Rainfall Improves Outlook in County

A SMALL cold front triggered soaking rains in most areas of Motley County late Tuesday. Bob Stanley's rain gauge caught 1.55 inches, but unofficial rainfall was slightly over two inches in the north part of Matador.

It was a different story at Roaring Springs with 2.70 inches in town and 3.50 inches at Buzz Field Air Port. One report yesterday said 3.30 inches fell east of Matador.

Reports vary at Flomot from 1.50 inches to more in some parts of the area. Some parts of the Flomot community had received rain Sunday afternoon and evening, from a cloud that stalled before it reached this section of the county. Reports from the Sunday rainfall were from three-fourths to one inch.

The only discordant note in the symphony of beneficial rains, was hail that fell in the Tee Pee Flat Community and destroyed several fields, and damaged others. No hail was reported here and little wind accompanied the series of showers.

There was some electrical disturbance and power in Matador went off briefly at one time.

The moisture fell at a time when feeds were beginning to burn and cotton was in need of rain. Most cotton fields had been cultivated and weeds hoed into control. Observers believe the county has prospects of an excellent crop, barring insect infestation or other unforeseen problems.

Grass and flowers in yards have been stimulated by the rainfall. The rain here was sufficient to cause Hackberry Branch of Ballard Creek to run.

Ranchers are elated over range prospects, with filled tanks and water holes, and the grass receiving sufficient moisture for additional growth.

It is pointed out that dry weather has destroyed most of the range land weed growth and left the moisture for grass.

During most summer seasons, August is considered a dry month and the "general" rains have produced a spirit of optimism among farmers, ranchers and business men.

TRAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR

Within the latitude of love the direction is never as important as that the sails are made taut by prevailing winds. The course may be toward a rocky shore or toward the open sea, depending on the uncertain gales of circumstance.

The incident has happened at intervals when men reach a certain degree of absentmindedness and are given to the habit of tucking a napkin into their belts at the table. To wear one through a crowded lobby and perhaps to the street, produces a degree of embarrassment that is uncomfortable.

There is a natural protective shield around a friendship that extends its endurance because of an instinctive understanding. To ask too much would often destroy some of the internal strength needed for years of a pleasant relationship. The condition will vary on the personalities involved and a knowledge of each other.

The flower turns brown and withers in the summer heat despite the fact that it is growing beside a hydrant of abundant water. The plant does not have the ability to turn the hydrant and will perish unless a hand turns the spigot. Many human flowers are perishing beside abundance because they are not aware of the strength in the hand of faith.

The old house stands beside the road wrapped in the soft garments of decay. At night no lights shine from the windows, nor will they ever shine again. Some where in the past someone blew out the last coal oil lamp and the next night brought darkness and silence. Somewhere in the future every window from which a light is shining tonight, will be darkened. Time is in no hurry and can wait until that hour when there is only darkness.

The habits of boyhood have remained through the years and about milking time every day I feel as if I had neglected some chore. I even wonder if the lantern is full in case the duty must be accomplished by lantern light.

Cattle scabies

Quarantine: new rules

The Texas Animal Health Commission has tightened the restrictions under the cattle scabies quarantine in 34 North Texas counties.

DIPPING is now required in many instances before cattle can be moved from the 34-county area that has been under quarantine since last November.

The revision in the quarantine became effective Tuesday. The new Dip Movement Quarantine Order states:

"OFFICIAL dipping will be required on all cattle being moved within any of the 34 counties, except the following:

- (1) "Cattle moving direct to slaughter;
- (2) "Cattle moving to slaughter through a livestock market;
- (3) "Cattle moving to a livestock market for sale and dipping prior to release;
- (4) "Cattle released from livestock market to an official dip point with permit;
- (5) "Cattle moving to an official dip point;
- (6) "CATTLE officially dipped within the past seven days provided accompanied by a dip certificate;
- (7) "Cattle from outside the quarantine area moving through the quarantine area with no stopovers;

(8) "Cattle moving (same owner) from one premise to another premise within the quarantined area;

(9) "Cattle from outside the quarantine area moving into the quarantine area for grazing."

COUNTIES in the quarantine area are Armstrong, Bailey, Briscoe, Carson, Castro, Childress, Collingsworth, Cottle, Dallam, Deaf Smith, Donley, Floyd, Foard, Gray, Hale, Hall, Hansford, Hardeman, Hartley, Lipscomb, Moore, Motter, Ochiltree, Oldham, Parmer, Potter, Randall, Roberts, Sherman, Swisher and Wheeler.

"Undipped animals leaving the quarantine area and moving outside the quarantine area must be accompanied by an official movement certificate allowing movement to an official dip point for official dipping at destination, exception being animals moving direct to slaughter," the new order states.

"THE HIGH risk of creating a continuing source of infection makes it necessary that any undipped cattle from a scabies quarantined area that move through a livestock market outside the quarantined area be dipped at the livestock market together with all other cattle at the livestock market, exception being animals consigned from the sale directly to slaughter prior to release to the country," the order states.

"In addition to the above requirements, cattle from the above listed counties destined for shipment to other states must meet federal requirements, as well as requirements of the state of destination," the Texas Animal Health Commission said.

