PRICE TEN CENTS

TRAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR

A border-line senility case, in which his wife has taken the halter off and turned him loose, says that he is no longer critical and hasn't seen an ugly woman in 15 years.

Each of us in weighing our blessings, must ponder whether they are the result of our pitiful faith or the benevolent Grace of God.

This will perhaps be the most historic month in the achievements of mortal man, with a landing on the moon and return to this planet. The brave men in the mission deserve all the glory that has ever been a part of courage. On the other hand personally the chastity of a dream is being violated; the mystery, the silence, the beauty of moonlight must lose some of its charm. It seems futile to go elsewhere when the tears of this world flood the islands of its accomplishments.

My financial advice has never been sought, but if I were buying stocks the manufacturer of hair spray would be my choice over a firm which makes ladies hats.

The size of a house does not indicate the amount of happiness beneath its roof.

Youth is that period when life is still a bowl of luscious cherries, and before it has been sampled deep enough to find some stones and soured fruit.

People were killed as a result of riding in buggies and wagons, but seldom from running into each other.

No preparation is needed to produce an accident. Merely take your eyes away from the sights of caution for an instant, and damage, pain, and whispers of eternity will be in command.

It is now possible to buy a metal tank for a back yard swimming pool, complete with water purifier. As a boy we had the same luxury, except it was not in the back yard and did not have a water purifier. However, if it was still daylight, we would skim off the flotsam of bugs, flies, wasps, butterflies and other debris.

Ancient Fords Visit Matador

A group of 18 Houston residents traveling in four restored Model A Ford cars visited here July 1 at the Matador Auto Company (Ford-Mercury dealership) and created much interest among automobile owners.

The group was en route home to complete a 3000-mile tour started June 21. The group had shown the old cars in Denver, Colorado Springs, Pueblo, Trinidad, Amarillo and to Matador.

They were members of the Model A Restorers Club (MARC) which is a national organization with headquarters in Dearborn, Michigan.

In addition to the four Model A cars, the group traveled in a 1969 Ford Ranger pickup and a 1969 Chrysler automobile.

Drivers and owners included Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Simon, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Schadt, and Anna Szmuto, and children. Youngest in the group was a baby, age eight months.

Department of Public Safety Shows New Helicopter at Paducah Meeting

The law in Texas has taken to the air, especially in emergencies, with the state's purchase of three Bell pure jet helicopters ($100,000 each, fully equipped). One is stationed at Lubbock with a 60-county territory.

Monday morning sheriff and police departments from several West Texas counties, including Motley, met at the Paducah municipal airport for demonstrations and rides in the craft.

Attending from Motley County were Sheriff J. D. Spray, Deputy Bobby Williams, Pete Williams and Douglas Meador. The news media from the area had been invited to see the helicopter, ride in it and learn the purposes which it serves.

Spokesman at the meeting was Major C. W. Bell of the Department of Public Safety, commander of Region 5, which includes Motley County.

He told the various city officials and law officers that the helicopter will be based in the Lubbock region office. If a call comes through for the helicopter from Matador, it should not take more than an hour for it to arrive.

"It may take longer, around two hours, if the pilots are off duty. It will take time to notify them and get them to the airport."

"The DPS is very desirous of expanding its services to the people of this area, and to city police and sheriff departments," Bell said. "We feel it is a splendid opportunity to provide them with a better and more versatile service. All any city or county official has to do to obtain the service of the helicopter is request it."

The helicopter has two portable stretchers for quick installation inside the craft, and is equipped with a resuscitator for in-flight use. The craft will be used for all types of mercy missions such as rapid transfer of an injured person, when feasible, from limited treatment centers to hospitals with more sophisticated facilities.

Medical authorities have known for some time that many lives are lost each year throughout the nation because accident victims do not receive adequate attention early enough to save them, according to Bell.

The helicopters will be used in such things as searches, rescue operations, jailbreaks, disaster relief, apprehension of felons, riot control and mob violence, traffic surveys and any type of emergency work.

Major Bell said that he hoped law enforcement officers as well as city and county officials and civil defense directors will take advantage of the availability of this type tool to aid them in performing their duties and rendering a better service to the public.

