ISSUE NO. 33

COUNTY 4-H'ERS ATTEND CONGRESS

Jenifer Davis, Rusty Willmon, Tricia Palmer and Rhonda Long at 4-H Congress.

by Nona Long

On Tuesday morning, July 14, 1987, four excited and sleepy Motley County 4-H'ers left Matador for Childress. There they boarded a chartered TNM&O Bus headed for Nacogdoches, Texas and the campus of Stephen F. Austin State University. They attended the 1987 Texas 4-H Congress. Those going were Rhonda Long, Tricia Palmer, Rusty Willmon and Jenifer Davis.

This year's theme for Congress was "East Texas: Heritage and Horizons." A forestry field day, a tour of East Texas by train and challenging speakers supported the theme. The schedule for congress was a busy one with meetings and tours.

On Wednesday they went on the Forestry Tour to International Seed Orchard, Nacogdoches, Texas Forestry Association Museum, Lufkin, Texas Forest Service, Lufkin, Timberland Site, Champion Paper Co., Louisiana Pacific Plywood Mill, Lufkin Wildlife Management, Temple-Easte (North Boggy Slough)

at Rusk Depot and rode to Palestine, Texas. In Rusk and Palestine they went through the depots. They boarded the buses in Palestine for the ride back to Nacogdoches. On the campus they could tour the Stone Fort on S.F.A. Campus, visit Agriculture, Home Economics and Forestry departments.

The Motley County group were told then to get ready to leave for home that night. The 4-H'ers on District 1 Bus went to District Meetings after the dance ended at 1:00 a.m., after the meeting said good-bye to everyone, got their luggage and boarded the bus for home. They had already ordered eight pizzas and three cases of cokes for this trip. They stopped in Wichita Falls at 6:30 a.m. for breakfast and arrived back in Childress at 9:30 a.m. This very tired group was picked up by James Palmer and all arrived in Matador by 11:00 a.m.

The 4-H'ers had really enjoyed their trip to Congress, but were looking forward to a good night's sleep at home Friday night.

Hospital Board Prepares To Ready Stanley Building

The Motley County Hospital Board met August 7, 1987 with Board members Larry Hoyle, Buzz Thacker, Darrell Cruse and Lillie Crouch present.

July expenses were $4100.70. A motion was made and passed to pay the bills.

Hoyle noted that new tires were needed for the Ambulance. A motion was made and passed to purchase ambulance tires.

Hoyle instructed the Board that the cost of liability insurance per year for the 9 EMT's and 1 ECA would be $1635.64.

The Board reviewed the lease contract with the City of Matador for the old hospital building. The board voted to delete item 10 regarding insurance which states the lease shall maintain in full force and effect a general fire and casualty insurance and also lot 10 of the premises description was omitted.

The electricity has been turned on at the hospital building. Board member Cruse is in charge of remodeling the building to suit clinic needs. Cruse informed the Board that Kirby Campbell would be willing to serve as an overseer of the project for a fee. A motion was made and passed to allow Campbell to serve as construction overseer.

Hoyle explained that the tax rate currently is 0.917 per $100 valuation, generating $47,000 in revenue.

Since valuation is down the tax rate must be increased to .0949 per $100 valuation to generate the same revenue. A motion was made and passed to set the hospital tax rate at .0949 which is 1/3 of 1¢ increase.

Lillie Crouch was appointed to check into indigent care liability for the hospital district. It was discussed that one indigent hospital bill would seriously jeopardize the hospital district budget.

Wendy Beshirs Crowned 1987 Jr. Rodeo Queen

Wendy Beshirs was awarded the silver heart shaped buckle she is wearing here, as she was crowned the 1987 Jr. Rodeo Queen Saturday night during the Jr. Rodeo in Roaring Springs. Wendy sold over 400 tickets on a pair of handmade boots.

Numerous Business Matters Presented To Commissioners In Recent Monthly Meeting

by Barbara Jameson

The Motley County Commissioners Court met Monday August 10 in the Courtroom with Judge Billy J. Whitaker, Commissioners J.M. Russell, Fraiser Watson, Bill D. Washington, Joseph Simpson attending and County Clerk Lucretia Campbell recording.