Cattle Inspector Boyce Hart (Phone 347-2438) is in charge of the quarantine program in Motley County. Others authorized to dip and release cattle are John Briscoe (347-2479) at the county vat; Roy Grundy (347-2849) in charge of the Levi Wilkinson vat, and Inspector Ron Cromer (347-2794).

Violation of any quarantine provision constitutes a misdemeanor, the commission warned.

Hart also added the warning that any and all cattle that changes ownership must be dipped.

Geneva, Winifred, Louise, Dorothy and Hazel met for coffee at Steak House ... had a coffee upset ... but no serious injury.

'Twas a most beautiful morning for playing ... sure couldn't blame anything on the weather.

OOPS!! The most coveted — three U.S. Savings bonds (given by banks of Crosbyton, Rails and Post, I believe) were given as door prizes, rather than prizes for the winners — as was reported last week. Sorry!!

New Policy For Free or Reduced Price School Lunches Announced

A change is made in the free and reduced price lunch policy from last year which will be in effect for Motley County Independent School District, according to an announcement this week by Supt. Charles N. Johnson.

School officials have adopted the following family size and income scale to assist them in determining eligibility of school children unable to pay the full price.

FAMILY SIZE	FREE LUNCHES	FREE OR REDUCED PRICE LUNCHES
1	$0 - 2130	$2131 - 2790
2	0 - 2790	2791 - 3450
3	0 - 3450	3451 - 4110
4	0 - 4110	4111 - 4770
5	0 - 4770	4771 - 5430
6	0 - 5430	5431 - 6090
7	0 - 6090	6091 - 6750
8	0 - 6750	6751 - 7410
9	0 - 7410	7411 - 8070
10	0 - 8070	8071 - 8730
11	0 - 8730	8731 - 9390
12	0 - 9390	9391 - 10050

Under the provisions of the policy, the school officials will review applications and determine eligibility. If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the officials he may make a request either orally or in writing for a hearing to appeal the decision, to the president of the school board.

The policy also provides that there will be no identification of or discrimination against any student unable to pay the full cost of a lunch.

Lunch rooms will be operated at Flomot, Roaring Springs and Matador. Families falling within these scales or those suffering from unusual circumstances or hardships are urged to apply for free or reduced price lunches for their children.

They may do so by filling in the application forms sent home in a letter to parents. Additional copies are available at the principal's office in each school.

Applications may be submitted any time during the school year. The form itself is simple to complete and requests information needed to determine economic need based on the income and number of persons in the family and any unusual circumstances or hardships which affect the family's ability to pay for school lunches.

The information provided on the application will be confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility.

A complete copy of the policy is on file in each school and in the office of the superintendent where it may be reviewed by any interested patron.

Hide Exports

Price Says Ruling Unfair to Rancher

Congressman Bob Price charged today that the decision by the U.S. Department of Commerce to restrict the export of beef hides is "totally unjustified."

"The cattleman has never been subsidized and he should not be penalized by the arbitrary actions of a bunch of government bureaucrats," Price said in Washington.

"This action by the Department of Commerce is a repeat performance of earlier moves to curtail hide exports," he said. "The effect of this will force American beef producers to further subsidize the special interests of the shoe industry."

Price described the action on hide exports as being not only detrimental to the cattle industry, but that it would also have the further effect of worsening this nation's balance of payments deficit which is already in a serious position.

"All should recall a few short years ago when the same cries for an embargo on cattle hides were heard from the shoe manufacturers, who threatened at that time to raise the price of shoes," Price said. "The embargo was granted and shoe prices went up just the same."

Price said this action by the Commerce Department "is a repeat performance of past mistakes and I will make every effort to secure repeal of this embargo."

He added, "It is not new for me to oppose the Administration when I disagree with its policies. I strongly disagree in this instance, and I therefore cannot support the Administration's decision to invoke this policy on the export of beef hides."

Dear Consumer

New Aerosol Cans

By Virginia Knauer
Special Assistant to President Nixon
for Consumer Affairs

How many times have you noticed the warning on an aerosol can, such as used for shaving cream and hair spray—"Warning: Keep away from heat. Do not put in fire or incinerator. Do not puncture."

Or do you even notice the warning any more? All of us are so accustomed these days to using products in aerosol cans that we seldom take the time to read the directions. Yet, the warning is still there and still important.

Whenever an aerosol can is overheated, the heat causes the pressure to rise excessively, and the top of the can buckles upward. Pressure will continue to build up until it is so great that it causes the container to burst. The exploding can may cause injury to anyone nearby. I do not know of any statistics on the number of injuries or deaths caused by exploding aerosol cans, but the figure is assumed to be quite small.

Nevertheless, it is good news for consumers that this potential hazard may disappear. The National Safety Council has recently reviewed a new safety device for aerosol cans. It is called "rim vent release" (or RVR aerosol can).

The new can is designed with a number of tiny cuts at precise points around the top seam. When pressure builds up in the new can, the cuts open and release the contents of the can. Since the contents are released this way, there should be little chance of enough pressure remaining in the can to cause an explosion.