It's Not The Heat, It's The Humidity

Roasting temperatures of 100 and more degrees for the past two weeks have placed a great stress on electric service as homes and places of business attempt to obtain some relief. Air conditioning servicemen sweat and attempt to keep up with the calls. But there are problems.

Perhaps the best known problem is at the First State Bank where the massive evaporative air conditioners went to pieces ten days ago. Order for a new machine was placed with a firm in Little Rock, Ark., through West Texas Utilities Co., by phone, to insure as rapid delivery as possible.

Days passed and the air conditioner did not arrive. Then attempts were started to locate the shipment. In one day five long distance calls were placed without results. It was shipped from Little Rock but from there it vanished. In the meantime employees and customers continue to sweat in the banking institution.

Can't Stop Shipments
Conditions are different out at El Matador Restaurant. Several months ago the compressor on the large air conditioner failed and a new one was ordered. When the heat wave hit demands for the delayed part were urgent. The unit was received but other units continued to arrive. Three or four units have been received.

Matador Auto Company's refrigerated air conditioning went out of service last week. Repair was started yesterday but some parts were needed. Manager Glenn Woodruff went to Lubbock yesterday afternoon to get the parts.

Restrictions are there: No shipment can be more than 100 pounds and no package can weigh more than 50 pounds. Rates are by the pound and on small packages, will save money. On the heavier packages the rate may be more than motor freight, according to Cook.

Citizens of Mystic States Speak to Legion, Auxiliary

Representatives of Girls and Boys States lauded the mystic states Monday night as they spoke to the American Legion and Auxiliary. Brenda Wason, Ronnie Welling, Jeffrey Thacker and Don Wells of Motley County attended the government-in-action programs in June.

Miss Wason used as the theme of her report purpose, pride and patriotism. She said, "that the minority of young juvenile delinquents are not the real problem in America, but the indifferent adults and young people are the real problems of America." As a word of hope to young leaders of tomorrow she said, "The world will step aside and let those pass through who know where they are going."

"There comes a time in the life of all generations to prepare to rule and take their places to protect and preserve their heritage," Miss Wason continued. "To reach the goal of patriotism she said we must first have purpose and pride. 'We should live, breathe, and think America and stand up for what we believe. We should take time to care every day of our lives.'"

Ronnie Welling added humor to the evening commenting on their comical party whip who introduced "blue power" to his Nationalist party. He also mentioned the races at 4:30 in the morning to see which "city" could be first to calisthenics, especially the day Gov. Preston Smith led them.

Among Ronnie's favorite speakers were Peter O'Donnell, State Republican Party Chairman, and Dr. Elmer C. Baum, State Democratic Executive Committee Chairman, who gave facts about the two major parties in America. Others were Kansas City Mayor Dr. Poe Bartle, and Former Texas Attorney General Waggoner Carr, who spoke out against the Students for a Democratic Society.

Ronnie was appointed to the Texas Youth Council of Boys State.

Jeff Thacker felt Boys State had accomplished its objective with him, that of educating youth in the duties, privileges, rights and responsibilities of American citizenship. Jeff was appointed to the Board of Directors of Texas Technological University.

He gave special thanks to Randall Whitworth for his mail. He said he and the other Motley County boys were about the only ones who had mail from home awaiting their arrival at Austin.

Don Wells of Flomot was unable to attend the meeting. Among those present were former citizens of Girls State Carol Martin (1967) and Judy Marrs (1968). It was noted that Jimmy Welling and Johnnie Thacker, brothers of this year's representatives had also attended Boys State.

Ed Lee presided in the absence of Commander Bill Pallmeyer who is in Fort Hood.

Brush Control Fund Exceeds Half of Goal

A total of $2233. has been collected so far this year in Motley County by the Brush Control and Range Improvement Association. The sum is part of the more than $70,000 which has been contributed by Texas landowners to the BCRIA.

County Chairman Dave Birnie of Matador said the association was formed last November by a group of prominent ranchers to raise funds to fight brush invasion of rangelands and to study range improvement methods.

The brush situation is considered to be one of the state's major agricultural problems.

Birnie said the plan is to collect 1 cent per acre from each cooperating landowner for five years. The goal for Motley County for 1969 has been set at $4000.

The BCRIA is a non-profit organization not directly associated with any university, company or agency. A 16-member board of directors, representing different areas of the state, is directing activities.