Invocation was given by Bill D. Washington following with the reading of the minutes, and approved as read.

Con Thomas, State Trapper Representative met with the Court to ask the Court to consider hiring the county trapper for 12 months instead 9 months a year. He explained that in a small area like Motley County, it caused extra paper work and also the trapper did not receive pay for the months not hired but he did work when people called him during the off months, especially in the Flomot and Northfield areas. Rusty Birchfield and Jim Stockton were there to explain the fact that the trappers were available anywhere they were needed, even in town they help exterminate skunks and rats. They also stated that Motley County was one of the counties with the highest population of coyotes and needed to be trapped year round.

Russell stated that the county was going to have a $25,000 real money loss to go by when they plan next years budget. The Judge stated they would take the request into consideration.

James Gillespie, Soil Conservation Service, came in to discuss a proposal to do some repairs and remodeling to their offices, and that the rent would be negotiable. The Court suggested that he get some estimates for them to look at.

Howard Traweek came in with some information he had found about the Northfield School Building, in 1959 the B.F. Simpson Estate decided it to the Motley County ISD. So instead of belonging to the County, it belongs to the Motley County School District.

The Court read the bills and approved them.

The Court voted to still not collect the $5.00 license fee on car license, this is a choice of each county.

The JP report was read with $2,926.00 fines being collected last month.

The motion was made and seconded for the county to agree with and enter into a cost share with the Texas Highway Department of Transportation.

Jimmie Hunter and Marisue Potts reported on the Library for the month of July. They still had some funds left to add more shelving and how pleased they were with the way the move went and all the wonderful help they had, and welcomed the court to come by for a tour.

They also explained that Gary L. Lancaster CPA office would set up their bookkeeping system and would be much simpler than what they were trying to do now, since the new system will be on the computer.

Mrs. Hunter asked permission to place Branch Libraries in any of the Communities where they had a volunteer to help. The Flomot Gin and the Caprock gin at Flomot had let them put boxes in their offices for books that needed to be returned. Motion was made and seconded and passed for her to work out the details of this and do it where help was available.

Betty Luckett, Motley County Tax Appraiser gave a report on the figures that could be reviewed to set the 1987 taxes. No action was taken in this meeting.

Seth Halbert and Joyce Walker and Judge C.L. Abernathy of Mental Health/Mental Retardation Center of Plainview gave reports on the last years work and progress and update on the newly acquired building for a work shop. They reported how nice and how much more help they were able to give in the old Nichols Hospital building, which they now have their offices and detox center. They stated that 30 people were helped from Motley County last year and 33 the year before.

Joyce Walker explained the new program for disabled children from ages birth through 3 was getting off to a good start. This program is called Early Childhood Intervention and Rural Infant Education Program. This is a grant funded program.

They asked if the Court would consider raising their support 50%; they explained this would be matched by a grant. Their goal is to become self supporting by utilizing the workshop and selling the items made there.

The court agreed this was an excellent program and wanted to support it but did not want to raise the support funds just for higher salaries to be paid. No action was taken.

Beth Benitz of Pitney Bowes demonstrated three different sizes of postage scales and meters to be used by the entire courthouse, with a 1 year lease agreement. Martha Dell King stated she had already bought all her stamped envelopes for the year. The court said they would wait until a later date to make this decision.

Dan Jones of Veselka, Beck, Allen, PC came in for questions to be asked about what they wanted the company to do. After a lengthy discussion it was decided the Court wanted the company to go after the larger amounts of delinquent taxes due in this statute of limitations. Jones stated he would be as aggressive as need be in collecting these back taxes. The court advised Jones to put the smaller vacant lots, etc., on hold at this time. Ten thousand dollars was collected last week from one of the larger firms owing back taxes.

The question of what would happen to these taxes about large subjects that was in bankruptcy court was brought up. Jones stated that the tax on real property would be priority to be paid when the land sold or changed hands.

