culture.

The Wends are descendants of a group of Slavic tribes who occupied much of central Europe in the 10th century. Persistent attempts by the Prussians to Germanize the Wends, or Sorbs as they called themselves, prompted the group to leave Europe in search of freedom to speak their own language and practice their own faith.

In 1854 a group of Wends established a town named Serbin near Giddings in what is now Lee County. Though Serbin survived, over the years the Wendish language and customs were slowly lost. Today, through the work of the Wendish Heritage Society, many of the customs and traditions have been rediscovered.

At the Festival visitors can learn more about this fascinating culture and meet a host of other Texans - German, Hungarian, Scottish, Vietnamese, Mexican, Spanish, Japanese and Irish, to name just a few. A tour of the grounds with stops at the more than 30 food booths and 10 stages of continuous entertainment offers the opportunity to taste their foods, enjoy their music and dances, see their crafts and gain a better understanding of their ways of life. And a visit to the Institute's exhibit floor provides even more information about the history and contributions of Texas' many ethnic groups.

An extension of the Institute's statewide role as a research, education and communication center concerned with the history and culture of Texas, the Festival is held on the Institute's grounds on HemisFair Plaza in downtown San Antonio. Festival hours are 5 to 11 p.m. Thursday Aug. 6; noon to 11 p.m. Friday and Saturday, Aug. 7 and 8; and noon to 10 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 9. Admission is $5 for adults, $1 for children ages 6-12, and free for children under 6. Food coupons are 25¢ each.

No admission fee is charged from noon to 1 p.m. on Friday, Aug. 7 -- a great time to bring the whole family.

For more information or to order tickets write the Texas Folklife Festival, Institute of Texan Cultures, P.O. Box 1226, San Antonio, Texas 78294, or call (512) 226-7651.

DICKENS ELECTRIC COOP. ANNUAL MEETING

The 42nd Annual Membership Meeting of Dickens Electric Cooperative was held Thursday, July 16 at the Cooperative offices in Spur. Despite heavy rains over five hundred members and guests took part in the annual event. A barbecue meal was served by Danny's Catering of Lubbock. During the meal the crowd was entertained by music from Lorita Baldrige, Pat Bass, Jean Brown, Albert Brown, Bernice Goodall, and Thomas Smith.

A free health check was provided to the members and guests. The blood pressure checks were done by the staff of the Texas Department of Health in Spur.

To begin the business meeting, Cooperative General Manager Bailey L. Reece presented R.A. (Bob) Conner with a silver tray in recognition of his years of service as the Cooperative's attorney. Mrs. Conner was presented an arm bouquet of carnations. The inscription on the tray recognized their service to the community and dedicated the Annual Meeting to the Conners.

After a report from the Cooperative's financial auditor, Dickens Electric Cooperative President Ned Ward, of Aspermont, reported on the progress made and savings involved with the change to Brazos Electric Power Cooperative as Dickens Electric's wholesale power supplier. He also reported on the rising cost of replacing heavy equipment and that expenses are to the point that a rate adjustment is now necessary.

General Manager Reece reported that the transition to Brazos for the Cooperative's supply of wholesale power saved the members in excess of two million dollars in substation and transmission line construction, maintenance, and repair. However, with kilowatt hour sales lower than expected and expenses continuing to rise, the Cooperative has filed for an adjustment to the rates in order to keep the Cooperative in sound financial condition, "It has been five years since the Cooperative had to raise rates," said Reece. "Now that time has come again. In 1986 the Cooperative margins were only seven-tenths of one percent on each dollar." He also remarked that this is only the third time in forty-two year history of the Cooperative that the rates have been adjusted.

Lori McCoy, of Sweetwater, told the crowd about her trip to Washington, D.C. earlier this summer. She and Jason Parsons, of Spur, won the trip in a speaking contest sponsored by the Cooperative earlier this year.

Following Miss McCoy's report, results of the director elections were announced. Three directors were re-elected to the board for three years terms. They were Haldean Cave of the Harmony area, Robert Forbis of the Roaring Springs area, and Billy Hale of the Girard area.

Door prizes were then awarded. Dr. Joe Alexander, of Abilene, won the grand prize which was a microwave oven. The meeting was adjourned after the prize drawing.

that can make them feel sleepy and mentally dull.

Fortunately, there is now a Food and Drug Administration (FDA)-approved prescription drug that seems able to control the one without causing the other. In tests, patients were as likely to feel drowsy after taking a placebo as after the new medicine.

Other currently available antihistamines apparently cause drowsiness by affecting the central nervous system; the medicine called Seldane hardly gets into that system at all. It doesn't get to the point where it can cause sleepiness.

Hay fever and similar allergies cause about two million lost school days a year.

For many high school students, the back to school season coincides all too well with the hay fever season. Allergic rhinitis, as allergies such as hay fever are called, is estimated to cause two million lost school days in the U.S. each year. Just when it's time to be alert and learn, many young people are forced by their allergies to either devote some of their time to controlling their sneezing and coughing, itching, watering eyes and running nose; or resort to an antihistamine