State BCRIA Chairman John Matthews of Abilene said the goal is not to wipe brush off the ranges entirely. Instead, ways will be sought in which the landowner can economically control undesirable brush and weeds.

He said that not only does brush reduce animal carrying capacity of ranges but it also wastes water. About 10 million acre-feet of water could be saved each year in Texas by controlling worthless brush and weeds.

Six Flags Sold For $40 Million

ARLINGTON — Six Flags Over Texas, one of the most popular tourist attractions in the state, was sold for $40 million, it was announced last week.

Angus G. Wynne Jr., chairman of the board of the Great Southwest Corporation, announced the sale of the popular family entertainment center located midway between Dallas and Fort Worth.

The $40 million price tag represented a pre-tax profit of about $29 million, a company spokesman said.

Six Flags was sold to a limited partnership called the Six Flags Over Texas Fund, Ltd.

It was announced at the same time that Great Southwest will continue to operate and manage Six Flags through a wholly-owned subsidiary.

The park consists of 88 buildings and more than 80 rides, attractions, shows and exhibits, all keeping with the park's theme depicting Texas history while under the flags of Mexico, France, Spain, the Confederacy, the Republic of Texas and the United States.

Since the park opened in 1961, more than 12 million persons attended the attraction.

Great Southwest also operates a similar center in Atlanta called

Six Flags Over Georgia and plans to construct a Six Flags-type park in the Midwest with an opening planned for the summer of 1971.

GI Bill Worth More than Cost To Government

What does the G. I. Bill education training cost Uncle Sam for returning Vietnam Era men?

A recent Department of Labor report suggests that the more appropriate question might well be: What does the program pay Uncle Sam?

Under the post-Korean G. I. Bill, the Veterans Administration will pay a returning Vietnam Era veteran (with no dependants) $4,680 ($130 a month times 36 months maximum entitlement) for full college training while earning his college degree.

With this college degree, however, this veteran will earn an estimated $541,000 in his lifetime. By contrast, with only a high school education his lifetime earnings will total $340,000 or $201,000 less than with a college degree.

How much Federal Income tax will this veteran pay during his lifetime on this added $201,000? About eight times the $4,680 cost of his G. I. Bill of training, or about $37,975. These figures are according to Internal Revenue estimates.

Soil Program Grows in County

Great Plains Conservation Program is in its twelfth year of operations and has been extended recently through Dec. 31, 1981 by Congress, according to Ervin Willard, of the Soil Conservation Service.

To date over 300,000 acres of Motley County land has been in the program involving farms from 63 acres to ranches several thousand acres in size. Through the program, several thousands of dollars have been added to Motley County involving dirt contractors and aerial brush sprayers as well as an increase in crop and grass production.

Conservation work on the land has provided benefits to the county in eliminating several siltation problems along county roads. Several deep cuts along county roads have been healed by field terraces and grass seeding of steep land nearby.

Motley County ranchers are seeing more and better grasses through brush control and range seeding practices. Farmers here built over 500,000 feet of parallel terraces since 1965 on over 2,000 acres of land, according to Willard.

The program has been extremely popular throughout the state and as a consequence the competition for the money allotted is quite keen. Motley County farmers and ranchers planning to enter the program and carry out conservation work should make application as soon as possible to insure adequate funds, according to Willard.

COUNTY AGENT PALLMEYER SAYS:

Each year the question of replanting cotton always arises and there is no satisfactory answer a person can give another. If you tell him to do one thing and it turns out wrong it is your fault. On the other hand, if what you recommend turns out right, in most cases, that is what the man was going to do anyway. It is too late to get into this situation this year as farmers have either replanted their damaged cotton or left it. These findings by cotton research men may be helpful in later years, especially if you replanted some of your 1969 cotton and left some that was initially planted and damaged.

Cotton has a wonderful way of taking care of itself. When the stand is reduced the cotton that is left will branch more and later in the season skips will be hard to see. In many cases, the number of bolls per yard of row will be the same whether there are three plants per yard or nine plants per yard, therefore, resulting in the same yield. Research work on the High Plains area has proven this on both dryland and irrigated cotton. Some other findings are: total defoliation retarded recovery, and delayed maturity, but the cotton plant was not affected markedly by removal of one-third or two-thirds of the leaves. The cotton plant also regenerates new leaves rapidly.