Another question was asked about the cost to county. Jones stated that there would be no cost to the county. That this is what they were hired and retained for and in collecting the taxes. The penalty and interest is added by the county taxes and then the 15% that is to be paid to Veselka, Beck and Allen is to be added to that total so this 15% does not come out of the money due to the county. The Court also stated that since there was a misunderstanding with the Commissioners Court, the company and Harry Hamilton, so for the Collection Agency to disregard any instructions from anyone other than the Court.

Doyle and Billy Shannon entered the meeting to ask of the update on the Reed/Shannon road dispute. Judge Whitaker had received a letter from Don Cummings, Attorney for E.G. Reed, written on July 29, 1987, to disregard the release signed by Elva Reed and Bly Shannon on July 16, 1987, agreeing to each give the county 15 feet of right of way for a road.

A petition and other alternatives were discussed.

Judge Whitaker stated it appeared to him it would still have to go through District Court before any decision would stand. Court was dismissed.

LIBRARY NOTES
 BY JIMMIE HUNTER

If you don't believe in miracles, then you must not have been in town Thursday, July 30th, when the big move of Motley County Library from the East side of the street to its new home on the West side of Main took place. Joel Dean Spray had assembled our one shelf unit Wednesday evening, and Earline Vaughn and Gilbert Hernandez had trucked the fiction books from the last shelf in the Legion Building to their new home, so that Grace Campbell could start shelving them backwards alphabetically, and we didn't get her confused until she had worked her way from "W" to "G". As soon as Billy Osborn, Dean Osborn, James Meador and Bill Smallwood constructed frames in front of each building, the shelves that Charlie Johnson and helpers took apart in the old building were hauled to the new building where Joel Dean and crew assembled them again. Books soon got ahead of the shelving crews, as they flowed like a raging torrent in grocery carts and bread trays loaned by Pay-N-Save. When these log-jammed, boxes of books came over in pickups and where truck about on dollies loaned by James Stanley and others. Irene Welling had a big pot of coffee ready when work began and the brownies that she brought, with the cookies furnished by Beverly Darsey and Lorene Lancaster, kept the crew refreshed. Before these disappeared, they were replenished with applesauce-butterscotch bread by Grace Campbell, Zucchini bread by Marguerite Edwards, tiny blueberry muffins by Opal Pipkin and a fresh batch of "boy-scout" brownies from Irene. Irene had only signed up to furnish refreshments, but she stayed to clean shelves Thursday and Friday and gave up a Garage sale on Saturday to come back and finish the job. In spite of the sweat, dust and unavoidable confusion, I think we would all agree with Gilbert who said, when I tried to insist he should go home and rest with hot packs on his leg, "I don't want to go home, moving is exciting!" I found it exciting and down right thrilling to see so many people lend their hand where ever they found a need, and when they finished one task, look for another, which was usually quickly found. Everyone worked so willingly and with such good humor, we can never express our gratitude enough, but we hope you are all as proud of our new home as we are and will come in often to enjoy it.

Besides those mentioned above, we want to thank Karen Davis, Tim and Travis Kendell, Wayne Shelton, Francis Finch, Debra Scott, Sarah Hurt, Michelle Bearden, Beverly Vinson, Keith and Joan Patton, James Gillespie, Dan Barton, Christie Potts, Richard and Rob Potts. Earlyne Jameson and Naomi Tilson took on the job of really cleaning the American Legion Building with the help of Marise Potts, who worked early and late every day. Earline Vaughn who did the same and Wayne Hunter. Bro. Greer Willis was seen back and forth behind the Legion Building by someone who wondered what he was doing until they caught a glimpse of the lawn mower handle above the weeds. He ran one lawn mower dry, then found another and finished the job.

"Son Beams"

By June Keltz

Born again Cowboys seem to have a deep understanding of God and their relationship with Him is one of intimacy. They have come to know of His protection on the range, of His peace under the stars, of His love by watching a mother cow lick her newborn calf and of His day by day provisions.

