TRAIL DUST

Modern life is becoming so complex that the average participant has resigned the struggle to attain a general comprehension. It is possible to know enough about a few things to convince the world that knowledge possibly includes much more.

Science must be close to a discovery of a remedy for the common cold. The great relief to mankind should be but slightly more remote than the moon.

Courtesy is possibly one of the greatest influences in this age, despite the staggering efforts for sophistication. Business has been able to harness the power of treating the public so it will remember any transaction with pleasure. It is even more pronounced in personal life where an individual is measured by his attitude to others.

The purposes of most journeys are soon forgotten, and include the tragic scene of discarded bottles and a pair of empty shoes left on the staircase of achieve-

Travel Program Given for Club

Mrs. L. B. Campbell presented the program for El Progresso Study Club when it met in her home Thursday, Nov. 13. Her subject was "Japan, as I saw it." and she told interesting highlights of the trip she and Mr. Campbell made to Lions International in Tokyo this summer.

Mrs. J. M. Hill Jr., served as leader to introduce the program, The Land of the Rising Sun.

Mrs. Campbell showed colored slides made on the trip and declared that of the several countries visited. Hawaii was the most enjoyable. They spent several days on the island and among the sights was a tour of Pearl Harbor. They also toured pineapple and sugar cane fields.

While in Tokyo, the couple had the unique experience of being invited into a Japanese home where they were served a typical meal in native surroundings. "The wife served the meal but did not join us at the table until we had finished eating," Mrs. Campbell said. They visited a number of Buddhist shrines as they toured places of interest.

After leaving Japan, Mr. and Mrs. Campbell flew to Darwin, Australia, where they visited an agricultural experiment station. Having ranching interests locally, they were perturbed to learn of the large percentage of beef which is being imported from other countries, including Australia, to this country.

Mrs. Campbell had on display for the program, a number of items which she brought home, including a Japanese kimono which she wore as she greeted the members. Removing the kimono, she revealed a colorful floral print shift.

Concluding the program was the Inspirational Thought by Mrs. John Fitzgerrel.

Others present were Mesdames A. J. Daffern, Ben Keltz, W. D. Lipscomb, Grace McDowell, W. N. Pipkin, D. E. Pitts, Frank Pohl, Fred Simpson. Ralph Stapleton. Furman Vinson, J. L. Woodruff, and Douglas Meador;