The terminal bud is not necessary for growth and fruiting of the cotton plant. Topping neither decrease nor increase yields significantly.

Early season stem injuries did not affect growth and fruiting. Injured plants did not lodge after a boll crop was made.

The cotton plant recovered after the stem was severed above the lowest node. The buds at the node forced into growth and a new plant was realized. Early season injuries did not reduce yield greatly but considerable loss in yield resulted from injury later in the season. Results of severing the stem at the middle joint were similar for early season injury but did not depress yields as much as the low cut-off during the later stages.

A test of effects of various levels of defoliation in combination with other injuries revealed that no large additional decrease resulted from the combinations except for 100% defoliation. The combination of any injury with complete defoliation resulted generally in greater loss in yields than were obtained from either injury separately.

This and other information is found in B-934, and points out what many farmers have learned. First, the cotton plant must form a root system. Next, the stem and leaves develop. When the crop is damaged by hail or sand the leaves and stem are damaged but unless the plant is washed from the ground there is no damage to the root system. When you replant, the root system must develop first. Research has shown that in most cases the established root system will grow a new plant that will be days or maybe weeks older than replanted cotton.

Often cotton is covered by washing soil and here again the replant question arises. The same information relative to the age of the plant holds true. Scratching often saves these crops that appear to be covered up and when this stand can be saved you have a plant days or weeks older in development.

Previously discussed was spacing. We all know that we plant more seed per acre on irrigated than dry land because moisture is not a problem. We also know that more seed per acre is planted east of us on dry land because more rain is received. We also know that in most of the years moisture is limited rather than plentiful so many times a thin stand is beneficial.

Finally, much replanting is done because of weeds. True, it is an easy way to get rid of weeds by replanting but often giving up two or three weeks of plant development can clearly be seen at harvest time. It costs money to hoe a cotton crop but here again a farmer has to ask himself this question, "Had a farmer rather have clean land, a reduced cotton plant and cotton yield, or good cotton plants and some weeds or good cotton plant and a hoe bill?" The use of herbicides may eliminate this question being asked.

Many will agree with the points I have covered on this subject and others will not. As stated before, there is no set answer that can be given relative to replanting. Many have their ideas as to what should be done, but how many have had comparison when the net returns per acre were obtained. Remember, it costs from $3 to $5 an acre each time you replant. Is this worth the saving of a hoe bill, and reduced yields per acre? Only you can answer this question by comparison on your farm where cotton has been damaged.

Few Immune to Chigger Attacks

AUSTIN — A rose by any other name is still a rose, and a chigger — whether called a harvest mite or a red bug — still can give you sleepless nights and ceaseless spasms of itching misery.

The threat of chigger bites will last until cold weather cuts into their ranks, but there are some steps which can be taken to offset this threat, reports the Texas State Department of Health.

A few people have an apparent immunity to chigger attacks, but the vast majority of us are oh-so-susceptible.

They—the chiggers, have a special affinity for low, damp places covered with vegetation. Bermuda grass harbors them well, but for some unexplainable reasons they are not usually found in carpet grass.

Just for the record, it's the larvae which do the damage, attaching themselves with their mouthparts and sucking blood until they become engorged and fall off. The fiery itching is caused by an anti-coagulant material they inject into their victims.

Although adult chiggers are probably harmless to humans, their wayward offspring can be serious as well as annoying. Not that they spread any specific disease—at least not in this country, but their bites demand scratching which frequently causes secondary infections in the form of sores and boils.

To find out if your back yard or your picnic area is infested with chiggers, stand a piece of black cardboard on end where you suspect they might be. If after a few moments you see tiny yellowish or pinkish mites accumulating on the upper edge, you'll know its time to check your supply of insect repellent.

Chiggers attack lizards, snakes, birds, and rodents with the same vigor and resourcefulness they display in attacking humans. They draw no distinction between mankind and lesser animal species.

Light applications of sulphur dust on lawns and low branches of shrubs have been used successfully for years to control chiggers.

Certain insecticides are very effective when used strictly according to directions.

But perhaps the biggest gun in the arsenal of chigger control are the repellent products which can be applied directly to exposed skin surfaces and to clothing. They come in spray, liquid and stick forms, and when properly used will keep most insects at arms' length.