A cowboy's prayer language would not impress a College English Professor but the Master's heart is moved when He hears his petitions for a hot meal, rain, a mild winter, a gentle horse, a good saddle, a strong rope and wind to turn the windmills. My cowboy ancestral heart was blessed last evening as John Gaither, an employee of the 6666 Ranch, stood tall in the pulpit with his Sunday wranglers tucked in yellow knee high boots and sang a song written by him, under the inspiration of his creator. It is a cowboy's version of the woman at the well, found in John, chapter 4.

Knowing that many of you share my love for Jesus, cowboys and windmills, I would like to share John's song with you.

THE PARABLE OF THE WINDMILL

By: John Gaither

Yes, Jesus is turning the windmills;
 He's turning them out on the plains;
 When Jesus is pumping the water,
 You'll never be thirsty again.

A lady rode up to the windmill;
 Her heart was heavy and sad.
 And sin had been her companion
 And much of her life had been bad.

At noontime a stranger came riding
 Up to the windmill that day;
 And asked for a cool drink of water
 To help him on his way.

You see, Sir, the mill is not turning,
 You'll never be thirsty again;
 And there will be no more water
 Until the wind turns the wheel.

I can give you some water, dear lady,
 You'll never be thirsty again;
 It flows from a fountain in heaven
 It will wash your life of all sin.

The men in your life have brought sorrow;
 The shame showed on your face,
 She knew then that she'd met the Master;
 And walked now under His Grace.

The lady jumped on her pony;
 Her sins washed whiter than snow;
 She wanted to tell all the people
 From whom all the blessings would flow.

She told them she had met Jesus
 Out on the plains that day;
 And told how His spiritual water
 Had made her happy to say

"Yes, Jesus is turning the windmills;
 He's turning them out on the plains;
 When Jesus is pumping the water,
 You'll never be thirsty again."

TEENAGERS ARE DRINKING LESS MILK

Will a skim-milk-based carbonated beverage be the solution for the majority of teenagers who prefer to drink soda instead of milk?

That product, which may find its way onto the supermarket shelves in the future, is attempting to take advantage of the alarming new trend in today's teens. They are turning toward soda and away from milk, which is leaving them nutritionally deprived.

Milk is a good source of calcium, riboflavin, protein and vitamin D, all of which are important to growing teens. The calcium content of milk is especially essential to growing bones. By deleting milk from their diets, teens lose these vital nutrients which aren't often made up for in the rest of their diet. This could be significant to growing females whose calcium deficiency may make them victims of osteoporosis in later life.

According to government research, teens who drink a third of a can of soda a day, or less, aren't as likely to receive the recommended dietary allowance of 1,200 milligrams of calcium as teens who don't drink soda.

Since soda is readily available at most schools, parents have little control over their children's choice of beverage there. Home appears to be the place where the benefits of milk must be stressed so teenagers will not have to suffer later in life for their love of soda today.

BREAST CANCER DETECTION UNIT AVAILABLE TO AREA WOMEN

Matador, Texas
 Friday, Aug. 21, 1987

A Service Of
 Motley County Clinic

CALL 347-2641 FOR APPOINTMENT

According to the American Cancer Society, one out of 10 women in the United States will develop breast cancer sometime in her lifetime. It is currently estimated that over 37,000 women die each year as the result of breast cancer.

Ninety percent of breast cancers are diagnosed by women or their physicians finding a lump in the breast. Women who are diagnosed with a lump large enough to feel have a 50 percent five year survival rate. A woman who is diagnosed as having breast cancer by mammography, before a lump can be felt, has a 97 percent five year survival rate and a 90 percent 10 year survival rate. A mammogram can detect a cancer this small, even before it can be felt.

Appointments may be made by calling 347-2641 and must be made in advance. Limited to 50 persons.

The Mobile Breast Cancer Detection Unit will be in Matador on Friday, August 21, 1987.