The National Safety Council says the RVR aerosol may be a step forward in reducing aerosol explosions. Yet, the council says the new can is not a "cure-all" for misuse. The council believes "precautionary labeling should be continued on RVR aerosols—especially emphasizing the dangers of contents which are caustic, poisonous or flammable when released due to overheating."

The next time you are shopping for products that usually come in aerosol cans, look for the cans with the tiny slots around the top rim and read the labels. The labels may tell you if the container is the new RVR aerosol can.

If you write to Mrs. Knauer, address your card or letter to "Dear Virginia," Office of Consumer Affairs, Washington, D.C. 20506.

RECEIVES AWARD — N. L. (Bill) Moon, Matador Vocational Agriculture teacher receives the 25 year tenure award from the Vocational Agriculture Teachers Association from the organization's president, Herman H. Stoner of Sherman. The award was presented last week in Fort Worth at the annual Awards Breakfast for the association in recognition of the dedicated service rendered to vocational agriculture.

when the preservative is applied. Four or five brush applications of the preservative at three-to-four-day intervals will give adequate penetration.

All wood in constant contact with the soil is subject to rot, though the heartwood of some species such as cedar, cypress, yellow locust, bois d'arc and mulberry will resist decay for a longer period than others. The outer, lighter-colored part of the tree trunk, called sapwood, is soon destroyed by rot in all species.

Treating outdoor wooden furniture with a preservative is a worthwhile practice.

Fairly Free Private Enterprise

Curbside flower vendors become so numerous in a certain community that the regular florists began to complain about the competition. Finally, the city council passed a tough licensing law aimed at knocking the street vendors out of business.

But when the new law was tested in court, it was held null and void. The court said the city simply had no power to regulate a business as harmless as selling flowers.

Private enterprise, while not wholly free, still has considerable vitality. A city's "police power" does not include blanket authority over all kinds of business activities, just because they happen to be within the city limits.

On the other hand, a city may indeed impose restraints on a business that has a real potential for harm.

Consider the case of a man who started a telephone answering service. According to a city ordinance, he and his employees were supposed to submit to photographing and fingerprinting. Challenging the ordinance, the man said it was unfair to "single us out."

But a court saw two ways in which a telephone answering service could be harmful:

- 1) by the misuse of confidential information about subscribers; and
- 2) by the encouragement of immoral activities.

Upholding the city's requirements, the court said:

"There is a reasonable basis for distinguishing this type of business from others that are not regulated."

COUNTY AGENT PALLMEYER SAYS:

Blossom-end-rot in tomatoes may be blamed on several conditions, but the resulting breakdown is due to water being withdrawn from cells on the blossom end of the fruit. The withdrawal results when the water uptake by the plant's roots is insufficient to make up for that lost in transpiration (plant growth processes). The breakdown of the fruit begins as a green water-soaked area which rapidly turns gray to dark brown in color, followed by shrinking and collapsing. Further decomposition of the fruit can occur if microorganisms enter the affected area.

Insufficient water uptake occurs when the soil is too dry. Also, poor aeration resulting from excessive soil moisture can prevent water uptake by the roots. Standing water will cause most plants to wilt or die because the roots' air supply is cut off. In addition, when hot winds and low humidity occur, many plants cannot take up enough water to counteract the moisture lost from transpiration.

Nematodes and diseases that block water intake also can contribute to blossom-end-rot. In addition, root pruning and deep cultivation can prevent water intake. However, these problems can be avoided by using mulches.

In addition to tomatoes, blossom-end-rot is also a problem in peppers and watermelons.

External parasites can change growing hogs into scratching animals that are less efficient. Swine often suffer from infestations of lice and mange and are sometimes attacked by horse flies, stable flies and mosquitoes. Control of these parasites is fairly easy with the effective use of insecticides.

Lice can be controlled and the problem with flies and mosquitoes reduced by using a one percent cyodrin spray. Dilute 1½ cup of the 14.4 percent emulsifiable concentrate per gallon of water, or 6½ pints in 10 gallons. If needed the spray may be applied every seven days. When spraying cover all parts of the animal, but do not use more than one pint per individual animal. Be sure to follow directions closely and use care to prevent contamination of food, feed and water.

Malathion also is an effective control of lice and mange. Mix .5 percent malathion with water in the following concentrations: two tablespoons of 57 percent emulsifiable concentrate EC or one cup of 25 percent EC per gallon; or 1½ cup of the 57 percent EC, or five pints of 25 percent EC in 10 gallons. Apply the mixture as either a spray or dip. Treat animals every two or three weeks if needed. However, do not treat pigs less than one month old. Keep hogs out of the sun and away from winds for a few hours after spraying or dipping.

Dioxathion (Delnav), is also effective for controlling external swine parasites. However, it should not be used more than once in 14 days. It can be used

WE CAN SUPPLY your farm needs. We would appreciate your dropping by and letting us know your needs so that we might obtain them and keep on hand. We carry a good line of feed and seed, but if you have another preference, or need something we do not have in stock, just let us know in time to get it for you. By shopping Matador, you help the economy of the community. Our new assistant in the store is Donnie Jackson. If you do not know Donnie, come in and get acquainted.