Tax Man Sam Sez: Loyal Americans Still Pay Taxes

This week is our Nation's birthday. If you are pessimistic, and look at the fraction of one percent of Americans who act like idiots on the college campuses instead of pursuing their education, or those who try to reason with us with riots over every imaginable cause, you will probably conclude that our country has had it.

If, on the other hand, you remember our government's Astronaut's accuracy, if you remember the wide margin we have in education over every other nation (in spite of the present college ruckus) and if you remember our fabulous economic power, you will recognize that in spite of thousands of defects, we have national, state and local governments that have unequalled capability. (In spite of the overemphasis of nonsense by loud-mouths, we are a people of unequalled ability.)

However, the best proof that our Nation will be around for a few more birthdays is demonstrated by Internal Revenue Service's continuing to collect 97% of our Federal taxes through voluntary compliance. Our people have unequalled morality.

The average American may gripe a great deal about the shortcomings of our governments and of our officials, and is sure we need to reform, but he is still willing to contribute his fair share of almost $200 billion in Federal taxes. Apparently he thinks more of the establishment and the results he gets from it than the annihilist minded students that belong to the SDS.

5 Texas Cities Vote Sales Tax

Five Texas cities have approved one per cent sales taxes by wide margins in recent elections. The taxes will go into effect in Arlington, Cleburne, Bedford, Hurst and Vernon October 1.

Hurst, Cleburne and Arlington had defeated the tax in 1967.

The largest majority came in Vernon where 651 voted in favor and 81 voted against. The other votes: Arlington, 3,645 — 1,017; Cleburne, 1,081 — 242; Hurst, 805 — 296; Bedford, 215 — 87.

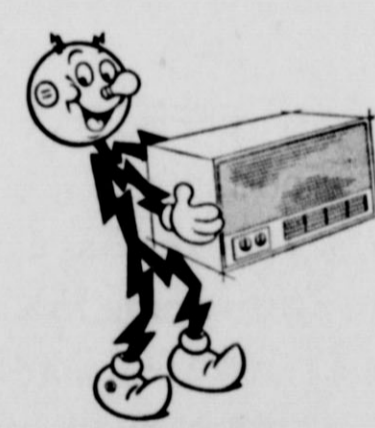

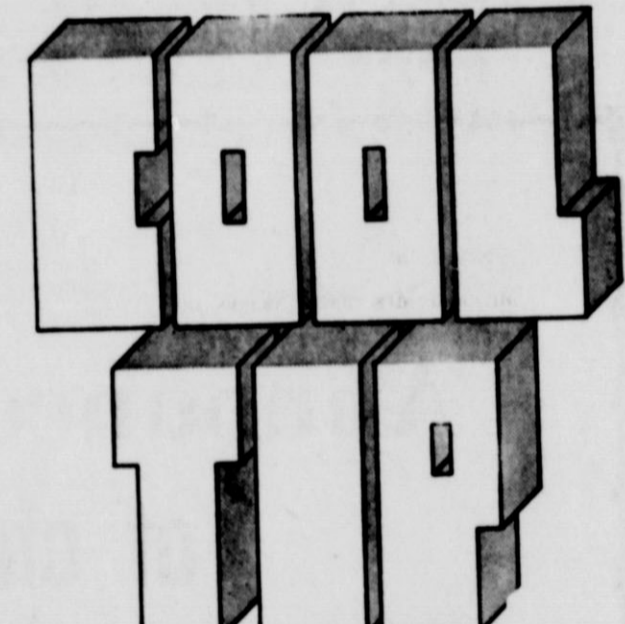

The municipal sales tax of one cent on a dollar has already been approved in 253 Texas cities. The cities contain about 80 percent of the state's urban population.

City officials in Vernon estimated that the tax would add about $150,000 to the city treasury in one year. Other cities estimated increased revenues of about $160,000 in Hurst down to $50,000 in Bedford.

Farmer or Merchant Dad!!

Would you like for your 10-year-old child to accumulate a sizeable estate at Uncle Sam's expense?

By the time he or she is 65 there could be a cash accumulation of about $75,000 and your cost in it could be a tax deductible item.

It should stir your interest to know that you don't have to be in the middle or upper income group to afford it either.