The American Cancer Society has established guidelines for mammography in asymptomatic women. (Women who have no symptoms of disease). Those guidelines have been adopted by the American Academy of Family Physicians, American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, and The American College of Radiology. Those guidelines are:

- I. 35-40 years of age - One baseline mammogram.
- II. 40-50 years of age - A mammogram every 1-2 years depending on breast type and risk factor.
- III. 50 years of age and over - An annual physical examination and annual mammogram.
- IV. Asymptomatic women under 50 years of age with significant high risk factors should be examined at appropriate intervals. These risk factors include previous breast cancer and family history of cancer.

V. A symptomatic woman should have a mammogram at any age when she experiences a mass, nipple discharge, skin changes or unexplained breast pain.

A screening mammogram is an x-ray of the breast using extremely low dosages of radiation (usually comparable to dental x-rays) and is designed to find very early cancers.

A female technologist who is highly trained in mammography will perform the examination.

The charge for the screening mammogram is $50.00. The Unit accepts cash, check, Visa, Mastercard and American Express.

For more information or to make an appointment call 347-2641.

Senior Citizens Report

by Iris Blevins

We thank everyone who came for our arts and crafts display at the Senior Citizens Building last week. It takes real courage to go somewhere in over a hundred degree weather. Our Judges did a marvelous job and we thank you so very much.

Beth and Mr. Hinson, we were pleased to have you. Your work on the quilts, pillow and picture is beautiful. We welcome you to come be with us at anytime you can. Come and bring someone with you.

The Mini-Bus went to Plainview Thursday but haven't had a report on those who were on it.

Friday, the Senior Citizens Olympics were held at the Civics Center in Lubbock. There were nine people from Matador that rode the bus. Motley County came in second on participation points. Motley County has the smallest group of people participating in the seventeen county district. Hale County won first place. Motley County placed second and Youkum County came in third.

It was a wonderful day of entertainment for all those who attended and participated in the activities. I like to meet new people each time we go. The Lubbock Mayor gave a beautiful welcome address and the younger generation went all out to show us a good time. Thanks, Lubbock for your hospitality.

We are so pleased to tell you that Lillie Barkley is home again and we welcome you back in Matador Lillie. We are looking forward to having you come to Senior Citizens soon.

Lena, we are hoping you will soon be back with us at Senior Citizens.

We are missing Wilie and Dorothy Lee from our Senior Citizens group. We hope everyone will soon be back with us.

Why use Roundup® herbicide to suppress forage sorghum seedheads on CRP acres?

- Allows you to comply with Soil Conservation Service requirement of no seedhead production on CRP acres.
- A single application of Roundup herbicide suppresses seedhead production of sudangrass and sorghum throughout the summer and fall until frost takes over.
- Saves you time and money vs. 1 to 2 shredding trips. Multiple trips with a shredder may be necessary to comply with CRP regulations.
- Allows for easier planting of native grasses next spring because most of the crop residue will be upright and not shredded over the soil surface.
- Gives you more time to work on productive crop acres as compared to multiple shredding trips.

ROUNDUP HELPS YOU SUPPRESS SEEDHEAD PRODUCTION EFFECTIVELY AND ECONOMICALLY. CRP cost-sharing programs differ by county. Consult your County Soil Conservation Service for details.

Recollections

PRAIRIE DOGS

The prairie dogs are presumed to be, so named, because they inhabited the prairie country, west of the "West Cross Timbers;" still they were not averse to living in timbered regions, so long as the underbrush was not too dense. A lot of the west was a vast prairie when first seen by white men, that later grew up in mesquite that were quite thick and the prairie dogs inhabited that sort of timber for their vision was not entirely restricted.

They were unexcelled as sentries and lookouts. Always alert for any danger. The moment they saw anything alarming, they dashed to the summit of their burrows and began a lively chatter. Every dog in hearing took up the signal and were on the watch.

Nothing could slip upon them unawares; not even the silent snake that slid over the ground with seeming stealth, was no exception, though he was possible the dog's worst enemy. Until the coming of the farmer, and he waged a war of extermination for he grew scanty crops, where the dogs had burrowed and that was nearly everywhere.

The prairie dog, so far as observation could lead, lived on grass and grass roots and gathered his rations daily. They mowed down corn, cane, maize, cotton, wheat and most everything else the farmer planted, more to clear their horizon than for food to satiate hunger.

You see little signs of prairie dogs in winter. They may come out of their dens, if the weather is bright and warm; never if inclement during winter months. It may be that they store grass in their burrows or they may hibernate.

During my first twenty years of residence around them, they seem to multiply and thicken until there were countless thousands of the little furry creatures; and by reason of their great numbers and life habits, they were the most ruthless grass destroyers that ever lived. They ate it and scratched it up by the roots for yards and yards around their burrows, as I thought, banking them against extra hard rains. Nothing short of "Noah's Flood" could drown them out of their homes in the earth.

A small solidified animal of a grey, brownish red color. The meat is edible if properly cooked, but retains an earthy flavor. Like most wild animals, they were weather prophets dependable. At times, when it is dry and not a cloud to be seen; they may be found industriously rein forcing the dirt embankment around the mouth of their burrows, if so, you may make preparations for excessive moisture. It was sure to come. Those dogs knew more about the future than a Government Weather Forecaster. They never made an uncertain guess and were always prepared. Energetic, cute little animals, yet, destructive little devils.

When the Swenson interest acquired the "Espuela Land and Cattle Company", there were acres on acres of grazing lands that didn't have enough grass to feed a goose. They got possibly thirty thousand cattle in that deal. You may ask, how come? What did they live on? The answer lies not in that fact alone. In 1885 when the English interest bought the property, sixty-two thousand cattle were counted over to them and carried on the same range Swenson bought. The difference is spelled "Dogs".

The first farmers to buy land from Swenson had their crops cut down, as though a mowing cycle had swept over the ground. Swenson undertook to exterminate the dogs with poisoned grain. After crews of men went over the range, a couple of times with pails in hand, containing the poison rations, he got them; but his bank account was minus about fifty thousand dollars. The "minus" is also spelled with the same four letters "dogs".

While the prairie dog was, and is, an animal that prefers the wide open spaces where he can see the sun-rise and set without obstructions, the "Llano Estacado", from some cause, never seemed to hold inducements that were enticing to him. No place on the Plains, in the kin of my knowledge, ever was infested with them, as the breaks land was. A few small dog towns just on the brow of the Cap-Rock was all. It may be true that in time, they would have covered the Plains.

Goodnight says that the Buffalo never ranged on the Plains, until driven there by their relentless foe, "The Buffalo Hunters". Some of you wizards of nature's children might shed some light on the topic. No one can be sure about that. A hand-dug well was started around a prairie dog den, and at the depth of forty feet, the dog-hole angled out of the well. That well was dug to the depth of eighty feet and abandoned a dry hole. Nothing proven there. The surmise remains.

Don't ever let anyone make you believe that the prairie dog and rattler snake were bosom pals and life long friends; that lived in the same den. That is too thin, even for hot air. The rattler loved the dog, yes, loved to eat him, as the dog loved the rattler, loved to catch him in a burrow and bury him alive. That is the most amicable dealings they had with each other.

Enough badgers would have exterminated the prairie dogs, but the earth would have been as porous as a sieve. Badgers were not so very plentiful.

The prairie dog has had his day, possibly his purpose in this part of the world. Today there are few left, and they are like strangers at your door. The memory of the beast is a more abiding quantity. It lingers, as do the shudders that many cowboys felt creep up their spine, while running their horses over, around and among the treacherous pits the dog dug according to his purpose and instinct.

How they reproduced so abundantly, is passed understanding. Snakes, hawks, wolves, pole-cats, badgers, eagles and people were active natural enemies. Nature took it's toll, and still they multiplied and prospered, with the stubborn tenacity of a Jew. They didn't have nine lives, but they had ninety-nine ways of protecting the one life they did have.

The prairie dog's one weakness was his love, his appetite, for the grain he refused to let grow by his dug-out door. That appetite, and man's ingenuity, became his undoing with poison. The American people, and the prairie dogs are the most wastefully extravagant destroyers the world ever knew, both have a penchant for destroying more than they can consume.

The prairie dog's disappearance en masse through his appetite; the antelope's hurried demise by reason of his insatiable curiosity, are lessons that should "furnish food for thought," to more rational beings.

Remember When

By Annie B. Cloyd
Box 22
Flomot, TX 79234

Hi Neighbors, it's me again here in Flomot thinking about the old time ways of doing things, and that we thought it was just fine because we didn't know any better. Time sure changes things for everyone and I sometimes wonder if it is for the better. I know it makes everything easier but is it good for us to have things that way? Do we forget how to work for what we get?

Did you ever hear of so much dieting? So many exercises to help us lose weight or just firm-up the old body? Think up something new to make folks lose weight and there is always somebody ready to buy the book or the recipe so they can try it out. Is all this really good for us? Leon's Mom had a good diet - "If it tastes good, don't eat it", and I guess that would work if we would just do it.

The Doctors tell us to leave off the pork and all the fat meats and that if we keep eating them we will die young. Well, we had an Uncle down in Louisiana that ate fat hog meat and sopped his biscuits in the grease gravy and I guess he ate too much of it because he died when was almost ninety years old. I know that Elsie worried about him and asked Doctor Stanley about it and told what all he ate and Doctor Stanley said, "If he has eaten that way all this time and he is in his eighties, just let him go ahead because you can't make him change now."

We were talking just the other day about how good the sausage and hams were and the fried ribs were great but when you ate them, you got grease all over your face, mostly from ear to ear. And the pork roasts are so good with some good old baked sweet potatoes with a lot of cow butter on them but they say cow butter isn't good for you so you have to use oleo.

Remember the first oleo you ever saw? I thought it was lard because there was no color. You had to open the container and mix a little bit of coloring with it. The coloring was in a separate package that came along with the oleo. It took a while but when you got it mixed, it looked just like butter but it didn't taste like it. I guess you can get used to anything after so long a time.

Remember how great it was to get a "store-bought" loaf of bread? I remember that it wasn't long before they begin to slice it for you and we sure thought that was something fine. But Mother's biscuits cooked in the old wood cook-stove were much better. More work but better anyway.

Have to stop but I'll be back and "remember when" again soon.

For many years she wrote a column, "Freestone News" for the Teague Chronicle, until she and her husband moved to a nursing home in Teague. She continued her column from the nursing home for a few months. So popular did the column become through the years, that when she discontinued it on two different occasions, she had so many requests to continue writing that she agreed to do so.

Ralph Massey, publisher of the newspaper wrote: "Her death will create a void in the lives of her family, friends, me, and the pages of the Teague Chronicle."

Survivors include her husband; one daughter, Lola Kay Hart and son-in-law Joseph Hart of Honolulu, Hawaii; three sisters, Lola Belle Wilson, Helen Lucille Woolery and Mildred Sue Bryant, all of Teague; and her brother, Joe Berry Meador, Teague; three granddaughters; two great-grandchildren and one step-great-grandchild, and a number of cousins.

DENVER POST BUSINESS WRITER

When NBC's "Today" show broadcast last month from the steps of the state Capitol, video photographer Bob Brandon took more than the usual Coloradoan's pride in seeing the state spotlighted.

Brandon's Evergreen firm, Helical Productions Inc., provided much of the spotlight.

Brandon shot most of the video that was used in the show's feature segments, including a profile of author Louis L'Amour, a segment on the Arapahoe Rescur Patrol, interviews on the "Make My Day" law and a tour of Denver provided by staffers of Westword.

Earned $10,000 from 'Today'

While Brandon welcomes the approximate $10,000 his firm earned as well as some local publicity, shooting for "Today" was simply another high-profile job for a photographer who has established a reputation as one of the nation's premier free-lance news video specialists.

Since his first job in video photography in 1966 with an Amarillo, Texas, television station, Brandon has garnered an office full of national awards for his work.

Editors Note: This article was taken from the Denver Post Newspaper. Mr. Brandon is a 1964 graduate of Matador High School. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R.L. Brandon of Weatherford, Texas, formerly of Matador. Mr. Brandon now lives in Evergreen, Colorado. This past week he was filming the Pan Am Games for ABC and he will be producing in China for NBC soon.

Brandon twice has been nominated for an Emmy, and twice was named Photographer of the Year by the National Press Photographers Association.

His assignments have included coverage of the Mount St. Helens volcanic eruption and an NBC news segment that was broadcast Wednesday on orphans who live in the Juarez, Mexico, city dump.

"I've done the requisite fires, floods and famines," Brandon said. "But it's the people pieces that really stand out in my memory. They're usually the most fascinating."

With a national reputation and a phone book full of network television contacts, Brandon left his native Texas in 1984 and moved to a picturesque home in a valley north of Evergreen.

"I'd had it up to my eyeballs with the heat, humidity and traffic in Houston," he said.

Until recently, Brandon and sound technician Suzanne Popovich have had all the business they could handle from network news departments sending them across the nation on free-lance assignments. But as the three major networks have reduced their newsgathering budgets, free-lance assignments have become scarce.

Networks using him less

Brandon estimates that network news and features once constituted 95 percent of his business. But the networks now account for only 50 percent of his work, and the percentage will continue to drop, he said.

As a result, Helical Productions is now directing a marketing push at corporate and commercial clients. Although no stranger to the business world - Helical has shot video for the Gates Corp, Levi-Strauss, Apple Computers and Conoco - Brandon said the transition to commercial clients will be a challenge.

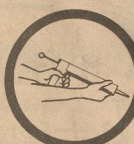

"For lack of a better term, I guess I am a photojournalist because I excel in telling stories with pictures," he said. "Now with an emphasis on commercial work, I'm having to learn how to market myself. It's the toughest thing I've ever done."

HELP SLOW YOUR ELECTRIC METER DOWN THIS SUMMER.

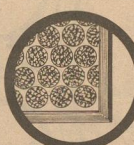

Set Your Thermostat at 78° or Higher.

The recommended thermostat setting for summer cooling is 78° or higher. Portable fans or ceiling fans can help you feel comfortable at higher thermostat settings. Don't forget to turn fans off when you leave the room.

Tightly Seal Air Leaks in Your Home.

Make sure all cracks around windows, doors, pipes and wiring are tightly sealed with proper caulking and weatherstripping. Also, R-30 insulation in the ceiling, and R-16 insulation in the walls is recommended to adequately insulate your home.

Check Your Filter Regularly.

A dirty filter could keep your air conditioning system from operating as efficiently as possible. Clean permanent filters according to manufacturer's instructions, and replace non-permanent filters.

For more information on how to help slow your electric meter down this summer, call your local WTU office.

Family Reunions

BEN KELTZ REUNION

"They came, they saw, they conquered" might have been the slogan for the Keltz Family Reunion held August 8, 1987. They came from miles around, saw the rolling hills, the winding streams, and conquered baseball, volleyball and swimming feats that they never knew were possible.

Of course the most important event of the day was eating followed by Country and Western and "Oldie but Goodie" music furnished by Terry and Donita Keltz of Lockney.

This third annual affair was hosted by Bennie and June Keltz at the Assembly of God Camp, which everyone agreed was the perfect place.

In attendance were: Larry,

Sandy, Leah and Joel Dean Keltz of Plainview; Terry, Donita, Kaci and Kyle Keltz of Lockney; Michelle, Brent and Jennifer Howard, Denver City; Tom, Gaylan, Steve and Grant Edwards, Houston; Patty Edwards, Abernathy; and local residents, Guy, Shannon and Heath Campbell; Grace and Harold Campbell; Marguerite and Jake Edwards; Kelly, Pennie, Kevin and Kandi Keltz; Bennie and June Keltz.
